FINDING A NUGGET.

A man who has to work very hard for his living is, after all, not very much to be pitied. Every man of sense works hard in some way or other. As for me, I am in comfortable circumstances, for I was smitten by the gold fever and went to the diggings, where I discovered a nugget, one that has never wasted nor grown less, but given me good interest year by year.

But I will tell you how I found my nugget. A party of six started for the far-off land, after laying out what little cash we had in the necessaries of outfit. I need not tell of the long voyage out, nor yet of our pilgrimage to the wild, rugged place, dotted with tents and shanties, where men slave and starve, up to their waists in water, for many hours a day; some drawing prizes in that great earth lottery, picking out the gold from the earth in their "claims," while others sickened of the place and died—sickened and strayed off into the scrub, to be heard of no more—or sickened and tramped, pack and packageless, back to the big town, beggars. The store keepers were the real gold getters; they did not dig, but took it from the hands of the hungry men to whom they supplied food, and what they need not have supplied—that which was the cause of three-parts of the fights and outrages in the camp, while the other part was due to the lust of gold by those who were unsuccessful, or too idle to work.

I am talking of the early days of the gold fever when robbery, rapine and violence ruled supreme. A hundred times over I would gladly have been back home; but I recalled the old saying about lying upon the bed I had made for myself, and took my part in the digging and washing for gold—sometimes with more, sometimes with less success; but in the month's average it always came to this—that, work as hard as we would at our claim, we could only obtain enough to keep us in provisions, so heavy was the charge for everything at that time. Every now and then some fortunate individual would make a lucky hit which was enough to set the whole camp fiercely at work again; but after some months of toil, it came to my being guardian of the leather bag containing the tiny bits of gold, as I lay in the little tent, day after day, sick of a kind of ague fever, which never seemed to loosen me from its clutches.

I have known what it is to be low-spirited, often and often, but I never knew anything to compare with my feelings—lying, untended almost, in that wild place, where I was awake for hours through the long nights, listening to the carousing, quarrelling, and fighting, while my companions slept the sleep of fatigue. They were kind enough to me in their rough way; but what they wanted was help, not to be burdened with a sick man.

At last, one day after a week of good success, I lay with the heavy leather bag beneath me, as I tried to sleep and get rid of the horrible, half-delirious fancies that hung about my brain. I was just sensible enough to know that full half of the distorted images which met my gaze were not real, while the heat of the place was insufferable. All at once it seemed to me that the canvass at the back part of the tent was lifted, and then lowered. This was repeated again and again; and I lay in a dreamy way wondering whether it was fancy, or one of the many wandering dogs on an expedition for food.

I lay perfectly still then, for this movement of the canvas interested me, though I was watching it with half closed eyes, expecting to see the movement begin in another part of the tent, or that some strange monster would glide across the place, as I had seen again and again in my fever fits. Then I closed my eyes for a few moments; opened them again, and looking languidly towards the spot, there was a hand passed beneath, and to me it seemed that the fingers were beckoning. "Now," I said to myself, "the arm will come next, then the head and body, and at last the whole figure will appear, and then go slowly back;" and then I smiled and lay calmly watching, till, as I expected, an arm and then a head appeared; when feeling satisfied, I closed my eyes and lay perfectly quiet, while a hot iron ring seemed to be bound round my head, and to grow hotter and hotter.

All at once I felt that I was being gently lifted, a sensation I had often before experienced, previous to feeling that I was wafted through space—burning, fiery space, where I knew no rest. But I could not understand the jerk I received, and turning my head, I encountered the gaze of a heavily-bearded face, while at the same moment a hand was laid across my mouth.

"This must be real," I thought, but I lay motionless, and still overcome by the dreamy sensation which made me half close my eyes once more; when the hand was removed, the jerk repeated, and, as I looked, I saw the figure slowly rise with a knife in one hand, and a bag in the other. It seemed so real that I could not help feeling interested; when suddenly it was as though a light flashed upon my intellect, and, leaping up, I was the next moment struggling furiously with a powerful man.

Fortunately for me, my onslaught was so fierce, in the dread lest the gold left in my charge should be stolen, that the knife was dropped; but a blow aimed at my head with the heavy leather bag, only took effect upon my shoulder, while, desperate as a madman, I clung to my adversary, so that we swayed to and fro; and at last tripping, fell heavily upon the ground, rolling over and over, and the villain striking me savagely in his attempts to escape. Immediately after closing, I had grasped the bag with one hand, but a clutch was upon it more powerful than mine, and every effort was in vain, till, losing my hold of the treasure, I threw both hands round the thief, even setting my teeth fast in his collar, and holding on with the energy of despair.

Once I saw him straining every nerve to reach the spot where the knife had fallen; and foiled in this, he struck at me savagely, but I was too close for him to do much mischief, and determined as I was to protect my trust, I bore all without a murmur. It was a silent struggle, for he was evidently afraid of alarming my companions, working only about fifty yards off; but getting a firm grasp of my throat at last, he worked himself upon my chest, leaving the bag to its fate. The place seemed to swim; the blood to rush to my eyes; and then a shadow appeared to cross my sight, and a heavy blow to fall; and the next I remember is finding myself lying in my old place, with my companions round me, while, seeing me sensible once more, they one and all thanked me and shook hands.

But it was some days before I could make out what it all meant; and then, for what they called my gallantry, I was voted an extra share out of the bag—a share I gladly accepted to carry me down to the port, where I took ship for home—to arrive safe and sound, for the sea air drove away my ague-fever.

That is long ago now. As far as I could learn, not one of my companions succeeded at the diggings, for there were many blanks to each prize. But, as I said, I found a nugget, and that I brought home. Man's life is not long enough to risk many speculations; and I take to myself the credit in being wise in knowing when to leave off. Gold can be purchased too dearly, and it is a beggarly substitute for health. But I am but a prejudiced, partial preacher; for my voyage to Australia was the means of my finding that most inestimable of golden nuggets—Content.

ANNEXATION.

It is strange that an exploded fallacy like that of excessive colonization, or a too great eagerness for the annexation of neighboring and weaker nationalities, should continue to manifest itself in these days of enlightenment. With the fate of so many nations, great in themselves, but dissatisfied with all the power necessary to secure respect, and thus, leisure to advance the knowledge and prosperity of their own peoples, they sought by the absorption of other territories, that power in name, which was weakness in fact, and impoverishing the parent stem, threw the whole strength into the branches; these in turn, by their weight, prostrated the trunk that nourished them, and dispersion and ruin followed. Events of this kind are not confined to the days when Greece and Rome were at their zenith. We have probably the most striking examples within the last fifty or sixty years. France, for instance, under the first Napoleon. Had this great soldier been satisfied with his first acquisitions, there can be no doubt that they would have been firmly united to France, and would have formed the strongest and most powerful nation in the world. But the lust of conquest has the same fascination for a military power, that gain has for the gambler; and the result has always been the loss, not only of the territory so acquired, but portions of the original realms of which others were the acknowleeged possessors, before the first success had given them the taste for acquisition. To wit, Sweden under the unfortunate Charles XII. Russia will never be content until she has secured Constantinople. She has at present the largest amount of territory of any nation in existence; but in lieu of consolidating what she at present possesses, she will continue to enlarge her boundaries, until weakened by her unwieldy size, she will fall to pieces from the mere impossibility of assimilating such various nationalities, whenever the nations of Europe believe they are endangered by her too extended influence. Prussia has been seized with the like mania for absorption, and a similar fate awaits her. Austria is already prostrate, after retaining her conquests so long, and although curtailed by the late wars with Italy and Prussia, is still unable to control the peoples who are supposed to be under her dominion. Spain holds the few remaining colonies by a very slender thread, and is herself in the throes of revolution, which may end in her own dismemberment. England, more wise than her neighbors, sees her mistake, and choosing only such of her colonies as she thinks are sufficiently valuable to make it worth her while defending, is gradually disembarrassing herself of such others as are only likely to be a source of weakness.

The United States on the contrary, is thoughtlessly burthening herself with useless appendages which will drain her coffers, and should any national embroilment occur, will also exhaust her armies in their defence. Hardly out of one of the most terrible struggles on record, and before even a reintegration of her original territories has been consummated, she proceeds to buy a cast off colony of Russia with money squeezed out of her overtaxed citizens. This out of the way segment of land will only involve immediate expenditure, with a very distant prospect of reimbursement, even should circumstances prove as favorable as they could be wished. But if home dissensions reach a point when the people become impatient of heavy taxation and restricted commerce, such a distant possession will prove a continual bone of contention. The territory once acquired, the dignity of the nation will not permit of its abandonment, and Mr. Seward instead of acquiring fame by this ill-considered stroke of policy, will be execrated by the generations to come, as a dreamer and a cause of misfortune to his country. We have been much amused by the stupid discussions in the Victoria papers on the subject of the annexation of these colonies to the United States; happily for the colonists they treat such ideas with the utmost contempt. The only notice that has been taken of the ill advised discussion has been by some of the California papers, that lacking subjects for their leaders have eagerly seized upon the vagaries of their Victoria contemporaries to fill their columns. We wish them joy of their prize, and hope they may make the most of it for the delictation of their California readers. If the subject attracts any attention in that portion of the United States, it is more than it does in these colonies. We are too well pleased with the prospect of joining our brethren on the eastern portion of the dominion, to bother our heads with annexation bunkum. We sincerely hope that the government of the United States will occupy itself with the equitable reconstruction it is now engaged upon at home, and afterwards in the development of the riches she already possesses in the magnificent territory forming the States of the present Union. We are perfectly sure that there is quite enough to be done in useful reforms and public works to engage the ablest ministry in the United States for the next half century.

THE trial of a suit at the instance of John T. Pidwell vs. The Hudson Bay Company terminated on the 14th, after a three days hearing in the Supreme Court. A decision was to be given on the following day. The action was brought to recover $727 value of wear-apparal, &c., belonging to plaintiff's wife, who was a passenger on the steamship Labouchere from San Francisco to Victoria, in April, 1866 which vessel was wrecked, and the wearing apparel lost. The Solicitor-General and Mr. McCreight, instructed by Mr. Pearkes for the plaintiffs, Mr. Ring and Mr. Walker, instructed by Messrs. Drake & Jackson for the defendants.

BANK OF BRITISH COLUMBIA.—At the late General meeting of the proprietors of this institution, held at the London Tavern, the financial statement and report which were submitted were of a satisfactory character. The reduction of working expenses, a sounder business in the Colony, the increased number of permanently employed miners in Cariboo, the discovery of a rich silver lead at Cherry Creek and the introduction of gold quartz crushing are mentioned in the report as causes of increased confidence.—B. Columbian.

STATE OF THE ROADS.—We understand that the roads are still in an impassable state between the 150 mile post and Deep Creek, and if the Government does not do something to them immediately, it is Mr. Barnard's intention to put on a saddle train from the 150 mile post to Soda Creek, by way of Williams Lake. It is really too bad that we should be burdened by heavy road tolls and the Government look passively on and do nothing to keep the roads in a passable condition.

MELANCHOLY.—Letters received in town announce the probable loss of Mr. Wm. H. Daniels, of this city, who sailed many months since from Honolulu for Australia, and has never been heard of. The ship is supposed to have gone down with all on board. Mr. Daniels, who was a most estimable young gentleman, was formerly in the employ of Hon. Mr. Southgate, and was a prominent member of the Victoria Amateur Dramatic Club.—Colonist.

PORTS IN JAPAN TO BE OPENED.—The government of Japan has agreed to open on the 1st January, 1868, the Ports of Osaca, Yeddo, and Negata, on the west coast of the Island of Nephon to European settlement and intercourse. This concession of the rigid exclusive policy heretofore observed by the Japanese towards foreigners, is a strong proof of the beneficial effects produced by the introduction of trade and commerce.

BALL.—Mrs. Parker's Ball on Saturday evening was well patronized by the ladies and gentlemen of this and the neighboring creeks. The music which was of the most enlivening character, induced the admirers of the mazy dance to prolong their stay till a late hour the following morning, when all betook themselves to their respective domiciles highly pleased with the entertainment.

A LARGE pack train arrived yesterday, loaded with goods for the Hudson Bay Company's store here, consisting chiefly of liquors, being the first instalment of a stock of 30 tons of general merchandize now on its way. Mr. John Work, who came in by last Express, takes charge of the store.

A PORTION of a large consignment of wines and liquors, forwarded by Messrs. Grelley & Fitterre, Victoria, to Mr. T. Briggs, Cameronton, were received by him on Friday.

THE dinner at New Westminster to Mr. Birch, previous to his departure for England, will come off on the 24th.

THERE is a curious clock at the Paris exhibition, that shows at a glance the time of twenty-four of the most important towns of the world, on a revolving globe, besides a complete moveable almanac of the month and week, and the phases of the moon, while the pendulum is both a barometer and a thermometer.

V. I. BOARD OF EDUCATION.—The Governor has appointed the following gentleman to form a Board of Education for Vancouver Island: Hon. W. J. McDonald, hon. T. Lett Wood, Messrs. W. F. Tolmie, I. W. Powell, T. Trounce D. Cameron, Lumley Franklin, F. Garesche, D. W. Higgins.—B. Colonist.

☞ If you want good Coffee use Fell's.

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

WILLIAMS CREEK.

The past week has been one of unprecedented dullness among all classes of the community. The chief cause of this, however, may be traced to the cessation of mining operations in consequence of the unfortunate stoppage of the bed rock drain, but as the repairs progress with the utmost expedition it is to be hoped that we will not long have to complain of the hardness of the times.

There is nothing new to record concerning the claims above Richfield, all are busy ground sluicing. The Bed Rock Flume co. are advancing with the laying of their flume very speedily, having got through the bed rock, and it is expected that in the course of a couple of weeks they will reach the lower lines of their ground in the rear of the Paris and London Hotel. There being an ample supply of water in the Flume Co.'s ditch, the hill companies have started washing, among which are the Forest Hill, Dietz, Tontine and San Francisco companies.

The first claim below the canon that is taking out pay is the Aurora co., which washed out yesterday about 130 ounces making for the week 220 ounces.—Davis co. took out for the week 206 ounces.—Borealis co. cleaned up yesterday 45 ounces.—Morning Star co. are making good wages.—Never Sweat co. are taking out very good pay.—Forest Rose co. washed up for the week ending Saturday 30 ounces.—Raby co. have got everything ready and will begin to wash during the week.

CONKLINS GULCH.

The Ericcson co. have started a drift from their old shaft, above the saw mill, with the view of working the high rock that paid them so well two years ago. They have taken nothing out of their tunnel yet.—United co. washed out for last week 117 oz., and declared a dividend for the two weeks ending yesterday $64 to the share.—Reid co. are getting into good pay. It is thought that the lead of the United co. goes into this claim. They washed up for the week nearly 30 oz.—Home Stake co. are now in with their tunnel about 400 feet, and find washed gravel, but no prospects.—Hood co. have run over 300 feet in the bed rock, but have got no indication of a channel, farther than the presence of occasional seams of slum, that are to be met with in the rock.—Just-struck-it co. having been unable to bottom their shaft on account of water, commenced running a tunnel, and are now in with it about 65 feet.—Galour co. have completed 80 feet of their tunnel.—Renfrew co. are sinking a new shaft to work their deep ground.—Lone Star co'y are about to let the running of a tunnel by contract.—British Queen co'y are making good wages.—Night Hawk co'y, having got their wheel and pump in working order, will commence work on their shaft to-day.—Moonlight co'y are sinking a shaft.

STOUTS GULCH.

Beyond a doubt, the claims in this gulch which have baffled the efforts of their owners for the last two or three years in opening them, bid fair to yield a golden harvest to all interested. The Brick co.'s ground at the mouth of the gulch has been re-located by a new co., who are engaged in running an incline.—Floyd co, are busy repairing damages to their tunnel caused by the recent freshet, and will not be ready to wash before two or three weeks. This is very unfortunate as big pay was expected from this claim.—Alturas co. washed up for the week 161 ounces, one piece was found that weighed 7 ounces and another a trifle over 3 ounces. The gold in this gulch appears to be of a coarse character Taffvale co. expect to reach their shaft about the middle of the week.—Jenkins co. are making an ounce a day to the hand.—Mucho Oro co. washed out 60 ounces for the week. Some difficulty is experienced however in getting at the deep channel where the best pay seems to be on account of water which their pump is unable to keep out. The company intend to run a drain tunnel from the Jenkins co.'s shaft.—Emery co. have quit tunneling and commenced to ground sluice with prospects of getting good pay. Several other companies are sinking shafts, &c., farther up the gulch.

LOWHEE CREEK.

It is more than likely that some new developments may be made this week respecting the value of the deep channel in the east bank of this creek, which was tapped on Saturday by the Now-or-Never tunnel co., at a distance of 150 feet into the hill. This company will commence washing during the present week, when it will be ascertained to a certainty whether the ground contains pay or not. If pay is found, as we observed on a former occasion in referring to this channel, there is a strong probability of its being continuous, for a distance of at least one and a-half miles, thus affording remunerative employment for two or three hundred men.—The Vaughan-Sweeney co. have had occasion to clean up a small portion of their ground sluice, in order to make room for rocks, during the past two weeks, and washed up over 100 oz. They have laid bare a large strip of ground, which if it pays anything like the same rate as that already cleaned, will undoubtedly yield the shareholders a handsome sum in the fall.

GROUSE CREEK.

Times are very dull on this creek just now, for several reasons. First, because the numerous claims that are busy ground sluicing have not commenced to wash up. Second, because those claims that were taking out big pay, the Black Hawk for instance, have been locked up by litigation; and third, because of the failure in discovering the lost Heron lead. There are, however, good reasons for believing that all these causes of depression will soon cease.

The Heron co. have been working for the past three weeks ground that barely paid expenses. On Friday last, they struck a wide and deep channel, in which gold could be seen in the gravel, and which, according to present appearances, seems to be running directly into the hill. They washed up yesterday about 30 oz.—Nearly every other company on the creek are either ground sluicing, sinking shafts, or running tunnels, and but few are taking out pay.

BEGGS GULCH.

The Ancient Briton co. are now in with their tunnel 159 feet, and have reached the rise of the rock towards the hill, which proves the channel to be fifteen feet in width. They are not quite deep enough to drain the bed rock, and will consequently have to drift up stream until they reach it.—There are other three companies busy prospecting; one of which, located a short distance below the last named company, on the opposite side of the creek, are finding indications of very good pay. They only commenced ground sluicing last week, and have picked up several pieces weighing $5 and $6.

CHISHOLM CREEK.

There are two companies at work on this creek, one of which we learn is making $12 a day to the hand. The diggings are very shallow, and easy to open. As a proof of this, it is only necessary to state that the company referred to have only been at work for two weeks.

M'ARTHURS GULCH.

Three companies have commenced washing up the pay dirt, which they drifted out during the winter, and expect to do well.

BLACK JACK GULCH.

Which derives its name from the celebrated claim of that name, on account of being opposite to it, was all but abandoned since 1863 until last winter, when a company called the Annie Walker co. ran a tunnel 75 feet into the southern bank, and discovered a well-defined channel, containing very coarse gold—pieces having been found weighing from one ounce and upwards. The company are now preparing to open up the diggings in a proper manner.—In the Stout co.'s claim, immediately below, a piece was picked up out of their ground sluice which weighed $18.—Several companies have pre-empted claims both above and below, and as the diggings are easily prospected, there is every probability of something more definite being known as to their value, in the course of eight or ten days.

CANADIAN CREEK.

Notwithstanding all the exciting reports circulated last winter, nothing has been struck here yet, although every one feels hopeful that there soon will be.

The Clear Grit co. are drifting up stream, on a channel where they anticipate pay in a short time.—Miller co. will resume sinking today, having finished their wheel and pump.

TELEGRAPHIC.

(From the B. C. Examiner.)

New York, May 29th.—The World's special says General Thomas returned to-day fully charged with the views of the government as to the status of Brownlow's militia.

J. N. Maffit, ex-commander in the rebel army, yesterday applied for pardon.

It is reported that Horace Greeley has written to Breckinridge, inviting him to return to the country, and take part in the work of reconstruction.

The Herald's Montgomery special says, G. W. Eagle, the man who offered a reward for the assassination of Lincoln, during the war, was arrested on a charge of complicity in the assassination, a few days since, but was discharged on producing a pardon from President Johnson.

The Herald's special says it has been discovered that an extensive contraband trade is carried on with Indians on the northern frontier, in which respectable parties in northern New York and New England are engaged.

St. Louis, May 29th.—The Helena and Montana Herald of the 2nd says, great excitement exists in the territory in consequence of Indian outrages. War meetings had been called by the Governor at Virginia City, and a plan of operations announced. Volunteers and donations of arms, horses, etc., are called for. Several companies were enrolled and organized within twenty-four hours. The forces already mustered were to leave immediately, under the command of Col. Throughlar, accompanied by Gen. Meagher himself, for the scene of the disturbance. Gov. Meagher has issued a proclamation, summoning six hundred mounted men for instant service, assuring them that they shall be at full liberty to appropriate and hold whatever horses and arms, and everything in the way of spoils they may capture. He says the Government has thrown him on his own resources, and he will take the responsibility.

It is stated that the Sioux Indians have not only planned an attack to devastate the Gallatin settlements, but they are in alliance with the mountain tribes, and assert that they will penetrate to, sack and burn both Virginia and Helena cities. Col. Weil has been appointed to the command of the Helena troops. It is suggested to invite the friendly Flat Heads to join the whites in the campaign. Large bodies of the hostile Indians are reported to be operating in the Gallatin Valley. An Omaha dispatch says it is reported that Indian depredations have occurred near Fort Laramie. Gen. Augur and staff left last night for the front.

Several deserters left Fort Hayes, Kansas, last week. Five of them were killed and scalped by the Indians, near the fort, on the 24th.

The crew of the Vesta, during the trip, attempted a mutiny, and demanded that the captain should return to England, because of heavy gales. The captain restored order by vigorous measures.

Cholera has broken out at Buenos Ayres and all the towns on the coast as far as Corrientes.

The International Telegraph Company expects to open its line to Cuba in July. Florida dispatches report that the land line will be completed on the 1st June.

(From the Colonist and Chronicle.)

New York, June 2nd.—A special cable despatch to the Herald from London, furnishes Rio Janeiro news of May 9th. Pomedo declines the mediation profferred by the United States in the difficulty with Paraguay, because the allies are preparing to attack Paraguay as soon as the contingent under Baron de Heural could join the forces which the former had sent to the upper Parana. There had been no further fighting. Cholera was raging in the camps. It is rumored that General Urquiza, with 10,000 men, had raised the standard of revolt, and pronounced against the triple alliance. A revolt in the Argentine provinces is reported.

New York, April 7th.—Nicaragua papers say that the mission of ex-President Martinez to England is to obtain the incorporation of the Mosquera company. Nicaragua will soon demand payment for the bombardment of Greytown, and a call for indemnity for Walker's ravages, is likely to follow.

Chicago, June 8th.—An Omaha special says Sherman has withdrawn his forces to the south side of Platte river, between forts Sedgwick and McPherson. The stages have been withdrawn from that portion. Sherman will probably abandon the expedition into the heart of the Indian country, and concentrate his troops to protect the stages and railroad, deeming that more important.

New York, June 8th.—The Herald's special cable despatch has a long account of the attempted assassination of the Czar of Russia. The assassin fired two shots; the second barrel exploded, wounding his hand. The first ball penetrated the head of the horse ridden by the imperial groom. The assassin says he came from Belgium with the intention of killing the Czar, and declares he has no accomplice.

The Americans in Paris will present an address to the Czar, through General Diz. The address is congratulatory of Napoleon, and is extensively signed.

Several towns in France held the services of the Russian church to-day. The Czar, Grand Duchess, and the sons of the Czar, attended services in Paris, and offered thanksgiving for the escape of the Czar from assassination.

Paris, June 7th.—All the Powers having diplomatic relations with Austria, except America, will be represented at the coronation of the Emperor Francis Joseph to-morrow. An amnesty will be proclaimed to all Austrian subjects charged with political offences.

Chicago, June 9th.—The steamship Bremen brings European news to May 30th.

Candia intelligence, through Greek sources, state that two fresh engagements occurred on May 15th and 16th, resulting in favor of the Cretans. The Turks, under Omar Pacha, had devastated the country, burning 55 villages, without obtaining decided advantages over the insurgents.

A fresh insurrection had broken out in Bosnia. Sixty thousand troops have been sent to quell the revolt.

A report from Jaffa reports a new persecution of the Jews. Large numbers have been sent away. Joseph Corvas had addressed a representation to the Emperor of Russia, praying for the protection of his brethren against the arbitrary measures inaugurated in the Danubian principalities.

The Prussian government has opened confidential negociations with Denmark relating to the Schleswig question. Neither Schleswig nor Denmark will be required to assume the debt. Prussia will also guarantee the protection of Germany to the inhabitants of the district which is about to be returned to Denmark. It contains 30,000 inhabitants.

New York, June 10th.—The trotting match between Commodore Vanderbilt and General McClellan, for $2,000 a-side, at the Fashion course, was won by McClellan, who won the first, second and fourth heats. Best time, 2:30¼.

New Orleans, June 10th.—Mexican advices, dated May 22nd, says, Miramon is dangerously ill from a wound, and is expected to die.

When Maximilian gave up his sword, he said: "I surrender my sword, owing to infamous treason, without which, to-morrow's sun would have seen you in my hands."

Escabedo ordered a court-martial to convene on May 29th, for the trial of the Emperor.

Maximilian sent, through General Diaz, a telegram pressing the Court to appeal to the Consul, at Matamoras, to obtain permission for marine rival (?) and others to defend him. Three hundred and forty-seven officers were captured.

Maximilian issued a proclamation as follows: "I came to Mexico, called and protected by Napoleon, who, to the ridicule of France, abandoned me, cowardly and infamously, upon the demand of the United States. When the news of my death reaches Europe, all monarchs, of every age and country, will demand of the Napoleonic dynasty an account of my blood, and the German and French blood shed in Mexico; then Napoleon will be covered with shame from head to foot." He concluded with an appeal to the Mexicans to act with prudence. (Here the line broke outh of Yreka).

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.—The heart of any humane person would have been melted to pity, to have seen the horrible condition which the backs of a number of pack animals belonging to some Chinamen, presented on Saturday last. Many of the ulcerated wounds on the animals' backs and sides, were large enough to admit a man's hand, and yet they were loaded, while in this state, with packs of from 200 to 300 lbs. We would direct the attention of the Magistrate to this, as we believe the Act for the prevention of cruelty to animals is as applicable here as it is in England, and ought to be strictly enforced in such cases.

THE jury in the case Pidwell vs. Hudson Bay Co., failing to agree were discharged on Friday 15th. They stood 5 to 3. Had this suit terminated in favor of the plaintiff, the H. B. Co. would have been involved in a very heavy sum, as this was a test case.

MILK RANCHES.—There are no less than four milk ranches on the meadows of this creek numbering 80 cows. The whole of the lacteal fluid produced is consumed on this and Lowhee creeks, and sells at the moderate price of $1 per gallon.

☞ The great demand for Fell's Coffee in the mining districts, has brought into existence many spurious imitations, but the intelligence of the mining population is Fell & Co.'s guarantee.

ENDURANCE.

How much the heart may bear, and yet not break!
How much the flesh may suffer, yet not die!
I question much if any pain or ache
Of soul or body, brings our end more nigh.
Death chooses his own time; till that is sworn,
All evils may be borne.

We shrink and shudder at the surgeon's knife,
Each nerve recoiling from the cruel steel
Whose edge seems searching for the quivering life;
Yet to our sense the bitter pangs reveal,
That till the trembling flesh be piece-meal torn,
This also can be borne.

We see a sorrow rising in our way,
And try to flee from the approaching ill;
We seek some small escape, we weep and pray:
But when the blow falls, then our hearts are still—
Not that the pain is of its sharpness shorn,
But that it can be borne.

We wind our life about another life,
We hold it closer, dearer than our own;
Anon it faints and falls in deadly strife,
Leaving us stunned, and stricken, and alone:
But ah! we do not die with those we mourn;
This also can be borne.

Behold! we live through all things—famine thirst,
Bereavement, pain; all grief and misery,
All woe and sorrow; life inflicts its worst
On soul and body, but we cannot die,
Though we be sick, and tired, and faint and worn.
Lo! all things can be borne.

A MURDERER!

Not long since an honest-looking Hibernian entered the office of the prosecuting attorney of San Francisco, and addressing that officer, said:

"I want a warrant for a man who has committed murder."

"Well, sir, give me the facts of the case, and I'll accommodate you," answered the affable officer.

"I'll do that same, sir. You see, meself, Tim Morarity, and Barney McCloud were mining in Placer county, in 1862, and not making anything, we concluded to go to Washoe and try our luck. Now, ye see, sir—

"Never mind about the trip to Washoe; tell me the circumstances of the murder."

"Aisy, sir, aisy, for ye see I'm coming to it. Well, while we were going to Washoe, we stopped at a shebeen in Strawberry Valley—divil a strawberry did I see there though—and took a couple of drinks of the creeter for the purpose of putting more spring to the sole of our feet. After we had taken the drinks, Tim Morarity got into a bit of a quarrel wid the felly who keeps the shebeen, and was knocked down and kicked on the arrum, which, by the way, was broken when the fun ceased. That arrum laid him up for four months, during which time he borrowed nearly a hundred dollars from me. However he finally got able to go to work, and, would you belave it, he paid me every dollar of the money he borrowed."

"Come, come, I can't listen to this story. If you have anything to complain of, state it at once."

"Now, sir, would ye refuse to listen to a man who comes to ye wid a complaint for a crime that has been done, and the perpetrator is escaping the gallows? No, I know ye wouldn't. Then, when I tell you that Tim paid me every dollar, I'm telling the truth. Well, now, about a year ago, Tim came to San Francisco, and worked for a gentleman who had a contract for grading the streets, and about three weeks ago he got wet and caught coold, and his arrum began to swell, and he tuk the lock-jaw and died, and I want a warrant for the felly who broke his arrum, and caused his death."

We are sorry to say the attorney did not think he could make a case of this, and refused to issue a warrant.—S. F. Paper.

A Wisconsin paper announces that the "Wisconsin Legislature adjourned non compos." Its members must be unfortunate fellows.
