KINDERGARTEN SCHOOLS.

The name Kindergarten, or garden of children, is not intended to imply that children are to be instructed out of doors; but that the school is a garden plot, in which the children are the plants, and the teacher, the gardener, whose duty it is to give his pupils a kind of care analogous to that which the gardener gives his plants; removing hindrances and heightening all favoring circumstances so that they may have room and opportunity for development according to the laws of their growth.

The name and the system were originated by Frœbel, who devoted half a century to elaborate, by study and experiment, a new primary discipline in accordance with child nature. Already, although this is not yet anywhere a national system, it has spread over Germany, and has been introduced into Scandinavia, Switzerland, Spain, France, Italy and Russia, and is beginning to find its enthusiastic supporters in the United States. It has to contend with some prejudice excited by a class of schools called Kindergartens, which were merely a variation of the ordinary primary school—an imitation of the real Kindergartens—established by teachers who had read something concerning the subject, but had not had the necessary training and missed the essential idea of the system. To teach the system efficiently, one must first thoroughly learn it. The best Normal school for this purpose is that founded by the Baroness Marenholtz Bulow, in Berlin, where she gives free lectures upon the philosophy of the method to pupils, who have an opportunity to observe and practice it in Madame Vogler's Kindergarten. A pupil of this school, Madame Kriege, has the only Kindergarten Normal school in America. This is a private school in Boston, where Madame Kriege lectures upon the philosophy of the method, while her daughter teaches the Kindergarten class, which the Normal pupils attend by way of living example. The public school authorities of New York hope soon, it is said, to secure the services of these ladies in the public Normal school of that city. They have now a class of ten or twelve ladies. There will soon be so great a demand for teachers of this kind that those places may consider themselves fortunate which secure the services of one of these.

A lady who travelled in Europe to study Frœbel's Kindergartens, brought home from Dresden the whole series of work done by a class of children who began at three years old and continued till seven, and no one has seen it without being convinced that it must have educated the children that did it, not only to exquisite artistic manipulation, which it is very difficult to attain later, but to habits of attention which would make it a work of a short time to learn to read, write and cipher, and would enable them to begin a scientific education and use books with the greatest advantage, as early as eight or nine years old. This work is of many kinds, as will be perceived when one considers that in the three hours daily session there must be two or three different kinds of quiet tasks and two or three active plays. The tasks themselves are play, being some form of interesting construction. For Frœbel, instead of beginning the process of education by paralyzing the child's activities and keeping him still, organizes the play itself into an educating process. He has invented a series of playthings, beginning with solids (balls, cubes, &c.), going on to plane surfaces, and squares and triangles, and thence to sticks of different lengths, and points (peas or balls of wax) with which the sticks can be inserted, to make frames of things, and symmetrical forms. By this work, superintended with sympathy, interest, and suggestion by the teacher, skill, neatness and order become habits. The little tables at which the children sit are marked off in inch squares, and the blocks, planes and sticks are not laid in confused heaps, but carefully adjusted one by one to these squares. When the child has acquired sufficient skill to invent forms which he wishes to make permanent, he is taught to draw or prick pictures, to sew cardboard with colored threads in regular patterns (no copies allowed), to weave into slitted paper of one color strips of another color, to fold paper with great exactness in geometrical forms, and unfold it to make little boats, chairs, cups, &c., and to mould figures out of clay.

Calisthenics, ball-plays, and plays imitating the motions of beasts or birds, mechanical labors, &c., are alternated with these quieter occupations, and give grace and agility.—These exercises are directed and enlivened with songs.

The teacher, by constant questioning, calls the child's attention to every point of resemblance and contrast in the objects presented to it, and encourages it to relate its little experience, or explain its little invention, so keeping its mind awake and in agreeable activity.

The system of instruction in the Kindergarten is, in fact, simply the carrying out of that education which a loving and sensible mother begins in the nursery, not of set purpose, but by natural instinct, when she plays with her baby, teaches it to notice things, to use hands and feet, talks to it, and interprets its dawning thoughts and wishes into words. If a baby is not played with, it ceases to play, and becomes, if not an absolute idiot, at least dull, discouraged and stupid. It is sad to think what immense injury is done, and what waste made of human faculty, by those defective methods of education which undertake to reverse the order of nature and make children passive to receive impressions, instead of keeping them active, and letting them learn by their own or a suggested experimenting.

This system of education is not adapted merely to primary schools; the fundamental idea of it is applicable to all instruction, and it is hoped that in time our whole method of education may be reformed by it. Meanwhile the change most needed, and the best beginning of a thorough remodelling of our methods of teaching, is the introduction into our public schools of the Kindergarten.—[Montreal Witness.

THE CARIBOO SENTINEL

SATURDAY, MARCH 16, 1872.

THE GOVERNOR'S SPEECH.

On Friday, the 16th February, 1872, the first session of the first Provincial Parliament of the Province of British Columbia since its union with the Dominion of Canada was duly and formally opened by his Honor Lieut.-Governor Trutch in a speech marked by more ability and pith than such productions are usually possessed of. In fact, nearly all the questions that at present agitate the minds of those who interest themselves in the political and social welfare of the Colony are dealt with in a manner that must be thoroughly satisfactory to the inhabitants of the Province at large. Every one will be glad to learn that notwithstanding the expenditure of the public moneys since the union of the Province with the Dominion, the Colony is free from debt and the funds in a satisfactory state, a considerable balance being in fact on hand. Many measures are promised which have long been demanded by what we must, we suppose, consider ourselves, a patient and long-suffering people. These measures are, in fact stated to be the repeal of the Civil List Bill, the establishment of a system of non-sectarian Free Schools, the abolition of the Road Tolls, and the amendment of the Mining Laws and the Qualification and Registration of Voters' Act. If these measures, as well as the adoption of the Canadian Tariff, are fairly and honestly carried out, and we at present see no reason to doubt the integrity and good faith of the Ministry on the subject, there is every reason to believe that they will have no difficulty in carrying a good working majority of the House with them, and that the end of the session will see the present Ministry firmly seated in power. To secure this end, however, these measures must be pushed through in such a manner that the sincerity of the Government on the subject will be placed beyond cavil and doubt. When this is done they will reap a rich reward in the increased confidence which the public will manifest in a proper and statesmanlike administration of the affairs of the Province. Let the members of the Administration show that zeal, energy and honesty of purpose in the conduct of public business which the community at large has a right to expect of them, and they will soon find that their constituencies have not been unwatchful of their proceedings, and will give them all the credit and praise that is honestly due to them. The present Ministry is entitled to a fair and impartial and even lenient trial, and we are glad to perceive that a large majority of the present House feels inclined to concede to them that right; and we apprehend that as long as they stand by their present programme so long will they have the support of that majority both in the House and in the country, and no longer. The measures proposed by the Governor in the speech from the Throne are one and all familiar to this community—in fact, were supported by all the present members from this constituency at the last election—and it will be for them to see more particularly that these desirable objects are carried out in such a manner as to be of substantial and lasting benefit to the Cariboo district.

We shall watch with care the conduct of our representatives during the progress of the session, and shall mark with pleasure everything done by them that may tend to be of benefit to this district or the Province at large, as we shall most certainly record every act committed by them which we may deem deserving of censure or detrimental to the public interests.

St. Patrick's Day.—To-morrow (Sunday) will be the 17th of old Ireland. We wish our friends from the Emerald Isle may all be in a position to enjoy the festive occasion to the fullest extent.

Gerow & Johnson's Express arrived on Saturday, the 9th inst., bringing the mails and one passenger, Dr. Trevor, from Quesnelmouth.

Immigration.—We have received information from a reliable source that a large party of Canadians, consisting of 200 men, are wintering at Jasper house, on their way to this country and the Peace river mines. We are given to understand that on the breaking up of winter they will come through by way of Tete Jaune Cache. This is in all probability the party alluded to in an extract from a Red river journal published some time since in this journal, and is merely the commencement of a large addition to the able-bodied population of this country to be derived from the same source. We believe that we are likely to reap a considerable benefit this year from the numerous surveys of the Canadian Pacific Railway, giving as they will a decided impetus to an influx of immigrants in this direction.

The Railway Surveying Party.—Mr Mahood, the enterprising commander of the R Division of the Canadian Pacific Railway Surveying party, left Barkerville by Barnard's Express on the 10th inst., for the purpose of making a reconnoitory survey in connection with the above Company. He will proceed by way of the Horsefly country to the Cariboo branch of the North Thompson, and from thence by way of Cranberry Lake and Tete Jaune Cache to the encampment of his division on Castle river. We wish Mr Mahood, who appears to be most zealous and indefatigable in his operations, every success in his difficult and arduous undertaking. We understand that Mr Mahood's operations will probably this season be confined to the country west of the Rocky Mountains.

The Weather.—The weather at the commencement of the week underwent quite a change. Jack Frost for a while resumed his sway, and the thermometer fell on the night of the 12th to 11 degrees below zero. Since then it bears an uncertain aspect, threatening both cold and snow. An early spring appears, however, to be generally expected.

The Next Mail.—It will be seen on reference to the Telegraphic reports published in another column that Barnard's Express carrying the Cariboo mail, is expected to arrive to-night at Soda Creek. It will therefore be due here on Tuesday night.

COUNTY COURT.

(Before H. M. Ball, Esq., Gold Commissioner and County Court Judge.)

RICHFIELD, March 15, 1872.

F. Neufelder vs. D. Nordenburg.—Judgment summons for $462 55. Settled out of Court.

Malaumont vs. Miss Punchitas.—Suit for $20, balance due on a sofa. Defendant did not appear. Plaintiff proved debt to amount of $17 50. Judgment by default for that amount, to be paid in instalments of $5 per week.

Hudson's Bay Co. (per Geo. Byrnes) vs. J. Ellison.—Judgment summons for $34 50. Mr Park objected to Mr Byrne's appearance in consequence of his position as plaintiff in the suit interfering with his duties as Deputy-Sheriff and as an officer of the Court. Mr Byrnes claimed to appear for himself under a document purporting to be a transfer of the original judgment. The Judge said it appeared by the summons that he sued as an agent, and if he claimed under a transfer of judgment, that would give him no right to appear but simply to claim and receive the proceeds. The suit must be prosecuted in the name of the original plaintiff. Judgment summons dismissed.

Siddall vs. Ellison.—Suit for $20 for services rendered in dentistry on 10th March last. Judgment by default for full amount and costs. To be paid in three days.

G. Byrnes vs. P. Gautin.—Judgment summons for $269 88½. Defendant on examination said that he had no money. He had been working for one Albert, who had a contract from the Forest Rose Co., to repay him for money advanced and grub. Had one claim on Slate creek, Omineca, of uncertain value, of which he did not know the name. There was no mortgage on the interest. Would go to Peace river if he could raise money enough. The Judge said the judgment must not be treated lightly. He must make an effort to get work and pay the judgment, otherwise the Peace river trip might be spoilt. The defendant professing a willingness to pay as soon as he possibly could, no order was made.

DENTISTRY.—Dr. Siddall will visit Vanwinkle professionally on Saturday, the 23d inst., remaining there that day and the next, for the accommodation of parties in that locality who may be desirous of availing themselves of his services. This will be the last opportunity they will have of doing so in that place. *

BARNARD'S EXPRESS left on Sunday, 10th inst., carrying the mails, an express, and the following passengers: John Smith, William Harris, Charles Blaney, John James, and Miss Betsy Baker, to Yale; Mr James A. Mahood, to 150-mile post; and Mr F. Neufelder, to Quesnel. Gerow & Johnson's Express left on same day.

THE TELEGRAPH.—The telegraph line is now in good working order to Vancouver Island and San Francisco.

RICH PAY.—The Lightning co. had 130 oz. up to Thursday of this week.

THE ROADS.—Sleighing still continues good to Quesnelmouth.

☞ THE RAILROAD STORE ☜ (nearly opposite the Government Assay Office, Barkerville).—This store has been opened by Mr C. A. Noltemeier in connection with his store in Victoria, with the largest and best assortment of boots and shoes ever brought to Cariboo. He has introduced a novelty in the form of warm Winter Boots for both ladies and gentlemen. Leather and Shoe Findings and Groceries are also kept on hand. Boots made to order, from best materials, for $15 per pair. Repairing neatly done.

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

WILLIAM CREEK.

The Forest Rose co. have given out a contract to cut a ditch about half a mile long to their new shaft. Part of the company are rocking and paying more than expenses, but the company is mainly engaged in building a shaft and engine house and otherwise preparing for the coming season's operations.—The Cariboo co. yielded 24½ oz. for last week's run, and expect to do better.—The Innerdale co. paid wages and expenses.

THE MEADOWS.

The Russell co. is doing the same.—The Calaveras co. have let the contract for the continuation of their drain tunnel to Cairn & Co.

LIGHTNING CREEK.

They will sink a blind shaft with the expectation of getting the same strata of pay dirt that the Two Sisters are working upon. The Two Sisters co. washed up 65½ oz. last week.

WILD FAMILIES.

Curiously enough we find in our exchanges at the same time, accounts of a wild family in Wyoming County, Pennsylvania, and of a household in England known as the "North Devon Savages." Their being permitted for a generation to run at large like "the beasts that perish," "and outrage all the decencies of life," is not only a blot on our Christian civilization but seems a burlesque of our free institutions. According to the Pittston Comet the Pennsylvania family lived like the Troglodytes. The man, whose name was Wel's Parkes, though of extraordinary mental attributes and described as "a walking biblical cyclopædia," was found burrowing in the earth. His wife was away from their home, engaged in nursing a sick neighbor. The eldest children, who appeared little above an idiotic state, were roaming around very much in a state of nature.

The English savages, of the name of Cheriton, own a freehold of forty acres of very good land, and are not therefore reduced to their abject squalor by poverty. They have the instinct of barbarians for indolence and filth. "Savagery is in the blood," as we are told. An elder brother by right of primogeniture we suppose, lived, like another Diogenes, all his life in a cask. The family are, however, rising in the scale of being, as formerly they regarded any compromise with civilization as a foolish concession to stupid prejudices. Still it must be admitted there is great room for improvement as will appear from the following description of their habits and customs, which we extract from the New York Times:

"The outcasts known as the "North Devon Savages," were brought some time ago to public notice by the clergyman in whose parish they reside. His statements, guarded as they were, were received with doubt, but a correspondent of one of the London journals more than confirms his startling descriptions. The Cheritons, who are objects of hatred and terror throughout the neighborhood, inhabit a miserable hut within a stone's throw of the pretty church of Nymet Rowland, in North Devon. The gang—it cannot be called a family—consists of Christopher Cheriton and the woman who passes as his wife; their eldest son Willie, a man of middle age, three young women, a boy of fourteen, and two or three infants. The relations of these last to each other and to the old people are involved in most hideous mystery. For forty years these wretches have lived in utter isolation, not only shunning but violently repelling all human intercourse. No one but themselves is as a rule allowed to enter their squalid precincts. For only looking over the fence a respectable farmer of the vicinity was on one occasion beaten nearly to death by the elder Cheriton and his worthy son. It is a favorite diversion of this little ascetic to "let fly with a gun" at any person who by accident or otherwise invades his privacy. Even the females of the tribe are wont, from the recesses of their den, unexpectedly to pelt the wayfarer with bricks and other unpleasant missiles. Their hatred of the "parson," as they call the rector of the parish, is particularly intense, and when he passed by their gate on his return from his wedding trip, the entire tribe assailed the happy couple with the most shocking obscenities. In short, the hands of these Devonshire Ishmaelites are against every man and it seems due to an unaccountable forbearance of the local authorities that they have so long scandalized the neighborhood. Their dwelling is described by the correspondent of the London Telegraph as of the most wretched description. It is almost forty feet long by twenty feet wide, and its roof and walls, which are "apparently a mixture of mud and pebbles, and are very thick," are full of holes. The largest of these serve as doors and windows, and are closed with bundles of filthy straw. Around the house is a quagmire of black mud, the floor is of mud and the walls as black as soot. There is not a vestige of furniture in the place, and the only thing in the way of a bed is a pile of foul straw in one corner, reeking with inexpressible vileness. This choice habitation is shared by a litter of pigs and a number of fowls, who are, by far the cleanest of its inmates.

THOROUGHLY SENSATIONAL.—A publishing firm has recently received the following letter from one who, if his heart is somewhat defective, certainly shows that he appreciates the kind of matter a modern audience applands:—"Mr ——, Sir, I beg to inform you that I have written a new drama consisting of Pride, Love, Slavery, Revenge, Smuggling, Marriage, Cruelty, Fighting at Sea, Lawsuits, Blowing up of a Smuggling Lugar, Captur and Death of the Captor, Triumph of Justice, &c. It is thoroughly new and exciting I wish to sell the copyright, hence my reason for trubling you, if you will buy such a thing I will send you a part of it, as I have not it all finished yet, the speling and grammer requires to be corrected, and on that account I do not expect much for it. Please let me know by return if you publish such things. Yours, respectfully, ——."

THE Rev. John Heugh, of Stirling, was one day admonishing one of his people on the sin of intemperance. "Man, John, you should never drink, except when you're dry!"—"Well, sir," quoth John, "that's what I am doin'; for I am never slocken'd."

PREVENTION BETTER THAN CURE.

I HAVE been requested by several respectable parties, who can testify to the efficacy of my system, to again make public the fact that

Moses' Hair Invigorator

WILL PREVENT BALDNESS,
RESTORE HAIR THAT IS BECOMING THIN OR FALLING OFF, and effectually CURE SCURF OR DANDRUFF.

This is not a mere assertion on my part, as I have in my possession numerous testimonials certifying to the success of my remedy.

I do not of course pretend that I can make the hair grow on heads which have been bald for years; but I will guarantee to stop the hair from falling off, to increase its growth, and effectually remove Scurf or Dandruff.

W. D. MOSES,
Barkerville, B.C.

CERTIFICATE.

This is to certify that during last spring my hair was rapidly falling out and my head was fast becoming bald, when I applied to Mr W. D. MOSES, Barber, Barkerville, who in a few weeks restored my hair to its former healthy state. DAVID GIBBONS
