THE CARIBOO SENTINEL

SATURDAY, SEPT. 28, 1872.

THE SAN JUAN QUESTION.

The San Juan question is reported to be settled, and settled unfavorably to Great Britain and the Dominion of Canada. This may or may not be true, but we suppose that the statement would not be made in an authoritative way unless it had some foundation in fact. This result is one that we hardly expected. We well recollect the time when the difficulty very nearly became the occasion of war. We at that time fully believed, as we still believe, that the right of England to the possession of the islands in dispute was far superior to that of the United States. It was naturally felt by all who were inclined to support the British side of the question that the channel meant in the treaty was the channel that was then known and recognized as the ship channel, and it was generally believed that the claim made by the Government of the United States to the islands within the limits of the line formed by the present channel used by steamers and small sailing craft, known as "Plumper's Pass," was an afterthought. It is almost needless for us to say that such is still our belief. By the treaty it is expressly agreed that the 49th parallel shall be the dividing line between the two countries, and that this line is to be extended to the centre of the channel dividing Vancouver Island from the Mainland, which channel is then adopted as the line of division. Under this clause it has been fairly enough contended that the American interpretation has been far-fetched and unfair, the "Haro" channel contended for by them being at the time of the treaty altogether unknown as a practicable channel for the purposes of navigation and commerce; and taking the ordinary rules of evidence applicable to the proper interpretation of legal documents as our guide, we must almost inevitably come to the conclusion that the channel meant by the treaty was the main channel, then known, and not the "Canal de Haro." Such, of course, is only our opinion in the matter, but that opinion is extensively shared in by those most competent to form a correct judgment on the points in dispute between the two nations. However, if the telegram be true, our views and opinions will not go for much, for no matter how much we may disagree with the alleged decision of the arbitrator, by that decision we are in all honor and equity bound to abide, even although it be manifestly unjust and not dictated by the purest of motives. Of course, it would be hardly fair on our part to impugn the motives or reasons which may or may not have to some extent influenced the Emperor of Germany in deciding the issue adversely to England; still we will always labor under the impression that the course adopted by that monarch (supposing the story to be true) has been dictated more by a spirit of policy and expediency rather than by one of justice and equity. And we are much afraid that this "policy and expediency" has been displayed not for the purpose of creating a friendly feeling between the two countries, but more with the ulterior object of conciliating the jealous spirit of the United States as to some measures shortly to be adopted by the German Government. The fact is that the emigration question is fast becoming the most important one in Germany. Year after year the country is drained of its bone and muscle, wealth and industry, by a systematic emigration which shows no symptoms of a decrease, but on the contrary seems to acquire an ever increasing force. This has gone on to such an extent that the German Government has become really alarmed as to the threatened effects on the country at large. Were the emigration restricted to paupers and the "rag, tag and bobtail" of the country it might even be contended that such was a clear advantage and the country so much the gainer. Such, however, is not the case, the emigrants being nearly altogether confined to artizans, tradespeople, shopkeepers and farmers,—people, in fact, in comfortable circumstances, who can raise enough money to pay their passage and that of their families and "household gods" to America, and then have sufficient left to start them in some honest and respectable mode of life. The German Government have no idea of permitting the country to be thus depleted of its wealth, industry, and most remunerative population. In fact, it has been evident for some time that some stringent regulations would be passed for the purpose of restraining this wholesale exodus; and as the United States has been the principal gainer by the departures from Fatherland, it became all the more necessary to conciliate the spirit of her people so that no offence should be taken at the adoption of a restrictive legislation which might seem peculiarly and especially aimed at that power. There was, of course, no object in conciliating England, whose good-will Germany already possessed but a manifest advantage was to be gained by providing against an ebullition of feeling which might cause a protest to be entered by the American Government against what it might choose to consider hostile legislation. All this, of course, may be mere surmise. No decision may be given, and if given may possibly be in favor of England; but there is truth in the adage, "coming events cast their shadows before them," and if the decision be as reported, we feel satisfied that the reasons stated above have had more than their fair share in bringing about that result. However, whatever may be the motives which may actuate the arbitrating power in arriving at a conclusion, with it we must remain satisfied. It is much better that a matter of this sort should be settled even unfavorably to ourselves, than to be allowed to remain as a bone of contention between two kindred peoples between whom war would be nothing less than a disgrace to moral progress and civilization.

THE BULKHEAD.—Mr Thomas Spence, Government Superintendent on the wagon road, arrived in town during the week, and is now engaged in getting out timber for the purpose of connecting the two slab bulkheads at the upper part of the town and partially repairing the old one. The principal difficulty in the way of making a complete job of it is we believe the financial one. What is now being done will, however, be of considerable benefit to the town.

THE WESLEYAN CHURCH.—We are happy to state that our friends of the Wesleyan Church have just received from below a handsome harmonium for use during divine service. The usual services will be held at this church to-morrow at the accustomed hours of 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., when a collection will be taken up to defray the cost of the harmonium.

The potatoes are of Cariboo growth, having been raised on Nelson Creek. They certainly afford evidence of what may be done even in this climate in the way of producing good vegetables. We might here also state that Mr Green, the constable, has succeeded this season in raising some very good full-headed cauliflowers in his well-kept garden behind the Court house and jail.

BARNARD'S EXPRESS arrived from below on Saturday last, bringing a mail, an express and the following passengers:—Mrs Kelly and children, from Soda creek, and 1 Chinaman, from Lytton. The Down Express left on Sunday morning, 22d inst., with a mail, express, and the following passengers:—Mrs Lindhard, Miss Sanford, for Yale; H. Randall, for Cache creek; 1 Chinaman and Mr Bramley, for Quesnel; Mrs Colbraith and Miss Alice Barnard, from Soda creek to Yale.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

Among the questions that are likely to arise during the next session of Parliament the educational one is sure to cause considerable discussion, and it is highly probable that the gravest difference of opinion may be found to exist on the subject. In this Province, in discussing a question of this sort, we are freed from many of those prejudices which have such a strong foothold in other and more conventional communities, and we have so far succeeded in establishing a system of education which is now, it may be said, on its trial. Under this system the highest morality must be inculcated, but each school must be conducted on non-sectarian principles, and no religious creed or dogma may be taught. The country is divided into school districts, and the only limitation in this respect is that there must be fifteen children of school age—that is from five to sixteen years old—within its limits. These provisions are all very well in their way, but it will be at once seen by any one well acquainted with the country that great difficulties are sure to arise in attempting to carry out the scheme to a successful issue. These difficulties seem to have been felt in their full force by Mr Jessup, our able and talented Superintendent of Schools, as well as by others interested in this all important question, and hence the remarks that fell from some of the speakers at a public meeting lately held in Barkerville. At that meeting it may be recollected that a resolution was passed that boarding schools should be erected in convenient localities by Government, parents and guardians paying sufficient to defray the expenses of the children's board. The intention of the resolution is very apparent. A very large part of the country is most thinly inhabited. Even along the line of the wagon road, where children are constantly increasing in numbers, the farms are situated at long and scattering distances from each other, and it is therefore utterly impossible to place the means of education under the present system within the reach of the children who are rapidly growing up in these localities. In any place where the population is concentrated, such as the towns, no difficulty is experienced in carrying out the Act successfully, but that, as far as the whole country is concerned, is simply the exception. It is evident, therefore, that some such scheme as that embodied in the resolution previously quoted must be adopted in order that the advantages of education should be extended to all the children in this Province who are of sufficient age to learn. It is the duty of the State to assist the parent in every way in the proper education of his offspring. It is doubly the case here where the means are difficult and the obstacles to be contended against numerous and discouraging. In carrying out this plan we conceive that parents should not be required to expend any more than will be barely sufficient to defray the expenses of board. In fact, any other rule would make these schools so expensive that most parents in the country would be debarred, from want of means, from availing themselves of the advantages thus offered them in the education of their offspring. We are glad to see the subject thus brought prominently forward in this district, and it is certainly a source of satisfaction to see in a community composed principally of bachelors such an interest taken in this question. Fortunately perhaps for the unborn, most of us are unblest either with wives or children, but that is precisely the reason why we should do our utmost to assist those who have assumed responsibilities which we may shirk but duty almost calls upon us to adopt. There are, no doubt, many difficulties to be contended against in attempting to carry this plan into effect, but that is no reason for discouragement. Defects when once seen are easily remedied. The rising generation must be educated and taught the difference between right and wrong, otherwise the country will in a few years be inundated with a wild and reckless youth, ignorant of letters and given to every species of vice and dissipation.

THEATRICAL PERFORMANCE.—On Saturday evening, the 21st inst., an entertainment was given by the Cariboo Amateur Dramatic Association at the Theatre Royal. The piece chosen was what is styled in the play bills the original romantic drama of the "Seven Clerks, or the Three Thieves and the Denouncer;" and a very original unromantic drama it is. The plot of the play is bad, the incidents unnatural, and the whole story is based on the wildest improbabilities and numerous absurdities. Adolphe de Briancourt, a nobleman, falls in love with Victorine, whom he meets at a masquerade ball. She is called the daughter of the Denouncer, who, however, is nothing more than an old usurer who has been the occasion of the death of six of his own clerks, who being set to watch his hoard of gold, in some unaccountable way go to sleep and are robbed by their own master in a state of somnambulism. In the morning a sack of gold is missing, the clerk is denounced to the authorities, tried, condemned, and suffers the penalty of the law. DeBriancourt, who in a highly improbable way has fallen across Victorine, the object of his search, is induced by her, for the purpose of solving the mystery and proving her father's suspicions correct, to accept the position of clerk, and therefore of guardian over the treasure. He does so, and like a fool goes to sleep for one quarter of an hour, and during that time the thief enters and the gold is stolen. Of course, in the morning the sack is missing and a horrible row takes place. The young lady, then in great distress, determines to watch herself, and her father is then discovered to be the thief. He is suddenly awoke to all the horrible truth. Visions of the poor devils who have suffered through his conduct come dancing before his now diseased imagination, and like a man under such circumstances he does the "regular thing," and dies upon the stage. Other characters are introduced as a sort of by-play, the principal of whom, the miner's hungry servant, Simon Siggel, was well performed by Gomer Johns, as was also the part of the three thieves by Messrs. Perrit, Sullivan and Hudson. Mr Fisher's personation of the old usurer was really artistic and good. Mr Thompson, as DeBriancourt, and Florence Wilson, as Victorine, also did well. The play, considering that it is a badly conceived, meretricious drama, went off very well to a house somewhat thinly attended in consequence of the unpropitious weather.

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

WILLIAMS CREEK.

The Ballarat co. took out 106½ oz. last week. The Forest Rose co., who had been prevented from working in their diggings from want of water to wash with, have again resumed work on what has every appearance of being paying ground. If the present wet weather continues the hydraulic claims above Richfield will yet be able to do some good work this season.

THE MEADOWS.

The Lane & Kurtz co., who had met with a slight accident to their pumps, have again got to work. After the pumps commenced working the shaft and diggings were emptied of water and the men at work in the face in five hours. This occurred on Wednesday. Everything is now looking and working well, and the indications of near approach to paying ground are extremely favorable. Two extra boilers for the engine and the Company's new 13 inch pumps have been detained at Yale in consequence of the repairs which have had to be undertaken on the Alexandria bridge. The machinery is now probably on the way up.

LOWHEE CREEK.

The Calaveras co. are running ahead with their tunnel, meeting with variable ground.

JACK OF CLUBS CREEK.

The Discovery co. ground is looking better, and the company is in hopes of finding pay in the hill in a short time. The Two Sisters are getting some pay. The Two Brothers co. are down 91 feet, find little water, and expect to find bed-rock in a short time. On the whole, the prospects on this creek are improving.

GOLD CREEK.

The Discovery co. have been driven out with water after sinking some 28 feet. We have not heard whether any other companies continue working.

LIGHTNING CREEK.

The Ross co. are taking out fair pay. The Lightning co. is also doing well. The Spruce co. are still sinking in bed-rock. The Point co. diggings have been filled up in consequence of there not having been sufficient water to run the machinery. The Victoria co. received their pump on Thursday. The Gladstone co. is taking up rock in the drive so as to get into the channel at a lower grade. The Water Lily co. is cutting a ditch. The Eleven of England co. is taking out good pay.

HARVEY CREEK.

The Foster co. are about commencing to sink. The Minnehaha co. have been running a drain ahead of the diggings which is now 200 feet ahead of the face. The Cummings co. are now on bed rock in the channel, are getting some gold, but rock as yet rather unfavorable. The Manitoba co. have got fairly into the channel, and is expected to take out pay next week. The Dominion co. have drifted up to their own line and are on bed-rock, and have obtained first-rate prospects. The Perseverance co. is paying a little over expenses.

THE following passengers are booked to leave by Barnard's Express to-morrow:—W. Allan, Brisbane, Martin, L. A. Blanc, Andrew Morrow. Henry Nathan, M.P., and E. A. Brown will go down by same conveyance from Soda creek.

PREVENTION BETTER THAN CURE.

I HAVE been requested by several respectable parties, who can testify to the efficacy of my system, to again make public the fact that

Moses' Hair Invigorator

WILL PREVENT BALDNESS,
RESTORE HAIR THAT IS BECOMING THIN OR FALLING OFF, and effectually CURE SCURF OR DANDRUFF.

This is not a mere assertion on my part, as I have in my possession numerous testimonials certifying to the success of my remedy.

I do not of course pretend that I can make the hair grow on heads which have been bald for years; but I will guarantee to stop the hair from falling off, to increase its growth, and effectually remove Scurf or Dandruff.

CERTIFICATE.

This is to certify that during last spring my hair was rapidly falling out and my head was fast becoming bald, when I applied to Mr W. D MOSES, Barber Barkerville, who in a few weeks restored my hair to its former healthy state. DAVID GIBBONS
