Wilson Creek carved a mini-Niagara Falls in the road next to European Motors when it overflowed its banks during heavy rains last Thursday. Highways crews began the clean-up at 7:30 a.m. Friday, and by 10:30 a.m. it was business as usual at the garage. —Fran Berger photo

"Nothing to worry about" eh?

Flooded out again

by Fran Berger

It never rains but it floods -at least in Wilson Creek. Jack Hertzog of Wilson Creek Campground, and Russ Robertson and Alex Goodwin of European Motors began keeping watch on the creek situation as soon as it became apparent that the unseasonably heavy rains pouring down last Thursday were not about to let up.

They were all remembering the way their establishments were flooded last February, the last time Wilson Creek overflowed its banks.

To be on the safe side, Alex made a call to the Department of Highways at 11 a.m., apprising them of the situation and the amount of water on the road.

Nothing to worry about, he was assured. Highways had checked the creek, its culvert was open, and the water on the road was just normal run-off. All was taken care of.

Such assurances were not too convincing when, at 4 p.m. Jack yelled "It's coming over!", and the water spread out from the creekbed, began its ascent up the wheels of the cars parked in the campground parking lot, and flowed into the basement of the building.

Alex got on the phone again.

No, the highways official tried to convince him, the creek is not flooding. We saw it at 2 p.m. and the water on the road is just run-off. There is no flood.

Not so, insisted Alex, and he was still arguing with the official when the water came in the door of this building and covered the floor.

Within half an hour of the creek overflowing its banks there was a foot of water around the pumps at European Motors, cars in the campground parking lot had water almost to the top of the wheel wells, and a mini-Niagara Falls was coursing its way into a two-foot deep gulch carved by the water into the gravel road next to European Motors. By this time it wasn't even raining any more.

District highways manager Tucker Forsythe told the Coast News the unseasonally early rains got the jump on the highways department by about two weeks.

"We had intended to deal with this all along", he said.

Plans had been made to install overflow culverts in Wilson Creek, which should prevent such floods, but work was waiting until after the Labour Day weekend so that most of the tourist traffic would have subsided. The work will necessitate tearing up the blacktop, and traffic will be reduced to one lane while the work progresses.

"We thought we were safe until October," said Forsythe.

The overflow culverts are a short-term solution, and Forsythe said the highways department must design a proper, long-term solution to the problem in consultation with the Department of Fisheries, as Wilson Creek is a fish-bearing stream.

The Department of Fisheries tends to favour bridges over streams, and a bridge over Wilson Creek would certainly solve the problem of flooding. However construction and maintenance costs are a major consideration.

Six sailings beginning September 19

Ferries to be cut 25%

by George Matthews

As a result of a B.C. Ferry Corporation board of directors meeting early last week, the winter ferry schedule between Langdale and Horseshoe Bay will be reduced from the eight daily sailings of last winter to only six sailings daily beginning Monday, September 19.

The tentative winter schedule has not yet been released, but it is expected that the schedule will include three morning sailings and three afternoon-evening sailings with no provision for a late night run.

Regional board transportation committee chairman John Shaske told the Coast News that ferry officials will meet with local municipal officials this Thursday at 10:15 a.m. in Gibsons council chambers to explain the new schedule.

MLA Don Lockstead, who has been discussing the proposed ferry cuts with officials in Victoria, told the Coast News that ferry corporation chairman Stu Hodgson has indicated that there may be "some flexibility" in the proposed schedule, but there is no indication whether this means the number of sailings might be increased or not.

Lockstead, who has been promoting the idea of making use of the small Queen of New Westminster on the Horseshoe Bay-Langdale run, said the ferry corporation seems to have taken "a hard-line stand" against using the Queen of New Westminster, even though its smaller size would make it a more efficient ship for this run than the Queen of Coquitlam.

Unconfirmed, preliminary data suggest that the Queen of Coquitlam has had an average winter user rate of under 30 per cent and it is believed that the low use rate may be used to justify the reduction in service.

Lockstead rejected the idea as insupportable, saying that by that logic, the Queen Mary would have a user rate of one per cent; but this only proves that a smaller ship making more frequent sailings would be more appropriate on this run.

Lockstead further suggested that since the Queen of Coquitlam is one of the ships sold to eastern financial interests, and because the ferry corporation was buying back the ships over an 18 year period, the corporation may be taking its stubborn position in order to justify the cost of rebuying the ships.

Regional board director Jon McRae told the Coast News that the reduction in service last winter was directly responsible for what he estimated to be a net population loss on the Coast of perhaps as much as five per cent, not to mention a doubling of available rental accommodation.

McRae said he believes the only recourse to the proposed cuts is lobbying by local municipal officials, interested groups and individual citizens. He recommended a letter writing campaign and organized citizen protest against the proposed cuts.

It is expected that local protest will wait until details of the proposed cuts in service are discussed at Thursday morning's meeting.

Marina project near

by Judith Wilson

The marina planned for Gibsons harbour will be completed by the summer of 1984 and possibly as early as May, according to Art McGinnis of Panorama Construction. His firm is building the marina adjacent to its major project, a 50,000 square foot "destination resort" hotel on Gower Point Road.

The marina project has moved faster than originally anticipated as federal government participation, in the form of dredging of the harbour and construction of a second breakwater, is already underway. An announcement is expected next week on the terms of provincial government financial involvement in the project, which are expected to be favourable.

Art McGinnis told the Coast News that preliminary drawings for the marina are complete. Work will begin as soon as the federal government operations are finished, which should be January or February.

Together, the marina and the hotel, which is the major part of the project for Panorama, will cost $9 million of which $1.3 million is the marina construction cost. McGinnis stated that his firm is actively working on finalizing the assembly of property and the financing plans for the hotel. The concept plans are already complete.

The hotel should be finished by the spring of 1985 which will allow nine months to refine operations before Expo year, 1986. McGinnis feels that the project will give "a new lease of life to Gibsons", particularly in view of Gibsons Centennial in 1986. "However, we will still be able to maintain our exclusivity here on the Coast," he said.

Other work being done around the bay in connection with the marina has been by the Provincial Archeological office. A field worker was sent from Victoria to determine whether any valuable archeological sites would be affected by excavation for the hotel or marina.

With the help of backhoes supplied by the municipality, Steve Cassidy was able to determine that there was little of value in the area where the marina will be built. There had been hopes of uncovering a "total homesite" according to Ferguson Neville of the local museum, but there was no evidence of a large midden or building structures. "Probably it was just a temporary summer camp for the Indians", he said, "Just a place to catch fish."

Further excavations will be carried out next year in the vicinity of the site for the new hotel. If an area is designated, and proved to be, a valuable historical site the Provincial Archeologist has the power to halt construction until excavations of the site by his office can be completed.

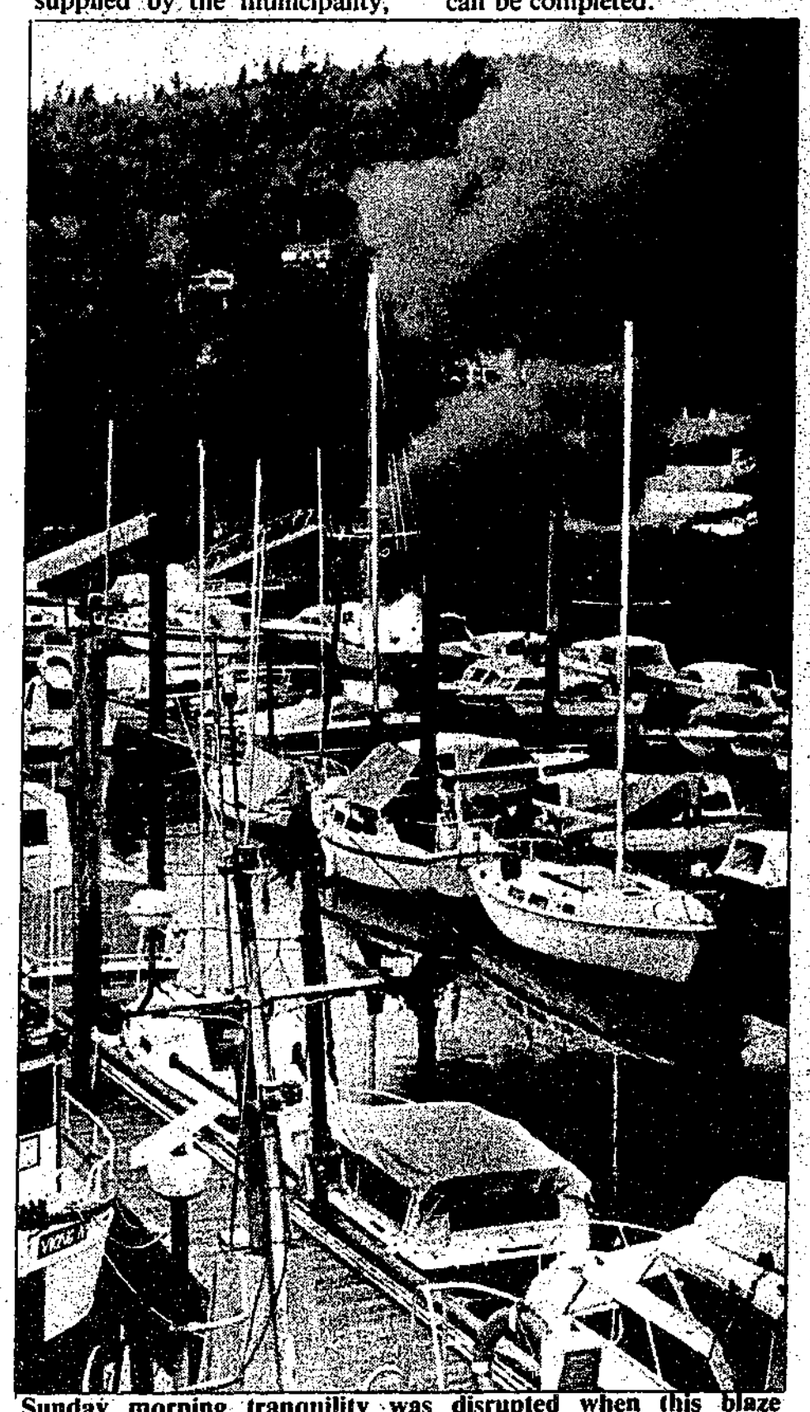
Boat burned

An early morning fire in Gibsons Harbour completely destroyed a 23 foot power boat owned by Jim Foglietta of Gibsons.

The fire, which broke out on board at approximately 7:40 a.m., was apparently started by a short circuit which caused sparks to ignite fuel in the engine.

The owner and his son were on board at the time, and were just starting the engine when the fire broke out. The boat was only purchased the day before; its value is estimated at between $10,000 and $15,000.

The Gibsons volunteer fire department responded quickly to the blaze which was extinguished within minutes.



Sunday morning tranquility was disrupted when this blaze erupted suddenly at Smitty's Marina, Gibsons. See story adjacent. —George Matthews photo

Frightening times

Somebody is lying to us about the alleged shooting down of an airliner last week. The Americans say they have tapes of Russian orders being given to fire a missile at the airliner. The Russians at the moment are saying they didn't shoot it down. Somebody is lying to us. In all likelihood it is both sides.

There is nothing new in this. There are those of us who remember a summit meeting between Khruschev and Eisenhower being cancelled when a spy plane was shot down 1,200 miles inside Russia back in the 1950s. President Eisenhower denied overflights until the Russians produced the plane and the pilot, who had disobeyed orders and failed to swallow cyanide if shot down.

Eisenhower was an honourable man and it is possible or even likely that when he denied overflights by spy planes he was telling the truth as he knew it.

We can also remember the Gulf of Tonkin incident in which a Vietnamese gunboat was alleged to have fired on an American boat. It swung the tide of American opinion behind increased American land involvement in Vietnam. Many years and lives later we learned that it never happened. It was a propaganda ploy.

The mystery of why this plane was so far off course has not been explained. It is possible that it was fitted with surveillance equipment and doubling as a spy plane. It is likely that the president of the United States did not know this.

It is possible that the people on board that plane were being used to camouflage spying activities by the plane. It is possible the incident was set as a provocation to discredit the international peace movement.

It is possible the military on both sides are at this point just about out of control, worn down by the protracted war of nerves which has been waged intermittently for almost 40 years. All that we know seems to be that people have been killed and we are being lied to. These are frightening times.

What's to be done?

To allow ferry service to our Coast to be slashed by 25 per cent from last winter's schedule is simply unacceptable.

There can be no question that the increasing isolation from the mainland caused by reductions in ferry service has been a direct contributor to declining land values and a loss of population. Any further isolation is bound to set our region back to those times before there was a government ferry service.

Coast resident, and ferry corporation director, Ken Sorko, has reportedly done the best he could to protect our interests. Ferry corporation chairman Stu Hodgson is said to be sympathetic to our plight. MLA Don Lockstead has been seeking alternative solutions for months.

It would appear to be left to concerned citizens to add their voices to the protest. While we certainly don't condone the kind of tasteless and counter productive demonstrations that hang people in effigy, it would seem to be the time for strong action.

If the provincial cabinet continues to refuse to be sensitive to the needs of Coast residents, then some organized demonstration, combined with letters and petitions, will have to be considered just to get the attention of the provincial government.

Red Cottage, later known briefly as Whitaker House, on the southeast corner of Cowrie Street and Inlet Avenue, Sechelt, between the years 1907 and 1911. The earlier date is established by the fact that Bert Whitaker had the cottage built for his sister Evelyn on the occasion of her marriage to H. Jack Haslett, on July 15, 1907. Three generations of their descendants live now on the Sunshine Coast. Mrs. Haslett is seated on the left side of the step beside her sister Muriel, later Mrs. Norman Thompson. The slender laywoman behind them is Edith May von Alvensleben, daughter of Captain Westcott, and wife of Alvo von Alvensleben whom she married in 1908. He is still frequently remembered for his investment of German capital in B.C. and his association with Wigwam Inn. When World War I broke out the von Alvenslebens fled to Seattle and were later interned in Salt Lake City. The latest date, 1912, is established by the fact that the Sisters of the Child Jesus wore the habits shown only until December 1912. The sisters came to B.C. from France in 1903 to prepare for the opening of the first Sechelt Indian school in 1904. Their talents and devotion contributed much to the school. They are, left to right, Sister Gonzales, Mother Teresine, principal of the school and after the First World War the head of her order world wide, an unidentified sister who may have returned to France, and Sister St. Ouen, known as the Saint of Sechelt. Musings

John Burnside

"Well, Jake," I said, "what do you think of Brian Mulroney?"

I had found the oldtimer enjoying an evening pipe on the beach. He and a few motionless seagulls were watching the play of light across the Gulf of Georgia where the sun, having played little obvious part in the day's drama, was nonetheless making a protracted and spectacular exit.

"Mixed feelings," said Jake and tapped the burnt residue of tobacco from his pipe.

"Well, let's start with the positives," said Jake. "The man is making some noises which are long overdue in the politics of this country. It is a testament to the futile bitterness which has characterized the reign of Marie Antoinette Trudeau when all Mulroney has to do is talk about civility and tolerance to be greeted with wild applause.

"Don't get me wrong. I applaud his insistence on the return of such virtues. The belligerent, gunslinger tactics of such as Bennett and Trudeau can lead nowhere but into trouble. The man deserves full marks for making that point early."

"Fair enough," said I. "What don't you like?"

"Economics. His economics," said Jake. "It's the same old pipe dream of tax incentives to the rich to get things going. John Kenneth Galbraith hit the nail right on the head when he called it the horse and sparrows approach to the economy."

"Explain, please."

"The theory seems to be that if you feed the horse enough oats he'll leave enough behind him on the road to feed the sparrows. Basically it's the same approach Reagan tried. You remember he was going to cut taxes to stimulate the economy and at the same time spend billions more on what he called defence.

"According to the theory the economy would grow at such a rate the extra spending could be accommodated and the government would also get rid of its deficit budget. What we have instead is the largest deficit in history and that deficit itself is the biggest single threat to the economy.

"When Mulroney talks about civility and tolerance he sounds like a man that we need to hear from. When he talks about economics he sounds like we've heard it too often before. But that's not the worst of it."

"So, what's the worst of it, Jake?"

"The worst of it is the reaction of the Canadian people. We're well down the road, now, towards total acceptance of the man on the white horse school of political non-understanding. You're old enough to remember Trudeaumania, aren't you?"

"Indeed, I am. I canvassed for Laurier Lapierre in the west end of Montreal Island in 1968. At every door I was told 'We're voting for Trudeau.' It did no good to point out Trudeau wasn't running in that riding. Some Liberal nonentity who'd been in parliament for seven years without being recorded by Hansard swept in on Trudeau's coat tails with the biggest majority in Canada. Yes, I remember Trudeau mania."

"Well, they're already starting to talk about Mulroney madness. right now it looks as though he'll be the next prime minister, possibly with as big a majority as Diefenbaker got 10 years before Trudeau danced into view.

"We never seem to learn, do we. Diefenbaker was going to be the man to turn the country around. Then Trudeau, and now it's going to be Mulroney. The whole damn country is like some sleeping princess waiting for the man on the white horse to ride up and with one kiss solve all the problems. It just ain't like that in the real world. God only know what it is they teach in the education factories but it sure as hell isn't either thinking or democracy."

There didn't seem too much more to say. Jake and I joined the gulls in silent contemplation of the setting sun.

Slings & Arrows

George Matthews

The first lesson to be learned from the tragic air disaster involving the alleged shooting down of a Korean commercial airliner by Soviet aircraft, is the dangers which evolve from the hysterical war-mongering rhetoric which has characterized Soviet-American relations over the past two or three years.

Detente has now apparently been discarded as an approach to peaceful coexistence, and in its place the American foreign policy hawks are committed to the approach that the threat of nuclear destruction is the only way to force the Soviets to the arms control table.

The terrible cost of this latter approach was the destruction of 269 apparently innocent civilians aboard the Korean 747. Is it any wonder that a people threatened by a variety of undetectable, nuclear missiles should become a little nervous when something that isn't supposed to be there blips onto the radar screen from somewhere on the wrong side of the polar ice cap?

Before any facts (most of which may never be known) were available, U.S. officials were screaming bloody murder, accusing the Soviets of barbarities unheard of in the course of human history.

As later facts revealed, the Korean aircraft was very far from where it ought to have been, flying over Soviet military installations, on a path similar to one admittedly being followed by an American spy plane.

If the Soviets deliberately shot down what they clearly knew to be an unarmed civilian aircraft, then surely it was a heinous act and civilized people everywhere should condemn its barbarity. But what we observed, before any facts were known was a kind of political knee-jerk reaction by people who were clearly using the incident for selfish political ends.

Much of the initial reaction strained credibility. As someone mentioned the other day, if the American government possesses satellites so sophisticated that they can detect the brand of cigars Fidel Castro is smoking from hundreds of miles in the air, how come what happened to the 747 is such a mystery? How possibly could that plane have gone so far off course?

Current technology on these aircraft, and on the ground, is so precise that a triple-fail system would make it impossible to go off course without it instantly being known and reported.

I'm not a Russian apologist; I dislike totalitarianism and mass manipulation as much or more than the next person, but I could believe that the Korean plane was deliberately off course for some reason of provocation or actual observation sooner than I could believe it was off course by accident.

The real point here however, is that the people who died on board that airplane were as much the victims of the threats and rhetoric of the cold war as of the alleged Soviet air to air missile.

If we continue to stand still while our leaders make absurd political posturings and threaten the Soviets with missiles as well as words, then the kind of terrible incident which occured last week, and worse, is bound to occur again.

Better our leaders should keep their mouths shut and their ears open and try to learn the lesson of this tragedy: that in a tense, antagonistic environment, mistakes and over reactions are bound to occur.

If, on the other hand, the facts eventually indicate that the Soviets were directly at fault, then reverting to the time-honoured principle of one for one ought to be observed. I don't mean shooting down an unarmed Soviet airliner, but declaring Canadian and American air space off limits to all unauthorized Soviet aircraft, issuing a stern warning of the consequences of violating that airspace, and then taking the same kind of action the Soviets allegedly took.

In the meantime, it's time to cool down, not to talk of "nuking the Ruskies" as was suggested by 40 per cent of callers to a San Francisco talk-show last week. An adding to the already charged atmosphere of Soviet-American relations will only make similar tragedies more likely to happen again.

Immortality

Year after year my neighbour saved the seeds from his very best tomato plant and planted them the following season.
In this way he evolved
a superior strain of the plant.
He gave me the seeds

My childless neighbour died during the winter.
But in my garden
his seed lives on.

Letters to the Editor

Put that glass down

Editor,

It is just one year ago that a lovely senior couple were on holiday together, when a drunk plowed into them.

The lady was instantly killed. Her husband was so badly smashed up that he has not, and probably never will, recover.

Yes! We know, it happens often, but when it is in the family, the hurt is very deep.

Another, closer relative to the victims, a gentle, caring lady, is markedly worn, even more than the other members of the family. But, everyday we are all subjected to the insane booze propoganda in the media. They want more and more outlets! How intelligent people can allow this irresponsible greed for money to endanger the young, is beyond me.

We are well aware that a large number of fine people drink in moderation.

I believe that fact to be, often, why many a boy or girl takes his or her first drink and some of these youngsters will most certainly become alcoholics: "Am I my brother's keeper?"

That boy or girl is watching you! Starting today, become a Total Abstainer. You will never miss it.

More on abortion

Editor,

I would like to comment on, and answer some statements made in the recent letter to your paper on abortion.

Beginning with Grannie Anderson's letter, I would express concern for the negative effect harsh and self righteous attitude has upon the pro-life witness. A good rule to remember is to speak the truth in love.

In answer to Val Jenkins on the need of abortion in the case of rape, she may be interested to know; "Though cited by pro-abortionist, pregnancy resulting from rape is so rare as to be virtually non existent.[50] There are several factors contributing to this, in addition to the mathemathical odds against pregnancy resulting from a single random act, medical research indicated that an extremely high percentage of women exposed to severe emotional trauma will not ovulate.[51] The rape itself therefore, acts as a psychological birth control. Moreover rapists are frequently not fertile because of other aberrant sexual behavior. The result of all these combined factors make pregnancy by rape highly unlikely.[52]

Spending never higher

Editor,

Jack Davis, MLA, in a recent letter to the editor, is quite right when he says that "B.C. government spending is at an all time high".

B.C. government spending—of taxpayers' money—is at an all time high because Mr. Davis' government, the Socreds, have increased the budget this year by 16.7 per cent over last year's budget and have re-stated last year's figures to hide this fact.

B.C. government spending of the taxpayers' money has increased by more than 85 per cent since Mr. Curtis became the minister of finance, indicating a complete inability to handle the taxpayers' money in a responsible fashion.

The Socreds have been on a spending binge for at least the last four years.

The question which needs to be answered by the Socred government is this: where did all that money go and where is the massive 16.7 per cent increase in this year's budget going?

John Selden, were he alive today, would find his statement " 'Tis not the drinking that is to be blamed, but the excess", to be right on.

Gibsons Garden Club

Editor,

You may be aware that a successful Garden Club has been in operation in Sechelt for some years. Quite a number of people in the Gibsons and Langdale area want to belong to a garden club, but are unable to drive to Sechelt in the winter.

A club can be started in Gibsons. Fees will be moderate and the exchange of ideas and plants could prove interesting and beneficial.

A meeting will be held in the Marine Room, (below the library), on South Fletcher at 7 p.m. on Thursday, September 8.

Exploiters and the exploited

Editor,

In view of the furor over Bill Bennett's anti-labour legislation and the obvious union-smashing tactics of the forestry industry, I would like to share with our community a song written in the 1940s which I think is relevant to both "Labour Day" and today's current political strife.

Why Should You

The Company is good to me,
I'm afraid to join the Union.
They cut my pay and I agree;
I'm afraid to join the Union.
My wages, they are so high,
My family's starving; so am I-
I'm afraid to join the Union.

I get the lowest pay on earth;
I'm afraid to join the Union.
I'm paid exactly what I'm worth;
I'm afraid to join the Union.
I think the Company is fair;
They lay me off but I don't care;
My kids object, but I don't care-
I'm afraid to join the Union.

We're stupid and the boss is wise.
I am afraid to join the Union.
And so they help us organize.
I belong to the Company Union.
The Company tries hard to please
Us simple minded employees;
They even pay our lawyers fees.
I belong to the Company Union.

We never talk of workers' rights.
I belong to the Company Union.
They tell us that it leads to fights.
I belong to the Company Union.
The Company has always said
That men who talk like that are Red.
We listen to the Boss instead.
I belong to the Company Union.

Each year we have a swell affair.
I belong to the Company Union.
The bosses and their wives are there.
I belong to the Company Union.
They give us food and lots of beer,
But one thing does seem mighty queer,
We eat that good but once a year.
I belong to the Company Union.

There is no use going on this way-
Then down with the Company Union.
Did you hear what we have to say?-
Join up with the I.W.A.
We're wise to what it's all about,
So let's all sing out-
To boost our pay a dollar a day,
We'll all join up with the I.W.A.

So now you see it's up to you.
You know what we all can do-
Organize wherever we may be
And march ahead with our brother employee.
Don't debate, it's not too late;
The I.W.A. has opened the gate
For better wages, conditions and security;
All join hands and show your solidarity.

"Green-chain Pete"

To finish this letter, I would like to close with a quote from a labour organizer of the 1930s, Sam Scarlett: "Society is divided into two classes...the exploiter and the exploited...between them there is nothing in common..."

Covering the Coverage

by Jim Ansell

After your claim is settled: Most residential insurance policies have an automatic reinstatement clause in them. This means that although your amount of coverage will be reduced by the amount of the claim you've made the coverage limits will automatically go back up to where they were prior to the claim. However, as not all policies are like this, and certain sections of some policies do not have automatic reinstatement, it is best to check with your agent to ensure that your coverage limits have been returned to adequate levels.

Most people are aware that in automobile insurance if a liability or collision claim is made against your policy your premium will increase the following year. This is not the case in residential insurance. Claims made against your policy will not increase your premiums.

In memoriam - Ernie Booth

by Peggy Connor

It was a very special kind of man who passed away Saturday, August 27. Ernie Booth of Sechelt was that man.

Ernie took part in helping any community he was in, besides working hard at his job with the Bank of Montreal. Sechelt was fortunate to have him posted to the bank here. He was always thinking of other people.

A strong supporter of St. Mary's Hospital, serving as treasurer of the building committee, he also served an extra term as chairman of St. Mary's Hospital Society Board.

He was alderman for the Sechelt Village council for four years during Harold Nelson's mayoralty term, and was third vice-president of the Sechelt Senior Citizen's Assocation Branch #69.

Ernie served for many years as trustee for the Sechelt Volunteer Fire Department. Working along with Dick Branca and other trustees he helped the new firehall come into being, a fine structure enhancing Sechelt as well as serving a most useful purpose.

Born in Austin, Manitoba, he met his wife Elva when he worked in the bank in Regina.

Besides Elva he leaves three sons, Ken, Terry and Clint, a sister Winnifred and brothers Wilfred and Keith.

Donations in his memory may be sent to St. Mary's Hospital, Sechelt. A private service only will be held, as this was his desire.

The Booths were waiting for Elva to see an eye doctor when Ernie died very suddenly.

COMMODORE TO NEWPORT

Commodore Don and Mary Macdonald of West Sechelt have just returned from Newport, Rhode Island, the present site for the America's Cup races.

They were very impressed with all the activity taking place surrounding the challengers and defenders, and attended a very gala affair at a grand old heritage home. They were thinking of how all this would come about if Canada One were to win the cup, and the changes it would effect at Secret Cove, home of the Secret Cove Yacht Club. When the America's Cup race first started, Newport was a small seaside resort much similar to Secret Cove.

Congratulating the Canada One team on its efforts personally for a job well done, Don says the team is already thinking ahead to the next America's Cup races. They certainly did well for their first attempt.

Roberts Creek

Bang-up opening

by Jeanie Norton, 886-9609

It was a "bang-up" affair but not quite the "smashing" evening the new owners intended for the opening of the "The Gibsons Inn" (better known to locals as "The Penn Hotel"). Many people took exception to the enforcement of a dress code, but one driver decided to "crash" the party and rammed his motorhome into over a dozen vehicles in the parking lot.

Several of the cars were badly damaged and six had to be towed away. The Roberts Creek Fire Department was called out as there were a couple of gas tanks leaking and a connection on the propane tank of the offending camper was broken.

Inside, the pub hadn't changed much except for a fresh coast of paint and the removal of some partitions. But there were a lot of people out to hear the band, try someplace different, and have a good time.

AUXILIARY MEETING

Legion auxiliary members are reminded that the September general meeting is next Monday, September 11.

GOLDEN OLDIES

Last weekend was a landmark occasion for at least two Roberts Creek residents. Legion secretary Phil Sheridan celebrated his 70th birthday Friday afternoon with some friends at the legion while Denny James skipped town for this 40th on Saturday. Best wishes, fellas, you're not over the hill yet.

SAD LOSS

The sudden loss of Madeleine Grose was a shock to us all. She was such a lively person, active in so many things. Her enthusiasm and vitality will be greatly missed by the community and all who know her.

FOUND BY HORSE

You may have noticed the "danger" sign at the side door of the fire hall. They've been looking for the septic tank. It was Colleen Mulligan's horse that found it.

NEW RECORDS

Do my eyes deceive me? No, there are actually some new songs on the legion's jukebox. Any requests?

Last week's Synchro Swim Camp concluded with a display of the graceful musical routines developed by the participants. Several of the coaches show the younger girls the standard that won the silver medal at the Western Canada Games. —Judith Wilson photo

Synchronized swimmers here

Twenty-four synchro swimmers aged nine to 16 years from various swim clubs in the lower mainland last week attended the 2nd Annual Synchro Swim Camp in Gibsons.

Organised and run by Nancy Lyman, ex-Canadian National swimmer who has coached at the junior national level for the last 10 years, the camp also featured five girl coaches all of whom are national swimmers, two at the senior level and three at the junior level. These coaches were part of the synchro swim team which won a silver medal at the Western Canada Games in Calgary at the end of July.

Another well-known synchro swimmer associated with the camp was Biz Price who has just retired from the Canadian National team.

The participating swimmers spent the week improving their flexibility and strength through land and water work-outs, and practising their musical routines and figures several times a day.

Solidarity report

by Jim McDowell

Fifteen members of the local Solidarity Coalition's steering committee held their first meeting August 31 in Gibsons and formed working committees that will carry out the eight-week education campaign developed by its parent body—the Solidarity Coalition Assembly.

The assembly, composed of representatives from provincial organizations (eg. teachers, disabled, women, etc.), regional coalitions (eg. this coalition), and observers (especially union spokesmen connected with Operation Solidarity), held its first strategy session August 30 in Burnaby. About 200 delegates ratified the two-month education campaign highlighting seven themes and featuring a province-wide petition drive to get Premier Bennett to withdraw his entire "repressive, anti-democratic" legislation. The signature-gathering effort will end October 31.

Locally, the petition and information about the protest will be distributed each weekend at shopping malls starting September 10. An intensive two-week "petition blitz" is planned for mid-October, climaxed by an entertainment event.

To broaden the base of people who understand the negative impact of the government's legislation, the coalition will stress a different theme each week. Next week's theme is human rights.

The Sunshine Coast Coalition is one of five regional chapters that send representatives to the assembly. Each local coalition must follow guidelines set down by the parent body.

No action is planned here for "human rights week", but the local Unemployment Action Centre will be developing ways to bring attention to the plight of workers and the unemployed during the week of September 11-17.

The local steering committee, well-represented by unions, is seeking more involvement from community groups. Chairman Hans Penner welcomes all interested persons to attend the next meeting on September 7 at 7:30 p.m. in St. Bartholomew's Church Hall at North Road and Highway 101 in Gibsons.

Register for dance this week

Mountain Dance Centre, a Vancouver based, professional dance company, in association with local dance patrons Loretta Copping, Pam Boothroyd and Twilight Theatre, are pleased to announce that the dance programme (ballet, modern, jazz, at all levels), will be under the direction of Mountain Dance Centre.

Jean Orr, former Prima Ballerina of the Royal Winnipeg Ballet, will be Ballet Mistress.

Janine Kandborg, now teaching also for Mountain Dance in Vancouver, will still be with us for jazz and tap.

Registration for all of the above classes will be Friday, September 9 from 3-6 p.m. in the theatre foyer, or phone 886-2989.

MARIE GRACIE SCHOOL OF DANCING

Marie will be here, as previously announced, for registration of her classes in acro and spanish dance on Tuesday, September 6 from 3-6 p.m. in the theatre foyer, or phone 886-2989.

Marie has been teaching here for the past five years. Many of her dancers have won awards in dance festivals. They also perform at the PNE, Kitsilano Show Boat, on TV and at local events such as Timber Days and Sea Cavalcade.

More on abortion

actually add one traumatic experience to another? What is needed is immediate understanding, counselling and medical care for the mother. As well as support from friends, relatives and community.

Before leaving this subject note, "A study of 1000 rape victims who were treated right after rape reported no pregnancies." So an appeal can be made for educating women to seek immediate medical help after a true rape, rather than educating women that abortion is the only answer.

Secondly, the point referring to a case of herpes, addresses another major misconception of our day. Young people have bought the myth that you can somehow be sexually responsible and have multiple bed partners.

Responsible sexually is expressed in loving one person in the intimacy of the sexual union, preferably in the security of marriage. Where two people are equipped by their mutual love for one another, to take responsibility for the outcome of their sexual relationship, children. Herpes is a disease that is the outcome of sexual irresponsibility.

In such cases as herpes in pregnancy, the medical solution is a Caesarean section, if the herpes sore is present at the time of labour and delivery, to secure the life and health of the baby.

Thirdly, does abortion reduce child abuse? No. According to an exhaustive seven year study of 764 battered children by Dr. E. Lenowski, at the University of Southern California 90 per cent of those battered children were wanted by their parents at the time of conception. It was factors other than unwantedness (such as unrealistic expectations for the child and inadequate parenting skills) which accounted for the battering.

Dr. Philip Ney head of the Department of Psychiatry at Royal Jubilee Hospital in Victoria indicated in an 1979 article (Can. J. Psychiatry Vol. 24) "that the rate of increase in child abuse parallels that of abortion in Canada."

With abortion on demand, and only wanted children being born, why is child abuse increasing. Abortion hasn't stopped child abuse. Abortion is battering in the womb, the earliest and most violent form of child abuse.

Abortion is only excusable and justified when the mothers life is threatened, (e.g. a tubal pregnancy). With the present medical and technological advances other previously life threatening conditions are very rare.

Basically we need to do some real soul searching and face facts, that abortion is only an answer because we as people are too selfish to live and give of ourselves for the well being and happiness of others. (Namely the unborn). Those that offer abortion as a solution to a pregnant woman, rather than themselves in love, time, and money, are not her friends but her enemies.

In closing, let me echo, Perry Drummond, in praise and thanks to this newspaper for the space given and openness to the letters written addressing this serious subject.

Thank you.

Bettie Weatherill

Kerbis band fund

A senior citizen, who wishes to remain anonymous, has made a donation to the Gibsons Elementary School Band in memory of Friede Kerbis, feeling that supporting children's understanding of music and harmony would be appropriate.

Other donations have also been received.

Ken Ireson, the teacher in charge of the Band, feels these monies should go towards an instrument which will be a permanent remembrance, rather than being spent on maintenance or a band trip.

Donations to the Friede Kerbis Fund can be sent to Ken Ireson at Gibsons Elementary School.

Coast Guard goes

by Jane McOuat 883-9342

COAST GUARD FAREWELL

It's good-bye to the Coast Guard for another winter. This season was just about as busy as last year. With Labour Day weekend still to finish, a sure bet for breakdowns and overdues, they answered 91 calls in the approximately four months they were here.

Breakdowns comprise their largest number of calls with 46, next is overdue at 11. Eight fires is up this year, six agrounds, five sinkings and five medical evacuations round out the major statistics.

Just because we don't have a local Coast Guard station over the winter doesn't mean we're not covered. A hovercraft is on stand-by in Parksville all winter and we still have Rescue Co-ordination Centre to call at 732-4141 in the case of any marine emergency.

I was lucky enough to have a short but fabulous ride on the hovercraft last week and let me tell you - it's no slug, nor its crew. Coast Guard, Walter, Kim and all the trainees, thanks for a safer summer and see you next year.

ENHANCEMENT COURSE

Malaspina College and the Department of Fisheries and Oceans are offering a five night course in their Salmonid Enhancement Program. Running from September 13 to 17 inclusive at Chatelech senior high it will include adult salmon capture, egg take and incubation techniques. The course will end with a day field trip. The fee is $25, payable the first night and there are no prerequisites. For more info call John Lewis at 883-2313.

FUN 'N GAMES

Down at Lord Jim's where they're always thinking up things to do besides lifting your glass, they've come up with a good one. It's a Fun 'n Games Night starting on Tuesday, September 13 at 8 p.m. It's to run every second Tuesday for the winter. They'll have crib, backgammon, card games, pool tourney, Trivial Pursuit, Monopoly, dominoes and more. If you have a favourite bring it to share as this really sounds like fun. Phone 885-2232 to guarantee space.

FIREMEN'S BALL

As you may have heard, the Firemen's Ball will be held at the Madeira Park Hall September 24. Tickets are $25 per couple or $12.50 per head for an always great dinner and dance, and may be purchased from R & M Auto, Oaktree Market, the Pharmacy and good old Taylor's Store. The band will be Pegasus.

FIRE PERMITS

One note about fires, (ha! it's not what you think). We're still in a fairly high hazard period, even after that rain so be sure to phone either chief for a burning permit. In Madeira Park it's Ron Murdock at R & M Auto 883-9677 and in Garden Bay it's Bob Fielding at Garden Bay Marine Services 883-2722.

SEAWATCH LAUNCH

Last Sunday, though it just poured all day, was a Top Dog day for quite a few people. We all turned out to witness the launching of the Top Dog II, a new 34' boat built at Bill Knutson's Headwater Marina by Larry Barnes of P & H Marine Contracting, Rick Ion and Steve Warner. It will be the newest and nicest of the CKNW Seawatch Charters fleet.

PLAYSCHOOL REGISTRATION

Playschools are starting up again. In Garden Bay, registration for the Garden Bay Tot Lot will take place at Irvine's Landing Hall on September 6 from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. This is for all children up to five years.

For more info call Anita Bathgate at 883-9343. In Madeira Park registration for the Serendipity Playschool (ages three to five) will be at Miss Sunny's Hair Boutique September 6 to 9. Serendipity begins September 19. For more info call Corinne at 883-9123.

Incidentally, I ran into Goofy in the office of the I.G.A. yesterday. Yes, Peter was there also and he told me they would take entry forms for one month, then have a draw so that some child would win Goofy. Have a boo in the office when you walk by. If he doesn't have a bright red and blue outfit, a happy face and big floppy ears then it's not Goofy. Somehow that reminds me of the old CKLG "Harris Report".

BAKE BREAK

Rachel, the bakerlady of Garden Bay will be tapering her great home baking off this month, then will spend October onwards in Vancouver. I'm not sure whether to eat all I can while she's still with us and baking, or whether to wean myself as she winds down so the transition from cinnamon buns to fitness class isn't so traumatic. Times like these make me wish Mr. Ed (the talking horse) would come back in reruns more often.

YOOHOO!

Has anyone seen my keys on a yellow plastic clip?

Charges laid in parking lot incident

A 45 year old Vancouver man was arrested and held overnight in a local cell following a disturbance call received by police from the newly opened Gibsons Inn, formerly called the Peninsula Hotel.

Charges of impaired driving are pending against the man after he dangerously drove his Winnebago motorhome in the inn's parking lot, hitting 14 vehicles and causing damages totalling $30,000.

He also faces charges of driving dangerously and of mischief. His companion, a Toronto man, is also facing charges of mischief.

Peace

Now that they have finally trundled off for most of the day and you have a few moments with that rare creative silence, why don't you—as soon as you've re-discovered yourself invite some friends over and have an adult taste treat. Lunch with the grown ups! What a way to spend your day. There is more to lunch time, you lovely people, than chicken noodle soup and peanut butter!

Asian Chicken

1 medium chicken
1 cup yogurt
¼ cup whipping cream
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon black pepper
1 teaspoon chilli powder
1 teaspoon hot curry powder
1 inch piece fresh ginger
1 large onion
2 cloves garlic
2 cardamons
½ cup cooking oil
2 tomatoes
½ cucumber

1. Cut the chicken into serving pieces and prick the skin with a fork. Place in a mixing bowl.
2. Prepare the onion, chop finely. Peel the ginger and chop finely. Crush the cardamons.
3. Mix all ingredients except oil, tomatoes and cucumber. Pour over the chicken pieces and leave for 2 hours. Stir occasionally.
4. Heat the oil and fry the chicken pieces for 30 minutes or until cooked. Drain and keep hot.
5. Pour the marinade into the frying pan. Bring to the boil and pour over the chicken.
6. Garnish with sliced tomatoes and cucumber and serve immediately with plain rice.

Spaghetti with Presto Sauce

1 pound spaghetti

2 cloves garlic, chopped
½ cup finely chopped fresh basil
½ cup finely chopped fresh parsley
1 tablespoon chopped walnuts
½ cup grated parmesan
¼ cup olive oil butter
extra parmesan
freshly ground pepper to taste

If you have a food processor—lucky you—just shove garlic, basil, parsley, walnuts, parmesan and oil in together and whizz—hey presto—your sauce! Otherwise —improve your muscle tone and chop everything really finely, then mix.

Boil your spaghetti in the usual way. Drain. Put in bowls or plates. Mix as much presto sauce in as you wish, then top with extra parmesan and a knob of butter. Serve with a green salad, Italian dressing and don't forget a bottle of vino. And try grating your own parmesan—you'd be surprised how much better it tastes.

Here's to civilized adult moments in life!

SHOP TALK — New Beginnings

by Bill Edney

This week school opens, and for many a youngster this new school term ushers in a new kind of world—a new way of life. Some will be bold and outgoing, while others will be shy and withdrawn.

I can well remember my first day at school. As a country farm boy and being driven to town to go to school with all those strange kids,—I was scared. In fact, I was so scared, that recess saw me disappear into a nearby roadside culvert, where I hid until school was out. Then I would start to walk toward home and was met by my grandfather coming into town with horse and buggy to take me home. Needless to say school authorities and Grandpa soon got together over this daily game play!

And, because I was a shy, country boy, I got lots of attention from the class bullies. This experience caused me to lose all confidence in myself and interest in school. My grades were poor, which went on until grade 8. By this time we had moved to the city, after Grandma died, and if anything, matters grew worse, until the new term after Christmas.

A new principal was assigned to our school. His name was Mr. Hamilton, and although the names of most of my teachers now escape me, his never will.

Although I was practically last in my class standing, he sought me out, discovered my problem and with encouragement and some after school help, got me on track.

By Easter break, as a result of test papers, I stood 15th (out of 35 that is) in my class. By June, I was near the top in class standing. This man made a life-long impression on me in just a few months, for he was no longer my teacher as I went on to high school, after passing my government exams.

Someone once said, "If the pupil hasn't learned, the teacher hasn't taught." This may be a bit harsh, and certainly not always true, but theirs can be both a challenging and rewarding experience.

To all the new beginners in whatever grade, and teachers, too,—may you all have a great beginning and a happy ending.

Shadbolt show

by Belinda MacLeod 886-7592

The new exhibition at the Arts Centre, Sechelt consists of collages by Jack Shadbolt and screenprints by Greta Guzek.

Jack Shadbolt, an artist with an international reputation, produced a brilliant series of collages in 1979 inspired by photographs from classic fashion magazines. Thanks to the generosity of the Bau Xi Gallery in Vancouver, we are able to show some of these dramatic and mysteriously evocative works.

Since coming to the Coast a year ago Greta Guzek has become well known here for her delightful screenprints usually exhibited at the Hunter Gallery.

There will also be a small selection of brand new ceramics by Gerry McBride

Reminder: Registration forms for the Fifth Annual Sunshine Coast Juried Art Exhibition are available at the Arts Centre, Hunter Gallery and all craft and book stores. Deadline for entry is October 16.

We are back to winter hours at the Arts Centre: Wednesday thru Saturday 11 a.m. - 4 p.m. Sundays 1 - 4 p.m.

Lament for the Western Part 1

If there is one aspect of present-day film-making that saddens me more than any other, it is the apparently total demise of the western. I am referring to the classic western, represented by such great films as High Noon, Shane, The Searchers and The Ox-Box Incident. The low-budget potboilers deserved to be phased-out and will not be missed. But the potential of the form was always vast. Armed with a literate script and a hand-picked cast, such directors as John Ford were able to create authentic masterpieces. But in the past decade, there have been few westerns made and the entire genre seems to have died with its boots on.

Ironically enough, the film generally considered to be the first true motion picture made in America, was a western. Entitled The Great Train Robbery, it was produced for the Thomas Edison Company in the pathless wastelands of New Jersey in 1903. There had been a number of plotless vignettes prior to this but Train Robbery actually boasted a primitive storyline. Only 10 minutes in length, it introduced the chase scene to movies and even anticipated the 3-D gimmickry of decades later by having one of the robbers fire directly at the camera, reportedly eliciting screams from the unsophisticated audiences.

From such humble beginnings, the film industry burgeoned apace and the western grew right along with it. "Bronco Billy" Anderson, a vaudeville veteran and a bit-player in Train Robbery, became the first western hero. His films were simplistic melodramas, totally devoid of subtle shading. Anderson invariably played the simon-pure protagonist pitted against a series of relentlessly-base villains. Good, needless to say, always triumphed. These naive stereotypes set the tone for thousands of bad b-westerns to come.

Curiously, Al Jennings, another minor star of this period, had been an actual western outlaw—the last of the famous train robbers. After serving a couple of years in prison, Jennings went into partnership with the very man who had captured him—Bill Tilghman, a famous western lawman. Together they made a film called The Bank Robbery with Jennings starring and Tilghman doubling as director and cameraman. Despite their firsthand knowledge of the subject, however, they were no film-makers and the picture was not a success. Tighlman went back to catching criminals but Jennings stayed with the industry, working both as an actor and a technical advisor.

A number of actual western characters worked in the early silents, perhaps most notably, Buffalo Bill Cody. The old plainsman made five films between 1909 and 1915, including a massive history of the Plains Indian wars called From the Warpath to the Peace Pipe. This unique, extremely-long and enormously-expensive picture was filmed on the actual locations of the battles, using as many of the surviving participants as could be found. Unfortunately, no prints of this epic still exist but it must have been the most authentic western of all time.

Ministers on the move

United Church

The summer months have been busy times for the United Church at Gibsons and in Davis Bay, with many interesting Sunday visitors and an unusually large number of church weddings. One special guest was a member of the World Council of Churches, who came to the council's sixth assembly in Vancouver from Indonesia.

The Reverend Alex Reid and his wife Molly, will be taking a portion of their vacation in mid-September, no doubt trying to find some peaceful moments to celebrate their thirty-fifth wedding anniversary.

On September 11 the congregations of both Gibsons and St. John's will welcome as a visiting minister, the Reverend Wes Bray, who returns to West Howe Sound from his home in Clearbrook.

Sunday school at both churches should be in full operation at 9:30 a.m. on September 11. The recent expansion at St. John's has provided much better accomodation for children and teachers and with summer holidays finished, both congregations are looking forward to an influx of youngsters.

The Sunshine Coast welcomes two well-known and highly respected United Church professionals as permanent residents. Dr. Nora E. Neilson moved to Gibsons in June from Toronto, where she served for the last 14 years as senior editor for the United Church Division of Communications. In this capacity she has visited, and published articles on the work of the church in all of Canada's provinces and territories. Last year she wrote of her trip to Costa Rica, Panama and Brazil. For several years after her training and designation as deaconess, Miss Neilson was on the staff of Ryerson United, Vancouver. This year Nora Neilson decided to take an early retirement and is enjoying being close to her first love, "the sea and mountains of the West Coast" and happy to be living in the same area as her brother Jim of Point Road.

Another well-loved B.C. United Church deaconess has reached retirement age. After a ministry of 34 years, Miss Jessie Oliver has taken up permanent residence in her waterfront home at Mission Point in Wilson Creek. After her graduation, Jessie Oliver worked with Native Indians at Ahousat, the Queen Charlottes, Vancouver, Chilliwack, Port Alberni and Powell River. For the last eight years she has been on the ministerial staff of St. Andrew's United Church, North Vancouver. Since Miss Oliver has been spending her summer vacations in this area for many years, she is well known and will receive a warm welcome from her friends of the St. John's congregation.

On the Seafood Platter

by Chak-Chak

For many years Davis Bay has been a popular fishing spot. Quite a few local people keep a small boat on the beach, ready for launching when the salmon are running. Other species, of course, are caught as well, including tropical sun fish, according to Peggy Connor in her column last week.

Mr. Charles Brookman was greatly responsible for the popularity of wharf fishing in Davis Bay and many tourists visit here each year in order to cast their lines from the vantage point at the seaward end of the wharf.

The Charles Brookman Fishing Derby, each August, gives the kids a chance to fish and win a few prizes also. The new Bella Beach Motel and the appropriately named Wharf Restaurant, are right where the action is, and if you are not able to catch your fish you can dine on great seafood in the restaurant and watch the lucky ones haul in their catch.

Here is a chance for you, dear reader, to get in on the action! Correctly name the bird on the new restaurant's logo, and send your name and address to Chak-Chak, c/o the Coast News, Box 460, Gibsons, or drop it in to the Bella Beach Motel office. The correct names will be put into a box and drawn at a later date, with the winner receiving a free dinner at the Wharf Restaurant, compliments of Mr. and Mrs. Rindt.

Here is a recipe for your lunch or a hasty, tasty dinner, using local shrimp and homegrown produce.

Shrimp Davis Bay

4 crumpets
4 slices zucchini (¼" x 3-4")
⅓-½ lb. cooked shrimp
8 oz. small carrots (garden fresh) cheese sauce (2 cups)
a few strands fresh fill, sprig of parsley.

Method:

Scrub carrots and steam 'til crunchy. Make cheese sauce (a thin white sauce with 2 cups grated cheese and ½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce added). Pre-heat shrimp (do not cook). Pre-heat slices of zucchini in toaster, place on heated plates and keep warm.

Toast and butter crumpets, place on top of zucchini slices.

Mound shrimp on crumpets and pour cheese sauce over.

Serve with steamed carrots alongside. Garnish carrots with dill and shrimp with parsley (or mint). If you can get shrimp or small prawns in the shell and lightly saute them just before serving them—super! Try it!

Sea you.

COURAGE

Some sports require good fitness, strength, co-ordination, teamwork, and yes, courage. Rugby may be the best example of this kind of game.

The Gibsons Rugby Club has won the Vancouver Rugby Union Fourth Division Championship for the last two years, and this year has accepted elevation to the Third Division.

We Want You!

We practise every Tuesday and Thursday at the Elphinstone School Field, 6:30 p.m.

If you have played before, or are interested in learning, please join us.

Rugby is a very social game. If you participate in our training on September 6, 6:30 p.m., we will be pleased to provide free refreshments afterwards.

New league for rugby club

The Gibsons Rugby Club has now started training for the 1983-84 season. While the club represents a fairly small population base as compared to its competition in the Vancouver Rugby Union, it has won the fiercely competitive Fourth Division Championship for two years in a row, beating the well-known Meraloma Club in the finals both times.

This year the team has been elevated to the Third Division and will be playing against all the Vancouver Rugby Union clubs. This will be a great challenge. The first game of the season will be Saturday, September 10, at 11:30 a.m., at the Elphinstone High School playing field. The first opponent will be the Capilano Rugby Club's Third Division team. It should prove to be a hard, physical game and will be a good test of fitness.

The Gibsons Rugby Club has a new coach this year. John Sutherland has recently moved from Vancouver to Sechelt. In Vancouver, he had been a coach at Magee High School since 1970, at the Meraloma Club since 1979, and he coached the Vancouver Rugby Union Under 17 Representative team in 1982.

Rugby is a very social game and provides an opportunity for participants to reach a high level of physical fitness while getting to know men in their communities and around B.C. The Gibsons Rugby Club trains every Tuesday and Thursday at Elphinstone School at 6:30 p.m. with games being played at the same place or on various fields in Greater Vancouver on Saturdays.

The club would welcome the participation of more people in the programme and in fact will be holding an open practice on September 6, 1983 at 6 p.m. at the Elphinstone field, with free refreshments afterwards. If you are interested in finding out more please call John Sutherland at 885-3519 days, 885-5426 evenings, or come out to any practice.

Grant wins again

by Ernie Hume

Once again our ladies club champion easily defeated the field in a decisive three-day tournament for the club championship. Connie Grant continued her winning ways with a 245 score for the three rounds. Virginia Douglas took runner-up spot with a score of 262. Low aggregate for the three days was Isobel Rendleman with a low net 202.

In the first flight low gross was Dodie Grant and Wilma Sim shot a low net 205. Second flight winners were Barbara Mercer 310 low gross and Helen Milburn low net 225. Following the presentations the ladies enjoyed a wine and cheese party on the clubhouse deck, wine courtesy of Tiffany Light Wines Ltd.

At the Mixed Twilight on August 29 a two-ball best ball event was won by the team of Ed Matthews and Vic Marteddu. September 12 will be the wind-up of the Mixed Twilight group, rain or shine. Those planning to attend must sign in before September 5 to allow the committee time to organize catering dinner and distribution of prizes on September 19.

The men's club championship once more rests in the hands of five-time champion Ken Hincks. Ken shot three days of steady golf to finish with a 222 gross score. Runner-up for this year was another junior champion Bill Sneddon. Jim Budd, Jr. led the field for the first two days but could not hang on for the final day and placed third. Low net for the three days was Glen Phillips shooting a 191.

A senior men's inter-club tournament was held last Thursday with the Sunshine Coast winning an easy victory over Squamish seniors by a score of 11-1. Probably the worst rain storm of the year made the fairways and greens an impossible situation for any attempt at serious golf, but a good lunch and excellent fellowship made the day a success in spite of the adverse condtions.

A new piece of equipment has been purchased by the club. A seven-section gang mower has been secured to allow our greensmen to do a faster and more efficient job on the fairway and also to eliminate those low long grass spots that plague the players at present.

Curling time

Well, it's time to start looking for those curling shoes, brooms and gloves. Yes—the ice plant is now operating, and, before long, we will be able to throw those rocks again.

The tentative plan goes something like this: Open curling - September 19-22; Green spiel - September 23-24; League curling - September 26.

Please remember a lot depends on the climate—if a spell of hot weather sets in, then there could be a change in the schedule.

Anyone who would like to try this great game is welcome to come to the rink, 'Gibsons Winter Club', and we will gladly help with information, assistance and instruction to start you off.

We thank all those volunteers who have been helping in our work parties lately—the club has been most fortunate to have had help like this over the years.

For more information, phone 886-7512, 886-2527. To register for league curling phone 886-2030.

Gardening business blossoms

by Judith Wilson

A dream is coming true on Chamberlin Road, Gibsons for Shirley and Dick Bowers who for many years have wanted to open a year round gardening centre. "Chamberlin Gardens" opened last week with a fine display of Holland bulbs, flowering and ornamental shrubs, evergreens and heathers.

Attractively and neatly set out the operation shows the Bowers' dedication to the dream which brought them south from Vanderhoof. Shirley was raised on a farm and Dick had many years as an orchardist but living up north curtailed their hopes of opening a garden centre.

They moved south, determined to put their plans into operation and in the short space of six months have cleared a large tract of land next to the house they bought here, levelled the ground, built a 24' x 40' office building, almost completed a 36' x 50' greenhouse which will be in use by spring, erected fences and set up attractive display areas.

"There were no special problems," says Shirley, "just a lot of hard work."

Although fall might not seem to be the best time to open a gardening business, the energetic Shirley wanted to "get acquainted with people here" and begin establishing her business. She particularly recommends the fall bulbs, which are shipped directly from Holland to Vancouver, for their superior quality and colours.

Shirley finds the climate here much more conducive to gardening than up north but "you don't fight bugs up there the same as here", she says.

She also offers soils and fertilizers and, as part of the service, takes orders and will try to fulfil any special requests.

A wander through the attractive display of shrubs and trees revealed a variety of species. Variegated yucca, outside hibiscus in white or purple, and pampus grass, all somehow associated with warmer climes, are displayed next to familiar evergreens like dwarf spruce, cedar hedges and juniper. Showy aucubas with mottled leaves, silver dollar encalyptus, weeping cherry, maples and mountain ash share space with the lovely vines of wistaria and honeysuckle.

The appropriateness of their name for their business venture has not escaped the Bowers. "Friends suggested we call the place 'Bowers' Flowers'," laughs Shirley.

She does however have plans to create a flower bower in the near future. Her dream includes an ornamental garden featuring pools, a fountain, rock gardens and picnic tables where customers can relax and enjoy the plants around them. "We'd like to show what can be done with a garden," says Shirley.

A selection of some of the plants offered at "Chamberlin Gardens" surrounds Shirley and Dick Bowers, proprietors of the newly opened garden centre. —Judith Wilson photo

On the 26th: Investigation into the May 28 fire of arson of a RCMP boat moored in the Gibsons Bay is still continuing. On the 30th: Richard Bonk of Surrey has been charged with impaired driving following a motor vehicle accident on North Road. Bonk drove into the ditch.

The theft of a seat cushion from a backhoe was reported from Judith Place. Also taken were a quantity of tools. The thefts are estimated at $300.

SECHELT RCMP:

On the 27th: Police received a report of a fight in progress just outside the doors of the emergency department of St. Mary's Hospital. It appears that two cousins had been in a fight and that one of them had been taken to the hospital for treatment of a cut lip. The argument between the cousins arose when treatment for the cut was refused by the wounded man. The cousins were gone by the time police arrived.

On the 29th: Credit cards, medical cards and other ID cards were stolen from a residence located on O'Brien Road in Halfmoon Bay. Entry was gained through an unlocked back door.

An 18 foot canoe was reported stolen from the Egmont government wharf. The canoe is turquoise in colour with red markings.

On the 2nd: A 14 foot Twin Eagle with a 65 hp motor was taken from the Madeira Park government wharf.

A three-car motor vehicle accident was reported at 8:40 a.m. from Highway 101 near Sakinaw Lake. Driving northbound, Dana Bosch lost control of her car and first struck a southbound car driven by Harry Ramsey of Texada Island, then struck a second southbound car driven by Harry Solvey. Solvey and his wife were hit head-on by Bosch's car.

Minor damage was sustained by Ramsey's car but the vehicles belonging to Solvey and Bosch were totalled. Dana Bosch, Harry Solvey and his wife were taken to St. Mary's Hospital where it is believed they will recover from injuries ranging from broken bones to lacerations. Guess Where

The usual prize of $5 will be awarded for the correct location of the above. Send your entries to the Coast News, Box 460, Gibsons, in time to reach this office no later than Saturday. This week's $10 winner is Leanne Ross, R.R. 1, Garden Bay, who correctly located the file basket on Bernice's desk in the Village of Sechelt office.

BMX track closer

The partially completed BMX bicycle racing track on North Road near Gibsons will move much closer to completion thanks to the efforts of local riders who sold $2,726 worth of tickets in their summer 50-50 draw. The winning ticket, drawn last Friday evening, was held by Joan Barnes of Nanaimo, B.C. who won $1,363.

The other $1,363 will be used to hire machinery to complete construction of the racing track, hopefully within the next two weeks if the weather permits.

The local association would like to thank Sunnycrest Plaza for the use of the booth in the mall, Kern's for the use of the video recorder to show BMX racing films and particularly Trail Bay Sports who donated prizes of BMX equipment for the top ticket sellers. The association wishes to express its appreciation to all who bought tickets and supported the development of BMX on the Coast.

Most successful ticket sellers were Lance Gregorchuk, who sold 323 tickets and won a BMX helmet; Mike Skinner, winner of a set of BMX pedals for selling 227 tickets and Mark Bujan who sold 92 tickets and won a pair of BMX gloves.

Jonas wins tennis

The men's section of the Sunshine Coast tennis tournament finals, completed last Monday, saw Robbie Jonas of Gibsons upset veteran Pat Dowling 7-6, 6-3 for the men's singles championship.

Jonas later combined with Brian Bennett to capture the men's doubles championship as well. Jonas and Bennett won easily 6-3, 6-1, over Pat Dowling and Brian O'Sullivan in what must also be considered a major upset.

In mixed doubles play, Pat and Margaret Dowling defeated youngsters Murray Gant and Leah Bennett for the championship.

The finals in women's singles and doubles will go this coming weekend with Bonny Bennett meeting Margaret Dowling in the singles final and Margaret Dowling and Greta Guzek meeting Bonny Bennett and Leah Bennett.

School buses unchanged

Parents and students are advised that school bus routes, stops and times for the fall term will be exactly the same as they were at the end of June.

Those new to the area may get specific information regarding bus schedules for students in grade one and up by calling George Hopkins at 885-2513.

Parents of kindergarten students must arrange their own transportation for the first two weeks of school. Bus schedules will then be arranged when it is known where all kindergarten students live.

The first day of school —Tuesday, September 6—will be a half day.

Union members vote again

Forestry talks deadlocked

Local members of both the IWA and CPU are being asked to express their views via the ballot box this week.

The International Woodworkers of America (IWA) is conducting a strike vote among its 30,000-40,000 members in this province. The results will be announced on September 23, and union representatives are hoping for the same strong support shown in strike votes recently taken by the Canadian Paperworkers Union (CPU), which, province-wide, voted 77 per cent in favour, and the Pulp and Paper Woodworkers of Canada (PPWC).

CPU members are being asked to vote on a package which was offered by the Pulp and Paper Industrial Relations Bureau at a meeting last week. The vote will be held Thursday, September 8, in the Gibsons Legion Hall, with information meetings and voting taking place at 1 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Ed Gill, second vice-president of Local 171 of the IWA, told the Coast News, that IWA delegates "don't like the package (offered by the industry) at all, especially the three year contract," as it is.

The general feeling is that the slump in the forest industry will turn around soon.

CPU delegate Dave Gant referred the Coast News to an article titled "Canfor All" in the September-October '83 issue of Equity magazine, in which forestry analyst Ross Hay-Roe offers the prognosis that "Next year, as interest rates decline further and U.S. housing starts exceed two million units, lumber will be a very profitable product for Canfor's low-cost mills. Pulp will be strengthening throughout the year, and Canfor, with its production so concentrated in these two products, could commence 1985 with operating profits approaching record levels, and cash flow exceeding 1979's peak."

A second point in the package which is unacceptable to IWA delegates, is industry's intent to contract out logging operations.

The company's offer is to give 90 days notice of its intent "to contract out all or part of a logging operation that will involve the permanent loss of employment by one or more regular employees."

"Twenty-five per cent of our union members could be out of work if this were to happen," said Gill.

There had previously been in effect, a letter from industry stating that "no contractor shall replace a regular employee," but this letter was cancelled at midnight on June 14.

The package to the CPU contains provisions for a three year contract, with no wage increase the first year, three per cent the second year, and 3.5 per cent the third. The contract would not be retroactive to July 1, the date of expiry of the last contract, but would take effect upon ratification.

Industry also wants the mill to operate on all statutory holidays except Christmas Day and Labour Day, and wants workers to have the option to accept pay in lieu of vacation time.

"We won't make concessions for rights already won," said Gant, referring to the six statutory holidays which workers presently get off."

"And even if a few people take money instead of vacation time, others will be laid off," added Smith. "The reason most people who were earlier laid off are now back at work is because they're filling in for someone away on holidays."

The union is requesting a 36 hour work week, to create more jobs, and improvements to the pension plan.

At present, an employee who has worked for 30 years receives a pension of $420 per month. The industry has offered an additional $1 per month for every year worked —in this case $30—which the union finds unrealistic.

Management representatives have accused union representatives of making no significant response to their proposed agenda. Union delegates say they have unanimously rejected it: Gant is still hopeful.

"They can negotiate," he said, "and we can strike a fair deal that can do us both for one year."
