Creek propane

Lease furore goes on

Despite strong support from the Sunshine Coast Regional Board for the cancellation of the ICG Liquid Gas Company's lease of the Roberts Creek propane site, the provincial government's ministry of lands, parks and housing has requested its staff to renew the lease for a further five years.

The current lease on the site runs out on January 1, 1984 and the regional board has made it clear for several months that it does not want the lease on that particular site renewed. Instead, the board has requested that ICG sit down with board planners with a view to identifying a safer and more suitable site, preferably in the Port Mellon area. Thus far, ICG has not met with planners.

The ministry letter, signed by lands, parks and housing minister Anthony Brummet, says in part that: "In view of the fact that: (a) no relocation sites have been selected, (b) there is a need for gas services in the interim, and, (c) the current operations meet all safety standards, I have requested staff to extend current tenure for a period of five years."

At Thursday's regional board meeting, area D (Roberts Creek) director Brett McGillivray advised the board of a notice of motion he proposed for the next meeting that the board appeal the decision.

McGillivray told the board that the ministry's decision was an "abuse of the consultation process". Area C director Jon McRae concurred that "This (decision) is a flagrant abuse of local input."

Area A director Ian Vaughan moved that the board send a delegation to Victoria as soon as possible to protest the minister's decision. The board passed the motion with only one director opposed.

On Friday, directors McGillivray and Vaughan telephoned the minister's office in Victoria and were told that the minister himself had been too busy to actually look into the situation in any depth, but the directors were advised that they should appeal the decision through the ministry of the environment before appealing to lands, parks and housing.

Director Vaughan told the Coast News Friday that a delegation will be going to Victoria to protest the lease renewal, perhaps as early as this week.

Gibsons gets break

Harbour costs lower

The tender for construction of the new breakwater in Gibsons Harbour, and for dredging the harbour, has now been let. The successful bidder is Sceptre-Reidel-Dawson Contracting Ltd. who submitted a bid of $577,700 which was substantially lower than the other seven bids submitted. Art Rhyll, an engineer with the Ministry of Fisheries and Oceans, announced the results on Friday.

The highest bid was $977,500 submitted by Miller Contracting. Mayor Goddard told the Coast News that Sceptre-Reidel-Dawson own a very large suction dredge which is capable of doing the dredging in two weeks. This partly accounted for their substantially lower bid. The breakwater will be constructed before the dredging is done.

This work is being financed partly by the federal government as its share of preparing the way for the new municipal marina. The provincial government has granted the town $400,000 from lottery funds as its contribution to the marina development.

Originally it was thought that $300,000 of the provincial grant would have to be paid by the municipality to the federal government as the town's contribution to the cost of the federal part of the project. As the tender which has been accepted is much lower than anticipated the town's payment to the federal government will be $160,000 instead of $300,000. The money thus freed may be used for further development of the seawalks and the parks said Mayor Goddard.

The announcement of the successful tender also paves the way for the signing of the agreement between the town and the private developers who are going to construct the marina and then lease it from the town on a revenue sharing basis. While considerable discussion has taken place between the parties concerned, no agreement could be signed until the cost of federal government participation was known.

Schools nursing next cut

by Maryanne West

The next effect of the government's restraint policy to be felt in this school district will be a "sharp decrease in nursing services". This was outlined in a letter from Dr. Lugsdin, medical health officer. Due to the staff being reduced from three nurses to one full-time and one part-time nurse, services to school children will be curtailed as from mid-November, unless the government can be persuaded to agree to staff replacements.

The following essential services will be provided: communicable disease investigation; individual contact for referred or identified "at risk" for child abuse; individual contact for referred pregnant students; school entry immunization; grade five Rubella immunization; vision screening; vision and hearing referrals when sufficient numbers warrant it.

Services which will be suspended include: follow-up of all school health referrals except child abuse, neglect, pregnancy, vision and hearing; school health interventions, health education and resources; hearing screening in grade one for those done in kindergarten; vision screening grades five and nine - grades three and seven may be done with volunteers; minor communicable diseases should be referred directly to the family doctor; head lice will be controlled by parent volunteer groups; routine visits to schools will be suspended.

School trustees voted to write the minister of health expressing their concern that services to children in this district will be cut. Parent groups will be encouraged to write the minister also.

KINDERGARTEN

Because there is no money available to hire extra teachers or aides, trustees agreed to suspend temporarily sections of the kindergarten policy which state numbers above which extra help would be provided.

Gurney vs Gurney in Area E

Nominations for municipal elections to be held November 19, close at noon today, (Monday, October 31) and so far only one challenge has been made for election of an area E director on the Sunshine Coast Regional Board. Patricia Gurney will be opposing incumbent director Jim Gurney for the two year term.

In areas A and C, the only other regions up for election, no candidates have yet come forward to challenge the incumbents, Ian Vaughan and Jon McRae, respectively.

The main issues in Area E (Reid Road—Pratt Road—Gower Point) appear to be water service, boundary expansion and the settlement plan.

Next week, after nominations have closed, the Coast News will interview each candidate and ask a series of questions posed by our readers.

Among the concerns expressed by our readers in area E are: fire protection, fuel storage facilities, municipal financing, long range, coordinated planning for water service, sewage disposal and boundary expansion and its effect on property taxes in the region.

An all-candidates meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, November 8 at the Gibsons Legion at 8 p.m. This meeting, sponsored by the Elphinstone Electors Association, will include candidates for elections in the town of Gibsons, areas A, C and E of the SCRD, the village of Sechelt and school board areas A,, B and town of Gibsons.

Gibsons political hotbed

With time still for more candidates to come forward as the Coast News goes to press, it is evident that the town of Gibsons will be the most hotly contested political arena in the forthcoming municipal and regional elections to be held on November 19.

Due to the resignation of Mayor Lorraine Goddard in Gibsons and the resignation of Deputy Mayor Diane Strom to run for mayor, four of the five seats on council will be contested this year.

Alderman and former mayor Larry Labonte will vie with Alderman Strom for the position of mayor.

Declared candidates for the two two-year terms on council are Tarry Giannakos, son of restauranteur George Giannakos, Ronald Neilson a 43-year old electrician, and Art Smylie. More nominations are expected before the noon deadline on October 31.

B.C. Ferries employee Barry Lynn has filed his papers for the one-year term caused by Strom's resignation. Alderman Jack Marshall was undecided at press time as to whether he would run for a two-year or a one-year term. Marshall's decision will be based on whether or not there is another candidate contesting the seat with Barry Lynn.

A much quieter picture maintains on the Sechelt front. By the weekend Mayor Joyce Kolibas is unopposed. Only Alderman Ken Short and former regional board secretary-treasurer Anne Pressley have filed papers for the two aldermanic vacancies. Alderman Bob Allen has indicated that he will not run again.

Schools voting

Elections for school trustees in school board areas A, B and the town of Gibsons have produced six candidates thus far.

In area A (West Sechelt to Egmont) incumbent Jamie Stephen will be challenged by Dr. Bill Lawrenuk.

In area B (east of Davis Bay, not including Gibsons) incumbent Don Douglas will be challenged by Pat Muryn and Wilf Ratzburg.

In the town of Gibsons, incumbent Janice Edmonds will seek office again.

Last of Appin Stewarts

A burial at sea at Mariner's Rest off Steamboat Rock near Gambier Island last week marked the end of an ancient Scottish line.

Donald Allan Stewart, who died on October 11, is reported to have been the last laird of the ancient Highland line of the Stewarts of Appin.

Donald Stewart came to the Sunshine Coast to spend his last years with his brother Ian MacPherson Stewart who died in 1974. Both brothers were bachelors.

Donald Stewart served with the British Navy and later trained officers of the U.S. Navy.

The moving ceremony conducted by the Reverend Alex Reid last weekend on board the Alfie Wahoo had appropriate Scottish overtones. Long-time neighbour and friend of the Stewarts, Tom Richardson, saluted his departed friend with "The Dark Island" on the bagpipes and a taped rendition of a favourite song, "Ae Fond Kiss" was played to mark the passing of a neighbour and a friend and a storied line.

Mill stays open

The Canfor operation at Port Mellon continues in operation this week while negotiations continue between the forest industry and the unions in conjunction with mediator Allan Hope.

There was fear the mill would be shut down last week but a 21-day freeze on job action was declared pending the outcome of negotiation.

Band plans bonfire

An old tradition will be revitalized by the Sechelt Indian Band this Monday, October 31.

A bonfire and fireworks display will take place on Monday evening. The bonfire will be lit by 7 p.m. and the fireworks display will start at 7:30 p.m.

All are welcome at this festive occasion, organized by Benny Pierre, and parking will be available near the Sechelt Band Administration building.

Flu vaccination

Influenza clinics will be held today, Monday, October 31 at the Sechelt Mental Health Centre, Teredo Square, facing Inlet Avenue, at 11 a.m., and at Gibsons Coast Garibaldi Health Unit, South Fletcher Road, at 1:30 p.m.

Vaccination is recommended for the following groups: a) Persons of any age who have conditions such as Heart Disease, Chronic Lung Disease, Chronic Renal Disease, Immunosuppressed Conditions, Chronic Metabolic Disease such as Diabetes or Severe anaemia; b) Older persons, particularly those over 65 years of age.

Tories to hold November vote

At a special executive meeting in Campbell River on Monday night, October 17, officers of the Comox-Powell River Progressive Conservative Riding Association voted to hold the 1983 nomination convention in late November. The winner of the nomination will be the PC candidate in the next federal election.

Because of the large area of the riding, votes are cast at a series of meetings held in various population centres. Members may vote in Sechelt on November 21, Powell River on November 22, Courtenay on November 23, Sointula on November 24, and Port McNeill on November 25. Ballots will be counted and the winner announced at the final meeting in Campbell River on November 26.

Thus far, five candidates have thrown their hats in the ring: Gary Hein, former pilot and owner of Courtenay Shell service station; Courtenay lawyer and businessman, Stuart Hartman; Sointula fishing guide and resort owner, Michael Hicks; Cumberland accountant, Laurie Wyles; and Kevin Storrie, a Campbell River businessman.

Comment

The issues

As nominations close for the November 19 municipal and school board elections, we offer best wishes to the candidates who have been courageous and public-spirited enough to let their names stand for election.

This election, particularly in Gibsons, and the regional district, is highly important to the future direction of the Coast. It presents a timely opportunity for the candidates to address, once and for all, a number of crucial issues.

As we see it, the number one issue is the future of the regional district and the candidates both in Gibsons and the regional district should let the voters know how they feel about expansion of Gibsons and Sechelt into the regional district in order to broaden their tax bases. What would expansion mean for example, in terms of property taxes in the region?

A second major issue in are E and Gibsons is the need for co-operation in delivering water services and fire protection to parts of area E and particularly Lower Gibsons. Will the SCRD and the town find a mutually beneficial solution to the current water problems?

In Gibsons, the sewage treatment plant is at and above capacity. Will a solution be found that will allow further development of the lower town? Where will the money come from?

As far as planning of development is concerned, there are currently 3,000 undeveloped lots on the Coast, more than a 10 year supply. Will some plan be proposed to develop these lots in a rational manner?

In the school board election, the one over-riding issue is school finance. Will a new board be able to maintain quality education in local schools given the proposed financing formula of the provincial government?

The candidates will have several opportunities to address these issues over the next two and a half weeks. We wish each of them good luck.

Propane lease

The Sunshine Coast regional board directors are to be commended for their strong stand against the renewal of the Roberts Creek propane site lease. The directors have been clear and decisive on the issue. They have presented alternatives to the company; they have been definitive in their reasons for opposing the lease.

The propane company on the other hand has not followed up on suggestions for alternate sites and has instead appealed to the Ministry of Lands, Parks and Housing which apparently has accepted the appeal. Further, the company has consistently held the threat of removing propane service over Coast residents.

The company has taken the time and trouble to explain that its tanks are safe; the ministry agrees that safety standards are being met. However, the residents of Roberts Creek and the duly elected directors of the SCRD, perceive a danger in the present location.

Eventually all fuel storage tanks will be in a safe, integrated location. There could be no better time to begin the process.

Prince Rupert, early 1900s. The harbour had not yet become a seaport. "HMS Egeria", seen at anchor, had arrived on the Pacific coast in 1898. Officers and crew of the steam screw sloop carried out surveys of marine passageways. During surveys around the Gulf Islands, the vessel was based at Bedwell Harbour. The name Egeria was engraved on the sandstone shore there, above a geodetic benchmark. Musings

John Burnside

We'll call her Mary, because that is her name. I met her at the sod-turning ceremony for the library extension in Sechelt. She was gracious enough to describe my recently acquired silver beard as distinguished. I explained I had grown it for the part of Professor Van Helsing in the current Suncoast Players presentation of "Dracula".

"I'm the good guy in the play," I said. "It's nice to be the good guy somewhere."

A little self-pitying, you might say, but consider.

Not too long ago I walked up to a long-time lady friend of mine who has developed into, along with the rest of the province it seems, some kind of semi-rabid political fanatic.

"Good evening," I said.

"Good evening, you jerk," she snapped. Apparently she felt an editorial in which I offered the opinion that neither the teachers nor the government seemed to be doing a particularly effective job of looking after the needs of the school children of this province was nothing short of base treachery.

If that isn't bad enough, there is a body of opinion locally that I am some kind of evil genius behind the Solidarity Coalition because the newspaper has extended the courtesy of its pages to what certainly seems to be a significant portion of our communities.

Now it is a fact that I do understand and support the Coalition of protest that has formed up to oppose the draconian legislation brought forward by the government of Bill Bennett. As a business man, I have said, with others, that the government's ill-considered tactics of sweeping confrontations have cost and are costing the people of B.C. dearly.

When the bankruptcy rate in Canada as a whole is declining by three per cent while increasing by 47 per cent in B.C. something is obviously amiss with the awaited economic recovery in this province.

I have at hand a form letter from the Socred party which, while soliciting funds, asserts that B.C. is leading the other provinces in the 'overall economic recovery of our country'.

Now if this is true it has been noted only by Socred fund-raisers. The fear has in fact been expressed recently in Vancouver by a federal spokesman that B.C., should the worse come to the worst and a general strike take place, could derail the economic recovery of the whole country.

I cannot believe other than that the present morass into which we could be sliding was caused by the government. Prior to July, B.C. was enjoying a period of calm in its often turbulent industrial relations. The provincial government put an end to that.

It seems to me that the Solidarity Coalition is an essentially conservative movement seeking to guard the status quo against the ill-considered actions of a government proposing radical and unannounced changes to the fundamental structure of our society.

That is one man's opinion and there was a time, was there not, that we claimed that we stood for free speech here in the west. And yet, things have reached the stage in this province where dialogue just does not take place. Neither in the legislature nor in our towns and villages does civilized debate take place. We are glaring into each other's eyes, fingers gripping each others' throats.

Ask yourself, out there, have you participated in a debate about the issues of the day with someone who holds opposing views? Or are you flashing anger and epithets to all who do not follow completely the party line you favour? These are sad times.

Slings & Arrows

George Matthews

A footnote to last week's comments on wee Geordie Skea, the Gibsons contractor who was double-billed for building permits by the SCRD: there's no question that George was ripped off by the way the regional district's by-laws on building permits were written. But I should have mentioned that as a consequence of George making a fuss, the by-laws were altered to make sure that the kind of double billing he suffered will no longer occur.

I guess the message here is that when you fight city hall you don't necessarily win for yourself, but maybe for others. Keep up the good work George—and next time, please take a laywer when you go to court.

I had an enlightening tour of the regional district's works on Saturday. The invitation was issued to both Coast newspapers, but my colleague from The Press was unable to take part.

My tour guides, area E director Jim Gurney, and SCRD works superintendent Gordon Dixon, took me over the vast majority of the 175 miles of water system owned and operated by the regional district and a substantial part of the Sechelt sewer works. I now know much more about water and sewer works than I ever thought I wanted to know.

We started out down in Langdale where I was shown the independent Langdale water system which serves the entire Langdale area, and is capable of servicing all the expansion Langdale is likely to see in the next several years.

We ended up at the new 250,000 gallon concrete reservoir in Secret Cove, which ultimately could serve as a water source as far up the Coast as Egmont. The system is immense and from what I saw, extremely well maintained. The whole 40 million dollar system is maintained by four labourers, a foreman and a works superintendent. Add to that one sewage plant operator and a half-time secretary and you have a pretty tight little operation, considering the fact that the area covered by the SCRD works crew represents 85 per cent of the area of the Coast and 75 per cent of the residences.

The whole system, which was started in 1969, is the product of the foresight and energy of former SCRD director Frank West. The water works serves the Coast from Langdale to Secret Cove, excluding Gibsons, Hopkins and Granthams, where the water systems are locally administered utilities.

I've always been a booster of the regional district concept, so my opinions are biased in their favour and what I saw Saturday didn't alter my view that the SCRD is an effective and vitally necessary municipal entity.

A few final remarks concerning the possibly imminent General Strike: I don't particularly care for the idea myself. I understand that the only power workers have to protect or improve their working conditions is through the withholding of their labour, but a general strike is a different animal. The last one in Canada was in 1919 in Winnipeg and talk of it can still raise a heated argument.

A general strike is an animal of its own; once its started, no one has control. It can lead places the organizers never expected, it feeds on its own energy and builds a momentum that can't be stopped.

I'll support the general strike mind you. I don't think public sector workers, or ultimately private sector workers, can afford not to. If it does happen, however, and I hope it doesn't, the consequences will certainly not be buried in my life-time, nor in my children's either.

I always remember reading something about the Russian Revolution, I think it was in John Reed's Ten Days that Shook the World; it went something like; "When the revolution came, it didn't come as we expected it, and it didn't come as we wanted it, but it came just the same."

With general strikes, the same rules apply.

Maryanne's Viewpoint

Words, words...

by Maryanne West

I wrote the word "spokesman", changed it to spokesperson, and then stopped myself short.

"What sort of nonsense is this I'm helping to perpetuate?" I asked myself. Crossed it out again and re-wrote spokesman. I was jolted into taking a position on this non-issue by a complaint to the radio programme "Morningside", that Peter Gzowski had let archaeologist Dr. Cuyler Young get away with using the word "mankind". One wonders why otherwide intelligent women can take off on such a non-productive tangent, and why otherwise intelligent men play along?

Are they, (the men), suffering from a group guilt complex associated with the sins of their fathers? Might be an interesting topic for a sociology thesis.

Do we really believe that words which include "man" have some subtle, built-in code designed to keep women in bondage, barefoot and pregnant?

Do we not understand that many of these words describe a job or position and do not carry a gender bias unless our personal gender bias wants to superimpose one?

There are several reasons why I think this effort to change the language is a waste of time. First because there are so many more important issues: discrimination; the need for equality of opportunity and equal remuneration; survival, hunger, greed, the list goes on and on. Who has time to bother about who calls whom what?! For women, as well as for men, the way the world treats you depends to a great extent upon how you feel about yourself, what goes on in your head. If you haven't got it all together, no title or name is going to help. When you have reached that state of balance within yourself it no longer matters what people call you.

Should it be possible to change the dictionary from alderperson to yachtsperson, update all legislation, etc., making it "persondatory" for everyone, it wouldn't change deep-seated attitudes. They have to change from within. Perhaps I come by these views on life having been brought up a Quaker. Quakers base their philosophy on equality in the sight of God and decided what to do about titles 300 years ago. They threw them out and manage very well without, even Mr. and Mrs.

And, of course, if you carry this silly habit of substituting person for man to its logical conclusion, you end up calling yourself a "woperson"—whatever that may be.

Spring and Fall

Margaret, are you grieving
Over Goldengrove unleaving?
Leaves, like the things of man, you
With your fresh thoughts care for, can you?
Ah! as the heart grows older
It will come to such sights colder
By and by, nor spare a sigh
Though worlds of wanwood leafmeal lie;
And yet you will weap and know why.
Now no matter, child, the name:
Sorrow's springs are the same.
Nor mouth had, no nor mind, expressed
What heart heard of, ghost guessed:
It is the blight man was born for,
It is Margaret you mourn for.

Letters to the Editor

Students respond

Editor,

Recently our student body noticed an article in Val Tomkies' "Harbour Highlites" in the Press. A number of students responded, as they felt they had been a target of ridicule and misunderstanding.

In the article, our school, Pender Harbour Secondary, was compared to an Ontario school. However, each province has a different educational system thus demanding totally different expectations of the student; therefore, a comparison is not reasonable. PHSS, like all other public schools in B.C., follows the curriculum created by the Ministry of Education. Homework is assigned to students and marks are applied by teachers.

According to the "Habour Highlites" article, the students from PHSS are a group of illiterates who take pride in achieving this status. Many students disagree. For example, in English, essays are first introduced at the grade 10 level. Students are taught how to outline, edit and proofread a paper. The number of essays completed in a year depends on the course schedule. By no means is English considered a "joke".

It is true that the teachers in our school can be friends, but not in the sense of exposing their private lives to students. Because of the small number of students in the school, extra time and assistance is available. Learning does not "go out the window"; instead, the access to teachers gives the student the incentive to strive for academic achievement. We take advantage of the extra time; we do not take advantage of the teachers! In fact, we are privileged that teachers can take time to give individual attention.

Our school discipline system is effective and simple. It has received respect from students and the approval of the parents' committee.

Unlike the implications of the article, PHSS has produced some very fine and talented scholars. Not only have these students done well at university but at colleges and trade schools as well. By no means are these high achievers harrassed for their academic excellence. Rather, their accomplishments are well thought of and we're proud of them. PHSS will continue to produce students of this scholastic calibre who desire to do well and succeed in their chosen area. Academic performance and success, however, depend on the standards each student sets for him/herself.

The consensus of our student body is that one person's experience produces insufficient evidence on which to draw conclusions about an entire school's performance.

Calendar wanted

Editor,

I was visiting the Peninsula this summer and learned of your Historical Calendar and am interested in it.

My late husband served as forest ranger there during World War II. Conditions have certainly changed! We had to depend upon the old Union Steamships which puttered up and down the Coast before the days of the Gulf Lines. However, there was much to be said in their favour. One could get a real good dinner, white tablecloths, etc., for $1, in the dining room.

Sometimes the dirt road between Sechelt, where we lived, and Gibsons, was impassable. His district extended from Pender Harbour to Gibsons and Granthams. They were good days.

Please send copies of your calendar to: The Goodman Family, 7 Strath Avenue, Toronto, Ontario M8X 2R1; Mrs. Eva Aylett, 3626 Cordial Drive, Vancouver, B.C. V5S 4H3.

Sincerely
Eva Aylett

U.S. causes concern

Editor,

The latest armed intervention by the U.S. into the affairs of a sovereign nation, should be cause for grave concern and positive action by the people of Canada. It raises the question of appeasement so dear to the hearts of detractors of the peace movement. How much longer should we appease our great neighbour in such aggressive and reckless acts, especially in light of the fact that Grenada is a member of the commonwealth? Could we be next if we should happen to elect an unacceptable government or experience another FLQ-type crisis? Visions of U.S. Marines crossing the border with a token multi-national force, including Salvadorian death squads at their heels comes to mind.

It is fairly evident that the invasion of Grenada on such a shallow pretext is the prelude for a concerted attack upon Nicaragua.

The application of sanctions and a boycott of the Los Angeles Olympic Games might serve as an indication of our revulsion at such a flagrant breach of the U.N. and O.A.S. charters.

The disarmament movement should take heart—they are demonstrating where it counts.

Yours truly
Peter Baker

Hospital parking

Editor's Note: A copy of the following letter was received for publication.

Editor,

I recently had the misfortune to require therapy at St. Mary's Hospital for a back problem. As anyone who has ever had a back problem will appreciate, getting in and out of vehicles and merely walking can be difficult.

Of the 10 visits to the hospital, it never ceased to amaze me that all but one or two designated "out-patient" parking spaces were occupied. I would hazard a guess that there are approximately 15 available spaces. On one occasion all the spaces were occupied. I know for a fact that not all these patrons were "out-patients".

I realize that it would be virtually impossible for the hospital administration to monitor parking—at least not without great expense to each and every one of us taxpayers.

Therefore, I appeal to those who park in "designated" areas to use commons sense—there are those of us who require those "designated" spots, and YOU SHOULD NOT BE THERE if you are not an out-patient.

Yours truly,
(Mrs.) Lynda Begg

Kiwanis correction

The next meeting date of the Kiwanis Auxiliary was incorrectly reported in last week's paper as Wednesday, November 23. The correct date and time for the next meeting is Wednesday, November 16 at 8 p.m.

Thank you

Editor,

The Gibsons Lions Club would like to thank the public for their support during the past year which has enabled them to donate to the following organizations: Canadian Legion $35; Aquatic Programme (special children) $756; C.A.R.E. $22; Sunshine Achievement Centre $12.50; Crippled Children's Society Telethon $300; Elphinstone Secondary School Bursary $300; Sea Cavalcade $100; Elves Club $100; Sunshine Coast Dressing and Bandages $100; L.C.I.F. $22.

Total donations for the year amounted to $1,747.50.

Covering the Coverage
by Jim Ansell

THINGS TO DO WHEN YOU REVIEW YOUR COVERAGE

1. Read your policy over carefully and ask your Agent to go over it with you.
2. Make sure you are insured to value. If you are under-insured, not only will you come up short on a total loss, you also run the risk of having any claim pro-rated.
3. Be aware of the limitations on your policy. If you are affected by any of these, ask your Agent for ways to remedy the situation.
4. If Replacement Cost Coverage is available take it.
5. Maintain a household inventory, written and/or photographic and store it away from your home.
6. Keep your Agent up-to-date on major changes in household, such as building additions and improvements, vacancies and major purchases.

This is the last article in the Residential Insurance Series. I hope you have found it useful in understanding your policies better and I thank you for your attention.

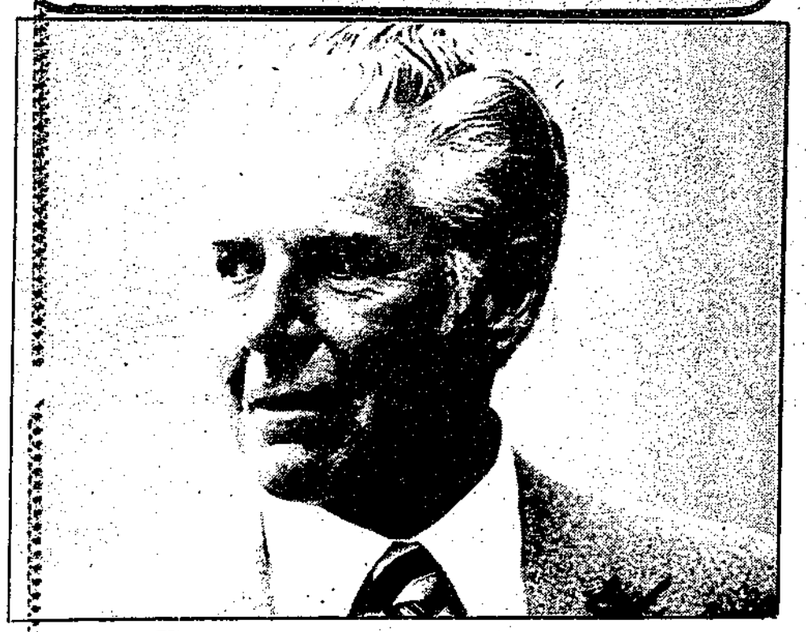
Community NEWS



In memory of John Matthews

Long-time residents and newcomers alike were saddened to learn of the death of John Matthews of Hopkins Landing on October 15. He will be remembered as a man whose hard work and vision helped to shape our community.

John's parents arrived from Victoria in 1919 and built their first home on a piece of Jack Reeves property in Roberts Creek where John was born in 1923, the youngest of four children.

During World War II he earned his wings in the RCAF and travelled extensively in the Ferry Command as a wireless airgunner with the rank of Flying Officer.

Eventually returning home to the area he loved, John formed a business partnership with Keith Wright. In 1948 as M & W, they bought their first grocery store from Ted Shaw in Roberts Creek.

Four years later John married Doreen Shaw and together they raised sons, Brad and Ryan.

The next 12 years were a time of rapid business growth. In 1954 the partners bought Grayson's grocery store in Gibsons. Soon after that they purchased John MacDonald's farm in Upper Gibsons and sold both M & W stores to build a modern Super-Valu in 1957.

As the population continued to grow, expansion was again necessary and today's mall, the Sunnycrest Shopping Centre, was built and opened in 1976.

John and Keith shared their success with the community in many ways, including donation of the land for Gibsons Kiwanis Village.

John participated actively in the formation of the original Gibsons Rod and Gun Club and was an enthusiastic sportsman.

He shared many activities with his family including the challenge of commercial fishing during summers aboard their troller "Fair Seas".

His friends will remember him for his good sense of humour and his integrity.

Clinic needs cash

by Jane McOuat, 883-9342

CLINIC AUXILIARY

Some people might not yet realize just how important our clinic auxiliary is or why they are always having sales or drumming up business at the Bargain Barn. This week you should realize what a blessing they are.

Due to some kind of nutty system our government has for accounting, our clinic budget for 1983 has only been approved now after most of the money has been spent. Let's be blunt. How do you run a clinic when your budget (which was submitted far in advance of the year) has not been approved?) Answer. You trust that it will be approved or at least denied before more than half a year has gone by. So, when the word came that the budget had been cut by $7,000 the board was shocked and scrambling for money.

I should point out that the whole budget was cut even more as it was submitted with a slight inflation over last year's budget. Not only did they not allow one bit of inflation cushion, they cut back LAST YEAR'S budget by $7,000.

Luckily the board found $3,000 and then those good people who volunteer and support the clinic auxiliary, came up in their nickel, dime and dollar way with a fantastic $4,000 to bail the whole problem out. Next time you see anything to do with the clinic auxiliary buy it for gosh sakes! What on earth is going on when our health care services are being undermined!

One other way in which the clinic could use help is by having volunteer drivers on call. Sometimes a person has been in the hospital and has no one to pick them up and get them home. Gas is always looked after but drivers and time are in need. If you can help just call Gladys at the clinic and she'll take your name.

COMING EVENTS

Our community hall sure does get a workout throughout these darker winter months. Oh, how I dislike turning my clocks back—dark, dark, dark! However, we've got a good lineup of events for this month.

The Lions have another fun Casino Night on November 12 at the hall.

The Fisherman's Homecoming Dance will be held November 26. Ticket will be on sale soon at Frances Takeout and The Pharmacy. Music is by "Pegasus" and they've been good to dance to this year.

Another Swap Meet happens on November 5 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. For table reservations phone 883-9973.

NEW ARRIVAL

It's a beautiful baby girl for Richard and Gail Paton and a bonny boy for Dennis and Diane Gamble. Congratulations to you all on your wonderful arrivals...the miracles of life.

POLLY IS A CRACK UP

Now this isn't a miracle of life exactly, but definitely interesting. Why do birds talk? When Mark and Inge Farley lost their brilliantly plumed parrot Kelly, it was seen at quite a few different places and it seemed to be enjoying its big night out. Inge called to it from the bottom of a tall tree, holding some food favourites, like walnuts and cheese, in her hand. "Kelly, come on, come on down." "Fuddle Duddle" or something like it was the reply from Kelly and it just cracked up the group of people watching. It must have been those nasty boys that taught it to say that. What good would a parrot be unless it had one or two ripe lines!

The Coast News received the following heartfelt letter signed Marjorie Campbell and all the family, and I would like to pass it on:

"I am trying hard to find words to express all my thanks and appreciation to all my friends and relatives for their kindness, thoughtfulness and contributions in the loss of my beloved son Cam. It will be forever remembered.

A special thanks to all those who stayed with me and gave me courage to continue with Yvonne's wedding reception, etc.

There are so many special thank yous to so many people who did so much, that at this time all I can say is a million stars to all."

Consumer activity

by Gwen Robertson, 886-3782

Consumerism is rampant in Gibsons. This statement is based on my experience on Saturday, October 22 during discussions on current affairs and other things. Consumers I found, are a very informed group of people.

I was appalled to learn that some people thought that their consumer protection or assistance was no more. Let me hasten to assure you the consumer help office in Vancouver is still operational. It is staffed by trained volunteers and is busy—but not too busy to help you. If you seek advice or information or are about to purchase an appliance or equipment new, or used, give me a call or call Vancouver 112-682-2920 or 682-3535.

The rights of consumers, so diligently fought for still apply. The laws are still in place, "Consumer Beware" is the theme and beware you should. Read your guarantee/warranty before, rather than after the purchase and check the performance record of the store you purchase from. Does it stand behind its product? Who pays for repairs, returns, etc?

Our office is temporarily being supported by a grant from the federal government.

Roberts Creek

Fire Hall addition progressing

by Jeanie Norton Parker, 886-3973

Have you seen the Roberts Creek Fire Hall? Andy Dube and his crew aren't wasting any time.

They had the roof off the weekend after the referendum approving the second story and are moving right along with the framing. A little good weather and lots of volunteers are helping to get the job done quickly.

FAIRE CHANGED

The Roberts Creek Crafts Faire has been changed to Sunday, December 4 because of conflicting activities November 27 (such as Grey Cup). The time has also been changed to 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Crafts people phone Chris Foster at 885-5206 or Diana Zornes at 886-2087 to book a table.

CRIB STARTING

Thursday night crib and bridge start at the Roberts Creek Legion this week. Play starts at 8 p.m. promptly so be there early. Non-members are welcome and the bar will be open.

BOTTLE DRIVE

The Roberts Creek Beavers and Cubs are holding a bottle drive this Saturday, November 5. If you won't be home please leave your bottles outside your door or drop them off at the school parking lot that day.

KIDS' DAY

There's a drama course for kids starting in Roberts Creek this Saturday, November 5. It's for kids seven to 12 and there'll be five sessions running from 10:30-11:30 a.m. Saturday at the Clubhouse next to Seaview Market.

For more information please phone Michel at 886-3750.

L.A. MEETING

Next Monday, November 7, is the monthly meeting of the Legion Auxiliary. All members are urged to attend.

STUDENTS COUNCIL

Roberts Creek Elementary has a new student council for the year. Kwin Grauer is president and grade seven representative, Sean Puchalski is vice-president and grade six rep, Kellei Bulmer is secretary and grade seven rep, Jade Boragno is treasurer and grade five rep, Winona Stephens is council whip and grade six rep, Robert Newman is grade five rep, Serena Strand and Tommy Story are grade four reps, Myshkaa McKeen and Rob Milsted are grade three reps, and Greg Kirkman and Erin Davidson are grade two/three reps.

WORLD'S LARGEST

The Roberts Creek Parents' Auxiliary is holding "The World's Largest Garage, Plant and Baking Sale" Saturday, November 26 in the school gym. It's a great opportunity to clear out some of that stuff you don't want and donate it to a worthy cause. Drop it off at the school or call Colleen DeGraff at 885-5467 for instructions.

BROWNIES

A Roberts Creek Brownie Pack is being formed and will start meeting this Thursday in the community use room at the school. Registration was last Monday but contact Shirley Mills at 886-9164 for more information.

VARIETY SHOW

Nikki Weber and her Halfmoon Bay Hams are putting on a variety show at Roberts Creek Community Hall Saturday, November 26. From all reports these shows have been a lot of fun and the proceeds go to the Intermediate Care Facility. A great deal of time and energy have been put into this volunteer effort, so please support them by attending.

PROPANE REPLACED

The Roberts Creek Community Association is persisting in its determination to be propane-free. The leaking propane hot water tank at the community hall is being replaced with an electric one and they are looking for an electric stove. If anybody has one to offer at a reasonable price it will be welcomed.

FIREWORKS TONIGHT

A reminder that the Hallowe'en Fireworks are at 8:15 p.m. at the golf course tonight (Monday). This is an annual event put on by the Roberts Creek Volunteer Fire Department for the enjoyment of all the community, so do come out.

FOR AREA "E"

Vote
PAT GURNEY

I have lived in Area "E" for the past 19½ years. I married in 1968 to Robert Gurney and have a 10 year old son attending Gibsons Elementary. I have worked in the community and participated in its growth over the last 15 years.

My main reasons for running as Director of Area "E" are:

1. To meet and encourage a greater number of Area "E" residents to become informed and aware of the politics and issues of their area.
2. I enjoy living in Area "E" and I'm very interested in the future direction of its development and growth.
3. Most important: To try and resolve our long-standing concerns with, a) our water supply, b) settlement plans and c) regional identity.

I am looking forward to fulfilling the tasks required as a regional director.

Film for unemployed

This Tuesday, November 1, at 7:30 p.m., "Who Will I Sentence Now?" will be shown at the Action Centre. The film delves into a grim aspect of modern industry which, until recently, has been carefully obscured from society.

The emphasis of the award-winning documentary is on diseases contracted in the workplace where, in some areas, life is cheap.

To increase your awareness of this disturbing topic, come to this evening of free films and discussion at St. Bartholomew's Church Hall, at the corner of North Road and Highway 101 in Gibsons, on November 1 at 7:30 p.m.

Smorgasbord at hall

by Ruth Forrester, 885-2418

HALL SMORGASBORD

Tickets are moving fast for the Welcome Beach Smorgasbord to be held November 19 at the hall. Proceeds will go towards funds for Shorncliffe and are only $10 each. Numbers are limited, so if you want to get in on the fun you should call either Fiona at 885-3483 or Peggy at 885-9347 for reservations. Live music will be provided by Paul Hansen and it will be good to see Paul back in action musically again.

On the following Saturday, November 26, the good old Halfmoon Hams will be hosting yet another variety show in aid of Shorncliffe. This one will be at Roberts Creek Hall and a full house again would be just great. Guest appearances will be made by some of the Coast's finest entertainers and if you missed the last one and heard how good it was this will be your chance to catch the show. Tickets are the usual $4 and are available from Books 'n' Stuff in Trail Bay Mall, Radio Shack in Sunnycrest Mall, Seaview Market in Roberts Creek and the NDP Bookstore in Lower Gibsons. So come on out for a fun night and at the same time help us to give a nice cheque to a good cause.

Tickets will also be available soon for the Welcome Beach Community annual Christmas Dinner and Dance to be held Saturday, December 10. Music for this one will be by Nikki Weber and some of the "Hams" will be there to help sing out some good old Christmas music.

LOCAL BEAVERS NEWS

Last weekend Beaver leader Bill Cocking, together with some of the parents, took the little Beaver guys out for a picnic at Porpoise Bay and a great time was had by all. Then on Monday, there were six very proud young fellows who were invested at the meeting at the hall. They were Chris Black, Willie Brooks, Ryan Cocking, Luke McDonnell, Trevor Stoker and Michael Kliej.

Sod turned for library addition

by Peggy Connor, 885-9347

SECHELT PUBLIC LIBRARY SOD TURNING

The sod turning ceremony to start the addition to the Sechelt Public Library, was on Thursday, October 27.

President of the Sechelt Public Library board Art McPhee gave a rundown of the library's history. The present building was built on land provided by the Sechelt council and funds came from the Centennial committees of Sechelt chaired by Mrs. Ada Dawe, Halfmoon Bay headed by Ted Surtees and Redrooffs with Canon Alan Greene.

The volunteer librarians who have worked so many hours to keep the library open and the shelves stocked with good books came in for high praise with special thanks to Marie Montgomery and Adele deLange.

Art McPhee introduced Ron McKenzie from the Ministry of Provincial Secretary and Government Services. Then it was Mayor Kolibas' turn to hand over to treasurer Frances Fleming two cheques, one for $1,000 from the village and the $20,000 to start the addition. Mayor Joyce Kolibas then took the 'gold' shovel and dug the traditional sod over expressing great pleasure at the new space being provided for the library.

Fred McLean, head of the building committee, deserves the credit for getting the construction started and for the plans drawn up by him at no cost. Progress was in evidence; as the ceremony started a load of cement arrived to fill the forms already in place for the outside walls.

Everyone was invited into the Baptist Church to enjoy a cup of tea or coffee and a piece of decorated cake showing the design of the library.

Presiding at the tea table was Marie Montgomery, head librarian and Marianne Dallman, vice-president of the library board.

The important people were observers on this day, that is the dedicated volunteers who have been the mainstay of this library, giving hours of their time faithfully and the readers who support and are the reason for a library in the first place.

The witches were out in full force to help the goblins and others dressed up for the student council of Chatelech Secondary School's Hallowe'en Dance.

The costumes were fantastic, with Tina Hansen as a red devil capturing first prize for the ladies. Second prize went to a very pretty French maid in black and white, Sharon Hilchie. Top male costume was Kristos Grames as a chic sheik, and second prize to his cousin, Mark Paetkau as Charlie Chaplin.

The teachers were pleased with the number of parents who turned out to help chaperone, and they in turn were pleased to support the event so the students could enjoy an entertaining evening.

FALL BAZAAR

Sechelt Senior Citizens have great plans for their fall bazaar to be held on Saturday, November 12 at their hall on Mermaid Street in Sechelt. Doors open at 1:30 p.m.

Honouring Sechelt's good citizens, a wise choice by the Chamber of Commerce, Jim and Elizabeth Derby will open the event.

Bake table of good home cooking, a white elephant, Christmas novelties, grab bag, something you can take a bit of a chance on, with tea and sandwiches, will be available.

SHORNCLIFFE AUCTION

The auction held on Sunday, October 23 at Greene Court Recreation Hall, brought in over $2,100 for the Sechelt Intermediate Care Society's Shorncliffe.

This auction was put on by Shorncliffe Auxiliary and they received many fine articles to auction off by auctioneer Jerry Berthelet, who gave his time and voice.

A very generous donation of six hours of time was given by alderman Harvey Bist. Two separate three-hour sessions were bid on to aid the fund by approximately $50.

The soon-to-be-opened Shorncliffe is going to feed a great need in this community, but it still needs more funds to buy the supplies not included in the initial cost. Very important items, so money must be found.

SHORNCLIFFE DANCE AND SMORGASBORD

A smorgasbord and dance is being held at the Welcome Beach Hall on November 19, Saturday, with dancing to the music of Paul Hansen on the organ. The cost is $10 each, and tickets may be obtained from Fiona West at 885-3483 or 885-9347. There is a limit of 80 tickets, so speak up early so you don't miss out. This is being put on by people of Halfmoon Bay. Anyone wishing to help may call 885-9347.

GARDEN CLUB WEDNESDAY

Harry Almond will give a slide presentation on his horticultural trip to Greece, at the Wednesday meeting.

The annual general meeting to elect the executive will be held on November 2 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Hilda's Church Hall, Sechelt. Paul Roth is nominating chairman.

BAZAARS THIS WEEK

The Rebekahs hold their bazaar at the St. Hilda's Hall, Sechelt, on Saturday, November 5 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Refreshments $1, lots of good home baking, white elephant, needlecraft, games of chance.

Roberts Creek Branch of St. Mary's Hospital Auxiliary have their Early Bird Bazaar starting at 12 noon and lasting to 2 p.m. at the Roberts Creek Community Hall on Saturday, November 5.

HONOURED GUEST AT REBEKAHS

President of the Rebekahs Assembly of British Columbia Audrey Johanson of Summerland and her marshal Helen Christiansen, were guests at a no-host dinner held at the Village Restaurant. The 22 present then proceeded to the lodge for their meeting where they were joined by members from Powell River and Langley and Summerland. Donations were made by the Rebekahs to Visual Research Fund for the hard of hearing, to Shorncliffe and to the Gibsons Museum.

Six veteran jewels were presented for 15 years. Included were, Nell Whaites, Joan Newsham, Phyllis Handford, Vilda Waters, Carrie Surtees, Gert Cox. Margaret Wise received her 20 year jewel, Elizabeth Fletcher had previously had her 20 year jewel presented to her by the district deputy Eileen Smith.

WILSON CREEK BRIDGE FOR NOVICES

Bridge lessons will be held for novices and for those who wish to upgrade their game at 1 p.m. on Thursday, November 3. The teacher is Jean Coyle. Phone Helen Heath at 885-9073 or Hazel Seaton at 885-5678 for bridge information.

Because the regular bridge day falls on November 11, the first Friday will be bridge day instead of the usual second week. So it is bridge at the Wilson Creek Community Hall on Friday, November

For the After-Pumpkin Party

Cream of Pumpkin & Shrimp Soup

- 2 lbs. pumpkin
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1 stick celery
- 7 cups boiled milk
- 2½ cups water
- 4 oz. peeled shrimps
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1 tablespoon unsalted butter

1. Peel and remove seeds from pumpkin. Dice pumpkin and celery. Place in saucepan with salt, pepper, milk and water. Simmer for 30 minutes or until pumpkin is cooked. Puree.
2. Puree shrimp and lemon juice with a cup of pumpkin mix. Add to soup and simmer for 10 minutes.
3. Add cayenne and butter. Simmer until butter melts. Stir and serve.

Every year I repeat this recipe it seems, but it's the best pumpkin pie I know

Pam's Perfect Pie

- 1-9" pie crust, uncooked
- 1 egg white
- 2 cups pumpkin puree
- 2 whole eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
- 1 cup brown sugar
- ½ teaspoon ground ginger
- ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- ¼ teaspoon ground mace
- ½ cup milk
- ½ cup whipping cream
- ¼ cup brandy (optional)

1. Roll out the pie crust and brush on the inside with unbeaten egg white.
2. In a large bowl beat eggs. Add pumpkin and beat again.
3. Add all other ingredients. Mix well and pour into pie shell.
4. Bake at 425° F for 10 minutes. Bake at 350° F for 50-55 minutes.

Caroline's Pumpkin Loaf

- 1½ cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup pumpkin puree
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup oil
- ½ cup currants

1. Peel and remove any "string" and seeds from pumpkin. Dice and steam until tender. Puree.
2. Beat egg. Beat in oil. Beat in pumpkin.
3. Sift dry ingredients into bowl. Stir into pumpkin mix. Add currants and stir in well.
4. Grease and flour loaf pan. Pour mix in.
5. Bake 50 minutes at 375° F
6. Loosen edges and turn out when cooled somewhat.

Look after your pumpkins "or the Gobble-uns'll git you if you don't watch out!"

Satellite Dish Programming

by Bill Edney

Satellite television is mushrooming right across the country. Hotels, motels, apartment blocks, condominium units, as well as thousands of private homes have installed dishes. Government radio and television licensing authorities tried, without success, to put a stop to it. You can't stop progress and you can't stop private initiative.

It is interesting to note that, with competition and volume of business, the price of dishes has come down very substantially, and probably will be reduced even further. They are now affordable.

With satellite dish viewing, and the very wide range of programmes to be received, it became obvious that a different TV programme guide was needed. Once again, by private initiative, this need has been met.

We now have a small supply of Satellite Dish Programme Guides, put out by Telescope Magazine, a company in Vernon, B.C. It will be available weekly at 95 cents per copy. The guide provides the various compass settings to "tune-in" on 17 different satellites. In turn, it provides information on the general type of programming offered by each, as well as the details and time schedules.

This is a must for worthwhile satellite TV viewing. I don't own a dish (as yet) but the foregoing comment is provided by a friend who does. If you wish to reserve copies so that we may intelligently forecast demand, please leave your name and phone number with our cashiers.

Alan Karmazyn, Mary Baecke, and Rod Crawford during the production of "Dracula" held over at Roberts Creek this week. Review below.

Count thrills and chills

by Judith Wilson

The legend of Dracula, the vampire count of Transylvania, continues to fascinate the modern audience. The sophisticated special effects of film and video cannot blunt the appeal of the bloodsucking count appearing in the flesh, so to speak.

The large and appreciative audiences who attended the Suncoast Players production of "Dracula, The Vampire Play" last week still thrilled to the count's neck biting exploits and his eventual destruction by the forces of good.

Alan Karmazyn was in every way the quintessence of sauve evil as Dracula. Whenever he made one of his dramatic appearances, eyes rolling, teeth gleaming and cloak swirling, the pace of a sometimes slow production immediately picked up.

As Van Helsing, the only man with the strength and knowledge to thwart Dracula in his evil plans, John Burnside gave a compelling performance. The play was at its most gripping when these two powerful performers confronted one another. If we had witnessed more of these moments and less tedious exposition the production would have been more consistently entertaining.

Unfortunately these problems with the script inhibited the play's effectiveness. Too many of the stirring events took place off-stage and were merely related to the audience. It is true of course that implied horror is often more effective than the real thing. Perhaps it is better not to use a bat at all, or to simulate its movements using lighting, than to have an audience amused by one which is obviously false and creaky of movement.

There were however many moments of genuine horror and surprise which admirably captured the true nature of the play; Dracula rising suddenly behind the sleeping Lucy, or Dracula entering with smoke rising around him, dogs howling and light glowing eerily.

As well as the obvious attractions of werewolves and vampires one of the reasons for the continued fascination of the Dracula story must be the conflict between good and evil. Unfortunately this issue was obscured in this production by the interpretation of the character of Renfield, played by Barry Krangle, who is pivotal to this conflict. The character is tormented by the fact that he will lose his soul if he yields to the temptations of his master, Dracula. He questions why God allows such evil to exist.

Renfield was played as a maniac loony whose distorted voice was difficult to understand and whose continual movement only distracted. His moments of sanity were lost and what should have been a chilling presence on stage was only distracting.

Of the other characters both Gordon Wilson as Dr. Seward and Rod Crawford as Jonathan Harker gave their usual competent performances. Both characters needed to be played with more style and definition. Seward was too ineffectually amiable and Harker too vaguely concerned. The possibilities of treating the partnership of Van Helsing and Seward like other famous twosomes such as Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson, and Don Quixote and Sancho Panza could have been developed.

Mary Baecke as Lucy Seward, beloved of both Dracula and Jonathan Harker, was very effective. She captured admirably the contrast between the daytime languor and the night-time avidity of her character. Her final scenes where she hungers for her fiance and then succumbs to the count were highlights of the play.

The character most obviously designed for comic relief was Butterworth, the attendant, admirably played by John Bolton with just the right zany Monty Pythonish approach.

As Miss Wells, the maid upon whom Butterworth has designs, Marcie Tentchoff made a fine effort. A little more pertness and more under-playing of reactions would have better complimented Bolton's style.

A firmer directorial hand in the overall orchestration of the play was needed in places. Act I in particular suffered from the slow pace. Cues were picked up too slowly, pauses were held for too long and there seemed to be occasional line problems. Blocking was at times sloppy, with characters caught in awkward positions. Overall a general tightening up of pace was required with more attention to variations in rhythm and pace build-up.

The set and the costumes were very effective. The grey, black and white colour scheme, relieved by touches of colour, helped create the right atmosphere. Small details such as the eerie engraving on the wall and the almost bat-like silhouettes on the wall-paper enhanced the gloomy effect. It was unfortunate that a less cumbersome way of setting up the final scene could not have been found.

The taking of flash bulb photos during the performance should be discouraged. It is annoying to the audience and surely distracting to the actors. The audience would not then have been treated to the spectacle of one determined lady stepping almost into the coffin to take her photo and thus obscuring the climactic moment of Dracula's demise from half the spectators.

"Dracula, The Vampire Play" has been held over. It is well worth seeing for the strong performances of Burnside, Karmazyn and Baecke and the truly theatrical conflicts. Many of the problems mentioned here could be eliminated in a few rehearsals with the very competent cast and their obviously capable director, Janet Dolman.

Lament for the Western Part IX

Towards the end of the Fifties Gary Cooper appeared in three western films: Man of the West; They Came to Cordura and The Hanging Tree. In the first and least of these, Cooper, miscast in a role too young for him, plays a former outlaw who is forced to rejoin his old gang. Cordura, a much better film, is an intelligent probe into the nature of courage. Cooper plays an army major in 1915 Mexico, accused of cowardice. During an arduous trek across the desert, he succeeds in redeeming himself. This well-cast, expensively-made film has classic potential and Cooper turns in a strong acting job, but the picture was reportedly ruined by clumsy re-editing.

Of the three films, The Hanging Tree seems to work best and is my personal favourite. It is a brooding, almost allegorical drama set in a remote mining camp in the Cascades. Doc Frail (an embittered, alcoholic physician played by Cooper), has come to the raw mountain community to drink and gamble away his last years. But his social consciousness is reawakened when a blinded white girl, (well-played by Maria Schell), sole survivor of an Indian attack, is brought to the camp. Cooper undertakes to tend her wounds and in the attachment that develops he finds personal redemption. Karl Malden plays a sleazy gambler who lusts for the girl and George C. Scott, a mad preacher. A moving, offbeat and generally unappreciated picture, it was Cooper's final stand in the filmic Old West. He died two years later in 1962. There would be no more High Noons.

One further film, also released in 1959, is well worthy of mention. It is a sprawling, complex epic called Warlock. The large cast is headed by such reliable performers as Henry Fonda, Anthony Quinn and Richard Widmark. Fonda plays a town-tamer (a sort of freelance marshall), who is hired by the town of Warlock to rid it of the outlaws who hold it in thrall. He arrives with his gambler/gunman partner, Anthony Quinn, who immediately sets up shop in the largest salon. Widmark plays a former member of the outlaw gang who has turned on his former cronies and taken the job of sheriff. The various plot ramifications are too tangled to go into. Let us say there is no lack of action. The Fonda/Quinn characters are obviously modelled on Wyatt Earp and Doc Holliday. This film tells what might have happened had they stuck together as a team. A worthy film, hard-nosed, thought-provoking and again, under-rated.

Juried show sees locals featured

by Joan Huestis Foster

The most interesting thing about annual juried exhibitions, is that each year a judge shows you a new aspect of Coast art. Every show is completely different from the one which preceded it. Don't expect to agree with the judge, but enjoy the show as his view of our art.

For this exhibition there were 89 entries, a light turnout for an area as active as this.

I truly wish the Art Centre would refrain from mixing photography with painting and sculpture. The photographers have their own show and I would rather not see the boundaries narrowed between the two. However, among the photographs, Sheila Page will really make you laugh with her "Houseplants" and "Biker", as will Vene Parnell with "Party". A little wit never devalued anything.

Trudy Small never ceases to amaze me with her versatility and her switch abouts. This time she has two lovely big bird paintings. Heavily textured, they verge on relief sculpture with her colours very romantic.

Among the florals, Eve Smart has a delightful, ingenuous little bunch of purple African violets and Kathleen Wells has some smart, bright pansies. Susan Wolpert has made a cut paper collage into a great looking garden. "California Poppies" by Sue Clarke is a primary colour composition in complimentary colours, which looks sharp but not a bit hard. A difficult problem for a painter to set and so gracefully accomplished.

In tribute to autumn, there are some charming spikey chestnuts by Maurice Spira and some interesting pepper squash by Uta Hagen.

In scenic work, Brenda Straight shows us "Storm Dance", an evocative painting of trees whipping around in foggy dusk and there is more fog to be seen in "Forest in Springtime" by Lou Farrell. Kay Cole again demonstrates her veracity with a tossed beach scene.

But let's talk about Marilyn Rutledge who exhibits a pastel drawing of "House by the Side of the Road" and an oil of the same scene. Marilyn has an amazing way of filtering light into her foreground. The drawing records the scene, but the painting lights and heats it. When I see one of Marilyn Rutledge's paintings, I find myself wanting to visit the spot and get to know the people. I really want to go in to her houses and I don't know what makes me feel that way. I think she must be a very good painter.

Of the sculpture, I was far more intrigued by "Man and Son" by prize-winning sculptor Charles Armstrong than I was by "Eastern Reflections", but there we go battling the judge again.

Bring the children along to see this fine exhibition at the Art Centre across from Hackett Park in Sechelt. You will be glad you made the effort.

Prize winners for this annual event were: June Boe, Geoffrey Campbell and Charles Armstrong. Honourable Mentions were won by: Marilyn Rutledge, Maurice Spira, Sheila Page and R.T. Finlayson.

Judging the show was Professor Robert Steele of UBC.

Mephisto visits Arts Centre

The 1982 Academy Award winner, "Mephisto", is an engrossing drama about a brilliant German actor who makes a Faustian pact to gain prestige when the Nazis come to power. Handsomely produced, with stunning performances. Based on the novel by Klaus Mann, son of Thomas. At the Arts Centre, 8 p.m., Wednesday, November 2. Seniors and students $2.50, adults $3.50.

En Francais

Editor's Note: In recognition of the Francophones living on the Coast, the Coast News is delighted to be able to provide a small corner of the newspaper for articles written in French. The following item is the first of what we hope will become a regular feature—"En Francais"

by Michel Mombleau

Une association Francaise sur la Sunshine Coast (cote du soleil) ca me semble une bonne idee. Il y a de plus en plus de personne de langue Francaise qui vivent sur la cote.

Une association pourrait nous permettre de nous connaitre d'analyser nos besoins et peut-etre aussi d'avoir d'autre article en Francaise dans la Coast News. A tout ceux interesse il y aura une reunion mercredi le deux Novembre a Community Use Room, a Roberts Creek. Pour information, Michel Mombleau a 886-3750 ou Jean-Pierre Leblanc. 885-7951. New coaches qualify

Sunshine Coast Minor Hockey Association

Approximately 20 men and boys attended our annual referees' clinic last Sunday. The clinic consisted of lectures, movies and "on ice" training. Rumour has it that everyone passed the test and it is encouraging to know that such a large group of qualified referees are now available for minor hockey.

Minor hockey continues to prosper with an additional seven players signing up in the last week. We now have more participants than we did last year. The exhibition season is in full swing. The purpose of these games is to identify the players' capabilities so that teams may be balanced for the remainder of the season. Practice sessions will be started after the exhibition series.

The minor hockey organization is running smoother than ever. The teething problems of yesteryear have resulted in the development of a constitution and policy statement which makes for greater efficiency. Although complaints are still heard, they are getting less. The executive would appreciate receiving suggestions and complaints in writing so they can be dealt with properly.

Tennis Club

As a result of an organizational meeting held on Wednesday, October 12, at Elphinstone Secondary school, the Elphinstone Tennis Club has been formed.

Between 20 and 25 members were signed up; anyone else wishing to join for the $10 fee should contact Lee Brown at 885-7006 or any of the other executive members.

Rugby club dines on Red Lions

The Gibsons Rugby Club got back on the track Saturday when they came back from a dismal and lethargic first half to hammer the visiting Red Lions of Vancouver, 22-6.

The locals, coming off two losses to Vancouver clubs, were shaky in the first half, managing only four points against the Lions' three. But in the second half, as some of the vacationing players got back into the groove, Gibsons came on to completely demolish the Lions.

Among the points scored were two penalty kicks by Grant Gill, and trys by John Duffy and Jim Attenbrough. Typical of the play was Duffy's try on a steal from the Lions' five yard line. The hapless Red Lion, who had earlier taken a chippy punch at his Gibsons opposite number, picked the ball out of a five yard scrum and assumed the strong position, awaiting the support of his team mates. Gibsons forward John Duffy simply stripped the ball and carried it into the end zone for the four points.

Gibsons players attributed this week's strong performance to some key players returning from holidays and to coach John Sutherland's disciplined coaching methods.

Rugby action resumes Saturday when the GRC hosts arch-rival Scribes of Vancouver at the Elphinstone field at 11:30.

Strikes and Spares

by Bud Mulcaster

We held an eight game singles tournament last Sunday with bowlers from Old Orchard Lanes and this time most of the money went to Old Orchard bowlers. Betty Jarvis and Queenie Hodder took first and second place money and Gibsons bowlers Fran Clarkson took third place, Penny Whiting fourth place, Lorne Christie sixth place, and Don Slack tenth place.

Lorne also took two high singles and the highest game with a 391 scratch score. It's basically a fun tournament and a good time was had by all.

In league action, Bonnie McConnell rolled a 313 single and a 944 four game total, Andy Henderson a 324 single and a 1,010 four game total in the Classic League and in the Gibsons 'A' League, Jim Knowles rolled a 308 single.

In the Slough-off League, Pat Gibson had a 302 single and a 713 triple, Nora Solinsky a 296-759 triple in the Tuesday Coffee, Jamie Gill a 298-674 in the Ball & Chain and Petra Nelson a 298-691 triple in the Phuntastique League.

Business Update

Proprietors of Expo Dry Cleaners, the newly opened drycleaning establishment in Lower Gibsons, are Tarry Giannakos and Philip Desrosiers. —Judith Wilson photo

Local businessmen clean up

A new enterprise recently opened in lower Gibsons by energetic local businessmen Tarry Giannakos and Philip Desrosiers is a dry cleaning establishment which provides services not found elsewhere on the Coast.

Expo Dry Cleaners, situated in the Omega block next to the Omega restaurant, in lower Gibsons offers a shirt service for all types of dress shirts, and dry cleaning for leathers, furs, sleeping bags, in fact anything. "There are no limits," says Tarry.

He explained why their store is devoid of the usual clanking apparatus and noise normally associated with dry cleaning establishments. Their orders are not processed locally as a plant able to deal with linens and leathers would cost $¼ million to establish.

Instead the goods to be dry cleaned are taken into Vancouver every morning on the 6:30 ferry in the partners mini-van. The orders are brought back the next day. Thus Tarry and Phil can offer a 48 hour service which seems to be "more than good enough" for their customers.

Their van is in use also as part of the drapery dry cleaning service they offer. They will pick up the drapes to be dry cleaned from the customer's home and return them when they are finished.

Further investments contemplated by these active businessmen include investment in the plant which is processing their goods in Vancouver and expansion of their dry cleaning operation to Sechelt before the end of the year.

In addition to their dry cleaning service Tarry and Philip, (that's one "l", like the Prince) offer free rides to the 6:30 ferry every morning. They do this to highlight the need for such a commuter service on a long-term basis.

No reservations are necessary. They are happy to transport anyone who is outside the dry cleaners at 6:10 in the morning. Although the partners return on the 9:30 ferry they make a special trip to pick up their commuters from the 5:30 evening ferry. It is possible that they will extend this free commuter service to Sechelt once they open their dry cleaners there.

"We felt there was a market gap on the Coast which we could fill," smiles Tarry as he hints at other business areas into which he may expand.

The indefatigable Mr. Giannakos has also filed his papers as an aldermanic candidate in the upcoming municipal elections.

Clean water costly

Recent concern over the degree of colouration of the Coast's water supply, has resulted in a report being submitted to the Sunshine Coast Regional District from the engineering firm of Dayton and Knight.

The report, which was received at Thursday's regular SCRD meeting, showed that elimination of the "brownish tinge" which occasionally occurs in local water, would cost $1 million in capital costs and $100,000 in annual maintenance costs.

The problem is caused partly by peat moss adjacent to water supplies and a high iron content in local soils. Dayton and Knight concluded that: "In our estimation, the Chapman Creek water quality is within the top third of water sources in British Columbia and there is little need for improvement."

The regional board voted to pass the report to Stuart Lefeaux while expressing some reluctance to spend large sums of taxpayers' money to correct a problem which is primarily aesthetic.

Parks plan proposal accepted

A proposal from consulting engineer Stuart Lefeaux to redraft the Sunshine Coast Regional District official parks plan in accordance with the provincial government's suggestions and the SCRD's anticipated new functions, was accepted by the regional district at Thursday's regular meeting.

The plan, which Lefeaux originally prepared, will be redrafted for a cost of $1,875.

Beware of beachwood

The recent conviction of a Sunshine Coast resident for illegally salvaging a log for firewood has resulted in a reminder from the B.C. Forest Service of the conditions under which beach-wood can be taken for that purpose.

R. Frederickson of the scaling section of the B.C. Forest Service informed the Coast News that people salvaging logs without a licence may not only be breaking the law but depriving legitimate licenced log salvors of their livelihood.

All logs branded with a timber mark are the private property of the mark holder.

Further, according to B.C. Forest Service guidelines, "any unmarked logs considered of merchantable value may be legally collected only by official, permit holding log salvors."

All other logs on the beach may be collected by people seeking firewood, subject only to local constraints which include Mr. Fredrickson's reminder that, "District permits are issued to salvage material from unmerchantable logs for commercial and/or sale purposes. On such material, a nominal stumpage fee is payable to the crown."

According to the B.C. Forest Service, "Marked logs are easy to recognize; just check the ends for the brand number. Unmarked but merchantable logs are more difficult for the general public to identify. A good rule of thumb is to leave any sizeable, fresh-looking logs alone and stick to the bleached logs that have obviously been on the beach for some time."

The penalties which exist for the taking of merchantable logs include charges being laid under the Criminal Code in the case of marked logs, and under the Forest Act for unmarked logs.

Police news of the week

THe RCMP wishes to advise all the Hallowe'en trick-or-treaters to make themselves visible to traffic on the road by wearing light costumes and face masks that do not impair vision or hearing. If possible, children should carry a flashlight and they should avoid darting across the road without taking the usual precautions.

The police also wish to remind everyone that the use of firecrackers is illegal in the town of Gibsons.

GIBSONS RCMP

On the 22nd: Road signs and rural mail boxes were knocked over by vandals in the Gower Point Road and Glassford Road area.

On the 23rd: A fence was knocked over by a vehicle on Davis Road. The vehicle also did some damage to the lawn. Police have no suspects.

A step ladder was stolen from the Bals Lane area.

A homemade drill press has been found and can be claimed at the RCMP detachment by quoting file No. 83/3294.

On the 25th: Someone broke into a shed located on Gower Point Road. Nothing was taken.

Thirty-two year old David Bland was charged with impaired driving after police stopped him while he was driving his motorcycle in the Highway 101 and School Road area. Police stopped him after they noticed his motorcycle's lights were not turned on.

A sledge hammer has been turned in at the RCMP detachment and can be claimed by quoting file No. 83/3302.

On the 27th: Willful damage was done to the grounds of the Cedar Grove Elementary School. The damage was located north of the grassy area of the school and was caused by a vehicle.

SECHELT RCMP

On the 22nd: Shots were reported from the Francis Peninsula Road area. They appeared to have been caused by the use of a high powered rifle.

On the 23rd: Two motorcycles that were reported stolen from Nickerson Road were recovered by police. Charges are pending.

On the 24th: Gas was syphoned from the tank of a truck belonging to a Madeira Park business.

On the 25th: A resident of Greene Court on Ocean Drive in Sechelt awakened in the middle of the night just in time to chase away two persons who had broken into a freezer located at the back of the building. The thieves managed to steal some meat and some Hallowe'en treats.

A blue 10-speed bicycle has been found and can be claimed at the RCMP detachment by quoting file No. 83/3654.

A cutting torch valued at $500 was stolen from the back of a truck parked at a Norwest Bay Road residence.

On the 26th: Two spare tires were stolen from the park rangers compound in the Porpoise Bay Provincial Park.

On the 27th: Shots were heard from the Wakefield ravine in West Sechelt; they appeared to originate from a high powered rifle.

An adult male was arrested for shoplifting cigarettes from the Shop-Easy store at the Trail Bay Mall.

A hubcap valued at $150 was stolen in the Davis Bay area.

Elves Club ready again

by Jacquie Braun

What is it?

The Elves Club is a non-profit society, run by volunteers in your area.

Their busy time is Christmas, when they gather donations and make up hampers which are delivered to needy people in this area, Egmont to Port Mellon.

The rest of the year, they are still here leading their regular lives, helping fire victims who lose their homes to fires by giving them burned out 'vouchers' for the local food stores.

As a society, all cash donations are issued a tax deductible receipt, a point to keep in mind for income tax time.

How do they stay alive as a club?

They depend on donations and volunteers. They receive no financial help from any government. They depend solely on help from the public and the business community.

The store or office space used for depots, the homes used for storage, the hall used for hamper making, are all donated. Volunteers do all the organizing, running around, and delivering.

Without these donations and volunteers, there would be no hampers, no Christmas dinner for many needy people and worst of all, nothing for the children.

The hampers from the Elves Club contain a basic food list centered around Christmas. For example, a hamper may contain a turkey, cranberry sauce, vegetables, bread, Christmas cake, pudding or jello, jam, coffee or tea, canned fish or meat, soup and canned milk. Other items depend on whatever is donated; last year some had flour, fresh potatoes, fresh carrots, cake mix, etc.

They also contain gifts for all the children in the needy family and sometimes a small item for the adult.

Who gets a hamper?

If you need a hamper you apply for one. The application and its information is kept confidential. If someone you know is in need, you may apply for them. Applications are going out shortly and will be available from our club and from the Human Resources Office, Sechelt.

Elphinstone grad news

by Gail Stewart

On October 26, the RCMP band 'Bison' gave a performance for the school as well as for the community in the evening.

Grads are reminded that grad fees ($16) and the cost of the Dogwood holders ($6) must be paid immediately. Grad write-ups should be in by now.

Grad photos will be taken on November 14 and 15. Packages range from $20-100.

The grad trip to Seattle is postponed due to the cost, but may take place later in the year.

The Elphinstone Grads of '84 are pleased to announce an up and coming prom on December 9 from 8 p.m. - 12 midnight for the 1984 grads and their escorts from Chatelech, Pender Harbour and Elphinstone. There has never been a prom like this before on the Coast and we are all looking forward to it. Tickets will be $5 minimum (based on response). The band will be "Triax".

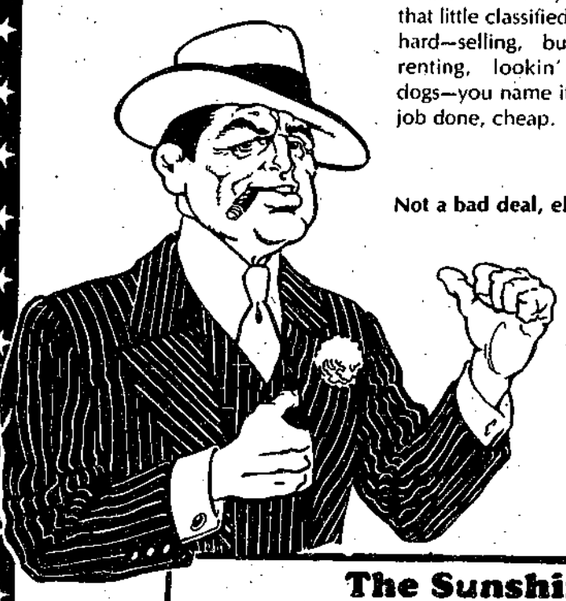
I'll make you an offer you can't refuse!

Here's da scoop. When you run a classified in the Coast News, include your name and phone number. Each week we picks out a lucky winner, then we gives dem a call.

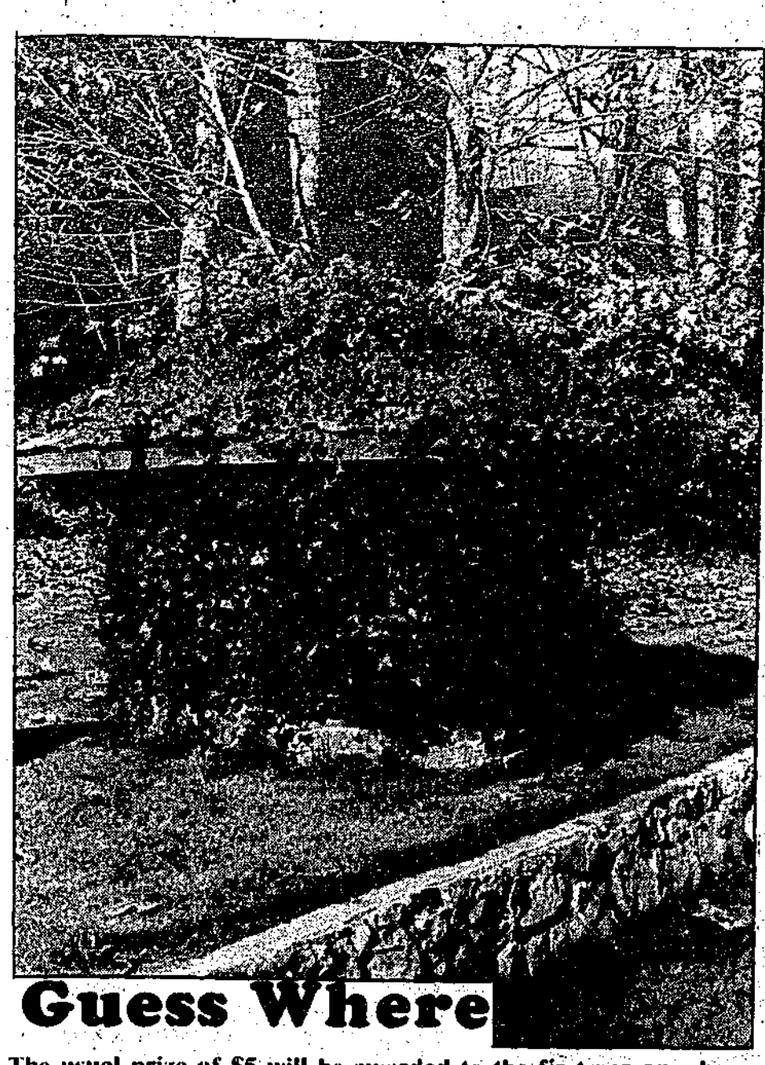
Da prize is dinner for two at PEBBLES RESTAURANT at da foot of Trail Bay in Sechelt.

And while they're out Ritz'n it up, that little classified ad will be working hard—selling, buying, announcing, renting, lookin' for lost puppy dogs—you name it, classifieds get the job done, cheap.

Not a bad deal, eh!



The Sunshine COAST NEWS



Guess Where

The usual prize of $5 will be awarded to the first person whose name is drawn correctly identifying the location of the above. Send entries to the Coast News, Box 460, Gibsons, in time to reach the newspaper office by Saturday of this week. Last week's winner is Neale Scott, R.R. 2, Leek Road, Gibsons, who correctly located the boat house on the beach near Edmonds Road in Roberts Creek.

Emergency group plans future

by Peggy Connor

Assistant manager Lower Mainland region Ross McIntyre met with the Sunshine Coast Emergency Executive Committee on October 25 at the SCRD meeting room. This was the second visit to this PEP group and he told them they were considered one of the more active groups and in a better position to cope. The state of preparedness has been looked at by the whole regional office with particular attention to municipal plans.

The chairman of the executive committee, Pat Murphy, reported on his recent training session in Arnprior, Ontario. He found the instructors very knowledgeable giving a good grounding in training for any emergency. The need was stressed of having a disaster plan and the need for the public to be aware of what is in the plan.

A person who has familiarized himself with all facets of disaster, Professor Joe Scanlon, a disaster investigator, was the final speaker at the seminar, and was excellent. Anyone taking this course should stay with the PEP for one year after to pass on information gained.

Co-ordinator Art McPhee spoke on the area co-ordinator's workshop held in the Marine Room at Gibsons on Saturday, October 22. The aim of this workshop was to enhance emergency preparedness in each municipality.

Taking part in the workshop were: Lower Mainland regional manager Frank Clegg, assistant manager Ross McIntyre, regional training officer Ian Young, co-ordinators Pat O'Neil from Powell River and Marcel Andric of Lions Bay, Art McPhee local co-ordinator and his alternate Doug Dickson, and public relations officer Peggy Connor. Mayor Lorraine Goddard welcomed the members of the workshop and stayed to watch the film shown by Ian Young.

"Will You Be Ready" is the title of the video tape filmed and narrated and in parts acted by Ian Young. A variety of disaster potentials were shown, pointing out some of the immediate complications that could develop and asking some very pertinent questions, such as; what and who has the authority to act, what decisions to make and what resources are available? A disaster plan and actions during a disaster cannot be found wanting, there must be proven response procedure. Art McPhee requested the film for showing to the regional board directors as it is of most interest to them and municipal officers.

This week Dr. Petzold is off to Arnprior for a health and welfare course. Roy Morris is first on the list for the next course and Jim Johnstone goes to Victoria for a disaster orientation course.

The Joint Emergency Program has spent $200,000 on communications. This is largely federal money for base and mobile equipment and only awaits a federal audit before distribution. We should be hearing about that in the near future.

Local Beavers

and leaders, so good luck to all of them.

Leader Bill would like to know if there are any adults in the area who have a particularly interesting hobby or activity which they would like to share with these young boys. He would be pleased to hear from anyone who would be willing to come along to a meeting to have a chat with the kids on such a subject. You would sure have a captive audience if you can come up with something as these little fellows are bubbling over with enthusiasm and want to know all about everything.

VELLY SOLLY

I have a big "oops" from last week's column. Due to a misunderstanding on my part, I mentioned that Peggy Connor would be taking over as chairman of the Halfmoon Bay Recreation Commission. Not so—she did in fact express here willingness to be on the board, but not to chair it. There will be a meeting this week at which it will be established who will hold what position and maybe after that I'll get it right.

Don't forget on this Hallowe'en night that you don't have to take the litt' ones from door-to-door for tre[illegible] as all the fun will be at the fire hall. Fireworks display will be just off the Halfmoon Bay dock at seven followed by the big bonfire and party at the fire hall. See you there.

GOOD WISHES

The good wishes of all of us go out to young Erin Kelly who has been under the weather. At the same time we extend our sympathy to Vivian Sorenson and Jim Kelly on the death of their mother, Mrs. Kelly, in Calgary.

NEED A CAT?

Residence for seniors

Further details on the proposed retirement home development on property next to the Ritz Motel were presented to Gibsons council at last week's planning meeting. Mr. Kevin Ryan, representing as yet unnamed out of town clients, explained that the developers plan to construct a 59 unit strata title/rental facility for retired and/or handicapped persons.

Nearby undeveloped land, zoned for parks, on Truman Road could become a pleasant "nature-type" park if federal funding is available.

Egmont News

Bazaar winners

by Ann Cook, 883-9167

COMMUNITY NEWS

The bazaar/rummage sale last Sunday was a success. The weather was good, people were happy to be out and around.

Raffle winners were: Nena Whittaker for first prize, a Barbie doll with wardrobe; L. Hartley, Sechelt, second prize of a plant; third prize to Elaine Griffith, a homebaked cake; and Doug Williams won a hamper.

There was enough money taken in that I didn't feel guilty asking to have our Thrift Store renovated and spruced up and some repairs done to the hall. Our Thrift Store is as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard, as we donated all the clothing to the African refugees after reading Joan McLeods appeal in the Coast News for good used clothing. I'm curious; I wonder how Africans can wear polyester and all those non-breathing synthetic materials when they have been used to that nice light-weight cotton we get from Africa. I would be happy to trade 60 bags of polyester for one good cotton wrap-around skirt, with or without a top.

Now it's our turn to "appeal" for good used clothing to restock our store.

TENNIS COURT

The "general" meeting last week had a good turnout and was interesting. The tennis court fence isn't "on the fence".

Irvines Landing Community Club gave us a Bingo set, now we need a caller. It's a game that's a lot more fun to play than call. Anyone want to be it?

Brian Campo and Hydro Denny (that neat guitar player I told you about a couple of columns ago), were elected to the board. Both are interested in community happenings. It's always good to have some new energy. Thanks fellas, glad to have you with us.

With the co-operation of Joe, the bartender, a Meat Draw will be happening on Sunday afternoons at the Backeddy. This coming Sunday, November 6, will be our trial run; come and join the confusion. The proceeds go to the Egmont community club.

"Pegasus" has been the live entertainment at the Backeddy. They are locals and they are good. They seem to really enjoy playing and singing, have lots of energy and good vibes. Joe, the bartender, says they will be back soon.

SCHOOL NEWS

Hustle and bustle at school this week. Decorating the hall for Hallowe'en, making costumes, plus keeping up on school work, has made one busy week. Donna Bernizen, the sub-teacher that everyone likes, was in for a day. Erin Fearn had a birthday party and Bathgate's store has all this neat Hallowe'en stuff.

School days are happy days.

Happy belated birthday wishes to Coleen Silvey and Helen J.

Police news of the week

THe RCMP wishes to advise all the Hallowe'en trick-or-treaters to make themselves visible to traffic on the road by wearing light costumes and face masks that do not impair vision or hearing. If possible, children should carry a flashlight and they should avoid darting across the road without taking the usual precautions.

The police also wish to remind everyone that the use of firecrackers is illegal in the town of Gibsons.

GIBSONS RCMP

On the 22nd: Road signs and rural mail boxes were knocked over by vandals in the Gower Point Road and Glassford Road area.

On the 23rd: A fence was knocked over by a vehicle on Davis Road. The vehicle also did some damage to the lawn. Police have no suspects.

A step ladder was stolen from the Bals Lane area.

A homemade drill press has been found and can be claimed at the RCMP detachment by quoting file No. 83/3294.

On the 25th: Someone broke into a shed located on Gower Point Road. Nothing was taken.

Thirty-two year old David Bland was charged with impaired driving after police stopped him while he was driving his motorcycle in the Highway 101 and School Road area. Police stopped him after they noticed his motorcycle's lights were not turned on.

A sledge hammer has been turned in at the RCMP detachment and can be claimed by quoting file No. 83/3302.

On the 27th: Willful damage was done to the grounds of the Cedar Grove Elementary School. The damage was located north of the grassy area of the school and was caused by a vehicle.

SECHELT RCMP

On the 22nd: Shots were reported from the Francis Peninsula Road area. They appeared to have been caused by the use of a high powered rifle.

On the 23rd: Two motorcycles that were reported stolen from Nickerson Road were recovered by police. Charges are pending.

On the 24th: Gas was syphoned from the tank of a truck belonging to a Madeira Park business.

On the 25th: A resident of Greene Court on Ocean Drive in Sechelt awakened in the middle of the night just in time to chase away two persons who had broken into a freezer located at the back of the building. The thieves managed to steal some meat and some Hallowe'en treats.

A blue 10-speed bicycle has been found and can be claimed at the RCMP detachment by quoting file No. 83/3654.

A cutting torch valued at $500 was stolen from the back of a truck parked at a Norwest Bay Road residence.

On the 26th: Two spare tires were stolen from the park rangers compound in the Porpoise Bay Provincial Park.

On the 27th: Shots were heard from the Wakefield ravine in West Sechelt; they appeared to originate from a high powered rifle.

An adult male was arrested for shoplifting cigarettes from the Shop-Easy store at the Trail Bay Mall.

A hubcap valued at $150 was stolen in the Davis Bay area.

Elves Club ready again

by Jacquie Braun

What is it?

The Elves Club is a non-profit society, run by volunteers in your area.

Their busy time is Christmas, when they gather donations and make up hampers which are delivered to needy people in this area, Egmont to Port Mellon.

The rest of the year, they are still here leading their regular lives, helping fire victims who lose their homes to fires by giving them burned out 'vouchers' for the local food stores.

As a society, all cash donations are issued a tax deductible receipt, a point to keep in mind for income tax time.

How do they stay alive as a club?

They depend on donations and volunteers. They receive no financial help from any government. They depend solely on help from the public and the business community.

The store or office space used for depots, the homes used for storage, the hall used for hamper making, are all donated. Volunteers do all the organizing, running around, and delivering.

Without these donations and volunteers, there would be no hampers, no Christmas dinner for many needy people and worst of all, nothing for the children.

The hampers from the Elves Club contain a basic food list centered around Christmas. For example, a hamper may contain a turkey, cranberry sauce, vegetables, bread, Christmas cake, pudding or jello, jam, coffee or tea, canned fish or meat, soup and canned milk. Other items depend on whatever is donated; last year some had flour, fresh potatoes, fresh carrots, cake mix, etc.

They also contain gifts for all the children in the needy family and sometimes a small item for the adult.

Who gets a hamper?

If you need a hamper you apply for one. The application and its information is kept confidential. If someone you know is in need, you may apply for them. Applications are going out shortly and will be available from our club and from the Human Resources Office, Sechelt.

Elphinstone grad news

by Gail Stewart

On October 26, the RCMP band 'Bison' gave a performance for the school as well as for the community in the evening.

Grads are reminded that grad fees ($16) and the cost of the Dogwood holders ($6) must be paid immediately. Grad write-ups should be in by now.

Grad photos will be taken on November 14 and 15. Packages range from $20-100.

The grad trip to Seattle is postponed due to the cost, but may take place later in the year.

The Elphinstone Grads of '84 are pleased to announce an up and coming prom on December 9 from 8 p.m. - 12 midnight for the 1984 grads and their escorts from Chatelech, Pender Harbour and Elphinstone. There has never been a prom like this before on the Coast and we are all looking forward to it. Tickets will be $5 minimum (based on response). The band will be "Triax".

I'll make you an offer you can't refuse!

Here's da scoop. When you run a classified in the Coast News, include your name and phone number. Each week we picks out a lucky winner, then we gives dem a call.

Da prize is dinner for two at PEBBLES RESTAURANT at da foot of Trail Bay in Sechelt.

And while they're out Ritz'n it up, that little classified ad will be working hard—selling, buying, announcing, renting, lookin' for lost puppy dogs—you name it, classifieds get the job done, cheap.

Not a bad deal, eh!

The Sunshine COAST NEWS

Guess Where

The usual prize of $5 will be awarded to the first person whose name is drawn correctly identifying the location of the above. Send entries to the Coast News, Box 460, Gibsons, in time to reach the newspaper office by Saturday of this week. Last week's winner is Neale Scott, R.R. 2, Leek Road, Gibsons, who correctly located the boat house on the beach near Edmonds Road in Roberts Creek.

Emergency group plans future

by Peggy Connor

Assistant manager Lower Mainland region Ross McIntyre met with the Sunshine Coast Emergency Executive Committee on October 25 at the SCRD meeting room. This was the second visit to this PEP group and he told them they were considered one of the more active groups and in a better position to cope. The state of preparedness has been looked at by the whole regional office with particular attention to municipal plans.

The chairman of the executive committee, Pat Murphy, reported on his recent training session in Arnprior, Ontario. He found the instructors very knowledgeable giving a good grounding in training for any emergency. The need was stressed of having a disaster plan and the need for the public to be aware of what is in the plan.

A person who has familiarized himself with all facets of disaster, Professor Joe Scanlon, a disaster investigator, was the final speaker at the seminar, and was excellent. Anyone taking this course should stay with the PEP for one year after to pass on information gained.

Co-ordinator Art McPhee spoke on the area co-ordinator's workshop held in the Marine Room at Gibsons on Saturday, October 22. The aim of this workshop was to enhance emergency preparedness in each municipality.

Taking part in the workshop were: Lower Mainland regional manager Frank Clegg, assistant manager Ross McIntyre, regional training officer Ian Young, co-ordinators Pat O'Neil from Powell River and Marcel Andrie of Lions Bay, Art McPhee local co-ordinator and his alternate Doug Dickson, and public relations officer Peggy Connor. Mayor Lorraine Goddard welcomed the members of the workshop and stayed to watch the film shown by Ian Young.

"Will You Be Ready" is the title of the video tape filmed and narrated and in parts acted by Ian Young. A variety of disaster potentials were shown, pointing out some of the immediate complications that could develop and asking some very pertinent questions, such as; what and who has the authority to act, what decisions to make and what resources are available? A disaster plan and actions during a disaster cannot be found wanting, there must be proven response procedure. Art McPhee requested the film for showing to the regional board directors as it is of most interest to them and municipal officers.

This week Dr. Petzold is off to Arnprior for a health and welfare course. Roy Morris is first on the list for the next course and Jim Johnstone goes to Victoria for a disaster orientation course.

The Joint Emergency Program has spent $200,000 on communications. This is largely federal money for base and mobile equipment and only awaits a federal audit before distribution. We should be hearing about that in the near future.

Local Beavers

and leaders, so good luck to all of them.

Leader Bill would like to know if there are any adults in the area who have a particularly interesting hobby or activity which they would like to share with these young boys. He would be pleased to hear from anyone who would be willing to come along to a meeting to have a chat with the kids on such a subject. You would sure have a captive audience if you can come up with something as these little fellows are bubbling over with enthusiasm and want to know all about everything.

YELLY SOLLY

I have a big "oops" from last week's column. Due to a misunderstanding on my part, I mentioned that Peggy Connor would be taking over as chairman of the Halfmoon Bay Recreation Commission. Not so—she did in fact express here willingness to be on the board, but not to chair it. There will be a meeting this week at which it will be established who will hold what position and maybe after that I'll get it right.

Don't forget on this Hallowe'en night that you don't have to take the litt' ones from door-to-door for tre[illegible] as all the fun will be at the fire hall. Fireworks display will be just off the Halfmoon Bay dock at seven followed by the big bonfire and party at the fire hall. See you there.

GOOD WISHES

The good wishes of all of us go out to young Erin Kelly who has been under the weather. At the same time we extend our sympathy to Vivian Sorenson and Jim Kelly on the death of their mother, Mrs. Kelly, in Calgary.

Residence for seniors

Further details on the proposed retirement home development on property next to the Ritz Motel were presented to Gibsons council at last week's planning meeting. Mr. Kevin Ryan, representing as yet unnamed out of town clients, explained that the developers plan to construct a 59 unit strata title/rental facility for retired and/or handicapped persons.

Nearby undeveloped land, zoned for parks, on Truman Road could become a pleasant "nature-type" park if federal funding is available.

Bazaar winners

by Ann Cook, 883-9167

COMMUNITY NEWS

The bazaar/rummage sale last Sunday was a success. The weather was good, people were happy to be out and around.

Raffle winners were: Nena Whittaker for first prize, a Barbie doll with wardrobe; L. Hartley, Sechelt, second prize of a plant; third prize to Elaine Griffith, a homebaked cake; and Doug Williams won a hamper.

There was enough money taken in that I didn't feel guilty asking to have our Thrift Store renovated and spruced up and some repairs done to the hall. Our Thrift Store is as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard, as we donated all the clothing to the African refugees after reading Joan McLeods appeal in the Coast News for good used clothing. I'm curious; I wonder how Africans can wear polyester and all those non-breathing synthetic materials when they have been used to that nice light-weight cotton we get from Africa. I would be happy to trade 60 bags of polyester for one good cotton wrap-around skirt, with or without a top.

Now it's our turn to "appeal" for good used clothing to restock our store.

TENNIS COURT

The "general" meeting last week had a good turnout and was interesting. The tennis court fence isn't "on the fence".

Irvines Landing Community Club gave us a Bingo set, now we need a caller. It's a game that's a lot more fun to play than call. Anyone want to be it?

Brian Campo and Hydro Denny (that neat guitar player I told you about a couple of columns ago), were elected to the board. Both are interested in community happenings. It's always good to have some new energy. Thanks fellas, glad to have you with us.

With the co-operation of Joe, the bartender, a Meat Draw will be happening on Sunday afternoons at the Backeddy. This coming Sunday, November 6, will be our trial run; come and join the confusion. The proceeds go to the Egmont community club.

"Pegasus" has been the live entertainment at the Backeddy. They are locals and they are good. They seem to really enjoy playing and singing, have lots of energy and good vibes. Joe, the bartender, says they will be back soon.

SCHOOL NEWS

Hustle and bustle at school this week. Decorating the hall for Hallowe'en, making costumes, plus keeping up on school work, has made one busy week. Donna Bernizen, the sub-teacher that everyone likes, was in for a day. Erin Fearn had a birthday party and Bathgate's store has all this neat Hallowe'en stuff.

School days are happy days.

Happy belated birthday wishes to Coleen Silvey and Helen J.

Playground under way At Gibsons

Parents and teachers of Gibsons Elementary School have been working together to construct an activity playground for our community and school. It is located on the school grounds, visible from the highway and school office. It is in its early stages of construction and should be completed by mid-November.

An activity playground is more than just a lot of fun; it is useful in the development of gross motor control. It will be used by classrooms throughout the school day for muscle development.

Many "thank yous" are required to people and business throughout the community, for physical and financial support. There will be work parties on the weekends of November 5 and November 12 to complete the playground. Anyone interested in helping could contact Kathy Morem, 886-8228, or show up at the school on those weekends.

Council to question director

Sechelt council has written to Mr. Jeff McKelvie, executive director of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, inviting him to visit the Sunshine Coast and accepting his offer to speak to council members on the implications of the amendments proposed to the Municipal Act by the provincial government's Bill 19.

In addition council will have questions for him prompted by the receipt of letters from the Advisory Planning Commissions of both areas B and C.

Both letters asked the village for its support in requesting funding which the Department of Municipal Affairs is apparently making available for "Feasibility Studies", but each group has a different purpose in mind for its study.

Area B's concern is with the formation of its own community plan, and the effect which the "possible future expansion of the village of Sechelt" might have on that plan. While acknowledging that expansion does not seem to be an immediate concern of the village council, Area "B" APC chairman Andrew Steele suggested to the Coast News that it seems inevitable that to survive financially, Sechelt will have to expand someday in order to increase its industrial and commercial tax base.

Would West Sechelt, for instance, then remain a part of Area "B" or not? It is such possibilities that the APC would like to take into consideration when drawing up its community plan, and in looking to the future it feels the need of more information in order to "provide for the best interests of our area residents."

Therefore the APC is requesting that the Ministry of Municipal Affairs fund conduct a feasibility study to investigate "the future expansion of the village of Sechelt and the implications thereof."

Area "C" APC has been discussing the question of restructuring some areas in the regional district with a view to municipal administration."

Chairman Frank Gibson told the Coast News that "there is money available for feasibility studies, and it should be put to use. We're just looking at it (municipal administration), but we need figures; we have nothing to go on yet."

He noted that the general feeling among Area "C" members was that joining the village of Sechelt and adopting a municipal system of government "might have advantages for everyone", although the village hasn't been too enthusiastic about the idea. Hopefully a feasibility study would examine the viability of such an arrangement.

Picket duty isn't always grim. There was time for conversation and laughter with passers-by in Sechelt last week.

Teachers ready to go

by Vene Parnell

Coast teachers are prepared to "withdraw services" Tuesday, November 8, in support of province-wide strikes, if government-union negotiations fail Monday night.

At a meeting, Thursday, the Sunshine Coast Teachers' Association (SCTA) voted to walk off the job and picket schools in Sunshine Coast School District No. 46.

Saturday, the local CUPE union, which includes teachers' aides, clerical and school custodial staff, also voted to strike Tuesday in support of the teachers and the Solidarity Coalition.

Brian Butcher, president of the Sunshine Coast Teachers' Association and principal of Sechelt Elementary School, issued a press statement Friday to explain the position of local teachers.

"Teachers don't strike. It goes against our grain to walk out. In our opinion, this is a political protest. It is not a protest against the policies of the local school board."

A directive from school superintendent, John Denley, was sent to all local schools last week to order teachers to remain on the job.

The letter stated that withdrawal of services by teachers would be seen as a "contravention of their contracts". Under the terms of teaching contracts, this means teachers are subject to disciplinary action from reprimands to dismissal if they walk out.

Butcher said teachers are ready to picket all local schools at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Roy Mills, school board secretary-treasurer, said school buses will not be running Tuesday and letters will be sent home with all school children Monday to let parents know schools may not be operating if the teachers walk out.

Day-by-day information will be broadcast on CBC radio between 7 and 8 a.m. as the strike progresses.

"Very little supervision and instruction will be available in the schools if the teachers take action. We are trying to minimize the number of students at the schools to avoid any injury or damage because the safety of children is our primary concern," said Mills.

Mills said principals have "special responsibilities" and are "required to be present at school and on duty" every day.

However, some principals stated this was unnecessary pressure placed on them by the school board.

"I personally do not intend to be at school after the first day of the strike. The SCTA voted for the principals to withdraw services but it is still a matter of conscience for every individual principal," stated Butcher.

Principal of Chatelech, June Maynard, said it is an agonizing decision for her. "I hope it doesn't happen. It's a tough time for everybody. I feel I have a contract with the school board and my personal choice is to be at school every day. I'm just hoping my staff will understand."

Sam Reid, principal of Gibsons Elementary School, said he intends to honour the pickets after the first day. "I want to ensure the safety of the students and the school on the first day of the walk-out. After that, I won't enter the school grounds unless there is an emergency.

"If I crossed the pickets, I would lose the respect of my staff. I would be placing myself in a very difficult situation as principal after this is all over."

Butcher said the BCTF and Solidarity have pledged their support of the teachers in the event that any teacher is disciplined for withdrawal of services.

Nine seek office

Gibsons election hot

A possibly unprecedented slate of candidates is running for office in the municipal elections upcoming in the town of Gibsons.

Two candidates are vying for the mayoralty chair: former mayor and alderman Larry Labonte is contesting the position with the present deputy-mayor Diane

Laurent Labonte

Diane Strom

It is in the race for aldermanic candidates that the competition gets really intense. Five declared candidates will contest two two-year terms on council. They are John Burnside, Clay Carby, Tarry Giannakos, Ron Neilson and Art Smiley.

Incumbent Jack Marshall will seek election for the one-year term.

Contesting the seat is Barry Lynn.

The statements of candidates for office appear below. Space limitations require that the statements of candidates Lynn and Marshall will appear in the Coast News next week.

Two run for Gibsons mayor

After four years experience as mayor of Gibsons, and four years as an alderman, Laurent Labonte is again running for the mayoral position.

Although "it was not an easy decision to make," the encouragement of friends convinced him that his past experience would be needed in the next few years.

He feels it will be his duty as mayor to lead council to establish priorities. First among these, he feels, is the financing of the extension to the sewer plant. Then he wants to assure the future of the marina which "is important for the town".

On the question of placing the nuclear disarmament issue on the ballot paper, Mr. Labonte indicated that if the people of Gibsons asked for it in force he would "listen and act accordingly".

As far as he is concerned any further expansion of the town is "out" at the moment.

As far as co-operation between the town and the regional district is concerned, Mr. Labonte pointed out that there is already good co-operation for the provision of fire protection and recreational facilities.

Diane Strom, who has served three years as an alderman, is running for the position of mayor partly to make sure that there will be a contest for that position. Her two years as deputy mayor have given her valuable experience in understanding the Municipal Act.

She feels a major task for the new council will be to ensure the extension of the sewer plant. However, she warned that only essential major projects, such as water and sewer services, can be undertaken in this time of restraint.

"Money will not be easier in the coming years," she pointed out.

Mrs. Strom would prefer to study the new boundary extension report, due to be released this week, before stating her position on town expansion. However, she feels it is "up to the people to decide".

She believes in co-operating with the regional district on water systems and pointed out that already the town and the regional district co-operate to supply water to the area behind Granthams.

She "would look at" the placing of the nuclear disarmament issue on election ballots if the new council were in favour of this.

BSCTA head says too much too soon

by John Burnside

Joy Leach, president of the B.C. School Trustees' Association, called for a return to "reason and sanity" by the provincial government and the B.C. Government Employees Union.

Leach was on the Sunshine Coast to attend a meeting of the South Coast Branch of the BCSTA involving this school district and the school districts of Powell River and Howe Sound (Squamish).

The provincial president of the school trustees charged that the first cause of the difficulties besetting B.C. was the legislation brought down by the government on July 7.

"It was too much, too soon," said Leach. "People just can't cope with it. We should return to the processes which have served us well in the past."

Leach described as 'frustrating' a situation which sees a province-wide education strike looming with the employers, the school boards, sidelined by provincial events.

"We succeed in having the legislation amended so that it is in fact 'restraint' legislation as opposed to the 'control' legislation originally proposed.

"We are trying to persuade the government that flexibility in their financing formula would contribute to the solution of problems at the local levels."

Asked about the trustees association's position in the event that B.C. teachers walk out as planned on Tuesday, Leach said only: "We cannot anticipate events but we expect our employees will be at work next week."

Gibsons finances

Charges are challenged

Comments in an article in last week's issue of the Press concerning financial mismanagement in the town of Gibsons, have been called into question by several elected representatives and criticised by the town's auditors, Dunwoody and Company of Vancouver.

The article reported that errors caused by administrative mishandling of finances over a five-year period could cost the taxpayers of Gibsons upwards of $100,000.

Alderman Edney, chairman of the finance committee which is a committee of the whole council, pointed out that there was no dishonest intent in any of the operations described in the article, although some errors had occurred.

He explained that former administrator Jack Copland's method of operation was to use a lot of short-term financing where possible, as it was to the benefit of the municipality. In fact, if the 1977 loan under discussion had been hooked into long-term financing five years ago, it would have been at a 14-16 per cent rate instead of the present 10 per cent. "We could be ahead in the long run with interest rates," said Mr. Edney. "It was a matter of financial judgement."

Mr. Dick Derby, alternate representative for area E in the Sunshine Coast Regional District, and long-term member of area E's planning committee, corroborated Mr. Edney's statements. He pointed out that long-term financing of the loan had been delayed by problems in getting correct zoning, and a building permit, and in commencing and completing the project which involved the works yard and water storage at the end of Henry Road.

He contended that going to the municipal financing authority for a loan this year, when interest rates have dropped, will save the town money in the long run. He described the "whole thing" as "a farce". "Copland went the right route all along the line," he commented.

Mayor Goddard did not wish to make any comments on the article until she has received advice from the municipality's solicitors. She conceded there were "a lot of accurate statements" in the article but said she had been quoted inaccurately.

Alderman Edney emphasized that council had authorized purchase of property, which was a key lot for the marina development, and knew what was being paid for it. The town ended up with a financial deficit for last year. Edney explained this would not have been a deficit had the proper authorizing by-law been put through.

He said the town's auditors described this process as "a technical detail". He described Copland as "acting in good faith in trying to use money on reserve and not taking out loans".

He felt Mr. Copland had "been maligned unfairly".

According to alderman Edney, the town auditors described the article as "sensational and full of suppositions".

Remembrance Holiday

Post offices throughout British Columbia and the Yukon will be closed Friday, November 11, in observance of Remembrance Day. Regular postal service will resume Monday, November 14.

Money received

A cheque for $300,000 has been received by the town of Gibsons from the provincial government. This represents the major portion of the government's contribution to the marina project. One hundred and sixty thousand dollars of this amount has been sent to the federal government by the town as its share of federal government involvement in the project.

All candidates

An all-candidates meeting sponsored by the Elphinstone Electors' Association will be held Tuesday, November 8 at 8 p.m. at the Gibsons Legion Hall. All municipal and school board candidates running for office on the Sunshine Coast, including those already acclaimed to office, have been invited to attend.

The Elphinstone Electors' Association will also be meeting the two area E candidates for the regional board on Wednesday, November 9, at 8 p.m. at the Cedar Grove School. If schools are closed, this meeting will be held at Harmony Hall in Gibsons.

Sechelt meeting

A meeting of representatives of Sechelt and areas B (Halfmoon Bay—West Sechelt) and C (Davis Bay—Wilson Creek) was held in the municipal office in Sechelt to discuss a possible restructuring.

Attending the meeting was Jeff McKelvrey, executive director of the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

At the conclusion of the meeting it was agreed that a letter be sent to the Ministry of Municipal Affairs requesting that a feasibility study be undertaken.
