Coast benefits from Canada Works

Almost 30 new jobs have been created on the Sunshine Coast with the announcement last week of approval of six Canada Works grants.

In Gibsons, the town has received approval for six jobs on the construction of the new seawalk and the Sunshine Alano Club will be able to employ two people.

The Harmony Fish Farms will employ two persons to help in the expansion of the present hatchery on Nelson Island and also to aid in the establishment of a new hatchery at Chapman Creek.

"We are hoping this will be the first step towards helping other people start farms," said Tom May in a conversation with the Coast News. "We will be able to produce up to a million and a half fish for sale to other farms. This in turn will provide even more employment." The two employees will work for some six months.

Camp Olave, at the foot of Rat Portage Hill, will be able to install most of a new water system, beginning on April 1; 10 persons will be employed for 10 weeks. Mrs. Scagill, of the Girl Guides of Canada, told the Coast News in a conversation that the water system has been in place for almost 40 years and the repairs necessary to keep it operational are becoming very expensive.

"The grant isn't what we asked for," she said, "but it will go a long way towards replacing the system and we're very happy about it."

The Barge Hostel co-operative has received a $28,075 grant, far less than was applied for, but still making it possible for four people to be employed on the completion of the project. It is hoped that the barge will be on the Coast within the next two weeks, where it will sit at Porpoise Bay while work continues.

Finally, the Sunshine Coast Tourism Association has received a $30,600 grant which will provide 92 work weeks for this community, and will hopefully lead to permanent employment for perhaps two people.

Work starts on seawalk

There was good news at the Gibsons council meeting, February 5, when it was announced that a Canada Works grant to construct the seawalk had been approved. There will be jobs for six people for 16 weeks on the walkway which will extend from the government wharf to the new marina. It is hoped that work will commence on February 11 and be completed by May 31 with other work on the downtown revitalization plan proceeding at the same time.

Other council business included a video presentation by Constable Wayne Leatherdale of the Gibsons RCMP detachment who is the Sunshine Coast co-ordinator for the new Crime Stoppers program. Following this, Mr. G.T. Beynon was on hand to present to council his concerns over the location of a propane tank at the new marina, and later council discussed a sewer improvement by-law and the offer of two shrubs from the Girl Guides of Canada.

Leatherdale, in his presentation, gave some startling facts about the rise of crime on the Sunshine Coast and gave council some background on the Crime Stoppers program. He asked council for their moral support and possible financial aid as well.

Mr. Beynon, who lives directly behind the new Gibsons marina, appeared in order to express his concerns over the proposed installation of a propane tank between the entrance and exits to the boat launching ramp. He feels its position is the worst possible, and asked council to take a look at the problem. Mayor Larry Labonte assured Beynon that although government rules have been observed, "if a second look is possible we may be able to do something".

Approval has been given to sewer improvements loan authorization Bylaw No. 475 but the letter, from Christopher Woodward, inspector of municipalities, pointed out that this approval "does not constitute approval of a revenue sharing grant". This approval may not come until late March or early April, but it was agreed by council that a letter be written to the ministry of municipal affairs giving thanks for the by-law approval and also stressing the importance to the town of the possible 25 per cent capital grant.

The Girl Guides of Canada, in commemmoration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of Guiding in Canada has decided to donate one or more shrubs to the town; this will also serve as recognition for the support received in the past from the community. It was requested that the girls involved be allowed to attend the planting of the shrubs. Council has accepted this offer and the planting will take place whenever conditions allow.

Wharf closure

Tenders have been called for maintenance work to be done on the government wharf at Gibsons, and shortly after the contract is awarded by the minister of public works the wharf will be closed to vehicular traffic for as long as one month. The closure means that parking will be eliminated but pedestrian access will be closed for only an hour or two at a time.

Schools talk

The first of the "Let's Talk About Schools" forums will take place on Wednesday, February 13, 7:30 p.m., at the Pender Harbour secondary school. Call David Short at 886-8184 for further details.

Chamber meets

There will be a general meeting of the Gibsons and District Chamber of Commerce on February 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Marine Room below the Gibsons library. The agenda includes a financial report and the election of officers.

Heart Fund

The B.C. Heart Foundation will appear live on Channel 10 at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, February 13 with dental hygienist Mary Bland, Maxine Holmes and Bev Brand from St. Mary's and Dr. Jim Petzold.

Remember, the B.C. Heart Fund has touched the heart of someone you know and needs your support for further research. Canvassers will be calling February 14 to 28.

Crime Stoppers gearing up

Wayne Leatherdale of the Gibsons RCMP and local resident Doug Dixon hosted a meeting last Wednesday to explain the mechanics of setting up a Crime Stoppers program here on the Sunshine Coast.

The Crime Stoppers program encourages persons who have information regarding a crime to phone a 24-hour hotline and convey any relevant information. 'Tipsters' may be referred to by a call number if they wish to remain anonymous, and a cash reward will be paid if there is a conviction and/or a recovery of stolen goods.

Local lawyer Wayne Rowe has offered his services to set up a civilian non-profit organization responsible for raising donations and implementing remuneration. This Crime Stoppers board of directors and officers numbering anywhere from five to 25 members will assess reports from local RCMP detachments as to the merits of a tipster's information and whether or not a reward will be paid, and its amount.

The main component of a Crime Stoppers program is a locally televised 'crime of the week', a re-enactment of a real crime at the place where it occurred. Marta McKown at Channel 10 has agreed to allow the use of audio-visual equipment to film these re-enactments and ex-Elphinstone students Steve Sleep and Rick Buckmaster have donated their services as technicians.

"It is hoped that high school drama students will participate as actors in these re-enactments," Wayne Leatherdale told the Coast News. "It would be a good idea to have the local newspapers publish photographs of the filming and local radio could also provide a verbal synopsis of each crime of the week."

An interesting Crime Stoppers statistic to note: for every dollar donated to a crime stopper fund, $25 in stolen goods is recovered. Anyone wishing to donate to the Coast Crime Stoppers, serve on the board, or contribute in any way please phone co-ordinator Wayne Leatherdale, Gibsons RCMP 886-2245 or Doug Dixon 886-2429.

The next Crime Stoppers meeting will be Wednesday, March 6 at 2 p.m. in the Marine Room under the Gibsons library.

Despite the snow Gary Kraft continues work on his fathers floating fish farm headquarters at Porpoise Bay. Norb Kraft of Kraft Marifarms will be using the upper floor for residence and the lower deck will house workshops and feed storage for the growing salmon. —Neville Conway photo

Sport fishermen urge action

by Dianne Evans

The message came through loud and clear at the Sechelt Rod and Gun Club meeting Thursday, February 7, when members met to discuss new sport fishing regulations for the Gulf of Georgia. That message tells Ottawa that local sport fishermen want better enforcement of regulations and a stronger commitment to salmonid enhancement.

Mr. Bill Ottway, regional director of the B.C. Wildlife Federation for the lower mainland, was on hand to provide background and information and those present discussed a series of proposed recommendations arising from the recently ratified Canada/U.S. Salmon Treaty, with commercial fisherman Bill Boyte in the chair.

A total of 275,000 chinook will be taken from the Gulf in 1985-86, and the department of fisheries and oceans (DFO) had originally projected figures which would give the sport fisherman only one chinook per day and five per year, with a three-month closure. However, through closer inspection of available data and negotiations it was agreed that sport fishermen may take two chinook per day, 20 per year and that there will be no closures, other than "spot" closures.

According to Cliff Bowles, head of the Sechelt Rod and Gun Club committee examining the new treaty, the "spot" closure is a gray area; "We haven't been able to get a clear definition of 'spot' from DFO," he told the Coast News in conversation. "It could be a small area, such as Camp Byng, or Pender Harbour, but the DFO won't make it clear."

The purpose of the spot closures is to allow the fish access to the spawning grounds, so that stocks may be enhanced, and each closure, according to Bill Ottway, would last only five to 10 days.

Throughout the meeting, public discussion again and again brought the point back to enforcement and what is perceived to be a lack of manpower and laws with 'teeth'. Budget cuts have accounted for much of the problem and Ottway said, "Government has to take a stand. There should be no more cuts."

There are not enough enforcement officers and it is felt that many tourists are "ripping off the resource" as one participant expressed himself. Concern was also expressed over native fishing rights; while it was agreed that food fishing was acceptable many members felt that much of the native fishing was not of this nature, especially in the lower mainland area.

The question of raising the cost of licences was also approached. Members agreed that an increase would be acceptable but only if the extra $5 went directly to salmon enhancement and only if enforcement were strengthened.

"Give us enforcement," said Ottway, "and we'll give you the money. Enforcement must take place first. We have to send that message to the government."

One of the most controversial topics to arise was that of sales of chinook eggs. The DFO has sold more than half a million chinook eggs to aquaculturists, and this has upset sport fishermen. Ottway said, "When the stocks are built up in the Gulf, okay, sell the eggs, but until then, no more chinook eggs to the fish farmers.

"We want to put the eggs back in the streams where they belong," he continued. The members voted in favour of a resolution demanding that chinook eggs be sold to aquaculturists on a bid basis only, saying that recent DFO sales were totally illegal since they did not ask for bids.

Finally the problem of a rising seal population was brought up. According to an independent count, in the approximately 90 miles of Inlet waters (Sechelt, Salmon, Narrows and Jervis) there are about 850 adult seals, each one eating up to 30 pounds of fish a day. Ottway cited figures that show if the take of mammals such as seals is reduced by five per cent, the take possible by people rises by 50 per cent. He advised the

Let the people decide

There is an ugly quality of vendetta in the soap opera of Richard Hatfield now being played out on the Canadian political stage.

Let's face the fact that the lifestyle of the New Brunswick premier has long been known to be eccentric in the extreme. Hatfield has been an effective and an enlightened premier of his province for years despite a personal lifestyle which would appear to be at odds with his conservative province. Despite that lifestyle he has more effectively dealt with the dual historic nature of his province than virtually any other Canadian premier.

It is also true that the history of Canadian politics is rich in examples of the eccentric bachelor politician: William Lyon Mackenzie King comes to mind; Pierre Elliot Trudeau, for most of his political life a 'swinging' bachelor; Allan MacEachan of Nova Scotia.

Canadians generally, it seems from this vantage point, are fair-minded enough to judge their politicians by what they do in the poitical arena. They know that if we are to start scrutinizing what people do at two o'clock in the morning we may be starting down a slippery slope that none of us will find fair footing.

Had Hatfield's recent trial for marijuana possession ended without the asinine comments of the judge who saw fit to lay blame on media representatives for setting Hatfield up it is unlikely that the vindictive and malicious character assasination presently taking place would have occurred. It was not Hatfield who accused reporters of putting the marijuana in his suitcase but it is Hatfield who is suffering the retaliation.

We would be content to allow the people of new Brunswick to decide at the next opportunity whether or not their premier is still a fit leader for their province. Any other course of action is to give credence to the most vicious rumour-mongering and who can say where that would lead if encouraged.

A comparison

We have nothing but applause for the courageous stand taken by tiny New Zealand against the nuclear madness. That country's refusal to allow American ships carrying nuclear weapons to dock in their facilities is the kind of action we would expect from a democratic socialist government, bearing in mind that such a government is dedicated to change without violence nationally and internationally.

Meanwhile we have in Canada this spectacle of the federal NDP cosying up to the concept of military alliance as embodied by NATO because Ed Broadbent thinks by so doing he can become leader of the opposition. The race towards irrelevance is underway in the Canadian democratic socialist party which has never dared to call itself such.

At the turn of the twentieth century, some children were raised in conditions that would now be called quite primitive. None of the amenities of electric lights and appliances, running water, central heating or telephone—more or less taken for granted today—were available to most pioneer families, even though these amenities did exist at that time. With little money for newspaper or magazine subscription, mail consisted almost entirely of correspondence with relatives and friends. Such fancy prepared foods as existed were beyond reach of most families in small outlying settlements. Chores and long walks to and from school left little time for play. Of course, youngsters born to the wilds had no basis for comparison of rural and urban living. But even those who had accompanied their parents on their move from city to wilderness generally took the changed conditions in their stride. In later years, following removal from the wilds, or when urban amenities had found their way into remote settlements, the former child from the fringes of civilization would look back with nostalgia at this "meagre" life. The brief good moments would be magnified, and bad times looked at in retrospect through rose-coloured glasses. In many ways, pioneer frontier life seems to have been made for the young.

Musings

Black Rabbit

He was a shy and wise little boy, somewhat reserved and skeptical about adults no matter how friendly they appeared to want to be.

I said to him: "I'll take you to the country of the Black Rabbit but first you have to promise to pretend to be a deer."

He looked at me with just a hint of scorn. He was after all six years old and who did I think I was to talk such nonsense to a young man like him. He refused to promise to pretend to be a deer so he never got to the country of the Black Rabbit and now I fear it is too late.

The young man in question was the youngest, by far, of a party of four which included his father. We were wandering on one of the glorious high summer days last year in Cliff Gilker Park, the four of us and my two dogs.

There was a country of the Black Rabbit just nearby. The rabbit had been around the western fringes of the park for a while, obviously an escaped domestic making a bid for freedom.

A few run-ins with dogs in the park had persuaded him, I always thought of the rabbit as him, it would be safer on the other side of the creek on the edge of the golf course and there he took up residence for the better part of a couple of years.

It was an ideal rabbit environment. There was the carefully tended grass of fairway #2 to nibble on during the early morning and evening hours when the golfers weren't around though latterly he was so accustomed to the passing of the golfers that he sat out sunning himself and nibbling grass with the golfers passing in close proximity.

Inside the trees there were lots of tree stumps and holes to dive down with the requisite escape holes on the far side. The occasional dog that did find the country of the Black Rabbit never had a chance. At top speed the rabbit would sprint through the trees and dive down under a root system out of sight. While the dog whined eagerly at the entrance of the rabbit hole the rabbit would exit by the back door and move safely off to another part of the forest.

The golfers knew all about him, of course, and would mention their sightings as an integral feature of their round of golf.

A wandering newspaperman, sometimes with camera and sometimes not but always with dogs would steal to the edge of the golf course for a glimpse of the rabbit. Man with dogs is not welcome on the edges of golf courses, for it is well if erroneously known that dogs are not happier than when they are eating golf balls and defecating on putting greens so it was necessary when visiting the land of the Black Rabbit to imitate a deer.

One waited trembling on the edge of the wood to ascertain where the humans were. If the coast was clear one ventured more timidly than the rabbit itself into that fringe area, part wood and part fairway where the Black Rabbit enjoyed its freedom.

I suppose if I hadn't told the skeptical little boy that he would have to imitate a deer if he wanted to see the Black Rabbit he would have given my utterance more credence than he did, though he habitually regards me as a somewhat doubtful quantity. But he would not promise to imitate a deer, the visit was not made, and now I fear the rabbit is gone.

The prolonged snow covering of this winter, especially where it is just a dusting within the trees, is ideal for tracking rabbits and though I have from December to the present writing made some clandestine visits to the land of the Black Rabbit I have not seen a single track. So now it is too late for me to take my little friend to the country of the Black Rabbit, even if I could persuade him that I was serious and to imitate a deer.

The Lake Isle of Innisfree

I will arise and go now, and go to Innisfree,
And a small cabin built there, of clay and wattles made:
Nine bean-rows will I have there, a hive for the honey-bee,
And live alone in the bee loud glade.

And I shall have some peace there, for peace
comes dropping slow,
Dropping from the veils of the morning to where the cricket sings;
There midnight's all a glimmer, and noon a purple glow,
And evening full of linnet's wings.

I will arise and go now, for always night and day
I hear lake water lapping with low sounds by the shore;
While I stand on the roadway, or on the pavements grey,
I hear it in the deep heart's core.

Maryanne's viewpoint

The equality of sacrifice

by Maryanne West

The story of how the Chrysler Corporation pulled through from the brink of bankruptcy as told in the autobiography of its president, Lee Iacocca, has a universal relevance. Such basic common sense somehow seems to elude our political leaders.

The chapter from which the following is taken is appropriately, "Equality of sacrifice".

"I began by reducing my own salary to a $1 a year. Leadership means setting an example. I didn't take a $1 a year to be a martyr but for good, cold, pragmatic reasons. When I went to Doug Fraser, the union president, I could look him in the eye and say, 'Here's what I want from you guys as your share.'

"I wanted our employees and our suppliers to be thinking:- 'I can follow a guy who sets that kind of example!'

"Unfortunately, austerity was a new idea at Chrysler. I wasn't impressed by all the horror stories of the extravagances of the previous administration; I had lived for years with Henry Ford, who thought he owned the company. Henry spent enough money to make Lynn Townsend (former president of Chrysler) look like a beggar. Although my reduced salary didn't mean I had to skip any meals it still made a big statement in Detroit.

"I discovered that people accept a lot of pain if everybody's going through the chute together. If everybody is suffering equally, you can move a mountain. Our struggle also had its dark side. To cut expenses, we had to fire a lot of people. There was a lot of agony. We preserved the company, but only at enormous expense for a great many human beings.

"After I cut my own salary I started on the executives. We cut salaries in all but the lowest levels. We left the secretaries alone, they deserved every cent they made.

"The union had always had the attitude that the executives are fat cats and the workers get screwed. I said, 'Well, now you're looking at some pretty skinny fat cats.' I don't mean it was easy. I talked tough to them. Our workers made some pretty big concessions. Right away, $1.15 an hour came out of their pay cheques, that amount grew to $2 an hour. Over a 19-month period the average working guy at Chrysler gave up close to $10,000.

"One of the provisions of the loan guarantees was an employee stock ownership plan for our workers. It cost us $40 million a year for four years but it made good economic sense. If you let workers share in the profits they're more motivated to do a good job.

"There are those who thought this was the first step to socialism but I pointed out that the big pension plans own plenty of stock, a large chunk of GM and many other major publicly traded companies. So what's wrong with cutting the workers in while they're working? I don't see anything wrong with the workers owning a piece of the action. It doesn't interfere with good management. What do I care if the company's stock is owned by a broker's accountant on Wall Street or by Joe Blow who works on the assembly line. Which one can do more for me?

"During 1980 I went to every single Chrysler plant in order to speak directly to the workers and had sessions with the plans supervisors. We didn't always agree, but just having the chance to talk together was a big step forward. That's communication, the chairman talking to the guy on the floor. Everybody hears and everybody feels part of it. I'd like to do it more often.

"I call this equality of sacrifice. When I started to sacrifice I saw other people do what was necessary. That's how Chrysler pulled through. It wasn't the loans that saved us, although we needed them badly. It was the hundreds of millions of dollars that were given up by everybody involved."

More about union/management co-operation next week.

Letters to the Editor

Inconsistencies on both sides

Editor:

I appreciated the honesty with which you presented your 'Musings' titled 'Life After Birth' in your January 14 edition. You had some excellent points, some of which I have also personally struggled with. It is unfortunate, however, that after acknowledging that medical facts may have convinced you that abortion on demand is wrong, you appear to have lost your sense of objectivity in a rash of subjective generalizations. What's worse, those generalizations may not even be correct.

For example, one of your foundational rhetorical questions is "Isn't the root cause of many abortions economic?". Well, yes, for many abortions that is the cause, but only because there are so many. However, Francis Schaeffer, co-author (with U.S. Surgeon General and world-renowned pediatrician C. Everett Koop) of the hard-hitting book "Whatever Happened to the Human Race?" points out that abortions are supported most strongly by the wealthy. The motive is far more frequently convenience than cost.

And to claim that pro-lifers don't care about starving children but want instead to nuke the world; well, really...The facts, John, are that the Christian community, to whom you are obviously referring ("They...await Armageddon with some eagerness because they will be saved") know that the Tribulation precedes Armageddon, and that virtually every living Christian will be martyred for their faith during that period. Who would want to wish that upon their own generation? In fact, your statement is so far out, John, that I've only seen it in one other place, and that was in a "good-will" newsletter that originated with the New York based Lucis Trust organization. The Lucis Trust, incidentally, had its origins as the Lucifer Publishing Company, founded by Alice Bailey. I trust that every reader will recognize at least one of those names.

Oh, and you mentioned Ethiopia. My facts may be several months out-of-date, but I read recently that the pro-life, Christian organization named World Vision has provided more assistance in the Ethiopian famine crisis than any other private organization. And I know personally that there are pro-lifers right here in our town who have channelled considerable funds to them for that purpose. Perhaps, however, they have not made a public announcement of that fact.

In closing, perhaps I could just add that, yes, John, some people have inconsistent opinions. However, they exist on both sides of almost any issue. (Incidentally, the people I find most inconsistent are those who support abortion but oppose capital punishment. It's as if they're saying the only crime worthy of capital punishment is the crime of being unwanted.) But I could give you the names of many strongly pro-life individuals who have given their lives to helping overcome the world's ills (have you ever heard the term "Medical Missionaries", or the names of other Christian organizations such as the Mennonite Central Committee or Food for the Hungry?). On the other hand, I have never heard of anyone of the pro-abortion stance who has dedicated their lives to feeding the hungry and helping the sick and destitute.

Our future depends on you

Editor:

When I was a boy, my parents, my teachers and most of the adult world that I knew, were forever praising the virtues of the Common Man. "It was he who made democracy work," they said. "His wisdom and his sense in the fairness of things could always be relied upon." Now, as a grown man, I have long since come to doubt the truth of these words that were pounded into my head so long ago. It now seems to me that the much praised common Man, far from being the foundation of all wisdom, is largely responsible for most of our social ills.

When we sit, hour after hour and day after day in front of the television set while our brains gradually atrophy and when we allow our children to watch all manner of violence, murder and mayhem with no concern for or attention to what they are viewing, you may be sure that we have joined the ranks of the much heralded Common Man.

When we seldom read a book or concern ourselves with the problems of our community and pay little or no attention to the education of our children, then we have unwittingly allowed ourselves to be swallowed up by the apathy of the much extolled Common Man.

When we see children playing with war toys, tanks, guns and even nuclear missiles, we know that somewhere in the background lurks the indifference and often the open encouragement of the much acclaimed Common Man.

When we find a harassed woman, surrounded by screaming, demanding children, and she, struggling alone to settle their differences, while Dad is off to the beer parlour or attending a hockey or football game with this buddies, we have further evidence of the presence or in this case the lack of presence of the much esteemed Common Man.

The power and the influence of the Common Man touches us in all walks of life. His presence is felt everywhere, in the home, the work place, management, and in government, most often to our detriment and seldom to our benefit.

How else can we account for the ever increasing deaths upon our highways, the deterioration of our educational standards, the pollution of our lakes and rivers with industrial wastes and sewage, acid rain, the destruction of our forests and parklands, the erosion of much of our precious topsoil, the tragedy of our wandering youth and the unemployed, the menace of our exploding population and last but not least the massive public indifference to the greatest peril of all, the mounting threat of nuclear war and the tampering with the very heavens above us in a desperate search for new and more effective ways to destroy all life upon this planet.

May we then beseech you, The Great Common Man, to pull up your socks and look about you. Our future, if there is one, and the future of our children, depends upon you. You hold the destiny of all mankind in the palm of your hand.

Your chamber of commerce can help you surmount many of the difficulties of the present time.

If your chamber of commerce does not get the support of the business people then phone enquiries will be told, "sorry that number is no longer in service" and the mail request will go unanswered. This, of course, would be followed by a lack of interest in our area by tourists..

Please help support your chamber of commerce and bring a friend to the meeting on Tuesday, February 12 in the Marine Room at 7:30 p.m.

Local meetings

by Jean Robinson, 885-2954

There are many important things going on in and around our community right now that ultimately will affect the majority of us in one way or another.

Firstly, at the general meeting of the Davis Bay/Wilson Creek Community Association of February 11, 7:30 p.m., we will not only have guest speaker Shirley Bower, on gardens, but will have a word from your representative, Clark Renney, who attended the recent meeting in Sechelt concerning amalgamation. He can answer only a few questions. As it has already been reported, we must wait until the complete study is published in April. However, your executive is on top of the situation and will remain so.

Secondly, only 11 parents attended the "Let's Talk About Schools" meeting on February 7 at Davis Bay school. The school act has not been revised since 1958. This does concern revision and upgrading of the school act. The government defines "education" as ongoing, 24 hours a day input from parents, TV, and our environment in general. "School" is 6 hours of teacher instruction.

The minister of education has given the parents and teachers in B.C. until March 15 to answer a set of questions concerning revision of the school act. Not much time! Parents and Grandparents—get your copy of the questions and some instruction from Davis Bay school, 885-9523 and let's get the school act into the space age.

The indoor sports day on February 1 was won by the Scallops, followed by the Limpets. Way to go Scallops!

On Valentine's Day, Thursday February 14, the afternoon at school will be devoted to reading, after an 11 to 12 lunch break. At 2:50 p.m. the children are releasing helium balloons containing their message for the world. Watch them fly away.

Report cards will be out on March 22 and parent conferences from March 25 to 28. Spring break follows from March 29 through April 8.

Thirdly, the B.C. Heart Foundation need canvassers for their fund drive beginning February 14 until February 28. The ladies to contact are Marie Steel 885-2156 and Faye Hansen 885-3575. We all know of someone who suffers from heart disease. Your donation helps get a little nearer to finding answers to this problem.

George in Gibsons

Support research

by George Cooper

Canvassers for the B.C. Heart Foundation will be in your neighbourhood starting Valentine's Day, February 14.

One of the most common factors in heart attack is high blood pressure which has been labelled the Silent Killer. Never sensed by the victim in any way, high blood pressure can cause him disability and even death. Yet it is ignored by half of the two million in Canada who have it.

Since high blood pressure can occur at any age, each of us could well consider regular check-ups. Control is quite simple by drug and diet therapy.

Do support education and research in heart disease.

COURSES

Among the offerings this winter in the Continuing Education branch of our School District No. 46 is a series of five talks entitled "Do Banks Play Fair?".

Hayden Killam, the instructor, says the title is just a device to catch the eye of the student and that his talks will be quite factual, dealing with the hazards to the borrower in the fine print of loan and mortgage contracts. "The talks will open their eyes about borrowing money—especially those who are 20 and 30 years old," says Killam.

He adds, "Each session is a separate unit, and if some folk can't get to the first session tomorrow evening, they can easily join the class the next week."

The idea for this class arose when Hayden was looking for a project he had to do in community work. He was glad when his idea was approved by the school board member who heads the continuing education committee.

Seeing that Hayden had been convicted of threatening a bank official, and has another matter pending related to the bank, he was asked if he might not show a little prejudice in his series of talks.

"Not at all," says Hayden. "There will be no bias on my part whatsoever in these talks. There are many pitfalls hidden in the borrowing processes, and I wish to use my experience in business to point these dangers out. I really feel people, especially young people, need the warning."

The first session is tomorrow Tuesday, February 12 in Chatelech, and the remainder in Gibsons locations. Phone 885-9368.

SFU honour

For academic excellence Mary Dufour, of Gibsons, has won a place on the university's prestigious honour roll.

Less than 100 of SFU's more than 11,000 undergraduate students qualified for the honour roll in 1984. Award ceremonies were held January 29, where Ms Dufour was congratulated by Dr. William Saywell, president of Simon Fraser Univesity.

Gwen in Gibsons

Have a heart

by Gwen Robertson, 886-3780

"We've touched the heart of someone you know" is the key phrase that the B.C. Heart Foundation is using this year.

The Heart campaign begins on February 14 and continues until the end of the month. Canvassers are needed and those willing to assist are asked to call Mrs. Elizabeth Johnston at 886-7418 and in the Gower Point area Joan Mahlman at 886-2125.

The B.C. Heart Foundation is not part of the United Way and depends on its appeal. The risk of heart attack increases from one to 10 times that of the non-smoker - depending, of course, on the quantity smoked. The efforts of the Foundation are having some results in that Canadian men are smoking less but they are less successful with adult women who are still smoking at the same rate as they did 20 years ago. More and more young girls are taking up smoking cigarettes while consumption by boys is relatively unchanged.

These statistics are truly alarming as not only are these young women harming themselves but they are also harming future young children. The earlier smokers begin, the greater the risk of future heart disease for them and their offspring.

The ingestion of smoke from other smokers is also harmful to other family members and to non-smokers everywhere.

Be good to yourself. Have a heart and help with the canvassing.

Roberts Creek

Mulligan is chief

by Jeanie Parker, 886-3973

The Roberts Creek Volunteer Fire Department held its annual elections February 4, 1985. Re-elected as chief was Dennis Mulligan and Kevin Shepherd will be assistant chief. Dennis James is captain, Edna Naylor, first lieutenant, and Alex Ross, second lieutenant.

Ken Eidet will take the chair, Philip Gordon will remain treasurer, and Clive Hall returns as secretary after a year's respite. Brian Hamilton and Larry (Bongo) Knowles will share the duties of wine steward.

VALENTINE'S DANCE

Thursday is Valentine's Day but you can celebrate by taking your true love out on Friday to the dance at the Roberts Creek Legion. Music is by "Used Guys" and that's always a good time. Get there early. Members and guests only please.

HOCKEY BINGO

Minor hockey is holding a bingo at Roberts Creek Community Hall this Saturday, February 16. There's over $2,000 in prizes to be won. Doors open at 5:30 p.m., Early Bird is at 7:30 p.m. For tickets, phone 886-9827, 886-2530, 885-9403, or 885-2273.

SENIORS' HOCKEY

If you want some action this Saturday, February 16, it's the annual grudge match between the RCMP and the Wamimanas hockey team at the Sechelt arena. Even if you're not a big hockey fan it's fun to see these two teams battle it out.

The main object is to raise funds for St. Mary's Hospital so if you want to make a pledge for either team phone the RCMP office in Sechelt or Gibsons. Game starts at 8:30 p.m.

CANVASSERS COMING

Canvassers for the B.C. Heart Foundation are often turned down at the door because people confuse it with the Variety Club Telethon which takes place around the same time and also uses a heart as its symbol. But the Variety Club works for kids. The Heart Fund works for everyone.

The Heart Foundation says, "We've touched the heart of someone you know". Canadian research has been responsible for many cardiovascular advances in the past 30 years: pacemakers, hospital coronary care units which have reduced deaths by over 30 per cent, surgery to correct one of the major defects resulting in "blue babies", hypothermia for lowering body temperatures during heart surgery.

Heart disease remain our number one killer. It's a busy month for charitable donations but see if you can "find it in your heart" to give to your door-to-door Heart Fund canvasser. And if you can help canvass in this area phone Corrie Ross at 885-9250 to see if she still needs help.

HAHLE'S FAREWELL

Roberts Creeker Hahle Gerow is moving east and she'll be performing one last time this weekend, February 14 and 15, at Miller's Cabaret. Hahle, Jane and Carol will be joined by Joe Mock of Pied Pumpkin and Pier Pear, Vancouver recording engineer Brook Bilney, and John Paulin.

Sechelt Scenario

School meeting

by Peggy Connor, 885-9347

"LET'S TALK ABOUT SCHOOLS"

The staff from West Sechelt school, corner of Mason and Norwest Bay Roads, will talk about schools on Wednesday, February 13, starting at 7:30 p.m. in the library.

Time to take advantage of a chance for input into the school system, to get involved and help shape the schools of the future.

Sechelt elementary school in Sechelt will start its meeting at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, February 20, in the school's main building.

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMEN

The Sunshine Coast Business and Professional Women will hold their next meeting at Western Moorbad Resort Tuesday, February 19, 6:30 p.m. pre-dinner and 7 p.m. for dinner. This is the Rockwood Lodge building in Sechelt and the group welcomes guests and new members. Phone 885-9320 if you would like to attend.

The theme for the evening is "International Night".

ST. MARY'S HOSPITAL AUXILIARY, SECHELT BRANCH

Bring a friend is the request the Sechelt Branch of St. Mary's Hospital Auxiliary is asking of its members for its monthly meeting on Thursday, February 14 which starts at 1:30 p.m.

It is not necessary to come with a member if you wish to come along and see if this is what you would like to join; feel free to do so.

SKIPPING AT SCHOOL

The Sechelt elementary school youngsters are not skipping out, they are skipping for Hearts in teams, and will be looking for pledges. Already practising for the past two months, they will be in fine shape for the events to take place on February 28 and March 1.

Last year they raised a surprising amount for the Heart Fund.

HEART FUND APPEAL

The B.C. Heart Foundation annual appeal for funds starts on February 14 and ends February 28.

The key phrase this year is "We've touched the heart of someone you know". Canvassers will be out all over the Sunshine Coast from Valentine's Day on.

Some important facts; Canada has been instrumental in many cardiovascular advances in the past 30 years: pacemakers, coronary artery transplants, replacement of damaged heart valves with human valves, coronary care units in hospitals, surgical procedure to correct one of the major defects resulting in "blue babies" and hypothermia, a technique for lowering body temperatures during heart surgery. Eighty-eight cents out of every dollar given in this canvass goes directly to research and public information.

The B.C. Heart Foundation promotes lifestyle changes to reduce chances of acquiring heart disease and stroke, believing that a minor modification in diet, exercise and mental attitude can make a difference.

SECHELT SENIORS

The Sechelt Seniors Branch #69 was forced to cancel its Valentine's Dance, February 9, due to the snow. However, they will try for February 16, provided the weather co-operates.

Halfmoon Bay Happenings

Important events

by Ruth Forrester, 885-2418

IMPORTANT MEETINGS:

There are a couple of important local meetings which conern everyone in the area and which you should mark on your calendar. As most of you are probably aware, each school area is having a special meeting of which the theme is "Let's Talk About Schools".

The date for the Halfmoon Bay school meeting is Tuesday, February 19 at 7 p.m. This is a meeting for the public and not just the parents. Parents have already made their feelings very clear, but not much has been heard from those of you who do not have children in the school system and who are just as entitled to have their views heard and discussed. This will be your opportunity to express your views on the matter and your input and opinions should be coming forth. All of us who pay taxes are involved, and rather than go around telling your friends what you think, here is your chance to have your viewpoint discussed and noted.

February 19 is also the date of the Area "B" Ratepayers' Association general meeting which will be held at the community use room in West Sechelt. It is hoped that residents of the West Sechelt area will attend as well as those from the Halfmoon Bay area. Peggy Connor our area representative will be in attendance as will Oddvin Vedo who will discuss economic development in the area. Jim Johnson will be present to answer questions on the settlement plan. The time is 8 p.m.

The Halfmoon Bay Recreation Association will have their annual general meeting on February 26 at 7:30 p.m. at the Steve Seenstra home on Francis. Everyone will be welcome, particularly new members who are interested in getting involved with recreation for the youth of the area.

WELCOME HOME

Ronnie Dunn of Redroffs has returned home from a most enjoyable trip to Sydney in Australia where she visited with daughter Debbie. After having spent six weeks with temperatures in the hundreds it was quite a shock to get back to the kind of weather we are experiencing right now. Welcome home Ronnie.

MUSIC LOVERS INVITED:

Nikki Weber has moved her "Strings & Things" store to a new premises beneath the Parthenon. She was formerly located at Rainbow Collections but now has space in which to teach music and to do recordings. Nikki is extending an invitation to open house at the new store on February 15 which is this coming Friday from 1 till 4 in the afternoon. The Halfmoon Hams are planning to help Nikki celebrate the event by turning up to belt out a song or two. Good luck Nikki in your new premises.

While there you will be able to pick up your tickets for a delightful evening of semi-classical entertainment planned for February 23 at the seniors hall. Proceeds are for the new seniors h[illegible] and tickets are $4 each. Such well known singers as Alice Horseman and Walter James will be on the program as well as instrumentalists and other vocal entertainers. This is a repeat by popular request of the show last fall. The Hams do not appear at this one but are busy getting ready for their new show at the end of March.

RENO WINNERS:

The Lions club together with the Sunshine Coast Writers Forge held a successful Reno night at Green Court last Saturday night. Winners of the door prizes were Kathy Olchewski and Jeannie Warren. Don't forget the meeting of the Forge at the Arts Centre this Wednesday when Peter Trower will be in attendance to read from his works. Everyone will be welcome.

VALENTINE'S DANCE

This is your last chance to get in on the dinner dance at Welcome Beach Hall this Saturday. Call Eileen Greaves for reservations at 885-3926. Occasionally one hears a nice little story which is worth passing along and that happened the other day. A little pupil of Halfmoon Bay school was the winner of $5 for guessing correctly the Coast News' "Guess Where" contest. Little Aurea Flynn was the lucky winner, but instead of spending the money on something for herself Aurea decided to share her luck with the rest of her classmates, so she rented a movie for the school video.

I thought that was just great, and although I don't know Aurea I know she must be a nice wee lass.

Sechelt Seniors

by Robert Foxall

Since writing my original report for the week the following information has come to hand regarding the availability of tickets for the concert to be given February 23.

This is billed as a semi-classical event and with the artists we have in our midst will be more than worthwhile.

Tickets may be obtained from the following: Books & Stuff, Rainbow Collections, The Book Store, Cowrie Street, Larry Grafton (our president), Strings & Things (in their new location beneath the Parthenon).

Don't miss this concert it will be good. I know because I have sat in one part of their rehearsals.

Pender People 'n' Places

Tricky weather

by Joan Wilson, 883-9606

February weather can sure play tricks on us. One day last week I was raking leaves in shirt sleeves, and the next our yard was buried under a blanket of snow. No wonder those who can are heading south for warmer weather. Diane and Bob Fielding, and Sage and Brian Wright returned recently from Maui, all tanned and healthy. Equally tanned were Nancy and Ian Mackay, and Meg and Bill Hunsche, who took a ski holiday at Sunshine Village, Banff. Darlene and Alf Lajlar have just come back from three glorious weeks in Switzerland and Austria.

LOCAL FOOD BANK?

Now that she's recovered from the broken ankle she suffered in early December, Doreen Lee is working at the Food Bank in Sechelt. She would like to find out if there is a need for a Food Bank in Pender Harbour, or if some way can be found to help local people use the Sechelt Food Bank.

If you have a good idea, or would like assistance, give Doreen a call at 883-2283.

LIONS CASINO NIGHT

Feeling the gambling urge but can't get to Reno? Come to the Lions Casino Night at the Community Hall on Saturday, February 23 at 7 p.m. Still needed are two blackjack dealers. You needn't be a Lion, just handy with the cards. Call Joe McCann or Gord Kobus if you could lend a hand. (No pun intended.)

Casino Night is always a big success: fun, games and refreshments, with proceeds to Lions charities, many of which are right here on the Sunshine Coast.

Two new members of the Pender Harbour Lions Club were installed at the Charter Night on February 2: Ron Cole and Ken Richardson.

PRESCRIPTIONS

Many Pender residents find it difficult to get medication or prescriptions that they need. Joany at Centre Hardware, in conjunction with Pacifica Pharmacy, will help you with your health needs by getting your prescription up promptly and paying your accounts. Call her at 883-9914.

This service is a real asset to those who can't get into Sechelt easily. Orders received by 6 p.m. at Pacifica will be in the morning mail. Call 885-9614.

DON'T FORGET

Public forum "Let's Talk About Schools" 7:30, February 13 at Pender Harbour secondary, folloing the gym, swim and dinner for parents an students.

Regular monthly meeting of the hospital auxiliary, Wednesday, February 13, 1:30 at St. Andrew's Church Hall. Volunteers are urgently needed for the Sechelt thrift shop. New members welcome.

Draw for Lioness "Shopping Spree" at the IGA, 3 p.m. on Saturday, February 16. Make sure you have your tickets, which are also availa ble at Harbour Video.

LIFE BEFORE THE BRIDGE

Pixie Daly of Halfmoon Bay sent in a delightful account of life on Beaver Island before the bridge at Canoe Pass joined it to the mainland. Activities and travel were determined by the tides, since the Pass is navigable only at high tide. Social occasions could last all night, she recalls, as guests waited for the turn of the tide.

Lewella Duncan remembers that funerals in those days would come by boat to the dock at her father Martin Warnock's, where the coffin would be pulled up a ramp in a special cart. The funeral party would disembark and walk to the little cemetery, then go home by boat, always watching those tides.

The cemetery was donated by the Warnock family in memory of their young son in 1933. The first person buried there was Mrs. Nettie Klein. When you are passing one day, stop at Forest View and have a quiet walk around; you will find many familiar Harbour names on the markers.

Snowed out

by Ann Cook, 883-9167

COMMUNITY NEWS

Thirty-six days to spring but you would never guess that by looking out at the lake which is nearly covered with ice and the trees weighted down with snow.

Pool night at the Backeddy was snowed out. Try again next week.

The school meeting was semi-cancelled, as John Denley and Don Fairweather couldn't make it, due to weather conditions...I say semi-cancelled as there was coffee, cake and Joan Wilson, so an informal meeting was held.

Mark your calendar once again this Wednesday, February 13, 3:30 at the school. John Denley and Don Fairweather will be there, and Joan Wilson, and coffee and cake...

Tuesday, February 12, is clinic day at the school.

Egmont Community Club annual meeting will be on Tuesday February 19 at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Hall.

LIONESS CLUB DRAW

On Saturday, February 16, the Lioness Club will have the draw for the IGA shopping spree at 3 p.m. in the Madeira Park store.

"Coming of Age" recipients to be re-united

The Vancouver Centennial Commission is searching for the whereabouts of the recipients of the 1936 "Coming of Age" certificate. This certificate was presented by Mayor Gerry McGeer to 600 Vancouver residents who turned 21 during the 1936 Golden Jubilee.

Fifty years later, the Vancouver Centennial Commission would like to reunite these people to once again honour them at a ceremony planned for the summer of 1986.

Should you know the whereabouts of any of the "Coming of Age" certificate recipients, please write to the Centennial Commission (including a maiden name if applicable). The Centennial Commission has a list of all those who received this honour.

The Vancouver Centennial Commission is an independent body set up by the city of Vancouver to organize the celebration of Vancouver's 100th birthday in 1986. For more information contact: Charlotte Baynes at the commission offices in Vancouver.

Hearts & Flowers

Having just supervised my small person's efforts at writing Valentines to all his class members I'm feeling more caustic than cuddly about Valentine's Day - but take no notice, there's nothing a heart-shaped box of chocolates wouldn't overcome - hint, hint!

How about a luscious menu to celebrate this delightful day— Cupid Rolls
Fried Rice
Hearty Salad
Coeur a la creme

Cupid Rolls

6 thin slices ham
1 mashed banana
100 ml pineapple chunks, drained
150 ml sliced mushrooms
1000 ml green pepper, sliced
15 ml onion, finely chopped
6 slices mozarella cheese
15 ml butter
salt & pepper

Spread a little of the mashed banana inside each ham slice. Put a couple of pineapple chunks in each slice and roll up. Place a slice of mozarella on each roll up and fasten with a toothpick.

2. Butter a casserole and mix the onion, green pepper, mushrooms and remaining pineapple chunks. Place in a layer at the bottom of the casserole and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place the roll ups over top and cover.
3. Bake at 180 degrees C (350° F) for 30 minutes and serve—minus toothpicks—with fried rice - and lettuce hearts, torn marinated artichoke hearts, drained cherry tomatoes, halved

Hearty Salad

Toss together and serve with green goddess dressing.

Coeur a la Creme

460 gm cream cheese
100 ml whipping cream
30 ml icing sugar
5 ml vanilla
30 ml red currant jelly
1 carton frozen strawberries

1. Make sure that the cheese is at room temperature then beat it till light. Add the sugar, cream and vanilla and beat till fluffy.
2. If you have a heart shaped mould line it with some dampened cheese cloth. Otherwise line some other attractive mould and pour in the cheese mixture. Chill for at least 3 hours, better overnight, then turn out onto a chilled platter and gently ease off the cheese cloth.
3. Melt the red currant jelly and spread over top and decorate with strawberries (use fresh, of course, in the right season, halved). Sprinkle with a little icing sugar and serve.

As we approach St. Valentine's Day, on Thursday, February 14th we think of our loved ones and the need to express our love in a special way.

It may be a note or card that says what we feel, because all too often we are incoherent when it comes to expressing our feelings. It may be a plant or bouquet of flowers; it may be a candle light dinner (home cooked or otherwise); it may be an item of attire or a piece of jewellery, or it may simply be a moment when you take your loved one in your arms and say "I love you".

Whatever way we express it,—it's important to do it,—and not only on St. Valentine's Day. In these stressful times it is important that we be kind and loving toward each other. It is something each human being needs and seeks.

Speaking of the heart, let me remind you that February is Heart Month, and the campaign for financial support commences on February 14th and ends February 28th.

The Canadian Heart Foundation is made up of many chapters. The Sunshine Coast chapter is under the Chairmanship of Mrs. Verla Hobson. The Foundation has distributed brochures claiming that 86¢ out of every dollar collected goes to heart disease research and public education. It is realized, of course that research is useless if the public is unaware of its findings.

Since 1955, there has been a decline of 34% in death caused by cardio vascular diseases, which include heart failure and strokes. This is significant and must be pursued even more vigorously as an even larger proportion of our population reaches the age when these diseases strike.

It is, therefore, a pleasant coincidence that all of us can contribute both to the well-being of our heart-love relationships, and the well-being of the heart of our loved ones in the period of February 14 to 28th.

Have a heart,—be kind to your loved one, give generously toward your future happiness.

Profiles

TV producer

by Peter Trower

A common feeling among many kids growing up in isolated spots like the Sunshine Coast is a burning desire to get out of there. Mike Poole, a former native of Granthams Landing, was no exception. "I left home when I was 15 and went to work on a farm in Alberta," he laughs.

Farmwork with its long hours and low pay was not exactly Mike's cup of tea, however. He had always secretly yearned to become a newspaper reporter so he moved to Vancouver and took a job on The Sun. "That was 1954 and I started right at the bottom," Mike recalls, "filling paste-pots and sharpening pencils for Alan Morely. But it wasn't dull. Those were the glory days of the big rivalry between The Province and The Sun. There were all sorts of Damon Runyon-esque things going on."

One such involved the tragic Mount Slessie airline crash where many members of the Saskatchewan Roughriders team were killed. "The Province had scooped The Sun completely on this one," remembers Mike. "They had three editions on the street before we even got a line on it. My editor sent me over to The Province to steal sheets of the next paper from their pressroom and the guys tossed me right off the loading dock. Competition was wild back then."

Mike, newly-married and ambitious, wanted to advance himself so he took a job on the night desk. It proved to be a real killer. "Seven consecutive guys had been fired from the job before I took it over. You had to handle eight teletype machines, 10 phone lines, six radios and Muzak." Mike stuck it out but the pace and pressure eroded his health. "I went down to 145 pounds, ended contracting TB and had to spend a year in a sanitarium." When he was cured, Mike returned to The Sun for a couple of years as a junior reporter.

"It became clear to me," says Mike, "that if I wanted to become the paper's 'Man in Moscow', I'd needed some more education." When a wealthy relative offered him the chance to spend two years at Washington and Lee University, he jumped at it and moved to Virginia with his growing family.

Players prepare spring farce

The cast is keen, rehearsals are well underway, the costumes are almost complete. Now all that's needed to bring Driftwood Players' production of George Feydeau's "The Ladies' Tailor" to life is some help from neighbours and friends in furnishing the set.

"The Ladies' Tailor" is a French farce set at the turn of the century, and has its full complement of romantic intrigues—and complications. Director Betty Keller is a stickler for authenticity, so here are a few of the things deemed requisite to appropriately set the mood.

As the title hints, a dressmaker's dummy is mandatory and a treadle sewing machine is a must. This is the age of long dresses, high necklines and large hats, and several hat boxes and hat stands or coat racks are also required.

Two of the most crucial pieces of furniture are an Edwardian couch and a chaise lounge. If yours would be conducive to the odd illicitly stolen embrace, and it's sturdy enough for a blushing beauty to demurely faint upon, we'd truly appreciate being able to use it, and promise to take extremely good care of it.

As even the smallest roles are just as important to the final outcome of the play as the larger ones, so too are turn-of-the-century paintings of landscapes and portraits, a silver tea service and medical implements (hypodermic needles, medicine bottles, etc.) as important to truly "set the scene" as an old desk and swivel chair, a small (3'x3') table and a mirror to go over the fireplace.

If you can help with any of these items, please call Fran Burnside at 885-3577 or at the Coast News at 886-2622.

"The Ladies' Tailor" runs Wednesday to Saturday, March 13 to 16, in Gibsons elementary school gym.

Ramblings of a Rover

No shore leave for the chief cook

by DeeCee

Although it would be a mistake to stereotype all Canadian seamen as a bunch of wild irresponsible ne'er-do-wells, it must be acknowledged that it takes a certain type of individual to make a sailor. From what I observed during my sailing years, many of them had chosen the life for the same reasons I had: to see the world, enjoy the enticements of foreign ports and cast off the shackles that bound the landlubbers to their prosaic life ashore.

Whether it could be termed an act of regression I do not know but it appeared that many of us had abandoned the three R's of our school days and had now embarked on a career of sorts that could be summed up as the three B's -Bars, Brothels and Brawls!

If you can remember from my last column, we were on the way to Alexandria, Egypt, with a full cargo of Chilean nitrate. I have forgotten after so many years what our crossing of the Atlantic was like but eventually we arrived in that port and, much to my chagrin, I learned that Captain Craig (Bible Bill) had refused to issue me a shore pass although my shipmates were free to wander at will and enjoy whatever pleasures of the flesh (and they were many) that the port had to offer.

I learned later that our good Captain's reasons for not letting me go ashore were that he feared there would be a repetition of my performance in San Antonio, Chile, when I had landed in the clink with the lady I called the Green Hornet. He was denying me a pass strictly for my own protection.

Looking back on it all now, perhaps he was right and had the gift of ESP as no sooner were the crew ashore than trouble started in one of the waterfront bars and soon erupted on to the streets. Not being present, I can only surmise that the first two B's having been attended to, a magnificent brawl was necessary and inevitable as a grand finale to the evening's entertainment.

Among our crew was a character named 'Wild Jim' Mckinnon. He was from either Nova Scotia or Prince Edward Island and it was rumoured that he had been kicked out of every police force in Canada, local, provincial, and RCMP, in addition to several of the same institutions in the USA. Very quiet and reserved while going about his duties on board (he was an AB), he seemed to undergo a complete metamorphosis once he was ashore and had a few drinks under his belt.

On this particular occasion in the melee that ensued on the streets of Alexandria, the Egyptian mounted police appeared on the scene and one of them slashed 'Wild Jim' across the face with his riding whip. That was all that was needed to get our wild man from the Maritimes going. He grabbed the whip, jerked the poor policeman off his horse and gave him a thorough dusting over with his own whip. When he and the others arrived back at the ship flushed but triumphant, Mc Kinnon gave me the whip as a souvenir and I still have it on the wall of my cottage.

As expected, the Egyptian police authorities came aboard the next day to complain to the Captain and were given permission to search the ship and interview participants in the previous night's disturbance, but they never found the whip. I had stuffed it into the flour barrel in the galley and they did not look there!

As I recall it we were not very long in Alexandria and the 10,000 tons of nitrate were soon unloaded. (I guess Nasser must have needed it badly for the coming show-down with England and France.)

Speculation was rife on board as to where we would be going next. We were not left long in doubt; our next port of call was to be Torrevieja, Spain, for a full cargo of salt to be delivered to Colombo, Ceylon.

We arrived at Spanish port situated about midway between the two coastal cities of Alicante and Cartagena and again, much to my annoyance, I found out that the curfew imposed on me by our Captain was still in force: there was 'no shore leave for the chief cook!'

How I circumvented that and went ashore anyway is a story in itself but it will have to wait till some other time.

Chinooks active in competition

Nineteen Chinook swimmers started out in the dark and venturned home in the dark, on Saturday, February 2. They attended the 2nd Annual 10 and Under Invitational Meet hosted by the Pacific Sea Wolves at White Rock, B.C. Eleven clubs participated bringing together approximately 200 swimmers.

All Chinook swimmers attending: Julie and Ryan Mellor, Aprile Dunlop, Michael and Peter Kowalewski, Kirsty Eidet, Tyson and Shane Cross, Vikki Hughson, Sara Roberts, Ralph Dickie, Hanna Henderson, Dean and Shawn Hunt, Carla Howden, Colleen Duncan, Seru Moledegei, Hanna Skytte and Troy Boyes received Best Time Ever ribbons for establishing and/or improving their previous recorded times.

In the girls' 25 Back 8 and Under, Aprile Dunlop placed second overall with a time of 25.4 seconds (which was 1.7 seconds off breaking this meet record time set in 1983).

Seru Moledegei placed three times in the top six overall. She placed fourth in the 50 Fly 41.7 (meet record 38.4); fifth in the 50 Breast 53.4 (.8 second under 1983 meet record 54.2) and sixth place in the 100 Back.

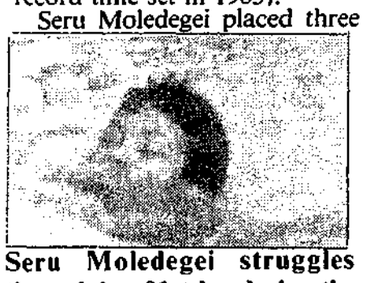
In the 25 Breast two placed in the top six. Third went to Shane Cross 28.6 and sixth to Ryan Mellor 30.5 (meet record 1983 25.6).

Great team effort on the part of all relay teams. The Boys' 7 and 8 Year Old Medley Relay placed third overall. Swum by Peter Kowalewski (BK), Ryan Mellor (BR), Dean Hunt (Fly) and Tyson Cross (Free).

Congratulations to all Chinooks and a special thanks to Jurgen Kowalewski for assisting on deck.

On February 10, Ruth Duffin (Chinook coach) will be swimming her 1st Master's Swim Meet at Victoria, B.C. We wish her a good time and good luck.

Next 10 and Under Swim Meet will be March 2 and 3, 1985. Hosted by the Canadian Dolphins.



Seru Moledegei struggles through her 91st lap during the Chinook Swim Club's Swimathon which continues next week at the Gibsons pool. Seru a relative newcomer to the sport was one of four athletes to break the meet record in the 50 metre Butterfly in White Rock last week. —Neville Conway photo

Swimathon raises funds

Over 60 members of the Chinook Swim Club participated in the first leg of the annual Swimathon last week in an effort to raise funds for their amateur competitive swimming program. Because of last weeks' inclement weather some 20 other participants will be swimming next week.

Members are allowed to swim a maximum of 200 lengths or for two hours and thus far Michael Wilson, Dave Webb and Ruth Duffin have completed the 200 laps before the two hour limit.

Due in large part to the efforts of club president Dan Cross, coaches Ruth Duffin and Dave Webb, the Chinooks are now ranked second in B.C. behind the Dolphin Swim Club.

Dan Cross told the Coast News that several team members have reached Level I standard in their respective events within one or two seconds of provincial swimming laurels.

Despite the logistical problems involved in integrating a municipal swimming schedule with the Chinooks educational/competitive program the Chinook club continues to attract both the novice and prospective competitive swimmer.

To date the club boasts a membership of over 100.

Because of the diversity of the Chinook's program, increasing membership, and the need to provide individual swimmers with more specialized training, the club may be looking toward renting more pool time to accommodate what Dan Cross describes as "some really talented young swimmers".

Unemployed advice

The Unemployment Action Centre would like to inform you about the medical assistance that is available. There are three types of medical premiums; 50 per cent medical assistance, 90 per cent medical assistance and temporary medical assistance.

The first two are based on your last year's taxable income. 1. If your income was between $0.00 and $2,030 you would be entitled to 90 per cent assistance. 2. If your income was between $2,030 and $2,980 you would be entitled to 50 per cent assistance.

If you do not qualify for the above because your last year's income was too high, you may still qualify for Temporary Premium Assistance. This is available to people who are suddenly unable to pay full premiums due to unemployment, sickness or disability. You will receive 90 per cent assistance but only for a set period of time. You can, however, reapply.

Forms for assistance are available at the Action Centre as well as the Medical Clinic. For any further information please drop by the centre or call us at 886-2425 or 886-3361.

Planning

to this; "We would like to put it together as a package, rather than do it in a piece meal way."

The committee's feelings are that the town needs protection from liability should there be problems with flooding, especially in the spring run-off, but McRae pointed out that the covenant protects, not the town, but the people who own the property. The matter was tabled by the committee who will hand down a decision on February 19.

A letter from Deborah Overbye has been received by the Planning Committee making a suggestion that a Farmers' Market would be an asset to the town of Gibsons, especially in the summer months when there would be an influx of tourists to the area.

"We keep talking in general terms," said Alderman Burnside, "about attracting tourist traffic to the town, but we haven't done a lot. Anything that lends colour or character to the town in summer should be encouraged."

It was therefore decided Ms Overbye be encouraged to approach the operators of the Gibsons marina with her proposal, and, should they not be interested, to advise her that Dougal Park is available.

Police News

GIBSONS RCMP

In last week's news, we reported that a motor vehicle accident from January 25 didn't result in injuries for the driver of the car hit by the suspect vehicle. The victim of the impaired driver arrested at the scene of the accident did receive injuries and was taken to hospital for treatment.

Gibsons RCMP are still trying to locate the owner of six collector's plates found in Langdale near the ferry terminal last August 13. The plates are of various designs and all efforts by police to locate the owner have so far been fruitless. When inquiring, please quote file #84/2293.

Last week's weather was responsible for at least a dozen reports of motor vehicle accidents involving property damage.

On the first, Pratt Road resident Laurel Thompson was taken to hospital following a two vehicle motor accident on Highway 101 near the Peninsula Hotel. Thompson was driving south bound when she lost control of her vehicle and struck K&E Towing's truck which was facing the highway north bound. K&E Towing's truck was in the process of removing a car from the ditch when it was struck by the Thompson vehicle.

Paul Powers reported the theft of this chainsaw on February 5. The chainsaw was stolen from the back of Powers' pick-up while parked on School Road in lower Gibsons. Police were able to follow footsteps left in the show by the thief and the chainsaw was recovered. A local man has been charged with the theft.

On February 4, Nick Husby reported the theft of a motorcycle, a 1983 Honda XL 100, red in colour, taken from his garage. The bike is valued at $900.

SECHELT RCMP

Two thefts were reported on February 1. A water pump valued at $700 was stolen from a Middlepoint residence and a $300 bicycle was stolen from a storage area located in the underground garage of the Royal Terraces Apartments.

On February 5, thefts were reported from Irvines Landing, Sehsal Creek in Jervis Inlet and Selma Park. Liquor was stolen from Irvines Landing Marina while the owners were away. A quantity of fuel and some slings were stolen from a Sehsal Creek shake claim and $150 worth of steel pipe was stolen from a construction site located on Benner Road in Selma Park.

Two more thefts were reported on February 7. A portable power plant was stolen from a summer residence located in the Salmon Inlet area and a battery valued at $50 was stolen from a truck parked at Brian's Auto Body in Sechelt.

A motor vehicle accident was reported from the top of the hill on Redrooffs Road. A woman visiting the area from Alberta lost control of her car and ended up in the ditch. The woman and her passenger were taken to St. Mary's for treatment of minor injuries. Property damages reached a total of $1,500.

Tourist grant gives five jobs

"We are very pleased," said Richard Tomkies of the Sunshine Coast Tourism Association when he learned of the approval of the Canada Works grant, which will give five people work for varying lengths of time and will lead to permanent positions for two, if work progresses as it is hoped.

The Tourism Association will have a worker for 50 weeks, assisting Anne Langdon and the newly formed Sunshine Coast Mariculture Association will have an administrator for some 30 weeks. This will prove invaluable, since the association is involved in many projects, including the 1986 Mariculture Showcase and there are a growing number of members who are involved in many aspects of mariculture.

"We are doing all we can to make this work yield permanent positions," said Tomkies, in a conversation with the Coast News. "Everything we are doing is towards that end."

It is hoped that work will commence on March 1, although the canoe route may be delayed due to weather conditions.

Sports fishermen call for action members that it is a viable thing to write to the DFO asking for some form of predator control.

"As long as we (people) are in the game, the rules are changed. Nature is not taking its course because we have changed the rules," he said. Some concern was expressed over the potential environmentalist protest, such as the Greenpeace protests in the Eastern seal hunt.

"You have to realise," said Ottway, "that they don't win. When you show them up for what they are, they're done. No one showed them up back East which is why they were successful. Something has to be done (about the seal problem)." Seals' natural predators are the killer whales which are no longer seen as frequently as they once were in the Inlet waters, leading to the large increase in the seal population.

Members were urged to make their concerns known to their parliamentary representatives. "They work for you," said Ottway, "make them do their job."

There was also a resolution passed asking for an overall herring closure to allow stocks to build up. It was also pointed out that when seine nets were used for herring catches sometimes up to 60 per cent of the fish caught were small salmon fry, leading to an even greater depletion of dwindling stocks. The resolution also suggested allowing only gill nets in the herring catch. Herring are fish which live for eight years, four of them as immature fish, and four as spawners. A two-year moratorium on herring fishing would allow present immature fish to reach spawning age, and allow mature fish the chance to spawn in greater numbers.

At the conclusion of the meeting a committee was formed to further examine the resolutions and make recommendations to the DFO. Members of the committee are Cliff Bowles, John Clayton, Don Fowler, Bill Mehan, Britt Varcoe and possibly Pat Mulligan who was nominated to the committee in his absence.

Gibsons ponders planning items

The Gibsons Rugby Club has been granted permission to construct a sundeck and an addition to the Armour's Beach Hall, as well as installing a pole with lights at Brothers Park to enable night-time practises.

This decision was made at the February 6 Gibsons Planning Committee meeting, where other business included discussion on survey problems, extension of time for a lingering by-law, and a suggestion from a public-spirited citizen about a Farmers' Market for the Gibsons area.

Gibsons Planner Rob Buchan pointed out that there would be some parking problems at the Armour's Beach site, and that the deck may present somewhat of a problem due to the steep topography of the land, but he recommended granting permission for the rugby club's proposed addition since it will improve the town's property.

Alderman Norm Peterson expressed some concern about drinking at the hall, mainly on the open deck which will overhang the public beach, very popular with children. The planning committee decided to grant the request subject to there being no consumption of alcohol on the deck during the daylight hours.

Again, Planner Buchan pointed out advantages to granting a request to erect a light pole at Brothers Park. The pole will improve the town's property and expenses will be borne by the rugby club.

Land surveyor Larry Penonzek was on hand to present to the planning committee information on the Headlands Road survey, and also problems concerning the Maxwell property, which has also been affected by survey errors.

The planner stressed the point that it was never the idea of the town to reclaim land at the expense of the owners, but rather, "to draw attention to their vulnerability. We must recognize the existing situation, and resolve the problem.'

It was recommended by Planner Buchan that the Clerk-Treasurer, Lorraine Goddard, explore the possibilities of claiming funds from the Survey Errors Fund to cover the expense involved in straightening out the situation.

Jon McRae was present at the meeting with John Kavanagh to plead his case for an extension to the unadopted Bylaw No. 350-7, which affects the Ritz Motel property and Charman Creek. McRae and Kavanagh asked for a six month extension, by which time they hoped to have settled on a direction the development of the property is to take and to have a sale tied up.

In the absence of the Planning Committee chairman, Alderman Ron Neilson, the planner conveyed the chairman's feelings which, although he has no objection to granting an extension, he would wish it to be dependent on the registration of a Restrictive Covenant, which was required when the by-law was first proposed.

McRae expressed opposition

Low prices shut mill

The Canfor mill at Port Mellon will be shutdown from March 11 to April 9 for what is described as a 'production curtailment'. The shutdown will affect half the workforce, approximately 200 production workers.

The reason given for this closure is an 'over-supply of pulp on the world market'. Canfor maintains it cannot afford to sell pulp at the present prices.

Union spokesman Steve Holland told the Coast News: "This is another lockout but in a different way from last year. Last year they claimed it was a labour dispute; we (the union) said at the time it was a move to reduce inventory and improve prices."

Holland said that there may be another curtailment later this year 'hopefully during prime vacation time' which would lessen the impact.
