The Hillside Industrial Park is a go-ahead, announced local MLA Harold Long and Minister of State for Mainland/Southwest, Elwood Veitch, at a press conference in Gibsons March 10.

There were congratulations all around when Veitch said an agreement in principle had been reached between the provincial government and the Sunshine Coast Regional District (SCRD) to develop the Hillside Industrial Park.

"This agreement is an example of how the regional development strategy is being used to ensure that economic growth and diversification occurs in all areas of the province," Veitch said. "The regionalization program is working!"

MLA Long said the project will be a real boost for the local economy. He thanked SCRD chairperson, Peggy Connor, and her staff for their cooperation.

"It (the agreement) is a fine example of what can be accomplished when local and provinical governments work together," Long said.

The Hillside Industrial Park is cited for 405 acres of Crown land near Port Mellon. The blueprint for the development is a regional district subdivision plan calling for 250 acres to be used for industry.

Another 155 acres is set aside for the creation of a community forest.

Bayside Sawmill which will eventually employ 50 workers, will probably be the first to build at Hillside. It is expected most of the other industry to establish at the Park will also be forestry oriented and concerned with the re-manufacturing of wood products.

"B.C. is very much on the move," Veitch said, "and the Hillside Industrial Park will mean jobs, good jobs."

What excites Veitch most about the project though, is the site's potential for a deepsea port, he said.

"People around the world are interested in an area on the Pacific Rim where a deepsea port can be established. The potential for an area which has the potential for a deepsea port is tremendous."

He mentioned the new chromium plant slated for Nanaimo with a future job capacity of 300 as proof of the potential for an area such as Hillside.

Morris Egan, chairman of the regional district Economic Development Commission (EDC), said the area had beautiful potential to show the world industry and the environment can co-exist.

The Dakota and McNair creeks flowing through the development and providing its water, he said, will be carefully protected. Strips of land on both sides of the creeks extending out several hundred feet will be kept clear of any development.

Fish hatcheries will be established in several spots along the banks.

The EDC has set aside $50,000 in its budget to hire environmentalists to overview the Millions for jobs

by Harold Blaine

Rosier by $2,920,960 is the Sunshine Coast's economy over the next five years following a federal government announcement Friday.

Ecstatic was the way to describe Sunshine Coast community futures committee chairman William McKinnon when he was informed by this newspaper that the announcement had come through.

"I'm very excited, very pleased. It will have a significant impact on the Coast. It will serve a very useful purpose here," said chairman McKinnon.

He immediately announced the formation of the Sunshine Coast Business Development Centre with a nine-member board. He ordered the position of manager advertised, expecting local businesspersons seeking loans will be lining up for interviews by the last half of April.

The new Business Development Centre (BDC) this year will have $385,710 to establish, maintain and administer itself and make loans, according to the announcement by Tom Siddon, federal fisheries and oceans minister. Siddon made the announcement on behalf of the apparently absent Barbara McDougal, employment and immigration Canada minister.

The plan for the centre calls for more than $2 million over five years, the further money to be provided by Ottawa as required over future years.

The announcement also includes over $800,000 to help unemployed Sunshine Coasters establish their own businesses, according to the announcement.

Local community futures chairman McKinnon said his committee got everything it has so far proposed to the federal government under the program. The committee is working all out on its proposals for more than another million dollars worth of Sunshine Coast economic development plans.

The Business Development Centre and unemployed self-help program proposals have been on the employment minister's desk for something more than three months. The committee worked on them since late 1987.

The nine-member BDC board will soon meet to elect its officers. It includes John Clayton, Sechelt businessman; Dr. Douglas Jardine of Sechelt, Capilano College president; Kay Little, Halfmoon Bay businesswoman; Debbie Mealia, Roberts Creek businesswoman; Bonnie Murray, Garden Bay professional accountant; Lynda Olsen, Langdale teaching assistant; Chris Ortner, Sechelt forester; Michael Ryan, Sechelt construction man; Barrie Wilbee, Madeira Park businessman.

The local community futures chairman and retired civil servant said it really felt good, after all the hard work done on Coast economic planning, to hear the announcement of federal funds had come. He said the federal government is being very good to the Sunshine Coast.

"Given the competency and stature of the (BDC) board members, I'm sure it (the federal money) will be delivered in a manner that will benefit the Sunshine Coast," he said. He said well-deserved credit should be given Vancouver area employment and immigration consultant Leslie Rodgers for the successful acquisition of the federal money.

It was Rodgers who conveyed the announcement here on Friday.

Sharon Sawchuk, local futures committee manager-coordinator, said the new BDC office will operate jointly with the existing futures committee office in Teredo Square, Sechelt.

She said the self-employment incentive part of the program is for unemployed individuals to start their own businesses. They can qualify for a weekly wage for a year to help them start their own small-scale enterprises.

Fisheries and Oceans Minister Siddon's announcement said the Sunshine Coast Community Futures Association will receive $385,710 to establish a Business Development Centre and $804,960 over the next five years to implement the self-employment incentive option of community futures, part of the Canadian jobs strategy.

"The Business Development Centre option will assist small businesses in the creation of permanent employment

The late winter sun waxes warm in this view of the Sechelt Indian Band Hall at Sechelt, as if as an omen of the future of the band's new precedent-setting self-government and the future successes of indigenous peoples taking their places as world citizens in the fullest sense of the word around the planet.

New Zealand, Ontario Natives visit Sechelt

by Penny Fuller

It has been less than a year since the final negotiations concluded making the Sechelt Indian Government District a unique self-governing entity in Canada. Already, indigenous people from around the world are sending representatives to talk with the band council and take back information about the process of self-government.

Last week, the band was visited by Pouwhare Temaipi, a Maori from New Zealand. Also visiting were three representatives from the Bimose Tribal Council in Kenora, Ontario.

Temaipi told the Coast News he was on a five week tour of Canada to look at the developments here in self-government for Native people, and to acquire first-hand information on the 'devolution process'.

"Devolution", he explained is a term used by the government of New Zealand, "...describing the process whereby the government hands back programs and services, with appropriate financing, to tribal groups."

It is a process which that government is now committed to completing within five years.

The situation of the Maori people and of Native Canadians are similar in many ways, Temaipi said. But there are some significant differences.

Within a much smaller geographical area, the Maori people comprise approximately one-tenth of the New Zealand population of 2.8 million. The result is a more common approach, more universality of direction, he explained.

There is also only one level of government to negotiate with. Here the Sechelt Band had to negotiate first with the federal government, then the provincial and back to the federal.

The Bimose Tribal Council is also in a somewhat different situation from that of the Sechelts. Many of the New Zealand bands were totally isolated in their communities until about 20 years ago, Eli Mandamin told the Coast News.

Much of their culture and language is strongly intact. They also reside on treaty lands, a different legal situation than the Sechelts had.

Mandamin, Robert Greene, and John Skead are on a fact-finding tour for their tribal council. They were most interested in the information shared with them by the Sechelt Indian Band.

French, English study congenial

Early French Immersion classes will not translate into problems later on when students turn their attention to English, a UBC researcher says.

Honey Halpern, a sessional instructor in the department of language education, bases her belief on a recent study of students at a Vancouver elementary school.

"There's a myth out there and it suggests that the very nature of learning a second language such as French is upsetting to English reading skills," said Halpern. "I think this study does much to dispel this myth."

In her research, Halpern tutored six grade 4 and 5 students who were having difficulties with English after having spent their first years of schooling in French Immersion.

Halpern found a wide variety of reasons for their lack of skills - physical and emotional maturity, family support, educational programs - but that there was no evidence linking their problems with French Immersion.

"It's not learning a second language that causes them to have English reading difficulties," she said. "These children had problems in French language classes as well."

She also found that parents of the immersion students were not reading to their children in English at home because they feared it would confuse them. Halpern said this mistaken assumption probably added to their plight.

Halpern advises parents to relax and have patience if French Immersion children are not as advanced in their English skills as others their age.

Kidneys needed

March is Kidney Month for the Canadian Kidney Foundation's 25th anniversary door-to-door campaign for funds. You should try to give, of course. But there is something else you can do that costs you nothing and will have more value than almost any monetary donations.

Sign an organ donor card, or the organ donor form on your driver's licence. Many people are waiting desperately for a kidney transplant.

Because the general public is now aware kidney transplants have a high success rate (over 80 per cent), it seems many feel the problem is solved. But there are still 1200 Canadians waiting for transplants, and almost 5000 whose everyday lives are constrained by the need for dialysis.

If only one per cent of potential organ donors here on the Sunshine Coast and across the nation gave the gift of life, there would be no more waiting lists.

Sales tax reform is small business threat

by Ann M. Smith

At first blush, the prospect of a highly publicized and emotionally-charged debate over reform of sales tax may not seem all that exciting. If you agree, it will probably be a very long summer.

But for many observers, the all-important debate has already begun. During the long and tedious process of pre-budget discussions, Finance Minister Michael Wilson will no doubt hear umpteen different solutions of how he should go about making repairs to the decaying system of sales tax in this country.

(Few disagree that, yes, the reforms are long overdue; the problem is more a matter of which course of action Wilson should take.)

According to a recent pre-budget submission prepared by the 80,000-member Canadian Federation of Independent Business, there is a very real danger that consumers and small business will not be given a strong enough voice in the ensuing process of public debate. CFIB President John Bulloch says the issue of sales tax reform, however, is just too important to the country's overall economic stability.

"Big business is the promoter and major beneficiary of sales tax reform," said Bulloch, "as this will have the effect of shifting sales tax away from exporters and on to consumers and small business."

It would be political suicide for the government, he adds, to ignore the interests of consumers and small business in order to appease the corporate elite.

"The benefits of a new sales tax system—designed to help Canadian exporters—will be wiped out if the government places a nightmarish paper-burden on small business. Mr. Wilson must remember where the vast majority of all the jobs in Canada are coming from.

"According to Statistics Canada, firms employing fewer than 50 people accounted for 93 per cent of all private sector job creation between 1978 and 1986. Firms employing more than 500 people, on the other hand, generated a net loss equivalent of 50,000 jobs," said Bulloch.

During a pre-budget meeting, Bulloch told Wilson that sales tax reform presents problems for the small business community in the following areas:

- That an increased sales tax on consumer services will drive economic activity underground to the detriment of all legitimate, taxpaying businesses.
- That an increased sales tax on consumer goods and services will reduce demand, which in turn will result in a diminished contribution by small firms to job creation and economic growth.
- That the costs of administering the new sales tax system for smaller firms and government will be greater than the revenue collected.
- That auditing of small firms in the future by Revenue Canada will be a continuous source of fear and harassment.

Sales tax reform will fail unless consumers and small business are treated fairly. Our economy cannot afford a warped system of sales tax that favours big business at the expense of the average Canadian.

On St. Patrick's Day

'I have a dream...' Peace in Ireland

by Isabel Ralph

St. Patrick is the patron saint of Ireland, who in the Middle-Ages, brought Christianity there. March 17 is the day named in his honour.

Because his church was Roman Catholic and Northern Ireland is now mainly Protestant, violence there continues to be a part of almost daily life. Ordinary people send their children to school, not sure of their safety in that chronic state of religious civil war.

It was less than a year ago that three young unarmed IRA partisans, two men and a woman, were shot dead by British security soldiers in Gibraltar. There were three witnesses who saw it all.

A week later two loyalist gunmen, members of the Protestant Action Force, walked into a Belfast pub known to be frequented by Catholics. They fired on everybody there, killing four young men and wounding many others.

But religious bigots never give up. Recently two IRA terrorists, intent upon revenge, set a time bomb to blow up a British Army barracks in Shropshire where 50 soldiers lay sleeping.

A young soldier, however, on sentry duty saw the bombers running away. He roused his comrades in time to evacuate the building before it was blown to pieces.

I have another little note here stating that the Reverend Ian Paisley, who preaches hatred of Catholics in his Protestant church in Belfast, and is also the leader of the Northern Ireland Unionists, created a disturbance at the European Parliament in Strasbourg. He interrupted an address by the Pope by carrying a placard stating the Pope is the anti-Christ: the enemy of Christ. Paisley was forcibly ejected from the hall.

Yes, Ireland—where my family came from—is a sad land, torn by strife. We have no relatives there now, since my cousin Jane Coffey died three years ago.

Now I prefer to remember all the great people Ireland has given the world.

There was Thomas Moore, a poet and musician who wrote many lovely songs about Ireland and its people. He wrote the beautiful love song, 'Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms'. Lord Byron admired and befriended him.

There was George Bernard Shaw who came to England and won great fame as a playwright. He wrote 13 plays and several books. He was an early member of the Fabian Society, the beginning of socialism. He was awarded the 1925 Nobel Prize for Literature and lived to be 94 years of age.

There was Sean McBride, the son of the beautiful Maude Gonne. Her husband, John McBride, had been executed by the British in the infamous Kilmainham Jail.

Sean studied law, defended political prisoners and, when Ireland became a republic, was the champion of human rights. He was a founding father and director of Amnesty International.

In 1974 he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize. He died, a very old man in 1988.

In 1988 the City of Dublin celebrated 1000 years since its founding. There were celebrations all over the Republic of Ireland.

In Trinity College Library in Dublin, the cherished Book of Kells is on display. It was written in the 8th Century on parchment with decorations in full colour.

In my youth I had the good fortune to be in Montreal when another great Irishman was there too. He was William Butler Yates who had been an actor in the Abbey Theatre in Ireland—and was a poet.

He was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1923. It was the autumn of 1932 when I arrived in Montreal. I went to

Don't believe computer prices

Editor:

Sale, sale, sale...but are you really getting a sale price, plus coupon discounts, etc...? Look at your receipts again!

I was shopping at a local drug store here and guess what? I was charged at the regular price (not on sale price, as advertised) minus coupon value.

I couldn't believe my eyes because we trust those pre-computerized print out prices 100 per cent don't we? We seldom (for most of us, never) question the machine's accuracy in calculations, so we pay whatever the amount that's being printed.

Later, when I pointed out the mistake made on the receipt (whether it's purposely man-made or machine-made, I don't know), I was told by the cashier that the computer doesn't print out the right figures 100 per cent of the time!! Personally, I don't know much about computers, but do they really do that?

By the way, we went there four times for the same article and each time were cheated!

So check your receipts next time and know your prices. Don't get cheated out of your hard-earned money by greedy businesspeople (though not all of them are alike).

What's in a name?

Editor:

Back in the mid-20th Century entrepreneur Ted Gibb purchased the 33-acre Dugall Bluff, commonly called Franklins Bluff, for $33,000 through agent Harold Wilson of Totem Realty who coined the name Sunshine Coast which has stuck to this day.

Large subdivisions were a rare thing in those days but Mr. Gibb was well up to the task of putting surveyors in. Alf Ritchey with bulldozer, cap and blasting powder at the ready to muscle in the basic road beds—some of us called it Bull Ritchey's pension plan for the project seemed endless, almost a mission impossible.

But the former mayor did it—a 97-lot subdivision ahead of its time.

Waterfront lots facing the bay sold at five to six thousand while view lots were of the 15 to 30 thousand range according to view and size.

Then Ted Gibb mushed us salesmen up the bluff with orders to name the streets—he being an outsider.

And so it was that Gordon Wilson, Kay Butler, myself and Kay MacKenzie set out on the perimeter road which we named Skyline Drive with local names Avalon Way, Arbutus Reach, and Shoal Lookout. We reserved the Allison Way a must for Ted Gibb's daughter, Georgia Drive after his wife, not the Strait, and the short dead-end road Totem Way.

The entire subdivision was dubbed Georgia View and the south beach park dedicated to the Village of Gibsons, which most of us as youngsters referred to as BB Beach, more or less difficult to get at other than by boat in the early days when we crawled over the rocks to pick Franklin daisies in the spring.

Heart Fund appreciation is great

Editor:

Thank you everyone for contributing support to the 1989 Heart Fundation campaign. The businesses that displayed signs, the swimming pool in Gibsons, the coffee shops, and all the people who donated money, thank you!

March 16 at 7:30 pm there will be an evening of appreciation for the volunteers who contributed their enthusiasm, energy and time to the Heart Month in February. Each person from canvasser to coordinator to chairman is vital to the work of fund-raising for the educational and research projects sponsored by the Heart Foundation.

Since heart disease is the number one killer, then these funds will benefit us all. Our contributions so far have fallen short of our goal by $4,000.

There were fewer canvassers this year, so it may be that areas were missed. If that is the case for you, please make your donation, large or small, and forward to Box 1525, Gibsons.

If each person on the Sunshine Coast donated $1 our goal would be reached. It is never too late, please open your heart.

All volunteers are invited to join Heather Robertson, our regional coordinator, for light refreshments at the Golf Club Thursday. A big thank you to all!

McMurray Bay plan supported

Editor's note: the following has been received for publication.

Provincial Legislature
Victoria, B.C.
Dear Sir:

The Coastal Association for the Protection of the Environment would like to go on record as supporting the Sunshine Coast Regional District's application for a safe harbour and recreation area in McMurray Bay in Jervis Inlet.

McMurray Bay is now the only safe anchorage location left in the Jervis Inlet which is free of forestry or aquaculture related activity. We believe that it makes basic sense to retain at least one untouched safe harbour in the area.

Any plans for development in McMurray Bay should be put on hold.

We request you actively support the SCRD application.

Aquaculture said threat to wild fish stocks

Editor's note: the following has been received for publication.
John Cashore, MLA
Legislative Buildings
Victoria, B.C.
Dear Mr. Cashore:

It appears your knowledge of the aqua-business industry is, to put it politely, somewhat limited. While I fully realize the time constraints your office may hold it is unacceptable that such an important impact on the sports and commercial fishing industry, and the tourism industry be regarded so lightly.

Our Ocean Resource Conservation Alliance (ORCA) and associated groups are more than just a little disgusted with your party's obvious lack of concern. Your recent visit to the Sechelt Peninsula only confirmed this point of view.

Where was, where is, your party when the discovery of VHVS makes front page headlines throughout the northwest coast of North America?

ORCA has very serious concerns with fin fish aquaculture worldwide and in particular salmon farming in B.C. On first consideration these developments would seem to be of a relatively benign nature.

The multi-national aquabusiness industry, and many governments and their agencies have in no small way contributed to this illusion.

We believe fin fish aquaculture as practised today is a larger threat to the survival of wild stocks than pollution, habitat destruction or over fishing. A growing body of evidence supporting this statement exists today.

Are we to wait until the wild stocks of some species become effectively extinct before this pattern of destruction is halted or at least recognized?

Just as it has elsewhere in the world, the obvious likelihood of resistant and VHVS type diseases occurring on the West Coast of North American has always been one of ORCA's main contentions. The frightening speed that almost all of our statements has come to pass is the only surprising event.

Restaurant hospitality is lacking

Editor:

As a very newly located family in Gibsons, recently my wife and I stopped in at a cafe here for lunch.

After ordering and receiving our meal, I was dissatisfied with my order, complaining that portions of it were not cooked.

After relieving me of it, the waitress promptly brought it back. Much to my disbelief I was informed the cook disagreed with me, insisting it was acceptable.

Not only did I not eat the meal, but I was informed that I would have to pay for it!

I am a firm believer in the customer is always right. Needless to say this cafe has lost my business.

But more importantly, I would like to know, is this the image a tourist locale can afford to make to the public? Surely not.

He was a frail, white-haired old man but his voice was clear and resonant. One poem I wrote down and memorized. It went:

"Had I the heavens' embroidered cloths, enwrought with silver and golden light, the blue and the dim and the dark cloths of light and night and the half-light, I would spread these cloths beneath your feet. But I being poor, have only my dreams. I spread my dreams beneath your feet. Tread softly because you tread on my dreams."

Today I also am old and frail. But I too have a dream. It is that I shall live to see peace in Ireland.

Joe back in speaking role

by Ellen Frith

Gilbert Joe of the Sechelt Indian Band was a guest speaker at the New Democratic Party Club in Sechelt, March 7. He spoke about his band's long and sometimes arduous journey to self-government.

Joe, 55, is becoming active once more in band activities after having been ill. He was applauded warmly by the 40 club members present for his contribution to the NDP Club's evening.

John Cashore (MLA for Millardville/Coquitlam and environment critic for the NDP) was the other guest speaker.

Both speakers commented on the new direction the NDP is going in, towards generating wealth and saving the environment.

Cashore said that we had a lot to learn from the Indian on living in harmony with our environment.

Cashore said western expansion by the European epitomized the Judeo/Christian concept that man has, in the words of Genesis: '...dominion over the fish of the sea and over the fowl of the air and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth.'

"Another theme," Cashore said, "is that man has stewardship of the earth. We can all live together on this planet."

Before the non-Indians came to the Coast, there were 24,000 people living here. In the 1950's the Indian population had dropped to 201.

Now there are around 800 members of the Sechelt Indian Band, Joe said.

"Most of the band members support the NDP," he said, "although not all".

Prior to the speakers, the Sechelt NDP Club held its annual elections.

Voted in as new president is Howard White of Harbour Publishing. Vice-president is Paul Murphy of Sunshine Coast Products.

Judy Wilson has been president for the past two years.

It was announced the NDP is holding its regional policy conference in Nanaimo on April 8 and 9. Four voting delegates from the Sechelt NDP Club are planning to attend.

Roberts Creek

by Jeanie Parker, 885-2163

It's make or break time for the Roberts Creek Community Association. The hall is low on funds. People-power and the elections Wednesday call for an infusion of interest and energy.

The community hall is an important part of Roberts Creek, but the community association is more than that. It's the library and post office, the Joint Use Facility, Roberts Creek Daze, the propane tanks, the Settlement Plan, the golf course, dog control and a multitude of other issues facing the community now and in the future.

The annual meeting of the Roberts Creek Community Association is Wednesday, March 15 at 8 pm in the community hall. Memberships for 1989 are now due.

LEGION MEETING

Voting members of the Roberts Creek Legion are requested to attend the general meeting this Wednesday, March 15 at 7:30 pm. The branch has many projects being planned and they need ideas and input.

The Legion recently gave a boost to the Arts Council's piano fund with a $2500 donation. Allen Crane said that brings the 'grand' total to about $11,000 out of the $30,000 required.

Cape Bretoner Steven Lloyd will be performing at the Little Legion this weekend, March 17 and 18. Coming attractions are Freefall and The Dewberries.

Friday night dinners will begin again on March 31 with a Chinese smorgasbord.

JAPAN TRIP

Lucky Sean Puchalski! He was chosen from Elphinstone High School to go to Japan this summer.

He and a group of other selected students will spend three weeks there staying with families and learning about the country and the culture.

FIRE GUIDE

With people more aware of the dangers of chimney fires and improper installation of wood stoves, a booklet available from the Provincial Fire Commissioner may be of interest and assistance. 'Safe Installation and Use of Solid-Fuel Burning Appliances' gives instructions, diagrams, and precautions that could be useful.

Write to Office of the Fire Commissioner, Ministry of Municipal Affairs, Recreation and Culture, Suite 1, 2780 E. Broadway, Vancouver V5M 1Y8, or telephone 1-660-9000.

Police Beat

Sechelt fires arson, 2 charged

SECHELT RCMP

Two Sechelt juveniles have been charged in connection with a fire that destroyed the Sechelt Dental Clinic, the Bank of Montreal, and other offices in the building, say Sechelt RCMP.

A male, 16 years, and a female, 15 years, set fire to a box of paper in a janitorial closet on the second floor at the north end of the upstairs hallway. Flames quickly spread into the ceiling, police said.

Employees in the dental offices noticed smoke in the hallway and quickly alerted everyone in the building. As a result of their action, nobody was injured. The damage is estimated at half a million dollars, said police.

Both subjects attempted to set fire to the Dock Building on Cowrie Street 15 minutes prior to the Dental Building fire. A trash can in the ladies' washroom upstairs in a hallway, was found in flames.

Again swift action on the part of an employee at the H&R Block office resulted in no damage at all to the building.

GIBSONS RCMP

A theft occurred mid-afternoon at Jeannie's Gifts and Gems in Sunnycrest Mall on February 25.

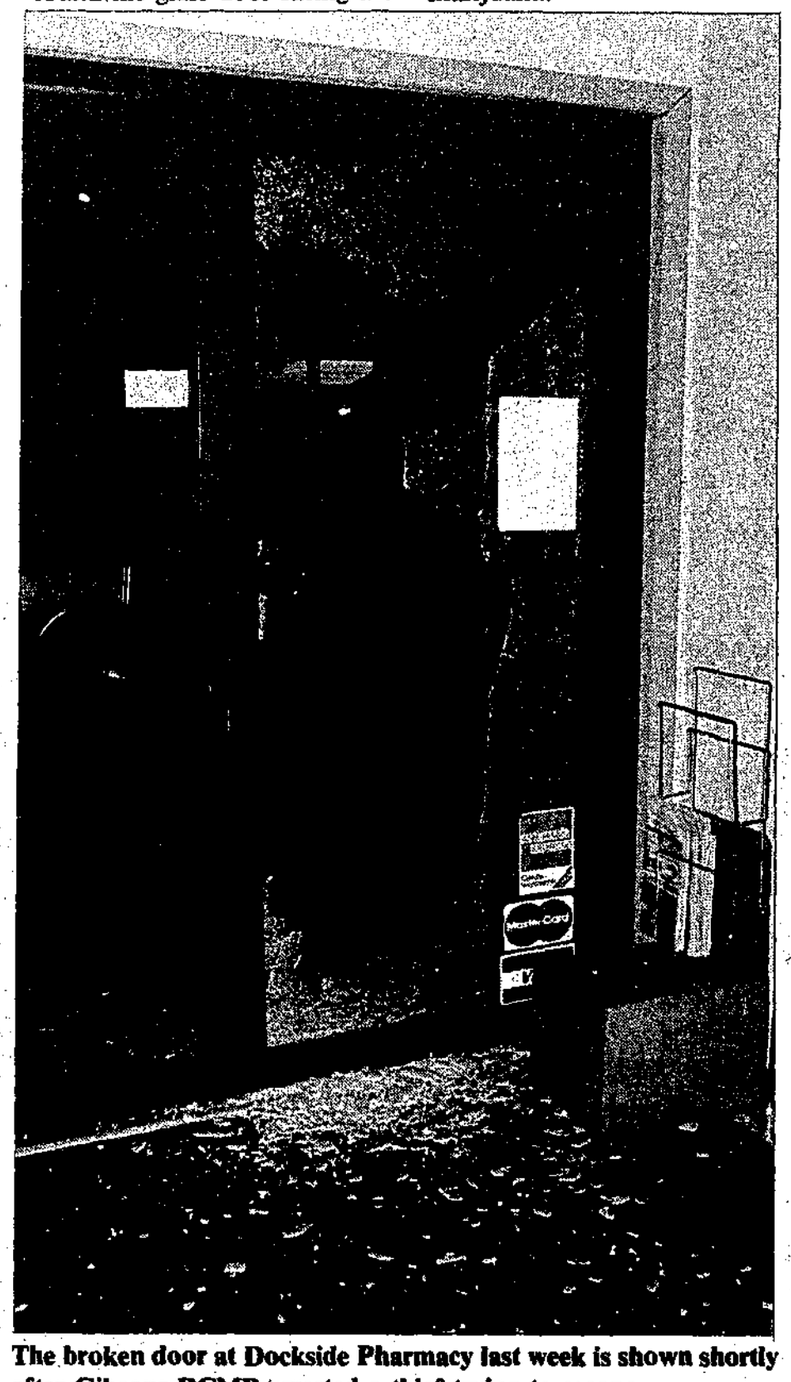
A tray of gold engagement rings and wedding bands was stolen. Anyone with information is asked to call the Gibsons RCMP or Crimestoppers, 886-TIPS.

About 12:30 am, March 9, police received a complaint of an intruder in the Gibsons Dockside Pharmacy on Marine Drive. Upon arrival at the pharmacy, Constable Sorokan found the glass door facing the parking lot had been smashed by a thrown rock.

Constable Sorokan entered the store through the break in the glass.

The 35 year old Gibsons male had an armful of drugs and syringes, cash and other goods. He also had marijuana in his possession.

He will appear March 14 charged with break, enter and theft, and for possession of marijuana.



The broken door at Dockside Pharmacy last week is shown shortly after Gibsons RCMP arrested a thief trying to escape.

Island Trust council meets on N. Pender

by Leiani Anthony

The March council meeting of the Island Trust was held recently on North Pender Island.

Water shortage on the islands in the Trust area is a common concern. Guest speakers from the ministry of environment, with hydrologists and engineers, discussed various aspects of water conservation.

Among these were properly constructed cysterns and the protection of groundwater. Former Trustee Gordon Wallace, in his discussion paper, suggested the Trust look to the protection of the uplands of watershed areas where the major re-charge of groundwater is thought to occur.

He further suggested by proper zoning that property owners of uplands could be encouraged to keep their parcels intact. They should be given a tax break for this concession, he said.

The Trust Fund is a portion of the Island Trust Act which was finally proclaimed in March 1987 by an order in council. Since that time the Trust council has been looking into ways of implementing the Trust Fund.

It will provide the public with the opportunity to make donations of land or money to the Trust for the purpose of preservation for future generations. To date the committee, with help from the Benn Study, has identified areas on each of the islands in the Trust, together with the lesser islands that are worthy of environmental preservation and protection because of their unique ecological, recreational or aesethic attributes.

Private land logging in the Trust area is receiving top priority. A committee is charged with making strong representation to the ministers of forests and lands, municipal affairs and the environment with regard to a definitive logging policy for the islands in the Trust area, a strong desire to eliminate clear-cut logging, and wish to move toward a program of sustainable yield or selective logging.

The Trust council views logging as the most important problem facing them as they work toward maintaining the natural beauty of the islands. It is mandatory that provincial policy be changed to enable the Trust to properly carry out its mandate of preserving and protecting the islands for the benefit of future generations, it was said.

Grave concern for the seemingly inevitable major oil spill in the Juan deFuca Strait of Southern Georgia Strait—with resulting despoilation of beaches and wildlife in the Trust islands—has prompted the Trust council to send a letter to Prime Minister Brian Mulroney and Premier Bill Vander Zalm urging them to have a better contingency plan among groups who would handle such disasters more expeditiously than that which took place recently on the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

Copies of this will be sent to appropriate officials on the U.S. San Juan and Orcas Islands.

Davis Bay News & Views

Community annual tonight

by Jean Robinson, 885-2954

The Davis Bay/Wilson Creek Community Association meets tonight at 7:30 pm in the community hall, 5123 Davis Bay Road. This is the time to pay your yearly dues, hear committee reports and find out where we stand financially and in the community as a whole.

Daryl Henn and his class will give a Karate demonstration at 7:15 pm. Plan on coming early to get a good seat.

PAYING DUES

For those newcomers to the Davis Bay/Wilson Creek area, Whitaker Park and all the land with the community hall, daycare and scout hall was donated in the late 1950s by Mr. R. Whitaker. This was so the young lads around could have a place to play baseball.

Volunteer labour and Jackson Bros. Logging cleared the property.

The present community hall was built by volunteer labour with a government grant plus many money raising events. It has been maintained over the years by men and women who donated their time, energy and expertise.

This is a financially sound community association because many people have worked very hard over the years to keep it so. They have paid their dues.

Please come and see for yourself what nice people already belong and what we have to offer besides an excellent library. Now is the time for you to pay your dues, by helping and by getting a family membership for $3.

KIRKLAND CENTRE

The Sunshine Coast Home Support Society is very pleased with Kirkland Centre and the progress being made in adult daycare.

Recently, clients were treated to talks on 'having a healthy heart' by Doctors Berinstein and Burtnick. The doctors spoke on different days.

Then Irene Duff showed slides of a tour of B.C. and of the home she and her husband built on Redrooffs.

Next came Helen and Ed Cuylits with slides and a talk on their trip to Russia. Marion Lindsay cooked a Russian lunch that day which the Cuylits recognized as being very similar to one they had on their trip.

Everyone loves this kind of entertainment. Thanks go to all those who share with the centre.

Trudy has left the centre after ten years with the society and is sadly missed. Val Hunt has stepped in. Val is a home support worker as well.

Gurda Lohmer donated a painting which will be raffled off. Tickets are available at both the Trail Bay and Sunnycrest Malls.

Second prize is a doorstop doll. Third is a load of horse manure.

March 15, Katie Angermeyer will fiddle some tunes to celebrate St. Patrick's Day.

April 9 to 15 is Volunteer Recognition Week, which leads me to plead once more for volunteer drivers.

There are always drivers ill or on holidays. So if you can spare even one hour per month, please phone 885-5144. You will be glad you did.

GET WELL

All good wishes for a speedy recovery to Turner Berry.

I WAS DELVING

In the depths of my freezer as a matter of fact. The Great Provider had decided that certain items that he remembered must still be lurking in its cavernous depths. He was, as always, correct! We discovered enough rhubarb and plums to make new batches of homemade wine; enough strawberries and raspberries to keep us in jam till this time next year; and underneath 1987's corn there lay a million packages of frozen apple sauce. "Well, at least it was real once upon a time", said No. 1 son. I noticed that he made no derogatory comments as he ate the cookies that I baked. Funny creatures, kids!

Apple Sauce Cookies

2 cups flour	1 cup raisins
½ teaspoon salt	½ cup shortening
½ teaspoon cinnamon	1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon allspice	1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon nutmeg	1 beaten egg
½ teaspoon cloves	1 cup apple sauce

1. Sift dry ingredients. Stir in raisins.
2. Cream shortening and sugar.
3. Mix soda, apple sauce & egg.
4. Add dry ingredients and apple sauce mixture alternately to shortening. Mix well.
5. Place in dessert spoonfuls in a lightly greased baking sheet.
6. Bake at 375° for 15 minutes.

Good hunting.

Hillside development and Veitch gave 'absolute assurances' the environment would not suffer from any industry established at Hillside.

The provincial government, he said, has set up a blue-ribbon panel of experts from around B.C. under Professor Strangway, president of UBC, to study environmental issues and come up with a program of sustainable economy.

All industry to be located at the Hillside Industrial Park will be carefully screened and must reach certain standards established by the SCRD.

A 'greenbelt' of trees will be established around each site. The park will present a landscaped front when viewed from both the water and the shore.

"Hillside Park is a pioneering experiment demanding cooperation from all segments of the community," David Bakewell, forestry consultant, on the Forestry Advisory Committee (FAC) said. He sees Hillside as the best site available on the Gulf of Georgia for developing forestry-based industry.

The SCRD will be reimbursed for planning work already undertaken and for future preliminary servicing design. The estimated $75,000 to $100,000 cost will be recovered from property sales.

Egan said they would plan a function around the signing of the completed agreement in the near future.

"The plan has been warmly received on the Sunshine Coast by all residents," he told Minister Veitch.

Promote tourism career awareness

Bill Reid, B.C. minister of tourism and provincial secretary, recently launched a tourism career awareness program developed by the Pacific Rim Institute of Tourism for use in the province's secondary schools.

"A Career in Tourism — It's A Natural!" is the name of the program. It will be delivered by leaders in the tourism industry to grade 10 students, he said.

"Hopefully, this program will dispel the myth that jobs in tourism are low paying and unrewarding. There are many exciting and dynamic career opportunities in the tourism sector requiring a wide variety of skills and talents." Reid said.

He said the program has three objectives:

- to create an awareness of what the tourism industry is;
- to create an awareness of the variety of careers in the industry;
- to create an awareness of career ladders and educational opportunities that exist or are planned as the industry moves to greater professionalism and certification.

The B.C. Restaurant and Foodservices Association is a sponsor of the program initiated by the Pacific Rim Institute of Tourism. The program was established in April 1988 to develop educational programs aimed at increasing the professionalism in the tourism and hospitality industries.

Area F plans restructuring fight

by Penny Fuller

Residents of Area F are planning to organize the old fashioned way to get out their side of the restructuring story. Last week's meeting of the area planning committee (APC) was attended by approximately 30 people.

They agreed an information campaign is necessary to fight the proposed restructuring of the Town of Gibsons boundaries to include Area F and Area E.

Those attending told regional director John Shaske that the old fashioned telephone tree was the most effective and inexpensive way to get the information out to residents in the area.

In addition, the information will be mailed out to area property owners who live off the Sunshine Coast. A bank account has been set up to cover the expense of copying and distributing information.

An ad has been running in a local newspaper asking for donations to cover costs.

Several people attending the meeting expressed frustration at the bias they believed to be colouring all the information released to the public about the proposed restructuring. One member of the audience asked Area E director Jim Gurney, who was at the meeting, to state clearly five positive aspects of restructuring and the five negative aspects.

"First of all," Gurney replied, "I'll try to tell you what's positive about restructuring. You'll hear this from the other side.

"They'll tell you that you'll be better represented. And I suppose there is a case to be made.

"Part of being a larger municipality, you carry more clout with Victoria. You have more resources at your disposal. If you were just a bunch of squatters in the wilderness, that would be a valid point." said Gurney. "But as former deputy minister of municipal affairs, Cliff Woodward, pointed out several years ago, the Sunshine Coast Regional District is just like a district municipality..."

Gurney also told the meeting that a piece of legislation in front of the government at the moment gives regional districts more autonomy than they've had to date, almost the same status as municipalities.

There is also the case made in the restructuring report that taxes will go down, Gurney said. But they pointed out that in Sechelt the taxes went down the first year, only to rise again in the second year back to the level they had been in the village before restructuring, and above the level they'd been in the restructured areas.

"Bigger government means higher taxes," he said.

"Another case that proponents of restructuring will make is that you have a better form of representation by an overall elected council." But again Gurney countered the point himself.

"With the new form of elections that you're going to have next year, where everybody on council will be elected at once. That means a person can come in sixth and still be on council.

"But if you're elected by ward, you have to come in first. There's only one winner," said Gurney.

Shaske was asked to hold another APC meeting in two weeks to further organize the information campaign and to bring residents up to date on what is happening regarding restructuring. Further, he was instructed to ask MLA Harold Long to attend the meeting or, if the date is inconvenient, a future meeting.

The residents also sent a request to the regional district, through Shaske, that the ministry of the attorney general be approached regarding the structuring of any vote held on the issue. Those attending the meeting want the votes cast in each area to determine whether or not that area will be part of the restructured district municipality.

The alternative, which they fear, would be that all votes cast in all areas are counted together, with a 50 percent overall 'yes' vote compelling all areas to become part of the new municipal district.

Shaske agreed to take their request to last Thursday's meeting of the SCRD.

Dedicate memorial

A memorial record of seafarers and their families whose ashes are scattered at The Mariners' Rest in Howe Sound was dedicated by Archbishop D.W. Hambridge during the annual general meeting of the Missions to Seamen.

Mariners' Rest is a tiny islet situated in Thornborough Channel off the west coast of Gambier Island. Through the efforts of Captain William York Higgs of Gibsons, it was consecrated in 1979.

It thus became the only official sea burial marker in the waters of B.C. to be sanctioned by the government.

Mariners' Rest comes under the custodianship and administration of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild (CMSG). Information pertaining to arrangements for the holding of services and the scattering of ashes of those who wish to be committed to the sea may be made by contacting the CMSG in Vancouver.

Canada Post Corporation

We are growing – in partnership with the community

More rural Canadians are enjoying increased access to postal products and services through retail postal outlets in their communities. This is happening in partnership with hundreds of local businesses right across the country, in a variety of ways.

Here are some examples of how we are expanding

In Whistler, British Columbia. Two new retail postal outlets, operated by local businesses, have opened this year. The new outlets complement the services offered at the Whistler corporate post office. They are the first step to improved service in this rapidly-developing community.

"The response from the customers has been fantastic. It's working out well."
– Harry McKeever, Operator, Retail Outlet, McKeever's General Store

In Rose Bay, Nova Scotia. We have another link in Canada Post Corporation's growing network of postal outlets. This time in a community where for two years, retail service was not provided through a corporate outlet. Retail postal service is now provided in partnership with a local business.

"I feel that the postal outlet here is a great step in the right direction to service the people in the area."
– Sam Emmons, President, Rose Bay area Board of Trade

In Ste-Félicité-de-l'Islet, Québec. A retail postal outlet is now offering postal services and products in a community where no post office existed before.

"In addition to the services provided by a retail postal outlet established in a local business, we now have the benefit of our own postal code."
– Jean-Paul Pellerin, Mayor, Municipality of Ste-Félicité-de-l'Islet

In Lewvan, Saskatchewan. A retail postal outlet is now open to serve customers. The outlet provides customers with access to postal products and services. These services have not been available locally for four years.

"The retail postal outlet in the Co-op convenience store is a good arrangement – they support each other and it provides all the necessary postal services."
– Larry Davis, Councillor, Rural Municipality of Wellington, Saskatchewan

More business for the merchants in your community and longer hours of service for you

Local businesses are benefiting from increased customer traffic. It means a better and stronger business base for the community. We are building local partnerships with the community and business, to provide Canadians with reliable, accessible and affordable postal service.

Canada Post is in rural Canada to stay. That's a promise.

CANADA POST CORPORATION
Our commitment: better service for you.

Raffle ticket stubs sought

by Larry Grafton

If you were one of the first group of seniors to purchase raffle tickets on the burl mantle clock, which will be drawn at the Senior's Picnic on August 10, please check your stubs. Due to a packaging error, there were 10 or 15 stubs with your name and telephone number on which should obviously be in the barrel for the draw.

The error was quickly rectified but those few ticket stubs did sneak through.

Virginia Ekdahl (885-3584) will be able to rectify the situation.

Business counselling available in Sechelt

Regional economic officers are coming to the Sechelt area in April to meet personally with business people who want to start a new business or expand an existing one.

The visits are part of government's regional economic development program in the mainland southwest region.

"Our regional economic officers will be looking for viable small business propositions that can be assisted by programs such as the regional seed capital loan guarantee program," explained regional development minister Elwood Veitch, minister of state for the mainland southwest region.

"New businesses mean more employment opportunities in our smaller communities."

The economic officers will be available for one-on-one meetings in Sechelt on April 4 and 5.

Mackenzie MLA Harold Long said, "This is an excellent opportunity for Sechelt business people to explore their ideas."

He added that the officers are particularly interested in explaining the benefits of the regional seed capital guarantee program.

This $50 million province-wide program encourages banks, credit unions and trust companies to make higher risk loans to small businesses and entrepreneurs. It offers guarantees of up to 75 per cent of a business loan to a maximum guarantee of $50,000.

Information on the program, which is administered within each of B.C.'s eight regions by ministers of state, is available from local government agents, the minister of state's office in New Westminster at 660-9878, or the B.C. Enterprise Centre toll free at 1-800-972-2255.

Sechelt blood donor clinic

The Red Cross will be conducting a blood donor clinic at the legion in Sechelt on March 28 from 2 to 8 pm.

Vivian Tepoorten, with the help of Sally Mathieson, will be clinic coordinator this year. They take over from Charlene Raines who held the post for over 20 years.

In acknowledgement of her service, the Red Cross will be presenting Raines with a certificate of appreciation.

Recognition will also be given to long time blood donors Chris Beach and John Saunders. They have donated 35 and 50 pints respectively.

Tepoorten says all the work of organizing the clinic is done by volunteers. Sechelt Branch 140 of the legion donates the hall. The Ladies Auxiliary provides cookies and juice.

For many years Ivan Smith has been responsible for publicity in Sechelt and Pender Harbour. Terry Raines has looked after the Gibsons, Port Mellon and Roberts Creek areas.

All the work of phoning the 450 past donors is done by the hospital auxiliary ladies of Halfmoon Bay, Sechelt, Gibsons and Roberts Creek. On the day of the clinic about 20 volunteer nurses, retired nurses and hospital auxiliary members provide staffing.

This year the goal is over 200 pints, so the group is looking for new donors. No appointment is necessary.

For further information, telephone 885-4508.

Halfmoon Bay Happenings

Opening Connor Park play area

by Ruth Forrester, 885-2418

The Halfmoon Bay Recreation Association would be glad of your help on Saturday, March 18 any time after 9 am. They are having a work party at Connor Park to set up the new play park for the kids which will be officially opened at noon on Easter Sunday, March 26, just prior to the Easter Egg Hunt.

There will also be a decorated wheel contest, so get busy and help the kids make pretty wheels on their bikes or whatever.

For information regarding the work party, please call 885-3330.

ST. PAT'S NIGHT

If you want to make sure of a place at the table on March 18 at Welcome Beach Hall you'd do well to make your reservations right now. The deadline for booking is this Wednesday so that the ladies who are doing the cooking may know the number for whom they are catering.

For new people in the area, young and old, this is a great opportunity to meet with friends and neighbours and you can be sure of a warm welcome. Call Mildred at 885-5249 or Barbara at 885-9860.

AREA 'B' PLANS

There was a meeting at Cooper's Green Hall last Tuesday where the Area 'B' Plan was discussed. A presentation of slides helped identify the various locations in the area.

For those who could not attend and who are interested in proposals for the future in Halfmoon Bay, you may borrow a copy of the plans from the SCRD office in Sechelt. It is the result of a comprehensive study of the terrain and appears to indicate awareness of the all-important environment considerations.

Whether we like it or not, there is bound to be much more development in the Halfmoon Bay area. But the citizens are good watchdogs and will no doubt express their concerns and protests should some changes be objected to. That's what democracy is all about.

THANKS JUDY

A special thanks to Judy Gill of Redrooffs from the members of the Suncoast Writers' Forge who attended her workshop on submitting manuscripts for publication. Judy is a very successful writer of romances and is generous in her willingness to help aspiring writers.

Judy will be at Rockwood Lodge on April 28, 29 and 30 giving a three day workshop for romance writers.

Judy is one of three of Western Canada's top romance writers who will be in attendance, the other two being Moyra Tarling and Kathy Garner.

Further information is available by calling the Festival of the Written Arts number at 885-9631, or you can pick up a brochure at the Coast News office in Sechelt.

HEART FUND

The '89 Heart Fund has come to an end. Thanks are expressed to all the donors who made it a success.

MS self-help group forms

by Ellen Frith

The first meeting of a new self-help group for multiple sclerosis (MS) sufferers and their families and friends will be held at the Sechelt Health Centre, 5571 Inlet Avenue, Sechelt, on March 14.

There are no statistics available on how many MS sufferers there are on the Sunshine Coast. But Becky Beaton, physiotherapist at the Coast Garibaldi Health Unit, is optimistic this new self-help group will be able to help a number of people.

The primary cause for MS has not yet been determined. But it is the most common disease of the central nervous system to affect young adults.

MS interferes with the insulation surrounding the nerve fibres in the brain and spinal cord. It causes interruption in nerve impulse transmission.

For some, MS follows a course of a series of attacks followed by partial or complete recovery throughout their lives. Others may have one or two attacks and then be symptom free for the rest of their lives. Others suffer a slow progression with no remissions at all.

Group support when dealing with MS or any other similar long-term health condition can be extremely beneficial. The CGHU hopes this new MS self-help group will prove to be so.

Chamber dinner

Sergeant Bill Harkema of Crimestoppers will be addressing the Sechelt and District Chamber of Commerce members and guests during the forthcoming dinner meeting on Tuesday, March 21.

The meeting will be held at the Parthenon Restaurant with no host bar commencing at 6 pm and dinner at 7 pm.

Reservations and tickets at $14 are available through the chamber office or by calling the office at 885-3100.

All members are urged to attend. Programs, such as Crimestoppers, which benefit our community certainly deserve support.

Seek hearing unit

Efforts are being made to obtain another auditory unit for the Coast/Garibaldi Health Unit, Dr. Ray Marsh, Medical Health Officer, told the CGHU board meeting March 9.

The present auditory unit is in Powell River. Any mention of moving it to a more central position is met by solid resistance from the inhabitants of that area.

Dr. Marsh said a Gibsons location for the auditory department would not necessarily benefit those patients in the Squamish and Whistler areas of the health unit. They would probably still continue using North Vancouver facilities rather than travelling to Gibsons by ferry.

If an old auditory unit with equipment can be found and resurrected, Dr. Marsh said, it would be positioned around Squamish.

through business advice and investment funds," Siddon said.

"The self-employment incentive option allows unemployed workers to test new business ideas. Grants in the form of allowances in lieu of unemployment insurance or social assistance benefits can be provided for up to one year so they can establish new businesses," Siddon added.

Community Futures is geared to helping workers in communities which have serious economic problems but show potential for growth.

The Sunshine Coast Regional District was selected for Community Futures support in January 1987. The committee, chaired by McKinnon, chose the Business Development Centre and self-employment incentive options as the best suited to the community's needs.

NDP critic raps Socreds

by Ellen Frith

Environmental critic for the New Democratic Party, MLA John Cashore (Maillardville/Coquitlam), elicited an enthusiastic response from his audience on March 7 when he addressed the NDP Club in Sechelt.

As the club's guest speaker and 'buddy' MLA for the Sunshine Coast region, Cashore, a United Church minister, severely criticized the present provincial government's record on environmental issues especially in the light of the growing awareness of the worldwide problems of ocean pollution and the greenhouse effect.

"We have to ask ourselves," Cashore said, "what kind of world, on a global basis, are we going to hand over to our grandchildren.

"Circumstances around the world are writing the agenda," he said.

Although Cashore admitted he was preaching to the converted when addressing the 40 members of the NDP Club present on March 7, he said that recently there was a much broader based concern about the environment growing. More and more people were approaching him and other politicians about environmental issues, he said.

Cashore outlined the NDP's program of sustainable development as an alternative for British Columbians. He mentioned the 20 private member's bills dealing with resource management, job creation and environment protection that will be introduced by the NDP in the coming session in Victoria.

Briefly, the thrust of sustainable development is that significant changes in the pattern of economic activity are necessary to halt the steady degradation of the environment which sustains both economic activity and life itself, he said.

Since the release of the Report of the United Nations' World Commission on the Environment (the Brundtland

Health unit wants notice of dumping

by Ellen Frith

Concerns about being the 'last to know' when it came to waste dumping in Howe Sound were discussed at the Coast-Garibaldi Health Unit (CGHU) board meeting in Gibsons on March 9.

Citing the February 5 dumping of a bargeload of dredge spoil containing the metallic element cadmium from Port Moody into Thornborough Channel, as an example for their concerns, the board moved to support the recent resolution from the 35th annual general meeting of the Associated Boards of Health of B.C. held last September in Whistler.

That resolution stated the provincial government be requested to instruct the ministry of environment to notify and supply details of any applications for dump permits to the appropriate boards of health when one is applied for within a board's jurisdiction, and that the board be then notified of the outcome of the application.

"We would feel very much better if we were informed before any dumping was carried out," said Dr. Ray Marsh, medical health officer of the CGHU. He found out about the February 5 dumping from the Vancouver Sun.

The cadmium content of Howe Sound is higher, naturally, than that which was found in the dredge spoil from Port Moody and below acceptable guidelines, which is why Environment Canada approved the dumping of the waste where it did.

Cadmium resembles zinc in its chemical properties. It is obtained principally as a by-product of the smelting and refining of ores of zinc, lead and copper.

The February 5 bargeload was the first of its kind ever sent from the Vancouver Harbour area to Howe Sound. The usual designated dumping ground for such waste is Point Grey.

This time, however, it was felt that because the traces of natural cadmium in Point Grey are low (due to the influence of the Fraser River), the barge from Port Moody would be dumped in Howe Sound.

Although Dr. Marsh acknowledges there was probably a 'zero chance of a health problem', Hal Nelson, program officer for ocean dumping, Environment Canada, admits the dumping was a very unpopular move.

"The levels of cadmium in the bargeload (only one tenth (1000 cubic metres) of which was dumped in Howe Sound) were very low," Nelson said. But the recent fishery closure in Howe Sound due to dioxin scares made it unpopular.

Applications for waste dumping permits are sent for approval to Environment Canada. The provincial waste management office is notified of each application and asked to comment, but all technical reviewing and analytical work is done by the federal agency.

There is no mechanism yet set up for any serious input by local councils or health units on these applications.

"There are numerous opportunities for the union boards of health to have input into a proposed waste management discharge," the resolutions from the annual general meeting of the Associated Boards of Health of B.C. states.

The CGHU would welcome such opportunities.

"I would like some mechanism set up so we are informed reliably before time," Dr. Marsh said.

But he also feels waste dumping is a much larger issue than just a local problem.

Robert Weston, chief public health inspector in Gibsons, could not comment specifically on the possible dangers of the cadmium dumping.

"I am not a toxicologist," he said. "We're really at the mercy of the other agencies."

Capilano Services takes over highway

by Penny Fuller

The contract was signed on March 1, and Tuesday MLA Harold Long officially turned over the care and construction of highways on the Sunshine Coast to Capilano Services.

Negotiations have been drawn out over the last six months. Capilano president Barry Drummond told employees at the ceremony he was aware of the stress they've been under, wondering about their job status.

"I'm looking forward to building a climate of commitment and teamwork that will lead to greater productivity and efficiency in providing road service," he said. He also assured those attending that his company will be retaining all the current full time employees.

Drummond has been building highways since the early 1960s. Winning the contract for highway services first in North Vancouver and now on the Sunshine Coast will allow him to settle down in this area and focus on providing an even higher standard of service for these areas, he told the assembled group.

Capilano Services will now handle an area from Powell River and Texada Island to Duffy Lake and on the North Shore as far as the Second Narrows Bridge.

Later, in an interview with the Coast News, Drummond said he hopes to be able to keep auxiliary staff working year round with outside contracts. He also expects to be using the services of local contractors in a lot of the work.

"My work as head guy," he said, "is to bring in the work and to build a team."

Drummond says his ap-

Roberts Creek drama gone to the dogs?

by Rufus Cohen

The dog-eared scripts of Roberts Creek School Drama Club members will be shelved March 21 for the grand opening of a locally written musical titled none other than 'Dogs'.

Directed by Barry Krangle and Michelle Hrkac, 'Dogs' uncovers some of the trials and tribulations common to Roberts Creek mutts and their loving community. With an interesting array of musical compliments of the latest canine sensation, 'Hackles' (formerly Used Guys and Dalgleish), 'Dogs' howls its way through two acts of song, dance and dogma.

'Dogs' plays on March 21 and 22 at Roberts Creek Elementary School. Curtains rise at 8 pm. Tickets are available at Seaview Market or Roberts Creek school at $2.50.

"You can have your city living, your high-heeled hype, I'd rather be a Creeker, I'm the gumboot type."

On the arts beat

'Images and Objects' is sponsored annually by the Assembly of B.C. Arts Councils. A provincial exhibition (this year in Chilliwack in May) is always preceded by regional qualifying exhibitions, held at the Arts Centre Sunday.

This year many of the works not accepted for the provincial show are being displayed at the Arts Centre with the accepted ones. It will be obvious that juror Landon Mackenzie's decisions must have been difficult, there being little reason to choose between many of the submissions had it not been for the quota of 20 maximum allowed.

The display includes photographs, low relief carving, pottery, painting and collage. Both familiar artists and some newer faces are to be seen: Vern Elliott, Bill Rogers, Marilyn Rutledge, Noreen Marshall, Bill Perry, Enid Goodman, Trudy Small, Katie Janyk, Neejatsay, Ene Falkenburg, M.C. Dixon, Wendy Simmonds, Ada Priest, Beryl Pandit, Belinda MacLeod, Anne Gurney, David Burns and Ursula Fritsch all have work going to the provincial show.

You may see these pieces and others which will not be going to Chilliwack during gallery hours which are Wednesday to Saturday 11 to 4 and Sunday 1 to 4.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S EX.

Each year the Arts Centre showcases the work of the younger artists in our community. This is the show which follows the Images and Objects.

Most of the work included will come from schools but space is put aside each year for the work of children who are home schooled or who make art at home. Children wishing to have their work in the show can bring it to the Arts Centre (labelled on the back with name and age) on March 17, 18 or 19 during gallery hours.

King of Safecrackers

Adventures of Holy Herb

by Peter Trower

The following day Herb purchases several sheets of heavy cardboard, laths, paint, brushes and other materials. Working from photographs of an identical model, he and Helen set about duplicating the Kroger safe down to the smallest detail, hinges, gold lettering and all.

It can easily be taken apart or put together. When they finish, they survey their handiwork with some pride.

Under casual scrutiny the cardboard replica is indistinguishable from the real article.

Pleased with his ingenuity, Herb calls a meeting of the gang. That night the mob converges on the Wilson domicile.

"What's that?" growls Joe Bertsch, gesturing at the spurious safe with his ubiquitous gold toothpick.

"This little piece of goods," Herb says calmly, "is our ticket to more money than you've seen in some time." He goes on to explain exactly what he has in mind.

"Sounds jake to me," says Cox after mulling it over. One by one the others nod their assent.

Only cynical Bertsch remains unconvinced. "It's a big gamble, if you want my opinion," he grunts.

"This entire business is based on big gambles," Herb counters. "Now I think we ought to aim for this coming Sunday night."

Despite his air of unshakeable confidence, largely assumed for the gang's benefit, Herb is racked with secret apprehensions. There is no guarantee whatsoever that his audacious scheme will work.

Everything depends on split-second timing. There are many variables to consider.

By the time the night of the Kroger hit rolls around, it has been decided Herb, Lou, Doc Redding and Cox will constitute the attack team. Joe Bertsch, still very dubious about the whole operation, has elected to stand point outside with the alarm buzzer.

"No way you're getting me inside that bloody store." he says flatly.

Buskers a 'ball'

by Ruth Forrester

The Cambridge Buskers amazed and delighted a full house audience when they gave a concert at the Twilight Theatre last Monday evening.

Michael Copley with his assortment of flutes, piccolos, recorders, ocarinas and many more such instruments blended beautifully with Dag Ingram's $10 accordion.

The pair 'Did' a whole repertoire of classical music. But it was their lack of seriousness which so appealed to the audience.

Their opening rendition of the Overture to the Barber of Seville set the tone when some Latin rhythms were thrown into the piece. Both are very fine musicians whose light-hearted approach to the classics was totally appealing.

Outstandingly funny was their rendition of Wagner's Ride of the Valkyries. This was introduced with the description of large ladies on horseback on stage, followed by a frantic rendition of the music, then an aria thrown in.

The 1812 Overture got it too, complete with canons, fireworks, and even a few machine gun blasts.

There was some impossible fingering in their rendition of Mendelssohn's violin concerto. A suitably monotonous presentation of Ravel's Bolero, was introduced as having been written for Bo Derrick!

Michael and Dag were generous enough to respond to four encores. One of them was Handel's Hallelujah from the Messiah in which the audience enthusiastically joined.

Drum maker makes Sechelt his home

by Ellen Frith

For those who want to march to the tune of a different drum, a custom made instrument by Danyo Braun of Sechelt would probaby be just the thing.

Using deerskin and yellow cedar, Braun makes hoop drums which are as close to the original Native West Coast Indian design as possible. When struck slowly and evenly, they produce a soothing low pitched sound conducive to meditation.

"A drum is meant to represent the heart," Braun says.

Braun, 47 and wife Hana, have taken over one of the old forestry office buildings at Wharf Street and Highway 101 in Sechelt. The bottom floor is their workshop. They live in a small apartment above.

After several years on Vancouver Island, Braun sees Sechelt as a good place to live for a while as he perfects the art of drum making.

Braun is a tall, very blue-eyed man originally from Grand Prairie, Alberta, of Russian and Cherokee descent. He has spent his life as an artist, a carver and a potter. He only recently began to make hoop drums.

He just returned from a drum making workshop in Bella Coola. He is building up the skills he needs for drum making and is getting together the proper tools for the job.

"I'm not ready for a big production number yet," he says, although he has made quite a few drums so far.

Native drums are made in a variety of ways across North America from using simple hollow logs to animal skulls.

Braun follows the West Coast method as closely as possible. It seems deceptively simple.

First deerskin is cleaned and soaked in water. Then it's stretched while still wet over a hoop of yellow cedar about 15 inches in diameter and four inches wide. Using leather thongs, the skin is pulled as tight as possible and secured to a slightly smaller metal ring on the reverse side of the drum.

In using a metal ring instead of a willow one, or a ring of thick rawhide, Braun admits to diverting from the original Indian methods. But he says the end result is the same.

The art of drum making, of course, is to do everything just right so that when such a drum is struck evenly the rate of vibration closely resembles those of the heart. The idea is to become one with the music, Braun says.

Although the drums Braun makes are decorative, especially when painted, he isn't interested in making them solely as wall hangings.

"I would like people to understand what a drum means," Braun says. "It represents the heart. When people live out of the heart, they have respect for all things and for mother earth. They don't take their environment for granted."

The message of the drum is obviously a good one.

Bowlsby tries out Holmes

by Rose Nicholson

Considering the number of private eyes that populate the who-done-it section of book store shelves, I've always found it interesting that Sherlock Holmes surfaces so often in the work of other authors.

I'm sure Conan Doyle, if he's still paying attention, is sometimes a bit disconcerted at the qualities these newer writers have given to the character he created.

The most recent variation, Sherlock Holmes In: The Hound of London is the self-published work of Craig Bowlsby. His Sherlock Holmes is a drug addict who is in love with an actress.

Bowlsby's slim volume is a collection of short stories, and the title of the book is taken from a play that was performed in Burnaby in 1987.

Bowlsby is a good writer. His stories lean to the bizarre, and are not the sort of thing you will find in the Saturday Evening Post.

In 'Stuffed', a 12-year-old boy gives his toy animals life and the ability to feel pain. They, in turn, fear him and try to kill him so they can live.

In 'Remembrance Day', the November 11 celebrations at a school consist of a ritual execution of prisoners.

Bowlsby's language is spare and effective. Some of the imagery is startling.

He describes one woman as having "a face you could chop wood with and she was sharpening it with various curses".

I'm looking forward to seeing more of Bowlsby's work. Self-publishing is a difficult way for a new writer to go. But, this book should be notice to regular publishers that they would do well to keep an eye on him.

Toast of the Coast

Omega Restaurant - 'Home of the Beachcombers'

It was a wet and miserable evening, so I decided to take my two children and myself to dinner. Their favourite spot is the Omega Restaurant in lower Gibsons. Good! It's still early enough to enjoy the view of Gibsons Harbour.

As we were seated, from another table I heard the remark 'we love your bright, new decor'. The 'all new' Omega Restaurant has been totally redone inside, with beautiful flowers and greenery.

The Omega's warm, friendly atmosphere is very suitable for family dining, but it is also a lovely restaurant for quiet, intimate dining later.

The special for the evening was Prawns in Garlic Butter for $14.95. Sounds great but I decide to have their delicious Caesar Salad, so also did my daughter. The salads were prepared the way I like them, crisp Romaine lettuce with lots of sauce, croutons and bacon bits.

My son chose the children's half portion of Barbequed Chicken and Spaghetti with Garlic Toast for $5.95. The Omega always has a good selection of half portions for children which is very much appreciated by parents.

Of course they wanted desert, although I don't known where they put it. There was a choice of Double Chocolate Cake, two kinds of Cheesecake etc. Cheesecake smothered in strawberries and whipped cream was their selection. Mmmm! That finally filled them up.

The Omega has a full menu from all choices of EXCELLENT Pasta Dishes to tempting New York Steak. And of course, don't forget their famous 'homemade' crust Pizzas, with any topping you care to have.

Our bill for the evening was under $30. Visit the Omega Restaurant soon. You'll be sure to enjoy!

Sorko presents final restructuring report

Chairperson Jane Sorko Tuesday night formally presented to Gibsons town council the final report of her restructuring committee. Her report was as follows:

General Conclusion:

After 19 months of study, we have unanimously concluded that restructuring of the area identified as Study Area 4 of the Moore Report, titled 'A Report on Local Government for the West Howe Sound Community', is financially feasible. We believe Study Area 4 should be considered as a whole, without exclusion.

Primary Recommendations:

1. If a referendum is held, it should be held in 1989 on a long weekend, not later than Labour Day, to facilitate non-resident voter participation.

2. To achieve voter assent for restructuring, and if it is legally possible, the referendum should require a majority approval by the residents of the present Town of Gibsons and a majority approval by the residents of the present electoral areas known as Area E and Area F.

3. As it is of paramount importance to inform the affected public of all pertinent information about this issue, many public information hearings should be scheduled prior to holding a referendum.

Other Recommendations:

The committee recommends that council immediately:

1. Strike a committee to: continue discussions related to restructuring, prepare for and initiate negotiations with the ministries involves, and prepare a public information program.

2. Schedule a meeting with the regional district board to discuss this report, as the committee extended an invitation but was unable to meet with this group.

3. Advise the minister of municipal affairs of the committee's report and council's decision.

The committee further recommends that, prior to a referendum, council:

1. Evaluate road, highway, ditch, bridge, etc. needs throughout the study area and negotiate substantial grants for the necessary upgrading with the ministry of highways.

2. Negotiate, with the ministry of highways, the highway designations specified on page 18 and in Appendix 3, page 3 of the Moore Report, including that portion that runs through the Chekwelp Indian Reserve.

3. Negotiate with the ministry of highways for the construction of feeder roads to the Gibsons bypass, when it is built.

4. Obtain an updated voters' list for the Town of Gibsons, Area E and Area F.

Finally, the committee recommends that, if the referendum passes, council:

1. Retain and maintain the integrity of existing community plans, which are vital to the residents of all areas.

2. Transfer all functions now carried out by the regional district in Areas E and F to the new municipality.

3. Participate in regional district functions such as: regional planning, economic development, house numbering, joint use of schools, regional parks, the provincial emergency program, and urban transit.

4. Build a strong, cohesive, cost-efficient staffing component that is shared between the regional district and the new municipality.

5. Apply for the planning grants that are available to new municipalities.

6. Set aside the grants, identified by Mr. Moore as obtainable for road maintenance and policing costs, in a reserve fund because his budget does

Youth soccer

Well, the Sunshine Coast Youth Soccer season is drawing to a close once again. Our year-end tournament is Saturday, March 18.

The six and seven-year-olds will be playing at Gibsons Elementary. The eight and nine-year-olds will be playing at both Gibsons Elementary and Elphinstone Secondary.

The 10 and 11 and 12 and 13-year-olds will be playing at Elphinstone Secondary. The year-end tournament is a good way to wind up a soccer season.

The players get to play at least two to three games. After all the snowed-out and rained-out games we had this year, the players should have enough energy to last four or five games.

It should be a good entertaining weekend, so come out and watch these young athletes.

Before I give the standings I would like to bring to your attention that any organization needs people involvement and parent support. In our soccer association we have three area representatives.

We should have the three area representatives, a treasurer and an equipment manager. Also, we could use someone in each area to make sure the fields are lined. We definitely need a representative for the Sechelt area next year.

Now for the scores...in the eight and nine-year old age group Sechelt Pharmasave (Scott Avery) beat Shop Easy (Ed Ronnekleive) by a score of 7-0, In the other game in this age group GBS (Mike Plourde) defeated Leif Mjanes' team by a score of 2-1.

There is one game left for each team before the tournament. But unless there was a make-up game that wasn't recorded, Sechelt Pharmasave is the league winner in the eight and nine-year-old division.

Congratulations Sechelt Pharmasave.

In the 10 and 11-year-old division Shop Easy (Jim Brown) defeated GBS (Larry O'Donaghey) by a score of 5-4 (boy, did the ref have a lot of running to do in that game).

In the other game of this age group Sechelt Pharmasave (Nick Bergnach) beat Sechelt Band (Gary Feschuck) by a score of 7-0. As in the other age group, unless there was a make-up game I didn't know about the Sechelt Pharmasave team is the league winner. Good going players.

In PeeWee action the Thunderbirds won 11-9 over the Blackhawks. Scoring for the Thunderbirds were Brad Wingfield with a hat trick, 2 goals each by Ben Stretch, G. Bell and Colin MacLeod, and single goals added by Aaron MacDonald and Ryder Irvine.

The markers for the Blackhawks were Chad Lamarsche with a double hat trick, Cody Munson 2 goals, and Scott Doyle with one goal.

When the Sechelt Bantams hosted North Delta, Sechelt won 7-1. Scoring for Sechelt were Graham Ruck and C. Gibson with 2 goals, while single markers were scored by Joel Kwasney, Glenn Allen and Chad Lamarsche.

In a second game against North Delta, Kurt Carpenter, Chad Gibson, Brian Dussenbury, Kurt Francis and Glenn Allan each scored once, Sechelt winning the game 5-1.

The Sechelt Pups are once again going to the featured hockey stars at the Vancouver Colliseum when Vancouver meets the Buffalo Sabres. The referee for the game will be Sechelt's own Jessie Stretch.

For an enjoyable evening why not attend the game and cheer our Pups in action? The game will be played March 18 on a Saturday night.

Badminton winners

by Jim Ling

The second annual Badminton tournament sponsored by Howe Sound Pulp and Paper Ltd. was March 4 at Elphinstone Secondary School gymnasium. Fifty-one employees and families participated.

After eight hours of intense competition, Lorne Sammartino and Masayuki Bote won the men's double category. Kevin Haynes and Al Zimmerman were in second place and Charles Ho and Larry Braun in third.

The trophies were presented by Harry Cargo, project director, and Don Stuart, mill manager.

Other participants that advanced to the play-offs were Rod Camposano, Tony Muller, Randy Visser, Doug Kammerle, Rosa Reid and Catherine Stuart.

Special thanks to Chuck Anderson, John Sanders, Jim Foglietta, June Frandsen, Ray Middlemiss and Wilkie Mah for their effort in making this event a great success.

Local team wins event

Our National Classified Teams bowled at North Shore Bowl last Sunday in the Zone Finals of The National Classified Tournament.

Our number two Ladies Team of Marie Connor, Darlene Humbird, Dorothy Gouwelceuw, Hazel Skytte and Sue Whiting won the event. They will bowl at Grandview Lanes in the Regional Finals April 1.

Lynn and Mark Widsten will be bowling at Chili Bowl Lanes in Chilliwack in the Provincial Finals of the Hawaiian Doubles Tournament. They wil be bowling for trips to Hawaii.

I was remiss in thanking our Mayor Diane Strom for opening proceedings when we hosted the Junior YBC Zone Finals. Diane rolled the first ball to start the finals and though she hasn't bowled for quite awhile, she rolled a perfect strike.

Thank you again Diane for taking the time. We appreciate it.

Hockey playoffs

by Mark Benson

Roberts Creek helped secure the fourth and final play-off spot in the six teams Men's Ice Hockey League by defeating the fifth place Buccaneers 5-2.

The Creek was leading 3-0 going into the final period mainly due to steady goaltending by Travis Green. But the Buccaneers roared back with two quick goals by Randy Legg and Chris Strong.

Creek's Rick Sach (3) completed his hat trick late in the game to all but dash the Buccaneers play-off hopes. Other Creek scores were Mike Evans and Scotty Thornsteinson.

The season begins - finally!!

Once again the local ruggers began their playing season with a road trip overseas to Vancouver to play the Kats Squad of Dunbar.

Having not played the game during the last few miserable months you would have thought the boys might be a little rusty, but no, they showed their coach and the opposition that they're ready to play.

The pace of the game right from the start was quick and hard. The Pigs Pack being outweighed did not falter under the pressure and fought hard at every ruck and maul and delivered good and plentiful ball to their backline.

In the first half, it was evident that the timing was a bit off and some fine scoring opportunities were squandered.

Out for the second half and all the stops were pulled out; the game went back and forth, side to side, both teams punching through only to be hauled down; (and just in time) by tough and efficient defences.

Mid-way through the half the Pigs tried to counter-attack from their own two-bit area and as sometimes happens not quick enough.

Through the back-line the ball went, but alas there happened to be a seagull in waiting, the green interceptor had an easy jaunt to the goal line and 4 points. The conversion was good.

Oh Oh Pigs 0, Kats 6. The frustration was evident on the players' faces and in their unencouraging talk. As the point after took place they had a regrouping and decided to pick up the pace and come back harder.

From the ensuing kick-off, the boys in blue battled back and pressured, pressured and pressured. Good ball and continuous support from all led to a superb try.

With a maul situation happening on the Kats 5 metre line the ball was eventually pried loose and having broken a couple of tackles, over the line went Dennis Stevenson for the points. The conversion by Dave MacLeod was good. The score now Pigs 6, Kats 6.

The game continued on with the Pigs being the more dominant team but with some lack of finesse could not break the tie.

The end score Pigs 6, Kats 6. Afterwards a fine time was had by all at the resumption of play of our second half of the season.

Next week March 18 will see the boys 'hosting' the Ex-Brits at Elphinstone upper field, 11:30 am kick-off. Hope to see you there!!

Signs of spring

by Marguerite

The signs of spring are here, with some bulbs blooming and slightly warmer temperature with that morning sun. Take advantage of every break in the weather. Spring usually blesses the gardener with a few days when the soil is workable, not soggy, and perfect for seed sowing.

To prevent diseased fruit trees, spray with a lime sulphur dormant oil now, before the buds burst. This applies to roses too, as some experts do just once a year in February or March, weather permitting.

Areas that were sown in the fall with winter rye can now be dug and turned giving the soil nutrients in preparation for planting. If you are in doubt about whether some plants have survived the cold frosts and winds of late, give them a little more time, before presuming they're dead. However removing any debris makes for good gardening practice.

The geraniums and fuchsias overwintered in a cool frostfree place, can now be regularly watered to make growth. Possibly you might take 10 centimetre cuttings for more plants later.

The Gibsons Garden Club meeting is Thursday, March 16 at 7:30 pm in the Marine Room (below the library).

Uniting mankind is more than just a good idea.

In fact it is taking place all around us. For over 100 years the world has been growing ever more interdependent, making neighbours of us all.

Bahá'u'lláh, the Messenger of God for our age and Founder of the Bahá'í Faith described this process of unification as the plan of God today.

He said, "A new life is, in this age, stirring within the souls of all mankind. . . All created things proclaim the evidences of this world-wide regeneration."

By learning to put Bahá'u'lláh's teachings into practice, the Bahá'í community atound the world is discovering that the unity of mankind is not a distant ideal, but a practical reality today.

Commission) in 1987, the idea of sustainable development has come to represent solutions to the global environment predicaments.

Sustainable development means, meeting the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs, he said.

The NDP feel their sustainable development program is a commitment to creating more jobs from B.C.'s resources without harming the environment.

"No one wants to shut down any part of our economy," Cashore said.

Touching on two especially sensitive issues on the Sunshine Coast, aquaculture and the pollution of Howe Sound, Cashore stressed that the recognition of a common ground by like-minded people can lead to solutions of many of the environmental problems that exist.

He said when fish farms became serious concerns to the residents of Cortez Island, they got together across party lines and found a solution satisfactory to both the residents and fish farmers alike.

"We have got to stop believing that nothing can be done about pollution because preventing it is not economical," Cashore said. "The technology exists, for example, to enable pulp mills to all but eliminate organochlorine discharges."

Cashore pointed out that the Port Mellon mill, when completed in three years, will be one of the best mills in B.C. But monitoring by the provincial government is still vital.

"The present provincial government has been an indulgent parent with out-of-control kids (big business)," Cashore said. "Nothing is being done to bring polluters into compliance with our inadequate monitoring standards.

"We want to change things before the stage is set when our kids ask us, 'why didn't you do something about it when you had the chance?' " he said.

proach has been well-received by highways workers on the North Shore. They have been working with him since last year. Both the morale and the productivity have improved, he said.

Capilano Services was welcomed by representatives from three of the four local governments. Regional District Chairman Peggy Connor, and the mayors of Sechelt and Gibsons, all congratulated Drummond on winning the contract.

They told him they look forward to the continuation of the good service the area has had with the highways department staff.

MLA Long was also enthusiastic about the company's future. But he warned, "I'll be your biggest critic if the job isn't done right. You'll be hearing from me, but I think you'll do a good job."
