Queen Janice will open fair

Gibsons July 1 Celebration Queen Janice Douglas has been chosen by the Sunshine Coast Fall Fair committee to open the fair which takes place on Friday, August 17 and Saturday, August 18.

This was announced at a meeting of the Fair committee on Wednesday evening of last week. Roy Malyea was chairman with Mrs. M. Lefeuvre, secretary.

One of the biggest displays expected at this year's fair will be that of flowers with three big displays entered to date. Three buildings will be used as in the past for all exhibits, the School Hall the Anglican Parish Hall and the Elementary school basement.

Another big attraction will be the judging of the 4-H club calves which has a bigger than ever entry this year. Judging will take place in the early afternoon.

There will be the usual pet parade on Saturday afternoon and when the fair closes a dance will follow.

Those desiring to get entry blanks can get them from the secretary, Mrs. LeFeuvre or from the Coast News office. Mrs. LeFeuvre's phone number is 886-2432.

The committee after exploring other factors concerning this year's annual fair adjourned to meet again on the evening of August 8 at 8 p.m. in the Anglican Parish Hall.

More water at Granthams

The annual general meeting of Granthams Landing Property Owners association was held Saturday evening, July 4 in the Community hall with 24 members present.

The outgoing executive reported completion of the installation of a second 10,000 gallon water storage tank resulting in the lower part of the village enjoying increased water pressure and a more ample supply.

The following officers were elected for the year. W. Gibb, president; G. Cresswell, vice-president; R. B. Kendall, secretary-treasurer with C. Fisher, C. K. Johnson, P. Thomas and A. J. Wheeler as directors.

Grass skirts to be worn

Wanted: Home baking donations for the Gibsons Hospital auxiliary Garden Party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stenner, Sechelt Highway, July 20 starting at 8 p.m.

A feature of this function will be the Hawaiian costumes worn by the servitors who will be men of the Hospital Improvement Committee. Cameras will be checked at the entrance to the garden party in case any of the Hawaiian costumes worn by the men turn out to be a bit on the daring side.

There will be bingo, home cooking, coconut shy and a fishpond for the younger fry.

Weiner roast

Gibsons 2nd Brownie Pack finished up their years activities with a weiner roast and picnic at the home of their former Brown Owl Mrs. J. Thomas. Mrs. Labonte and Mrs. Tyson were also present

The Brownies played games, including a peanut scramble and had fun along the creek and in the fields. A gift was sent to Mrs. Porter who is retiring as Tawny Owl in appreciation of the time and work she has given to the Pack during the past year.

MADEIRA PARK CANCER MEETING

The cancer movie, Time and Two Women, will be shown in Madeira Park Community hall, Thursday, July 26 at 8 p.m. There will be a doctor or doctors present to answer questions. This meeting has been arranged as a community education service by the Powell River District Cancer Society.

Jobies instal officers

Approximately 250 persons attended the public installation of Miss Patty Smith, honored queen of Bethel 28, International Order of Job's Daughters. The ceremony began at 8 p.m. in Gibsons School Hall.

Members of the installing team were: Sharon Keeley, installing officer; Anne Lang, guide; Kathy Toynbee, marshall; Linda Martin Bethel 34, North Burnaby, chaplain; Janice Preiss, recorder; Pat Luoma, senior custodian and Roberta Johnson, junior custodian.

Music was provided by Mrs. D. Cameron from Pender Harbour. He, the solo to the incoming honored queen, Patty Smith, was sung by Wilson Anderson. Two solos, The Lord's Prayer, and My Task, were sung beautifully by Mrs. E. Prittie.

The School Hall looked lovely decorated in purple and white with many baskets of flowers placed around the hall. The installation theme, Key to Happiness, was carried throughout.

The elected officers installed were Patty Smith, honored queen Marion Brown, senior princess; Lynne Ennis, junior princess; Linda Peterson, guide and Sue Taylor, marshall. Appointed officers were: Gail Stenner, Nancy Leslie, Roberta Quigley, Vicki Franske, Carol Mylroie, Phyllis Hauka, Heather Garlick, Sandra Douglas, Lynn Gibson, Janice Douglas, Judy Brown, Dianne Feidler, Lyn Stenner, Dianne Hopkins, Edna Naylor, Linda Stanley, Cheryl Stanley, Carol Holden, Shirley Feidler, Linda May, Thelma May and Arlene Mason.

Following the ceremony, refreshments were served and a short dance was held for the younger folk.

Bands show high quality

Sunday afternoon's Salvation Army Music Camp concert by the four bands at camp was one of the best, musically, that has been held at that camp. Even the beginners' band revealed an excellence hitherto noted in bands a step higher than a novice band.

There were three practice bands, from beginners up and at the top was the staff band, augmented with players from the other bands.

Along with the bands were the choristers, ages up to teenage only, and they provided varied numbers including an experiment in choral speech started last year. Richard Watson Dixon's "Willow" was used and the intoned cadences were a delight to hear in these days of loose speech

Three B band students supplied a typical instruction class with Capt. B. Dumerton leading the way. Brigadier Cyril Everett, director of music had apparently achieved a high standard of instruction for the entire camp, judging from the quality of music and the way it was played by the four bands.

Varied vocal selections interspersed the band numbers and revealed that the Salvation Army has no lack of singers or bandsmen. The afternoon's performance closed with Now the Day is Over which rounded off one of the most enjoyable afternoons the camp has experienced. Camp Commandant Major Len Knight helped keep the program moving along.

B. C. Divisional Commander Leslie Pindred with Mrs. Pindred took part in the afternoon's program and during his welcoming talk he announced that the Salvation Army had purchased the Enemark property on the south side of the camp which with the houses on it will be incorporated in the camp later.

School Teachers named

A list supplied by Sechelt School District board of trustees of teachers and the posts they will fill at the various schools in the district when the fall term opens, reveals some changes at various levels. Those teachers with an asterisk against their names are new to the district.

The major change is that of Principal R. S. Boyle who was principal of Trail Bay, Sechelt and Pender Harbour schools, will now be vice-principal at Elphinstone secondary school. Vice-Principal George Cooper of Elphinstone school will become principal of Sechelt elementary school.

Other moves will see Mrs. F. Fleming as Pender Harbour secondary school principal; Mrs. Margaret Slater from Sechelt to Davis Bay elementary school; and Mr. J. Fleming formerly on staff at Trail Bay will be Roberts Creek elementary school principal. Mrs. E. Seymour, former principal at Davis Bay will take a new class, that of slow learners.

Here is a list of teachers and schools.

DON'T DIET, buy a new fur coat! Women who hate reducing will be happy to hear Canada's fur fashions next winter will discard the "bulky" look in furs and highlight designs cut closer to the body, to make the wearer look slimmer. Patricia Grealis models a Norwegian saga blue fox coat, with sleeves shortened to the elbow.

BASEBALL

An exhibition baseball game between Bethel 28, Job's Daughters and Mount Elphinstone Chapter of DeMolay will be held a the Kinsmen Park on Sunday, July 29 at 2 p.m. The Jobies made this challenge to prove that beauty can win over brawn. Special rules have been made for this game, which should prove very comical. Everybody should witness this thrilling competition.

Peninsula Hotel snapped out of a hitting slump and regained first place in the North Shore softball league by sweeping a doubleheader from Evans Coleman Evans, 12-0 and 8-7.

Don Elson and Jim Hall combined to pitch the first shut-out of the season for the Hotelmen in the opener while Ben Jack emerged as the hero in the second game when his pinch hit single drove in the winning run in the sixth.

The locals will host Avalon Hotel team this Sunday at Port Mellon. Game times 2:30 and 6:30.

Complete garbage system sought

A meeting of the newly formed Gibsons and Area Pollution organization, in the provincial health office decided Thursday night of last week to support a policy of a district garbage collection and disposal service as suggested in a letter from Hon. Wesley Black, provincial minister of municipal affairs.

A reply to a letter from the organization's earlier meeting from Hon. Mr. Black was read to the meeting. Here is his letter:

"In reply to your letter of June 14 I am particularly pleased that so many organizations have begun to show some concern about the disposal of garbage in unorganized territories.

"The government has undertaken to do something about this problem, but our efforts will only succeed to the degree we have public support. The lack of any local government organization poses a real problem since the government is not set up to deal with local problems. However we are endeavoring to make use of what personnel and equipment we have in the various departments, on an inter-departmental basis, to partly cope with this situation.

"Because of this limitation it is taking us some little time to get a program functioning in various parts of the province, but we hope that a partial answer can be achieved.

"The Local Services act can be brought into play where the property owners want a garbage collection service, and are prepared to pay for this service through their property taxes. If this is what your group want, as distinct from the provision of a disposal site, we would be quite prepared to go into further details in this matter.—W. D. Black, Minister.'

Discussion which followed was in favor of the garbage collection system with a disposal area tied in. Further discussion dwelt on the disposal of non-burnable garbage such as old car bodies, refrigerators and washing machines, beds and so on. This was left for future events to take care of.

Eventually a motion was brought forward asking for consideration of a garbage collection service and disposal area combined. This was passed unanimously. Mrs. F. West was chairman of the meeting. A further meeting will be called when more information is received from the municipal affairs department.

GIBSONS CANCER MEETING

A meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ritchey, Wed., July 25 at 8 p.m. for the purpose of forming a cancer unit in Gibsons. Dr. King from the cancer clinic in Vancouver will be present and any person interested in this meeting is invited to attend.

$10,000 in new home

Permit to build a $10,000 home on O'Shea Rd. was granted Mr. and Mrs. William Nasadyk by Gibsons municipal council at Tuesday night's meeting.

It will be a one storey, 5 room McTavish type home.

The parking bylaw concerning the area from Jack's Lane to Peninsula Cleaners limiting parking to parallel instead of angle parking, and cutting the parking time to one hour from two was deferred until the next meeting.

So far no opposition to this change has reached council in a formal way.

Steps leading from Seaview Rd. down to Jack's Lane will be eventually made of permanent type instead of the present make-do temporary steps. Considerable pedestrian traffic uses these steps as a short cut to Marine Drive.

A letter from Gibsons and district Pollution board asking that Councillor Mrs. G. Corlett be appointed with a watching brief on behalf of the council of Gibsons was read and approved.

Accounts totalled $673.24 and were ordered paid

Double win

When it comes to winning salmon derbies Mr. and Mrs. Davidson of Vancouver have had a two week monopoly of the Pender Harbour PTA weekly Salmon Derby.

For the week ending July 8, Mr. Alex Davidson won the $10 first prize with a 27.9 spring salmon. Not to be outdone, Mrs. Davidson won the second week's derby, the week ending July 15 with a heavier fish, 32.1 lbs. She also copped the $10 first prize.

Hidden weight prizes for the first week were won by Brian Whiffin of Vancouver and Jim Whittle, also of Vancouver with 9.4 lbs and a 15.8 lbs. salmon.

During the second week Jim Fraser won both hidden weight competitions with a 9.3 and 17.8 lbs. salmon.

GARDEN CLUB MEETING

Next meeting of Gibsons Garden Club will be held in the form of a garden party on Wednesday, July 25, at the home of Mrs. George Webb on Reid Road. At this event which will commence at 2 p.m., there will be a speaker.

Powell River tops sports meet

At the Royal Canadian Legion Junior Olympics Saturday afternoon of last week at Hackett Park in Sechelt, Powell River athletes won most firsts, with Sechelt second and Gibsons a close third.

The Powell River boys and girls took 17 firsts in the various sports events with Sechelt getting 10 and Gibsons nine. Of the winners, 24 will be selected to go to the provincial command's Junior Olympics at Empire Stadium in Vancouver.

Legion officials thank those veteran Legion members who braved the afternoon sun to take care of the numerous events. There were some 80 races, jumps, leaps, throws which provided quite an afternoon's program. Here are the winners:

Half a cake better?

Considerable heat, millions of words and complications have obscured the Saskatchewan medicare argument between government and doctors. It appears the doctors have some ground on which to protest because the government has not presented legislation which was promised.

It is probable T. C. Douglas, former premier of Saskatchewan's CCF government desired certain legislation and also insisted on its implementation by July 1 so it would be a firm plank in his NDP federal election campaign. This apparently did not have the effect Mr. Douglas desired in the national field. However Premier Lloyd is stuck with it and will now have to make the best of a bad situation between himself and the doctors.

One other aspect worthy of note is the attitude some organizations are taking, organizations which would under similar circumstances regard a similar attitude from others as being unfair.

Doctors like other human beings have the right to protest by whatever means is available to them. Here is an act now in the law books of Saskatchewan. Verbal protests would lead to nowhere and labor leaders know this only too well. Some active protest had to be used to be effective. This the doctors have done, no doubt against their will.

It could be that the doctors, some who were in Saskatchewan in the late 1940s recall the free hospitalization the CCF promised. This today costs a family $48 a year plus a $10,000,000 or more subsidy from the provincial treasury.

Legislation with fewer hidden doors leading to heaven knows where, might be a happier solution to the dilemma in Saskatchewan. It would be politic for Premier Lloyd now to take half a cake, as Mr. Douglas does not need a national election issue, instead of insisting on the whole.

More about power

Interesting light on the northwest United States power situation is revealed in a statement by the administrator of the Bonneville dam power system.

This official, Charles F. Luce, when discussing Snake River dam affairs referred to the Hanford project and the Canadian treaty development. The Hanford project concerns the proposal to generate waste heat at the Hanford Atomic Works. The Bonneville power system is based on the Bonneville Columbia River dam. The Canadian treaty development is the Columbia River treaty which is now moribund, to use the words of Mr. Luce.

However here is what he had to say: "Through the Hanford project and the Canadian treaty development, the Bonneville system should be able to meet growing demands at less cost to them and their customers (through present privately owned power systems) than if they themselves built a dam or dams on the Middle Snake." This ends the Luce quote.

Perhaps someday, someone will prepare an outline of what the entire northwest power development scheme means to Canada and United States through the use of Canadian facilities. It would be interesting reading in view of General McNaughton's claims Canada is being sold down the river in the Columbia treaty.

No fires, thank you!

Newspaper headlines in Vancouver lately do not offer the suggestion to those opposed to the establishment of a Doukhobor prison camp in this area, are in any way wrong in their point of view.

If there are buildings that must be burned down by the Doukhobors in their scorched earth policy, the Sunshine Coast area will be quite willing to let some other area have the dubious pleasure of being host to them.

Equilibrium

By Les Peterson

What if we cry today?
What if a tear should fall?
What if a dream of hope should lose its wings?

What if our heart should say,
"Truly, I have lost all,
All the things lovely to which memory clings"?

Yesterday's rains age gone;
Clouds of today dissolve;
Tomorrow's sun shines on,
To bathe the world in calm,
serene resolve.

What bird calls "teacher?"

The Ovenbird, which derives its name from the shape of its nest — a dome-over structure with the opening at the side like an old-fashioned oven, repeats two notes in its song resembling "teacher." It begins softly and rapidly increases to a remarkable volume. The bird is partial to deciduous woodland and ranges in Canada from the Atlantic to the foot of the rockies.

How did Nova Scotia gets its name?

In 1621 the suggestion of a Scot was adopted for the founding of New Scotland in the New World. In that year New Scotland was granted to Sir William Alexander and its name to the form of Nova Scotia in his Latin charter. Two settlements were established by the Scots in 1629. One of those was Charlesfort, near the French Port Royal, by then abandoned by the French; the other was Rosemar at Baleme Cove near Louisbourg in Cape Breton Island. Following the treaty, restoration of Port Royal to France in 1632, most of the Scots returned to Scotland, but a few remained, married Acadian girls and raised families whose descendants are to be found in Nova Scotia today.

Who sailed to England in an Indian canoe?

On May 21, 1901, Sea Captain John Voss set sail from Victoria, B.C. in a Nootkan Indian dugout canoe—the Tilikum. He was accompanied by Norman K. Luxton as far as Suva and then proceeded on his way with a Belgian sailor, Louis Begent, who very shortly afterwards was lost overboard in a storm that also deprived Voss of his compass. Steering by the stars and sun and by the action of wind and wave, he sailed alone to Sydney. Exhibiting his canoe here and there to raise funds, he sailed via Tasmania, New Zealand, South Africa, Brazil and the Azores to England. He reached Margate on Sept. 2, 1904 — 3 years, 3 months and 12 days after leaving Victoria—completing a 40,000 mile voyage in a small craft solely under sail.

What is a Tupik?

The Tupik is an Eskimo tent of seal or caribou skin. Its form may be conical or rectangular, with a ridge-pole. The poles used to be obtained at the tree line or from driftwood.

Which Quebec village is named after the porpoise?

Marsoui, in Gaspe County, on the coast 90 miles east of Matane. The name is a corruption of "marsouin," French for "porpoise" . . . the animals are often seen in its bay.

Which Spaniard nearly started a war in Canada?

A navigator of the 18th century named Jose Esteban Martinez. Sent to take possession of Nootka Sound on Vancouver Island, in 1789, Martinez seized a number of British ships and with them an officer named Captain James Colnett. This action gave rise to the historic Nootka Sound controversy which almost brought war between Spain and Great Britain.

SINGLES NUMEROUS

More than one-half of Canada's population at June 1, 1961 was single. Single persons under 15 years accounted for 34.0% of the national total, single persons 15 years and over for 17.5%, married and widowed persons for 48.3%. Among the provinces, Newfoundland, Quebec and New Brunswick had in 1961 the largest proportion of single persons, while British Columbia has the largest percentages married, widowed and divorced.

More scent to garden flowers

Some of the florist's roses, carnations and sweet peas have practically no fragrance compared with their garden-grown counterparts.

A. R. Buckley, Department of Agriculture horticulturist at the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa, explains that the attractive forms and colors of some commercially-grown flowers have been developed at the expense of fragrance.

Years ago the monkey flower (Mimulus moschatus), a plant native to British Columbia, was popular in England as a fragrant houseplant — until it lost its fragrance. People wondered whether they had lost the faculty of smell for this particular plant, or whether it had lost its smell through cross - breeding with scentless varieties.

Later, the lack of fragrance in some roses in England was publicized and a newspaper offered annual prizes for a rose with the best scent, regardless of its other characteristics. Several varieties of hybrid teas and grandifloras that won these contests are suitable for growing in Canada.

Canadian home owners who enjoy planning a night-scented garden would find the following specimens useful: sweet peas, carnations and some varieties of roses; nightscented stock, moonflower, ornamental tobacco, lavender, heliotrope, catnip, wormwood (Artemesia) and the little known but quite hardy annual mullein, a small delicate plant with good fragrance.

Other annuals noted for their aroma are sweet alyssum, cornflower, cleome, evening primrose, heliotrope and lychnis.

Wallflower, a favorite in Europe, is hardy only in the very mildest districts of Canada.

Among the larger shrubs, lilac has a popular though fleeting fragrance. Several scentless lilacs have been developed but fragrance has been improved in the French hybrids, including the white lilacs. The Chinese lilac belongs to the privet-like group and has little smell.

European mock orange and the English woodbine have pronounced aromas which are missing in the American species and varieties.

Fanciers have greatly enlarged the color range and shapes in many species, including specific two-tone colors. This has been done with iris and some aroma has been retained. Similarly the gladiolus has been developed for color and form, fragrance being retained in some miniature types.

Gardeners are particularly attracted to a new color when it occurs in a species. Recently developed fragrant and non-fragrant varieties are: yellow-flowered peonies and perennial asters; pink iris, lilies and lilacs; almost blue gladiolus and roses; and pink and red day lilies.

Shades of green recently added to the floral spectra are in great demand for floral arrangements. They are found in green-petaled gladiolus, asters, zinnias and lilies.

Election tangle at Barkerville

Any returning officer who thinks a federal election is a headache should read about elections held in B.C. almost 100 years ago.

At Barkerville for instance, in 1866, the loser was named winner and a man who was destined to be a premier of British Columbia almost lost his seat. It took three weeks to straighten the mess.

Barkerville is the old gold rush camp, 60 miles east of Quesnel which is celebrating its centenary this year. It is now an historic park. Barkerville Restoration Advisory committee, in cooperation with the department of recreation and conservation, has reconstructed most of the old town so visitors can see it as it was.

Old files of the Cariboo Sentinel, published at Barkerville, are aiding the restoration project with sidelights on how our pioneers lived. The issues of September and October, 1866, are pertinent today.

In that year voters were electing a legislative council for the colony. Signs stated that a voter must have resided in the district for at least three months (Doubtless this permitted many Americans to vote. They had swarmed to the Cariboo when the California gold rush petered out).

Chinese and Indians were prohibited from voting. That was sum and total of the regulations.

The candidates were one T. Harris and one G. A. Walkem, who had served two years and was seeking re-election. Neither represented a political party. Walkem was a 30 year-old lawyer who came here in 1862 from Montreal. Both were buying votes from miners with free lunches and liquor—right up to polling time.

Barkerville and its two neighboring settlements, Richfield and Cameronton, mustered 706 votes on October 2, giving Harris a lead of 12. But it was too early to celebrate — Soda Creek, Quesnelmouth and Cedar Creek were still to be heard from. Six days later, these results were in and Harris had won with a majority of four.

Seven days after that, Walkem protested the election. He said 34 persons who voted had not put in the required three months' residence. Returning officer W. G. Cox conducted an enquiry and sure enough, 22 names were struck out. By October 22, the Sentinel was able to report Walkem as the winner by 18 votes.

Harris' people said all 22 were district pioneers who had absented themselves from the district briefly in recent months, but the law was the law.

In the years to follow, Walkem worked hard for confederation and when the union witn Canada was consumated in 1871, he became the member for Cariboo in the provincial legislature.

He went on to become B.C.'s third premier (1874-1876), a triumph he was to achieve twice. He was returned to that office in 1878 and held it until the close of his career in the legislature in 1882.

300,000 invited as PNE guests

The Pacific National Exhibition has invited 300,000-odd B.C. school children to be its guests at the August 18 - September 3 Canadian Cavalcade fair. There is nothing unusual about this except the amount.

For several years the PNE has sent free passes to every student in the province. Keeping pace with the growth is a matter of ticket printing and bookkeeping.

This year, the greatest ever, Vancouver school children can use their passes on the two children's days when Playland rides are reduced and the Exhibition is virtually turned over to our junior citizens.

Out-of-town children's passes are good for any day of the Fair because of the problems parents from distant points have in coordinating their visit to Vancouver with home commitments.

Exhibitors are snapping up space for the 1962 Pacific National Exhibition faster than they did last year.

Space Manager Dal Town said that by June 21 more than 75 percent was already taken up.

The Japanese and Italian governments are putting in official booths for the first time. Kimona-clad girls will staff the Japanese booth which will occupy about 1,000 square feet.

The booth will display a wide representation of the best products of Japan's booming industry — everything from cameras and precision instruments to fine silks and clothing.

In a 500 square-foot booth the Italian government will also show off its wares in an attractive and colorful display.

The Japanese tourist industry will have a booth in another part of the grounds, which will entice fairgoers to visit the land of the rising sun, with emphasis on the staging of the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo.

A lavish feature in the Showmart Building will be a ski village, a display embracing everything to do with skiing from the latest in equipment and clothing to modern ski chalets and cabins.

Alumni project

The Alumni Association of U.B.C. has announced a special scholarship program will be established in commemoration of Dr. Norman A. M. MacKenzie's retirement. These scholarships are the highlight of the 1962 Alumni Annual Giving Campaign now underway.

An official of the association said that over one half of the university's alumni graduated in the 18 years of Dr. MacKenzie's presidency.

Traditionally, alumni have provided funds for scholarships, the President's fund, athletics and playing fields, the library, Victoria college and other specific interests. Last year alumni contributed $30,378 through Alumni Annual Giving.

FIVE TO CELEBRATE

Five experimental farms of the Canada Department of Agriculture will celebrate the 75th anniversary of their establishment this month. Brochures are being published recounting the achievements of the experimental farms and the assistance they have given to agriculture.

Boaters have returned!

"Boaters, the straw hats sported by Eves in the Gay Nineties are once again coming into fashion," declares Sam Grogg of the Victoria Centennial committee, announcing the big hat decorating competition being sponsored by that organization for all ladies with imagination and a flair for a stylish chapeau.

"These cool summer hats," explained Mr. Grogg, "were originally made at Luton in Bedfordshire by the descendants of French Straw Plaiters, first brought into Scotland by Mary, Queen of Scots and later resettled in England by her son, James the first.

"They were in vogue here in Victoria at the turn of the century and we are so delighted to note their return to popularity during this centennial year that we are sponsoring this competition, or rather, three competitions, one for girls of 13 to 18, another for young ladies from 19 to 24 and a third for young ladies of 25 to 100. Each group will be eligible for six cash prizes; $15, $10 and $5, $3 for the most comically decorated and $3 for those producing the most beautiful results."

This first venture of the Centennial committee into the field of high fashion will be judged on Ladies Day, July 31.

This week's RECIPE

SLIM-DOWN SEAFOOD SALAD

If you are a weight-watcher, chances are that fish and shellfish appear on your menu frequently. Generally speaking they are low in calories, yet supply top quality protein for nourishment. Enjoy them in cool summer salads, but beware of rich dressings.

Leading high-calorie salad temptations include the dollop of mayonnaise, or the extra generous dash of oil and vinegar dressing, and such other ingredients as cream cheese, whipped cream, and sour cream. However, it is not necessary to resort to dietetic foods to make a low calorie salad. The following recipe, supplied by the home economists of Canada's Department of Fisheries, proves that you can bypass calorie ingredients with no loss of eating pleasure.

Seagarden Salad
1 pound or 2 cups cooked cod or haddock
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup thinly sliced radishes
1 small green pepper, diced
1 small cucumber, diced
1 cup Cottage Cheese Dressing
Lettuce
2 tomatoes cut in wedges
Paprika

Chill cooked fish well, season with salt, and break into bite-sized chunks. Add radishes, green pepper, cucumber, and Cottage Cheese Dressing (see recipe below). Mix gently but thoroughly, taking care not to mash the fish. Serve on a bed of lettuce. Garnish with tomato wedges and a sprinkling of paprika. Makes 6 servings, about 120 calories each.

Cottage Cheese Dressing
1 cup creamed cottage cheese
1 teaspoon milk
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon dill seed
2 tablespoons chopped green onion

Add milk to cottage cheese. Whip with a rotary beater until the consistency of thick mayonnaise. Stir in remaining ingredients. Makes about 1 cup dressing

THIS SUMMER BE WATER WISE!

Sechelt News

BY MRS. A.A. FRENCH

Seventeen members of the L.A. to the Sechelt branch, Royal Canadian Legion, enjoyed a smorgasbord luncheon at Irishman's Cove where they were the guests of Mrs. Frank Lyons. Mrs. Jessie Lucken, president and Mrs. Ruth Mitchell, past president, were presented with gold Past President's badges. Mrs. Madge Holroyd received hers previously. She was unable to attend the lunch.

Mrs. T. Ivan Smith entertained 12 friends at a lunch at her home Highcroft with a surprise birthday party for Mrs. Anne Snodgrass. The beautifully appointed table was centered by a huge birthday cake.

Greg Cable, son of Mr. and Mrs. Monty Cable, of Vancouver, is visiting Miss Bessie Burrell.

From Edmonton, Arthur Kenney is visiting his mother Mrs. Laura Carlson.

Several memoers of Sunshine Rebekah Lodge went to Madeira Park where they were entertained at lunch by Mrs. W. Brown. Attending were Mrs. T. Ivan Smith, Mrs. L. Turner, Mrs A. L. Parsons, Mrs. C. G. Critchell, Mrs. R. Breese, Mrs. Roy Erickson and Shelly Anne Woods, Mrs. Margaret Donley, Mrs. Margraet Wise, Mrs. F. Walker, Mrs. F. French and from Arbutus Lodge, Gibsons, Mrs. Jean Duncan. Two guests were Mrs. Ida Higgs of Naniamo and Mrs. Art Redman of Sechelt.

Jack Peebles of San Francisco is visiting his sister Mrs. Jean Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs Paul Engen fo North Surrey are visiting Mrs. Agnes Engen.

Plywood vertical step fence for privacy

Here is how to have a solid wall of fence without that old fashioned blank look.

With this fir plywood vertical step fence you can have the privacy only a completely enclosed yard can give. And you can have it without the monotony and scant visual appeal of a straight, solid fence.

Its construction is simple. Any handyman or amateur carpenter can build it easily. The materials are inexpensive, familiar and durable—⅜"waterproof glue fir plywood, 1"x6" and 1"x8" lumber for rails and uprights, 2"x6" redwood or cedar lumber for the posts, ¼-round moulding.

If you wish to use other than redwood or cedar for the posts, treat the lumber with a wood preservative to prevent rotting of the underground portion. Cedar and redwood have very high resistance to rot.

The plywood you use must be of the kind made with completely waterproof glue. Look for the industry mark "PMBC EXTERIOR" branded on the edge of every panel.

To begin construction, cut the first 6' section of 1"x8" base. Remember the ends are cut at an angle of 76 degrees, not 90 degrees. Use this section as a template to position the posts in the ground at the right angle and at exactly the right distance apart.

Before you dig the post holes, locate the fence line by stretching a string between two stakes.

Dig the first hole. They should be two feet deep—and line the template up with the string allowing one end to overlap slightly the edge of the hole. Butt the post to the end of the template. Tramp in the dirt while you hold the post in position. Use a spirit level to set the post vertical.

Replace the template with its end butted to the installed post and dig the second hole at the end of the template. Now butt the second post at the other end of template, fill in the dirt and tamp. Again, use a spirit level to set the post vertical.

Repeat this procedure with all posts, using the template for spacing and getting the right angle. If you need a corner, cut the 1"x8" base as shown in the detail drawing and use it to position the first post in the new direction.

When all posts are in you are ready to fasten on the 1"x6" rails. You will notice that these do not parallel the edges of the posts since the posts are at an angle to the fence line. Nail them into the corner of the posts. They should be about 4" above ground. Use your level to get the rails exactly horizontal.

Now, using your original template for measurement — since you used it to position all posts —cut as many of the 1"x8" base sections as required. Nail each to the tops of the side rails between the posts.

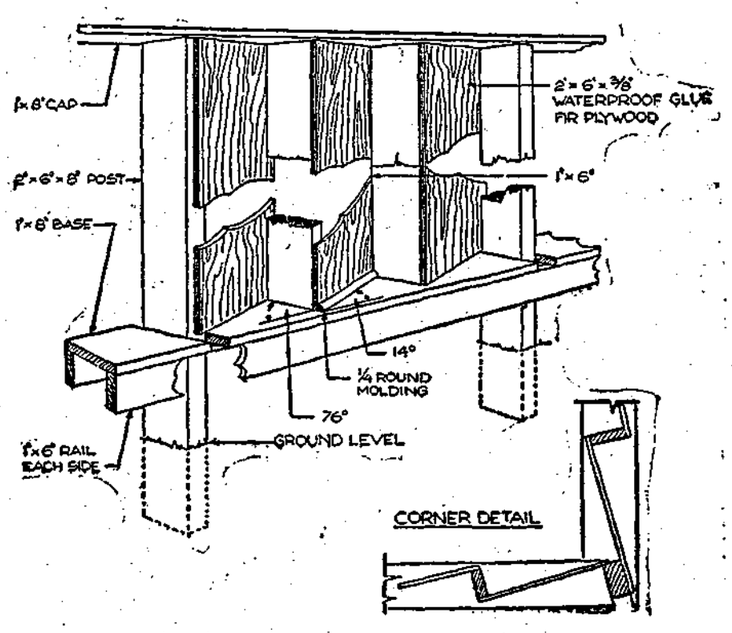
Trim the posts to the correct height of exactly 6' above the base. The 1"x8"cap for the top of the fence is now nailed to the posts. When fastening the cap to the posts make sure the posts are the same distance apart at the top as they are at the base. Joints in the cap should be butts at the centre of a post.

Having drawn the positions of the intermediate 1"x6" upright members and the 2'x6' plywood sections on the base, nail the ¼-round molding to the cap and base, flush with the position of the face of the plywood.

Now you are over the hump. The rest is simply cutting the remaining material to size and assembling.

Before you proceed, it is a good idea to edge seal all wood, including the plywood, with a thick lead and oil paint.

To finish your fence use a quality exterior type house paint.



New Jr. Wardens

Now that the fire season is upon us, the chances are that sooner or later wherever you go in British Columbia you will encounter a red-shirted Junior Forest Warden on patrol.

Junior Forest Wardens who have been appointed members of the Lone Patrol (lads in unorganized areas taking their training by correspondence) in this district during the past few months are: Gerald Ward, Richard Crosby, David Burrett, Norman Smith, Peter Rigby, Ronald Oram, Gordon Hauka, Terry Forshner, John Karateew and Michael Skellett.

Sechelt hammers at Squamish road

Sechelt's Board of Trade, hammering away again at ferry troubles, has sent Hon. P. A. Gaglardi, highways minister, a letter favoring the road to Squamish as put forth in a letter by A. R. James, a board of trade member.

A copy of the letter to Mr. Gaglardi has also been sent to the Powell River and Gibsons boards of Trade, Pender Harbour Chamber of Commerce, Reeve Collier of West Vancouver, the B.C. Automobile association and the press in Vancouver.

Another Sechelt Board of Trade letter was sent to M. F. Aldous, general manager of the B.C. Toll Authority Ferry System. This letter reads:

Dear Sir: I have been instructed by the Sechelt Board of Trade to write and request: That the Chinook or a like vessel be put on the Langdale run immediately and that it be left there. Signed, Dorothy E. Smith, secretary.

The letter to Mr. Gaglardi suggested that any comments or criticism he wished to make would be appreciated.

Here is the letter which Mr. James placed before the board of trade for consideration:

The writer feels that a road from Squamish to the Sunshine Coast should be given due consideration for the following reasons. The ferry system will never be adequate to serve the Sunshine Coast. It is all too obvious that the more millions that are spent to cater to weekend traffic, the more expensive the system becomes to maintain between weekends without traffic.

At present fares on the ferry for the people of the Sunshine Coast are an added tax for us to go anywhere. If you live in the lower mainland, you can go as far as the road will take you to the North Pole, for nothing, but if Sechelt area people wish to visit Vancouver 18 or 20 miles away, it costs them $10 for the car and 2 passengers. To those who have business with Vancouver or elsewhere, it is a frightful cost.

None of the communities in the lower mainland has this problem, and to use the excuse that the Gulf Islands and Vancouver Island require a ferry is not a fair comparison, as the Sunshine Coast is part of the lower mainland and technically it should not be necessary to use ferries to get here.

I believe it is generally conceded that the economy of the Sunshine Coast will rely on tourism as its big money crop. It is well known that logging and allied industries are declining with the years. The high cost of travelling by the ferries makes it all to obvious that any other type of industry could not survive here.

If it is to be conceded that tourism is the one thing the Sunshine Coast should strive for, it makes sense to realize that, a tourist having to pay what he does to get here on the ferry, can in many cases be the straw that breaks the camels back, or if he can afford it without a second thought, that $10 or so could easily be added to what he would spend on the Sunshine Coast, not on the ferries.

From the tourist viewpoint to arrive on the Sunshine Coast by road while seemingly a little more distant than coming by ferry, the road would offer more reason than ever for attracting the tourist trade to this area. From Horseshoe Bay through Howe Sound and through to Powell River, is generally thought to be one of the most attractive tourist trips on the North American continent.

The writer's endorsement of the road is based on the following thoughts. The money spent on the ferries in the future for a service that politically speaking, will never keep up with its demand over the years, would more than pay for a permanent road and maintain it, particularly if action it taken to have the road around Howe Sound and on the Sunshine Coast classed as Trans-Canada, which would call for federal government to share in the cost.

No one will deny that many secondary industries and agricultural efforts are very successful in the Mission, Abbotsford and Chilliwack area and they are about the same distance from Vancouver as Sechelt would be by road around Howe Sound. It therefore becomes obvious that we would stand some chance of attracting small industries if we had a road around Howe Sound.

The writer would draw to the attention of his critics, that, admittedly, it may not seem too attractive to have Vancouver residents drive around by road to the Sunshine Coast on weekends, just for idle touring. At first look, this may seem to be objectionable, but the writer would point out that Squamish has gone ahead in leaps and bounds just on the dollars from that idle weekend Sunday driver, so any way you look at it, the Sunshine Coast would certainly be improved dollar wise, through a road, which the ferries will never accomplish.

Lets look at what Vancouver would gain and the people to the south from a highway around Howe Sound. It is common knowledge, that as Vancouver tries to escape its boundaries, holiday bound or just weekend driving, a frightful congestion, is caused on the roads leading across the valley. The Howe Sound road would certainly draw a portion of that off.

Another feature that has come to public attention, is the congestion at Horseshoe Bay. The impossibility of parking, the ferries interfering with other craft and vice versa, would be alleviated considerably especially on weekends if a larger portion of ferry traffic to Langdale could be diverted over a highway around Howe Sound. Furthermore, it would add one more possible route for escape from the results of warfare.

The writer would point out once again, that with normal increase in taxation, we, the people of the Sunshine Coast, will have to face the cutting of our costs of overhead, including excessive ferry expenses or increase our income by bringing in new business, which is only possible through a road connection. Either way, the present ferry system affects us adversely.

Present president's pins

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Lyons of Irishman's Cove, Halfmoon Bay, were hosts on Monday, July 9 to members of the L.A. Sechelt branch 140 of the Royal Canadian Legion. They served a luncheon, assisted by Mrs. Jessie Ferguson of Welcome Beach and visiting guests from Vancouver, Mr. and Mrs. John Scanlon.

A sing-song was enjoyed with Mrs. D. Erickson at the piano. Later, a presentation of past president's pins by Mrs. Alice Batchelor, to the president, Mrs. Jessie Lucken and past president Mrs. Ruth Mitchell. Members present were Mrs. J. Lucken, A. Batchelor, R. Mitchell, F. Ritchie, G. Ritchie, M. Roberts, I. Biggs, D. Erickson, D. Fraser, F. Kydd, N. Hansen, E. Foster, N. Kennedy, J. Gibson, D. Thompson, J. Braun, N. Neubauer, guest of Mrs. J. Braun, and J. Murphy. Previously on Friday, Mrs. M. Holroyd was presented with her past president pin prior to leaving on her vacation to the United States where she expects to participate at a Legion meeting.

Union picnic

Members of Sechelt School district Employees Union Local No. 801 and families were guests of Powell River School District Employees Union No. 476 Sunday, July 15 at an annual picnic at Emmonds beach, 35 miles from Saltery Bay.

Powell River school board supplied the bus from the ferry at Saltery Bay to the beach. After races, horseshoes and other events, lunch was served. The Sechelt union and families left for home on the 7:30 p.m. ferry. Plans are in the making for next year's picnic of these two unions in Halfmoon Bay area.

BEER PARLOUR CHARGE

When a beer parlor operator at Pender Harbour discovered a youthful drinker was underage, despite claims of parents he was not, a police court charge was laid. Magistrate Mittlesteadt of Pender Harbour on finding the minor guilty fined him $25. The lad was charged with being a minor in a beer parlor.

GUNSHOT WOUND FATAL

Rod (Jerry) Farrell, 26, of Wilson Creek, died as the result of a gunshot wound, Sunday, July 15. An inquiry into the death will be made by deputy coroner Dr. E. J. Paetkau. Farrell leaves his wife Sundi and three small children, two brothers at Pender Harbour and his father. The funeral service was held Wednesday at 3 p.m. in Seaview Cemetery with Rev. W. M. Cameron officiating.

High investment

Canada's life insurance companies investment in British Columbia is 54 percent more than the liabilities to policyholders in the province, the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association has revealed.

The insurance companies have $872 million invested in the province, the association told the Royal Commission on Banking and Finance, while liabilities to policyholders total $565 million.

In contributing to the growth of the country, the association's brief said, life insurance investment dollars are widely diffused throughout the economy.

But the breakdown shows that the geographical distribution of assets is quite close to the approximate distribution of liabilities on a provinical basis.

This is almost diametrically opposed to the comment so often heard that the life insurance companies withdraw savings from a particular area and invest them somewhere else, the commission was informed.

DUCK NESTS

At least four native ducks — the Harlequin duck, the Wood duck, the Golden-eye and Bufflehead — prefer nesting sites in stumps and hollow trees rather than on the ground. For this reason they occur and breed in forest-lake country unsuitable for the habitat requirements of many other species, and so have a wider distribution.

Singing host Bill Langstroth, centre, and Bud Spencer and Elan Stuart raise their voices in song on Singalong Jubilee each Monday night during the summer on CBC-TV. The light-hearted program, produced in Halifax puts the emphasis on folk songs, and features the Jubilee Singers, seen in the background.

Letters to the editor

Editor: In reply to your editorial "Where we stand" I would remind you that when you did publish letters and information sent to you by this committee you either preceded or supplemented them with your personal opinions, which in most cases distorted the facts that we were trying to put before the public.

Again we must take issue with your statement that the Pender Harbour Hospital Committee has tried to "kill the new hospital project." We have repeated over and over again that there should be another hospital on the peninsula, and that our whole effort is to keep St. Mary's operating in Pender Harbour; and to correct the falsehoods that have been circulated about it, which you have been so willing to print.

The people of the Pender Harbour-Jervis Inlet area will not submit calmly to the closure of St. Mary's here, which by its position has proved itself of such value to this extensive area. It was built, paid for and supported to fill a vital need which has in no way diminished through the years. And here we would remind you that this was done without any assistance from the Sechelt to Port Mellon area. Why should people here be robbed of their hospital and expected to pay for another at such a distance as to be of little value to them in comparison? Can you imagine the people of the Comox-Courtenay area being deprived of their hospitals, which are much older than St. Mary's, because a new hospital was being built in Campbell River? The distance is comparable.

The people in this area have a debt free hospital and are willing to continue to support its operation in H.I.D. Zone 4 and there is no valid reason why they should not do so. They are fully aware of the pressure that has been brought to bear against them and the fallacious arguments that have been put forward, but they still have the same "grit" and determination to fight for their hospital as they had in the building, paying for and supporting it in the past.

K. E. Jermain, chairman,
Pender Harbour Hospital Committee.

Editor's note: The editorial on which Mrs. Jermain is commenting did not say the committee has tried to kill the new hospital project. It did say the Coast News opposed the Pender Harbour effort to kill the new hospital.

The following letter was sent to Hon. Eric Martin, minister of health services and hospital insurance at Victoria by A. A. Lloyd in reply to one which the minister had written to the Board of Trustees of St. Mary's Hospital Society:

Dear Sir: In your letter of June 29th, 1962, to Board of Trustees of St. Mary's Hospital Society, you make reference to the efforts of the Pender Harbour Hospital Committee to keep St. Mary's open.

When members of this committee met with you in Victoria last year you made three points clear:

(1) That you would consider only one hospital in this district.

(2) That you considered you had no reason to refuse the district's request for a new hospital.

(3) That the dispute over the proposed closing of St. Mary's was a local matter that should be settled locally and that you did not wish to be brought into it.

In your letter you state that the decision to replace St. Mary's is that of the Society. However, nowhere in the minutes of the Society is there any motion covering the closing or replacing of St. Mary's; so the Society has yet to express itself on this matter. The fact is that by stating that you would allow the area only one hospital, and by giving permission to build a new one, you will, indirectly, be the cause of closing St. Mary's.

On the second point that you saw no reason to refuse the request for a new hospital, you continue to refer to the 1959 brief as if it was an authoritative document, when in fact information available to you shows that its estimates of population and patient days and their future growth have proven false, and that many of the alleged defects of St. Mary's have been corrected.

Your third point, that this dispute was a local matter and should be settled locally has hardly been born out by your actions. Your letter that was published in our local paper, immediately before passage of the money bylaw, could easily be construed as a recommendation for passage of the bylaw. Further, your letter of June 29th, publication of which you authorize, definitely gives the approval of your office to the closing of St. Mary's. Is this leaving a local matter to be settled locally? I hardly think so.

In closing I would like to remind you that the people of Pender Harbour and area have no objection to a hospital being built in the southern part of the area — but they do object and will continue to object to being deprived of a hospital that they have maintained over many difficult years and which is a good working hospital providing thousands of days of patient care each year at a very reasonable cost to the taxpayer.

A. A. Lloyd.

More than half of B.C.'s beef production comes from smaller ranches and farms where the whole family is intimately concerned in the operation.

At the movies

There is a change in picture dates at Sechelt Theatre. Bimbo the Great will be shown on July 21 and 23 but will not be shown on July 24. On that date All Hands on Deck will be shown. This was previously listed for two days only, July 25 and 26. Instead it will now play for three days starting July 24.

Claus Holm and Elma Karlowa are featured in Bimbo and Pat Boone with Buddy Hackett in All Hands on Deck. Bimbo the Great is filled with circus atmosphere and All Hands on Deck depicts the tribulations of navy men and an LST and concerns the "richest sailor in the navy."

4-H CLUB HOLDS MEETING

The monthly meeting of the Howe Sound 4-H club was held at the home of Linda-Lou Chamberlin, Reid Road, Gibsons, on July 1. Nine members were present. The club presented Mr. Hough with a leadership pin. Each member received a 4-H emblem. Next meeting will be held at the home of Sandy Gibb, Roberts Creek, at 7:30 on July 29.

Weddings

FLUMERFELT — SWANSON

Marriage vows were exchanged on Saturday evening, July 7, by Janet Swanson and David Flumerfelt in a lovely double wedding ring ceremony at the Port Mellon church. Rev. D. Harris officiated.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Swanson, Port Mellon. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Flumerfelt, Roberts Creek.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina length gown of nylon chiffon over taffeta. The beautifuly cut bell skirt was adorned with chiffon lacing and bow. Her short, puffy veil was held in place by an iridescent sequined crown. The bouquet was red rose buds and stephonotis.

Mrs. Eileen Kinne was maid of honor and Mrs. Verna Turner, the senior bridesmaid. They wore identical dresses in pale blue chiffon and lace. The dainty crowns and gloves were in matching blue. They carried a cascade of bright pink daisies.

Two little nieces of the groom, Kathy and Diane Fisher, were flower girls. Dressed in bright pink ruffled chiffon, they carried nosegays of white glads.

The bride's mother chose a beige dress and coat with white accessories and pink carnation corsage. The groom's mother wore a blue dress with white accessories and white carnation corsage.

The best man was Mr. Ernie Cartwright. Ushers were Mr. George Weal and Mr. Wayne Swanson. The men were smartly dressed in black pants and white dinner jackets.

A reception was held at the Port Mellon hall with approximately 200 guests. The hall, head table and three-tiered wedding cake, were all beautifully decorated in mauve and white by Mrs. Lottie Campbell.

Mr. Ernie Hume was the master of ceremonies and Mrs. Grace Wiren made the toast to the bride

Carol and Terry Enemark, Penny Strom, Sharon Harrop and Bonnie Abrams served.

For going away the bride chose a navy box suit with large pearl buttons. Her hat, gloves, purse and shoes were also white. Her corsage was a lovely white gardenia.

Roberts Creek

(By M. NEWMAN)

Following an attack that placed her in hospital for some time, Mrs. P. Edmonds is confined to her home for the present.

Miss Kitty Ripley, on vacation from Royal Columbian Hospital in New Westminster is a guest at the Newman home.

Mrs. Elsie Randall of Seattle and Miss Lois Monkford of Salem, Oregon, are guests at the M. V. Wenders home for a week.

Mrs. J. Monrufet has recovered from a nasty fall when the stool on which she was standing while hanging drapes, slipped and she fell to the floor, her head missing the hearth by an inch or so.

Hypo too has recovered from an injury which she received in an argument with a brush scythe. The creature attacked her in the leg and gouged out a tidy rip. Hypo suspects that the scythe, a mended do-it-yourself effort, was put together wrong side to, or upside down, or some such thing. She knows the fault could not have been hers, her aptitude with a scythe being what it is.

The D. Redman family and Miss Lennie Lawrence of Portland are this week's guests at the Crocker Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Wyse with Gerry and Mae are here from Nanaimo to spend a vacation with Mr. and Mrs. J. Wyse.

Mr. Donald Walker and Miss May Walker have had their niece Kay Davis, her husband Grant and children Patsy, Garry, Keith and Wendy from Saskatchewan for a visit. Mr. Walker had the misfortune to injure his knee in a fall but has recovered nicely.

Mrs. Lou Jackson of Vancouver with her friend Miss Edna Weales of historic Lorne Park, 20 miles from Toronto, are spending a vacation at the Galliford beach cottage.

SOME GOOD SALMON

Quite a few good-sized salmon have been landed by fishermen around the Headlands area and beyond and among them was a 35 lb. beauty which gave Earl Bingley quite a tussle recently. Since then some larger salmon have been hauled in and by now most of them are canned or served up for dinner.

VISITS SON

Mrs. C. O. Harris of Guelph, Ontario, is visiting her son, Rev. Denis Harris, vicar of St. Bartholomew's Anglican Church in Gibsons.

COMING EVENTS

July 20, 8 p.m., Hawaiian Night Garden Party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stenner, Sechelt Highway. Sponsored by Gibsons Hospital Auxiliary.

July 27, at 2 p.m., St. Aidan's annual garden party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cumming, Roberts Creek. Home cooking, needlework stalls are featured. Tea will be served. Everyone welcome.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Harry James Woods of Edmonton wish to announce the marriage of their daughter Helen Anita Machon to John Clifford Coleridge Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Coleridge of Gibsons. A quiet wedding took place at Gibsons June 29, 1962. The couple will honeymoon at Banff Springs and Edmonton. On their return they will reside at Westview, B.C.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank all friends and associates, particularly Dr. Pendleton of Pender Harbour Hospital, for their attention and concern during my recent accident, and for all cards and floral gifts while in hospital.
John Clifford Coleridge Jr.

DEATHS

FARRELL — Passed away suddenly July 15, Rod (Jerry) Farrell, aged 26, of Wilson Creek, B.C. Survived by his loving wife Sundi, three children, Betty-Lynne Lenore and Wendy all at home; two brothers, Barrie and Kerray of Pender Harbour and his father Allan Farrell. Interest rate cut

To encourage building of homes or other construction in the area, Roberts Creek Credit Union directors at a July 12 meeting decided to reduce interest rates on loans.

Members can borrow up to their share total at one-half of one percent per month. Mortgage money is now available at two-thirds of one percent a month or eight percent per annum, inclusive of life insurance and appraisal costs.

The credit union now has $25,000 on hand and can draw larger sums from Vancouver as required.

PROBLEM ANSWERED

For youngsters who display a dislike for milk, the solution often is to blend milk and a soft drink in a glass. This helps break up the milk curd for easy assimilation. Frequently a child who rejects milk greets this combination with enthusiasm.

Klondike goldrush bank

The first bank at Dawson, Yukon, in the Klondike gold rush of 1898, was a rough wood-framed, canvas-covered shack, and it has been recreated by the Bank of Montreal as part of the Dawson City Gold Rush Festival, which opened July 1.

The office was established by the Bank of British North America, which later merged with the B of M. The first manager, David Doig, and two clerks took 47 days to travel — by steamer, dog-sled, pack-pony and canoe—the 1,500 miles from Vancouver to Dawson to set up the sourdoughs' first bank.

Present B of M manager, bewhiskered Roy McPhail, who was elected first president of the Festival in 1960, is depicted here in the doorway of the tent-shack chatting with customers in period costume. Shown inset, he weighs gold dust on scales of the type used during the Klondike gold rush. The present B of M building, in the background, was erected in 1901 by big Alex McDonald, King of the Klondike.

Donald, King of the Klondike.

FLOOR DROPS OUT

Probably causing the greatest interest to a Seattle World's Fair Gayway visitor is the Rotor, hit of the Festival of Britain. Watching riders in a huge revolving drum draws plenty of gasps, but when the floor drops away and the riders are pinned against the whirling wall by centrifugal force, the thrill seekers become a bit dubious.

Freezer management!

More and more homemakers are adding a freezer to their basic kitchen equipment. If you are a new owner, don't make the mistake of using your freezer primarily as a place for food storage. A freezer must be an every day cooking tool if you are to enjoy the maximum convenience and food economies the freezer provides.

Most freezers include a manual of instructions from the manufacturer. These should be read carefully and the instructions followed exactly.

Good freezer management is simple. It consists of planning to keep your freezer storage space constantly working to provide a better balanced diet for your family all year round while effecting savings of work, time and money.

Keep your freezer full or nearly full all the time. The more use you make of the space, the lower your cost per unit of food stored and the bigger return you get on your freezer investment.

Use most of your freezer space for staples such as meats, vegetables and fruits. In the remaining space put cooked foods such as baked goods, prepared main dishes and snacks or desserts.

Proper preparation of foods for freezing is very important. Check your freezer manual for the correct techniques, particularly on packaging. In selecting a wrapping material, always select the one that is easiest to work with and has the best moisture vapour barrier characteristics to prevent loss or absorption of flavors. Many freezer owners use transparent saran film because it lets them identify contents at a glance.

Keep an inventory. Knowing what is on hand helps you plan more varied meals, insure that foods are used within maximum storage times.

Plan always to have day-by-day turnover of foods — except the seasonal ones, of course — so that your freezer is working for you every day. Often this means re-organizing your shopping and cooking schedules. It may mean you find yourself planning meals weeks and sometimes months in advance. But such planning pays off in convenience, lower food costs and time savings.

NODDING ACQUAINTANCE

Rabbits have about 16 regularly spaced naps during the day. Some birds are light sleepers, exploding from their nests at the first sign of danger; others, like the Australian frogmouth, sleep so soundly that they may be lifted from their perches without waking. Bobwhites sleep in a circle with heads pointing outward. In deep snow country, ruffed grouse will dive into a snowdrift from the wing and sleep snugly in the igloo they have formed. Some species of swifts sleep clung tightly together in a ball, like bees swarming. Butterflies go into a sort of trance. While in this state they can be picked from a blade of grass and tossed into the air. They will slant down again like dead leaves and fasten once more on a blade of grass, seemingly without waking.

Slowdown!

The summer safe-driving campaign of the Canadian Highway Safety council, called Slow Down and Live, is not designed to produce road crawlers, according to CHSC's executive director, W. Arch Bryce.

"What we want to do," said Mr. Bryce, "is stress the common sense and logic of driving at speeds safe under existing conditions. If the conditions — weather, traffic, vehicle and driver conditions — are safe, let the motorist keep up to the speed limit. That's no time for him to crawl along the road and delay others who want to move faster. He's a menace. But if there is heavy rain fog, or dense traffic, slower speeds must be maintained. If the car or the driver is in unsafe condition, neither should be on the road."

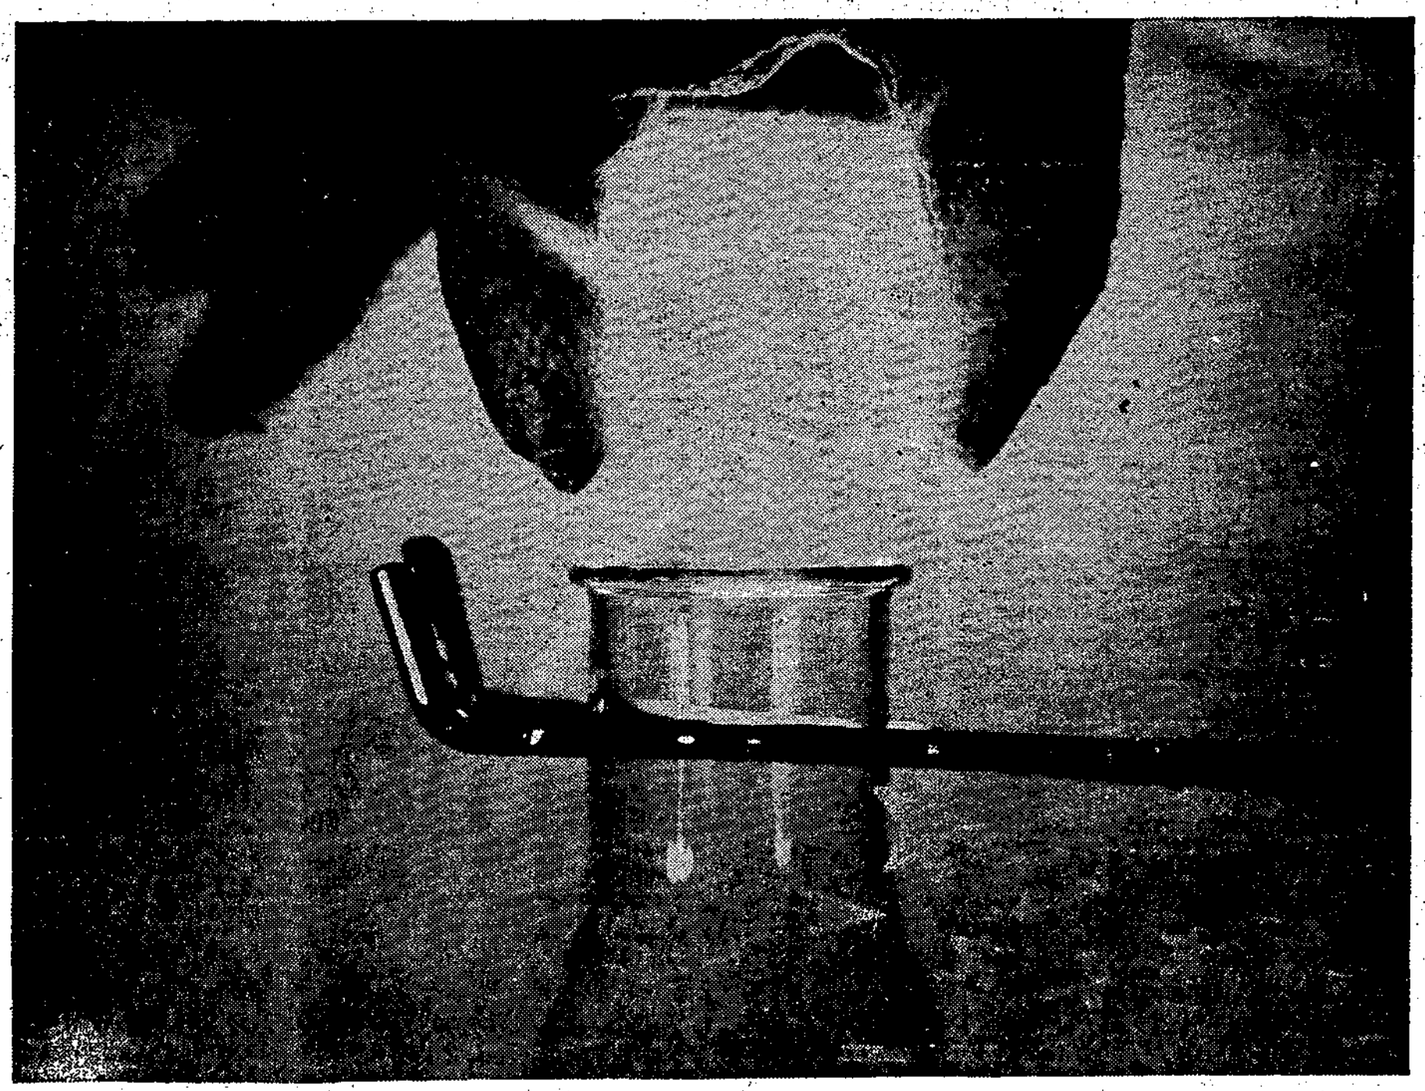
90% of all oil company product research in Canada is done by Imperial

At Imperial Oil's laboratories at Sarnia, Ontario, more than 200 scientists and technicians are working to improve present petroleum products—and to develop new ones. Their research covers many fields, from gasolines to household detergents.

Another 130 scientists and technicians are working at Imperial's Calgary laboratories on ways to find and produce more Canadian crude oil and natural gas. Imperial does more research than all other oil companies in Canada combined.



Every barrel of crude oil contains some of the sun's heat. Imperial research works to unlock more of this energy. After five years' intensive research, Imperial found a chemical additive which makes more heating oil available from Canadian crude oil. One important result: less oil imported to heat Canadian homes.

FOREST VALUES

Not all forests are of equal value or of value for the same purposes. Some are of primary importance for the growing of wood. Others are of use chiefly for the protection they afford to soil and watersheds, while others, again, are best suited for recreational and park area. Many forests have more than one major value. For example, a forest which is particularly valuable for wood production may be equally valuable for watershed protection and as a habitat for game animals and other wildlife.

Your health

Good posture conveys the impression of alertness, efficiency, and youthful appearance.

Generally speaking, good posture is the best stance or position when walking, standing, sitting or reclining — a position which allows the most efficient functioning of the body without strain.

As one-third of our life is slept away, a spring and mattress which give support without sag are important. To keep your spine in line and tension-free, relax on your back or either side, and avoid twisting the neck by positioning the pillow for best head support.

In attempting to attain good body mechanics, do not affect an exaggerated military stance.

Chiropractic research has found that those who obey the rules of good posture are less liable to ill health. Slumped shoulders, abdominal sag with spinal curvatures, result in cramped body organs and decreased efficiency.

Faulty posture interferes with normal weight bearing to force an increased load on the muscles resulting in fatigue, decreased vitality, and working efficiency.

Halfmoon Bay notes

By PAT WELSH

Our somewhat spasmodic summer weather has not kept people from their usual haunts, all cottages along the beach in this area are full to bursting and the small fry of which there are abundance, swim, sail and fish in gay abandon.

* * *

Fishing has perked up, Lee Straight and Stu Lefeaux came in with an extremely good catch, all big ones, Friday evening, fishing the hole at Sargeants Bay. Young Frank Claydon hooked into a whopping 27 pounder, a white spring, and his grandmother, Mrs. Frank Claydon landed two 20 pounders, one red and one white, at the same spot, so the Isaak Waltons are in their glory.

Mrs. G. B. Simpson entertained members of the Redwell Guild at tea July 10. Present were Mr. and Mrs. H. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. C. Tinkley, Mr. and Mrs. R. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Grundy, Mrs. E. Pearce and daughter Mrs. Anderson of Burnaby, Mrs. I. Dowden and friends and Mrs. P. Welsh.

Mrs. Simpson has been a busy hostess her guests being her nephew Charles Simpson of San Diego, Mrs. B. Pitt, Mrs. S. Seaton and Mrs. Goodwin of Vancouver.

The Johnny Simpsons with Bonnie, Lynn and George sailed up aboard Froya. Their weekend guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. Brown of West Vancouver.

At Irishman's Cove the Frank Lyons hosted son Gordon Laird, children Chris and Robin, the Jack Scanlons of Vancouver, Mr. and Mrs. C. Chestnut and Michael of Deep Cove, Mr. P. C. Russell, son-in-law of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Ryan, Michael, Robert and David are at the Ken Argue cottage. Mrs. Ryan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Blott spent the past week with them.

Rev. Robert and Mrs. Tuck and daughter Beth, of Canso, Nova Scotia are the guests of Canon A. Greene, Mrs. Tuck is the former Catherine Greene. Other guests arriving will be Mr. and Mrs. Alan Greene, Erin and Debbie.

The George Claydons and children, Linda and Frank are spending three weeks visiting the Frank Claydons, while the Bill Grundys are enjoying a visit with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. D. McLeod and two children of West Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson late of Fergy's Resort, Cheekeye, who purchased the J. Meikle A. Young property at Welcome Beach recently, have had several guests among them, Mr. A. Reynolds, department of fisheries; Mr. Neil Tait, Squamish, Mr. and Mrs. Lang Sands of Mission City and Mr. and Mrs. E. Price of Langdale.
