Help is big need for July 1

An appeal is sent out by the July 1 Celebration committee for further organization representation on the committee.

At a meeting Wednesday night in Kinsmen Hall with Charles Mandelkau in the chair a general outline of prospects for the day was discussed. There is the possibility of three bands, Powell River Pipers, Powell River High School band and maybe the Salvation Army band.

The day will include May Queens, a soapbox derby, a big parade, field sports for youngsters, bingo, a fish derby and a horseshoe competition.

But, members of the committee say, there will have to be a better representation of local organizations on the committee before further action can be taken.

Fair board now on job

Now is the time to plant those prize winning vegetables for this year's Sunshine Coast Fall Fair. Just a packet of seeds planted now could launch you on a new career.

Progress on the fair is coming along and the response is good. Organizations in the area are taking different sections of the fair and will organize, set up and generally see to it that this year's fair gets off to a good start. Next meeting will be on May 7 at 8 p.m. in the Anglican Church Hall.

The long term plan is to provide a permanent building where there will be ample room to show the varied selections of animals, poultry, fruits, vegetables and crafts that people in the Sunshine Coast area have. There are lots of small farmers in this area who need encouragement because of the tremendous cost of both land clearing and feed, he has a continual battle to keep ahead.

Most people do not realize the number of small farms there are so all who have an animal or garden of any kind, please shine up your apples and polish up the old mare and bring them all to the Sunshine Coast Fall Fair. You may walk off with first prize.

Queen chosen

Sechelt's May Day committee is hard at work preparing for the 16th May Day celebration.

Pupils of Sechelt Elementary School have chosen the Queen and attendants from Grade 6. This year's Queen will be Marilyn McKenzie with Dale Billingsley and Eleanor Nestman as attendants. Flower Girls are Vicki Fearnley and Kathy Grafe of Sechelt, Kathie Moorcroft and Sandra Wood of Davis Bay. Billie Frigon will be gift bearer.

There will be some unusual sports events and entertainment after the crowning. Children from the Residential School will enter the parade and it is expected newcomers to the area will enter floats.

Elephant auction

Sechelt Kinsmen are getting articles ready for the White Elephant auction sale on May 9th in front of the Hospital Cottage at 2 p.m.

More articles are needed to make this sale a success so if you have any old furniture or other articles please contact R. Stephanson at 885-2192 or M. Thompson 885-9330 and arrangements will be made to pick up what ever you have.

Sechelt Kinettes will hold a rummage sale at the same time and place. The girls have been collecting clothes and making repairs where necessary, but would like more clothes for the sale.

All proceeds will be used to equip another up-patients lounge in the new hospital.

New Health Centre opened officially

Next step in the public health field for this area will be formation of a union board of health to work in conjunction with the Public Health Unit which will start operating on July 1, Hon. Eric Martin, minister of public health and hospital services announced at the official opening ceremonies Saturday afternoon for the new Public Health Centre in Gibsons.

This union board of health would operate in a co-ordinating, and supervisory capacity to advise the health director as regards the services which will be provided for the people.

The key to the centre was turned over to Chairman A. E. Ritchey of Gibsons council by E. Peterman, contractor and P. Smith, architect. Following Mr. Martin's speech he assisted Miss Betty Murray, senior health nurse in cutting the ribbon, thus opening the new centre for the general public's entry.

Speakers leading into opening ceremonies included Jack Davis Coast-Capilano M.P.; Tony Gargrave, Mackenzie M.L.A.; Eric Prittie, health centre committee chairman and past president of the Kinsmen club; Bob Knapton, deputy governor of district five of Kinsmen clubs; Dr. J. T. Taylor, deputy minister of health; Dr. K. I. G. Benson, assistant provincial health officer and Miss Firth, nursing supervisor.

About 150 persons attended the opening ceremonies and on inspecting the interior of the building were also served tea, coffee and cake by members of the Kinette club in the Health Unit auditorium.

Mr. Martin explained the health unit will be under the di- Health Centre had cost $37,000 which was made up in a federal grant of $10,766.55 and a provincial grant of equal amount, a Gibsons municipal grant of $5,000 plus the donation of land worth $7,500, a $5,000 grant from the T.B. Society, $2,450 from the Cancer Society, $729.12 from the

ANVA meeting

Formation of an Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans association will take place Sunday evening at 8 p.m. in the Mariner Cafe. At this meeting, open to all veterans, an executive will be chosen to carry on.

It is the intention of the association to open a club room, with pool tables, shuffle and dart boards and other forms of recreation.

SHIELD OF FAITH

A 30 minute film will be shown at the Pentecostal Tabernacle on Friday, May 1, at 7:30 p.m.

The importance of strong spiritual upbringing in moulding the characters of our young people is dramatically portrayed in this story of temptation. All parents should see the Shield of Faith.

Name committee for centennial

Gibsons Centennial committee was formed at a Monday night meeting with Sam Fladager being named chairman, James Drummond was named vice-chairman and treasurer. Wes. Hodgson was appointed recording secretary.

Other members will include R. F. Kennett, Legion; Fred Holland, Fire Dept.; Gerry Dixon, Kinsmen; Eugene Yablonski, Recreation committee; A. J. Vanderhorn, Chamber of Commerce; Don Hauka, Kiwanis and Mrs. G. Corlett, Women's Institute.

The subject of a centennial project was discussed resulting in the issue being left over until a wider appeal has been made and more organizations involved. Next meeting will be held on June 3.

At Tuesday's council meeting Councillor Sam Fladager discussed the possibility of a seawall in the bay which is at present a matter for consideration.

Beatlemania continues

It appeared as though Gibsons Elementary School had been the target of an invasion from outer space on a recent morning as students taking part in the Beatle competition converged on the buildings. The contest was the result of popular demand and the preliminaries had taken place the previous week.

The best eight groups took part in the finals at Monday morning assembly. Mrs. McKenzie and Mr. Meyerhoff were the judges and each group gained points for mimicry and showmanship, musical ability, costume and audience response. The winners were Maureen Owen, Pam Boyes, Carol Olson and Noni Veale who were each presented with a Beatle record.

School tax up 1.34 mills

The school board mill rate was set at Monday night's meeting. It will be 22.47 mills which is 1.34 mills higher than last year.

The budget for this year is $763,623. Last year it was $680,-999. Of this total the provincial government will supply $144,751 up slightly from last year's grant which was $144,194.

Sechelt will provide $26,524 of the school tax, Gibsons $42,514 and the rural area $694,585. These figures are all slightly higher than last year's tax.

Total assessment for the school district is $33,913,986 which is $4,584,837 more than it was last year.

Other matters the board discussed included:

Providing for a fire hydrant to serve the new elementary school area. The village council will be approached on this.

Refusal to reduce the $200 fee charged the Lions club for the use of the secondary school auditorium.

Agreed that the Industrial Arts construction at Pender Harbour school comes as close as possible to satisfying everybody and if Victoria approves work will proceed.

Supt. G. E. Johnson reporting on teacher hirings said the teacher shortage was still with us.

Decided to seek the aid of municipal councils in obtaining a better financial deal from the government. The board will also write the department of education to see what can be done about upgrading of grants.

Arranged for a token payment to owners of property bought by the school board for the new elementary school. This payment will come from previous referendum money, so far unused, on advice of the department in Victoria.

Tender for clearing the site for the new elementary school in Gibsons was awarded to A. E. Ritchey at $800 plus any timber that would be usable. Other tenders were from C. E. Sicotte at $850 and J. M. Chaster at $900.

DON McNAB

former Sechelt Bank of Montreal manager who was involved in a bank hold-up in which $7,300 was taken. This hold-up was at Saanich, near Victoria. Suspects have been arrested and some of the money recovered.

Water tank going up

Information from Ottawa concerning winter works program extension beyond April 30 on projects under way in this area has revealed that after careful consideration federal authorities have decided to cut such program off at that date, Labor Minister Alan MacEachen has announced.

This will affect all winter works program on the Sunshine Coast including the Pender Harbour Waterworks construction now going on. Near completion, it is not expected to be a serious handicap because it is likely the major work will be finished by mid-May. As a result the contract has been extended to the end of May without any penalty involved.

In the meantime a 60,000 gallon stave water tank has been delivered on site for the Pender Harbour system and is being erected by the manufacturer.

Styles reviewed

Vince Prewer and Dave Pinkney of Marine Men's Wear attended the semi-annual Buy Mart in Vancouver sponsored by the B.C. Men's Apparel Club in Hotel Vancouver.

In reviewing styles for the fall men's suits continue in the three button models with a small showing in two button. Black and white will continue as the two most outstanding colors in men's furnishings with a strong interest being shown in brown.

WEEKEND GUEST

Group Captain Wes Hodgson was a weekend guest at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hodgson, South Fletcher Road.

Navy visit

Gibsons and District Chamber of Commerce has received information that HMCS Oriole, the only commissioned sailing vessel in the Royal Canadian Navy will visit Gibsons and Howe Sound area Wednesday, May 6.

The letter informing of the arrival of the Oriole came from Rear-Admiral W. M. Landymore and was sent to Ron Whiting, secretary of the C. of C. The plan was to try and line up navy vessels here for a specific boating week celebration in line with the opening of the boat launching ramp.

PTA backs club stand

The monthly meeting of the Pender Harbour PTA on Tues., April 21, in the Elementary School, with 16 present reported a good response to the dental program, awaiting the dentist.

The next meeting in May will be the final one for this term. A nominating committee was formed to put up a slate of officers for the coming year.

A letter is to be sent to the school board stating the PTA is in accord with the Community Club association regarding the grounds at the Elementary School and urges the school board to take some action to improve the situation.

Letters are to go to local organizations, school board and the inspector stating the PTA is in favor of the issue that the present activities room at Madeira Park Elementary school be used for a class room and a new large activities room be built.

A motion was made supporting the British Columbia PTA federation that the criminal code be amended regarding the importation of obscene literature into Canada.

Mr. Tjorhom gave an enthusiastic report on the progress of May Day. The meeting was adjourned. Refreshments followed.

THANKS FROM O.E.S.

The worthy matron of Mount Elphinstone Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star and the convenors and members of the Roberts Creek Cancer dressing station under the auspices of the O.E.S., thanks all who responded so promptly to the request for donations of used sheets and cotton goods.

Garden club helps Fair

If enthusiasm of Gibsons Garden Club members is any indication, the community should soon be noted for its beautiful gardens. At the April meeting in the United Church Education centre with 24 members present, Mr. H. Mullett presided in the absence of the president, Mr. A. Craven who was a patient in Nanaimo Hospital. Regret was expressed at Mr. Craven's illness along with best wishes for a speedy recovery.

Mrs. G. Corlett reported the Fall Fair committee has suggested that garden club members take charge of one section of the exhibits. The members chose the most appropriate, the flower section. All were in favor of Mr. Mullett's suggestion of taking a mystery trip up the coast where there are many lovely gardens and hidden beauty spots to be found when one leaves the blacktop and explores the little gravel roads and winding trails.

At the May meeting which will again be held in the Educational Centre, Mrs. G. E. Faulkner, an authority on roses and associated with the Vancouver Roses society will be the speaker. Following the business session, an interesting change of plants was enjoyed. Many beautiful species were exchanged and Mr. Mullett has a list of more available. Refreshments and a social get together concluded the afternoon.

JOBIES' VARIETIES

Parents and friends of Job's Daughters spent an enjoyable evening Sat., April 25 in the School Hall when youngsters from Gibsons and Sechelt put on a variety concert.

During the intermission and after the show friends and relatives were generous in their purchases from the tables the girls had set up. Winner of the cake draw was Mrs. DeLong with Mrs. Tex Enemark winning the cookie event.

GARBAGE MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Port Mellon-to-Egmont Garbage Collection and Disposal committee Thursday night at 8 in the Selma Park Community Hall.

Guides honor mothers

The third annual Guide Banquet at Gibsons United Church Hall Monday night, was a happy occasion for mothers and daughters. An excellent dinner, time for mothers to renew friendships and make new ones, for the children a get to-gether for three Brownie Packs and two Guide companies, and for the leaders, an opportunity to get to know the mothers of their children.

Guests of the Guides and Brownies introduced by the Elphinstone District Commissioner, Mrs. J. Thomas, were Mrs. Morris, one of the pioneers of the Girl Guide movement in Gibsons; Mrs. L. Labonte, divisional commissioner. Rev. M. Cameron and Rev. D. Harris.

Toasts to the mothers were given by Brownie Georgette Macklam of Roberts Creek Pack and Guide Christine Hansen of 1st Gibsons Company. Mrs. C. Fisher and Mrs. J. Quarry replying for the mothers spoke of the values of Guiding as a bridge between childhood and adulthood teaching our children skills and giving them a firm foundation on which to base their lives.

Mrs. Labonte spoke of the importance of mothers to the Guide movement. Part of both the Brownie and Guide promise is based on the need for children to feel that they belong not only to their homes but their communities and stress is laid on active participation in the work of their home and community. A mother's understanding of the Guide and Brownie program is a great help to her daughter.

Special appreciation for the ladies of the United Church whose contribution, the arrangement and catering had run so smoothly, were expressed. Those working in the kitchen were persuaded to come forward and were presented with corsages by the Brownies. These were as usual the loving work of the Brownies' "Flower Lady" Mrs. D. Tyson who also provided spring bouquets for the girls to give to their leaders.

A film Poris of Paradise, a trip through the South Sea Isles to Australia and New Zealand followed with Mr. Potter operating the projector, loaned by Mr. Barry McDonald.

No Guide or Brownie gathering would be complete without a campfire. Songs were sung by the combined Brownie Packs, folksongs of different lands by the Roberts Creek Guides and the Gibsons Guides finished with their rousing company song. Guide and Brownie Taps were sung and the Flag marched off by the Color party, Donna Lee, Karen Alsager and Marilyn Hopkins to bring a happy evening to a close.

End of the line

Saskatchewan's CCF party has reached the end of the line as a political force. This became evident with the departure of T. C. Douglas from the premiership and the closing down of Coldwell House in Regina, an institution which was supported by public donations.

There were also other straws in the wind, such as the weakening of the cabinet timber brought on by the resigning of quite a number of the original old guard, like C. M. Fines, C. C. Williams and others.

Governments have a habit of making the previous government look like so many small potatoes. This was done in Saskatchewan, too. It should be remembered, however, that the last Liberal government budget in that province was in the region of $28,000,000. Compare that with the almost $200,000,000 budget the CCF presented this year.

Compare the road equipment today with that available to governments at the close of the last war. Compare the public attitude towards taxation then and taxation today. Today taxation authorities are likened to Santa Claus, whom it should be understood must not be shot. The public has become used to having millions and millions of dollars talked about until their meaning is lost.

The people of Saskatchewan are no different to those of British Columbia. They became tired of the CCF line and the opposing parties in the province ganged up to some extent to weaken the CCF hold. Apparently they succeeded. Could it also happen in British Columbia?

My-ook a grizzly bear

MY'-OOK is the name of a publication turned out at Elphinstone Secondary school containing literary efforts by pupils of both Elphinstone and Pender Harbour Secondary schools.

The term MY'-OOK is Sechelt for Grizzly Bear. The Grizzly featured prominently in Sechelt mythology. A constellation of stars, second in significance only to Polaris and the Giant Dipper, is designated as STUHM-TOH'-MISH; the Archer. His target is MY'-OOK. There is here of course a most intriguing similarity to the ancient Greek Orion and Ursa Major.

A half mile or so up Sechelt Inlet from the western entrance to Salmon Arm, two figures appear in milk-white quartz against the grey-black granite. To the right is MY'-OOK, portrayed in the art of springtime. To the left, kneeling, with huge arrow starting from his bow, is STUHM-TOH'-MISH. The figures, life-sized, are quite realistic in appearance.

The Sechelts respected the Grizzly for his intelligence, for his strength, and for his indominable courage. Especially before the advent of firearms, he represented an adversary worthy of the most esteemed hunter.

One story, in which three brothers of TSOH-NYE; Deserted Bay — huge and powerful men — shot and wounded a Grizzly with an arrow, how the Grizzly waylaid the youngest brother, who was tracking him, and how the eldest brother slew the Grizzly just in time to save the younger man's life, indicated the fact that the Sechelts did do battle with this great creature at times.

The sponsors of a literary publication, desirous of recognizing the significance of local lore, and searching for a name respected in aboriginal mythology throughout the area contributors are drawn from, chose as its title the Sechelt name for the Grizzly Bear, MY'-OOK.—Les Peterson

Beer, bingo, the Legion and the law

Churches, service clubs, P.T.A. and practically every group that is involved with raising funds in the fair name of Charity are unhappy with the unsettled state of the law regarding such things as raffles and bingo. This does not seem to bother the out and out illegal operators.

Of the $14,000,000 invested in the last Irish sweep, $10,000,000 was subscribed by the citizens of the U.S. and Canada.

Countless thousands of Canadians continue to enter British football pools and sweepstakes in Australia, New Zealand, Jamaica and the U.S. Tickets are now being touted locally for the sweepstake legalised by one of our neighbor states below the border.

In contrast, $711,317 was donated by 105 branches of the Legion (1962-63) in B.C. alone. In many cases this money was earned the hard way, by ladies auxiliaries, bazaars, raffles, rummage sales and of course bingo and dare it be said? Beer.

The disbursement of these monies covered a wide range of activities and projects. Over $68,909 went to cover bursaries and scholarships. Further money was contributed to maintain student loan funds and other educational projects.

The New Westminster and district zone's Earl Haig Society completed its $102,000 low rental housing project in Coquitlam and is planning a similar venture in Haney. Over $212,000 has been invested in building developments throughout the province with a further $61,700 spent towards the upkeep of these projects.

Essay contests were sponsored by many branches. A total of over 3,000 children took part in these as well as coloring contests. Prizes such as $50 savings bonds were awarded.

Assistance to other welfare groups totalled over $50,000. The Red Cross, Salvation Army, Retarded Children associations, Crippled Children's Hospital, Heart Fund, March of Dimes and numerous others benefited from these donations.

In addition branches donated the use of their halls to many of these community groups. Financial aid from branches to communities themselves amounted to more than $20,000 and took in such things as provisions for swimming pools, cenotaphs, parks and tracks.

Can a price tag be placed on a helping hand to those in need? More than 5,700 veterans' cases have been serviced by Pacific Command.

$30,000 has been spent in a major effort to promote physical fitness for youngsters in the Junior Olympic Training plan. $40,000 has been spent in the last two years to sponsor several teams in local sports activities. These run from baseball to soccer, football, softball, hockey, lacrosse, swimming and bowling.

Pacific Command branches spent as a result of Poppy donations a total of $102,130 on relief and welfare work in communities in 1962 and $118,578 in 1963. At least nine branches built new halls in B.C. during these years for a total cost of $889,780.63. Three others put on additions costing a total of $63,320.50 or renovations to 52 other branches at a cost of $285,668.47.

Figures mean nothing by themselves, but to each child who gets his uniform in a soccer team, to the ageing veteran who finds a comfortable home free from the many worries of rent increases beyond their capacity to meet, the Legion is still a vital necessity and is proving its worth, as figures again prove by showing a constant growth across the Dominion.

The Davis Ottawa Diary

By JACK DAVIS, M.P.
Coast-Capilano Constituency

Prime Minister Pearson took the initiative in the recent Federal - Provincial conference in Quebec City. He suggested that certain programs financed jointly by Ottawa and the provinces, might be descontinued. Others, he thought, might be streamlined considerably. This would avoid the federal government having to raise a great deal of money which it merely turned over to the provinces to spend as if it were their own.

These arrangements, some 66 of them, have grown up over many decades. Varying widely in their nature they now cost the Canadian taxpayer roughly $900 million a year. The biggest, hospital insurance, costs $420 million. Next comes unemployment assistance at $110 million, followed by pensions for the blind and disabled.

Some apply to one province, some to two, and some to a majority and some are nationwide in their coverage. In a few cases the provinces put up 20% of the money. In others their share may be as high as 80%. Included are provisions for the abolition of railway grade crossings, assistance in respect to some agricultural products and subsidies for amateur sport.

Premier Lesage of Quebec would go even further than Mr. Pearson. He would have his province drop out of the cost-shared programs altogether. In compensation, he said, it should be able to move in on personal income tax, a field which he believes the federal government should vacate in any case. The other provinces were less interested in contracting out. However they did object to all the red tape involved. In effect they were saying that Ottawa had attached too many strings to its cost-sharing grants. What they wanted were a few large, lump sum payments in their stead. These they could then administer more or less as they saw fit.

Most people will agree, I think, that some of these programs have outlived their usefulness. They can be done away with. Sound administration also suggests that the spending authority should, itself, have to raise the taxes. Tying spending and tax gathering together in this way will make for more responsible government. Those who have to ask people for funds will undoubtedly spend them more wisely.

To the extent that future Federal-Provincial conferences help to clear up these responsibilities, to the extent that they put the taxing powers in the hands of those levels of government responsible for their expenditure, they will undoubtedly contribute to the more efficient edministration of public affairs in this country. By making our complex financial arrangements more understandable they will also, I believe, contribute towards national unity.

Grant for 4-H clubs

Mr. G. L. Landon, Victoria, president of the Canadian Council on 4-H clubs, announces the official acceptance of a $10,000 grant to 4-H from the Canadian Centennial Commission.

Officials of 4-H are hopeful that this will be the first of similar grants from the commission up to and including 1967. They are earmarked for assistance in 4-H travel and exchange and will be apportioned to the provinces attended the 34th national 4-H as programs are developed.

The Canadian 4-H movement is recognized by the Centennial Commission as one of the pioneers in youth exchange programs

Ten youthful Canadian ambassadors, one from each province, Club Conference, Washington, D.C., April 18 to 25. The delegates, selected for their outstanding personal qualities and high standards of achievement in 4-H work, assembled in Ottawa on April 16 prior to leaving for New York and Washington on April 17

The group then flew to New York where they were welcomed at the United Nations by representatives of Canada's permanent mission. Later in Washington they congregated with 200 top U.S. 4-H members.

Seedling program

The British Columbia Forest Service announces spring reforestation operations are gathering momentum in many parts of the province. The program, which will see some 8,000,000 seedlings planted, has been seriously delayed by the heavy snow pack. This spring's plantings will push the total number of trees planted in the province to just over 180 million.

About two million of this spring's seedlings will be planted by Forest Service crews, mostly on public sustained yield units. The balance will be planted by industry, mainly on coastal tree farm licences and private holdings. Indian bands, who find that the seasonal nature of planting fits in well with their other activities, are earning a reputation as steady and reliable tree planters.

While the coast program is normally completed by mid-April, that for the interior is just commencing then and may extend into June in the central interior and on higher elevations in the south.

Sandy Dunlop

Death came suddenly to Alexander (Sandy) Dunlop of Beach Avenue, Roberts Creek, on April 15. Born in Scotland, Sandy came to Vancouver in 1920 where he was associated with the shipbuilding trade. Twelve years ago he retired to Roberts Creek where he had a home at the beach by the water he so enjoyed.

He was much interested in the advancement of the community and was a member of the Community Association. Always ready with a quick quip and a sally, Sandy was popular with his many friends and neighbors.

He was pre-deceased by his wife, the former Jeanie Nicholson, in 1945. He is survived by two brothers, Robert, in Scotland; Archie, Vancouver; two sisters, Margaret, Vancouver and Mrs. A. Smith, Orillia, Ont.

Funeral service took place April 18 at the Harvey Funeral Home. In lieu of flowers, donations were suggested for the new hospital fund of the Roberts Creek Community Association.

Smorgasbord draws praise

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. C. McDermid and Mrs. H. Duffy who gave a report on another successful smorgasbord, at the monthly meeting of Sechelt Hospital auxiliary, held Thurs., April 9, at the cottage.

As convenors they thank each and every person who participated because every dish put on the smorgabord table was so attractive and equally as tasty.

A special thanks has been sent Mrs. R. Norminton who decorated the tables in an Italian motif. Candlelight added a cozy atmosphere for dining and dancing. Mrs. T. Sinclair is also being thanked for providing background music on the piano, during the cocktail hour.

Several members are making plans to attend the Lower Mainland Regional Council meeting at Burnaby General Hospital, Fri., April 24.

Mrs. E. Graffe and Mrs. A. Wilson are convenors for the May Day concessions. Anyone wishing to donate a couple of hours that day, please contact one of them. It was also decided to enter a float, with Mrs. C. Connor and Mrs. T. Sigouin in charge.

Mrs. E. Lambe, W. Sechelt, and Mr. J. Fisher, Porpoise Bay won the crocheted place mats, when their tickets were drawn.

Mrs. O. Johnsen, W. Sechelt, very generously donated a china coffee set consisting of coffee pot, cream and sugar, and six cups. This will be on display in several stores in Sechelt and will be raffled at the first meeting in Sept. The next monthly meeting will be held Thurs., May 14, 2 p.m. at the cottage.

Health Centre opens

Heart Foundation of B.C. and almost $4,300 from public subscription.

Planning for the centre began four years ago led by local Kinsmen who were later assisted by Kiwanians. The Gibsons Health Centre is the 66th to be built in the province since 1951 under financial assistance from federal and provincial governments. Such assistance amounted to $735,000 from Ottawa and $811,000 from Victoria.

The Health Centre is a building of 3,150 square feet containing facilities for a health unit director, three public health nurses and a sanitary inspector. There is a clinic room, general office, waiting room, large meeting room and a separate room for voluntary agencies and organizations participating in public health activities. Space available in the bulding also makes it available for the accommodation of travelling clinics and classes for expectant parents.

The area served is School District No. 46 and includes Nelson, Thormanby and adjacent islands. In Howe Sound it covers Gambier, Bowen, Anvil, Keats and smaller islands. The entire region is 60 miles long in an area of 1641 square miles from Port Mellon to Jervis Inlet.

At the same time, Mr. Martin explained, a new health unit was to be formed taking in three school districts reaching from Powell River down coast to Squamish and Pemberton. This rection of a full-time medical health officer. This official will be established at Powell River along with a senior public health administrative staff. Powell River was selected as the headquarters because of the density of population in that area compared to the rest of the district If this picture changed and Gibsons is found to be the logical place for a headquarters then the situation will be reviewed.

Suggestion for a name to give this 18th health unit to be established, was Malaspina, chosen because it was brief and covered a geographic area, Mr. Martin said.

Director of the new three school district health unit will be Dr. A. J. (Gus) Cunningham, previously director of the Peace River Health Unit and who has had considerable health experience in New Zealand. His assistant will be Miss Annette Stark, supervisor of public health nursing. Barry Macdonald of Gibsons will be senior sanitary inspector. Miss Stark has served in Quesnel and Nelson areas.

Official date for establishment of the new health unit will be July 1 but Dr. Cunningham will start in June to familiarize himself with the area. His first assignment, Mr. Martin said would be to stimulate formation of a union board of health to include members of municipal councils and school boards. The union board of health will be the organization which will decide on the name of the Health Unit.

In stressing what public health efforts had done towards curtailing the damaging effects of communicable diseases Mr. Martin showed how in 1930 there were 667 diptheria cases and 15 deaths. The 1963 figures showed one case and no deaths. Typhoid showed 70 cases and 16 deaths in 1931 and in 1963 five cases and no deaths. Tuberculosis showed 620 deaths in 1930 and only 49 deaths in 1963. Infant mortality per 1,000 population was 51.7 in 1930 and 23.4 in 1963. Polio was another example. Peak number of deaths was 1960 with 165 deaths. In 1963 there were no deaths.

Sechelt News

(By SHEILA NELSON)

St. John's United Church Women held their monthly meeting on Tuesday, April 20 with 14 present. The treasurer reported the spring tea was a financial success and the membership thanks all who made it so.

Mother's Day, May 10, is now called Family Sunday, and the Sunday School children will be taking part.

The service on May 17 will be in charge of the UCW and a film will be shown of the work of Dr. Paul Brand with the lepers in India. While refreshments were served a start was made on the knitting of squares for an afghan.

On Saturday, April 25, trophies were given to members of the PeeWee Bowling league. The winner of the team trophy was Bob Nelson's team, the Strike Tens and the runner up was Penny Caldwell's team. In individual prizes Rita Ono with an average of 129 and Gary Lawson with 164 won the trophies for the high average.

High two trophies were won by Sharon Lawson with 316 and Alan Hemstreet with 402. High single trophies were won by Penny Caldwell with 204 and Bob Nelson with 192.

Rita Ono, Penny Caldwell, Gary Lawson and Alan Hemstreet received pins for their games over 200. In all it was a successful year for the league.

Club disbands

At a meeting at Roberts Creek Community Hall on the evening of April 19, the Roberts Creek Players' Club was disbanded. A new Drama Club, as yet unnamed was formed. The new slate of officers elected were: President, Bud Blatchford; vice-president, George Kynoch; secretary, Madge Newman; treasurer, Helen Weinhandl and play readers, Diane Laird, Mavis Christmas and Mollie Almond. Diane Laird was made custodian of the scrap book and historian.

Monthly meetings will take place on the 3rd Sunday of each month at the hall. Tentative plans are underway for a production during the summer. About 20 were at the meeting but it is expected many more will join. It is hoped that anyone interested will attend the next meeting, which, because of the holiday, will be held a week earlier, May 10.

Shower bride to be

On March 27, a shower was given at the home of Mrs. G. Clarke for Miss A. Gibb of Victoria, bride-to-be of Robert Fretter of Gibsons. The setting for the guest of honor was a white bell dome and streamers with clusters of pink flowers to hold each streamer.

A corsage of a white gardenia with pink and silver ribbon was presented by Mrs. G. Clarke. Highlight of the evening was a hat made by Sylvia and Pat of ribbons and bows from gifts received which was placed on the head of the guest of honor.

Games were played and tea was poured by Mrs. Crowhurst. Lunch was served by Martha Brakstad. The cake was made in the form of a bride and served by the guest of honor.

Pictures were taken by Mr. G. Clarke. Guests present were Mrs. Crowhurst, Mrs. M. Clarke, Mrs. V. Peterson, Mrs. P. Hogan, Miss S. Wilson, Mrs. S. Feeney, Mrs. G. Fretter, Mrs. G. Mulligan, Mrs. G. Clarke, Mrs. J. Wolansky, Mrs. L. Brakstad and Martha Brakstad.

The Story of the Sechelt Nation

ARTICLE 16
(By LES PETERSON)
(Copyright)

This participation of both sexes in traditional ceremonies helps to indicate the quite real equalitarianism that existed among the Sechelts. Another indication that feminine influence was significant can be adduced from the fact that the handing down of hereditary and traditional lore was carried out by female as well as by male elders; another that, while inheritance of title was patrilineal, rights to property could be claim-through the mother's as well as through the father's side of the family. So, also, a woman might attain the power of TOH-MAN'-AH-WAHSS; the healing spirit possessed by the SEE-AY'-KLUH, freely translated as "Medicine-man."

Among more northern peoples, the medicine man, or shaman, had the important task of leading and coaching a novitiate during his secret society dance, at which he helped him reveal, in song, what specific spirit power he had attained. Among the Sechelts, all of the nobility officiated as a group at such ceremonies, and the duty of the SEE-AY'-KLUH consisted primarily of applying his supernatual powers mainly in healing.

An affliction to an individual could be of either physical or spiritual ailment. Visible physical wounds, broken bones, rheumatism, and other common maladies were treated by remedies known to virtually all of the population. Application of these cures required no special ability.

More serious among physical injuries was the intrusion of some foreign object into the body. A fish-bone lodged in the throat was, where fish formed a very substantial part of the diet, a common ailment of this type. When such an accident occurred in a village, the chief generally undertook to enlist the services of a healer. Since powerful healers were rare, those individuals who possessed great healing power sometimes practised over a wide area.

Basil Joe states that his father-in-law once witnessed the removal of such an object in his time. A boy from the Ocean Park area had a fish-bone lodged securely in his throat, near the larynx. He was taken to New Westminster, where a medical doctor offered to operate. Declining the offer, the boy's people returned him to his home, and called in a SEE-AY'-KLUH renowned for his ability to deal with this type of affliction.

The boy, so the story goes, was stretched on the floor, on his back. The healer, sitting cross - legged some distance away, took a mouthful of water and spit it toward the patient. He then asked him to feel his throat. "It feels as if there is nothing there," the boy commented. "Here!" said the shaman, reaching out his arm and opening his fist. And, in the palm of his hand, he held a fish-bone, covered with blood.

Most serious of all, to the North-West aborigine, was loss of his soul, the SKWUH-EYE'-EE; literally, my life. Preservation of the soul, within the body during life, and in its proper haven for souls after death, was of paramount concern to B.C. coastal Indians. A person who lost his soul withered away and soon died. A soul could be lost in one of two ways; either it might stray from the body, or it might be stolen from the body by force of a wicked medicine-man. In either case, a SEE-AY'-KLUH who possessed special soul recovery power would be called upon to return the afflicted person's lost spiritual half.

While such occasions were obviously unscheduled, their random occurrence did form a significant ceremony among the native peoples. Since the treatment was carried on in full view of all the villages, it both tested the shaman's powers openly, and served as a public performance. The last medicine man ceremony was performed, apparently, somewhere in Sechelt Inlet during the summer season, at the time of Dan Paul's grand-uncle who, he said recalled it for him from the time of his youth. This could place the event at about 1840. Following the people's adoption of Christianity, a generation later, all such ab-original practices were terminated.

On this particular occasion, as it comes down to us, the patient was lying on the floor, to all intents and purposes already dead. The SEE-AY'-KLUH, after a certain amount of ritual, opened his cupped hands to reveal to the watchers, ranged all around, a tiny white bird. "See," he said to his audience, "here is this man's lost soul. It must be returned to him." Then, he placed his hands against the patient's head, pressed, and withdrew them, empty. The "dead" man, having thus recovered his lost SKWUH-EYE'-EE, arose, perfectly well.

Gargrave outlines session activities

The new national pension plan announced by Prime Minister Pearson in Ottawa is a great victory for confederation, Tony Gargrave told an audience of about 30 people in Gibsons School Hall Monday night when he delivered his report on the legislative session.

Mr. Gargrave, NDP member for Mackenzie constituency in the provincial legislature was also of the opinion it was a great victory for the individual who can now look towards retirement without fear. The new maximum of $104 plus the present $75 is welcome.

In commenting on road and bridge problems he advised taxpayers to continue writing to the ministers of the respective government departments. Long letters were not necessary. These letters were turned over to deputies or to departments for their information and when they pile up in certain directions the minister is advised and the possibility of action is therefore improved

He said he had pressed for highway improvement in this area during the budget debate and also when the roads department estimates were before the house. He felt it was time something was done about the Sunshine Coast Highway. As regards the Squamish highway he anticipated the possibility of the PGE railway going into Woodfibre from Squamish.

In discussing various facets of government operation Mr. Gargrave said one B.C. resident in six was hospitalized during 1963 at a cost of $63,000,000 which tallied out at about $38 for each man, woman and child in the province.

Total bill for public school education last year was $157.5 millions of which the provincial government paid $83.8 millions for a total of $370 per pupil.

Mr. Gargrave revealed government sources of revenue as $101,000,000 from the five precent sales tax, $44,000,000 from the gasoline tax, $91,000,000 from income and succession duties, $33,000,000 from liquor sales, $7,500,000 from property taxes, $103,000,000 from natural resources and other revenue from far smaller amounts.

The indirect provincial debt rose $28,900,000 to a total of $1,390,000,000. The premier, he said, always had a surplus because he under-estimates income and over-estimates expenditure.

But, Mr. Gargrave pointed out, rural school taxes have gone up 300 percent since 1952 and property taxes have doubled.

On the legal side Mr. Gargrave explained that due to new legislation, county courts have become streamlined and all cases of claims can be heard in county court unless specific objection is made. County courts can now have criminal jury trials and take divorce actions. Vancouver and Victoria county court judges will have the powers of local Supreme Court judges.

British Columbia's population has increased 40 percent in 12 years and Mr. Gargrave thought the population of this area has also risen 40 percent and will go up another 40 percent in the next 10 or 12 years.

While dealing with county court matters, Mr. Gargrave said he was in favor of the ombudsman type of legal operation which would do a great deal to eliminate injustices that occur to people who are unable to call on legal services.

There should be greater protection for provincial parks. Under present conditions a park can be set up by order-in-council and can also be destroyed by order-in-council. There should be a lot of public correspondence to the minister concerned in order the present park setup can be protected and not squandered away.

Hope for municipalities

—SAYS HEALTH MINISTER

Addressing 35 persons at a dinner meeting Saturday evening of Gibsons Social Credit organization, Hon. Eric Martin, minister of health and hospital services offered small municipalities some relief from the present income limit forced on them by restrictive tuberculosis legislation.

This legislation reads that when the income limit of $12,500 is passed municipalities must assume welfare costs within their own municipality. This seriously affects Gibsons which is straining at the taxation leash because more money will be necessary in the years to come so it can carry on necessary services.

Mr. Martin while promising he would do what he could to get relief said that under, medicare legislation which the federal and provincial governments might bring in would eliminate any such restriction automatically, because medicare would take care of the required expenditure involved in TB cases.

Vince Bracewell was chairman of the meeting. Mr. Martin spoke following his opening of the Health Centre in Gibsons earlier in the day.

Mr. Martin expected care of the chronic ill would also be taken care of under medicare along with the mentally ill. He expected the Royal Commission now preparing a report on medicare will include both sections in any proposal.

On the smoking problem which he dealt with at considerable length he said legislation was not the answer. Moderation was most suited in view of the fact legislation was not possible.

Quebec, he thought, would not withdraw from confederation, instead confederation would finish up much stronger than before.

He described Social Credit's money reform proposals as taking the funny out of money. It was necessary to prevent the present ups and downs of economic life and the Social Credit monetary reform would do this.

Katherine Funnell

After a lengthy illness the death occurred of Mrs. Katherine Funnell, Beach Avenue, in Lions Gate Hospital on April 17.

Mrs. Funnell came from Ireland in 1923. For many summers she camped, with her husband, the late Alfred Funnell, on beach property on Beach Avenue, later retiring to the home they built there.

She was a member of the Community Association. She joined the Red Cross more than 20 years ago and continued to be an active member until her illness last year.

She is survived by a sister in England, two brothers, one in Quebec and W. Mehaffey, West Vancouver.

HALFMOON BAY NOTES

By MARY TINKLEY

Canon and Mrs. Alan Greene have returned from a trip to Vancouver Island. Travelling by way of Vancouver and Victoria to enable Canon Greene to attend the synods in both those cities, they continued to Campbell River where they stayed at Campbell River Lodge in its lovely location on the banks of the river. Canon Greene was speaker to the Rotarians on their Charter Night. Crossing on the ferry to Quathiaski Cove on Quadra Island, they enjoyed a picnic at Drew Harbour.

Mrs. B. McCaul is spending a few days with the Gilbert Lees at Irvines Landing before returning to Vancouver to nurse her mother.

Visiting the Alec Morris home at Welcome Beach are Mr. and Mrs. K. Morris with David and Nola, and the Frank Claydon's guests are Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Claydon and Philip of Kelowna.

Cliff Connor is undergoing tests in St. Paul's Hospital. Peggy and Mary made a trip to Vancouver to visit him there this week.

Seen along the Redroofs beaches this weekend were the Gordon Cruise family, the Harold Hunts and Mr. Herb Hunt, Dr. and Mrs. Jinks, the Phil Dills the Jack Temples and Dr. and Mrs. Richmond.

Guide Spring tea

Sechelt's Girl Guide District association met on April 8 at the home of Mrs. Bud Fearnley with 13 members present and Mrs. F. Newton, commissioner in the chair.

Mrs. Newton reported on the annual meeting she attended in New Westminster. Cookie week will start April 24 and run to May 2 when all Guides and Brownies will offer them from door to door.

Plans have been made for the annual Spring tea and bazaar in the Sechelt Legion hall on May 5 starting at 2:30 p.m. There will be cooking plants and candies also Barbie doll clothes.

Plan track, field clinics

Track and field clinics in five major B.C. centres will be held this year in conjunction with the Royal Canadian Legion Junior Olympic Training Plan, newly elected Chairman Ron Haig announces.

It is intended to hold these two day clinics between now and the end of June. They will be staffed by experts in particular events and would commence on a Friday night ending on the following Sunday afternoon. Locations under consideration are Trail, Quesnel, Kelowna, Nanaimo and Vancouver.

Many coaches participating have already attended the national clinic and will attend the clinic again this year, to be held in Guelph, Ontario. It promises to be the largest in the world and the most exciting that has ever been held. The national clinic commences on August 25 and runs until Sept. 4.

The Legion also announces that it will host the B.C. Age Class and JOTP championships this year. The meet will be a combined age class and JOTP affair held at Richmond, B.C. on August 7, 8 and 9.

Those interested in either attending or helping to arrange one of these clinics please contact your Legion zone commander or Pacific Command office, 1531 W. Pender St., Vancouver, B.C.

Daffodil tea day glorious

A glorious spring day favored the Halfmoon Bay Hospital Auxiliary's Daffodil Tea on April 18, bringing enthusiastic buyers from Sechelt and even Gibsons. The first stall to be completely sold out was the table laden with home baked pies, bread, and cakes, presided over by Mrs. Ron Robinson and Mrs. F. Warne Mrs. P. Jorgensen and Mrs. P. Murphy did a thriving business with sewing, plants and flowers.

Mrs. P. Meuse, in charge of tea tickets and raffles, was assisted by Mrs. J. H. McLean. Dainty teas were served at tables decorated with choice daffodil blooms by Mesdames Q. Burrows, E. Holgate and G. Rutherford. The door prize, a pen and stationery set, was won by Mrs. Bert James. Mrs. F. Warne won the cake raffle and Archie Rutherford was the happy winner of a redwood hanging basket planted with geraniums, fuchsias and other plants. A set of sheets and pillow cases was won by Mrs. Tag Nygard.

Augmented by a surprise donation of $500, the results of the sale exceeded the wildest dreams of the group. The members thank all who helped to make the afternoon such an outstanding success.

Guides keep hike secret

If it's true that girls can't keep a secret, then the 22 Guides of the Roberts Creek Company must be the exception which proves the rule. A surprise hike, the details worked out by the girls, was arranged for Saturday and not a scrap of information leaked to the leaders.

This time the leaders were blindfolded and relief drivers took over taking a circuitous route around the Forestry campsite and then returning to Pelle Rd. The remainder of the trip to the Wilson homestead was on foot, the Guides directing their sightless leaders and safely negotiating obstacles and puddles. On arrival Mrs. Allen was able to describe correctly the route taken.

Fires were soon burning merrily and the savory smells of a variety of lunches, steak, hamburger, beans and weiners drifted across the old orchard. A treasure hunt laid by the senior patrol provided fun and candy for all and there was time for a game of softball before going home.

According to the 1961 census, distribution of Canada's population in that year was 69.6 percent urban and 30.4 percent rural.

Credit Union assets grow

The annual meeting of the Port Mellon Industries Credit Union last month showed three important gains. Members savings rose by $12,300. Loans to members increased by $31,600. Total assets increased by $29,600. To match this increase in business the office is now open Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings, also Wednesday evening.

The chairman of the supervisory committee made the suggestion that the directors look into the advisability of putting a preferred rate of interest on all loans up to the amount of the share balance a member holds.

The directors have completed of interest will be effective on their survey and report that Port Mellon Industries Credit Union will, for a trial period, set the rate of interest on loans at ½ of 1% per month on any loan equal to the members share balance and at 1% per month on the loan balance over the share balance. This new rate all new loans made after May 1. All loans are of course still fully covered by insurance at no cost to the members.

Members approved board recommendations of a 4½% dividend on shares and a 3% patronage refund on loans.

The membership elected O. Fosdal and R. A. Kinnee to the board of directors. Other directors still in office are J. W. Clark, president; A. S. Knowles, vice-president; R. E. Hume, C. H. Wood and E. W. Preiss. On the supervisory committee, Ted Hume was elected to complete the slate of officers consisting of T. G. Taylor, Joan Quarry, William Laing and J. Horvath.

The credit committee remains the same this year, A. Greggain, J. J. Strayhorn, William Booth, N. Rudolph and J. Bareuther.

The meeting closed with an informal discussion and coffee.

Mill workers help hospital

At the recently held annual meeting of the HSP Employees' Charity Fund the financial accounts for 1963 were submitted, showing revenue from charitable contributions of the employees of $4,075.00 and from bank interest of $6.68 for a total of $4,081.68.

The Fund made the following disbursements during 1963:

B.C. Heart Foundation	$200
Kinsmen-Kiwanis Health Centre	400
Kinsmen's Mothers' March	175
Kiwanis Easter Seal	175
Canadian Red Cross	175
Salvation Army	200
St. Mary's Hospital	200
O.E.S. Cancer Fund	200
Mt. Elphinstone Boy Scouts	200
Mt. Elphinstone Girl Guides	200
Canadian Cancer Siciety	100
C.N.I.B.	200
Children's Hospital	200
Retarded Children Association	200
St. Mary's Hospital: Balance of pledge for new Ward:	$1,250
Total	$4,075

With a surplus of the year of $6.68 and the balance carried forward from previous years of $374.39 the accounts for 1964 are opened with a balance of $381.07 available for distribution.

During the review of the operations of the Fund in 1963 it was stated that the revenues came from 501 contributors (464 in 1962). At the end of the year there were 392 contributors (384 in 1962) still on the payroll. The meeting took note that these figures represent an almost 100% participation by the permanent employees of the mill. It was also noted with great satisfaction that this high participation made it possible for the Fund to fulfill the pledge given to St. Mary's Hospital late in 1962 to supply the furnishings for a 4 bed-ward in the new hospital under construction and to have the necessary funds in the hands of the Hospital Society by the end of the year.

In the following discussion about the operations of the Fund in 1964 the meeting was advised that the anticipated revenue for 1964 would be at the same level as for 1963 or approximately $4000. Several organizations had already made application for disbursements and more are expected to come to hand in the near future. It was also stated that during 1963 a Gibsons Unit of the Canadian Cancer Society was formed and that this unit had applied to be included into the approved list of the Fund.

It was agreed that the Gibsons Unit of the Canadian Cancer Society should be placed into the permanent list with an annual contribution of $200 subject to the usual year end revision and that the permanent list should remain unchanged otherwise with the same contributions as for 1963 with the following exceptions:

Children's Hospital: If funds should be available an extra contribution should go to the Children's Hospital in view of the many local children being treated in that institution, details to be left with the secretary treasurer.

Girl Guides: Because the Mt. Elphinstone Girl Guides have no official sponsors and are restricted in raising funds the standard contribution is to be increased to $300.

St. Mary's Hospital: To assist the hospital in providing special equipment needed frequently in cases of industrial accidents the fund, at the suggestion of St. Mary's Hospital pledges to provide the necessary money for two of the three required recovery-stretchers in the amount of $920, the money to be made available by the end of 1964 at the latest. It was further agreed with St. Mary's Hospital that the four-bed ward donated by the Charity Fund should be maintained at the highest standard at all times. The Charity fund will make an annual contribution of $150 towards this purpose, if funds are available, such contribution to be reviewed annually, and the St. Mary's Hospital setting this money aside for this purpose only.

It is anticipated that the contributions earmarked in this budget wil take care of all revenues expected in 1964. However should any funds remain in the accounts, such funds in accordance with the rules of the HSP Employees' Charity fund should be donated to St. Mary's Hospital for general purposes and without conditions attached thereto.

No change in the executive committee will take place for 1964, Local 297 having confirmed their representatives for the current year. Mr. C. Beacon was re-elected chairman, Messrs. Labonte, Lockwood, Macklam, Mason and West being members of the committee, Mr. West to act as secretary-treasurer. It was also decided to leave the roster of signing officers unchanged for the current year.

Auspicious day!

The day to which all those who join Brownies look forward with excitement is the day on which they are enrolled, and becoming full members of the pack wear their uniforms for the first time. This auspicious day came around last week for three Tweenies of the 1st Gibsons Pack, Candy Harrison, Patti Hogue and Valerie McClean. Having learned the laws of the Pack they made their promise to Mrs. J. Thomas. Also present was Mrs. Tyson who brought special spring decorations for the occasion and flowers for the mothers of the three girls.

WEEKEND GUESTS

Weekend guests of the Bob Rowlands were Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Steadman of Burnaby, grandparents of Mrs. Rowland. They attended the opening of the new Health Centre. Mr. and Mrs. Steadman were very favorably impressed with the Sunshine Coast. It was their first visit

Variety night house packed

The annual PTA Variety Night played to a packed house on Friday, April 24, in the Pender Harbour High School auditorium. The program was well planned with a variety of talent.

An instrumental number by Ralph Phillips was followed by Shirley Haddock playing a piano solo The Hungarian. Piano solos were presented by Carol Lee, Dianne Lee and Ruby Anderson. Heather Duncan gave a violin solo.

Several numbers were given by Mrs. Lowes dancing school, all well done; Rusty Cunningham in I'm An Old Cowhand; Three Little Kittens by Jean Cameron and Sundi Bilcik; Alley Cats by Roberta Bain, Susan Sladey, Marjorie MacKay, Mary Cameron, Maureen Cameron; Military Tap Dance by Neil McLellan and Lorraine Bilcik; Twelfth Street Rag by April Walker, Barbara Cameron and Korilie Kilborn.

A solo acrobatic dance by Shirley Gooldrup was breathtaking. Llona Duncan presented a tap dance. Senior girls Janice Northrup, Llona Duncan, Linda Hately, Glenna Duncan and Nora Warnock gave two numbers Going West and Banana Boat Song. The costumes were magnificent and appropriate

The junior and senior square dance group under direction of Mrs. McLellan gave three numbers. The Elementary School put on a Ball Drill by grade seven girls. Visits were made by the Beatles and the Dave Clark Five. The High School boys gave a fine tumbling act and Don Mcleod and Nora Warnock gave two dance numbers.

The show ended with the trio of Pender Harbour Music Lovers who composed their own song The Last Duck. They also did The Man on the Flying Trapeze and Grandfathers Clock. This group is quite versatile, each taking a turn on different instruments.

All in all, this was a very entertaining show. Proceeds go to the PTA Bursary Fund.

Gold Cord Guide

On Sat., April 11, 1st Gibsons Guide Company welcomed Ranger Wendy Shutt, age 17, from Port Coquitlam, who was working towards her Gold Cord.

Wendy conducted the meeting, introducing new games and songs. On Sunday her schedule included attending church, followed by a weiner roast at the home of Commissioner Thomas.

On Sat., April 18, 1st Gibsons Guide Company hiked from the School Hall in Gibsons to the beach at Gower Point, where each Guide cooked her own lunch over the campfire.
