MRS. JOAN HEADLEY

Arts to get boost

Mrs. Joan S. Headley, wife of the newly appointed music supervisor for the Sechelt School district is also an accomplished artist. Having majored in music at the University of California she has performed as a concert pianist and soloist with symphony orchestras in California as well as acting as accompanist for vocal and instrumental groups and singing in choirs and choral ensembles.

Mrs. Headley has also spent many years studying ballet both in the States and in Vancouver, and although she is for the most part Russian trained she has widened her artistic experience through an understanding of differing concepts of ballet techniques. Recently she taught both music and dancing at York House School in Vancouver and Night School classes for the Vancouver School Board.

Dedicated artists continue to live for their own individual conception of truth and endeavour to share it with others, as it cannot just be stored away while life goes on at another level. For this reason and without desire to compete with existing ballet instruction Mrs. Headley is starting ballet classes in Gibsons. The type of training offered, classwork content and style will be of the Russian school. Classes for boys and girls aged 8 and up will begin on Oct. 2 at the Christian Education centre of the United Church. Further details can be found in the advertisement

A surprise

The first day of school at Roberts Creek was filled with surprise and joy for teachers and pupils alike. Three spacious rooms were added during the summer, a fine library, another classroom and an activity room complete with stage.

Light, airy and pastel-colored the five classrooms are equipped with all manner of teaching aids. Miss L. Linklater has joined the staff. Workmen still have unfinished business at the school.

Oscar winner to show films

If you've never heard of Norman McLaren before don't let it deter you from taking part in Gibsons' first Film Festival, Sept. 21 and 22 at the Elementary School.

Norman McLaren is better known around the world, especially in the States and Europe, where his films are frequent award winners at International Film Festivals, than he is in Canada. He has won more awards, 66 in the last 15 years including a Hollywood Academy Oscar, than any other film maker, and brought renown to the Canadian National Film Board with whom he has worked since 1941. All the films to be presented at the Gibsons Film Festival have won awards.

Norman McLaren was born in Scotland in 1914, and during the years he studied at the Glasgow School of Art he was fascinated by the possibilities and scope of film making. Being like most students impecunious, he begged lengths of used film, patiently cleaned them and then with paint and ink experimented with new techniques. He has always been a believer in the creative stimulus of a low budget, the less money there is, he says, the more imagination there has to be. His success has inspired young film makers around the world to go ahead undeterred by lack of money or equipment.

Few of Norman McLaren's films last much more than five minutes. To perfect a small masterpiece he takes a roll of clear film, about 500 yards long and adjusted to give people the freedom of animated characters, and stereographic animation in which flat two dimensional material is given three dimensional effects.

A representative selection of films has been chosen for the Gibsons Festival which is sponsored by the school board, the Royal Bank of Canada and the National Film Board.

1½ inches wide, on which he draws a succession of miniature pictures, each ¾ in. by ⅝ in. with space and the possibilities of a fourth and fifth dimension have been the stimulus for his continual experimentation and his perfection of five techniques with which his name is most widely associated. These are hand-drawn and painted films made without a camera, films made by photographing a still painting, animated sound created by drawing directly on the sound track, the live actor technique in which camera and acting speeds are Each picture differs slightly from the previous ones. Since a projector flashes 24 separate images on the screen per second, over 7,000 drawings are required to make five minutes of screen time.

Fascination with techniques,

Navigation course likely

The Canadian Power Squadrons have offered to run the public schools night school course on sailing and navigation. The course announced last week by Ray Chamberlin, assistant secretary-treasurer of the school board, will be under the guidance of the Canadian Power Squadrons providing there are ten or more applicants.

The Canadian Power Squadrons is a national, non-profit, educational organization of small boat operators, men and women, who learn to handle their boats expertly, and to understand simple navigation through the training courses which they sponsor.

Mr. Bert Scott, program chairman of the Vancouver Power Squadron states that the organization is most interested in the formation of a squadron in this area.

Musical show for Tidewater

The muses, after a summer's rest, are back to plague the creative and acting instincts of members of the Players' Club. So much so that, at a meeting held at the Bud Blatchford home, it was decided to tackle a musical comedy for an early fall release. The need of a director is urgent and a plea is sent out for anyone who could undertake the job. Numbers to call are 886-7714 or any club member.

Tidewater Players Club is anxious to enlarge its membership and invites anyone who is interested to get in touch or drop in at the hall, Roberts Creek, at the next meeting, Sunday, Sept. 19 at 8 p.m. Needed are singers, dancers, musicians, stage hands, dress designers, make-up experts hair stylists, artists, coffee makers (instant) typists — you name it.

New music supervisor

Among newcomers to this community are a talented husband and wife, Mr. and Mrs. H. Klyne Headley. Mr. Headley is a distinguished pianist, composer and conductor, whose works are included in the repertoire of major symphony orchestras in North and South America and Europe, and who has devoted much of his time and talent to encourage others to express themselves creatively.

During the past 25 years he has been instrumental in bringing together those interested in the visual and performing arts to form community councils of the arts. This work has flourished in Santa Barbara, California, Seattle in the U.S. and most recently in Langley, B.C.

The people of Langley, a small farming community in the Fraser

H. KLYNE HEADLEY

Valley found to their surprise that they had a wealth of talent in their own neighborhood upon which to draw. Their first project, a Miniature Showcase discovered a wonderful variety and quality of things being created, pottery, pictures, Indian carvings, photographs, books and writings and all manner of handicrafts, which help to stimulate others to use their leisure time creatively.

Mr. Headley believes those in rural areas do not need to stagnate culturally if those who get satisfaction from creative activity, whether it is music, pictures, dance, write, build, construct or take pictures get together and pool their resources. He is particularly anxious to provide for children and young people the opportunity to express themselves creatively and to promote more and better entertainment and recreation for them, that they may develop an appreciation of and participate in that which is produced with skill and taste.

Mr. Headley takes up his appointment as music supervisor for the school district this week.

VICTIM OF BEATING

Peter Williamson who died as a result of a brutal beating in Vancouver on Augst 28 was a frequent visitor to the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Marguerite Meuse in Halfmoon Bay and was well known there and greatly loved by all who knew him. This gentle young man who liked music and poetry was a thoughtful and considerate grandson whose visits to the Meuse home were something to be looked forward to eagerly and memories to treasure when he had gone. The whole of Halfmoon Bay feels his death as a personal tragedy. Const. D. B. Roth of Gibsons RCMP detachment also knew him.

TOURIST MEETING

Suggestions for a new rate structure for the Sunshine Coast Tourist association will be dealt with at an executive meeting of the association at Ole's Cove, Sunday, Sept. 12 starting at 10:30 am.

A general meeting of the organization will follow starting at 2 p.m. when all members will hear of any suggestion the executive might have. There will also be discussion on what can be done by the association during the winter months

FIRST FALL MEETING

The first fall meeting of Roberts Creek Community association was held Wednesday night of this week. A report on what developed at the meeting will be carried next week.

CHISHOLM TO SPEAK

Sponsored by the Unitarian group, Dr. Brock Chisholm, professor of clinical psychiatry at UBC, will speak in Roberts Creek Community Hall on Sept. 16 at 8 p.m. His subject will be Our Ancestral Pattern. Since Dr. Chisholm is widely known through his many articles and books, a large crowd is expected. Should there be a question and answer period, an entertaining evening is guaranteed.

Rezoning up again

Rezoning problems came before Sechelt's council at last week's meeting when an application by Frank Hall for a trailer court on 1.47 acres of land on Porpoise Bay road, not far from the wharf.

Councillor Bernel Gordon opposed the plan owing to smallness of the land available. He was of the opinion that council might as well throw out the zoning bylaw if council intended to change it whenever an application was made for some type of construction.

Chairman Mrs. Christine Johnston argued that council should look over its zoning bylaw and thought a committee meeting should be held for this purpose. Council agreed in principle on Mr. Hall's application.

When Councillor Joseph Benner mentioned that the swim classes for this summer had gone $350 in the hole, Councillor Gordon spoke up and said he did not think Sechelt should bail out these classes when those taking part came from a wide area outside Sechelt. Council decided to foot the bill.

Sechelt Air Services was given council's approval of a plan to attach a float to the present federal government float in Porpoise Bay area. However plans must be submitted to council before work starts. According to a department of transport letter the float must be made available for public use at all times and must assume all damage responsibility to persons or property. The company must make its own arrangement for obtaining the necessary water lot lease.

Council has decided to seek abandonment of the waterfront roadway from Ocean Ave. westward owing to the heavily rocked area involved.

Councillor Benner sought an arrangement with the Sechelt band for a meeting to discuss the inclusion of the populated area of the reserve in the boundaries of the village of Sechelt. Similar discussions will be sought with the West Sechelt Water Improvement District.

Boathouses scrutinized

To avoid a waterfront filled with shanty type boathouses, Gibsons municipal council at its meeting on Tuesday evening last week decided to keep a close eye on such construction.

The matter came before council when Mrs. A. McGowan, Skyline Drive, Georgia Heights sought a building permit for a boathouse on the shoreline of the McGowan property. Councillors, who had discussed this same request about one year ago, decided that cedar shake type of construction would not be allowed. It was hoped that a cement foundation type of building would be considered and that the building would blend with its surroundings.

The application sought a 12x18 foot building to cost $300. The permit was granted under strict supervision of the building inspector.

James Setchfield was granted a permit to build a $300 carport and Stephen Gerard of Rits Motel a permit for construction of a $1,000 13 x 12 ft. storage shed.

The desk and chair which councillors used in the old municipal hall and retired when they moved into the new hall were not sold after all. Council decided to allow Les Peterson have the use of them in the museum which is to be established in the basement of the new municipal hall.

A tough moving job!

When the lady of the house becomes involved in a moving job and becomes relatively settled in her new home, she does not desire to throw open her home to all comers until she is satisfied in her own mind that the place is acceptable to viewers.

This is pretty much the situation around the Coast News office. The moving job is relatively complete but is not acceptable in the minds of the moving spirits behind the Coast News for open inspection by the public.

Such inspection will be in order, say three weeks from now. It could even longer than that. However the public will have a chance to see the new Coast News plant in good time. There are numerous wrinkles to be ironed out and they take time. This issue, the first run from the newly installed press, reveals what can be done and what might have to be done before the staff can settle down to routine operation.

There is also that disrupting situation in which you know you have everything safely moved but just where everything is — that is the mystery. Mark Twain's expresion that you should have a place for everything but keep the thing somewhere else, is being carried out completely. It will take time to get a place for everything established.

In the meantime the staff will struggle through each day hoping for the proper orderliness to appear. So any errors or omissions that occur should be received with some of that attitude known as the milk of human kindness.

How about some help?

Once again this publication will press for formation of a community club to get the best out of all our organizations when there is a major type of function to be organized.

While stressing that this pressure is intended for Gibsons organizations, it could apply to Roberts Creek, Sechelt, Pender Harbour and any other point where there is more than one organization operating.

The suggestion was raised again after completion of the Gibsons Firemen's annual swim event. It was felt such an event was too large for one organization to tackle and that there should be a wider voluntary effort to get the best minds at work on future functions.

Such an organization of minds could help improve the annual fall fair, the July 1 celebration, could get behind any ball league or soccer league effort and generally be a community committee with representatives from all organizations putting their best foot forward for the general improvement of everything that is planned for the area.

Minute message

Prepare ye the way of the Lord. Mathew 3:3, Mark 1:3, Luke 3:4.

September means back to work for many, and back to hard studies for the children. Education is necessary that children might prepare themselves for the future, and work is needful that others prepare for later years as well as the present.

While great effort is put forth to prepare ourselves for a future that is only temporary and uncertain, "And as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgement" Heb. 9:27, what thought do we take to prepare ourselves for eternity.

If we neglect our studies, failure will result; to neglect our work, our income will suffer, but God's Word says in Heb. 2:3 "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation."

Schools have been prepared for our education, work is prepared for our living, but God has prepared a way of salvation from the penalty of sin, "For the wages of sin is death, but the Gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." Romans 6:23. "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." John 3:16.

Rev. Walter S. Ackroyd, Pender Harbour Tabernacle, Madeira Park.

Picked up in passing

The publishers of Coastal Cruising, a guide to west coast boating enthusiasts by Will Dawson, announce the release of a second enlarged edition.

This popular book, on the Vancouver best seller list for six weeks, recommended to all pleasure boat operators by the department of recreation of the B.C. provincial government is now available with all first edition material revised and brought up to date and an important enlargement of two additional sections covering the Inside Passage to Alaska.

Between the northern point of Vancouver Island and Alaska, thousands of square miles of coast and island include sheltered waterways, broad sounds, clear passages and majestic inlets to delight the pleasure cruiser and provide a safe cruising ground with no long and difficult deep sea passages in between. Only four stretches of water are open to the Pacific and of these the longest is 28 miles.

Pages of cruising maps give a clear guide to each cruising area and information on radio and navigational aids, weather, tides and currents and services available make this second edition a better-than-ever guide for all those who cruise the western coastal waters between Puget Sound and Alaska.

Mitchell Press Limited, Vancouver are publishers of this book with 258 pages with illustrations. It costs $6.95, but for amateur navigation is priceless.

To those people who are interested in supplying homes for senior citizens, the following Ottawa press release should be of interest:

Approval of a $111,426 federal government loan to assist in the construction of a housing project for elderly persons in West Vancouver, British Columbia, has been announced by the Hon. John R. Nicholson, minister responsible to parliament for Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Provided under the National Housing Act, the loan will be made to the West Vancouver Senior Citizens' Housing Society, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of West Vancouver. It will be repayable over a period of 50 years with interest at 5⅜ percent per annum.

The Official Guide Book for the 1967 World Exhibition in Montreal is in preparation. Designed to be a handy reference for visitors on the Expo site, it will include a full-color souvenir map. The 5½ x 8" booklet will have 300 pages, with 60 percent editorial and the remainder advertising by Expo exhibitors, hotels, restaurants and other businesses. The first press run of the booklet is expected to be 600,000 in English and French. Maclean-Hunter Publishing Company of Toronto will produce the publication for the Exhibition Corporation.

Medicare financing discussed

By JACK DAVIS, M.P.
Coast-Capilano Constituency

Ottawa's plan for medical services boils down to a conditional offer of financial assistance to the provinces. Mr. Pearson also made it clear in his opening statement at the recent federal-provincial conference that his government was not launching another shared-cost program; instead it offered to support provincial medicare plans by means of a contribution of pre-determined size.

Four conditions were laid down by the prime minister. They were to the effect that medical benefits must meet the full cost of the doctors care, must be universal, must be publicly administered and must, above all, be portable from one province and from one part of the country to another. Minimum standards would be set up and Canadians, under this scheme would be free to move taking their benefits with them.

One fear at least was removed. Medicare will not result in a vast bureaucracy centrally controlled and operated from Ottawa. What we are going to have, if Mr. Pearson's ideas are acceptable, is a series of provincial plans, differing in some details but basically the same, to which the Federal government will give money and such expert advice as can be provided more efficiently by the nation acting as a whole.

The reaction of the provinces varied from province to province. Mr. Lesage, of Quebec, for once, was reasonably happy. Mr. Robarts, speaking for Ontario, saw some form of medicare as inevitable. The Maritime provinces are all for it because this means more cash from the federal treasury. Saskatchewan already has an universal scheme in effect, and B.C. is moving, step by step, in that direction.

Only Premier Manning of Alberta expressed outright opposition to the scheme. He and later Premier Roblin of Manitoba both thought that the provincial plans should be voluntary, not universal, and that the private insurance companies should be allowed to act as carriers in financing schemes of this kind.

There are other complications. Medicare available on a universal basis and paid for largely out of the general reserve of the nation will cause a spurt in the demand for services of various kinds. Medical personnel will certainly be in short supply. So Mr. Pearson is also advocating the creation of a central fund for the construction of research facilities, teaching hospitals and top rate medical schools.

All told it is a package with which it is difficult to quarrel.

There will be those, myself included, who will wish that the doctor-sponsored plans could have been given a place. But this is not to be. So let us hope therefore that the doctors will bury their differences and, by helping to shape our provincial plan, will make the overall national health scheme their own.

Spotlight on education

Now B.C. Tel helps schools broaden the process of learning

What in the world can television be doing in the modern classroom! Here's the simple answer.

Closed Circuit ETV (Educational Television) is a marvel of the electronic age. It has brought a new dimension into education.

Affairs are truly current in Social Studies. Science demonstrations come alive on the television screen. Languages sound right and even look right! Mathematics takes the student step by step through its fascinating course of quantities and relationships.

Research has shown that students can retain as much as 80% of what they see and hear on ETV, and they find each subject more interesting too.

Already, closed circuit ETV is regarded as an aid to teaching at the Faculty of Education at the University of British Columbia, the Vancouver School Board's Continuing Education Centre and the Kamloops School District.

This is yet another example of how B.C. TEL is providing the highest possible standard of communications to get the right information to the right place at the right time.

Those mother-goes-out blues!

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Junior makes such a fuss when I go out that some days I almost turn around at the door and stay home," Mrs. Black confided in a friend. "At other times I'm tempted to deceive him about going out."

If you do that, he'll lose his confidence in you. But he should not think he can make you stay home by crying. Perhaps you can help Junior by getting him used to the idea of your leaving a little ahead of time.

Prepare your child by telling what you're going to be doing when you are away from him. State exactly when you will be back — "by supper time" or "before Daddy comes home from the office." If he is four or five, show him where the big and little hands of the clock will be when he can start watching for your return.

When you come back, take time to describe to him something you have seen or done. If possible bring some little surprise home with you, such as a pretty serviette from an afternoon tea party.

It is much easier for your child to take your going "in his stride" if he enjoys the company of the grown-up who is caring for him. Have you discovered that there is no better substitute for mother than father?

A man may feel awkward or inadequate in his first baby-sitting sessions. But there is nothing that will make him prouder of his youngster. Son or daughter discovers that it is fun to have daddy in charge. Together they can wave farewell quite happily.

As baby sitters, grandmothers and aunts often rate high too. Most mothers have a list of two or three reliable older girls or women who are fond of children and know their child's schedule.

Each friendly person who cares for your little boy or girl increases his confidence in other people outside the home circle. But too many different sitters are confusing to a child.

One of the most inexpensive daytime child-caring schemes is a barter plan between two mothers. You care for Mrs. Smith's Susan in your home one afternoon and she looks after your Billy on another afternoon. If this is a regular arrangement the two children will likely look forward to their time together.

A busy child is a happy one and you should plan possible activities for your child in your absence. Have a few toys, a favorite story book or dolly put away which are only enjoyed at these special times.

If father takes a turn at minding his youngster, perhaps he could make a set of home-made blocks or a simple jig-saw puzzle, or a little pull toy for Junior.

If your child attends nursery school during the week, or a nursery class session during the morning church service, you will notice his growth in emotional independence.

Tehse short periods of time away from mother are filled with interesting activity under a teacher whom he knows and loves. Why should he not be quite satisfied for Mother to leave him?

Occasionally, pictures in a newspaper or conversation he hears of a house being broken into, or children being trapped in a burning home, make a child approaching school age terrified of burglars or fire.

Mother should try to discover what is worrying him, if suddenly he clings to her and doesn't want her to leave. If he can talk about his fears and be re-assured of his safety he is not so likely to rebel against mother's occasional departures.

The Canada Pension Plan and its benefits

Here is what the Canada Pension Plan will do for people like Mary Todd, a 22-year-old nurse who earns $310 a month ($3,720 a year).

If Mary's earnings continue at this rate until she reaches age 65, she will receive a retirement pension of $77.50 a month from the Plan plus $75 a month Old Age Security.

Because Mary will have the opportunity of contributing for 43 years, she can have as many as 6½ years of lower or no earnings and still be entitled to the same pension.

Actually, Mary's retirement pension will undoubtedly be more. This is because as Mary advances in her profession and her earnings increase so will her pension. Furthermore, to ensure that all benefits under the Plan maintain their value, they will be adjusted to meet changes in living costs and wage levels before they are paid and changes in living costs after they become payable.

If Mary continues to work and becomes disabled at any time after 1970, she will be entitled to a disability pension of $83.12 a month until she reaches age 65. From then on she will receive her retirement pension as well as $75 a month from Old Age Security.

If Mary dies any time after 1967, having contributed until her death, a lump sum payment of $465 will be paid to her estate.

What will the Plan cost you?

If, like Mary, you are employed and have earnings of $3,720 spread evenly over the year, you will pay at the rate of $4.68 a month. Your employer will pay the same amount.

This advertisement is one of a series which relates some of the important benefits of the Canada Pension Plan to individual circumstances.

authority of the Minister of National Health and Welfare,

Overseas postage changes made

Hon. Rene Tremblay, postmaster general, announces several changes in postage rates to other countries effective Jan. 1966, to coincide with the coming into force of the Universal Postal Convention adopted at the last Congress of the Universal Postal Union.

An increase in these rates to certain countries is necessary at this time, Mr. Tremblay explained, in order to compensate for additional transportation charges and mail handling costs in the international service. Countries handling mail in transit from other countries assess charges set by Universal Postal Union agreement on the country of origin.

There will be no charge in the rates on letters and postcards to the United States, its territories and possessions, other countries of North, Central and South America, the West Indies, Great Britain and the Commonwealth, Republic of Ireland, France and Spain. To all other countries, letters sent by surface means will be subject to a new rate of 10 cents for the first ounce and six cents for each additional ounce or fraction thereof .The rate for postcards will be six cents each.

For printed matter and samples a new rate of four cents for the first two ounces and two cents for each additional two ounces or fraction thereof will apply to other countries, with the exception of countries of North, Central and South America and Spain to which the domestic printed matter rate of three cents for the first two ounces and one cent for each additional two ounces and the domestic sample rate of four cents for the first two ounces and one cent for each additional two ounces will continue to apply.

In addition, surface parcel post rates undergo an adjustment and a significant change in structure. In the present complex parcel post rate structure there are some 230 different sets of rates depending on routing and the country to which the parcels are sent. After Jan. 1 this number will be reduced to four.

The new rates, with the exception of those to the United States, its territories and possessions which remain unchanged, will apply to three distinct zones rather than to individual countries. Great Britain and countries in the Americas, excluding the United States, will comprise Zone 1; Europe and Africa will constitute Zone 2; while Oceania, including Australia and New Zealand, and Asia will make up Zone 3.

Vines get cut down

A couple of members of the Roberts Creek Red Cross group were seen Friday morning busily attacking the blackberry vines, weeds and grasses that surrounded the Red Cross headquarters. With gifts of furniture and more renovating the house will be ready for the fall meetings soon to begin. Members are looking forward to moving into their own building which is the one recently vacated by the library and is owned by the Community Association.

A member who will not be present is Miss Ada Dawson who will spend much of her time at St. Judes this winter and coming only to visit. A member of the Community Association, she was presented with a leather handbag upon her departure. She was a faithful attendant at meetings.

A retired music teacher, Miss Dawson came to the Creek in 1947 with her sister, Mrs. Annie Taggart, and bought Mr. H. McMahon's original home on Beach Avenue. After Mrs. Taggart's death Miss Dawson remained alone, and although she is in her 89th year, this summer her flowers bloomed and were cared for by her as usual.

MOVIE NEWS

Edie is a lady and Anita's—well, Anitas a baddy—in the new Bob Hope comedy in color for United Artists release Call Me Bwana, Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Twilight Theatre, Gibsons.

Edie—Edie Adams, that is—accompanies Bob on a trip to Africa to see that he behaves. Anita—meaning Anita Ekberg, cast as a foreign spy to pry some secrets from him, is under orders to see that he misbehaves. Arnold Palmer the golf champ is also in the cast of this Saltzman-Broccoli production directed by Gordon Douglas.

Wives and Lovers, which will be shown Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, has a star-studded cast headed by Janet Leigh, Van Johnson, Shelly Winters, Martha Hyer, Ray Walston and Jeremy Slate.

Wives and Lovers is the hilarious story of today's young moderns, and their problems with money, not too little, but too much! Johnson is seen as a struggling writer, while his wife (Miss Leigh) gets a job to keep the hamburgers burning at home. The sudden sale of Johnson's book, as a novel, a play and a movie, brings them instant wealth, which goes to his head—and another

Board's office site uncertain

At the last meeting of Sechelt School District board the problem of construction of an office for the board was placed before the board by the construction committee. It is the desire of the board to construct a building to contain all ancillary departments which come under board control so as to house all in one building.

The construction committee which investigated location only had recommended that the building be erected on the old School Hall site, now used as a maintenance workshop for the school district. On recommendation of Sechelt and Pender Harbour trustees is was decided to eliminate from the resolution presented by the committee the naming of a site so that further discussion could take place on this point. What was left in the motion was the fact that cost of such construction be included in the next school district referendum. If it was included and passed by the voters it could be close to 18 months before such a building would be ready.

Mrs. Muriel Ball, trustee representing Roberts Creek area, placed her resignation before the board which was accepted. Mrs. Ball had mentioned earlier that in view of her daughter attending university it would mean she would have to give her home and family more attention.

Sechelt News

Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Fergusson spent ten days in charge of 70 13 year old girls at Camp Artaban on Gambier Island. They report that they found the experience a most satisfying and inspiring one and those who know anything of their work among teenagers will have no doubt that for the girls too it was a happy and stimulating holiday.

Services were informal, held sometimes in the little open air church and sometimes out on the end of the wharf. The girls were encouraged to prepare the services, composing prayers and writing their own hymns which could be sung to the accompaniment of guitars. Apart from the Fergussons' guitars, three of the girls had brought theirs, so there was music and fun a-plenty.

The next meeting of the Sechelt branch of the O.A.P.O. will be held on Thursday ,Sept. 16 at St. Hilda's Church Hall where a program of music and community singing will be arranged

Cliff Connor is convalescing at South Pine Rest Home in Vancouver.

In St. Mary's Hospital following a stroke is Mrs. Mabel MacFarlane of West Sechelt.

Mrs. Ruth Mitchell, Lower Road, and her sister, Mrs. M. H. Bell of Seattle, have returned to the former's home following a vacation trip to Edmonton, Banff, Lake Louise and Jasper. They encountered rain in Alberta and some snow in the mountains, but for the most part the weather was perfect.

Guests at the Crocker home have been Mr. and Mrs. J. M. R. McCrea, Portland; Mr. and Mrs. V. M. Rennie, Berta and Dick and Mrs M. Nayior, all of San Francisco. At present Mrs. Crocker's sister, Mrs. Alita Mayne is visiting from Ontario.

Miss Lynne Gibson expects to attend Vancouver Art School this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Clark (Kitty Ripley) were down from Fort St. John to spend their vacation with thhe N. Clarks at Redrooffs and visited at the Creek where Mrs. Clark lived and attended school.

Erica and Ted Ball are leaving for Vancouver where they will attend SFU. Erica will be skipping Grade 12.

Among those summer residents returning early to the city were the Boggis and Craighead families.

Miss M. Fellowes, finished with her Guide Camp counselling for the summer, spent a week at the family summer home on Crow Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Galliford, Michael and Stevie, Vancouver, spent ten days at the Galliford beach house. Mrs. Lou Jackson has also been a guest there

Overseas postage changes made

Hon. Rene Tremblay, postmaster general, announces several changes in postage rates to other countries effective Jan. 1966, to coincide with the coming into force of the Universal Postal Convention adopted at the last Congress of the Universal Postal Union.

An increase in these rates to certain countries is necessary at this time, Mr. Tremblay explained, in order to compensate for additional transportation charges and mail handling costs in the international service. Countries handling mail in transit from other countries assess charges set by Universal Postal Union agreement on the country of origin.

There will be no charge in the rates on letters and postcards to the United States, its territories and possessions, other countries of North, Central and South America, the West Indies, Great Britain and the Commonwealth, Republic of Ireland, France and Spain. To all other countries, letters sent by surface means will be subject to a new rate of 10 cents for the first ounce and six cents for each additional ounce or fraction thereof .The rate for postcards will be six cents each.

For printed matter and samples a new rate of four cents for the first two ounces and two cents for each additional two ounces or fraction thereof will apply to other countries, with the exception of countries of North, Central and South America and Spain to which the domestic printed matter rate of three cents for the first two ounces and one cent for each additional two ounces and the domestic sample rate of four cents for the first two ounces and one cent for each additional two ounces will continue to apply.

In addition, surface parcel post rates undergo an adjustment and a significant change in structure. In the present complex parcel post rate structure there are some 230 different sets of rates depending on routing and the country to which the parcels are sent. After Jan. 1 this number will be reduced to four.

The new rates, with the exception of those to the United States, its territories and possessions which remain unchanged, will apply to three distinct zones rather than to individual countries. Great Britain and countries in the Americas, excluding the United States, will comprise Zone 1; Europe and Africa will constitute Zone 2; while Oceania, including Australia and New Zealand, and Asia will make up Zone 3.

Vines get cut down

A couple of members of the Roberts Creek Red Cross group were seen Friday morning busily attacking the blackberry vines, weeds and grasses that surrounded the Red Cross headquarters. With gifts of furniture and more renovating the house will be ready for the fall meetings soon to begin. Members are looking forward to moving into their own building which is the one recently vacated by the library and is owned by the Community Association.

A member who will not be present is Miss Ada Dawson who will spend much of her time at St. Judes this winter and coming only to visit. A member of the Community Association, she was presented with a leather handbag upon her departure. She was a faithful attendant at meetings.

A retired music teacher, Miss Dawson came to the Creek in 1947 with her sister, Mrs. Annie Taggart, and bought Mr. H. McMahon's original home on Beach Avenue. After Mrs. Taggart's death Miss Dawson remained alone, and although she is in her 89th year, this summer her flowers bloomed and were cared for by her as usual.

MOVIE NEWS

Edie is a lady and Anita's—well, Anitas a baddy—in the new Bob Hope comedy in color for United Artists release Call Me Bwana, Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Twilight Theatre, Gibsons.

Edie—Edie Adams, that is—accompanies Bob on a trip to Africa to see that he behaves. Anita—meaning Anita Ekberg, cast as a foreign spy to pry some secrets from him, is under orders to see that he misbehaves. Arnold Palmer the golf champ is also in the cast of this Saltzman-Broccoli production directed by Gordon Douglas.

Wives and Lovers, which will be shown Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, has a star-studded cast headed by Janet Leigh, Van Johnson, Shelly Winters, Martha Hyer, Ray Walston and Jeremy Slate.

Wives and Lovers is the hilarious story of today's young moderns, and their problems with money, not too little, but too much! Johnson is seen as a struggling writer, while his wife (Miss Leigh) gets a job to keep the hamburgers burning at home. The sudden sale of Johnson's book, as a novel, a play and a movie, brings them instant wealth, which goes to his head—and another woman's boudoir.

Board's office site uncertain

At the last meeting of Sechelt School District board the problem of construction of an office for the board was placed before the board by the construction committee. It is the desire of the board to construct a building to contain all ancillary departments which come under board control so as to house all in one building.

The construction committee which investigated location only had recommended that the building be erected on the old School Hall site, now used as a maintenance workshop for the school district. On recommendation of Sechelt and Pender Harbour trustees is was decided to eliminate from the resolution presented by the committee the naming of a site so that further discussion could take place on this point. What was left in the motion was the fact that cost of such construction be included in the next school district referendum. If it was included and passed by the voters it could be close to 18 months before such a building would be ready.

Mrs. Muriel Ball, trustee representing Roberts Creek area, placed her resignation before the board which was accepted. Mrs. Ball had mentioned earlier that in view of her daughter attending university it would mean she would have to give her home and family more attention.

Sechelt News

Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Fergusson spent ten days in charge of 70 13 year old girls at Camp Artaban on Gambier Island. They report that they found the experience a most satisfying and inspiring one and those who know anything of their work among teenagers will have no doubt that for the girls too it was a happy and stimulating holiday.

Services were informal, held sometimes in the little open air church and sometimes out on the end of the wharf. The girls were encouraged to prepare the services, composing prayers and writing their own hymns which could be sung to the accompaniment of guitars. Apart from the Fergussons' guitars, three of the girls had brought theirs, so there was music and fun a-plenty.

The next meeting of the Sechelt branch of the O.A.P.O. will be held on Thursday ,Sept. 16 at St. Hilda's Church Hall where a program of music and community singing will be arranged

Cliff Connor is convalescing at South Pine Rest Home in Vancouver.

In St. Mary's Hospital following a stroke is Mrs. Mabel MacFarlane of West Sechelt.

Roberts Creek items

Mrs. Ruth Mitchell, Lower Road, and her sister, Mrs. M. H. Bell of Seattle, have returned to the former's home following a vacation trip to Edmonton, Banff, Lake Louise and Jasper. They encountered rain in Alberta and some snow in the mountains, but for the most part the weather was perfect.

The OES had a good turnout at their first meeting of the season on Thursday night.

The Roberts Creek Auxiliary to the Hospital will hold a meeting on Sept. 13.

The Peter Christmas family chose a hunting trip for their summer vacation.

Guests at the Crocker home have been Mr. and Mrs. J. M. R. McCrea, Portland; Mr. and Mrs. V. M. Rennie, Berta and Dick and Mrs M. Naylor, all of San Francisco. At present Mrs. Crocker's sister, Mrs. Alita Mayne is visiting from Ontario.

Miss Lynne Gibson expects to attend Vancouver Art School this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Clark (Kitty Ripley) were down from Fort St. John to spend their vacation with thhe N. Clarks at Redrooffs and visited at the Creek where Mrs. Clark lived and attended school.

Erica and Ted Ball are leaving for Vancouver where they will attend SFU. Erica will be skipping Grade 12.

Among those summer residents returning early to the city were the Boggis and Craighead families.

Miss M. Fellowes, finished with her Guide Camp counselling for the summer, spent a week at the family summer home on Crow Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Galliford, Michael and Stevie, Vancouver, spent ten days at the Galliford beach house. Mrs. Lou Jackson has also been a guest there

Mr. and Mrs. W. Hartle have returned to their home on Crow Road after spending much of the summer in the interior

TURTLE PACE TRAFFIC

A game department reports on the interest that is engendered when wildlife is seen in unlikely places. This was demonstrated at Creston in early May. When a turtle chose to wander down the middle of the main street, the mid-day traffic was tied up and dozens of curious people gathered around to examine the out-of-place creature.

PREMIER BENNETT at the wheel of new B.C. ferry Queen of Powell River, following commissioning ceremonies August 25th at Saltery Bay terminal. With the Premier is Mrs. Isabel Dawson, president of the Social Credit organization n Mackenzie constituency. Fifty car ferry will speed up servce on the Jervis Inlet crossing linking the pulp and paper community of Powell River with the Sunshine Coast Lower Mainland centres.

New ferry operating

Commissioning ceremonies for the new Powell River Queen took place Wed., Aug. 25 at Saltery Bay on the north side of Jervis Inlet. The new, 50-car ferry is now in service between Earl Cove and Saltery Bay on the Sunshine Coast Highway linking Vancouver and Powell River.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett accepted the 207 ft. vessel on behalf of the people of British Columbia. He saluted the builders, Victoria Machinery Depot Co. Ltd. and the MacMillan Bloedel and Powell River Co. which has fostered the area's growth. He noted that the ferry demonstrates how transportation and the expanding industries of the province tie in together.

Mr. Bennett complimented captains and crews and the Ferry Authority management, Monty Aldous and Ronald Worley. He announced that the Queen of Prince Rupert, now under construction, would sail on her inaugural run to the upcoast city next May 20. This new ship, largest in the B.C. Ferry Fleet, will operate between Prince Rupert and Kelsey Bay on Vancouver Island.

Reeve Dave Pyke of Powell River presented a commemorative plaque to the ship on behalf of the citizens of Powell River. Harold Husband, president of Victoria Machinery Depot, turned over the ship to the premier.

Slug control outlined

(By C. Graham MacNay, Research Branch, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.)

Slugs annually cause considerable losses to farm, garden and greenhouse crops, especially in wet seasons and in humid regions. They eat the foliage, are particularly fond of the tender young shoots, and feed on ripe fruit, especially strawberries.

Slugs feed almost entirely at night, though some species may feed on a dull day. They and their eggs are very resistant to extremes of weather, as they are hidden in the soil and under protective objects when conditions are unfavorable. Two species, the gray garden slug and the brown slug, are the principal offenders in most of Canada. Several other species occur mainly in greenhouses or in the humid coastal regions of British Columbia.

These gray and brown species when fully grown and extended, seldom exceed two or three inches in length. They cannot be distinguished by their color, as it varies in different localities, and ther feeding habits are similar.

Slugs are completely dependent on hiding places for protection from heat and predators. To keep them out, eliminate rubbish, boards, boxes, stones, fertilizer bags and the like; keep grass and weeds cut short and crop remnants cleaned up; and, when cultivating soil, break it down to a fine tilth and a compact surface before seeding.

Protect small plantings or valuable plants with collars of wire fly screen set in the soil and projecting an inch or so above the surface with the cut edge uppermost. Strips of fly screen may also be tacked to the upper edge of a cold frame or flat, with the cut edge projecting upward. Traps are useful and may consist of places of thick bark, small boards and the like laid on the ground. Each day, collect and destroy the slugs that gather beneath them.

Metaldehyde is one of the most commonly used chemical controls. You may obtain it as a prepared bait either pelleted or unpelleted. Or, you may make your own bait by thoroughly mixing two ounces of powdered metaldehyde with four quarts of bran, shorts or oatmeal. Apply dry or slightly moistened. You may broadcast it or place a teaspoonful every few feet, beneath or near the plants to be protected. Do this on a warm evening in clear weather. Rain will destroy the baits. Rebait two or three times at weekly intervals. Liquid metaldehyde (50%) may also be used. Mix it with water, one tablespoon per gallon, and sprinkle on the soil in the evening. One gallon will treat about 100 square

A copper-lime dust is also effective and less costly than metaldehyde. Mix one part by volume of dehydrated copper sulfate with ten parts of hydrated lime. Apply late in the evening in warm, clear weather. Use a double cheesecloth bag or hand dust gun for small areas. One pound of dust will treat about 500 feet of row or 1000 square feet.

Various residual insecticides applied as dusts or wettable powders have also proved effective.

POISON CONTROL

A research team in the University of B.C.'s faculty of pharmacy has begun the job of updating and simplifying information on poison control for distribution to all B.C. hospitals.

It is the first step in a project which could eventually lead to round the clock poison control information being available

When the computer is in operation, it will be possible for a hospital or physician to phone or telex the UBC hospital for treatment information which will be available in minutes.

Auxiliary set for new work

On June 9 Pender Harbour Auxiliary to St. Mary's Hospital, gathered for the monthly meeting at the Madeira Park Medical Clinic, when various reports were given.

There were no regular meetings during July and August, but Mrs. Ruth Neild kindly offered her house and garden for an informal gathering to discuss the fall bazaar.

The next meeting will take place in the Medical Clinic at Madeira Park at 2 p.m. on Wed., Sept. 8, to start the beginning of a busy fall season.

It is hoped that all interested in the work this group performs for the hospital will join as active or associate members.

Mrs. M. Gargrave

Funeral services were held in Vancouver on Sept. 2 for Mrs. Mary Gargrave, wife of Bert Gargrave, former CCF, MLA for MacKenzie. Mrs. Gargrave died in Toronto on August 28 of a heart attack.

Mary and Bert Gargrave lived in Vancouver for 20 years before moving to Toronto in the early 1950's.

Family: her husband; a son, Robert Stephens of Auburn, Washington; a daughter, Phyllis Smith of Port Renfrew; four grandchildren; two brothers, Frederick and Robert Woodward.

Five men lived for a month in 1963 in a shelter 36 feet below the surface of the Red Sea.

Peterson ends school series

(By Hon. L. R. PETERSON, Minister of Education)

(This is the seventh in a series of articles describing the new secondary school curriculum.)

This is the last of the articles that I have been writing about the new senior secondary school curriculum that will be available to students entering Grade XI in September. They covered five optional programs. Four lead to careers — preferably after further training at one of B.C.'s regional vocational schools — in commerce, industry, community services and the visual and performing arts. The fifth leads to University of the B.C. Institute of Technology.

Again I advise against students enroling in the Academic-Technical program simply because they think it has more prestige. Those who think they are fitted for a professional or highly technical career should go to it. School counsellors can give them good advice based on their school records. On the other hand, those who think they would prefer employment as skilled craftsmen should not forget the vocational schools. They provide excellent training and their graduates are in demand by industry and commerce.

As well as the five programs I have covered so far, the new curriculum makes provisions to keep pace with the different and changing needs of the community. Some schools, for example, may wish to include a study of agriculture in the curriculum. Like other programs it would require the same four general education constants, two courses in English, one in social studies and one in guidance and physical education.

The program constants would be mathematics and general business. The specialty element of the program would include two courses on the theory and practice of agriculture, two on power and machinery related to agriculture, and another business course on agricultural economics. The objective is to equip a student with a foundation of salable skills and knowledge helpful in either employment or further specialized training.

Provision has also been made for similar courses relating to the fishing, forestry and mining industries. The decision on what specialty is given rests with the local school authorities and is of coure dependent on the demand and the teaching resources available.

Another significant feature of the new curriculum is the provision made for adjusting courses to suit both the interests of the students and the needs of the community. For example, not all students will study identical courses in English, or in industrial power, or in mechanics. In the latter cases particularly provision is mahe for emphasis on machinery used in forestry in forest communities and in manufacturing in industrial communities.

In concluding these articles may I mention that in all our planning, stress has been placed on the importance of providing programs which have a purpose and a goal. This purpose need not be narrow, and it need not force a student into an irrevocable choice. It should however be pronounced enough to allow the student to keep his mind on the general field of endeavour in which he hopes to be employed, with specialization at a higher level of education to come later.

All of the available programs have been designed to provide good general education; all contain standards and demand effort; all allow freedom of choice dependent on achievement.

nI the final analysis no program, however good, can guarantee a pupil his future. This is the individual responsibility.

GRACEFUL GRIZZLY

The bulky grizzly bear may appear to wobble his hind quarters awkwardly and slouch a bit as he saunters about his business. Actually, you may have to observe old bruin's tracks to truly realize what a careful and graceful walker he is. Viewing a bear trail you may conclude that a string of bears will walk with more precision and apparent rhythm than a squad of the best trained marching soldiers. Grizzlies make remarkably straight trails, deviating little, regardless of obstacles or irregular terrain.

Junior and September's problems

September, the month of school opening, may arouse varied sentiments. The small one who is taking his first steps out into the wide world of education, will probably run the gamut of emotions — pride, fear, joy, homesickness, boredom, jealousy and an overdose of fed-upness, possibly followed by going on strike, when the whole subject of education will be anathema! But almost immediately things will calm down and Junior will settle in to absorb knowledge.

Mama will shed a few tears at the thought of her little darling out in the cold world, but she'll soon appreciate the free hours while he is safe in school.

Before he makes his debut into the new fields, he should be given a thorough checkup by his doctor or at the child health unit at the local health department. He needs a complete examination, including his eyes, ears and teeth, so that he may start school with every possible advantage.

Also important is the immunization which can protect him against diphtheria, smallpox, whooping cough, polio and tetanus or if he has already had these protective shots, then the "booster" shots should be given.

His diet is important and if he carries his lunch to school, it should consist of foods that approximate the midday meal he would get at home — containing one third of the day's nutrition.

Make sure that your youngster starts out with a good grounding in the rules of the sidewalk and road; running out into the road after a ball could take his life.

He should know that the policeman is his best friend when he is lost or in any kind of trouble, but strangers should never be talked to and rides in strange cars should not be accepted.

When he comes home from school, don't be too busy to hear his story of his day. It will make him feel important and appreciated by his family if you show interest in his work.

B & P W club meets

Sunshine Coast Business and Professional Womens Club started its 1965-66 activities with a dinner meeting at Ole's Cove on Sept. 7, making the beginning of the first full year for the local club.

The S.C.B. & P.W. was brought into being through the efforts of Mrs. Jo Benjafield of Garden Bay, assisted by Miss Adele de Lange of Sechelt. Both of these ladies had been active members of the B. & P.W. before settling on the Peninsula.

Their enthusiastic conviction that the aims, objectives, plus the record of achievement of the B. & P.W., offered to women a different opportunity to serve and be served, roused equally enthusiastic support among the ladies of the Peninsula.

Anyone interested in becoming a member, or just finding out what its about is invited to telephone Mrs. D. Lee, 883-2283.

Help for regional planners

A community and regional planning program designed to serve municipalities throughout the province will be launched this month by the University of British Columbia extension department.

The program, the only one of its kind in Canada will be headed by Robert W. Collier, a Ph.D. candidate in city and regional planning at the University of Southern California, one of three program supervisors in the extension department appointed through a grant from the Ford Foundation's Fund for Adult Education.

The program will encompass planning relating to resources, area rehabilitation and improvement, services, housing and transportation problems. Collier will serve as consultant and adviser and will conduct planning conferences, seminars and workshops throughout B.C. He will also teach regular courses in the UBC community and regional planning program, directed by Dr. H. P. Oberlander.

Community organizations, municipal governments and other groups interested in the program should contact the UBC extension department, Vancouver 8, B.C.

Talented and beautiful Eleanor Collins presents her highly individual song stylings every other Wednesday evening on the summer CBC radio series, Sound of the Sixties.

HOWIE WOODSWORTH VISITS

Among recent visitors to the Coast News was Howard Woodsworth, who as a boy in Gibsons used to play around the old Coast News building. At that time he said it was the Steinbrunner butcher shop. Howie, as he was generally known, talked of the days of 40 years ago and noted a great difference in the area. He spent an overnight visit upcoast. He is the son of the late Rev. J. S. Woodsworth who was well known in this area back in the earlier years

"Busy-car" women trust
compound power
Chevron Gasolines

In today's stop-and-go traffic, the housewife-chauffeur has good reason to trust Chevron gasolines.

So many important little people to be delivered safely to the right place at the right time! For over a generation continual advances in the quality of Chevron Gasolines have been helping her with dependable power for smooth get-aways, with purring power that banishes stalling, with more and more miles per gallon.

Why are Chevron Gasolines superior? Housewife-chauffeurs would probably be bored if we told them about our Methyl, the biggest breakthrough in anti-knock additives since Ethyl, 36 years earlier; about Chevron's special additive to banish carburetor-icing; about Chevron's famous Detergent-Action formula that keeps your carburetor as clean as the day it was installed; about improved Chevron refining processes that assure the best possible octane values for new and older engines alike.

"Busy-car" women are only interested in what it all adds up to. It all adds up to COMPOUND POWER — and with COMPOUND POWER the miles cost you less. Drive into your nearest Standard Station or Chevron Dealer this week and try a tankful for yourself . . .
