Conference agenda lined up

This final report on the Community Conference on Education which takes place Saturday will be an introduction to visiting speakers and to local people who are giving their services so that adequate records of the proceedings are kept and the maximum flexibility allowed in discussion.

Professor Walter Hardwick who will give the keynote speech on the Objectives of Education grew up in Vancouver and is now associate professor in Geography at UBC. He is the author of studies of industrial location, transportation, regional developments, and other aspects of town planning and the economic geography of cities. Dr. Hardwick is also co-author with Professor Ronald Baker of SFU of the study made for the North and West Vancouver school districts on the feasibility of a North Shore Regional College.

Mr. Andrew Soles who will be the conference chairman is dean of the first regional college in B.C., Selkirk College, Castlegar, which opened in September. As North and West Vancouver have asked this district to participate in a North Shore College these two men should be able to give valuable advice.

The six speakers chosen to lead discussion groups are personally involved in the particular aspect under discussion.

Jack Downs had seven years experience as an elementary teacher and is now area counsellor in Vancouver with one secondary and five elementary schools. Jack has sung in Theatre under the Stars productions and on the TV program Chorus Gentlemen.

Mr. James Carter's interests in continual improvement of educational methods has led to his appointment as chairman of the B.C. Teachers Federation Research committee and later being BCTF representative on the B.C. Education Research Council.

The Delbrook Plan is the brainchild of Mr. Alan Stables, principal of Delbrook Senior Secondary School, North Vancouver. This is one school's attempt to reorganize to make use of new methods and involves a variant of team-teaching.

Professor Hilda MacKenzie has specialized in primary teaching and is associate professor in the UBC Faculty of Education. She has served as curriculum director for the B.C. Teachers Federation and spent a year recently in Malaysia as advisor to the ministry of education under the Colombo Plan.

Dr. Charlotte David at present teaching at the UBC research unit for exceptional children has had wide experience in the field of mental health and child psychology both here and in New York, Ohio and Oregon.

Each of the discussion groups will have a recorder, Mrs. Mae Bulger, Mrs. Carol Crampton, Mrs. Merle Hately, Mrs. Iona Strachan, Mrs. Beryl Thomas and Miss Deborah Wright have offered their services for this important duty.

Discussion group leaders who will act as chairmen for the session will be Mr. Mike Blaney, Port Mellon pulp union; Mr. Clem Bulger, lab supervisor, Port Mellon; Dr. Dave Hopkin, Royal Bank manager, Gibsons; Mrs. Lee Macey, housewife and candidate in Gibsons December municipal elections; Mr. Don Skelton, principal Pender Harbour Secondary school, and Mr. Lorne Wolverton, assistant plant engineer, Port Mello.

The following have agreed to take part in the panel discussion on the results of the opinion poll on the objectives of education: Mr. Ken Powers, principal Madeira Park Elementary School, representing teachers; Mrs. Celia Fisher, representing the school trustees; two parents Mr. Clarence Joe of Sechelt and Mr. Bud Blatchford, Roberts Creek; two students, a boy from Elphinstone Secondary yet to be named and Miss Bonnie Lee who will represent Pender Harbour Secondary School.

July 1 !?!?

Next year's July 1 Centennial Celebration committee is already at work trying to see what it can do for a big celebration.

For example it is proposed that the fishing derby start on the Friday and extending into the Saturday holiday, with the derby ending at noon. The committee is striving to get a naval vessel here along with a navy band. Another band might be lined up as well.

The committee also reported the Squamish Loggers association was showing an interest in the logging and other events for that day. There is also talk of getting a carnival here for the day. So far operations are on such a broad scale that the committee has in mind finding some larger open space than Kinsmen park for the July 1 Celebration.

Letter queries trio's status

Knowledge of a letter suggesting three members of Gibsons municipal council were involved in a possible disqualification to sit as members of council has started a chain reaction which may not yet have reached its conclusion.

The letter signed by Earl Dawe, lawyer, of Gower Point road, Gibsons, was read last Friday over the phone to the editor of the Coast News by Mr. Dawe. The original was to go to Mr. Wes Hodgson, chairman of Gibsons council and copies were to go to the Coast News and a Sechelt weekly.

The phone conversation between the editor and Mr. Dawe might have lasted about eight minutes and it concluded with the editor remarking that the raising of this point at this time (an approaching municipal election) had a smell to it. Mr. Dawe hung up immediately.

The three members of council own the former I & S property on the Sunshine Coast Highway and a duplex in the Bay area of Gibsons. This situation has for a good many months been the main subject of a whispering campaign which has implied that there was something wrong and that the three members of council were using their positions in order to make gains.

The letter the Coast News was to receive from Mr. Dawe failed to arrive but it is able to publish the contents of the letter to the chairman and the Sechelt weekly which reads as follows:

"It has come to my attention that three sitting elected members of Gibsons village council, namely Messrs Drummond, Feeney and Mackay may be joint owners of two parcels of investment real estate situated within the village of Gibsons.

"I would like to ask two questions:

"First, does this situation exist, and two, if it exists does it reveal a conflict of interest such that any or all of the said gentlemen may be disqualified in the office of village commissioner.

"A reply at your earliest convenience would be much appreciated. (Signed) Earl Dawe."

On Monday Mrs. Lee Macey who is a candidate in the coming municipal election informed the Coast News she will not allow her name to be associated with the action started by Mr. Dawe. Later on Monday Mr. Hodgson, chairman of the municipal council also informed the Coast News he did not want to be associated with this affair and preferred to remain neutral. Neither had read the letter at that time.

During the last 12 years the Coast News editor has attended more than 300 meetings of council. In that lengthy period he is unable to recall any action by any councillor that smacked of what Mr. Dawe has described as a conflict of interest.

The Sechelt paper received its copy of the letter before Monday. Chairman Wes Hodgson received his letter on Tuesday. The Coast News is still awaiting its copy.

For the last 18 months a deliberate whispering campaign has been going on aimed mostly at Drummond, Feeney and Mackay and the letter from Mr. Dawe has brought the issue out into the open. Chairman Hodgson has informed the Coast News that when council meets on Tuesday night of next week, the letter which was sent to him personally will be placed before council for its consideration. He has said that he will remain neutral.

A $10,000 party!

Excitement continued to mount at a gala swimming pool fund coffee party, held Nov. 9, when groups, individuals and organizations pledged financial aid to the project.

Mr. Frank Daugherty, manager of Gibsons Bank of Montreal, and treasurer of the pool committee, accepted donations, and kept the more than 30 people present informed of the latest totals by means of a blackboard.

The final total from grants, commitments and donations reached $10,206. This figure included the per capita grants from Gibsons and Port Mellon, a generous donation from the Port Mellon Community Association, Kinsmen club, Canadian Forest Products, members of the Chamber of Commerce, Port Mellon Hospital Auxiliary and ten individual donations totalling $350.

As the pool fund drive continues, area residents will have an opportunity to watch its daily progress on a barometer erected at Mr. C. Mandelkau's Gibsons Shell Service station.

The event was held at the Georgia Heights home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Macey.

3 Trustees end terms

Three school trustees end their terms on Dec. 31. All three represent the area from Sechelt to Egmont. They are Leo Johnson, Sechelt village trustee; Cliff Thorold, and W. P. Malcolm representing the area from Sechelt to Egmont. Nomination papers are reported to have been filed by Mr. Malcolm at press time. Nominations close at 12 noon. Nov. 29.

Sechelt and District Fire department representatives asked the district school board at Monday night's meeting to assist the fire department in helping to bring the efficiency of the equipment up to a higher level.

Gordon Hall and Charles Rodway, spokesmen for the department at the board meeting explained the department was in the throes of re-organization as the result of the formation of the fire district.

Present equipment was inadequate and the provincial fire marshall and insurance underwriters were pressing for the best possible efficiency. The department had a large debt to look after from the former organization and a donation from the school board over a period of years would help considerably.

The present hydrant and pipe setup was outlined and it was felt that there should be improvement there and also in the amount of hose which the department should have available in the event of a serious fire.

Chairman Joseph Horvath inquired whether other school boards worked on a mill rate for fire protection and he was informed that some do and some do not. Mr. Hall stated that if there was a serious fire in Sechelt Elementary school they would not have the equipment to fight it. Chairman Horvath advised the delegation to supply the board with a list of their pressing needs.

When the suggestion was made by the insurance committee that the district should have boiler insurance Chairman Horvath asked how many school boilers had exploded over the last 50 years. The district has no high pressure boilers. The amount of coverage suggested was $125,000 for three years to cost $1,006. This drew from the chairman the remark that the new insurance company had assumed the board's insurance coverage at a reduced rate from formerly and now they wanted to take back some of the savings. The matter was sent back to the insurance committee for study.

The board through its building committee received approval in spite of the building freeze to call tenders on a three room project for Elphinstone Secondary school and an eight room extension for Gibsons Elementary. Referendum costs for these two called for expenditure of $143,000 on the Elphinstone extension and $238,000 for the elementary school extension.

A council argument

Should the chairman of a municipal council use his office and title to present his views via the press on any subject without stressing the point that the views are his alone and not necessarily those of his council?

This appears to be the basis for argument in Gibsons council at its last meeting when one councillor openly stated he did not wish to be associated with the remarks. Another councillor stated that if the chairman wanted to run the whole show he should go ahead and do so.

It should be pointed out that for a good many meetings there has been an undercurrent of opposition to the management of council by the chairman. On the other hand the chairman is not too happy with the attitude of some members of council.

The specific subject which was the basis for a difference of opinion in council at its last meeting, was that of regional districts. This regional district idea is one which the minister of municipal affairs is using to get unorganized areas into some sort of organization so they can help themselves get various services, such as garbage collection, planning and any other service they can finance through taxation.

This setup leaves present municipalities in the same position they now face, complete local autonomy. Such municipalities can have representation on a regional district board based on one representative per 1,000 population or fraction thereof. This would give Gibsons two members on the board and Sechelt one. The unorganized area is divided into six zones with one representative on the board for each zone.

The chairman of Gibsons council does not appear to be too hopeful that the regional district idea is as good as it seems. However it is all laid out in legislation which is specific in stating that any area can join or refuse to join. Gibsons council already has a representative on the regional board. It can decide to stay in the regional setup or stay out through action by the entire council.

For a chairman to express his views without stating they are his own ideas and not the result of council debate, gives councillors a right to object. If a member of council had done the same thing as was done by the chairman, it would be correct for the chairman to lay down the law and urge members of council to be specific in stating their views are not necessarily those of council. The same should apply to the chairman.

A change of pace

After having attended a good number of meetings involving Gibsons centennial project and either finding practically no one at the meeting or else the meeting which continues its tortuous path around the mulberry bush of debate, getting nowhere, a change of pace as exemplified in a meeting last Wednesday night at the Macey home leads to the hope that there is balm in Gilead.

Imagine yourself sitting at a centennial meeting with at least four diverse suggestions being bandied about to the point where a motion would be in order then someone scuttles all previous argument with a brand new suggestion that goes the rounds, finishing up with the meeting deciding to consider something or other after so-and-so with someone else looks into the new idea.

At the next meeting so-and-so is unavoidably detained somewhere else and no one knows what has been uncovered about the new idea. This goes on meeting after meeting.

Next consider yourself amidst some thirty or so people over cups of tea and eatables, unified in mind about a centennial project and wondering just how much money has been contributed — all unanimous in their objective, the construction of a swimming pool as the project. At such a meeting one can drink down one's tea and consume the eatables knowing that there will be no diverse argument to unsettle the mind.

The gathering at the Macey home was a fitting climax to the last two years of wrangling. The blackboard which listed the contributions to the swimming pool had chalked on it at the finish, slightly more than $10,000 in actual contributions with the promise of more to come. It was a definite change of pace and made the wrangling of the past appear insignificant.

The power in the land

If electrical power was to be cut off across the nation, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has in a recent tabulation given us an approximate size of the howl that would reach the skies, across the country. These days we take the power bill much in the same light as we do the tax bill, resulting in minor moans and the possible admonition to the younger fry to turn off the light when it is not being used.

To emphasize the point here is what the bureau of statistics has recorded on the use of electrical equipment in the home:

"Proportions of Canada's households with electrical and other modern conveniences are continuing to increase in 1966 according to an advace release of data that will be contained in the 1966 issue of the annual DBS report, Household Facilities and Equipment.

"Electricity is used for cooking purposes in 70.7% of Canada's households in 1966 compared to 69.0% in 1965. Home freezers are found in 24.8% of Canadian homes against 22.6% in 1965. Automatic washing machines are used in 25.6% of Canada's households against 23.1% in 1965. The use of other electric washing machines has declined from 63.2% last year to 59.5% this year. Clothes dryers are found in 30.1% of Canadian houeholds compared with 27.4% last year.

"F.M. radio receivers are in 28.4% of total households compared with 22.9% last year, while phonograph record players are in 61.2%, a rise from 1965's 59.1%. One automobile is owned by 61.0% of Canadian householders, a decrease from the 1965 figure of 62.5%, while 14.1% have two automobiles against 12.4% last year."

POINT OF LAW

by A Practicing Lawyer

COPYRIGHT APPLIED FOR

We welcome written questions on legal points from readers. If possible they will be answered in this column. Letters must be brief, signed and your address shown. Send to "Point of Law," c/o this newspaper.

Q. I want to collect a debt. Do I have to sue? Do I have to go to a lawyer? What about using a collection agency? Which is the cheapest way to proceed?

A. If the debt is for under $200, you do not need a lawyer. Simply apply to your local small debts court and they will issue the summons for a very small fee.

If the debt is for over $200, you can consult a collection agency or a lawyer. The advantages of the agency are: They are experts at pressuring the debtor to pay without suing and they don't charge anything if they don't collect. The lawyer will however expect to be paid something for services performed even if unsuccessful. The big advantage of using a lawyer is that his fee is less — 10% - 20%, whereas the agency will charge 33% - 50%.

There is no law which prevents a person from suing in the higher courts without engaging a lawyer but it is impractical to do so. The law, like repairing your own T.V. set, is no field for the do it yourself expert.

Some debtors are extremely difficult to collect money from, even by exhausting all the collection and legal processes. When a collection agency runs up against a really tough nut to crack, they hire a lawyer. In this case, the client, of course, gets involved with legal expenses. The agency does not do this without prior instructions.

To survey family life

Surveys aiming to feel the pulse of Canadian family life . . . a complete library on the family in Canada . . . a study on the one-parent family. . . . are the major decisions taken at the annual meeting of the Vanier Institute of the Family.

Mr. Stewart Sutton, secretary general of the Vanier Institute of the Family, emphasized that the projected surveys—for some of which the planning has already begun — will cover the entire country. The institute, being a national organization whose aim is to strengthen family life in Canada, must concern itself with the whole country and a representative cross-section of Canadian families. The first survey will seek to discover the attitudes of Canadians to family life. The findings of such a survey will enable the institute to develop its program for the future. A study of what is meant by and what is happening in education for family life will also be undertaken.

Canadians are helping

Hon. Paul Martin, secretary of state for external affairs and Sir John Carter, high commissioner of Guyana, have signed a loan agreement making $1,800,000 of Canadian aid funds available to finance Canadian participation in the intensive mapping in the interior of Guyana. The project, which will be carried out by a Canadian survey company, will supply 1:-50,000 topographical maps, required for resources studies.

WATCH THOSE LABELS

Check against misleading advertising when buying packaged or tinned foods. If the name of a product includes some of the ingredients, these should be labelled in order of their largest proportions. Spaghetti and two meat balls should not be described as "meat balls and spaghetti." A tin marked "veal, ham and tongue spread" must contain more veal than ham and more ham than tongue.

BEAUTY HINTS

By LYNN CARTER

Q. How should very deeply set eyes be made up?

A. In the case of deep-set eyes, you should not need any eyeshadow at all — or if you do use some, it should be a soft brown that is almost invisible. Since this type of eyes is already creating its own shadow, concentrate more on the lashes, applying mascara two, or even three, times daily until the lashes are a velvet-soft fringe around the eyes.

Q. How can a girl improve and add grace to her manner of walking?

A. By practicing slowly a heel-and-toe, toe-ahead-of-heel exercise, back and forth across the largest room in her home. It might take a little time before she perfects this so that it comes naturally . . . but she can do it, and it's well worth the effort. Grace of carriage and grace of movement add no end of charm and attractiveness to any woman's general beauty makeup.

Q. What is a good formula for a sachet powder?

A. A mixture of ½-ounce lavendar flowers and ½-teaspoon powdered cloves.

Q. What are some general tips on the care of hair that has been artificially straightened?

A. Since the straightening of hair usually has drying effects, proper brushing and daily lubrication are very helpful in overcoming that dryness. A hairdressing, especially one that contains lanolin, is splendid. Hot oil treatments, applied just before shampooing, should take place at least once a month.

Q. I am very much concerned over the skin on my throat, which seems to have become quite a bit darker than the skin on my face. What can I do about this?

A. Try bleaching this skin regularly with a water-and-lemon mixture.

Q. Is there a good home removal remedy for moles and warts on my skin?

A. None that I'll recommend! This is a problem for your doctor!

Q. Is it safe to straighten your hair yourself?

A. Since professional straightening can be quite costly, there is of course a big temptation to do the job yourself. On the other hand, it requires expert application, so a professional is recommended. If done at home, be sure to follow the package directions as closely as possible. One expert in the field warns that improper straightening can be unnoticeable the first time around. It's during the second straightening that breakage is apt to occur.

Q. What facial mask or pack is especially good for whiteheads on the skin?

A. A thick paste of fuller's earth and witch hazel.

Q. How do I best care for the cuticles on my fingernails?

A. Twist some cotton around an orange stick, and the cotton will stick better if you wet your orange stick first. Then dip it into a cuticle softener and gently push your cuticles back so that they won't grow over your nails and spoil their appearance.

Q. What is a good, general, nightly routine for the care of the skin?

A. Every night thoroughly remove all makeup with cotton puffs saturated with baby oil . . . with gentle upward strokes whisk away all traces of your makeup. Then wash your face with some gentle baby castile soap with built-in hexachlorophene to discourage blemishes. Rinse thoroughly in cool water, and pat dry. If your skin is oily, also pat on some witch hazel. Then apply some light baby cream to soften your skin and prevent moisture loss from its surface while you sleep.

Stalls busy

St. Bartholomew's Anglican Church Christmas bazaar, on Saturday, Nov. 5 in Gibsons Elementary School Activity hall, was a source of gratification to Mrs. Kay Wood, convenor, and her helpers, who had put in many months of work in preparing for this annual event. The hall was decorated with holly and other greenery, and four Christmas trees lent a festive touch. Well-laden stalls attracted the large number of visitors to begin their Christmas gift buying early this year.

The bazaar was opened at 2 p.m. by the vicar, Rev. J. H. Kelly, and soon the scene became one of bustling activity. Mrs. F. A. Jones, president of St. Bartholomew's W.A., welcomed the arrivals, assisted by Mrs. Kelly. A cake weight guessing competition was won by Mrs. H. Lynum, a giant cut leaf philodendron plant was won by Mrs. A. S. Trueman, and the doll naming contest was won by Mrs. J. H. Kelly.

A USEFUL HINT

Panning vegetables saves nutrients and helps to retain flavor, color, and texture. Panning is cooking the vegetables in a small amount of butter or oil and stirring until a thin film of fat coats the surfaces. A small quantity of water is added, the pan covered and the vegetable simmered. The film of fat retards the escape of water soluble nutrients and flavor ingredients.

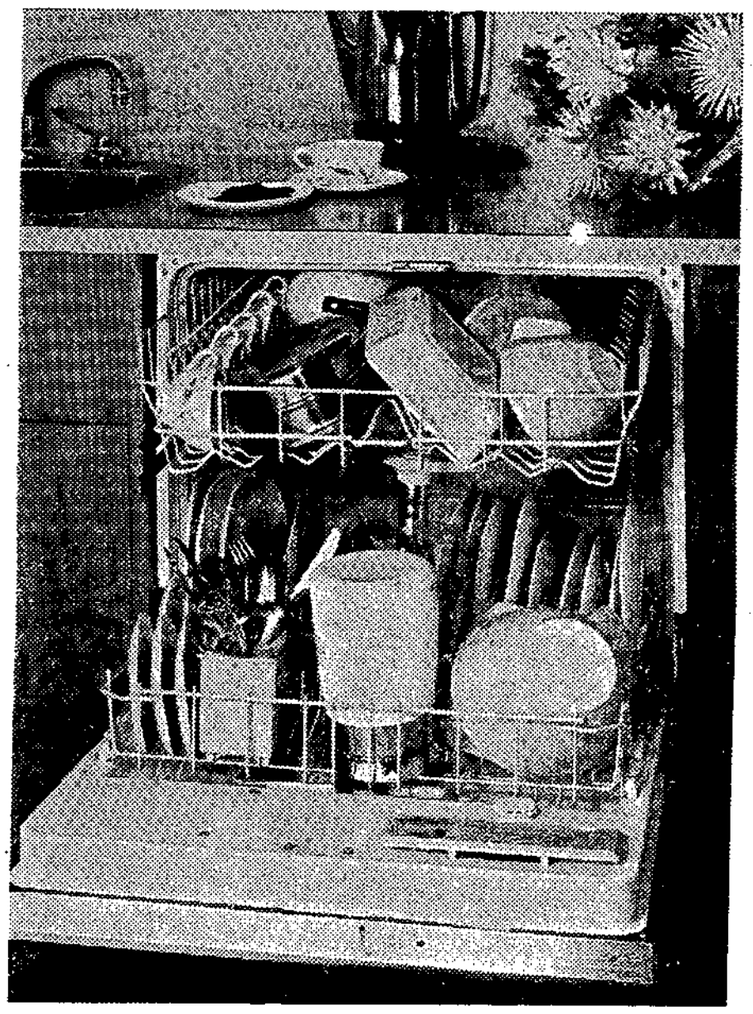
The two leading dishwashers.
Compare them feature for feature.



THE MANUAL DISHWASHER
1. Up to an hour of drudgery required to complete average family's daily dishwashing.
2. Cannot tolerate extremely hot water. Hands tend to redden.
3. Note use of obsolete towel for drying. Very tedious.
4. No basic improvements in this model for thousands of years. Should be freed for other, more rewarding activities.

THE AUTOMATIC DISHWASHER
1. Does the entire job automatically. Latest models even wash pots and pans.
2. Very hot water sanitizes dishes, makes glasses sparkle.
3. Drying is automatic, most models also warm plates.
4. Important new features have been added in just the past two years. Immediate purchase is recommended.

SUMMARY
Despite obvious shortcomings, many Manual Dishwashers are still performing faithfully without breakdown or complaint. Nevertheless, thoughtful husbands are advised to see the new automatic models now. Because right now, appliance dealers are offering a $35 installation allowance on built-in dishwashers or a free set of English breakfastware with the purchase of a portable model. Besides, Christmas is coming.

IN MEMORIAM

CROWHURST — In loving memory of my husband, George Crowhurst, who died Nov. 16, 1950.
Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain;
To have, to love, and then to part,
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never —
The memory of those happy days,
When we were all together.
Ever remembered by his loving wife Daisy, and family, Fred, Albert, Frank and daughter May.

FRERE — Dudley A. Y. Frere who passed away Nov. 17, 1960. Ever to be remembered by his loving wife Edna.

Stylist!

"The problems about being beautiful are our problems," is a slogan Mrs. Dill McCulloch of Gibson Girl Beauty Salon puts into practice.

For 30 years she has enjoyed her career of cutting, styling and setting hair, and recently added wigs, hairpieces and a maintenance service of cleaning and styling the wigs.

After apprenticing for two years at the Iris Beauty Salon, in Vancouver, she opened the Pemberton Beauty Salon in downtown Vancouver, and later established the Fashionette Beauty Centre at Smythe and Granville in Vancouver.

Seven years ago her husband persuaded her to open a beauty shop in Gibsons, as he had found employment on the peninsula and wished to settle here.

A feat she likes to recall is the women's record in bowling she won for a single game, at the Commodore Bowling Alleys in Vancouver. Her score totalled 422 in a game of five pins. The Vancouver Sun at the time published an item on her record

Mrs. McCulloch and her husband recently bought property at Ruby Lake, and are now in the planning stages of building a beach home.

This fall they spent a vacation travelling throughout B.C. She was happy to return to Gibsons, preferring the scenic beau ties of the area as a permanent home.

Weddings

LAVIGNE — REITZE

The marriage of Cecile Joyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Reitze, Gibsons, and Lloyd Paul son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Lavigne, New Westminster, was solemnized on Oct. 15 at the Church of the Most Pure Heart of Mary, Gibsons, with Rev. Father Kenny officiating.

The bride wore a floor length gown and train with empire waist and bodice of lace appliques, three - quarter length sleeves and shoulder length veil. The bride's flowers were cascades of red roses and white feathered mums.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Gerry Wright, Vancouver, wore a green floor length empire waist gown with white lace bodice, pillbox hat and veil. Bridesmaids Patsy Lynn and Anne Marie Reitze, sisters of the bride, were dressed in yellow empire waist dresses with embroidered bodices. They carried large yellow mums surrounded by feathered mums.

Best man was Mr. Bill Lymer of Gibsons and ushers were Gary Reitze, brother of the bride and Maurice Lavigne, brother of the groom.

The bride's mother wore a beige brocade ensemble with matching accessories. The groom's mother wore a navy blue suit with matching accessories. Both mothers received beautiful pink corsages.

Music was played by Mr. William Haley of Gibsons and vocalists were Mrs. Bruce Symes and Mrs. Frank Johnson of Burnaby.

A reception followed in the Legion Hall, Gibsons, Mr. A. Morin proposing the toast to the bride and groom. Out of town relatives and guests were Mr. and Mrs. Phil Lavigne, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Lavigne, Leonard, Maurice and Henry Lavigne of New Westminster; Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Lavigne of Haney, Misses Ann Roberts and Marion Bryne, also Mrs. Nancy Ingram of Vancouver; Miss Valerie Zilm and Mr. Keith Chapman, New Westminster and Lynn Swallow of Salmon Arm.

The groom's grandmother travelled from her Saskatchewan home to surprise the bride and groom. Following a honeymoon at Harrison Hot Springs the newly married couple will reside in North Burnaby.

MOVIE NEWS

Something new in movies? You've got to be kidding. But it's a fulfilled fact when the International Pictures people came up with the first space age youth comedy, Sergeant Deadhead.

While it is primarily directed toward, and about, the under 25 young people, Norman Taurog, the dean of comedy pictures has surrounded himself with such top veteran stars as Eve Arden Cesar Romero, Fred Clark, Reginald Gadiner, Gale Gordon, Harvey Lembeck and Buster Keaton.

With such an impressive array of talent the patrons of the Twilight Theatre are in for full course comedy fare this Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 8 p.m. and of course the children's matinee at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Inside Daisy Clover, produced by Alan J. Paluka and director Robert Mulligan, one of Hollywood's most distinguished creative teams, give Gavin Lambert's dramatic, incisive tour behind the scenes of Hollywood and studio life in the 1930's, a daring and revealing touch to screenland's most glamorous and exciting era.

Inside Daisy Clover is truly a must for even the most casual moviegoers, at the Twilight Theatre this Saturday, Monday and Tuesday.

BPW commended

A renewed realization of the world-wide worth and significance of their organization was given members of the Sunshine Coast Business and Professional Women's Club at the Nov. 6 meeting at Ole's Cove.

Introduced by club president Mrs. J. Dunlop of Egmont; Mrs. Phyllis Chandler, regional director of B&PW commended the members on the progress and accomplishments of the Sunshine Coast club.

Mrs. Chandler reminded members that the Business and Professional Women's Club is the only world-wide organization that does anything for gainfully employed women. She added that there may be times when it seems as a single club, it is not doing much, but each club linked with all others, provincially, nationally and internationally, does contribute a great deal in combined strength.

The objectives of each club include the stimulation of interest in local, provincial, national and international affairs, and the encouragement of members to develop the ability for active participation, in a leading role, in all levels of business and government, to work together for improvement of employment, economic and social conditions for women throughout the world.

Introduced by membership chairman Mrs. R. McLintock, were three new members from Gibsons, Mrs. K. Butler, Mrs. K. Morrison, Mrs. C. Bulger, and Mrs. Mary Walker, a member of New Westminster B&PW club.

Discussion was held regarding club support of the various Centennial projects throughout the area. Since funds do not permit financial contributions to each project, no donations will be made. Members are asked to give their individual support to their various Centennial committees.

Available from club members are UNICEF cards, note paper, and calendars. Funds raised from the sale of these go to help the work of the United Nations in caring for the needy children of many countries.

The December 6 meeting is a social get acquainted evening, with members being asked to give a verbal capsule self-portrait, covering occupations, past and present, and experiences.

It promises to be an evening with the probability of discovering that the Sunshine Coast club has unusually interesting and capable members.

OAPO tea

Gibsons OAPO held a tea and sale of home baking Nov. 7 in the Health Centre, Gibsons.

The serving table was prettily decorated with late blooming flowers from members' gardens, and a delicious assortment of cookies and pastries was served

Proceeds from the tea and sale of home baking will be used to purchase a piano and chairs for use at the Health Centre.

More than 75 people attended the tea, convened by Mrs. R. W. Rutherford and assisted by Mrs. W. Hutchins, Mrs. J. F. Kerr and Mrs. W. Davidson. Servers were Mrs. E. Sturgeon, Mrs. F. S. Sommers and Mrs. D. Crowhurst.

An Old Age Pensioners Organization monthly meeting will be held in Gibsons Health Centre at 2 p.m. Nov. 21 for the election of officers and other business. A complete attendance is requested.

Holly tea

United Church Women are busy organizing a Holly Tea in the Christian Education Hall on Friday, Dec. 2 from 2 - 4 p.m.

There will be home cooking, candy, novelties, linens, aprons, woolens and a Christmas Tree. The Hi-C's will have a table of handicrafts. They are selling these to make money to support and educate their little Korean adopted boy. This costs them $16 each month. They also hope to sent him a Christmas present.

WINS AWARD

Betty Elaine Klein of Madeira Park was awarded a $300 award for first year university at Simon Fraser University in this year's list of Pacific Command, Royal Canadian Legion scholarship and bursary awards totalling $41,250.

Here's a grade entry duplex

Plan No. 1922 (copyright No. 117093)

Floor area 962 sq. ft.

With the costs of good building sites spiralling ever upward in all parts of the country, the fortunate possessor of a lot zoned for multiple dwellings would be well advised to consider a duplex of this type.

It does not require too wide a lot, as the carports are located right under the bedroom wings, thus making a compact, yet tasteful, design.

Each unit is of course identical, but because of the location of the entries, each family can come and go in complete privacy.

Each unit contains 962 square feet, distributed through living/dining area, with inside wall fireplaces and open wall on the stairway side. Open planning is evident throughout the kitchen area, with a bar to separate it from the dining area. The kitchen is large and well appointed, the bathroom has a good sized vanity in it, and both bedrooms are large, have plenty of space for clothing storage. A balcony across the front of each unit in entirely private and individual.

The exterior of this duplex can be made very attractive, with a pleasing combination of stucco and horizontal siding, gable over the living dining rooms to break the long line of the roof.

This is a well designed, profitable duplex, worthy of the consideration of anyone planning to invest in such a unit. Build it, live in one unit, rent the other and let the rented unit pay for the whole investment, including your own rent-free living quarters.

It is designed to the standards of the National Building Code of Canada, for mortgaging under N.H.A. or conventional mortgage companies. Blueprints may be obtained from the Building Centre (B.C.) Ltd., 96 Kingsway, Vancouver, B.C. Write for our Select Home Designs catalogue of plans, enclosing 85c to cover cost.

Legion auxiliary helpful unit

Gibsons Ladies Auxiliary, Royal Canadian Legion, was organized to assist veteran members of the Legion in its many interests and activities.

Wives and relatives of war veterans and women members of the armed services are eligible for membership in the L.A. Special memberships are given to those who are interested in participating in their projects and sharing their efforts.

Members of Gibsons L.A. contribute a proficiency award once a year to a grade 7 and a grade 8 pupil who has made the most progress during the year.

Contributions are also made to St. Mary's Hospital, the Children's Hospital in Vancouver, CNIB and every oranization which operates for the benefit of humanity.

fashion news

BY NANCY GAYLORD

FASHION CONSULTANT TO THE 160 SINGER CENTERS IN CANADA.

How's your fashion vocabulary? Did you know that a dishy dress is actually delicious or gorgeous? That pretty girls are birds and that smart clothes are gear? Many new words have been generated by London's Carnaby Street designers. If you're under thirty, better gear up with some of those dishy clothes for birds. They're IN.

Accessory hunting can be tricky. Make it easy with a scrapbook containing swatches of all your clothes and a description of all present accessories. Very handy when searching for the beads for your peachy-pink tweed suit..

Sew a scarf from one of the beautiful silky fabrics available. It's easy to find the just-right color combination to go with your new dress (less expensive than a ready-made one too!). Soft blue heather wool demands the bold contrast of art nouveau in pink, mauve and burgundy. Buy one yard and square it off. To make a rolled hem:

— Machine stitch ⅛ inch from edge.
— Fold on stitching.
— With needle and thread, take a small stitch in the fold and then another diagonally across in the fabric (where the raw edge ends).
— Continue back and forth for one inch.
— Then pull thread to bring fold down forming a rolled edge.

The jacket dress takes over where the suit left off. Our Canadian climate offers a short suit season and suits are bulky under a coat. The jacket dress has the answer. The dress (minus jacket, plus coat), has through-winter mileage. The newest jacket-dress has a high-waisted look achieved by a mini-bolero that stops just below the bust. Flattering to all — the petite and the tall!

Curves ahead! The models at the recent fashion showings in Paris were NOT match sticks, but real, live girls that looked it. Although fashions are definitely not fitted this season, there is a trend in that direction. Better start exercising!

Tribute was paid to Mr. E. C. Sherman by Mr. Michael Bujan, president of Sechelt Teachers Association and Mr. Joe Horvath, chairman of the Board of School Trustees at the final meeting of the Community Conference committee.

Mr. Sherman as co-ordinator has done an excellent job of organization and put in many hours of work so that every aspect of the conference shall run smoothly. Under Mr. Sherman's leadership the committee has developed in the last six months into an effective, co-ordinated unit.

Now the last pencil is sharpened and enough coffee ordered to ensure that everyone can have that last cup all that is left is for the public to take advantage of this opportunity to plan lively, dynamic schools for our children, teachers and parents.

Hardy motorcyclists!

Joyce and Bill Price who recently returned from a motorcycle trip to Montreal, where they revisited friends and relatives, filmed most of their trip while riding along at 60 miles an hour.

The trip, which developed from an idea formed a month previously, took 12 days, and they thoroughly enjoyed the journey, finding it scenic, interesting, a complete change of pace and a challenge.

The only mechanical difficulty experienced was on their way through the prairie roads in Saskatchewan. The motorcycle caught fire, and Mr. Price discovered a short circuit which he mended with a band aid.

One of the interesting events Mrs. Price caught on film was a herd of elk in the Regina area contentedly sharing the pasture with a number of cows.

At one point in Saskatchewan they saw an animal that strongly resembled a kangaroo. It looked to be 4½ feet in length, and loped and sprung along the fields. It turned out to be a giant jack rabbit.

In Ontario they saw a meat truck which had crashed and fallen 100 feet into a ravine. Mrs. Price took a picture of it, and was relieved to find that the driver escaped unhurt.

The only discomfort the Prices experienced was on their one camping try made in Saskatchewan. They found that the temperatures at night dropped to below freezing, really too cold for comfort. Thirty mile an hour winds in Saskatchewan, especially while passing heavy trucks was also a problem.

They are now planning a motorcycle trip to Mexico next year.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Perkins have been up from Berkeley for a week's stay at their Beach Avenue home.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Funell, of White Rock, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Rowland for the weekend.

From Vancouver for some fishing over the long weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Galliford, Michael and Stevie.

The MacKenzie family has moved to Mica Creek where Murray is resident field manager of the Mica Dam project. On a recent visit here to move their furniture, they reported that the two boys, Don and Greg, are happily situated in the school there. While Mica Creek is 80 or 90 miles from Revelstoke, and somewhat isolated, it has sprung into a modern community overnight, with town planning, beautiful homes, modern shopping centre, and a fine ski run almost in the back yard. Their home here has been rented by the John Connors.

Busy meeting

Roberts Creek Legion auxiliary had a busy meeting on Nov. 7 when it was decided that the usual donation should go to the CNIB. Mrs. Marie Leask was initiated. Final arrangements were made for the Dec. 2 bazaar which is shaping up to be bigger and better than ever. Mrs. Gerry Clarke, zone representative, will open the bazaar.

The president reported on the zone meeting at Madeira Park and the auxiliary workshop at Grandview Legion in Vancouver. Members were pleased with the progress being made on the project for 1967. The next meetin will be held on Dec. 5.

ETIQUETTE ....

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. What should an usher at a church wedding do when several women guests arrive in a group, and the other ushers are already occupied?

A. If one of the women is obviously older than the others, he offers his arm to her, and the others follow them to the appropriate seats. Otherwise, he offers his arm to the woman who happens to be nearest to him, and they proceed in the same manner.

Q. Are invitations ever issued to a funeral?

A. No, with one exception. When the funeral is to be private, it is then necessary to notify relatives and close friends by phone or hand-written note or telegram.

Q. How can a woman know whether or not to offer her hand to a man when being introduced to him?

A. There is no rule about this. It is optional with the woman and how she feels about the meeting. Personally, I like the offered hand, because it expresses a more sincere and genuine pleasure over the meeting.

Q. Is it necessary to acknowledge the receipt of birthday or anniversary cards?

A. If by this you mean notes of acknowledgment, no. But it is good manners, the next time you meet the senders of these cards, to mention how much you appreciate their thoughtfulness.

Q. Would it be all right for the sister of a bride-elect to give a party for her, or would this imply that gifts are expected?

A. This is quite all right if it is emphasized that the party is not a shower.

Q. What is the proper manner of holding the coffee or tea cup?

A. The handle of the cup should be held firmly between thumb and fingers — not hooked through with the index finger. And keep your little finger in close with your other fingers — not hooked out in that familiar affected pose!

Q. Must all wedding guests really respond with gifts?

A. Formerly, if you were invited to the church only, no gift was expected — if to the reception, it was. Today the individual makes his own decision about sending a gift.

Q. Do you think it's all right for a man to smoke a cigar at a social function, even though everyone else is smoking cigarettes?

A. Of course, it's all right. There's nothing at all wrong with cigars at any affair where other people are smoking.

Q. What is the proper salutation to an informal letter addressed to a college professor?

A. If he holds a doctor's dedegree, it is "Dear Dr. Graham." If not, then it is "Dear Professor Graham."

Here are some interesting trees that bloom

(By A. R. BUCKLEY of the Plant Research Institute, Ottawa)

A well-chosen tree may not only be considered for its addition to the landscape plan and for its shade but also for its attractive bloom. Many factors govern the selection of trees for urban and suburban street planting. They are not of great concern to the home gardener, but one in particular is well worth considering. This is size.

Do not select a tree that is likely to grow so fast and so big that in a few years its roots will heave the surface of your driveway, its great bulk will blot out your house entirely from the street and sun, or its height become a menace to overhead wires.

Here is a list of some of the best trees that produce a good display of bloom each year and ones that do not grow so large as to become a burden to you or your children in later years. Some of them also give good fruit or fall color. Some may need a little more maintenance than others. This list is designed for people who want the joy and beauty of flowers at least once a year as well as shade and screening.

Aesculus carnea — This species of horse chestnut has proved to be quite successful at Ottawa, although it is probably not hardy farther north or on the prairies. This tree is slower growing than the horse chestnut but similar in other respects except for the showy pink bloom Our tree is now 12 years old but only 10 feet high. In a more shel tered home garden and with watering faster growth would be expected.

Amelanchier canadensis — Shadbush. This is a small native tree well worthy of consideration. It grows from 10 to 30 feet high and has abundant white cherrylike blossoms in the spring. Its birchlike leaves give light shade during summer and in the fall produce a brilliant effect. The tree also has nice silvery-gray bark with interesting dark striping.

Chionanthus virginica — Fringe tree. This is a very small neat tree, especially if it is kept pruned to a single stem. It never grows over 15 feet, gives dense shade and will tolerate shade. In June it produces an abundance of filmy lilac-like white flowers. It gives no special fall effect but female plants produce an abundance of deep-blue fruits, which are quite showy during September and October, if a male specimen is planted nearby. This tree is not hardy north of Ottawa.

Crataegus (Hawthorns) — Many species of these trees are admirably suited to our climate. One must avoid the double scarlet English hawthorn, namely Paul's Scarlet haw, in areas north of Toronto, since this tree is likely to suffer in such climates. A variety akin to this, the Toba haw, which originated at the Experimental Station, Morden, Manitoba, is extremely hardy and has attractive soft-pink double flowers. Most hawthorns have showy white flowers, which are followed by prominent red fruits. Later the leaves turn to brilliant scarlet, yellow and coppery hues.

Elaeagnus angustifolia (Russian Olive) Here is a nice small tree that grows to 30 feet. Its flowers are noted more for their fragrance than for their beauty, but its spectacular silver-white stems, fruits and leaves make it a tree worthy of planting, especially against a background of red brick.

Cladrastis lutea (Yellowwood) — A picturesque tree with long pendant chains of pealike creamy-white flowers. In Ottawa it never reaches a height greater than 15 or 20 feet and it is a lovely tree to grow. Its large pinnate leaves turn yellow in the fall and the bark of its twigs and branches is yellow so that one gets a contrasting winter coloring.

Malus species and varieties (Crab apples) — There are many varieties of crab apples which in our area will give a showy display in spring. Makamik is one of the best Rosybloom types, Hopa is always heavily laden with deep rose-pink blooms, and Almey has the largest purplish blossoms of any crab apple. Before deciding upon what variety or species to buy it is desirable to know exactly what is required. Some people like to have a crab apple that will give good flowers in spring, some beauty of foliage all summer and good fruit suitable for crab apple jelly in the fall. I like Cowichan for this purpose; I have tasted delicious jelly from this variety. It has showy blossoms and purplish foliage and it grows to a shapely tree.

Other people want a good spring effect but are not happy about crab apples in their garden, since they do encourage children to climb the tree eat the unripe fruits to their eventual discomfort. For these people the double - flowered Betchtel's Crab Apple, Malus ionensis 'Plena' is the best one to get. Its large 2½-inch flowers are soft pink and have a delightful scent somewhat like English violets. Then there are crab apples for bird lovers. We at thhe arboretum tried to establish a bird feeding station there but each year it is the same old story: all birds prefer to spend the winter living on the fruits of the Siberian crab apple (Malus baccata) and we cannot seem to get them to eat any other fare we have to offer. The Siberian crab apple makes a lovely shade tree, its flowers are small but extremely abundant and its small yellow fruits last well into the winter. There is also a pyramidal form of this species, which is well suited for street tree planting.

Robinia hispida (Monument) — Usually I would not recommend the black locust for home gardens since it grows so rapidly, suckers too freely and is quite brittle, but this cultivar has none of these bad points. It is slower growing and even without flowers makes a nice compact small tree with pinnate foliage. In flower in June and early July, it presents a soft glowing spectacle that will fit in with most surroundings. Its flowers are light rose-pink, produced in good abundance.

Syringa amurense japonica (Japanese Tree Lilac) — For those who want a fine specimen tree that has a very formal outline, yet produces flowers in season, the Japanese Tree Lilac fills the bill. It grows to a height of 25 to 30 feet, produces large trusses of white flowers and gives dense shade. This is the ideal for ranch style bungalows, since its formal Japanese outline seems to fit into the contours of such structures.

DEAR DORIS advice from Doris Clark

DEPRESSION DOLDRUMS

DEAR DORIS—I suffer from depression and have been in and out of a mental hospital twice. My doctor says my case is typical.

When I am well I enjoy life to the full and therefore often become exhausted. But I tend to be a perfectionist and push myself too hard.

When I am ill I loathe our attractive home and have to force myself to do anything. Some friends are so kind, helpful and understanding; others who know little about mental illness persist in giving one the "buck-up" treatment.

Can you help me? I so fear the return of the bouts of depression.

Long Story

DEAR LONG—The depression is part of the illness; which is already in the hands of the one qualified to treat it — a psychiatrist. But perhaps a comment or two will help you as well as others with some tendencies like yours.

A perfectionist gets that way to make up for feelings of inferiority; insists on having little details right because the big issues overwhelm her! A readjustment of values would mean more attention to exuding good cheer when your husband comes home than to using up all your pep making your floors and furniture shine.

You can help stave off depression by conserving physical energy.

Also, seek spiritual poise. I can recommend inspirational reading to get you started if you will write in for it.

Remember this: The person who keeps herself — or himself — in the pink of condition, physically and mentally, seldom has the blues!

DEAR DORIS—I'm having a problem with my hair falling out. It seems to be awfully dry.

What causes bald spots? Another friend is having trouble too. Could you help us both?

Troubled

DEAR TROUBLED—Some illness usually precedes "patch" or "area" baldness. It may clear up when the patient has recovered from the illness that caused it. Quite different from the problem of dry and brittle hair.

My leaflet on Hair Care, which is on its way to you, will give you help in getting your hair into generally better condition; and if you are well again, this may help the hair grow back in the bald spots.

See a specialist in skin troubles if the condition persists.

(Others may have the leaflet by writing to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10 cents and a stamped envelope.)

DEAR DORIS—I'm the only teen-age girl (16) in a logging camp. I have known a very nice boy (Leo, 18) for three months now. Leo usually walks me home at night, but this last week he hasn't.

Tonight he told me that the guys have started little stories about us and they tease him. Because of this, the only time he will walk me home is on week ends, when most of the men go to town.

What should we do to stop these stories? I don't want to lose Leo just because of this.

Lorrie

DEAR LORRIE—Then settle for week-end walk-homes. Not many sixteens see their beaus every day of the week; and the association would be too close for comfort if they did.

May I suggest that your behavior in a logging camp needs to be more than ordinarily well-controlled?

Confidential to Skin Rash — If we bottle it all up too long, nature takes revenge. So you break out in a rash. See the doctor about the rash, and since your parents think that refusing discussion is the way to settle everything, find a grown-up you can unburden to.

To Sore Feet—It's a vicious circle when you can't take a walk because of sore feet; and your feet only need exercise to improve! Change the picture: get fitted with comfortable, low-heeled, strong-soled, round-toed shoes. The fitting should be done late in the day, after your feet have swelled slightly.

Start with a walk around the block. Next day make it two. See if you aren't soon striding out, taking long breaths, enjoying nature and hating to go back indoors!

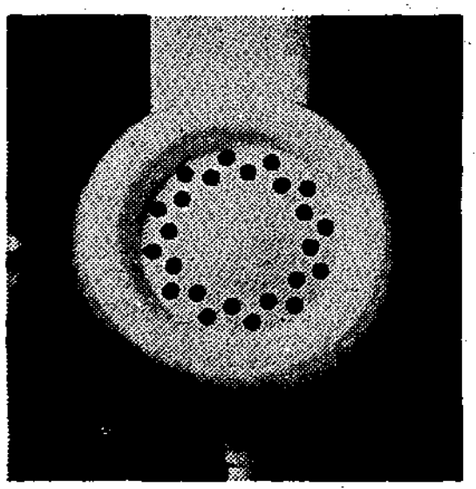
Salesman-of-the-year



The secret of making a business grow is, in most cases, quite simple—win more and more customers spread over a wider and wider area. Nothing helps you find them, sell them, satisfy them and re-sell them so quickly and economically as the skilled use of your telephone. Here are just a few profit-making ideas.

Call for Orders

This big-city truck dealer has no problem about keeping in touch with his many customers and prospects in distant parts of the province.

Head office sales staff follow up leads, arrange demonstrations, solicit orders and maintain contact with established customers by a carefully planned routine of Long Distance calls.

Think of the convenience! He has his customers at his fingertips and keeps right up with their requirements. Cost is negligible compared with operating local offices.

Finally, this dealer also lists a ZENITH number in key centres like Nanaimo, Kamloops and Prince George. It enables customers and prospects there to call him without cost to themselves—another valuable business-builder!

Salesman on the Wing

This salesman is on a trip through his company's market area, extending from Vancouver to the Lakehead. One of the most useful things he carries is his B.C. TEL Long Distance Credit Card.

This enables him to make Long Distance calls from anywhere. He uses it constantly to confirm appointments at his next stopover and contact inconveniently located accounts.

He also keeps in daily touch, of course, with head office: reporting on progress; channelling orders, queries and complaints for fast action; collecting fresh leads as he flies from point to point.

His periodic "swing through the territory" is quite an expensive item of overhead. Long Distance ensures, at minimum cost, that his company gets every last cent of value from it.

"Touring" by Phone

This busy Sales Manager, "tours" his area in a morning—with B.C. TEL's Sequence Calling service.

He simply gives the operator the list of Long Distance numbers he wants. She gets them for him in the right order and at the intervals most convenient for his other work.

He holds regular Conference Calls, too, with his company's three other offices in Calgary, Winnipeg and Toronto—all four of them on the line together, talking and listening as though they were in the same room.

There's no end to the profit-making uses of properly planned Long Distance calling. Ask one of our experienced Communication Experts to explain some of the possibilities for your business—naturally without obligation. Contact him TODAY.

"To call our nearest Marketing Representative ask the operator for ZENITH 7000 (there is no charge)"

Letters to editor

Editor: It is with great amazement I read of Chairman Hodgson's attempt to undermine the efforts of the Regional District board. It is even more surprising that he feels this is the time to protest such a formation.

As I recall the first meeting, Councillors Drummond and Feeney were the only ones from council asking questions about the voting strength of the present villages. Mr. Hodgson had the opportunity then and for several months after to register his misgivings. For him to wait until the advertisements were in and also while Councillor Feeney was absent is to me scandalous and puts the whole council in an embarrassing position.

As to his continued propaganda towards expanding Gibsons' boundaries, I suggest he is very likely ruining such chances with such an example of leadership. What is good for Gibsons is not necessarily good for the outside areas.

Irene Green, Granthams.
