SERVING THE GROWING SUNSHINE COAST

School tries pupil choices

An It's Up To You experiment in education was given a one week trial at Pender Harbour Secondary School. This allowed students to decide whether they would attend class or to study subjects of their own choice elsewhere in the school.

Final results of the venture are still to come from Principal D. Skelton, but the report he submitted to the school board contained partial results and comments from students. The board tabled the report for study.

Grades eight to 12 were involved and a four day percentage of those absent from classes ranged from a high of 59 percent to a low of 20 percent. The high was in the grade eights, and the low, grade 12.

Out of 103 letters sent to parents asking opinions on the venture six replied as being against seven seniors only, won't work for their children 3; an idea worth trying 15 and no answer 72. The 118 students involved missed 800 classes with the below average students accounting for more than half of the 800.

Here are comments from some of the students: Grade 12: Giving seniors more freedom from supervision would give students more incentive to pass . . . I feel that grade eight classes, particularly boys are missing too many classes for fun reasons . . . The kids in lower grades who know they are going to fail are taking advantage of the situation . . . If there is conflict between student and teacher they often work better separated . . . This experiment allows more study time on weak subjects . . . The system is very good for seniors who are trying to achieve better marks in academic subjects by studying during non-academic periods.

Grade 11: Those abusing it should be taken off for a week or so as punishment. . . I think those who want to benefit will find it convenient to bring marks up . . . You don't get so bored this way . . . It has already helped me in some courses . . . It gives the average and lower students a chance to communicate with teacher if top students are not there . . . This program has been a benefit to those who are using this privilege properly.

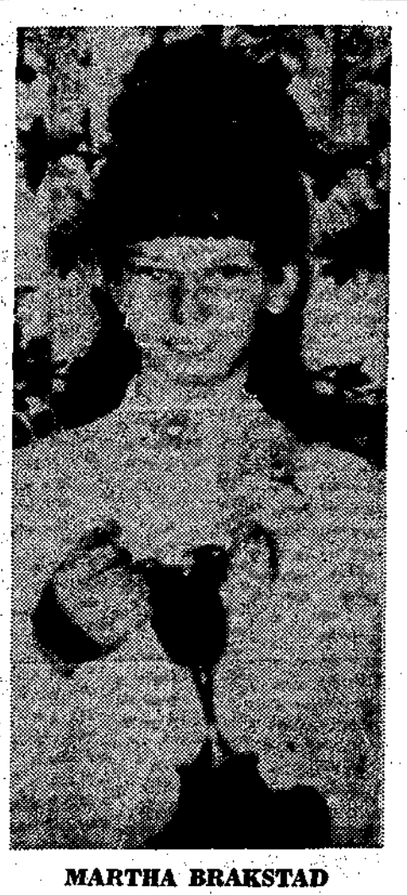
Grade 10: Allows students to make better grades in their poor subjects . . . I like the idea for grades 10, 11 and 12 but the teachers are passing off their responsibilities . . . It is helping some students but some are using this free time to help their love life. . . It clears classes for those who want to learn.

Grade 9: The people who abuse this plan are those who do not work in class . . . It is good because it gets grades 8 and 9 ready for university . . . The classes are a lot quieter so we learn more. . . If you don't get along with teacher you can skip class and probably learn more by yourself.

Grade 8: Have a room for those who want to study and a place for people who want to fool around . . . It is too bad for those who skip all classes . . . Some kids think it is just a joy ride and take advantage of it . . . I have been able to study for my marks that have dropped and I hope this will bring my marks up.

C OF C MEETING

Gibsons and District Chamber of Commerce members will gather Monday evening at 7 in the Welcome Cafe for a dinner meeting. There will be further discussion on support to be given students of Gibsons who will be going to Expo 67 in June.



MARTHA BRAKSTAD

Winner of Studio Challenge Cup, was awarded this trophy at the annual concert Saturday under sponsorship of the OES. This award is for the student receiving the highest marks in the Toronto Conservatory Examinations for 1966, in this case a very high mark, in the pianoforte class.

Liberty an assist?

Does freedom develop responsibility? Can students direct their own study programs? Will greater liberty contribute to a higher scholastic standing and more student enthusiasm?

These questions are being tested in a B.C. public school which functions under the provincial department of education. The success or failure of the program may influence policies for other school areas.

John Young is principal of Campbell River Senior Secondary school which has been featured in several newspaper and magazine articles for its novel and anti-traditional attitudes. One article in the weekend magazine of the Vancouver Province bore the title: Go ahead, kids, cut all the classes you want . . . All you have to do is keep your marks up and be a teenager in Campbell River, B.C.

Much of the publicity has been directed toward the voluntary attendance at classes, the common room privileges of seniors, the freedom of dress and of avant garde hairdo. Not so much on the responsibility of the students toward their own education has been fed to readers.

Mr. Young's ideas are modern and iconoclastic, but many appear to be working. The unusual aspects of his school's system are attracting progressive teachers.

Mr. Young has been called to speak about his policies and their practice so frequently that he is forced to limit his lectures. However, the Sechelt Teachers Association has been fortunate in bringing him to Gibsons, Friday evening, May 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Elementary School. The public is invited to hear him

PREMISES BROKEN INTO

Someone apparently seeking money only early Saturday broke into the Kenmac office and I & S plant on Sunshine Coast Highway and having found nothing moved into the Sunnycrest Shopping Centre area where they entered the Coin Drycleaning place and obtained cash amounting to $64. RCMP are investigating.

Channel 2 to expand

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation network television service in the Howe Sound area is expected to be on air during the week of May 15. The cost of developing and installing transmitters for the new service was $100,000.

A transmitter on Bowen Island will pick up the full network TV service from CBC Vancouver on Mount Seymour and rebroadcast it on Channel 13. The coverage area of this transmitter is expected to include the west side of Howe Sound from Gibsons past Port Mellon and south past Gibsons to Roberts Creek.

The Bowen Island signal will be rebroadcast at Squamish by a transmitter operating on Channel 11. This transmitter is expected to serve Woodfibre and Britannia in addition to Squamish.

CBC engineers suggest that in the borderline areas of coverage, some locations will get the best signal from Bowen Island, Channel 13, while others will find that Channel 11 Squamish, gives the best service.

Municipal hours set

At a special meeting of Gibsons council called to complete the 1967 budget several other matters were discussed and passed. They were:

Municipal hall office hours starting June 1 will be 10 to 12 a.m. and 1 to 4:30 p.m. each weekday except Saturday.

Arrangements were made for the clerk to have two weeks holiday with pay during his first year ending April 1 next year and three weeks holiday with pay for 1968.

It was also decided that councillors would get 12 cents per mile car expenses while travelling on municipal business. The works superintendent's pay was raised to $450 per month from Jan. 1.

A warning!

The B.C. Hydro Authority advises that the new transmission line built to serve Gibsons substation is being used as a garbage disposal area. Numerous amounts of garbage have been found on this right-of-way, north of Cemetery road.

On investigation by the Hydro Security department, a number of persons who admitted being guilty of the infraction, agreed to clean up the area before any action was taken.

It is an offense to dispose of any garbage or junk on transmission rights-of-way and other B.C. Hydro property and, in future, persons responsible for such an offense will be charged accordingly.

This investigation was carried out with the co-operation of the provincial department of health and the RCMP.

TROWER REMANDED

Peter Garard Trower of Gibsons, charged with being in possession of narcotics, marijuana, last week has been remanded for hearing to a date which will be agreed on later. He is now out on bail of $250.

School to be closed

Egmont school now housing eight pupils will be closed at the end of this school term, the school board decided at Monday night's meeting. Pupils will be transferred to Madeira Park schools. In the meantime transportation will be so arranged that they can be handled in the present setup.

The problem of the school came up when the Community association request for road access to the Community hall was argued. The association wanted the school board to donate ten feet of the present school lot while John Dunlop would donate another ten feet to make a 20 foot roadway. The present road has an awkward turn which the association sought to avoid. The board argued that if this was done it would eventually cost more to get other grounds for a new school. The present school property not suitable for future development will be turned over to its donor.

The secretary-treasurer, Peter Wilson, stressed that the closing of the school had nothing to do with the road issue as the board had the closing under discussion regardless of it. The school contains two rooms but only one is now in use. Board members were of the opinion that there did not appear to be any increase likely for the next few years in school population there. The association request for the new road allowance was turned down.

The building and grounds planning committee recommended that the B.C. Telephone building in Gibsons be rented to help provide adequate space for the educational supervisory staff and the business administration section. The board also voted themselves a $300 a year indemnity. Under the Schools act that is the limit they can vote.

Trustee Mrs. Celia Fisher recommended that the board advertise immediately for an adult education director in view of the fact that arrangements cannot be made for a joint appointment with the recreation agency of the area. The board agreed.

Tenders for site development work on the Elementary school grounds were discussed and it was revealed that Alfred Ritchey had withdrawn his tender of $2,940 on the basis that he had not considered the staking out of boundaries. On this basis the $5,577 tender of Walter Karateew being next lowest out of two remaining was accepted. The other tender was for $5,890.

Mrs. E. Prittie and Mrs. D. Connor appeared to enquire when Roberts Creek children would be able to play on the newly grassed playground. The board decided it would be better to let the grass have a chance to grow and said that it would take another look at the situation in September.

Principl W. S. Reid of Sechelt Elementary school asked for an increased budget as his enrolment of 300 would be increased by 50 when two classes of Indian children would be added. The district receives $25 per month per Indian pupil from the Indian Affairs department to cover education costs.

Principal Potter learned from board's correspondence that Elphinstone Secondary school had received accreditation for this year and also next year.

A maintenance staff union agreement was signed by Mrs. D. Szabo and Ed Sandy.

Experience!

Field trips to widen a child's horizons are a feature of school life from kindergarten onward. As students reach the senior grades they become more specialized and involve individuals rather than a whole group.

During this school year three students from Elphinstone have visited schools in other parts of B.C., becoming for several days a part of the student body of another school.

In September Norman Blatchford visited Oak Bay Secondary School in Victoria, while Mary Lamb went to Chilliwack Senior High.

Recently Joanne Wheeler spent a week at Campbell River's new Senior Secondary School, a school where new ideas of freedom with responsibility are being demonstrated.

These students will report on their experiences and the impressions they brought back of another student community at the PTA meeting, Tuesday, May 16 at 8 p.m. in the Library at Elphinstone.

Committee chairman changed

Following a check-up of operations of the Gibsons-Sechelt Airport management committee this statement was issued at Tuesday night's meeting of Gibsons Municipal Council:

It was deemed necessary to relinquish Commissioner Drummond as the Gibsons Landing representative on the Airport Management Committee.

A special meeting was called of this committee in Gibsons Municipal Hall April 12, with the following members present: Sechelt Municipality, Com. Hansen, Com. Morgan Thompson and Sechelt Village Chairman W. Swain. Gibsons Municipality representatives, Com. Peterson and Village Chairman Wes Hodgson.

After much discussion relative to the relinquishment from the committee a motion was passed in that: There had been evident lack of meetings of the committee and the financial statement as submitted by the airport committee as of December 31, 1966 was not detailed sufficiently. It was decided that nothing could be done until an audit had been made.

It was regularly moved and seconded that Mr. B. W. M. Bone, chartered accountant, be engaged for such audit. The audit having been completed a meeting of the airport committee was called and held in Gibsons Municipal Hall May 1 and the whole question of the auditor's report and the general management was dealt with.

The auditor's report in part read as follows: "There is a liability to the Bank of Montreal of $2,200 with interest at 6% in respect of a loan secured by a note dated March 2, 1967, repayable on demand signed by Commissioner Drummond and Com. MacKay. The latter ceased to be a member of the Gibsons Board of Commissioners at the end of 1966 and, presumably, automatically ceased to be member of the Airport Management committee. It would appear therefore, that the note given to the Bank of Montreal was irregularly signed. Furthermore Clause 7 of Bylaw No. 126 of the Village of Gibsons Landing states that the management committee shall not have power to incur liabilities except such as have been approved by the participating municipalities, and not exceeding the total of approvals of the respective municipalities. There appears to be no such approval in the minutes of the Village of Gibsons Landing. Com. MacKay also co-signed cheques issued by the Airport Management Committee in 1967."

A unanimous motion was regularly moved and seconded that From the auditor's report it was agreed that the chairman of the Gibsons-Sechelt Airport Management Committee, Commissioner Drummond referred to in auditor's report be severely criticized relative to his handling of this committee.

Unity in the Community gets things done

There are numerous items that could follow those question marks above but the one which predominates is the subject of this editorial. It is Gibsons July 1 celebration.

Are we going to have one? That is the first question to be asked. Right now there is no answer.

How many people have shown interest in it? So far there have been two meetings at which four persons turned up including the Coast News representative.

How many people would like to see a July 1 celebration? That is easy to answer. There are about 5,000 in Gibsons and adjacent areas who are planning to see it.

How are these 5,000 people going to see a July 1 celebration if only four people, including the press, show up for organizational meetings? That is the question that representative individuals of this area will have to answer themselves. They will have a chance to show their feelings at a meeting to be announced shortly.

This is our Centennial Year and it should result in a first class celebration. July 1 is a little more than eight weeks away. Are the people of this area so berift of public spiritedness that this year's celebration will just not occur?

The community-minded few that are striving to get the celebration going have expressed the desire to wash their hands of the whole thing if there is not sufficient support shown at the coming meeting. Take it from there folks.

A good aim helps

It is difficult to explain the juvenile type of mind that prefers destruction to leaving things alone. Psychologists might have an explanation but if they have it has not yet been put to usable advantage so far. Unnecessary destruction continues.

Take for instance the efforts to beautify the front of a good looking building with some greenery and flowering bulbs. The bulbs produce flowers, some rather nice tulips. What happens? Someone comes along, snaps off all the flowers and leaves them lying where they fell.

Take another case. A man leaves his car for a few minutes and comes back to find someone has twisted the radio antenna into a bow knot. Harmless fun? It is neither harmless nor fun. A good kick on the right spot of the anatomy may not be prescribed by some people but it could be highly effective.

Why did they ask?

In the display of preserving people's rights because police chiefs have asked for some further powers to be put on record to help them, one should not be too concerned about what they want. Instead one should delve a bit deeper and find out why they want such powers.

Coupled with the bill of rights that aids the criminal there should also be a bill of rights to aid the forces that protect us. However they must by law be hamstrung while the criminal element can have the pleasure of holding up the bill of rights to their advantage.

The scales of justice are weighted for the criminal — not in the courts but in the means available to the police in apprehending them. Justice is truly blind. Hypocrisy is the homage which vice pays to virtue.

What rights does a common law wife have against the estate of her deceased husband, who died without a will?

There is no such thing in B.C. as a common law wife.

The rest of the question indicated that the parties owned real property in joint tenancy and that the husband had a lawful wife and legitimate children. The half interest in real property owned by the deceased must, by law, go to the surviving joint tenant. The estate must be disposed of by the rules of intestacy which will be the subject of a separate article

A concubine has certain rights to claim against such an estate. A concubine means one who, at the time of the death of the deceased, is actually maintained by him or under his protection. Such a concubine is entitled to a maximum of $500 or ten percent of the estate, whichever is greater. There is a similar provision for illegitimate children.

The concubine must apply to the court and the widow and guardian of legitimate children must be notified and given an opportunity to appear at the hearing and be heard.

Minute message

How often is it that we hear something like this: Well under the circumstances I think I can do it for you? We often use such phrases as taking all things into consideration, or under the circumstances, but are we sure what we are saying? Are we not saying that we can't do just what we like, because we have got to consider this or that?

There are a good many parents, especially at this time of the year, who wish they could give their children a better chance in life, a better education, better food, better clothing, and a good many other things but their financial status will not allow them to do what they would like because under the circumstances it is not at all possible. We think of those in hospitals and in homes, who would willingly do this or that, but under the circumstances it is not possible.

Sometimes we find ourselves, and let's be honest with ourselves, apt to let these circumstances overshadow our intentions. What's the use, we say, the odds are against us, and so we let the matter drop. If we scan the pages of history we shall find a great many illustrations of men and women who overcame the circumstances, and because they did we are living under better conditions today.

It was under the circumstances of the times that our Lord was placed upon the Cross. If we feel that we are beaten by circumstances, then take another look at the earthly life of our Lord. On that Good Friday it looked as though evil had won the day, but under the circumstances it was goodness and truth that won the day.

In this Ascensiontide we look at the power which sustained our Lord through all the circumstances of His earthly life, and we see that He was lifted up to His rightful place, in order that we, as the children of God, could fulfil the purpose of our being. It is through the Ascension of our Lord that we are lifted up out of the rut of our worries into the very presence of God Himself. — Rev. J. H. Kelly, Anglican Church of Canada.

Indigestible air!

After dinner anti-acid pills or medicine to relieve stomach upset may be a waste of time, money and complicate the condition.

The most common gastro-intestinal disorder is aerophagia, or simple swallowing of air, says Andre Turgeon, M.D., chief of medicine at St. Joseph's Hospital, Sudbury.

Only 10 percent of internal gases come from fermentation of food; 20 percent from diffusion of gases from the blood. All the rest comes from swallowed air, says Dr. Turgeon in The Medical Post.

The physiological fact is that the nitrogen in air cannot be absorbed into the system. It is regurgitated, expelled or stays in the gastro-intestinal tract to cause irritation and degrees of discomfort. Over the years this chronic discomfort is often mistaken for gall stones, colitis, etc. Many people bear the scars of physicians' attempts to relieve their patients of this discomfort, says Dr. Turgeon.

Gum chewing, candy sucking, excessive smoking, overeating, improperly chewed food, too much fluid taken with meals are some of the bad eating habits which induce air gulping and cause belching.

A monster locomotive

The largest exhibit ever acquired by the National Museum, a monster locomotive, No. 3100 of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, was hauled into Ottawa for eventual display in the Museum of Science and Technology.

While a link with the not too distant past, having retired from service in 1958, it was built in 1928 and operated in the Toronto-Montreal area until 1954. In 1955 it was transferred to the west where it shuttled between Maple Creek and Medicine Hat for a year. Then in 1956 it was converted from a coal burner to an oil burner and operated between Calgary and Winnipeg until retirement.

DON'T BE AFRAID OF THE BOGEYMAN . . . !

He Doesn't Exist!

The Bogeyman we are speaking of is the imaginary one of "Building Regulations," that are presently under active consideration by the members of the Sunshine Coast Regional Board.

The Board members are unanimous in recommending that a Building Code be made law in this area and to this end the National Building Code, a provincially recommended Plumbing Code, and a Dept. of Health and Sewage Code will be adopted in due course. We will take great care to point out that these codes are not restrictions, they are constructive and helpful.

The regulations are designed to help, not hinder. To assist and not prohibit. The Building Inspector will have instructions as board policy to adapt to conditions, to be helpful, or to work to protect the builders interests and investment.

Our policy overall in adapting these various construction regulations is to raise and maintain the standard of the whole community, to protect the existing owners from loss of values, the actions of rogues, and finally to protect fools from themselves.

The area directors are listed below and will make themselves available to any resident who wishes information or assurances. Please feel free to call on all or any members of the Sunshine Coast Regional Board for help and information. This is your community and we invite your participation.

Council seeking answer to Sechelt C of C letter

Chairman William Swain informed Sechelt council at last Wednesday night's meeting that he had received a letter addressed to him from Sechelt's Chamber of Commerce. This letter inquired about the two large lots adjacent to the village which have become a controversial issue with the chamber.

The chamber's letter inquired whether it was correct to say that at one time these two lots could have been obtained free by the village. The chairman explained he had held the letter over since receiving it in order to investigate the point raised. As far as he was concerned, after searching through council correspondence there was nothing which showed that the land could have been obtained free. He added he was surprised at the suggestion.

Since receiving the letter he had discussed the matter with Hon. Mrs. Isabel Dawson, minister without portfolio in the provincial government and suggested that she approach Hon. Ray Williston, minister of lands and forests to get the required information so he could pass it on to the chamber of commerce.

Chairman Swain sought council's opinion on whether he had done the right thing to approach the minister to find out just how the matter stood. Only members of council present along with the chairman were Councillor Miss Adele de Lange and Councillor Morgan Thompson. They agreed he had done the right thing.

The land in question was held by the government four years ago for the use of Sechelt on the basis of recreational use. The original plan was to lay out a golf course but this fell through when backers of such a course formed a club and started to build a course in Roberts Creek area. Since then general interest in the two lots has waned.

B P W hears principal speak

Following the monthly dinner of the Sunshine Coast Business and Professional Women's club at the Winning Post, Ole's Cove Resort, Tuesday, May 2, Mrs. R. McLintock membership chairman, introduced four guests as prospective members. Mrs. Daisy de Lange, from Hove, England, was presented by her niece, Adele de Lange.

Before business was transacted, members were given an interesting talk by Mr. Weldon Reid, principal of the Sechelt Elementary School, on the current question of integration of the Indian children into the local educational system. His sympathetic and enthusiastic approach to a problem which is of concern to many citizens was appreciated by all, and the club was promised a return visit when Mr. Reid would have more concrete results to report.

Following a short business session the annual meeting took place. The new executive for 1967-68 comprises of Mrs. Grace Harling, president; Adele de Lange, vice-president; Mrs. Doreen Lee, secretary and Mrs. Helen Bathgate, treasurer. Mrs. McLintock continues as membership chairman and the publicity and program will be undertaken by Mrs. Jo Benjafield and Mrs. Kay White respectively.

On adjournment of the annual meeting, Mrs. Benjafield held a short session covering the resolutions to be presented to the annual conference of the clubs of British Columbia and Yukon, at Pinewoods Lodge, Manning Park, on May 20 to 22. The members notified their wishes to the delegates who will attend.

Quiet follows Sunday's festival

To write a blow by blow description of Sunday's Sunshine Coast Arts Council second annual Spring Festival would not achieve a great deal other than to make participants in the festival happy that their names appeared in print. So it is going to get a review instead.

Elphinstone hall was filled. The audience was enthusiastic and only waned in enthusiasm when the Sechelt Indian band offered a couple of items too many and the loud noise presented by the 50 participants in the band wore down the audience at a fairly fast rate. However the Indian band deserves credit for its performance and colorful appearance. Such a band requires a hall larger than anything available here.

While the Indian band was pounding its way through its program, members of the visiting orchestra backstage, startled at first, became intrigued by the performance The drummer started extemporizing and the pianist joined in with extemporizations, others joining in. They had a ball of their own which owing to the din on the audience side of the curtain did not penetrate the barrier.

The program was based on a script written by Ray Holbrook and Gordon Inglis with narration by Mr. Inglis, Joan Blomgren, Wayne Wright and Telford Oliver. It had a Centennial Expo 67 theme and definitely, after the groundwork had been laid, did not get in the way of the action in the hall.

The question to ask is what is the festival trying to achieve? Bringing in professionals from Vancouver can have two purposes, to attract an audience and to let some of the professionalism rub off on the young musical aspirants who sat with them and played. Apparently this occurred because the youngsters were thrilled to the core. Members of the Dave Robbins band were completely engulfed by the experiment of playing alongside enthusiastic youngsters.

Watching the professionals was a treat in itself with some noting the fingering of the young players as they tooted their horns or whatever they had. The odd smile appeared on the faces of the professionals but they were just as delighted with what was going on as were the young players.

Mr. Klyne Headley and the Arts Council should be congratulated on their foresight in anticipating what they hoped would happen. It did and the young band players and members of the elementary school choral group are happy as the result of having rubbed shoulders with artists of excellent calibre in their own fields.

Construction of Elphinstone gymnasium even with a stage available is not the best of places to have a large orchestra heavily laced with brass instruments. Neither was it the best of places to allow the elementary school choir to display itself at its best. Nevertheless the choir did an excellent job under direction of its conductor, Mrs. Muriel Neilson and enjoyed themselves just as much as the young bandsmen when taking part in massed arrangements.

To name everyone who took part in the organization of the festival would be very nice but with space at a premium they will have to accept a general offer of congratulations. It was team work involving a great of orgnization. So to each one, congratulations. — F.C.

Rangers add to strength

J. C. Sheasgreen, retiring president of the Canadian Forestry Association of B.C. stated in his annual report that during 1966 the association used 22 channels of mass education to inform the public on the need of conservation of renewable natural resources. These included a press bureau in alliance with all the daily and weekly newspapers, a radio broadcast bureau with continuous access to 35 stations and a staff of lecturers travelling to forest communities to organize the population in fire prevention and the preparation and distribution of forestry publications for use by youth and adults.

During the year the C.F.A. added 411 new members through out British Columbia bringing the membership up to a total of 2,018 paid members, the highest in the association history. They also have enrolled 5,825 junior members comprising 5,500 boys in the Junior Forest Wardens and 325 girls in the Girl Forest Guards.

Youth activities of the association expanded greatly last year Summer camping programs were increased and 512 youngsters had the opportunity of attending the fine camping facilities at Evans Lake for a period of eight days.

In addition the camp facilities were made available to boys of the Vancouver Metropolitan area to enjoy week-end camping all year round. The association introduced night school classes in forestry in both Prince George and Vancouver. Already requests for night school courses have been received from many other areas.

Assistants hard to find

Following publication of an advertisement seeking an assistant to the village clerk at Sechelt it was announced at Sechelt's council meeting last week that three replies had been received.

Owing to the fact that there were only two councillors present out of four, it was decided to hold the three letters over to the next full council meeting May 18.

Clerk Ted Rayner informed council that on three other occasions council had tried to obtain an assistant, without success.

The Davis Ottawa Diary

By JACK DAVIS, M.P.
Coast-Capilano Constituency

Each year, members of parliament are treated to a familiar western. The good guy, Auditor General Andrew Maxwell Henderson, unmasks a lot of bad guys. Usually Mr. Henderson is exposing government employees who have been careless with respect to government spending.

True, the act differs from year to year. But some bad practices have a habit of cropping up again and again. These Mr. Henderson really has to hit hard as defender of the public purse.

One of these hardy perennials has been the government's failure to implement all of the recommendations in the Glassco report. This report on government organization was completed back in 1962. It pointed out 276 different ways in which the government could save money. Only 150 have been implemented to date. More than 100 remain to be tackled if our civil service is to save the taxpayers money as it should.

A lot, admittedly, has been done. Take for instance the installation of the treasury board as the central planning agency for all government departments. A central data processing bureau has been set up. All government purchasing is now done by a single department of supply. And letter writing has given way, in many instances, to the use of the telephone, thereby cutting down on unnecessary paper work.

But there are other economies which can, and must, be made. Take for instance the $450,000 paid to CBC personnel in 1965 for doing nothing. True, they were protected by union agreements. But these agreements should be scrapped when they come up for negotiation again.

This was only one of literally dozens of specific complaints listed in the auditor general's report. Take B.C. Hydro's failure to pay the federal sales tax on natural gas for instance. It owed Ottawa $112,000 at the end of 1966.

Residents of the west coast will perhaps remember the sinking of an oil barge in Howe Sound in 1964. Raising this barge and recovering the oil cost the federal treasury $400,000. Next time those who abandoned the hulk should foot the bill for its recovery. They, however, can only be made to do this if appropriate amendments to the Canada Shipping Act are made.

I could go on. I could list numerous other instances in which public monies have either been wasted or cannot be recovered from the guilty party. But members of parliament spend many hours going over the auditor general's report with a fine tooth comb. They do this in the public accounts committee and they ask questions — hundreds of questions — aimed at making sure that these things don't happen again.

I only wish that there were similar machinery for uncovering waste and exposing our misdeeds in Victoria. We need a public watchdog there as well. The sooner a public accounts committee, including many opposition M.L.A.'s, gets going there the better.

MAY 14 MOTHER'S DAY
A great day to discover how little long distance costs

On this special day the voices of loved ones, perhaps from hundreds of miles away, have a special place in our hearts. Memories are sharpened, experiences recaptured. It is a day when togetherness means so much and—as always with B.C. TEL—costs so little.

Now a student son or daughter away at college can afford a long distance call home (especially if they call "collect"!). Long distance rates are among the very few items of personal expenditures which, over the years, have lagged far behind the general rise in other living costs. In fact, many long distance calls actually cost less in dollars and cents today than 10 years ago. Moreover, after 6 pm and all day Sunday they are cheaper by about one-fifth.

Check the rates yourself in your telephone book or dial "O" and ask the operator. You'll be surprised how little it costs to enjoy "the next best thing to being there." Here, for example, are a few current charges:

VANCOUVER—PRINCE GEORGE.....$1.35
NEW WESTMINSTER—CALGARY.....$1.50
VICTORIA—TORONTO.....$1.95
(Evening, station-to-station calls, first 3 minutes)

On this important day of the year there's more reason than ever to use Long Distance for all it's worth!

Pests that bother gardeners

The few insects that occasionally attack house plants and become troublesome cause many people to seek out methods of control, some of which cause more damage to the plants than the insects themselves.

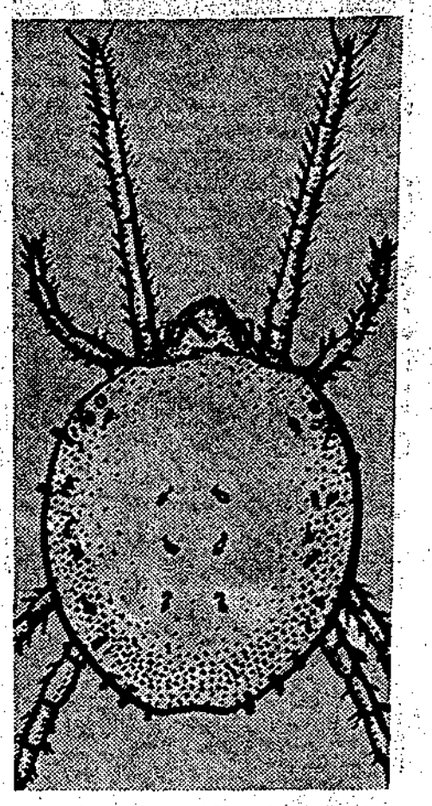
Many pests around plants are not harmful insects at all, but little flies that hop and skip around the plants during watering. These are harmless since they thrive on decayed matter in the soil. Their presence usually indicates a good organic soil mixture which should produce vigorous plants that are better able to ward off serious pests.

These harmless insects multiply very rapidly, however, and have an annoying habit of clinging to walls and making themselves generally obnoxious. To get rid of them, drench the soil with chlordane, one level teaspoon of 50-percent wettable chlordane in one quart of water.

Other harmless bugs are the small, white jumping insects known as springtails, which also live on organic matter. These are seen on the surface of the soil or in the water contained in the plant saucers. These too, can be controlled by chlordane mixed as above or by malathion, half teaspoon of 50-percent emulsifiable concentrate in one quart of water.

The following are the most serious pests of house plants: Mealy bugs are oval insects with a mealy, waxy material that is impervious to most insecticides. Scale insects, immobile insects related to the mealy bugs, have scalelike armor and are almost immune to spray attacks. Aphids may be black, red or green. Red spider mites, small spiderlike mites that weave webs on the undersides of leaves and on stems, flourish in our dry home conditions, and once established will thrive and multiply.

A group of plants often has its own specific insect that seems to be particularly troublesome. Examples are the cyclamen mite or African violet mite, the fern scale and the cyclamen weevil. These plants may need special treatment if you have large collections of any of them.



An enlarged drawing of the two-spotted or red spider mite.

The first measure of control for any of these insects is to thoroughly wash the plants under a tap in the sink. Mealy bugs and scale will have to be removed first with the finger nails, or stiff brush. Then, spray commended insecticide for the particular insect present.

If you have mealy bugs or scale, spray with a malathion emulsion, one teaspoon per gallon of water, or wash the leaves with a nicotine soap solution containing one and one quarter teaspoonfuls of nicotine sulphate and one ounce of soap per gallon of water. The soap should be first mixed with hot water. A commercial preparation containing an oil and nicotine sulphate provides good control for these insects. Be sure to read the label, because some plants are easily damaged by the spray.

Red spider mites are best controlled with a commercial miticide, which is found in many of the house plant sprays or aerosols. It is also possible to control the pests by a forceful water spray from a hose or syringe. This is best done outside during mild weather or in a sink under a forceful cold water tap.

Aphids may be controlled by spraying or dipping the plants in a malathion emulsion or the nicotine sulphate and soap preparation mentioned for scale and mealy bugs.

These sprays may be had from your seedsman in small quantities and should be kept on hand at all times. Sprays packaged in aerosol containers can be bought and they are easy to use and apply.

The most infallible way to eliminate house plant pests is by using preventative measures. Insects that attack plants will not breed in a house where there is no vegetation. They must be brought in with some kind of plant material, flowers, fruits, or new plants.

Each time you buy flowers or plants watch carefully for insects, and when you get a others for a month. Then if no new plant, isolate it from the pests are present, put it with your other plants.

Be careful about new soil you bring in. The kind you buy at stores is usualy free of pests, but earth you bring in from your own garden may harbor untold numbers of pests or eggs.

Watch your plants for signs of insect injury. Give them a good spray under the bathroom tap occasionally and they should be entirely free of bugs. Washing the dust off the leaves will also improve their health.

There is no need to get special equipment for insect control of most house plants. All you need is a bucket filled with an insecticide mixture into which the whole plant may be plunged. When dipping a plant, make sure your fingers hold the soil ball inside the pot, or else the whole plant may slip out of its pot and become immersed. Dipping is often much more reliable than spraying, since the whole plant will be covered with the insecticide. The water must be of room temperature.

DEAR DORIS advice from Doris Clark

The fresh fiance

DEAR DORIS — My daughter's fiance paws, puts his arms around my daughter in public, pulls her down on his knee. She tries to push him off, but he keeps on.

What does this indicate in his character?

Worried Paw

DEAR PAW — That he can't keep his hands off her, likely. Many English Canadians find a little restraint in public desirable, to say the least.

Yet our European friends show a good deal more affection than we do; and they have a point. Humans need affection.

And so it goes. If your daughter finds him too demonstrative when others are around, have her mention it when they are alone.

DEAR DORIS — My husband rejected our fourth child right away — this would always be an unwanted child like he was himself. He kept saying this all during the pregnancy. We just fell apart, although we had always been very close.

He also wanted me to have a sterilization operation, which I had done right after the baby was born, so we cannot have any more children. Now I have found out that he has lived a double life with our church soloist. This went on all during the pregnancy.

I told our minister that the rejection of our child has hurt me more than his unfaithfulness. He cannot understand this. I see our children as a gift from God.

Rejected Too

DEAR REJECTED — In my book he is the unnatural one. Yet there is a subtle difference in our approach here to infidelity; whereas some European cultures can wink at this while they turn things inside out to provide happiness for their children, bless 'em!

But I'd want to know what started things falling apart. With a background of rejection, this unhappy man was perhaps unready for the adjustments (including your difference in culture) which marriage demanded; and when the glamor wore off, he looked around for more excitement.

I'd guess the new attachment won't last either. Counselling might still bring hope. For the children's sake, try it.

DEAR DORIS — My boy (10) is greatly overweight. The only help I received from his doctor was "Don't let him eat so much."

So I went on a diet with him. He lost two and one-half pounds in that first month and gained back one pound. I keep a graph on the cupboard door which is coded so guests can't read it and tease him. He is learning which foods are the weight bearers.

I give him 25 cents a week if he holds his original weight; 50 cents if he loses.

He has learned that one slice of bread and jam can be allowed where two, three and four are not necessary. Eats an apple for a bedtime snack.

He's active, shovels snow, walks to school, plays violently and normally. He finds it difficult to do gym work because there is no one strong enough to swing him over or hold down his feet.

Comments Please

DEAR COMMENTS — Bravo! It would be folly to work for any more sudden loss than you are doing. With a growing boy you simply must keep on with the nourishing, bone building elements. This way, your boy will learn good eating habits.

My leaflet "Is Your Child a Fatty?" may have a few more hints for you; it is on its way to you.

Being the right weight does more than protect physical health; the ragging a fatty takes can do real harm to his peace of mind.

DEAR DORIS — (1) How long before the wedding should a trousseau tea be held?

(2) Are the sender's names let on the gifts?

(3) Would it be proper for the groom's mother to invite some of her relatives and friends, when the bride's mother doesn't know them?

Bride's Mother

DEAR MOTHER — (1) Within a few days of the wedding; should be late enough that just about all the gifts are in and can be on display.

(2) No.

BUILDING FOR THE FUTURE

BY NANCY GAYLORD

FASHION CONSULTANT TO THE 160 SINGER CENTERS IN CANADA.

Built-in belts are the newest idea on casual tweeds and plaids. The belt (of leather or suede) is actually the waistband on smart skirts and slacks, less bulk for a smaller, neater waist.

The secret of elegant women: rich, beautiful fabrics plus ultra-simple styling, a formula any home-fashion-maker can master. Translate a design that frankly flatters into a multitude of luscious colors and textures to wear round-the-clock. Eleminate fussy details and non-essentials and sew carefully, to produce a dress that enhances "you" without stealing the show.

Accent the positive. A tiny waist deserves a bit of fit or a smart belt to show it off. Slender hips love slim styling and low-slung belts. Short swinging skirts and hemline accents of braid, pleats or bands focus attention on shapely legs. Frame a pretty face with important collars, scarves or jewelry.

A twist of clinging crepe, a ruffle of delicate lace, a luscious curve of velvet, a sliver of refined tweed — a romantic and mysterious, a touch of old-would femininity to chase away the harsh go-go look. This is the way Balenciaga feels about spring. Hurray for Balenciaga!

To wear now, glass or brass bubbles to swing from your ears by the fine gold chains. In enameled pastels, marbled jewel shades or brilliant polished metals, to bob and sway as you frug in your new tent dress.

Beauty hints

By LYNN CARTER

Q. Any suggestions for better and smother-looking lipstick application?

A. If you'll pat on a light coating of powder over your lips beforehand, the color will go on more smoothly, will hold more even line, and will remain on longer.

Q. Do you advocate very tight permanents so they will last longer?

A. Not at all. The usual penalty of over-tight permanents is two to four weeks of unbecoming frizziness. Much, MUCH better is too little curl at the end of a permanent's life than too much at the beginning!

Q. My powder is continually caking around my nose. What can I do about this?

A. You might try using less foundation, and spreading it thinly. Probably the lighter liquid type is best for you. Then tissue-blot it to remove the excess before powdering lightly over it.

Q. I've heard of the benefits of steam-cleaning the face. How is this done?

A. Either by holding your face over a pot of boiling water with your head covered with a big turkish towel (being careful, of course, of steam burns) or by folding a towel into two or three layers, dousing in hot water, then putting this on your face. You can do this two or three times during the steaming, then dash your face with cold water to prevent too much relaxation of the pores. Finish up the treatment by applying a thin layer of skin cream and leaving this on for at least a half-hour. All this not only deep-cleans your pores because of the increased perspiration it produces, but it also brings a wonderful natural blush to your cheeks — a nice effect for special occasions. And also, your pores will be especially responsive to massage after such a treatment.

Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. When a man is assisting a woman out of an automobile, should he take her hand or her elbow?

Q. At a church wedding, on which side of the centre aisle should pews be reserved for the bride's family, and for the groom's family?

A. The left side (facing the altar) for the bride's family, and the right side for the groom's family.

Q. When a girl is walking along the street with a man and he speaks to someone she doesn't know, should she speak also?

A. She should smile and nod her head. This holds true for the man also, should she speak to an acquaintance.

Q. Is it in good taste to use correspondence cards?

A. For the short, informal type of notes, these cards are in very good taste and quite popular, too — for both men and women. They should, however, be used only for strictly informal correspondence.

A. There is usually a side entrance near the chancel where they enter, and where they are joined by the clergyman.

Q. I have been asked to pour tea at an afternoon social in the near future. How long am I supposed to remain at the tea table?

A. Just so long as guests are arriving and asking for tea?

Q. Should a college girl introduce herself as Miss Collins or as Janet Collins?

A. She should call herself Janet Collins.

Q. Is one supposed to tip the pianist in a cocktail lounge when he or she has played a special-request number for one?

Turkey, onions may go up

In their forecast of the nation's food outlook for May, economists of the Canada Department of Agriculture note that prices of broiler turkey and onions may go up.

The forecast is:

Broiler Turkey — Production is somewhat reduced and prices may advance slightly.

Apples — Plentiful supplies at stable prices.

Onions — Stocks are below normal for the time of year and prices may firm.

Beef — Marketings of high quality beef are expected to be above last year, and lower quality in smaller volume, with little change in prices.

Pork — Prices are expected to remain firm with supplies about in balance with market demand.

School traffic to be eased

A meeting with officials concerning the traffic problem at Gibsons Elementary school, arranged by Gibsons municipal council, bore fruit, Councillor Fred Feeney reported at last Tuesday night's special meeting.

He reported it had been decided to widen the parking pull-off adjacent to the school on School road and erect signs on the opposite side to prohibit parking on School days.

Council will purchase the necessary signs and arrange for the widening of the off-road parking area.

Fire meeting

A Pender Harbour meeting to elect five trustees for the Pender Harbour Fire Protection district will take place Sunday at 2 p.m. in Madeira Park Community Hall.
