Youth faces Elphinstone fire arson charge

Board's rebuilding plan unchanged

The school board has decided to maintain its position of preparing for a 900 pupil Elphinstone school while at the same time investigating a 300 pupil junior high school for Sechelt area.

The motion covering the situation as passed Thursday of last week provides room for the school board to consider a Sechelt school and if it is held not warranted the building of the complete Elphinstone school becomes automatic.

Here is the motion which was passed by the board:

WHEREAS the board of school trustees of School District No. 46 (Sechelt) desire to commence as soon as possible with the reconstruction of a secondary school on the Elphinstone site and

WHEREAS the plans for the above construction are to incorporate the capacity for an ultimate enrolment of 900 pupils and

WHEREAS the first stage of construction is to accommodate 600 pupils with the provision that the gymnasium, library, and the administrative areas are built to the 900 pupil capacity and

WHEREAS the board wishes to have a feasibility study for a junior secondary school in the Sechelt area such study to be based on enrolment trends.

WHEREAS if the above study indicates that the desireability of building the Sechelt project at a future date, then the following resolution shall apply and

WHEREAS funds for the Sechelt project may require a referendum, and in the event the referendum is defeated therefore be it resolved that the school board proceed with Stage 2 at Elphinstone, namely the building to be expanded to the full 900 pupil entitlement.

Mrs. Labonte in opening debate invited discussion by going around the table trustee by trustee and after waiting for someone to start, decided to make the first move and after preliminary remarks said there were not enough pupils for a Sechelt school and that the board should go for the 900 pupil school in Gibsons. If predictions came true she said we would then have to go for a second school.

Trustee J. MacLeod (Selma Park) first time around was indefinite. Trustee Terry Booth (Sechelt) maintained a school had to be built. A small high school cannot offer required subjects. He was educated in a small school. He was going for a big school.

Trustee William Nimmo said briefly re-building the present Elphinstone school would be most beneficial.

Trustee Joseph Horvath (Roberts Creek) said he could not consider anything less than a 600 pupil school therefore it was a little early for a second school.

Trustee P. Prescesky (Pender Harbor) said he came to the same opinion as the chairman. It was good time to put into effect two stages of building in order to allow time for investigation of a second school

Trustee J. MacLeod (Sechelt Rural) maintained the board had drifted into the present situation without considering other sites. Roberts Creek had been ignored and Sechelt had not really been considered. No extensive study had been planned. He would like to see a study for an 8-9-10 school separate from Elphinstone.

Mr. Hanna, superintendent said he would take another look at school population and also find out what education department thinking would be.

To ascertain where students live has required a new tabulation as a result of the former one being destroyed in the school fire. When that is complete, Mr. Hanna said, it will be possible to define population in the two areas. Hall road, Roberts Creek is the boundary with the possibility of Hall road falling either in the Sechelt or Gibsons territory.

Mr. Hanna had at a previous meeting shown that school population for a Sechelt secondary unit of 300 would hit its peak of 242 in 1975 then on the present student basis recede to 146 in 1980 based on present junior grades.

The board had three motions before it but two of them the Chairman Labonte motion and the Yorkston (assistant secretary) motion were in the main similar to the Horvath motion so they were discarded and the meeting delved into the Horvath notion.

When it came to a vote, an amendment removed from the feasibility study for a Sechelt school 'the study of site, building and equipment,' which would not be required if the population figure did not warrant a school. This amendment was approved and the main motion was put resulting in the chairman declaring the motion carried when hands were raised by Mrs. Labonte and Trustees Booth, Horvath and Nimmo.

At the request of Gibsons RCMP, Danny Joseph Paul of Porpoise Bay was arrested by Sechelt RCMP on Sept. 23 in connection with the June 30 fire which destroyed Elphinstone Secondary School.

A formal charge has been laid by the Gibsons RCMP. Paul has obtained legal counsel in the person of Don Wilson, a Vancouver lawyer.

Police offer no details leading to the arrest of Paul other than to say they had been working on the case for some time.

His second appearance in court Tuesday resulted in a further remand without plea until Oct. 16.

This book well worth $6

'The Sunshine Coast Region: Planning for the Future.' This is the title on a 138 page book published as a joint venture between the Regional District board and the School of Community and Regional Planning of the University of British Columbia.

The book now released through the Regional District board is available at $6 per copy. To those interested in the future of the area this should be a must purchase. It was prepared over several months during the past year by six third year students in Regional planning and they have produced the most complete job of assessing the area that has ever been done.

At the start the class volunteered to do the job if the Regional board approved. The cost would be minimal covering travelling expenses which actually did not go very far past the $1,000. The students explored in every direction they could think of and have produced a book which should be a model for other areas.

They had three concepts for the future. Concept One they predicted would be expected to cause a decline in the rate of economic growth and development. Concept Three would in effect urbanize the Sunshine Coast to the extent that the quality of outdoor recreation opportunities and the undeveloped natural resource base would no longer be major characteristics of the region.

Concept Two is based on the premise that while the natural character of the Sunshine Coast represents an important value, the livability of the region could be greatly enhanced through controlled development of the region's social and economic environments. Under this concept presently inaccessible areas might be opened to low density vacation home development to the extent possible without seriously impairing the quality of the landscape. Urban development and economic activities would be selectively encouraged but restricted to existing developed areas to increase the efficiency of services and the diversity of social opportunity.

Upon consideration of the region's natural features, the residents' stated desires, and the trends and issues confronting the people in the Sunshine Coast region, it is the view and recommendation of the study team that CONCEPT TWO be adopted and that the policies therein be implemented by the Regional District

W. N. VENABLES, director of the provincial pollution control branch wields the scissors which cut the ribbon marking officially the opening Saturday of Gibsons water pollution control centre on Stewart road. To the right is Don Lockstead, M.L.A. in front with Mayor Walter Peterson holding the ribbon as it was cut. Others present for the function were Harry Olaussen, Coast-Chilcotin MP, William Hamilton, control board district manager; Martin Dayton, who engineered the sewage system for council, and Alds. K. H. Hoehne R. E. Hume and W. F. Robinson. Refreshments followed at the United Church Hall. About 30 persons attended the function by invitation.

Aldermen say by-election vote total disappoints

In an election noticed by very few Gibsonites, William R. Laing with 153 votes was elected to fill the council seat vacated when Ald. Hugh Archer moved away from the area. Mr. Laing's opponent Ian J. MacKenzie obtained 55 votes.

Close to 1,000 Gibsons taxpayers could have voted. Mr. Laing will sit as alderman until Mr. Archer's time will have expired in December, 1974.

The smallness of the vote drew comment from council at its Tuesday night meeting. Ald. Kurt Hoehne asked the clerk to find out how much the by-election had cost. Mayor Wally Peterson said knowing that would not help as council had to perform certain acts which were compulsory.

Ald. Ted Hume and Winston Robinson were both disappointed in the lack of interest by the public. The newly elected alderman, William Laing did not attend council meeting as he had left on holidays.

BROKEN TOYS NEEDED

Toys that need repairing are sought by Gibsons Volunteer Firemen's wives who see they are fixed up and turned over to the Elves club for distribution to needy families. Contributions can be left at any gas service station in Gibsons.

Rise and Shine!

Rise and Shine, a Christian folk singing group wll appear in concert Saturday at 7 p.m. in Gibsons United Church hall. It will be in the form of a sing-a-long for families so bring your youngsters as well. There will be a door collection and refreshments.

SUSPECT PICKED UP

Robert Scriber of no fixed address was detained by Gibsons RCMP on a Canada-wide warrant for arrest, in connection with a charge of bank robbery. Toronto Metro police picked the man up here from the RCMP and escorted him back to Toronto.

Construction total record continues

While Regional District building construction figures are showing the usual fall decline in such work the figure so far for 1973 continues to be of record-breaking dimensions.

Up to the end of September building figures for the entire Regional District excluding Gibsons and Sechelt totalled $5,539,500. The 1972 year end figure totalled $4,160,100.

This year's residential building figure totals 231 homes from January to September. Last year's total for the year was 190 homes.

The figures were revealed in the monthly report to the board by F. A. Reyburn, building and plumbing inspector. He also reported he was raising the square foot calculation for building from $18 to $20.

Willmott replaces Charles Gooding

E. Willmott, assistant secretary- treasurer of the Regional District board has been named secretary-treasurer filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Charles Gooding. This was confirmed at last Thursday's Regional District board meeting.

In the meantime efforts to fill the post occupied by Mr. Willmott have not been too successful. Applications so far have come from individuals without experience in the field of municipal affairs. Further advertising will take place.

Oct. 15 deadline for land briefs

The Sunshine Coast Regional District requests that written briefs be submitted to the Regional Planner on or before Oct. 15 regarding farm land reserve proposals. A plan of the reserves is posted in the district office for examination. It is noted the Land Commission will consider some changes to the reserve proposals on the following basis:

1. Land can be removed from the proposed farm land reserve if it is already urbanized or if it is adjacent to an urbanized area and will be serviced with roads, community water systems etc. within the next five years. Subdivisions "in process" may be considered for exclusion.

2. Land can be removed from the proposed farm land reserve if it can be documented that an error has been made in the Canada Land Inventory.

3. Land can be added to the proposed farm land reserve if it is deemed desirable to include that land and if it has predominantly Class 5 or better soils.

Wih the aid of a grant from the B.C. Land Commission, the Regional board has hired an additional staff member to handle the workload associated with the Farmland Reserve Plan by-law. Mr. W. Parker will be employed for one month and will be in charge of the preparations for public hearings and interpretative work associated with the preparation of the plans which will designate the farmland reserves.

SEPTEMBER DRY, MILD

September rainfall totalled 1.70 inches. This is less than the average of 3.55 inches and is the lowest September rainfall since 1965. September also had the highest maximum temperature of the year with 81 degrees on Sept. 5. Overnight temperatures dropped to 46 degrees on Sept. 25 and 30.

A remarkable survey

Student Project 10 does not convey much meaning to the people of the Sunshine Coast but if that population took time to explore 138 pages of a book entitled The Sunshine Coast Region: Planning for the Future, the time thus spent would not be wasted.

Student Project 10 is the result of a request from third year students of the U.B.C. School of Community and Regional Planning. Their finished product in the form of a book contains the names of six students who made the survey. These students did their job at minimal expense to the Regional District board to whom they made their request they be allowed to do the survey.

Under the guidance of William Rees, assistant professor of the school they produced a report which "confronts squarely the issues, choices and trade-offs in planning for social, economic and ecological stability in a resource conversion economy."

To strive to outline the totality of their work in the space of an editorial is an impossibility. There is one outstanding factor which makes this study stand out and that is the inclusion of the public through local organizations to discover the concerns of the public within their own enevironment.

The work contains three concepts. Concept one, the way it is (status quo); Number two calls for growth within limits and number three unconstrained growth.

The recommended action as pronounced by the study calls for a regional plan in conjunction with local advisory planning commissions and other interested parties. This makes the document something more than a study for Regional Board oficials. It involves the public.

There will be those people who will maintain the report reveals nothing new. That may be so but it is the kind of report, if ordered by the board from professionals would have cost something more than $10,000 as a starter. It is a guide, a guide for top level authority and equally so for lower level organizations.

The report is a carefully laid out summation of what the students discovered about the Sunshine Coast based on today's evaluation of our environment. It is a work well worth the time it will take to read and to absorb the information laid out in the numerous categories that cover planning for the future.

A claim to fame!

When it comes to claims to fame Gibsons has one which is unique. It involves the sewer system, yet not exactly the system, but the application for such a system.

W. N. Venables, director of the provincial control branch noted it when he officiated at the opening ceremony for Gibsons new sewer system. He pointed out that Gibsons obtained the first permit issued by the department for a sewer system under the new pollution control legislation.

Mr. Venables complimented Gibsons council for having taken the responsibility to take care of the situation. While he did not discuss financial aspects of the system it can be noted that the outside cost is $860,000 of which $280,000 was spent on the laying of drainage system in the village to a collection conduit on the shore front to a pumping station at Prowse road from where it is force pumped to the water pollution control centre usually known as the sewage disposal plant, the whole, conduits and plant costing $580,000.

The plant now being in operation has created for Gibsonites a financial problem of their own in paying for connections to the mains from their home. It will be a considerable asset for a municipality the size of Gibsons and its real value will become evident when council will have to look towards extension of the system based on such expenditure being in part financed by present users. It will also mean our water system will have to be upgraded to keep up with the needs of the municipality.

It should also be noted that the site of the disposal plant is possibly the best laid out and landscaped area on the Sunshine Coast.

So I sat me down on my 'thinking seat' to consider this very serious question. What are our rights? What should they be? Specifically, what is a 'right'? The dictionary says, 'just, fair treatment.' It seems to me then that a 'right' must be earned. If I do nothing but sit under a banana tree all my life, and then the banana crop fails, am I being unfairly treated? Must someone rush in and give me a supply of bananas? I think not. But now, if I planted a banana tree, nourished it, supplied some bananas to my neighbour who has a fig tree, and then my crop fails, I feel it would be only fair to expect my neighbour to supply me with some figs. This led me to a very disturbing conclusion which I am going to throw to you because you have about triple my time to deal with it. I may have 20 years to struggle for and defend individual 'rights'; you probably have 60 years.

I believe that 'rights' must be earned. It dawned on me with something of a shock that we are seriously confusing 'rights' and 'privileges'; for instance, the 'right to vote.' You soon will have, and perhaps some of you already have, the right to vote in this province. I was very proud when I first became a voter — had that I'm-a-big-girl-now feeling. But how had I achieved that right? Just by growing older? There are millions of people in the world today who have reached what we call 'the age of majority' yet they do not have a vote. And this is what disturbs me. I had to come to the conclusion that my first trip to the polling booth was not a right at all. It was a privilege bequeathed to me by our forefathers who had worked and struggled for the right to vote for themselves and the right to grant that privilege to future generations. It must be called a privilege because great-great-grandfather (or mother) could not guarantee that you and I would still have it.

Well, then, have we any rights? We are privileged even to BE, and doubly privileged to be Canadians in a land where we can even discuss such things. We did not get here through any effort on our own part. Many children get born in outer Mongolia or deep in the Congo — or in Chile They have no vote.

That chilly thought (I hadn't meant to make a pun, but let's make it one) — that 'Chile' thought necessitated more serious effort on the 'thinking seat.' Yes we DO have rights, as soon as we earn them. Our first vote is a privilege, without a doubt, but if we use that privilege wisely and well, defend it and protect it, we then earn the right and can bequeath it in turn to future generations. If we do not use it wisely and well and protect it — well, Chile just lost it.

In the matter of voting I believe high school students far outshine their elders. While I was at Elphinstone, I feel sure that at least 90% of students voted for their students council officers and reps — maybe not always too wisely or with great judgment, but well enough to have the right to keep a vote on matters of student council business. On the other hand, I think that when adults go to vote on school or recreational referenda, for school board members or council members or M.L.A.'s or M.P.'s, the number of eligible voters turning out is much closer to 30% than to 90%. It seems to me that over half the voters in Canada must still consider their vote a privilage. And they should be grateful to the minority who earn their votes and thus keep that privilege alive for them. Certainly they should not be storming around demanding 'rights.' which they have not earned and for which they are not prepared to take responsibility.

You might be asking me, 'Well what about students? Don't we have any rights? We haven't had a chance to go to the polls yet or plant a banana tree.'

Oh yes you have. You planted a fine banana tree way back in Grade 1, and have nourished it for years. You certainly have the right to the certificate of graduation which you receive tonight. No one is about to hand you that diploma just because you have a dimple on your chin or long, curly eyelashes. You earned that and you have the right to use it to gain employment or access to another school or in seeking office or promotions. And while you were in school, any of you who held an office (on the council or in any club) earned the right to hold that office. You earned it by being the kind of person who could be trusted by his fellow voters to take the responsibility of representing their views in carrying out the official duties.

If you took such a responsibility and learned enough as an elected official, you have thereby earned the right to seek office in the larger community which you are now entering. By working all the way through our public school system you have earned the right to make what should be an intelligent, meaningful vote on any school issue in this district.

But to get yourself elected to any office or position which might allow you to use sound reasoning for the good of your voters, you must have enlightened, reasonable voters. It is important that people do have a chance for an education because your chance for future success and happiness depends very much on working with enlightened, thinking people.

I am not good at remembering statistics, but in essence the costs of education go something like this:

1) Twenty years ago it cost about $245 to keep a student in school for one year; last year it cost about $800 for each of you.

2) Twenty years ago we were fussing over the fact that France was spending 14% of its gross national product on education; Canada spent only 2%.

3) Then came Sputnik and we got all excited and began a surge in improving our educational standards, especially in

Forum explores school issue

Present were Harry Olaussen, MP, Don Lockstead, MLA, Boyce Banner, dept. of Indian Affairs and two representatives from the department of education in Victoria Mr. Frank Keogh and Frank Simpson. R. R. Hanna, district superintendent, J. MacLeod and P. Prescesky, school trustees, were also present.

Clarence Joe spoke on behalf of the Sechelt Band maintaining that "We are going to be involved." He felt that in the past the school board had lacked recognition of those members of the community. It was feared by others that hasty decisions were being made about rebuilding, under pressure. Choosing a better site did not mean waiting unnecessarily, one parent noted, since the much larger complex at Simon Fraser University was built in only two years.

The meeting broke into groups for discussion and reconvened later to deliver views of each group.

Mr. Banner noted that in the earlier discussions regarding financing a new secondary school, no mention had been made of the considerable contributions made by the department of Indian Affairs on behalf of Indian students in this district.

In 1968, those capital contributions amounted to $104,567 Another $75,000 was contributed to implement an integration program, providing this district with four teacher aides and two remedial reading teachers. Because of a budget reduction to $50,000 annually, the remedial reading teachers were let go. In addition, $840 tuition for each Indian student is paid to the provincial government by the federal department. This amount may soon be increased.

Mr. Banner had with him copies of a brief entitled "Indian Control of Indian Education" and a letter from Minister Jean Chretien accepting the brief's policies and instructing that they be implemented as quickly as possible.

Teddy Joe, of the Sechelt Band, one of two B.C. representatives, worked out this policy statement, along with other members of the National Indian Brotherhood's Education committee.

These instructions mean that there will no longer be two-party contracts between the school district and the department of Indian Affairs. From now on, all contracts will be between three parties, the school board, the department of Indian Affairs and the Band, with final acceptance to come from the Band Council.

Any submissions from the school board to the department of Indian Affairs for capital contributions for new, improved facilities, such as rebuilding a new secondary school, must first be negotiated with and approved by the Band council.

One trustee expressed concern over the apparent lack of communication. Mr. MacLeod felt that failure of the department of Indian Affairs to make these developments known would hinder the school board's ability to make decisions effectively.

Mr. Banner replied that, although the final acceptance of these policies was very recent, the department had informed the board last year that contracts would not be renewed without negotiations with the Band. He suggested that perhaps the district superintendent had not believed that without band involvement, there would be no contract.

Mr. Clarence Joe agreed that in the past, there had been a lack of communication between the board and the Band and that little recognition was given to the Band's special interests in education. He hoped that in implementing the brief's policies, there would soon be set up ways in which the Band could educate both board members and teachers about the new administrative procedures and explore those areas of special interest further.

Mr. Joe pointed out, in reply to a question about the original source of the department of Indian Affairs finances, that Indians pay taxes like everyone else, although some taxes go directly into special funds.

Following this, there were reports from the informal discussion groups.

All groups indicated a general preference for the community school concept that encourages broader participation by the public through use of school sports and library facilities and in adult education programs. It also was generally agreed that the Elphinstone site is not suitable for this type of development.

A brief on the consensus of these discussion groups will be presented to the school board and also made public in the near future.

A discussion of alternatives within the school system was proposed for the next Forum in October when Dr. Bremer will be invited.

End of flowers

As in years past the flower sale for Senior Citizens Kiwanis Village will end Thanksgiving weekend. The flower sale over the last five years has become a tradition in Gibsons, and the hope is it can continue in the years to come. Anybody able to help with collecting the flowers, setting them up and looking after the sale, should contact 886-2526 (Bernice Chamberlin) or 886-9812 (Frida Kerbis).

There are so many good gardeners here, who grow beautiful flowers, but need a few volunteers to organize the sale next summer. If you want to buy dahlia tubers later in the year, please call one of the numbers above. All proceeds from the flowers and the tubers go to the Kiwanis Village Project. Thanks go to all who have so generously helped with the project.

17 students visiting Quebec

Seventeen excited High School students left Friday by Air Canada for Fort-Coulonge, Quebec, a small community on the Ottawa River, 70 miles west of Hull. They are returning a visit made by students from the Polyvalante Sieur de Coulonge last May to Elphinstone. The local students will be billetted in the homes of the students whom they hosted when they were in Gibsons and Sechelt.

To make the trip possible the students raised $1700 to supplement grants by the provincial and federal governments of about the same amount which are made available to foster inter-cultural exchanges.

To raise their share, the students worked hard on a variety of projects — splitting and delivering alder firewood, doing grounds cleaning and house cleaning, holding bake sales, selling hot dogs, running a concession at the Sea Cavalcade and selling tickets on two raffles.

They thank those who helped them with these projects — Mr. Bill Rankin for falling and bucking the alder trees and use of his truck for hauling; Mr. M. Poppel, Mr. Barton and Miss Evans for supplying work for the students; Mr. and Mrs. H. Jorgenson for granting permission to cut alder on the claim they were clearing and for yarding many logs to the landing to facilitate the work; Mr. and Mrs. R. Slack, Mr. L. Chamberlin and Mr. J. Mellis for help on the alder project; Mr. M. Campbell and Mr. L. Grant for use of their trucks for an evening's hauling; Mr. and Mrs. Havies for the use of their home to prepare the hot dogs during the ferry lineup; the Kiwanis for the use of their booth at the Sea Cavalcade; Mrs. Ubert and Mrs. Wing for making the quilt for the raffle; the Super-Valu and Shop Easy Plaza for use of their premises for the bake sales; parents who helped by transporting students to the work projects and the airport; to Mr. Montgomery and Mrs. Hill who have helped with the correspondence and arrangements and to all those who supported the sales.

Mrs. B. Rankin and Mr. H. Turner aided the students with their work parties and will be supervisors, along with Mrs. Turner, during the trip.

Winners of the raffles were: Mr. A. Decaire, the Yukon Special; Mrs. R. Le Quime, the handmade quilt; Mrs. D. Finlayson, the food hamper and Mr. F.P. Shanahan, the casserole. Winner of the Smartie guessing contest was Donard MacKenzie.

The students' time in Quebec will be organized by their hosts but there will be a trip to Ottawa and a day in Montreal. They will return by C N on Fri. Oct. 5 to arrive in Vancouver Oct. 8. Students taking part in the exchange are: Maria Rinaldis, Marla Schneider, Debbie Hill, Cindy Kurucz, Guy Fisher, Ron Girard, Gwenda Havies, Pat Wing, Kim Cousins, Brenda MacKenzie, Linda Laing, Linda Dandy, Cathy Smith, Don Slack, Leslie Dixon, Dean Goddard and Joka Zuidema.

B.C. AND YUKON—
YOUR POSTAL CODE IS HERE.
AND IT'S BEAUTIFUL.

It's beautiful because it works. It gets you your mail faster than before because now a very fancy computer looks at a combination of numbers and letters and aims it right to your door.

It's beautiful because you can make funny memory rhymes with the Postal Code of your friends (how about this Ottawa code, for example: Ken once had one thought twice — for K1H 1T2?). Or songs. Or whatever.

And it's beautiful because it'll be good until at least 2001 without changes, unlike some we looked at in other countries.

We have sent you a kit containing your Postal Code, explanations, a postage paid address card and Postal Code stickers. In case you haven't received it, please write to your Post Office on a special card that will be sent to you. And when your friends start using your code, and you use theirs, everybody will communicate more easily.

And that's beautiful.

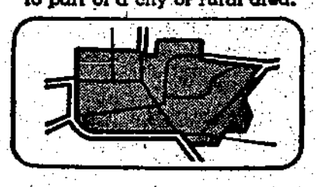
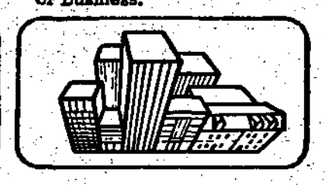
K1H 1T2
K — indicates one of 18 zones in Canada.

K1H 1T2
1H — narrows the zone down to part of a city or rural area.



K1H 1T2
1T2 — defines the actual block or business.



Canada Post. We're working to make it work better.

Lockstead seeks student aid grants

Don Lockstead (NDP MacKenzie) filed a resolution on the legislature's order paper calling for the government to consider the advisability of implementing legislation to provide equalization grants to students living in the remote areas of the province for the purpose of attaining a higher education not now available to them.

This motion was originally proposed at the Spring 1973 session, but not debated. Mr. Lockstead suggested consideration of tuition fees and living expenses, as well as travel, for Grades 11, 12 and post-secondary students where desired courses are not available near their homes.

While the motion has had the support of both sides of the house, Speaker Gordon Dowding killed it because proposals to spend money should be presented in the house in the form of legislation.

Mr. Lockstead after the house ruling by Mr. Speaker, said he had had conversations with the minister of education and feels that she will be prepared to act at a future session after the Bremer report has been received.

During the Throne Speech debate earlier Mr. Locstead said:

'I have expressed my personal satisfaction with the legislative priorities for this session as outlined in the lieutenant-governor's opening speech. I feel, however, that I would be doing less than my duty, if I did not respond positively to his challenging comment that it is our responsibility to ensure that the voices of our citizens are heard loud and clear through their legislators. It is because I believe that my constituents concern must be expressed in this house, that I intend to speak of problems in transportation, industrial development, local governments, and land use. 'In speaking of transportation, let me first say to the ministers of transportation and communication and the minister of highways that their efforts on behalf of the travelling public are appreciated. Improvements to the ferry service and highways have been noted. Growth demands more and better transportation facilities and growth is occurring rapidly in Mackenzie. Transportation remains one of the most basic problems to the residents of my constituency. This does not mean that I favour the spending of millions of dollars on these facilities. without careful overall planning.

'I must report to you that there are a great many people in my constituency who are greatly concerned about the possible effects of improved transportation to the areas, as yet relatively unspoiled, in which they live. This is a complex matter and it is clear that improved transportation which is made necessary by growth will in turn be responsible for further growth in any areas made more accessible. Planning is imperative.

'There are, however, certain adjustments which could be made, particularly to the ferry service, which would assist residents in times of peak load on the system. It has been noted that much of the overload problem is caused by the movement of trucks, trailers, and campers. Studies have been made and suggestions are being received for the improvement of the service.

'A year ago I spoke in this house of the need for the planned development of industry in the central coast area and I called for a systematic survey of its resource potential. Since that time I have served on the standing committees for forestry and fisheries. I know that the job of planning for industrial development in this area is underway. I also know that much more time will be required to do the job. We must ensure that economic development does not occur at the expense of that most valuable asset, our environment. We must also ensure that no industrial development is allowed to threaten our other important resources such as fisheries.

'Nevertheless, if I am to speak for the people of Mackenzie, I must voice their concern. The industrial development of the central coast has long been neglected. Ways must be found soon to assist the people in the economically depressd areas of the coast to achieve a more productive and rewarding way of life. That this government has made some significant moves in this direction is appreciated.

'During my recent visits to Ocean Falls I have been happy to observe that the operation there is a thriving one and that the 900 people whose homes and way of life have been saved are determined to show that it will continue to be an asset, to the people of B.C. and that Ocean Falls will continue to function in this important role as a centre for hospital, police and educational services for the central coast area

'Local government continues to be an issue of great concern to many of my constituents. Whereas we have moved to improve the regulations with regard to the franchise so that it is now possible for tenants to participate more fully in local government, action is still required to make it practicable for them to do so. Registration is still the responsibility of the tenant and often the problems of registration are a dis-incentive to their participation in the electoral process.

'It is my belief that the role of local government is one of increasing importance. We cannot move wisely on matters of land use or education without the intelligent assistance of local government. I believe that we must move quickly to encourage the widest possible participation in government at this level.

'In the past year this government moved decisively to protect potential and existing farm and park land. There is a related concern, however, which is being widely expressed by my constituents with regard to land use. Over the past 10 to 12 years the cost of purchasing land has increased enormously. In some cases land which sold for $200 per acre is now $2,000 per acre. Furthermore, there are many parts of my constituency where land is not available at any price. Private companies, many of them foreign interests hold large tracts of land for speculative purposes. Crown land is not generally available for purchase or lease and a real hardship is being experienced by people who wish to own their own homes or farms.

'Again, I realize that the problems of land use are complex and will require time to solve, but I must report that there is a growing concern in my constituency that the land should be put to good and proper use. I believe that more provisions must be made soon for individuals to lease land for residential and farm purposes.

"Say, this is exactly the way you've been treating me!"

The Timber Trail Riders Horse Show, Sept. 23 was a lot of fun and ran very smoothly Judge Andy Rees did a great job, the show committte, headed by Julie Clark deserve a vote of thanks, as they did a fine job.

The turn-out was good, with a group of Pender Harbour people taking home a truckload of ribbons and trophies. One little contestant, Mindy Peters is a fine little horsewoman, only 8 years old.

★ Your Horoscope ★

By TRENT VARRO

ARIES - March 21 - April 20
A large number of planets are piling up in opposition to your sign at the present time. This is nothing to get alarmed over

TAURUS - April 21 - May 21
An extremely 'lucky' period is now in effect in trine aspect to your birth sign. There might be a little domestic disharmony in your private life, but this will pass quickly.

GEMINI - May 22 - June 21
There's a lot of "good things" going for you now but "gambler's luck" isn't one of them. Watch very carefully all forms of speculation with extreme caution!

CANCER — June 22 to July 22
There is a strong balance of planets in your chart right now both good and poor, that should offset each other to your advantage. Don't try to "push too hard!"

LEO — July 23 to August 23
An extremely good time is indicated in business matters generally. However, there may be some slight "friction" in social affairs. Don't let this bother you, just attend to business.

VIRGO - August 24 to Sept. 22
One of the luckiest breaks of your life could come at this time. For the entire month of October, there will be a close conjunction of Jupiter and Mars. This could bring untold gain as it is right in the centre of your sign.

LIBRA - Sept. 23 to Oct. 23
Health, in some form or another, could be involved here. You are either just pulling out of some situation, or right in the middle of one. A lot depends upon the exact year of your birth.

SCORPIO - Oct. 24 to Nov. 22
Everything should be a "bed of roses" for you right now, but don't get too complacent, roses have thorns, and you could get scratched. Be sensible, and all will be well.

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 23 Dec. 21
Your "luck" is not so hot right now, but everything else in your life is wonderfully aspected, especially in business and legal matters. Next month you might see a change in human relations.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Your birth chart indicates just the opposite of that for Sagitarius. "Luck" will be highlighted to the nth degree. Go easy on legal matters, or have a good lawyer handle things for you.

AQUARIUS - Jan. 21 - Feb. 18
Powerful influences are at work on your behalf. You will find yourself acting with more confidence now and decisions will be sound. This benefit could go on for a long time.

PISCES - Feb. 19 - March 20
A very harmonious aspect is now in effect with your sun sign. Much social activity is indicated along with a chance to "make the big move" that you have always dreamed about

Letters to Editor

Editor: On behalf of the Gibsons Sea Cavalcade Committee, I would like to express our deep appreciation to you and your staff for the wonderful support and co-operation which you gave us during the past year.

Many thanks also to the whole community for their help which made Sea Cavalcade 1973 the best ever. We look forward to working with you again during the coming year. — (Mrs.) JoAnn Rottluff, Co-ordinator, Gibsons Sea Cavalcade maths and science.

4) Recently I heard Dr. Foulkes, who heads a commission studying our medicare problems, speaking on television. He said we now spend 40% of our gross national product on education and medicare. If we continue at this same rate of increase, sometime in the '80's we will be spending 80% of the gross national product, and before the turn of the century will be spending 100% of the gross national product on education and medicare.

Well, kids, you know we won't do it. There are such things as food, shelter, clothing you know. If we ever came to that point we'd all soon be in the hospital and there would be no gross national product. So what will we do? Just let it go on until it dies on the vine because we can't pay the bill and then have no schools at all? You know we won't do that either.

You have just earned the right to give that kind of problem some sane and sensible consideration. You DO CARE what happens to Elphinstone — and I'll bet that YOU will come up with some of the answers.

Point of Law

(By a Practicing Lawyer Copyright)

It is impossible to understand our legal system without some knowledge of our system of government - or political science in general. Many political science writers classify governmental powers in three ways: judicial, legislative and executive. This is correct for the U.S.A. In the British, (including the Canadian), system, the executive branch is part of the legislative branch.

In the United States the executive branch is elected indirectly through the electoral college in an election quite separate from the elections which choose the legislative branch The former election is for the president and the vice-president. The cabinet are not elected at all, but are chosen by the president.

The legislative branch, that is congress, consisting of two houses, the senate and the house of representatives, are elected in other elections. The various states have similar state elections and many states also provide for the election of state trial court judges. Some even elect appeal court judges, but none elect the judges of the highest state appeal courts. There are in the United States county and municipal elections as well - thus there are four levels of government.

In Canada no judges are elected, all being appointed by the federal cabinet, except provincial court judges who are appointed by the provincial cabinet.

In a Canadian federal election the lower house only, the house of commons, is elected. The executive, the prime minister and his cabinet are ordinary elected m.p.'s elected from their own individual constituency. The prime minister is thus not elected as such He is chosen at a caucus of the party having the majority or plurality of seats in the house. The upper house, the senate, is chosen by the cabinet as vacancies occur and is, unlike its counter part in the United States, of comparativly minor importance. Both Canada and the United States, having a federal system of government, have divided law making powers between the central federal government and the provincial or state governments. In Canada the federal government has a much greater share of the power than in the United States where more power is given to the individual states.

There is another restriction on the power to legislate in the United States (either by the federal or the state government) which we do not have, and that is the United States Constitution. No law making authority may pass any statute contrary to the United States Constitution. In Canada parliament is supreme and either the federal or the provincial governments may pass any law, within their own sphere assigned to them by the British North America Act - Canada's basic constitutional document.

Don't shoot these dears

Attention all hunters: The B. C. Forest Service regards its lady tree planters as dears, not deer.

With upwards of 1,000 planters taking part in the province's vast reforestation program, together with a significant increase in the number of hunters in the woods, fear is felt for the safety of the planting crews.

Reforestation personnel in the Quesnel region are so concerned they have made a special request for brightly colored vests for the planters.

Goddard seeks mayor's seat

There are now two hats in the mayoralty ring. Ken Goddard, who ran for mayor two years ago hasn't really been out of the ring since.

Ken is no stranger to the village council chamber. He served as an alderman for five years prior to resigning to run against Mayor Peterson two years ago.

While an alderman, Ken served as the village representative on the Union Board of Health for five years, and was chairman of that board for one year. He was chairman of two Centennial committees and is a past-president of the Kinsmen Club. He is this year's Kiwanis president.

As an alderman, Ken attended the annual U.B.C.M. conventions and the educational seminars sponsored by the UBCM and conducted by the extension department of UBC. He travelled on delegations to Victoria, and was deputy mayor for two years. All of which he feels, further equips him to deal with the business affairs of the village.

Ken and his wife Lorraine and their five children live in the home which they built on Abbs Road. They first came to Gibsons in 1962 and have lived in the village ever since. In 1968 Ken left his job with Canadian Propane and purchased Sam Fladager's Thriftee Dress Shop, which was then situated in half of the Bank of Montreal building. They changed the name of the store and moved it up the hill to Sunnycrest in 1969 when the bank expanded. They opened a second outlet in the Trail Bay Mall in Sechelt when it was completed late in 1971.

Now, with Mayor Peterson vacating his position at the end of the year, Ken feels he has the necessary experience to fill the post.

Young folk visit aged in hospital

Eleven children from the primary Sunday School class of Calvary Baptist Church visited the old folks in St. Mary's Hospital presenting them with their boxes containing their favorite shells, rocks, trinkets and sprigs of evergreen heather.

The children had a wonderful time chatting with the patients who in turn showed the children some of the fine handicraft work they were doing. The children on leaving were invited to return and next time to sing.

Those in the party were Cheryl Gregson, Sherry and Tod Loitz, Mario Reiché, Sheila Spain, Gail Wolverton, Fred Dempster Karen Kien, Hanna Jonas and Michael Peters. Mrs. B. Reiche, Myron Peters and Mrs. E. Cooper accompanied them.

Golf news

The first edition of British Columbia's newest periodical, B.C. GOLF, has appeared.

B.C. GOLF, a bi-monthly, is produced by Western Fish & Game Magazine Ltd., also the publishers of Western Fish and Wildlife and the annual British Columbia salt and fresh water Fishing Guide — all edited by Jack Grundle.

It is the only vehicle dedicated solely to B.C. golfers of which there are in excess of 150,000. One of the special continuing features will be the free listings of Holiday Golf Courses in the province. The listing will include descriptions of any golf course that wishes to be considered in this category, plus information on nearby accommodation and recreation facilities for family participation.

Golfers who have achieved provincial, national, and international stature will be recognized. And, of course, correspondents from both urban and rural golf couces will have a chance to air interesting stories and problems.

RUGBY

Sept. 22, Gibsons Rugby club played Meralomas Rugby club at Oak Park, Vancouver. For the first 15 minutes, Meralomas came on strong and Gibsons was having a hard time getting out of their own end.

After a line out at centre, the ball was put out to the backs and on a fine run by Gary Gray, Bob Johnson scored the first try which was converted by Rob Anderson. Gibsons came on to score two more trys, one by Bob Johnson and one by Gerry Harris, both were converted by Rob Anderson. The score at half time was 18-0 for Gibsons

Kim Inglis was taken out after ten minutes of play because he was wearing glasses which the referee had not noticed. Gibsons kept Meralomas bottled up in their own end during the second half but failed to score. The score at the end of the game was Gibsons 18, Meralomas 0.

The rugby club dance at Roberts Creek Community Hall Sept. 29 was a big success with a large turn-out. The proceeds will go towards the purchase of new uniforms. Thanks go to everyone who helped make the dance a success and all who turned out. The first home game is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 6, 1 p.m. at Gibsons high school field. Gibsons will play Ex-Brits Rugby club.

A black shawl and a necklace were found after the Rugby Club dance. Anyone claiming these can call either Alex Skytte at 886-7801 or Gary Flumerfelt at 886-2552.

Locals shine in Beachcombers

One of the most interesting aspects of the three-year production of the Beachcombers T V show in Gibsons area is the involvement of local residents appearing in front of the cameras on walk-on and bit parts. Bob Gray CBC unit manager spoke highly of the numbers and quality of the extras, but in attempting to list these TV-struck actors and actresses, he cautioned of the liklihood of inadvertently omitting some names. With this well in mind, here is at least a partial roll-call:

George Sawyer, Eileen Glassford, David Smethhurst, Jerry and Carmen Dixon, daughter Jennifer, employed as stand-in and double for Juliette Randall (Margaret) . . . . Phyl Hylton, Barney Egan, Debbie Willis, Dorothy and Roy Milliner, Betty Gisvold, Ian Jacob, John Harvey, Dick Blakeman, members of the Sechelt Band, David Virello, Jean Crowhurst, DOT Rose and Pat Ashby.

Also Ursula Anderson, Fred Trent, Pat Bawtinheiner, Hugh Lynn, Frank McGivern, Rose Vincent, Ms Waterhouse, Bob Kettle, Carol Kurucz, Tom Stuart, Bernal Gordon, Terry Webb, Marilyn Greggain, Lori Wiren, Penny Stubbs, Richard Macedo, John Austin, Marion Alsager, Pat Murphy, Elinor Crosby, Lenore Inglis and Fred Strom, with apologies to any of those names that do not appear here.

Other items which focus attention on this popular series include Beachcomber T-shirts and post cards in Gibson and Sechelt stores.

The current summer and fall production schedule is well on target with 16 segments away and only eight remaining episodes to go in rounding out the 1973 assignment, which should be completed by mid - November.

The new fall - winter series of the Beachcombers will be on the TV screens, commencing usual time 7 p.m. Sunday Sept. 23 with the Happy Birthday Molly sequence, followed Sept. 30 by Fraser Red; Oct. 7 Bush Fever; Oct. 14 Our Champion; Oct. 21 Greek Eagle; Oct. 28 McGloskey's Bones; Nov. 4 The Sea is our Friend; Nov. 11 Affairs of the Heart; Nov. 18 Tizzy; Nov. 25 Hard Times; Dec. 2 Trouble With Diamonds and Dec. 9 Battle of the Goddesses.
