CELEBRATION PLANS DID NOT MATERIALIZE

It is a regrettable fact that there was not enough of the citizens of Creston District who cared to attend the meetings called for the purpose of arranging for a celebration of May 25th. Those who did attend were enthusiastic but so few in number that to attempt to carry through a celebration would have been disastrous, so the matter was dropped entirely for the time being.

A suggestion was made that we organize a big picnic some time later on in the season. A small fund could be collected to purchase prizes for the events and a small program of sports could be thus carried out.

It is hoped that when the matter comes up for public treatment, it will receive more attention than the Empire Day celebration received.

DUCK CREEK NEWS

Carl Wigen had the mistortune to lose three pigs on the C. P. R. track on Saturday. They had strayed away from home and were returning home when they got struck by the work train.

John Bathie returned from Nelson Saturday.

J. J. Grady, P. Hagen and S. Moon were Creston callers Saturday.

Miss Anna Hagen returned home on Saturday after an abscence of two or three months spent in Creston.

The C. P. R. have turned over a lot of their property in Duck Creek this week. In other words the steam shovel has been busy taking away a large embankment in chunks.

Miss McVicar of Sirdar spent the week end at Duck Creek as the guest of Miss Faircloth.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams were Creston callers Wednesday.

The Basket Social held on Saturday night was the biggest social and financial success yet attained by the Duck Creek Social Club. The hall which Mr. P. Hagen very kindly lent for the occasion was artistically decorated with evergreens and streamers of red, white and blue crepe paper. Although late in gathering there was an excellent crowd which kept the floor full all the time. The auctioneer started at 11:30, Mr Harry Bathie acting in the capacity of auctioneer, proved most successful, being able to fairly draw the money out of the peoples pockets. The bidding was brisk right from the start, toward the end the excitement grew unbounded and it was with difficulty that the auttioneer could keep up with the bids, so anxious where the folks to get rid of their money After ¾ of an hour hard work the auctioneer's clerk was able to count up the proceeds which amounted to $32.90. This was considered very satisfactory as there were only 16 baskets. The ladies are to be highly complimented on the very artistic creations they made and the gentlemen's appreciation was shown by the way they bid, one gentleman paying as high as $4.50 for his basket.

Miss Marie Hagen was a visitor to Sirdar on Wednesday.

Guy Lowenburg brought a party down to Duck Creek on Wednesday night in his motor launch.

GERMANS SEEK BRITISH SHIPPING

One of the most formidable combines ever directed against English shipping was formed at Berlin today at a meeting of delegates of the North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American companies. The agreement is to establish a community of interests for the next fifteen years in connection with the passenger and freight services across the Atlantic. The Koinische Zeitung states that the German companies had found it impossible to arrive at an agreement with the English companies possessing a Canadian service, and the Canadian lines had demanded that their quota in the projected new pool should be based on the traffic of the last five years. To this it was objected that during the period in question, Canadian traffic has assumed record dimentions, whereas recently it has declined, in some cases to the extent of fifty per cent.

Herr Balin proposed as a compromise that Canadian lines should as a preliminary condition concede five per cent of the share based on five years' computation, and that the agreement should then be renewed for five years, subject to revision.

They would have the right to claim revision as soon as their Canadian business increased by 20 per cent, and the other companies would have the same privilege if it decreased in equal proportion. The Canadian lines, however, refused to accept it out of hand, desiring time to think it over

Geo. Heald accountant for the Canyon City Lumber Co. for the past three years has tendered his resignation to take effect June first. Mr. Heald and family will leave for Spokane soon to make their future home.

A. D. Robarge foreman of the Canyon City mills has resigned his position to take effect at once. Mr. Robarge and family will leave the first of June for Minnesota and Wisconsin points to spend the summer.

It happened just the other day. One of our leading citizens saw it on the street. It was the form of Luke Harold-Percival Reginald Tamlo with riding breeches and leather leggings, with the proud mien of a British citizen, looking for all the world like a man who had just received an appointment from "Napoleon" Bowser or Minister of Justice or Mines or some such little gift. The citizen aforesaid was about to address him when to his horror he recognized "Lo the poor Indian." It is more than likely our local merchants will have an increased demand for riding breeches now that the other Indians have adopted the habit.

CRESTON GAINS, HIGH RIVER LOSES

The many friends of Mr. ane Mrs. O. A. Burbank will regret to hear of their departure this week for Creston, B. C. where they intend to reside permanently. Coming here from Ontario 5 years ago, Mr Burbank took a position as manager of the grocery department in Buck & Howson's store which he has held ever since. He was also a director in the High River Natural Gas Co., a prominent member of Chalmer's Church, and a puplic spirited man who will be missed from the community. Their many friends, while regretting Mr. and Mrs. Burbanks departure, join in wishing them success in their new location, and hope that some time in the future they will return to High River.

On Monday evening of April 27, the members of Chalmers Presbyterian choir met at the church to say farewell to Mr. Forster, who has resigned his position as organist in that church to to take a more lucrative position in B. C After an hour spent in singing, flashlights were taken of the choir. A dainty lunch was then served by the ladies after which Mr. Owen on behalf of the choir read a short address to Mr Forester. In a few well chosen words he expressed the regrets of the members of the choir at his departure. He had, he said been connected, with different choirs both in the Old Country and in Canada and he had as yet to find a choir in which the members worked more harmoniously and enerjetically than in Chalmers Though he had been in this choir but a very short time he had experienced pleasures and received benefits not soon to be forgotten. He assured Mr. Forester that if he ever returned to High River he would receive the heartiest welcome, He then presented him with a travelling case fitted with ebony toilet articles, which he hoped would in some small way convey to him the high esteem and sincere affection which was entertained for him by each member of the choir, and that the wishes of all were that he should meet with happiness and prosperity in his new work.

Very touchingly Mr. Forster thanked the choir for the gift. He said it would always be highly prized in memory of the kindness of heart that had prompted its giving. He also thanked the members of the choir for the loyal support they had given him, and for the enthusiastic manner in which they had undertaken the strenous work of preparing and presenting the better class of music which had undoubtedly brought the choir the success and popularity in is now enjoying. During the past nine months the work had become a real pleasure to him, and he would always take a keen interest in the work of Chalmers choir. Though he was not quick at making friends, he had he knew in the members of the choir some of his sincerest friends and he would never forget them. Messrs Haddon and Miles and Mrs. Koch also spoke a few words.

The choir then joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne" at the close of which three hearty cheers were given for Mr. Forster. Each one then bade him a personal goodbye wishing him good luck and God Speed.—High River Times.

QUEEN'S BROTHER GOVERNOR-GENERAL

The appointment of Prince-Alexander of Teck to the Governor-Generalship of Canada is hailed on all sides with great satisfaction, though the announcement was somewhat of a surprise in view of the report that had been current for some months past associating the name of Prince Arthur with the appointment.

Prince Alexander, Queen Mary's favorite brother should prove very popular in the Dominion and a worthy successor to the Duke of Connaught. Courteous in manner, of dignified bearing, and royal to his finger tips, Prince Alexander is described as particularly well suited to fill the position of Governor-General, while in Princess Alice of Albany Canadians will find one highly fitted for the important role she will be called upon to play.

Prince Alexander has seen considerable service both in South Africa and in Matabeleland. During the South African war, he saw the relief of Kimberley, followed operations in the Orange Free State and witnessed the relief of Mafeking. On service he never hesitated to "rough it" with the rank and file, to which soldierly charactiristics he owes his great popularity among his comrades. For his services he was mentioned in dispatches and received the Queen's medal with five clasps as well as the Distinguished Service Order.

The appointment revives rumors of a royal visit to Canada in 1915.

The announcement that another member of the royal family has been appointed Governor-General of Canada was heard with great interest today by Members of parliament at Ottawa. It is the opinion on Parliament Hill that Canada will continue to receive princes of blood only, as Governor-Generals hereafter.

H. R. H. Prince Alexander Augustus Frederick, William Alfred George of teck, D. S. O., G. C. V. O., and a major in the Royal Horse Guards, is the third son of the late Duke of Teck and late Princess Mary Adelaide, and is a brother of the Queen. He was born at Kensington Palace, on April 14, 1874, was educated at Eton and the Royal Military College at Sandhurst, from which he went on to the 7th Hussars. He served in the Matabele war in 1896, and is mentioned again and again by Sir Robert Baden-Powell in his account "The Matabele Campaign" for which he was mentioned in dispatches and received the medal. Later he served in the South African war, was again mentioned in dispatches.

He married on February 16, 1904, H. R. H. Princess Alice of Albany, daughter of the late Prince Leopold, born in 1883, by whom he has two children, the Princess May, born in 1906, and Prince Rupert, born in 1907. A third child, Prince Maurice, born in 1910, died in the same year. Prince Alexander of Teck is a nephew of the late Duke of Cambridge and a great grandson of His Majesty George III.

We are informed that two of our young men on pleasant bent essayed a trip to Port Hill Saturday Via the speeder route. All went well till they came to a deep cut and then the speeder forget its cunning and refused to speed. The united ingenuity failed to elicit any results so they continued the journey, 'tis said they were the whole push. We blush to state that they had to net in this very enviable capacity for the rest of the journey there and all the way back. After the dance which continued till early hours, they resumed the journey homeward thankful that the speeder was not loaded. Tis said one gains knowledge by experience. One also gains blisters. A. B. S. Stanley - - - Lessee, Editor and Manager

There is one feature of the new tariff changes which even the most rabid Grit papers in the country have been forced to praise. Hon. W. T. White, Finance Minister, has been generally congratulated for having prohibited the importation of aigrettes, ospreys, etc. It is an advanced humane move, which has been the subject of most favorable comment from coast to coast.

There is a great difference in the methods between the late Laurier administration and the present Government with respect to the matter of railway aid. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier was rushing through the Transconental scheme Mr. Borden moved an amendment to the Act to the effect that the Grand Trunk be compelled to allow the export business of this immensely costly project to go to Halifax and St. John, thus building up the railway business of the Maritime Provinces and their ports.

Sir Wilfrid and his followers voted down this motion of Mr. Borden, with the result that the Grand Trunk today can at pleasure divert the traffic to Portland or any other New England port.

In the present agreement with the C. N. R., Mr. Borden has distinctly stipulated that the Canadian Northern and its subsidiary companies shall not in any matter within their power or control directly or indirectly encourage or advise the transportation of any such freight by routes other than to Canadian ocean ports. In this matter Mr. Borden has performed a distinct service for the people of the Mari- provinces, which they will not be slow to recognize.

"We need a really national policy for the development of the people themselves, for the good of all the people must have first place, and all such questions as navy, railways, canals and public works must have their place which is secondary. Expenditures must hereafter find their proper relation to that national development policy, which has the first claim on the people's attention and that of their representatives. There is everything in it to unite all sections in constructive and enthusiastic effort, and nothing to divide by distressful selfishness."

"Above is the conclusion reached by Dr. J. W. Robertson, chairman of the Dominion commission of technical education, following his month's lecture tour through the west. It is a conclusion pregnant with deep meaning for those who are honestly and earnestly seeking a solution for a condition of affairs that is doing much to hold Canada back just now.

Government in Canada in the past has worked for the development of the people, but in ways that have been too frequently ill-conceived and haphazard. There has been too much of party politics to permit of a really clear sensing of government's chief responsibility. The politician has been too prominent; the statesman too frequently conspicuous by his absence. * * *

What the Robertson commission did for technical education another commission is required to do for agriculture. As the Herald recently pointed out, here lies the greatest need of Canada today and the greatest need of Dominion legislators. Everyone is ready and willing to give the farmer advice, and for political reasons governments and legislatures are usually willing to help him. But, like the ministrations of the philanthropically minded, this help to the farmer is very frequently badly directed, prompted by a zeal lacking knowledge, and of no real permanent effect.

The result is that with everyone anxious to aid, the farmer gets little real assistance, which is not as it should be. The big need of Canada today is a well conceived national policy for its agricultural department. Until such a policy is evolved and in operation there is bound to be trouble more or less serious between farmers and manufacturers, the east and the west, the government and the country's agricultural interests."—Calgary Herald.

A TRIP TO THE MOON.

One Scientist at Least Thinks It Will Be Made Some Day.

Jules Verne was a scientific man, and many regard his fiction stories of submarine and aerial flight—which at the time they were published seemed wild dreams—as a serious prediction of what he believed would be accomplished. As a matter of fact he did live to see the submarine an accepted arm of two navies, and the Wrights were well advanced toward success before he died. There remains his "Trip to the Moon," which seems absolutely impossible of accomplishment. Nevertheless, there are scientific men who dare to reach out into space and chart a pathway to other worlds.

One of these, M. Ernest Archdeacon, who ranks among the foremost authorities in France on aviation, predicts our present aviation machines, which at best could not encircle the earth in less than eight days, will be abandoned for air craft which will girdle the globe in sixty-six minutes. "All the peoples of the earth will then form a sole and single nation."

Man, insatiable in his ambition, is contemplating interplanetary flight, and M. Esnault Pelterie believes the vehicle will be a self propelled rocket (Verne again) with a speed of seven miles a second, which is estimated to be sufficient velocity to carry the projectile beyond the zone of terrestrial attraction. At this rate the moon would be reached in less than ten hours—assuming of course the vehicle was not melted long before by the heat generated in its terrific flight. Radium is suggested as a possible motive power.

The idea of interplanetary flight from our present viewpoint seems of course impossible. However, the submarine was 400 years in developing. M. Archdeacon says, "I am convinced that in a certain numer of centuries the inhabitants of all the planets will have made acquaintance with one another, and I foresee the day when a world's interplanetary congress will be held."—H. H. Windsor in Popular Mechanics Magazine.
