IRRIGATIONISTS WILL CONVENE

The Western Irrigation Association will hold its Eigth Annual Convention in the City of Penticton, Okanagan Valley, Province of British Columbia, August 17, 18 and 19. The meeting will convene on the morning of the 17th at 9 30 o'clock.

The Okanagan Valley, through which delegates must travel to reach Penticton, is not only one of the most fertile districts of British Columbia, but the centre for many large irrigation projects, both under operation and construction. Unsurpassed in grandeur of scenery, it is possessed of a most delightful climate. Towering snow-crowned mountains, foaming white-lipped streams and restful verdant fields and orchards mirror themselves in crystal lakes which abound on every side.

Discussion is an important factor of the program, and will be encouraged. To make this apratical meeting and secure results from the discusion of questions in which delegates are interested, it is advisable that delegates come prepared to discuss matter which will come before the meeting, as set forth in program of subjects.

Experts in Frat Culture, exponent of alfalfa production and practical students of modern farming in all its ramification wi l attend. Questions of greatest interest to irrigationists will be discussed and delt with by prominent authorities from California, Oregon, Idaho, Washington and Utah, as well as the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia. The Spendid encouragement that the Associrtion has recieved in the attendance of delegates at its last two Conventions; the fact that for the first time in history the International Irrigation Congress will be held in Canada a mouth later, and that some of its permanent officers will address the Convention, and the general interest that is steadily manifesting itself throughout the entire West in the science of irrigation practically assures a successful meeting. We earnestly urge you to be present and assist us in making it so.

Official delegations will attend from the Internotion Irrigation Congress, the Oregon Irrigation Congress, the Cypress Hills Water Users' Association and from the Kootenay Valley and Arrow Lakes District.

During the Convention delegates will be entertained with an auto trip through the orchards, a visit to the various projects in the vicinity, a regatta by the Pentiction Acquatic Club, and a bunquet.

Wednesday, August 19th, has been set aside as Growers' Day. The afternoon session will be given up to talks by practical fruit growers and farmers who will tell experiences they have encountered on the land. In the morning the orchards under irrigation in the district will be inspected.

The usual Convention Rates will be obtainable from the railroads. In order to take advantage of the special rate, it is necessary that the delegate purchase single fare tickets only, and at time of purchase secure from agents standard ceatificates declaring him to be a delegate to the Convention. If delegates travel over more than one line of railway, a standard certificate from each railroad will be necessary.

Register and hand in your certificate to the Secretary immediately upon arrival, and see that you get it back from him before leaving in order to secure your reduced fare home.

Aged Rancher Meets Death From Heart Failure

Tragedy again paid a gruesome visit to Erickson, when on Thursday evening the grim hand of death laid hold on one of her latest citizens, Ole K. Tofte. He had only been a resident of Erickson for a few months, having bought the little ranch from Mr. McDougall, but in the short time he had been there Mr. Tofte had made many friends and the news of his sudden death same as a serve shock to them.

It seemed that Mr. Tofte had lost some money and the fact came as a sudden suprise to him causing a shock which no doubt affected his heart.

He had frequently complained of heart trouble and was very excitable at times. When found he lay with his face down in the dust, his arm still hold the bridle rein of his horse and the faithful animal standing over him dumbly waiting for his masters next command, a picture that could not help but make an impression on the hardest heart.

The first person to pass was Alex. Duperrez who went at once to the hotel and had the Doctor called. Dr. Henderson soon arrived but it was to late, life was then extinct.

On Friday morning a coroner's jury, having examined several witnessess, came to the decision that the deceased came to his death from natural causes.

The funeral took place in the late afternoon and the old man was laid to rest in the presence of a few of the friends he had made since coming to this district to live, Rev. F. L. Carpenter conducting the impressive ceremony.

DAN ENGLISH HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

Word is brought to us from over the River of the loss by fire this afternoon of the house, barn and outbuildings of the Dan English ranch. The loss is quite considerable, the fire having made a clean sweep.

The cause of the fire was a mystery as Mr. English was away working at the ferry when the fire started and there was no one about at the time that he is aware of.

Dick Bevan will have a demonstration of the new Massey-Harris power spraying machine on Saturday evening at 7 p.m. at the Garage.

ERICKSON NEWS

M. McLeod came home on Wednesday, his brother Tom came with him to spend a while in the mountains. The auto cycle has been spinning around some today. I guess Murdock has taught it not to run into the fence or jump ditches now as it seems to keep the road when it goes.

G. and E. Cartwright are loading the machinery out of the old mill on their place. We hope they will clean the whole place up so it will look more respectable to passengers on the train as they come dashing out of the bush into our beautiful valley so that the first thing they see will not be an old tumbled down mill. Nuf said.

Mr. and Mrs. McKewan and family came down from Cranbrook to visit their parents Mr. and Mrs. G. Cartwright. Mrs. Mac. Dorthy and Audry will stay a couple of weeks for a real good time at the old home, the place where one can enjoy themselves just right.

Frank Staples shipped 3 crates of cucumbers one day this week. The first of the season Tomatoes will be going in a day or two.

Dad Brough has just finished stumping 16 acres for R. J. Long. If there is no stumping in Heaven, Dad will have to go somewhere else as he will not be contented without the smell of powder or brimstone or something like that.

Rev. J. E. Healey came in Wednesday with a car of settlers effects. Mr. Healey came from Cowley, Alta. and has bought 20 acre near Erickson from C. O. Rodgers. Rev. Healey will be a welcome neighbor as he is a spiritual adviser and some of the residents of Erickson needs a little advising in that way as we notice some doing unnecessary work on the sabbath such as hoeing and pruning tomatoes and such like. We think if they worked hard enough on six days, they need a rest on Sunday, so the Reverend Gentleman will have to get busy and line them up. It is rumored that A. B. Stanley, the Editor, intends to go ranching with Mr. Healey so those ink stained hands will have to build on some muscle now to make the stumps fly. We hope they make a good team, also good neighbors as we have nothing else here and don't want anything but that kind around here.

Norman R. Carter, D. D. S., of Kaslo, will be in Creston from August 2nd to 12th for the purpose of doing dental work. He has been in the Province for three years and in Kaslo for one. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan.

A. B. S. Stanley - - - Lessee, Editor and Manager

Liberal papers are seeking to make it appear that the Government is changing its mind about the exclusion of the Hindus, and is now rsady to admit them, no matter what the effect may be on the labor interests of Canada.

There is no truth whatever in this story. The Government has not changed its policy one iota, and all the Hindus will be shut out except those who have previously resided in Canada, and who complied with the conditions of entry then in force.

The position of the Hindu in Canada is entirely different from that in other British Colonies. Without doubt he has done good work in tropical countries like Ceylon and in the East and West Indies. When slavery was abolished by England it became a question where the labor was to be found for the cultivation of cotton, cocoa, tea, palm oil, sugar, and such like commodities, and the India coolie appeared in the breach.

At first he was merely an indentured laborer; his expenses to the foreign shore were paid in advance, and he had to work them out on his arrival, after which, in most cases, he was free to remain in the colony, although his wages were never very high. In due course, however, trouble arose between him and his employers in the Mauritius, and of late it has taken on a serious aspect in British South Africa. Forty years ago Lord Salisbury pointed out that it was most important that the Hindu should have all the privileges of a white man after he has completed his indentured service in the colony, but it was found that when he had become free, in the sense of having paid his indenture account, he immediately began to work for wages considerably less than those charged by the white laborers, and forthwith an agitation was started to recure his banishment, or, what was the same thing, the imposition of heavy taxation upon him.

But there has been nothing known of this sort in Canada. The Hindu came here, not as an indentured laborer, but as a free laborer. British Columbia was under no obligation to provide him with work, and from the beginning he was warned that the white man would not long tolerate his presence.

British Columbia is a splendid country, but it cannot be said to be a tropical one, and he would do better in his own interest by going elsewhere. Of late some authorities have boldly said his migration to that province is neither more nor less than part of a conspiracy to create friction between the Imperial Government and the Indian Empire. This is rather a far fetched view, although the conduct of some of the Hindu leaders at Vancouver has not been at all reasonable. At any rate, the Ottawa authorities are resolved to put the recent exclusion orders into full effect.

The Hindu makes a great point of his being a British subject, and thinks that this entitles him to being admitted as a free citizen to every part of the Empire. But there is no general law of the Empire which allows a man of the Asiatic race to come here with his wife and family and start life anew if the whites in Canada, as in this instance see fit to object. Just let us think for a moment what might happen if the Asiatics of India were to settle in British Columbia in very large numbers. We know what happened to the Southern States from their having a Black Belt, and a Brown Belt in British Columbia would be sure to become a menace.

The readiness of Mr. R. F. Green to serve the interests of his constituents and his ability to secure from the Borden government the granting of any reasonable request has been once more demonstrated. It was only last week that Mr. Green was asked to present to the government the desirability of protecting the bank of Columbia river near the wharf from the depredation of the of the current, and already the situation has been inpected by the Dominion government engineer and the announcement made that the mattress work require will be undertaken as soon as lower water makes the work possible. A more speedy or more satisfactory compliance with a request could hardly be imagined. Mr. Green has been dubbed "Kooteney's Best friend." It is a title that he has done much to deserve.—Mail-Herald.

Someone should draw Mr. Green's attention to the condition of our ferry which for days has been tied up because the man ordered to do the repairs failed to carry out his contract. The Review thinks that if the matter was presented to him our member would see that it was attended to.

Seamed is his face with passing years,
But still his shoulders bear their burden fair;
His eyes are clear, no weakening age brings tears
Withal his crown of waving, snowy hair.
For close to 50 crowded summers' count
He's lived here close to God and God's own soil,
And tho' the seasons passing slowly mount
In number, still he greets the day with toil.
He's hale and heartly, his three score and ten
Rest lightly on his shoulders, and his hand
Is steady as or sturdier than men
That live but half his span in this lowland.
I wonder if the silence of his life,
A silence strange to those of city birth,
And contract with the open, danger, strife,
Has burnt the dross and given his life its worth.
