Board of Trade Annual Banquet

The banquet, which has now become a fixture in connection with the annual meeting of the Creston Board of Trade, this year was in the nature of a reunion dinner, as it were. Cranbrook and Creston boards, which have been out of touch for some years, cemented the bonds of friendship with the attendance of President Spreull, J. P. Fink, R. E. Beattie and F. M. McPherson of the former organization here to renew former-time friendships, to help heave into the discard any imaginary or real differences that may have existed, and to assure that co-equally with Creston their desire is to inaugurate 1920 and succeeding years with a new deck and a new deal.

In the past, too, the divisional city board has been a bit lukewarm toward the Associated Boards of Trade, and to make the reunion complete Commissioner F. A. Starkey (Nelson) of the associated boards was here to welcome Cranbrook back to the organization over which he presides. The speeches bearing on this phase of the evening session were redolent with genuine co-operative get-together spirit, and while no guarantees could be given in the premises certainly the tenor of all the addresses was decidedly optimistic as to the desired goal being reached.

The spread was on Tuesday night in Speers' Hall, a committee of the Women's Institute having the catering in hand, and a repast well worthy of such a special occasion was bountifully provided and equally expeditiously served. President Constable was the presiding genius, and opened proceedings with his presidential address, coupled with which was the Valley's export trade statement in all lines for 1919. The latter showed that for the year the exportable products had put the Valley into the half-million dollar class, the fruit and vegetable export alone running to at least 200 cars, and total value of about $300,000.

While the speeches to all the toasts were decidedly worth while spscial mention is due the efforts of J. P. Fink, to whom was assigned the reply to the toast to "Publicity." Mr. Fink was particularly happy in his opening remarks which had to do with his acquaintance with Creston for almost a quarter of a century, and on the desirability of Creston uniting with Cranbrook, Fernie, and the Windermere in the pamphlot it is proposed to issue and circulate Mr. Fink made out a splendid case in every detail. Even more felicitous were the remarks of Mr. Spreull both in speaking direct to the toast to "Our Indurtries," as well as setting forth his views on the relations that he hoped these get-togethers would establish, not only as between their respective boards of trade but as between the citizens of the communities individually and collectively. Mr. Spruell's language and style carried conviction with them and undoubtedly if the suggestions offered are acted upon mutually beneficial results can hardly fail to follow. Equally pertinent and as capably expressed were the views enunciated by Mr. Starky in every direction, with special mention due to the concise way he presented the usefulness of the Associated Boards and demonstrated the useful work that the organization is doing. And in handling proceedings throughout as well as reviewing the year's work of the board and presenting the 1919 trade statement President Constable did himself equally proud in compariron with the trio aforementioned. The toast list was as follows:

The Province—Proposed by Capt. Crompton and responded by R. E. Beattie, Cranbrook.

Publicity—Proposed by C. F. Hayes and responded to by J. P. Fink, Cranbrook.

Transportation—Proposed by R.S. Bevan, and responded to by F. M. McPherson, Cranbrook.

Sister and Associated Boards of Trade—Proposed by C. O. Rodgers, and responded to by F. A. Starkey, Nelson.

Our Industries—Proposed by Major Mallandaine, and responded to by G. J. Spreull, President Cranbrook Board of Trade.

Our Veterans—Proposed by S. A. Speers and responded to by C. B. Garland.

The Ladies—Proposed by C. W. Allan, and respended to by H. K. Oatway.

An added toast was the Creston Board of Trade, which was intrrdnced by Mr. Starkey and replied to by President Constable.

Commendation is due Chairman Piper and G. Johnson and Dr. Henderson of the banquet committee. They supplemented the ladies' effort admirably in every detail and a great deal of the praise for the all-round snccess of the function is due them.

Canyon City

Mrs. Violet Sullivan was here for a few days' visit with her father, R. J. Chambers, returning on Monday to her home in Cranbrook.

Mrs. Shane returned on Sunday from a short visit with her mother at Nelson. She has left her eldest boy to attend school in that city.

The Latter Day Saints revival meetings are still being carried on with much interest. Even during the wet weather and muddy roads of last week fairly large crowds gathered.

Next Friday night, Jan. 30th, Canyon people are holding a whist drive and dance at the schoolhouse—dancing upstairs at the same time as cards downstairs. $1 a couple; children 25c. The proceeds are to be used toward buying a much-needed piano for the community. Good music and a good floor assured. Everybody welcome.

Mr. Weatherhead is home again for a short visit.

Mr. Little and family left Canyon last Monday. They have made a permanent change, and intend to take up residence at Kitchener.

A new box of books has come to the school. Librarian Manfred Samuelson put the books in place on Sunday, and is now ready to receive applicants for reading matter.

Elder Bronson is here again holding gospel services in the basement of the school. The number attending runs from 40 to 60 nightly, and although he has been holding meetings for over two weeks the people have not in any way slackened their interest, which is indicated by their good attendance. Elder Bronson is a fine speaker and certainly a good bible student, and has the goodwill of the people of this community.—COM.

Wynndel

A very enjoyable little dance was held in the schoolhouse on Saturday night, with a fair-sized crowd in attendance. All present state that they had a fine time.

BIRTH—On January 11th, to Mr. and Mrs. Matt. Hagen, a son.

J. C. Butterfield, who lately returned from overseas, is now employed with the Canyon City Lumber Co. at Canyon, where he is driving a Kelly truck on the log haul.

Most of the residents of Wynndel were at Creston on Saturday to attend the cattle sale. So far as we can learn none of our citizens secured any of the stock, prices being beyond the means of the average fruit grower.

A nasty accident occured here on Tuesday morning when a team driven by Victor Johnson ran away. He was hauling fertilizer and while crossing a creek the horses broke through the ice and becoming scared got almost out of control. Victor was thrown off the load and was rather badly bruised and almost knocked out. Dr. Henderson's services were requisitioned and examination shows he is not seriously, though painfully enough, hurt, and is getting along nicely now.

H. Rosendale has moved into his new home on the Ramstad place, and Mr. Anderson, who recently arrived from Medicine Hat, Alta., now occupies the bungalow vacated by Mr. Rosendale.

Board of Trade Re-Elects Officers

Although street talk had it that a contese might be looked for for every office connected with the Creston Board of trade, the annual meeting of that organization on Tuesday night passed off without incident, except that the attendance touched high water mark—there being about thirty members on hand—but for only one of the places on the board was there occasion for scrutineers Speers and Cherrington to pass around the ballots. The name of Vice-President Bevan was submitted along with that of President Constable for the presidency, but in a neat speech Mr. Bevan withdrew, remarking that the 1919 officers had many matters well in hand which would have to be completed this year, and in view of this fact and the excellent services rendered he preferred to retire. Those who will be in charge of the board's effort this year are;

Hon. President—C. O. Rodgers.
President—Guy Constable.
Vice-President—C. F. Hayes.
Auditor—C. G. Bennett.
Executive—Geo. Johnson, S. A. Speers, E. C. Gibbs, W. H. Crawford, C. B. Garland, C. W. Allan.

The treasurer's statement showed that including the balance carried over from last year the board's gross intake was slightly over $600 and of this amount some $300 had been spent on Reclamation effort, about $80 in dues and delegates expenses to the Associated Board's convention, and other incidentals. The year closed with a balance of $115 on the year's operations.

The committee to strike the board's standing committees for 1920 will consist of the president, S. A. Speers and C. O. Rodgers, and these same gentlemen will comprise the delegation to attend the Associated Board's convention at Trail next month.

There was quite a grist of routine business to dispose of, the correspondence including a letter from a Regina gentleman who desires to establish a co-operative evaporator here, and this communication will be turned over to the Fruit Growers' Union. The C. P.R. have opened an information bureau in New York city and want literature and full information regarding Creston Valley to submit to callers enquiring about likely locations in B.C. The C.P.R. natural recources department also want even more precise information for their office at Calgary, and these requests will be complied with.

Another resolution adopted was that members who are one year in arrears for dues be dropped from the membersnip roll. For the Victory Loan Committee Chairman Henderson asked for suggestions as to the disposition of the flag won by this district—with three crests attached. Secretary Garland suggested that a fitting home for it would be the G.W.V.A. club room in the Mallandaine block, assuring that if it were turned over to the vets. that it would always be available for loan for decorative purposes on great occasions. The board unanimously agreed to denote the bunting to the soldiers.

The meeting was held in the G.W.V.A. hall, due to the annual banquet being spread in the Speers' building. The president's address was deferred until the banquet, which followed adjournment of the annual meeting.

Lister

Miss Vernon, who has been the guest of her brother-in-law, Mr. Baggs, has returned to Vancouver, and will leave shortly for England.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Stones have moved to their new residence on their ranch on the lower Creston-Porthill road.

Mr. Beard, who has been at Calgary, Alta., for a few days, returned the fore part of the week.

H. Lambie, representing the B.C. Nursery Co., was in the district this week, booking orders.

Geo. Paton has gone to Vancouver for a few week's vacation.

Tiny Davis is on the job of timekeeper for the camp this week.

A few of the residents got together on Monday afternoon and put up a flag pole at the school grounds.

Preparations are being made for moving the shacks on the lots of the settlers as soon as we are favored with a fall of snow.

Col. Lister has been away from the camp for a few days—on a business trip west in company with Director Ward.

Ray Crandall and family are moving to the coast, where they will be in residence for the immediate future. Mr. Crandall is one of the earliest settlers at Lister, but on account of a flattering offer concerning his future welfare, very much against his inclination he has decided to leave.

The stork has paid its first visit to a Lister couple, a daughter being born to Mr. and Mrs. Horace Wright, on the 15th. To fittingly perpetuate such an auspicious happening the happy parents are calling the little lady Margaret Lister Wright.

Sirdar

John Trachieux, section foreman, who has spent the past three weeks at Saskatchewan points, is back again at the old job. During his absence P. Lombardo was in charge of the crew.

Ernest McCabe is another of the holiday-makers who has just returned to work, after a vacation of almost two months.

R. H. Ross of Cranbrook, a former car foreman here, spent a few days with Sirdar friends last week. He states his health is almost as good as ever since the operations he underwent at a coast hospital last summer.

Mrs. Jas. Cook of Creston was a week-end visitor with Mrs. Loasby.

The soft weather over the week-end put a crimp in the hay hauling operations of Arthur North, who had been busy bringing in hay from across the lake.

A new bunkhouse is being erected here for the convenience of the freight crews, and the newer and better accomodation will be much appreciated.

Chas. Fransen, section foreman at Moyie, was here a few days last week. He has booked an extended leave and is going to Mayo brothers' hospital at Rochester, Minn., for medical treatment.

W. H. Morris was renewing acquaintances at the metropolis between trains on Monday.

Mr. Fraser, a Nelson contractor, has a crew of men at work at the Landing, building a new slip. The improvement will be welcome as the slip at present in use is far from satisfactory.

English Church service in the schoolhouse on Sunday night, with Rev. J S. Mahood in Charge, was well attended, although climate conditions were far from the best.

Social life at Sirdar was quite gay last week, cards and dancing being features of at homes at the residences of Messrs. Goodman and McMasters.

After a two-weeks' layoff, due to a rather bad cold, C. M. Loasby is back at work again this week. In his absence Jack Cameron had charge of the work crew.

Mayor Daly is still unavoidably absent from town, and for the present has turned municipal management over to Engineer Brock. He did have designs on assigning the work to ex-Mayor Cameron of Cranbrook but when he heard of Billy's defeat he decided that anyone Cranbrook ties the tin can to is hardly a capable [illegible] magistrate for Sirdar.

Nothing Like 'Em Even in Ontario

That the Creston Valley can produce Delicious apples in quantity has never been doubted, and that their flavor and keeping qualities are unsurpassed are still more important factors that are not in dispute on any of the markets the Valley Delicious have so far invaded. That these same Delicious can more than hold their own in the classiest company is indicated in the letter below, which has just been received by R. J. Long, whose Erickson orchard has recently established a B. C. record for net returns of a solid carload of this variety. The letter reads:

Calgary, Alta., Dec. 31, 1919
R. J. Long, Esq.
Creston, B. C.

Dear Mr. Long—You sent me a box of Delicious apples, which I asked Mr. Bevan to buy for me, and they were of such splendid quality and pleased so much that I wish to especially thank you for same.

We only opened them about two weeks ago, and I have a daughter living near Niagara Falls, Ont., and when sending her the annual Christmas box I enclosed a few of these apples, and I have a letter in reply to the effect that such apples were never seen there before.

When the next crop comes around I hope to be able to get a few boxes of the same variety and quality. With best wishes for a successful New Year, I remain,

Yours truly,
H. C. GRAHAM,
Customs office, Calgary.

The letter needs no elaboration, except to remark that the Niagara Falls section is the banner fruit district of all Ontario, and when a resident of that section so frankly concedes the outstanding excellence of the Valley Delicious no higher commendation can be had.

Another Good Film

Big, dramatic scenes abound in "Fighting Destiny," Vitagraph's feature starring Harry T. Morrey, which will be seen in the Peekin theatre on Saturday night. The hero trails to the depths of the underworld of a great city his fiancee, who vanishes on their wedding eve. A man of great influence, he is refused any aid by police or political friends, and even her father, a former governor, warns him to give up the search. But Larry (Mr. Morey) single handed battles all the sinister influences and solves the mystery and finds his trust in the girl's love was justified. His adventures and escapes from death are screened with many a thrill, especially his hand to hand fight with the habitues of the resorts he visits. There are also remarkable scenes of Chinatown dens.

Sarah, entering at this moment with unnecessary salts, Ruggles ceded her his place. Misses Bulbul, Alessandra, and Roxana were still standing, and there was a peculiar warmth in the eyes of the gorgeous Georgian beauty as they followed every movement of Ruggles. Miss Elliot looked at them all critically, then at Ruggles, whose face had turned rather white from the pain in his ankle due to the strain put upon it when supporting Rosa. Miss Elliot understood. Her bright eyes had caught the contraction of his features as he had practically carried the girl to the divan.

"Won't you sit down, Mr. Ruggles," said she, and pushed a chair to where he was standing.

Ruggles thanked her with his quick, flashing smile, and his blue eyes travelled from her to the three expectant girls, who were watching him with a devouring intentness. As they met those of Roxana, the long lashes of the lovely Georgian quivered. A marvelous rosy wave of color flooded her exquisite complexion. It was the first time since childhood that any man but the venerable Hamid Pasha had looked upon her unveiled face, and her emotion was almost that of a maiden surprised at her sylvan bath by some Prince Charming hunting in the forest.

From time immemorial, Trans-Caucasia has supplied the harems of Turkey, Persia, and Egypt with lovely girls, just as Kwangtung has supplied rice-eaters and the Chinese silk. perform light services and play in the sunny gardens and be taught music and dancing and intellectual accomplishments. Perhaps the merchant, seeing greater possibilities of profit, might have her educated at his own expense up to the time of her maturity. She was not degraded physically. One does not smirch a priceless pearl or drive in a coster cart a filly that may one day win the Grand Prix. No, her lot was destined to be an easy one, for the Turks, as husbands, are proverbial for their kindness and indulgence to their womenkind.

Such a girl was that lovely maiden, Roxana, daughter of a herder of Tiflis. She had been since her tenth year of the household of Abdul Hamid, who was related to Hamid Pasha, and who had given him the little girl not long before his deposition. Hamid Pasha had planted her in his garden as one might plant a lovely flower, and watched her bloom with the same deep poetic appreciation.

But what of Roxana? Where did she as an individual enter into the general scheme of things? What of her soul and her highly active intelligence?

Up to this time neither had suffered. Lessons of various sorts had occupied her mind healthfully and sufficiently; she had been taught music, dancing, and two languages besides her own—French and English, which she spoke charmingly. Then, if truth is to be told, she was rather lazy and luxurious physically, though mentally active enough. She was also devout and prayed in the mosque frequently. But one thing lacked her, and that was love. The girl was as ripe for love as a sun-kissed pomegranate for the plucking.

Consequently, as she looked at Ruggles, late salesman of the Walkeasy Shoe Company of America, and saw the light of admiration in his clear blue eyes, strange tremors seized Roxana. As she understood the situation, she was his. She had been left him by Hamid Pasha, together with other real and personal property. He might take her with the others to Paris or any other place, but after her first glance, Roxana much preferred that he should take her for himself. She thought him very beautiful and a hero. Perhaps she was not so far wrong. Ruggles was handsome, and certainly a hero, if standing stubbornly with an empty rifle and lunging viciously with its fixed bayonet at a swarm of frenzied Bulgarians who, in their mad blood-lust, would have slaughtered his colonel, can make a man such. Hamid Pasha had not been sparing in his praise of Ruggles.

Then Roxana had just seen that he was kind—too kind for her jealous taste. For the moment, she hated Rosa.

Ruggles, quite unconscious of the sudden passion that he had aroused in the hot heart of this mountain goddess, sank down into the chair offered by Miss Elliot and looked about him with a smile.

"Sit down, ladies," said he. "You mustn't mind me. I'm still pretty shaky." He glanced over at the divan. "Feeling better, Rosa?" he asked.

The girl slipped from her cushions with the lithe grace of a kitten and crossed the room.

"Yes," she answered. "I am all better — and I will get you a something on which to rest your foot, for you are lamed."

She pushed an ottoman to Ruggles's chair, and, kneeling, raised his ankle, which was still bandaged, and shoved the cushion beneath it. Then she looked up at the young man with a smile.

"That is more comforting?" she asked.

"Yes, that's more comforting," Ruggles answered, smiling back at her.

At a nod from Miss Elliot, Alessandra and Bulbul had seated themselves, primly arranging their skirts. Roxana, however, remained standing, her tawny eyes glowing at Rosa. She was wondering why she had been so stupid as not to think of the ottoman. All of her short life she had been trained to please some lord and master, and here was this child from Cyprus forethinking her! She should get a good slap or a twisted pinch for that, at bedtime.

"Sit down, Roxana," said Miss Elliot.

Roxana turned slowly and looked at the governess from under her long fringe of lashes.

"I like better to stand," said she in a silken voice that held a trace of sullenness.

"As you wish, my dear," said Miss Elliot evenly. She looked at Ruggles. "Don't you think that the girls' gowns are pretty?" she asked.

"They're great," Ruggles answered. "The ladies look like they'd just stepped off the Rue de la Paix."

Roxana passed slowly in front of him, walking with the lithe, clinging step of a lioness, the foot about to leave the ground drawn deliberately by the extended hip. Her straight shoulders were carried back, her proud bosom thrust forward, and as she passed in front of Ruggles, she looked at him aslant from beneath her long, curved lashes. No trained cloak model in any of the big dressmakers' shops could have shown a gown more deliberately or with better effect. But in Roxana's act there was something almost savagely primitive. She wished notice and admiration for her new gown and herself, and therefore went calmly to work to get it. She was quite successful, and her eyes glowed as she observed the effect she had produced upon the new master.

Miss Elliot's brows contracted slightly. "Show Mr. Ruggles your gowns also, my dears," said she to Alessandra and Bulbul.

Wireless for Venezuela

So great is the propagandist power of the modern press that the wonders of the wireless are commonly taken for granted by the veriest child. Yet the resolution of the Venezuelan government to install a wireless apparatus in the environs of Caracas, the capital city, was of such tremendous importance and news value, that it occupied a good part of the front page of the Universal on October 16, the account being printed in large type and "featured" much as American papers have recently been "featuring" the League of Nations.

Airman Discovers Ancient City

Would Never Have Been Noticed on The Level

Lieut.-Col. J. A. Beasley gives in the Geographical Journal an interesting example of how photography from an airship can extend our knowledge. When making an aerial reconaissance in Mesopotamia over territory occupied by the Turks, he took a series of photographs near Samarra, which shows distinctly the ruins of an ancient city extending twenty miles along the Tigris River and two miles and a half wide, large enough to shelter easily 4,000,000 inhabitants. This city would never have been noticed on the level, since it is not marked by anything but scattered hillocks, although pottery and medals had been discovered on the site. But the photographs show clearly its whole plan, with its fortifications, canals for irrigation and streets.

Research Council Will Assist In Solving Problems

Ottawa.—The honorary advisory council for scientific and industrial research is taking steps to co-operate with the government air board in the matter of research to solve the problems of aerial navigation in Canada. This action has been taken in view of the growing importance of aviation in the Dominion.

The research council at its last meeting made provision for 1920 for forty bursaries, studentships and fellowships to be awarded to qualified science research in connection with the natural resources of Canada. The council has made a grant to Professor Drury of Queen's University for the investigation of a suitable slag for smelting Canadian ores containing vanadium which is for making steel.

A grant has also been made to investigate the nutritional diseases of the fox, which are a very great handicap to the fox breeding industry, not only for Prince Edward Island, but for Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and the Western Provinces.

The council, it is said, has taken action which will lead to an invitation to the British association to meet in Canada in 1923. Its last meeting in Canada was in 1909 at Winnipeg. Where the proposed meeting will be held has not been decided, but Ottawa is so far favored in the proposal. The visit of from 400 to 500 scientific men of Great Britain to Canada will, it is felt, be of great assistance in stimulating interest in Canada's resources.

Held up Jeweller

Toronto Auto Bandits Made Daring Raid on Store and Made Clean Get-away

Toronto.—Five auto bandits held up and robbed W. J. Watson in his store on King street west, and after helping themselves to the most valuable jewelery, made a clean get-away. A shot was fired at Watson as he retired hastily to a room in the rear of the store. A policeman made chase as the bandits were leaving the building, but only succeeded in forcing the robbers to drop three small trays of jewellery valued at $200.

Precautions to Defend Gen. French

Dublin. — Barbed wire entanglements are being constructed around the vice-regal lodge and also outside the town clerk's office in the city hall, which overlooks the chief secretary's office in the castle. It is assumed that the latter barricade is being erected to prevent the possibility of an attack upon the castle from the city hall.

RHEUMATIC PEOPLE

Can Only Find Relief By Enriching the Blood

Rheumatism is a disorder of the blood. It attacks people when the blood is overcharged with acid and impurities, thus setting up inflammation in the muscles and joints. Wet weather or cold weather of autumn may start the tortures of rheumatism, but is not the cause. The cause is in the blood and the blood only. Victims of this malady have every reason to fear the first dull ache in the limbs and joints, followed by sharp pains through the flesh and muscles; these are the symptoms of poison in the blood which may shortly leave the victim painracked and helpless.

There is only one way to cure rheumatism, and that is through the blood. Liniments, hot applications and rubbing may give temporary ease, but cannot possibly root the trouble out of the system. That can only be done by the rich, red blood which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make. This new blood drives out the poisonous acids and impurities, and the rheumatic [illegible] disappears. If you are a sufferer from this painful malady, begin curing yourself today by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and see how soon the pains and stiffness of the joints fade away, leaving behind new energy and new health.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

To Resume Soviet Negotiations

Esthonian Delegates Are Returning to Dorpat on Armistice Question

Reval.—The Esthonian delegation is returning to Dorpat to resume the conference. It is reported that the Bolshevik are willing to establish a neutral zone about six and a half miles wide in Soviet territory, but state that neither side shall be allowed fortifications, the effect of which would be to break up the Esthonians on the Norva front. Students of the situation predict that if the negotiations are successful the example of Esthonia will be followed by other Baltic states, although French influence may have the effect of preventing this.

Unable to Grant Passports to Russia

London.—The parliamentary committee of the trades union congress applied for passports for a delegation of the congress to visit Soviet Russia, there to investigate prevailing conditions. The government replied that it could not grant passports to a country with which it had no diplomatic relations.

How Huns Shelled Rheims

Cathedral Was Bombarded After Saxons Had Occupied City

Berlin. — Rheims Cathedral was damaged by German shell fire the first time on September 4, 1914, when the Prussian Guard bombarded the city for two hours, even after it had been occupied an entire day by Saxon troops, according to Lieut.-Gen. Baron Von Hausen, then commander of the Saxon third army, who has just published reminiscences of the first battle of the Marne.

The revelations of Baron Von Hausen are prefaced by a statement which declares that while the Germans have been searching helplessly for the guilt of those who started the war, an entire year has passed in which no attempt has been made to establish the responsibility for the bombardment of the cathedral city. He explodes the theory of the military leaders who declared the firing on Rheims was forced by military necessity, in view of the fact that the French were said to have used the towers of the cathedral for observation purposes and emplacements for guns.

Rescinding of Censorship Order

Is Included Among Those Ending With the Passing of the Old Year

Ottawa.—At midnight, December 31, all orders-in-council passed and enforced by virtue of the War Measures Act became ineffective, some hundreds of orders being numbered in those which are now no longer law. Commenting on this, a member of the cabinet stated that, contrary to the interpretations of the rescinding orders-in-council which had been published, the order-in-council relating to censorship is among those rescinded from January 1, and only nine orders, relating to trade and dealing with the enemy, remain in effect until the end of the forthcoming session of parliament.

The only orders-in-council passed under the War Measures Act which will remain are: Government control of pulp and paper, sugar, coal and wool, orders governing silver coinage and gold export, trading with the enemy and internment of aliens, and the order relating to the war purchasing commission.

Censorship being abolished with the New Year, the censor's office will be closed as soon as the business of that undertaking can be carried out.

Ratification of Peace

Germany to Sign Protocol, and Allies Will Hand Letter Agreeing to Reduce Their Demands

Paris.—Exchange of ratifications of the treaty of Versailles takes place this week at the Quai d'Orsay, Baron Von Lersner, head of the German delegation, and Paul Dutasta, secretary of the peace conference, settled all points in connection with the signature, except that relating to naval material which, it is expected, will be solved shortly.

The Germans will sign the protocol, and at the same time the allies will hand a letter to them agreeing to return part of the total available tonnage, if it has been over-estimated, or Germany is gravely menaced economically. In any case, after the signature, the allies will get 242,000 tons of material and the balance based upon the report of experts, who are now checking up at Danzig, Hamburg and Bremen. The British Premier, Lloyd George, will be present at the ceremony, which will be carried on without any display. Diplomatic relations with Germany will be resumed the following day, when the French Charge d'Affaires will go to Berlin and French consuls will resume their posts.

Allied troops will proceed on January 12 to the territories which must be evacuated by the Germans or where plebiscites are to be held. It is estimated that 100 trains will be needed for this purpose.

Electricity To Supersede Steam

All Railway Terminals to Be Electrified in Very Short Time

London, Ont.—D. B. Hanna, general manager of the Canadian National Railways, made the statement that within a short time the terminals of all railways in Canada will be electrified owing to the advantages of electricity over steam in the handling of trains and cars in yards. Mr. Hanna advocated an advance in freight rates, because such rates in Canada are the cheapest "in Christendom or any other country."

He said it might be a year before the Grand Trunk Railway comes into the hands of the government, owing to the prolongation of the negotiations.

Yellow Sugar Is Now Available

If the People of Canada Want It, They Will Have to Make Application

Ottawa.—If the people of Canada want a certain large quantity of yellow sugar which is available for use in the Dominion, they will have to ask for it, according to a notice which it is understood is to be sent out by the Canadian trade commission through various channels. There is, it is said, a large quantity of yellow sugar available in Canada, but at the present time there appears to be no takers, and this sugar is not being ordered from the refiners and wholesalers, in whose hands it is lying.

If the Canadian people do not want yellow sugar, it will help build up an export trade, and the supplies now available will be released to buyers in other countries, who are anxiously seeking it.

London.—It was learned from Japanese sources in London that no decision has yet been reached between Japan and the United States regarding the future policy to be carried out in Siberia consequent upon Admiral Kolchak's retreat. The views of the Japanese government, it was asserted, have been fully communicated to the Washington government, and the British government has been notified that pourparlers have begun.

Japan, it was said, was determined to arrest the blows of Bolshevism toward Japan, and must, therefore, review the whole situation in Siberia. She is prepared, if necessary, to increase her force in Siberia, but will act only in co-operation with her allies.

It was also said that all arrangements had been concluded between the British, French and Japanese governments for the repatriation of the Czecho-Slovak troops concentrated near Vladivostok.

Made Demand For For Former Emperor

Request for Extradition Was Sent to Holland During the Summer

Washington.—Through official information, not heretofore available, it has been learned that last summer when an apparently reliable report came from Holland that the former German crop prince had escaped from his island of internment at Wieringen, the supreme council precipitately demanded that former Emperor William be turned over to the entente powers. The demand was embodied in a note sent to the Dutch government.

The reply of the Dutch government was a polite statement that the report of the escape of the crown prince was erroneous and that every precaution was being taken to prevent such an issue. The information available is that there was no attempt by the Dutch to answer the demand otherwise, so that the probable action of The Hague authorities in case such a demand is pressed can only be inferred.

Hurrah! How's This

Cincinnati authority says corns dry up and lift out with fingers.

Hospital records show that every time you cut a corn you invite lockjaw or blood poison, which is needless, says a Cincinnati authority, who tells you that a quarter ounce of a drug called freezone can be obtained at little cost from the drug store, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You simply apply a few drops of freezone on a tender, aching corn and soreness is instantly relieved. Shortly the entire corn can be lifted out, root and all, without pain.

This drug is sticky, but dries at once and is claimed to just shrivel up any corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin.

If your wife wears high heels she will be glad to know of this.
