THE CRESTON REVIEW

Vol. XII. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, MARCH 26, 1920 No. 4

Erickson

Mrs. H. B. Downs got back on Saturday from a six weeks' visit with friends at Vancouver and Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Dolf Weir and young son got away on Tuesday for Portland, Ore., where they expect to make their permanent home.

W. J. Boyd, who lately purchased five acres of orchard from W. H. Kemp, is getting lumber on the ground for the erection of a house on the place. The roads are in such heavy shape that two teams are required to handle lumber loads at present.

Mrs. W. S. Ryckman spent a few days with friends at Cranbrook last week, returning on Saturday.

Report has it that the recently arrived government rock crusher will be operated in this section near the Kemp ranch. The road between Creston and Erickson is to be put in permanent road shape while much crushed rock will be used for repair work at other points.

The sale of ten acres of wild land opposite the Birney ranch is reported this week, the buyer being Louie Littlejohn.

Jos. Stinson is also reported to have bought ten acres in the same locality, and proposes building a residence on it as soon as the weather will permit.

Other building contracts Mr. Stinson has taken for 1920 are a new house on the Levesque place, W. W. Hall's house, an addition to G. Leadbeater's, and a cement foundation under Geo. Hobden's new packing shed.

W. J. E. Biker of Nelson, the water rights branch engineer, accompanied by his assistant, Mr. Evans, were here a couple of days the fore part of the week, making an official inspection of the irrigation system the Erickson water users' association is getting ready to put in, the water supply coming Sullivan Creek. About ten ranchers are interested in the project and are planning to be using the water this season.

Kitchener

Mrs. Hunt is spending a few days with Creston friends this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Spiers and family are this week moving back to Creston to take up residence.

Sherlock Holmes is still resident at Kitchener and working out his theories.

Joe. Dubie has signed an armistice with the marten, having pulled in his line of traps, and Joseph has now gone to work for Geo. Hunt.

Two mining experts from Spokane have been here this week looking over the Scott Price claims on Goat River.

Mr. Daubin, teacher at Lister school, spent the week-end here, the guest of G. A. Hunt.

Saturday night dances at the hotel are becoming a regular fixture. The The last one was on the 20th, some of the men at the mill arranging it and they prove themselves capital entertainers, too.

The Sash & Door Co. mill will operate steadily for the next few months. While the sleighing lasted they accumulated about three million feet of logs in the yard and when the roads will permit truck hauling will be started.

Mrs. McGonegal was a visitor with Creston friends a few days the latter part of the week. Section foremen Johnson and Nelson were also there on the 16th for the monthly pay cheques.

G. A. Hunt was a business visitor at Creston the fore part of the week, returning on Tuesday. Ernie Driffill is also a Creston visitor at present.

We understand section foreman Billy Johnson has booked three months' leave and intends commencing his layoff at the first of the month if the new foreman is ready to take over the work.

The C.P.R. work train was in here on Monday going on to the scene of the wreck on Wednesday morning of last week, where they put the car in shape and reloaded the coke. The crew is expecting to be working along the line for a time handling the slides and clearing out the ditches.

Sleighing is completely gone now and the Sash & Door Co. have gone back to hauling by trucks. Up till about a week ago sleighs could be used while the frost lasted in the mornings.

Fishery inspector Robinson of Nelson was here on an official visit a couple of days last week, and will be back again shortly. The question of restocking Meadow Creek is being considered by the department.

To take fishing trips more comfortable and less tiresome Jas. Arnell is planning to invest his surplus trapping earnings in building a number of log cabins along Goat River at which fishermen can put up for the night at a very reasonable charge.

Geo. Hunt expects to be putting the finishing touches on his roadmaking contract at the crossing as soon as the weather will permit. We hear this year's estimates will provide for considerable improvement on the road between the crossing and Kitchener, as well as at Arrow Creek.

Sirdar

After being closed up a couple of weeks due to the prevalence of flu the Sirdar school resumed operations again on Monday, with quite an average attendance.

W. H. Morris has gone to Trail where, we hear, he has taken a position and will remain for the present.

The mild weather that has prevailed of late has taken out all the frost and put the land in shape for cultivation. Ploughing was in full swing early in the week at the North and Pascuzzo ranches.

R. Walmsley of Creston was a week-end visitor with Sirdar friends, returning on Monday.

The Fraser Construction Company crew is making good time on their contract of building the new slip at Landing, and will be ready for use early in the month.

The ice is rapidly disappearing from the lake and it will not be long now before the motor boat owners can launch their craft for the 1920 season.

Mrs. Blackwell, who had been in charge of the hospital at Creston was a visitor with Mrs. Dennes on Saturday, en route to her home in Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. Loasby, who had been at Creston for a few days recuperating after the flu, got back on Sunday. He expects to be in shape to resume work before the end of the month.

Rev. J. S. Mahood had a fine turnout on Sunday evening for the Church of England service at the schoolhouse, and will be here again on April 11th, when he will have an Easter service

Mayor Daly who has beenhi bernating at Nelson for the past few months, was at the city hall for a few days about the middle of the month, since when he has been on a business visit at Waldo and Cranbrook. Ald. Harry Hughes is acting mayor during his absence this trip.

While the flu epidemic lasted Sirdar had about a dozen cases of it and at times it was needful to utilize the speeder for the trip to Creston for a doctor. Fortunately none of the cases were fatal, and all of them are around again pretty much as usual.

Revelstoke will require $40,000 to run its schools for 1920.

Keremeos growers are getting $25 a ton from the canners for their best grade tomatoes this year.

City laborers at Cranbrook will be paid at the rate of 50 cents an hour this year, and will work an eight hour day. This same rate will obtain at Penticton.

The Free Press cannot quite figure out why it takes 23 mills of the Fernie tuxes to run that town's school system, while Nelson gets past on a 14 mill levy.

Lister

Jos. Bell was the lucky winner of the pup raffle by the school trustees to secure funds for improvements to the school property. Besides furnishing considerable fun the raffle produced close to $50.

Mrs. Hurl and baby son returned from the hospital at Creston a few days ago.

Sam Coop is the last of the flu victims at Lister and he expects to be around the same as ever in a few days now.

Mrs. Vinc. Liddicoatt has arrived from Cranbrook to join her husband and become one of the permanent residents of Lister.

The farms of Messrs. Filmer, McKay and Stones are now decorated with new barns erected at cost to the owners of about $300 in each case.

The amusement committee's whist drive at the schoolhouse on Saturday night attracted the usual good attendance, and the usual enjoyable evening is reported by all. The winners at cards were Mrs. Liddicoatt and Jas. Turley, while the booby remembrances were awarded Miss Anstead and B. M. White.

Local and Personal

Creston Methodist Sunday school will resume its sessions on Sunday next, March 28th, at 11 a.m.

J. H. Lawrence, the well-known Nelson accountant, has been here the past few days making the annual audit at the Canyon City Lumber Co., Ltd.

There was a dearth of right-size wedding rings in town the fore part of the month, and on at least two occasions it was necessary for the bride-elect to be adorned with a gold band that had done service at a similar function some years previous.

A little better fire protection is now available to the business houses on the west side of the track. Last week a house built over the hydrant near the Creston Hotel in which is stored a couple of hundred feet of hose, and the necessary appliances for turning on the water when needed.

H. S. Schofield, provincial organizer for St. John's Ambulance Association, addressed a public meeting in Mercantile Hall on Wednesday night, under Red Cross auspices. Owing to being called on two days' notice the attendance was not large. He spoke on "First Aid" and "Home Nursing."

Dr. Frank, the Nelson vet., was here over the week-end, conducting an investigation into the outbreak of staggers which caused the death of a number of Indian horses this month. Following the dry summer of two years ago the eating of rushes had the same disastrous effect on the Siwash nags.

Messrs. Payne & West, who recently purchased the Rose & Watcher ranch, arrived from Mountain View, Alta., with a couple of cars of effects as well as some stock on Tuesday, and have taken possession. Both have families, who will be welcome recruits to the none-too-large corps of Valley berry pickers.

Frank Romano was a business visitor at Cranbrook and Fernie the latter part of the week, returning on Tuesday. It is expected two or three extra gangs will be employed in this district this season, one of them hav already started work relaying the line with heavier steel between Duck Creek and Sirdar.

Chas. Moore got back on Saturday from a few days' stay at Slocan City, where he was busy dismantling the old three-story Victoria Hotel building, and getting the lumber, doors, windows, etc., therefrom ready for shipment to Creston. He will utilize the material in some building operations on his ranch here.

The emergency hospital was finally closed on Friday, and after a thorough fumigation the following day was ready for dismantling on Monday. It was in operation a little over two weeks, seven patients being taken care of at it. The bills are now being collected and the provincial government will be asked to pay the running expenses.

Rev. T. McCord with Mrs. McCord and family, left on Friday for Victoria, where they will make their home in future. He has retired from the ministry and assumed the position of district manager on Vancouver Island for the London Life Assurance Company. During a year and a half's residence here both Mr. and Mrs. McCord made a host of friends in Creston Valley and they both take with them best wishes of all for success in their new home.

There were sounds of revelry by night—both in town and country—on Thursday last when a chivaree party favored a trio of the newlyweds with a formal call. The tin can troubadors dished up a 50-50 program of instrumental and vocal melody so touchingly that something like $10 in cash and a bang-up supper was the net and satisfactory result of their enterprise. There were no casualties, though at one point armed interference was unsuccessfully threatened.

W. J. E. Biker, Nelson, the water rights branch engineer, accompanied by his assistant, Mr. Evans, were here on Tuesday and Wednesday, making an inspection of the irrigation system Erickson water users' association is putting in, getting the wet goods from Sullivan Creek. With reference to the irrigation project at Arrow Creek and Goat river his reports thereon are now at Victoria and he expects the department will issue a statement in connection with them very shortly.

The editors of about a dozen papers on the C. P. R. line between Calgary and Edmonton are regaling themselves with Creston Valley apples this week. On Friday the board of trade sent them out a half box each accompanied by a write-up of the Valley. A year ago the papers in the Crow and south of Calgary were similarly remembered and much valuable publicity was obtained—as per the great influx of Southern Alberta people that have since come in, and are still coming. The apples were No. 1 Delicious and were in prime shape, and splendidly put up by Jas. Cook from his 1919 crop.

Canyon City

Fred Browell left a few days ago for Lethbridge, Alta., in which part of the country he expects to be employed for the next few months.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Gilbert, who moved here from Saskatchewan about a year ago, are away on a trip to coast points, and it is stated that they will remain there permanently.

Road foreman Harris had a small crew of men busy last week filling up the ruts in the road caused by the spring washouts. He is now busy slashing out the right of way on the Canyon City side of the approach to the new high level bridge.

John Wood and John McRobb have both gone to Willow Point, where they expect to be employed at lumbering operations this season.

School re-opened on Thursday of last week after a two-week shut-down owing to the flu epidemic. Canyon had quite a few, and some serious cases, but there were no deaths and all are now recovering nicely.

Mr. Dence, who purchased the Grover Kifer place last fall, is getting a supply of lumber on the ground and will erect a more commodious residence as well as other buildings this spring.

Pruning is the order of the day with the ranchers and if the excellent prospect now in evidence materializes the Canyon City apple crop will at least treble the 1919 output.

R. Smith of Dutton, Ont., has been a visitor here for a few days, straightening up the affairs of his son, the late Bobby Smith, who was one of the Canyon men who were killed in the great war. Mr. Smith was here about ten years ago, and is certainly surprised at the tremendous development everywhere in the Valley.

Wynndel

Mrs. T. Sadler, who has been spending a short holiday with her mother at Coleman, Alta., returned to Wynndel on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Grady, who have been in Spokane for the past few months, returned to Wynndel on Friday. Mr. Grady, all will be sorry to hear, is in rather poor health.

Chas. Walker, the representative of the Daily News, Nelson, was a business visitor to Duck Creek on Saturday, collecting subscriptions and picking up new ones. He stayed over night at P. Andestad's.

The real spring weather that prevailed at the week-end brought everybody out, the depot at train time in the afternoon presenting the most lively scene since last summer.

A C.P.R. extra gang completed th work of re-laying the line through Duck Creek with heavier steel on Monday.

J. P. Brooke is busy erecting a new house on the Butterfield ranch.

Land clearing operations are under way here. Messrs. Packman and Wall are busy clearing their block by the school, and Ken. Dewar is busy clearing his new place next Mrs. Nathorst's.

Monrad Wigen expects to have his mill running soon. The men are now at work putting it in shape for the season's cut.

E. S. Butterfield spent the week-end at Balfour.

O. J., John Wigen and John Bathie are asking for tenders for the work of digging the foundation ditch of their new irrigation system, bids to be in by Wednesday next.

About twenty-five couples were present at the dance in the schoolhouse on Saturday night, under United Farmers auspices. There was a fine floor, good music, the ladies served a tasty supper, and with Douglas Butterfield master of ceremonies it will be at once apparent that a good time prevailed. It is likely a whist drive and dance will be given on Saturday evening, April 2nd, but of this more particulars later.

Kaslo residents are due for a raise in water rates. At present the waterworks department is the only city-operated utility that loses money.

City employees at Revelstoke will be notified that they cannot accept work on a pay basis during the hours they are not in the city employ.

Cranbrook is due for a brain storm about April 7th. The school teachers of East and West Kootenay are to be there in annual convention at that time.

Pembroke met him upon his arrival and took him to his quarters, where they had a long talk, Ruggles describing how he had established his wards and the social attentions that they were already receiving. He spoke also of the early suitors and of the manner in which he had disposed of their demands.

"I wrote to this Conte del Castelfranco," he concluded, "and told him straight that there was no use in his asking for Rosa unless he could furnish proof that he had a million francs to his own credit. He hadn't answered the letter when I left."

Pembroke smiled. "Humberto hasn't a sou, poor little devil," said he. "I know them slightly, and I've heard they live on a small allowance that the old girl has from her brother-in-law, who manufactures Roman silks, or something of the sort."

"Those high-soundin' titles just hypnotized Miss Elliot," Ruggles remarked, "and Livingstone got in his fine work by turning on the hot air. He sure had plenty of it."

Pembroke frowned. "I'm afraid that Livingstone was my fault," said he. "I'd known him a long time and always found him a good enough sort, so I took him over with me for tea one day. If I'd ever thought he was going to have a try, I should never have done so."

Pembroke sat for a moment puffing at his pipe, then looked at Ruggles with a swarthy flush under his fresh but weather-beaten skin.

"I suppose Miss Elliot told you that I want to marry Roxana," he said, a little stiffly.

"Yes," Ruggles answered, "she told me about that."

"Hope you've no objections to offer," said Pembroke. "I can manage the million francs," he gave a short laugh.

Ruggles did not immediately answer. Pembroke glanced at him and his lids narrowed. The color deepened in his clean-cut face.

"Don'tcy word you don't look any too pleased about it, old chap, I must say!" He took his pipe from his mouth and stared at Ruggles curiously. Then, noting the gathering flush on Ruggles's rather sheepish, handsome face clouded. "Good Lord, you haven't gone and fallen in love with her yourself, have you?"

"What me? No of course not. I ain't in love with her.

"Then has anybody else?" Pembroke leaned forward, gripping the arms of his chair, and the [illegible] his temple darkened. "Look [illegible] Johnny is going to cut me out?"

Ruggles shook his head. [illegible] answered heavily, "It ain't that, [illegible] about Miss [illegible] you, though I'm not precisely asking your pardon [illegible] marry her anyhow, and let the dot slide."

Ruggles leaned back in his chair and looked [illegible] at Pembroke's sombre face.

"[illegible]" said he. "Do you ever have any pig-keepers in your family?"

Pembroke's strong jaw fell.

"Why—upon my soul—are you mad, Ruggles"

"No — and you needn't get mad either. There's no harm meant. I'm just asking for information."

"Pig-keepers — what the deuce do you mean? Swineherds?"

"Yes. Swineherds. You haven't, have you?"

"Look here, Ruggles,"—Pembroke's jaw hardened and his eyes began to gleam ominously,—"I don't mind a little chaff now and again, but if you think that just because you've come into a pile of money—"

"Hold on a minute." Ruggles raised his hand. "Just try to keep your temper and you'll see in a minute what I'm trying to get at. There's another question I want to ask you. Now I've heard you speak of your mother, and I know you think a heap of her. How would you like it if people were to point at her and say: 'See that woman? Well, her father tended hogs out in the beech woods, and so did her brothers and sisters. She might have been doing that now, herself, but she was mighty good-looking, and her folks thought they might get more out of her some other way, so they sold her—'"

He got no further. Pembroke had bounded from his chair, his face crimson, and his powerful grip fell on Ruggle's throat. But even as his grasp tightened, he began vaguely to understand. The tense fingers relaxed He thrust Ruggles from him and sank back into his seat. The color faded from his cheeks.

"You damned little cad!" he growled. "You little shoe-shop bounder that I picked out of the gutter!"

"That's right," Ruggles answered with a little choke. "That's what I was. And you're Lord Pembroke. And if you do what you say you want to do and marry Roxana, then people can say about your children's mother what you were ready to choke me for just sort of asking how you'd feel if they was to say it about yours. See? Only in the case of your children it would be true. The grandfather of the next Lord Pembroke would be a dirty swineherd somewhere over there across the Black Sea." And he jerked his head toward the east.

Pembroke's face was set and rigid. He swallowed once or twice, but did not try to speak. Ruggles went on as quietly as though he had not just narrowly escaped a strangling:—

"Say, Lord Pembroke, you know just as well as I do, that people as high up in society as you are can't always do what they like. It would not be a square deal—not only to those of their family that are living, but to those that might come after them. I never looked at it that way until I met you and Mr Falconer and Hamid Pasha and some others that were the real thing But there's no getting around it, I guess. And then there's another thing—this girl Roxana's only about half-civilized. I've watched her and I know. For all of her wonderful looks, she's regular she-devil inside, and it only needs a jolt to bring it out. What sort of a wife would she be for you? Believe me, I'd rather marry a lioness and live in the cage with her. There's something in her eyes that scares me, sometimes— and you know yourself that I don't scare so awful easy."

Pembroke, who had been watching him fixedly, leaned forward and buried his face in his hands.

"God!" he muttered. "You've struck it, Ruggles. It's just that has driven me nearly mad. She's a great, splendid, tawny lioness—but damn it, man, she's more than that! She's got mind. She's got a soul. I know her better than you think. I've talked to her. I've studied her. There's a lot of the savage underneath, I'll admit, but who wants one of these puling 'born-in-captivity' women? I can tame her. I'm none so civilized myself, and I've always told myself that if ever I came to mate it would be with some such woman as that." He drew out his handkerchief and wiped his glistening forehead. "There have been no end of sultans whose mothers were taken from the same class," he growled. "Hamid Pasha himself was very probably the son of a slave. All Turks take their wives in that way."

"Yes," answered Ruggles quietly, "and look at them now."

Pembroke's jaw set stubbornly, and when he spoke, there was something in his voice that struck a chill through Ruggles.

"Oh, well," said he harshly. "No doubt you're right. I'll chuck my title, change my name, marry the girl, and clear out for America or Africa or some other place. 'Nuff said. I've [illegible] her, and that's jolly well all there is about it."

Nobody, to hear and see the man, could have doubted the finality of this decision. Ruggles's face turned pale, and he [illegible] for the moment almost fierce.

"You'd really do that?" he asked.

"Right," said Pembroke, almost indifferently. "More than that, I'm going to [illegible] you, Ruggles. I've [illegible] her, and that's all there is about it."

Ruggles leaned forward quickly in his chair.

"Then take her," said he. "You can have her. I'll give her to you. There's nothing to under. Take her and do anything you like with her—only, for the love of God, don't marry her!"

Pembroke started forward, staring at Ruggles in amazement and disbelief.

"What?" he cried. "Are you mad? When Hamid Pasha—"

"Don't you talk Hamid Pasha to me!" cried Ruggles roughly "Didn't I save his life and get all shot up doing it? Will I ever be a sound man again? Did I promise anything about these girls? I guess the score's about square between Hamid Pasha and Richard Ruggles." He leaned farther forward, and deep lines drew themselves obliquely across either cheek. "But the score ain't settled between you and me, Lord Pembroke. What you said was true. You picked me out of the gutter and brought me out here with you and made a man of me. When I was shot to pieces you stuck by me day and night—and gave me your own clean water when I was thirsty, and risked cholera drinking out of a stinking ditch. And afterwards—Oh, say, what's the use? Do you think I'm going to see you throw your life away after all that? Not by a damned sight! I'd give you the whole bunch, first—I—I—"

His voice broke. He burst into tears, turned in his chair, folded his arms against its back, and buried his face in them. Sobs shook his body as though to rack it apart.

Then a strong, comforting hand dropped upon his heaving shoulder with all of the old gentleness and magnetic touch. A low, vibrant voice, tremulous itself, said soothingly:—

"There—there—my boy — there — there! I'm sorry."

The growers of the Gordon Head district are reported to have made contracts to deliver to the jam factories 250 tons of strawberries at 20 cents a pound. Buyers have been going through the lower Mainland and Vancouver Island surveying the situation and making offers to the various large producers for the contemplated harvest.

Proof that Some Women do Avoid Operations

Mrs. Etta Dorion, of Ogdensburg, Wis., says:

"I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

How Mrs. Boyd Avoided an Operation.

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well.

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

Lady: "Oh, no, some you can see your face in."

MARCH WEATHER DANGEROUS TO BABY

Our Canadian March weather—one day bright, but sloppy the next blustery and cold—is extremely hard on children. Conditions make it necessary for the mothers to keep the little one indoors. They are often confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms and catch colds which rack their whole system. To guard against these colds and to keep the baby well till the better, brighter days come along, a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach and bowels working regularly. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which never fail to regulate the stomach and bowels and thus they relieve colds and simple fevers and keep the baby fit. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Big Percheron Sale In Britain

High Prices Secured at Messrs. Tattersall's, Knightsbridge

At Messrs. Tattersall's, Knightsbridge, England, on Monday, a number of Percheron mares and stallions were offered, and met with a good trade. The first lots on offer were specially selected, and imported by Messrs. Hy. Overman and J. L. Wickham-Boynton. The highest price was paid by Lord Minto for that splendid grey mare Quadrille, foaled in 1916, which he secured for 500 guineas. Mr. G. M. Gibbs went to 480 guineas for the grey mare Oie, which it will be remembered was second at the Royal Cardiff Show, 1919. At 440 guineas Lord Minto secured Neronde, a grey mare by Jack, the property of Messrs. H. and J. Drage. By private sale, Mrs. Emmett secured Negation, a seven-year-old grey mare, due to foal at the end of February, at £400. She is by Gogel, and out of Jericho. This mare has already done very well at the French shows in 1919. The same lady also acquired Nemesis, another seven-year-old, by Javelot, at £450. This mare possesses the right blood, and should do well at English shows. Other chief prices and purchases were:—

Italy's Peace Treaty Book-

Binding of the German Copy is of Solid Black

Fifteen copies of the treaty of Versailles, one for each of the allies and associated nations that affixed signatures to the ratification of the document, have been distributed in handsome bindings by the supreme council of the League of Nations. On the binding of each copy, excepting only that of Germany, is a device or coat of arms. The binding of the German copy is solid black, without a mark of any kind to relieve its appearance of gloom. The most ornate of the volumes is that of Italy. The device on that of Czecho-Slovakia, the infant among nations, consists of three plain letters and is the simplest of any volume, with the exception of Germany's.

Western Canada Is Expecting New Settlers

Large Exodus Is Coming From the Other Side of The Line

An unprecendented number of farmers from the United States are intending to settle in Western Canada during the present year. One of the chief factors that is responsible for the large exodus from the other side of the line is the present exchange rate. It may not be generally known that American farmers, by availing themselves of the present rate of exchange, can save at least the first twelve months' expenses on their land. This has been the primary factor in inducing many of these settlers to make up their minds right away, hence the prospective record business. One man in Montana a short time ago, in order to be sure of reaping the benefit of the exchange rate, forwarded $6,000 to a friend here for investment in Canadian bonds.

Keep Fit For Success In Life

BY DR. A. B. BABCOCK.

You can take your boy and out of him make anything you like if you can get him under good self-discipline. All roads are open to the man who is strong and fit. Uncle Sam took "our boys"—those slab-sided, stooped, hollow-chested youths—and made of them vigorous, well-developed, well set up and courageous men. Take the right way! Train yourself and your children to take proper exercise, drink plenty of water and keep the system clean. Your doctor will tell you that anything from a common cold or headache to the most serious illness may result from the absorption of poisons in the intestines.

The first principle is to keep the system clean. Occasionally see that the boy or girl, as well as yourself, has an internal bath. It may be with castor oil or a tiny pill of May-apple, aloin and jalap, which is sold by druggists as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

If a cold starts with a cough and it persists, then some local treatment for this condition should be taken. A well-known alterative extract which has been on the market for a great many years, and which has been highly recommended by thousands of users, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This tonic compound is composed of an extract of roots and herbs, without alcohol, and has a soothing effect upon the mucous membrane, allays the irritation and at the same time works in the proper and reasonable way, at the root of the trouble—the stagnated or poisoned blood.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, MAR. 26

Let's Reason Together

Major Mallandaine's letter in our issue of March 12th was most timely—insofar as it went—and on some has had the effect of starting them thinking of the Valley's deficiency in other directions than a hospital.

Less than a month ago the question on many people's mind was where to get the finance to launch a much-needed co-operative library which is now made available through wise provision recently made by the provincial government.

Staring at least three school districts in the face right now is the problem of increased school accommodation, which can best be met by the provision of a central consolidated school.

And with those who happen to have paid the sum guaranteed the Soldiers' Memorial about a year ago this undertaking may safely be considered a matter of some public importance.

Within the last two months local organizations have named committees to search out and set in order all the available data in connection with rural municipal government for this section.

And it is not going too far to say that right now the matter of getting the authorities, both provincial and federal, busy on the finish-up work to determine the feasibility or otherwise of Kootenay Flats drainage is at a stage where united action by the whole community would get the desired action to shortly bring about a verdict one way or the other on this all-important project.

These are just a few of the problems facing us that come to us offhand. Undoubtedly there are others of equal concern to the districts or parties directly concerned.

While there is no denying that our needs are of some considerable proportion, it is comforting to have the existing spirit of optimism prevalent, and still better is the knowledge that we now have an array of local organizations whose combined effort should be quite equal to the task of successfully tackling the various objects above enumerated and any and all others that have not as yet been publicly disclosed.

In the Women's Institute, United Farmers, G.W.V.A.'s and the Creston Board of Trade we have organizations that very fully represent the varied interests in the Valley. If each and all of these will intelligently select a public welfare committee, have its committee delve into the whole situation as it appears to them, and in turn have a joint committee of the four bodies prepare a united report and submit it to a citizen's meeting—or series of meetings to be held in the different schoolhouses in the Valley—headway is like to be made in overcoming some of the handicaps under which the Valley is attempting to develop at the present time, as well as taking timely action for a future that is choke full of promise.

The reason we suggest action of some sort being taken so as to be able to present something definite when the citizens are gathered together is entirely due to our experience here that after one meeting enthusiasm begins to wane and to get anywhere it will be needful to strike—and strike hard—while the iron is hot. This same line of logic will apply to our suggestion that simultaneous action be taken on all our problems rather than trying to adjust them one by one.

Without any cost whatever The Review is prepared to do what it can along the line suggested—or in any other likely direction—but let the move be made soon. An early spring is upon us, and once May happens along the proverbial "busy season" will be found all too ready an excuse for delaying action on some matters that really should not be allowed to stand over for a more convenient season.

About a Hospital

The 1920 flu outbreak has again demonstrated that Creston never does its best till it knows the worst. When it became apparent, about three weeks ago, that the situation was liable to get out of hand, and the all too small corps of volunteer helpers for in-the-home nursing growing gradually less, it was not long before a move was made to open up and equip as best as possible an emergency hospital, the Methodist church being conscripted for the purpose, and into which the patients that had to have volunteer as well as skilled help were moved.

With the hospital open it was possible not only to get along with less help at one and the same time, but also to, in a measure, arrange that the willing ones would not have longer than a ten hour shift—something that was very much the exception rather than the rule in the homes where the volunteer help labored prior to the advent of the hospital.

In connection with the conduct of the institution some of the ladies deserve special mention for their arduous efforts both at securing help as well as provisions for the institution, and guaranteeing the payment of all expense, if need be. In addition to the hard and not exactly pleasant tasks imposed on the volunteer help, they also labored inconveniently, in that home duties had to be neglected.

Both the patients and the community as a whole are greatly indebted to those who so unselfishly gave of their time in an uncongenial though merciful effort.

As emphasizing the urgent need of a permanent hospital it will not be amiss to point out that in this emergency the number offering for volunteer work was much smaller than during the outbreak in the fall of 1918. If the faithful few who came forward in 1920 should fail to respond in the next crisis of the sort what is likely to happen is not pleasant to contemplate, even at this distance.

From this date forth poolrooms at Penticton will close at 11 o'clock each evening, by order of the police commissioners.

A U.F. Social Dept.

At the meeting of the Canyon Local of the United Farmers last month Director A. R. Swanson submitted a proposition for still further extending the local's effort, and in a direction that at once appealed to all. The matter was introduced by President Wood—Mr. Swanson being unable to attend—and came before the meeting as a letter, as follows:

We have for some time watched the movement of the United Farmers in the province to the east, aud at last the work is being extended into our own province. The spirit is catching in both sparse and thickly settled communities alike. It is getting to be a realized fact that it is no longer a privilege but a necessity.

There are many benefits arising from the movement and undoubtedly the crystallization of this desire, which is felt widely, will create a stronger and healthier community spirit. The inroads that have been made, and are still being made, by agencies that work for the disruption of community life in the rural centres, have challenged men and women to seek some method of preserving community identity in the face of great odds. The desire of boys and girls to leave home at an early age and seek positions in the cities and towns—the growing dislike for the quiet pursuits of country life—the far-off lure of the bright-lighted city and the up-to-dateness of the urban community; all these and other agencies too numerous to mention have their disquieting influences on the life and aims of the boys and girls of country. An organization such as we have in the United Farmers can go a long way toward making the rural districts more attractive to the youth, and in this way satisfy his growing mind.

The past years of trial have torn asunder and scattered to the winds the ambitions and ideals of generations, and brought us face to face with new problems. We of mature years cannot hope to see couditions altogether remedied during our time and our only hope is in the coming generation applying themselves to the wise cultivation of our farm lands. Our national character will be determined by the kind of men and women we have working our farms and living in the country towns and villages.

I sincerely advocate injecting into the working programs of all United Farmers' locals anything and everything that will materially benefit the boys and girls in developing the at home and get-together spirit, making each one a unit of united action. As the youth developes into manhood and womanhood, they will be well balanced characters, prepared to think and act for themselves.

The meeting unanimously endorsed the proposition and will incorporate it their scheme of operations.

NEWS OF KOOTENAYS

Dr. Fergie, Cranbrook's brand new dentist, will open for business this week.

James McNicholas is Fernie's new fire chief, at a stipend of $125 a month.

A two year-old girl of Walter Woodhouse of Fernie fell into a tub of scalding hot water one day last week, dying after ten hurs of the most terrible suffering.

The Courier hears that Alberta stockmen are taking out permits to graze 14,000 head of cattle and about 100,000 sheep in the Cranbrook district this season.

Penticton will have a 46 mill tax rate this year. Increased school demands and a ten per cent raise in civic salaries are in a measure responsible for the boost.

A Bellevue resident who recently adopted seven children of his deceased sister has just lost his own wife and is now a widower with a family of fourteen children on his hands.

It is figured that there are at least 400 returned soldiers in the territory around Cranbrook. The G.W.V.A. is asking the city council for a grant of $1500 to carry on with this year.

Fernie candy store keepers have been just notified that sales of candy on Sunday must be limited strictly to those that are eaten by the purchaser while in the store premis...

The Kootenaian observes that since Kaslo schools have resumed operations after a shutdown due to the flu, the youngsters about town appear to be about 2 per cent cleaner in appearance.

Fernie is considering the purchase of a motor fire truck. If this is done it will do away with the keeping of three horses along with an expenditure of about $1,000 a year for feed and shoeing.

Starting early in May it is announced the C.P.R. will put on a daylight train between Cranbrook and Medicine Hat. This convenience was provided up till about five years ago.

There is a prospect of the mortgage on the fall fair grounds at Grand Forks being foreclosed. It amounts to $4,000. The city council will likely be approached to purchase the grounds to save the day.

Cranbrook is enjoying its due share of the prevailing prosperity. During the recent epidemic only 5 homes needed temporary assistance and but two destitute families have been discovered all winter.

Nakusp is to be electrically lighted by the middle of the summer. The light will cost at a rate of $1.50 for four lights in residences. Arrangements are being made to light the town streets as well.

At a citizen's meeting at Grand Forks a few days ago it was decided, if finance permits, to have the soldiers memorial take the shape of an auditorium attached to the new high school, which would also be available for G.W.V.A. uses. The cost would be around $12,000.

The residence of S. Graham, of Fernie, was entered recently and 53 bottles of Scotch whiskey stolen. The theft was traced to three young lads, who in turn admitted they had sold it to a garage man, while a search of the garage man's residence secured most of the stolen product.

According to a recent religious census it would appear as if Kaslo had a population of about 800. A quarter of them are Presbyterians with the Methodists next and the Anglicans third. 11 residents claim to belong to the church in the home, and there are but two agnostics listed.

Cranbrook council has legislated that women who pay a special tax of $2 per annum may vote at city elections in the future. It is estimated that if all the women took advantage of the provision they could elect a council of their own—prvided they all voted a solid ticket, of course.

The "dummy' policemen that have hitherto decorated the streets of Penticton with a view to reminding auto drivers of the penalties accruing if the speed limit is exceeded are to be removed. It was found the wooden bobbies were too light for the job and the council refused to buy another set of iron construction.

The Business of Farming

The approach of spring, with the renewal of Nature's activities after the long rest of winter, inevitably leads also to a renewal of man's activities, especially in the lines of productive effort. In some countries climatic conditions permit of year-round agricultural work with a rotation of crops, and such climates also make possible the carrying on of out-of-door work of all kinds. This, however, is not true of Western Canada, where the major activities of both Nature and man are sharply divided by the seasons—a long period of rest and recuperation during the winter, and a time of activity during the late spring, summer and early fall months far surpassing that known in more southerly climes.

And what is true on the farm is true in the cities and towns of the West. In other provinces and countries industrial activity is maintained throughout the winter in factories and shops, but in the less industrially organized West hundreds of workmen who are busily engaged in the summer are largely idle throughout the winter. The carrying on of building operations, road and railway construction, and out-of-door work of all kinds is largely at a standstill for five months of the year.

These are fixed conditions well known to everybody, but people are frequently inclined to overlook their significance in the organization of their business activities, and in dealing with economic problems confronting them. These conditions have a direct bearing on both farm and city labor, on wage demands by the workers, on the purchase and transportation of all kinds of material. If the hired farm worker is engaged for only six or seven months of the year he must, of necessity, earn sufficient to carry him through his winter months of idleness, or find other employment at a time when work is difficult to secure. The city worker engaged in the building trades must earn and lay by during the months of building activity a reserve fund to support himself and family during the winter when he cannot secure work, or can only do so by moving elsewhere at great expense and inconvenience to himself and family.

So, too, in the accumulation of supplies of materials of all kinds. These things, so essential to the doing of a maximum amount of work during the seasonable months, can only be assembled during the winter at a heavy cost of interest on money thus invested, insurance, storage, and transportation charges paid out. The net result is, of course, that there is frequently a shortage of supplies in the months when they are wanted, and an inevitable increase in the cost of work done owing to delays in securing requirements, and in the expense of handling rush orders.

These are annually recurring difficulties against which the people of the West have to contend. They probably affect the city employer and employee more directly than they do the farmer, but they react upon him and serve to intensify his problem of how to increase production of foodstuffs,—for which the whole world is crying,—and yet do so at a cost which will yield him a fair margin of profit on his labor and outlay, and not result in actual loss.

Western Canada farmers are already preparing for active farm operations. A demand for farm help is reported by the Government employment offices throughout the West. Most farmers are anxious to crop every possible acre of land. They want to increase production. But many of them are in a quandary. They are fearful whether the costs of labor, machinery, farm necessaries of all kinds, will not more than eat up any profits that may accrue to them from enlarged operations in the work of food production.

A difficulty with which most farmers find themselves confronted is a lack of data upon which to arrive at any conclusion. Unlike the city business man, the average farmer does not keep books. He cannot tell from what phase of his farm operations in past years he made money, or where he lost money. There are leaks in his business, just as there are in every business, but the city merchant has a means of finding them out and stopping them, while the average farmer has provided himself with no means of locating them.

About to start on a new year of activity, the farmer of Western Canada should realize that the day of guesswork in carrying on farm operations is over, just as truly as it passed long ago in connection with other businesses. The farmer must know what it costs to raise a crop, and he must make his buying and selling a business proposition. He should start his 1920 operations with a clear determination to find out exactly where his business stands, if for no other reason than that he will thereby have something to guide him a year hence.

Wise legislation may assist prosperity, but it is not possible to legislate prosperity, and the farmer should, so far as is humanly possible, place himself in a position to know and size up his market, just as the merchant knows what his goods cost him and the price at which he can afford to sell them. If the farmers of Western Canada could produce facts and figures of their business, as Eastern manufacturers and other business men can, he would be in a position to influence the enactment of much of the remedial legislation he now demands, but which at present he can only support by very general statements.

PALE, WAN CHEEKS A SIGN OF ANAEMIA

To Have Good Color and Health the Blood Must Be Kept Red And Pure

Many women who had good color and bright eyes in their girlhood grow pale and colorless and lose much of their charm when they become wives and mothers. Why is it? When the fading color in the cheeks and lips is accompanied by a loss of brightness in the eyes and an increasing heaviness in the step and a tendency to tire easily, the cause is to be sought in the state of the blood.

Many causes may contribute to the condition of the blood known as anaemia. Care of the home, overwork, lack of outdoor exercise, insufficient rest and sleep, improper diet, are a few of them. The important thing is to restore the blood, to build it up so that the color will return to the cheeks and lips, brightness to the eyes, and lightness to the step. To do this, nothing can equal Dr. Williams Pink Pills. They begin at once to increase the red corpusles in the blood, and this new blood carries strength and health to every part of the body. The appetite improves, digestion becomes perfect, and energy and ambition return. Proof is given in the statement of Mrs. Alex. Archambo, Cornwall, Ont., who says:—"Two years ago my health began to fail. I was suffering from headaches, pains in the back and sides, and a constant tired out feeling. I had used a lot of medicine, but instead of it helping me I seemed to be growing weaker. My friends urged me to try Dr. Williams Pink Pills, and while I felt disheartened at my experience with other medicines, I decided to do so. To my great joy I soon found the pills were helping me, and their continued use for a time fully restored my health. I feel that I would be ungrateful if I did not give my experience with Dr. Williams Pink Pills, in the hope that it may point the way to health to some other poor sufferer."

Dr. Williams Pink Pills can be obtained through any medicine dealer, or may be had by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Smelting Company Plans

The Consolidated Mining and Smelting company is making rapid strides toward new construction and improvements, which will not only increase the capacity of the big plant at Trail, British Columbia, in many ways, but will add another industry to the list. Present plans call for improvements in the copper refinery plant estimated at $250,000; the erection of a rod mill at an expenditure of $200,000 and the erection of and equipment of a large addition to the machine shop.

Necessity is not only the mother of invention, but the divorced wife of plenty.

Briquette Plant Being Installed

Fresh Step in the Development of Lignite Fields in Saskatchewan

Considerable progress is now being made with the instalment of the plant for the making of briquettes at Bienfait, near Estevan. Tenders are now being called by the Dominion government for the erection of the new buildings at Hudson Bay Mine.

The erection of the plant will be proceeded with as early as possible in the spring for the lignite utilization board. It is the intention of the board to have lignite briquettes on the market by August. The plant will cost in the neighborhood of $400,000.

The construction of the plant at Hudson Bay Mine is the first step in the development of the lignite fields of Saskatchewan, which, it is stated, will give winter employment to hundreds of people in the province.

Sending Cotton Back Home

Every Man for Himself Means Trouble for Everybody

A British firm has returned to the United States 3,000 bales of cotton to avoid the loss which would be sustained when it changed its British for American paper to make the payment. Nothing more ironical has happened in our economic history, says the New York Globe, which adds: "The rules of the game have begun to play havoc with our social arrangements. Every man for himself means trouble for everybody. Are the exporter in America and the importer in England to fight a silent duel to decide who must move first and take the loss on exchange? If so, we have a last convincing proof that whatever altruism there was in our part in the war has been forgotten, and that we are out to squeeze Europe dry while the continent is helpless."

British Sewing Machines and Typewriters

One of the British manufacturing developments delayed by the war was the production of a new type of sewing machine. Already, however, large numbers of these British-designed and British-built machines are on the market. A still more notable development is the mass production of typewriting machines by more than one British firm. It is expected that the appearance of this supply will have a very marked effect on markets for these machines in all parts of the world.

More Proposals For Settlement Of Irish Question

Montreal.—The Montreal Star publishes the following from a staff correspondent in Dublin:

"While Ulster is anxiously waiting the arrival of Sir Edward Carson to decide its policy regarding the latest Home Rule Bill, the remainder of Ireland is holding back to hear the proposals of Sir Horace Plunkett, who has lately returned from the United States.

"Sir Horace, since his arrival in London, has maintained absolute silence, but it is announced that the alternative demand to the present bill will be presented to a great representative meeting to be held in Dublin.

"On the highest authority, I am able to forecast that Sir Horace Plunkett's policy would bring Ireland into a whirlpool of international affairs. First, it includes the previous demand for full Dominion status, claiming the right of the various countries to decide their relations to the central constituent assembly by a proportional representation vote. Then the committee of the League of Nations would examine the claims of all parties to co-operate with the assembly in the formulation of a political constitution.

"I understand that Sir Horace has the firm promise of the United States to withdraw the reservations to the covenant of the League of Nations, which affects Dominion votes in the League of Nations, and also to assent to enter the League of Nations, if Ireland is granted representation of a Dominion status.

"It is also stated that the United States would undertake to consider adjustment of the exchange situation if Ireland's problem is settled on the Dominion basis.

"Meanwhile every effort is being made here to bring together all the parties to agree to Plunkett's proposal and this effort is not without success.

Charges Against Five Meat Packers in U. S.

J. H. Montgomery Declares They Lowered Livestock Prices

Washington. — The big five meat packers were charged in testimony given before the house agriculture committee by J. H. Montgomery, of Basin, Wyoming, with having livestock prices reduced and driven growers out of business.

Mr. Montgomery described himself as just an ordinary stock grower. He deplored injunctions and "immunity baths" in proceedings against the packers.

The packers thrive on injunctions, he said. "An injunction does not bother them any more than insect powder does a cootie. The whole packing industry should be put through a de-lousing station."

Mr. Montgomery charged the packers with efforts to influence stock growers and prevent their protesting against legislation for their control.

WHAT MISS EAGLE SAYS OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Ormsby lady who suffered from Diabetes for five years tells of the benefit she received from Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Ormsby, Ont., March 8.—(Special.)—"I feel I owe my life to Dodd's Kidney Pills." This strong statement comes from the lips of Miss Gertrude Eagle, a well-known and highly respected resident of this place. And Miss Eagle gives her reasons for speaking out in terms that none can fail to understand.

"I have been suffering from Diabetes for five years," she states "I tried the doctors, but they could do nothing for me.

"A friend told me of Dodd's Kidney Pills and of their great value. I tried one box and they helped me. I have now taken three boxes and they have done me so much good I feel I owe my life to them."

Classification Ruling

Appeal of U.G.G. on Road Graders Is Turned Down

Ottawa.—The board of railway commissioners has ruled that a reduction of the classification of road graders below the present rating of one and one-half times first class is not justified.

The United Grain Growers applied to the board for reduction of classification to the first class, with minimum of 5,000 pounds on flat cars.

Destroy Turk Navy

Turkish Warships Will Be Broken Up According to Pact

London.—The disposition of the Turkish navy was definitely settled by the allied supreme council when it decided that the peace treaty should provide that the warships be broken up. The Turkish army will be reduced to such a point by the peace terms that it would not be effective against another country.

The council deliberated over the report of Marshal Foch on the military situation as regards Turkey, but it did not determine on the question of details of the military terms of the treaty.

Gives Himself Up After Six Years

Weary of Globe Trotting, Winnipeg Man Surrenders on Manslaughter Charge

Ottawa. — Conscience stricken and weary of his wanderings all over the face of the globe, Henry William Elkhorn, wanted at Winnipeg on a charge of manslaughter, walked into the police station and surrendered himself.

The crime with which Elkhorn charges himself is that on one night in June, 1914, he stole an automobile in which he went joy-riding with a friend named George Graff. While travelling at a fast clip the automobile upset and Graff was badly injured in the head. Realizing his friend was in extremis, and fearful for the results of his escapade, he made the injured man comfortable by the roadside and then fled from Winnipeg. Graff died a few days later, and Elkhorn, changing his name to Arthur James Ford, hearing a warrant was out for his arrest, tried to enlist, but was rejected as medically unfit. He later secured a job as a stoker on an ocean-going ship, and in it quartered the globe. Tired of his seafaring life, he returned to Canada, made his way to Toronto, where he was recognized and narrowly escaped capture. From there he went to Hamilton, and was again in danger of arrest. Finally, a few days ago, after staking himself to meagre living by spasmodic employment, he came to Ottawa, and finding himself unable to get work of any kind, he acted upon a letter he received from his mother advising him to surrender to the authorities.

Elkhorn will be held in jail, pending receipt of information from the Winnipeg authorities.

Transport Strike Threatened

Food Supply May Be Affected By a Walkout

London.—Great Britain is threatened with a nation-wide strike of highway transportation workers involving from 150,000 to 170,000 men. The movement would seriously affect the distribution of food. The headquarters of the national federation of transportation workers has authorized the local executives to hand in strike notices because of the employers' refusal of men's demands for an increase in pay of 10 shillings per week. A conference held at the ministry of labor, in an effort to compose the difficulties, proved abortive, but it is still hoped that at the last minute newly-inaugurated negotiations will enable a settlement to be brought about. The railways, the tram car lines, and the bus services would not be affected.

Faint and Dizzy Spells. Weakness and Shortness of Breath.

You can generally tell when the heart is affected by the faint and dizzy spells, the shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensations, weak, sinking, all-gone feeling, choking sensation, etc.

Many men and women become rundown and worn out when otherwise they could be strong and healthy if they would only pay some attention to the first sign of heart weakness.

No remedy will do so much to make the heart regain strength and vigor, regulate its beat and restore it to a healthy and normal condition as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. C. A. S. Drake, Paris, Ont., writes:—"I have used on towards the second box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and find they have done me good. I had those fainting, dizzy spells, once in a while, and also weakness and shortness of breath, and would become so choked up at times I could hardly sleep without sitting up in bed. When walking too fast I would have to stop and try to catch my breath. I feel a lot better since I have used your pills and know that they have helped me wonderfully as I have improved very much."

Urges Uniform Divorce Law

Ontario Bar Association's President Wants Federal House to Take Action

Toronto.—Uniformity of Canadian laws of divorce was urged by President N. B. Gash in his address to the Ontario Bar Association, which opened its fourteenth annual meeting at Osgoode Hall. He said:

"The judicial systems of the civilized countries throughout the world are too varied and conflicting to permit any dream of international and uniform system of divorce laws, but it is high time that Canada began to put her house in order for this purpose. Parliament should bring down a general law superseding all the preceding laws on the subject, and conferring to courts constituted for the purpose, the disposition of such cases. Only in this way shall we put an end for all time to the uncertainty, confusion and conflict of laws that have been cropping up and are bound to increase as time goes by."

More Murders in Ireland

Dublin.—The killing of three persons in various parts of Ireland have been reported in a period of 24 hours. Dozen New Elevators

Calgary.—Construction of a dozen new elevators in Alberta is included in the 1920 program of the United Grain Growers, according to a statement made here.

Ottawa.—Sir George Foster tabled in the house the correspondence between himself and Judge Robson, covering the latter's resignation as chairman of the Board of Commerce. Judge Robson states simply that he finds it impossible to remove his home to Ottawa, and his presence is required in Winnipeg. The acting premier in his acknowledgement accepts Judge Robson's resignation with regret.

On the same day as he resigned, February 23, Judge Robson wrote a long letter to the acting premier, giving his views on the operation of the Board of Commerce, suggesting that a federal machine to inquire into costs and profits of commodities, and to act in an advisory capacity to provincial boards, would be more useful than the board as constituted at present, the matter of dealing with profiteers being better left, the judge thinks, to the provincial authorities.

He stated that the act actually removes the last chance the consumer had to do anything for himself in reducing the cost of living, and was also designed to stand off co-operative movements which were likely to make progress for the benefit of the consumers.

His experience on the board, he declared, led him to the views which make it improper for him to continue on it, and he further stated that he is out of sympathy with the act.
