Vol. XII. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1920 No. 28

Lister

Watch Lister grow: On Aug. 30th, to Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Bagshaw, a son. Sept. 3rd, to Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Lye, a son. Sept. 4th, to Mr. and Mrs. A. Baggs, a daughter.

At the time of writing, the new teacher has not arrived for Lister school, but will be along so that opening can take place by Thursday or Friday of this week.

Lister has experienced the two extremes in climate conditions within 48 hours of the present week. Since Sunday we have had it as high as 94 in the shade as well as down to 30—the latter touch on Tuesday morning catching the garden stuff in spots.

The recently-purchased caterpillar engine is now on the stump-pulling job on Jos. Bell's ranch, and will be kept busy at this line of operation on all the other places that have been alloted.

T. Weaver, who recently purchased a heavy work team from the company is employed with it on government road making operations—putting the highway through Section 7 in shape even for auto traffic.

Foreman haymaker Frampton and his crew of about a dozen got away on Tuesday for the scene of their harvest labors on Kootenay Flats, with J. Duncan detailed to do the cooking. They will put up feed for 65 residents who each have from one to seven head of stock.

Foreman carpenter Liddicoatt is now at work on the new A. W. Brian residence. The structure will be 30 x 48 feet—seven rooms and bath, and with the exception of Col. Lister's will be the most commodious house in the settlement.

Labor Day was right royally celebrated by both youngsters and grown-ups at the school grounds. The afternoon feature was a community picnic, the ladies' auxiliary and the School board co-operating in putting on the affair, and at which there were races and games of great variety and prizes for all the winners, to say nothing of the ice cream and the big supper. A word of commendation is due Messrs. Turnley, Noble and Barnhard who were on the job early putting up a number of swings, which were kept busy all day. The evening feature was a dance, which was largely attended.

Listerites were treated to a unique variation in their fortnightly dance at the schoolhouse last week, the new departure being a musical and literary programme which preceded the "hop." The concert feature was put on under the direction of Harry Brown, the newest member of the amusement committee, and was of exceptional merit. Those contributing were: Piano and violin duett, Mrs. Christianson and Mrs. Lister. Song, Mr. Langston. Violin solo, F. N. Thompson. Monologue, G. Paton. Guitar duett, G. and H. Yewbury. Song, F. Lowes Recitation, Mrs. N. Stones. Cornet solo, O. May. Violin solo, Mrs. Lister. Recitation, F. Camm. Step dance, J. Duncan. Recitation. F. N. Thompson. There was a good crowd out for the affair and many were the complimentary remarks as to Mr. Brown's concert organizing ability. Part of the proceeds were used as prize money at the children's picnic on Labor Day, and the balance goes to the piano fund.

DANCE AFTER SHOW

PEEKIN THEATRE

Tues., Sept. 14

Lister

[Crowded out last week.]

Two more new houses are to be started this week. One of them is for Jas. Jory and the other for A. W. Brain.

A convention consisting of one reprerentative of each local of the G.W.V.A. in East Kootenay was called by zone representative Jos. Bell of Lister, and convened at Cranbrook on Saturday last, with A. W. Brain in attendance as the Lister delegate.

A dance under the management of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A. was staged in the schoolhouse on Saturday night. Refreshments were served and the floor excellently handled by James Turnley.

Clarence Embree is at present busy building a kitchen on the house of storekeeper Mitchell, who, it will be remembered, bought an improved place from Col. Lister.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Brain were visitors with Cranbrook friends a few days the fore part of the week.

The pipe line undertaking of the Land Settlement Board, for the purpose of conveying water to the residents of Snake Alley, is now completed. It is about three miles long, and one inch pipe has been used throughout.

The meeting of Lister United Farmers which was called for August 7th had to be postponed owing to the sudden call for fire-fighters, was held on August 27th. Eighteen members were present. The minutes of the inauguration and special meeting were adopted as read. Secretary Stones reported on the formation of district local, and meeting of representatives of the Creston Board of Trade and heads of available locals with Hon. E. D. Barrow to discuss irrigation. President McGee explained and advocated the formation of a district organization by uniting with the other locals in the Valley. After discussion it was decided to call a special meeting for August 31st to elect members to represent this local at the district organization Mr. McGee in a short address touched on the value of fruit lands in Washington, mentioned by the minister of agriculture, and compared them with those of this Valley. The impression left was that President McGee is an optimist alright.

Shippers, Attention

Growers bringing in apples not marked and graded according to the Fruit Marks Act will be prosecuted same day as apples are inspected.

Delegates Banquet Closes Conference

The enviable reputation Creston has for some time enjoyed both as to hospitality and ability to fittingly entertain visiting delegations was splendidly sustained in the closing features of the Kootenay-Boundary Women's Institute annual conference, which concluded its labors here on Thursday afternoon.

On Thursday night the speakers and delegates, along with the Creston Institute members and their husbands, were guests at a banquet dinner at the Parish Hall, and although all the available table space in the building was utilized still it was needful to handle the guests in two instalments, the dinner attracting an attendance of at least 150.

The banquet committee, headed by Mrs. Geo. Cartwright, certainly excelled themselves both in providing a spread well worthy of such an occasion, as well as serving the same in equally creditable fashion, while the table decorations were certainly typical of the garden of the Kootenays—thanks in great measure to Mrs. R. Sinclair Smith who supplied a wonderful variety of cut flowers in lavish quantities. There were just enough toasts to entitle the affair to rank as a banquet, after which a nicely-balanced programme of musical and literary numbers were provided. Mrs. Lyne, who officiated as toastmaster, neatly proposed the toast to The King, which was honored in the usual fashion. Then came Mrs. Callandaine with the toast to "Our Guests," to which Mrs. (Dr.) McLean of Nakusp replied in felicitous terms, while the final toast was to "Our Entertainers," which Mrs. Chalmers of Thrums proposed, and the response was by Mrs. G. Cartwright.

Then came the concert programme in which Mrs. Crompton contributed a piano solo; Mrs. Lister a couple of violin numbers; Mrs. Downs a solo, to her own accompaniment; and vocal solos by Mrs. D. C. MacKenzie and Capt. Crompton. Mrs. (Dr.) McGregor of Penticton favored with a couple of recitations that were loudly applauded. During supper and throughout the evening Mrs. Foreman (piano) and Mrs. Lister (violin), were unstinted with their orchestra numbers which added much to the pleasure of the evening. The affair closed with a very hearty rendering of Auld Lang Syne.

On Friday morning autos in abundance were provided for a couple of hours motor drive over the Valley, during which the visitors were shown the Flats to the ferry, with a run to Wynndel for some, while others chose the Canyon-Erickson trip. Lunch was served at the Parish Hall at the conclusion of the trip and the local institute members were out en masse to bid the visitors godspeed at both the east and westbound trains.

Those who are conversant with these annual conferences all agree that the Creston convention was just a little more successful and all-round enjoyable than any of its predecessors and will look forward with pleasure to the next annual get-together here. While the success of the affair is in some measure due to the splendid co-operative effort of practically all the members special mention is due Mrs. Lyne, the local president, who had the general supervision of the whole affair; Mrs. Cook, who handled the billeting of the half hundred visitors without the slightest hitch anywhere; Mrs. G. Cartwright, whose banquet effort certainly did herself and her assistants proud; Mrs. J. W, Hamilton, who was equal to every emergency both as secretary and head of the programme committee; and Mrs. D. C. MacKenzie, who as head of the decoration committee, saw to it that that feature of the conclave was artistically accomplished. A report of Thursday's sessions is on page 4.

Sirdar

Harry Hughes, Roy Proctor and Jock McDiarmid got away on Saturday on a fishing and hunting trip. They seem to be having some luck with the fish, but so far no game has been shipped in by them.

Principal and Mrs. Brewis got back on Sunday from Regina, Sask., where they have been since the middle of August. The first few weeks of their vacation was spent at Victoria, at the summer school.

Mr. and Mrs. Ike Lewis were Sirdar visitors the latter part of the week. Ike expects to put up his usual quantity of hay this year, and will commence cutting this week.

Rev. J. S. Mahood was here on Sunday for English Church service at the schoolhouse, but the turnout was smaller than usual.

Mrs. Bert Ross, a former resident of Sirdar, now at Cranbrook, passed through on Friday, to New Westminster, in company with her daughter, who will attend school in that city.

Mrs. H. Hughes is back from Cranbrook, where she had been with her son, Donald, who underwent a medical operation while in the divisional city.

Road foreman J. D. Moore of Kaslo, was here at the end of the week, inspecting operations on the Sirdar-Kuskanook road. Any likely looking road makers can find a couple of months steady work on this job.

Victor and Jack Grundy, who have been holidaying with their mother at the C.P.R. Hotel, left at the end of the week to attend school at Creston and Macleod, Alta., respectively.

Miss Barnes, who has been a visitor here for some time with Mrs. Whitesides, is returning this week to Coleman, Alta.

During the absence of H. Hughes on his hunting trip, Hans Hage is in full charge at the Hotel Sirdar.

Kitchener

A box social and dance is arranged for Saturday night, Sept. 11th, at the Kitchener Hotel, the entire proceeds of which will go to the public school fund. Good music is being arranged for and the best of good times guaranteed. Ice cream will also be on sale. It is hoped the ladies will be out in full force with boxes that will be auctioned at supper time.

School re-opened on Tuesday morning with a fine attendance and Miss Atchison, who is from Vancouver, in charge for the term. She taught in Saskatchewan last year, and has splendid references.

B. Johnson, A. Pepage and the Misses Geroux were at Creston on Labor Day, making the trip in Billy's Ford car.

G. A. Hunt has completed haymaking operations for the season and will be starting work in a few days putting a new top on the bridge at Goat River Crossing. A car of special timber for the job has just arrived.

Miss Selma Gunderson, who about three years ago was on the staff at the Kitchener Hotel, spent a couple of weeks here last month with Mrs. B. Johnson. She is now making her home at Calgary, Alta.

The Sash & Door Co. mill is shut down for a few days and is getting an overhaul preparatory to starting on a cut on a special prairie order.

Dan Spiers and a couple of men are again at work on the C. P. Hill iron claims getting things in shape for extensive development, we hear. Mr. Hill is applying for water licenses on Goat River for development purposes.

E. McGonegal, foreman for the Paulson interests, expects to get away this week for a few weeks' holidays.

Prize List Omissions

186A—Tatting. 1st, $1.50; 2nd, $1.
186E—Home made house dress in cotton. 1st, $3; 2nd, $2.

The above items are missing from the printed prize list of Creston fall fair, though they appeared in the needlework list for the fair as published in the Review a few months ago. The ladies will enter these in Class 12, using the Section numbers as above.

Wynndel

Mr. and Mrs. E. Butterfield left on Friday for a short holiday at various points along the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Uri were hosts at a very pleasant housewarming at their new home on Saturday night. Everybody was present and a real enjoyable time was spent by all. Dancing was the most popular amusement, and for the first time on record Wynndelites danced on a verandah and thoroughly enjoyed the novelty. A tasty supper was served after which dancing continued until about 2 a.m. Everybody joins in extending Mr. and Mrs. Uri best wishes for long life and happiness in their new home.

Matt. Hagen and crew put the finishing touches on the new flats hay road on Wednesday.

Hay cutting is starting this week and all the talk these days has mostly to do with haying machinery.

Wynndel Box Factory had a close call from going up in smoke on Monday when some sparks started a blaze in some shavings, and the flames had got a hold on the roof about the time they were noticed. Luckily it was early in the evening with plenty of volunteer help available and the fire was speedily extinguished.

Miss Jennie Belanger of Creston spent a few days here last week, the guest of Mrs. A. Cameron.

Mr. and Mrf. E. Uri moved into their new house on Saturday last. Mrs. R. Uri returned on Saturday from a visit to Burton City.

Mr. Stark, representing the A. Macdonald Co., Nelson, was here on a business visit, Tuesday.

He sighed and gazed about him. "Look," he said, pointing to the farther end of the calm lake. "See them shadders, down there?"

Edna looked. All along the shore, from the limpid depths of the lake was mirrored a wonderful picture of trees and rocks.

"That's about as near the real thing as you kin get it, I guess maybe," said the lad, "ain't it?"

"You are right," she answered, impressed by his earnestness.

He stood erect and gazed all about him. He drew in the smells of the forest in a long breath. When he looked at her again there was a strange tenderness in his eyes.

"But pictures ain't all this," he sighed. "I guess the best painter in the world would have to leave a lot outen his picture."

He picked up the rifle which he had stood against a tree, and passed down the path leading to Lookup.

CHAPTER VII.

Dorkin's Preserve lay between two great lakes on the highest part of the Ontario Highlands, a strip of beautiful hardwoods nine miles long by three wide. Why Nature, ever a whimsical mother, had seen fit to strew these sloping uplands, which by right of heritage belonged to the coniferous trees, with sturdy beech, maple and hickory, will never be known. Perhaps in one of her freakish moods she did it, or, it may be that the golden trails of sunset, stretching from far-off Old Creation Hills, begged her for this blue-green runway across the deeper green of the tamaracks, that they might race there with the swift-footed shadows of the twilight.

It was a glorious beautiful strip of forest —shaggy-topped beeches with gnarled old bodies interlocked branches with straight-limbed maples; sturdy oaks whispering sibilant messages up to tall hickories. Beneath them, over mosses and fern, rested the blue drab hush of the shagland day: subdued, softened, scented; pregnant with life, quivering with the motion of eternal evolution.

animals and gamebirds, until now fear-haunted and man-hunted, came into the retreat which Dorkin had made for them.

There, the muskrats of the swales found marshlands to their liking. A few stealthy lynxes, finding the grouse-lands growing less fruitful and learning that the birds had moved to the uplands, followed. The red deer browsed among the second growth of beech and birch, unmolested. Even those grey, gaunt prowlers, the wolves, came suspiciously into the kingdom only to learn that they alone of all the wild kindred, were ostracized from the forest haven; so that, disappointed in their desire to tear down and destroy, they slunk away from the hardwoods in which lurked a deadly menace to their lives.

All about the border of the Preserve, Dorkin had tacked notices which read: "This is a private Preserve. Trespassers will be punished according to law."

The placing of these notices, as he rightly conjectured, was at once resented by the more daring of the trappers. They were torn down, only to be replaced by fresh ones. These went the way of the others. Then Dorkin called his helper, La Peer, and said:—

"These notices of ours don't seem to have hit the popular sentiment, Pete. What do our neighbors object to about them, do you suppose?"

The Frenchman scratched his head. "Dey don' lak any of 'em mooch, I guess," he grinned, "but I t'ink dey lak dis part here least of all." He pointed to the words "according to law," staring up from one of the torn notices.

"Oh," frowned Dorkin, "they don't like the law business, eh? We'll we will fix that to suit them, Pete. I'm glad you suggested it; it makes it simpler for me."

The notices Dorkin next nailed up read: "This is a private preserve. Trespassers will be punished."

On the morning following the placing of these, he came across a trapper by the name of Simmons, busily engaged in tearing one of the notices from the tree. The man's action was deliberate. Succeding at length in ripping it off the board, he threw it down on the sward; then picking up his rifle he looked about him as if in search of further devastation. Dorkin, who had stepped behind a big [illegible], waited until the trapper was opposite to him; then reaching out, he gripped him behind the neck and choked him until his rifle fell to the ground. Simmons, who, although a sizable man, was no match for the other's strength, stamped and cursed in pain, but to no avail. Dorkin shook him, clapped his face, and finally with [illegible] sprawling, a dozen [illegible], just outside the Preserve [illegible]

The trapper sat up, gazing blankly [illegible] and then rose shakily to [illegible] feet.

"You don't like my notices, I see?" [illegible] cheerfully. "Well, you [illegible] alone, near me. You [illegible] alone. Did you read it?" he asked, pointing to the one the man had lately pulled off.

The trapper nodded sulkily.

"Well, read it to me now."

"You go to hell" growled Simmons.

Dorkin took a step forward. "Read [illegible]"

This time the trapper hastened to execute the order.

"Maybe you thought those last four words were just a little joke?" said Dorkin when the other concluded. "Well, you've learned better. Hereafter, you and all other are to leave those notices alone. I guess that's all—so get!"

He pointed away towards the lowlands, but the trapper did not move. "Give me my gun," he demanded.

"You don't get it," returned Dorkin. "It's confiscated."

"I want it," cried the trapper with an oath, "and I'm goin' ter have it."

"Oh, are you?" Dorkin pointed to the rifle on the moss. "Then suppose you come inside and get it?" he invited.

"I'm not a-comin' in there no more," growled Simmons. "You hand it out to me."

"Say, Simmons," said Dorkin gently. "I want to tell you something and you can tell the rest of your gang if you like. It will maybe save trouble and some sore feelings. What I've just done to you I'll do to any man I find snooping around my grounds. This Preserve is mine, and I can do what I choose with it. I don't molest you fellows and I won't be molested by any of you. Now that goes! And see here!" He turned, and picking up the rifle, handed it to the humiliated trapper. "I give you back your gun, this time, because I know you didn't molest my property of your own free will. I know somebody else is behind you, and I think you ought to tell me who it is."

WIDE TRIBUNAL FOR MAINTAINING PEACE OF WORLD

INTERNATIONAL LAW COURT

Viscount Cave Advocates Standing Tribunal to Interpret and Administer the Law

St. Louis, Mo.—A plea for an international tribunal of justice to secure world order, freedom and peace, was made by Viscount Cave in an address before the convention of the American Bar association.

"It is surely time," the Viscount said, "that all the civilized nations should combine to set up a court of international law. There can be no effective international law until there is some standing tribunal composed of men of outstanding ability who have the confidence of the civilized world and are authorized on the application of any nation aggrieved to interpret and administer the law.

"I hope that I am not too sanguine in believing that the foundation of such a tribunal were well and truly laid, on the first day of July last. I am in no way concerned today with a question which as I gather, is not at this moment in perfect harmony—but I mean the League of Nations. Let there be no mistake, this will come into effect and international law will elucidate it."

Warning against radicalism, Viscount Cave declared revolutionary trouble threatened England, but predicted England would "pull through."

Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to the United States, in an address, pictured the Bolsheviki as enemies of Democracy. He prefaced his address with a denial of charges of Congressman Britten, Illinois, that Great Britain has appropriated approximated $87,500 to be used in this country for democratic committee purposes.

Vancouver, B. C.—That he fully appreciated the necessity of conserving the fish of the Pacific Coast by all means possible, though he did not favor handing the administration of the British Columbia fisheries over to the provincial government there, was the assurance which Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, federal minister of marine and fisheries, gave Hon. William Sloan, minister of mines and commerce for British Columbia, during a conference with the fisheries minister.

Ottawa. — A trans-Canada flight, half-way by sea-plane and halfway by airplane, is contemplated by the Canadian air board, the efforts to be next month, according to a statement just issued by Hon. Want Protection Against Harvesters

Protest Made to Dominion Government of Travelling Conditions of Harvesters

Cochrane, Ont. — Strong protests have been made to the Dominion government by the local board of trade regarding the conditions under which harvesters to the west travel, following the recent trouble at Kapuskasing and O'Brien. The board thinks that for "sparsely peopled districts like ours," there should be some special protection provided, and urges "Immediate action to compel a complete change in the mode of travel in these harvesters and also to afford protection to the localities effected so as to obviate residents of such localities having to take the law into their own hands and protect their property and lives at the point of the gun."

Copies of the resolution have been sent to Hon. F. B. Carvell, chairman of the Dominion Railway Board, D. B. Hanna, Premier Meighen and the Hon. J. D. Reid, minister of railways.

Purchase by Manitoba Farmers

Winnipeg. — One of the most important farm land deals negotiated for some time in Manitoba has been concluded. Senator Aime Benard and F. Lafleche acquired the Strathcona farm for $150,000.

The farm, which consists of 2,500 acres all in crop, is situated at Calrine, 15 miles west of Winnipeg.

500 on Strike Over $5 Dispute

Sydney, N. S.—Because of a dispute over an employees time-sheet, involving a sum of about five dollars, 500 miners are on strike at Glace Bay, and No. 9 colliery, one of the most important producers of the district, is idle.

HEART SO BAD WAS NOT SAFE TO LEAVE HER ALONE

Miss Eva P. Yateman, Krugersdorf, Ont., writes: — "I feel that I must write and tell you of the benefit I have received from Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. About four years ago I was taken terribly bad with my heart, nerves and fainting spells, and was down in bed for about six months. I doctored with two different doctors and seemed to get better, although the fainting spells would not leave me. I would take such terrible falls, wherever I was, that it was not safe to leave me alone at any time. At last I decided to resort to proprietary medicines and took several different kinds, but seemed to receive but little benefit [illegible] Advertisement of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I decided to try them, and before I had taken more than two boxes I could see they were helping me. I have taken about ten boxes, and am almost cured of those terrible spells. I sincerely feel that your medicine has proved a blessing to me, and I advise any one troubled with their heart to try them, as I am confident they will give relief."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Harvesting the Wheat Crop

Binder and Thresher Heard from One End of the West to The Other

Winnipeg.—Assisted by 30,000 harvesters from eastern Canada, the farmers of the prairie provinces are taking off their crops. The sound of the binder and the thresher is heard from one end of this western country to the other, according to a report of the Canadian National railways dealing with conditions along their lines.

Most points send favorable reports. There appears to have been little damage from hail and rust, and only one or two points report any damage from frost. Generally, speaking, the weather is favorable for harvesting, and for the ripening of late grain crops.

Points in Manitoba report that great progress has been made in cutting up to the end of last week, and threshing was general. In some districts cutting was completed, in others from 15 to 50 percent of this work was done. Ericksdale reports a large acreage destroyed by fire. Reports coming in show excellent to only fair. Saskatchewan's cutting is in full swing, and threshing has commenced in many places, except in a few points where rain has delayed the harvesting.

Dealing With Soldiers' Problems

Well Over A Million Cases Dealt With by S. C. R.

Ottawa.— Some interesting details of the work of the soldiers' civil re-establishment department are furnished in a statement just issued. The total number of enquiries and problems dealt with and directly affecting men under the scheme, is 1,218,472, and this, up to the present time.

It is expected that before the bulk of the work is completed, which will be about the end of the present year, this total will run to one million and a half.

It is expected that before the bulk of the work is completed, which will be about the end of the present year, this total will run to one million and a half.

The statistics show that the total number of men who have received medical treatment with pay and allowances is 49,369, the total number of clinical treatments is 422,235 and the total of dental operations is 84,576.

Unemployment in East

Hamilton, Ont.—There is more unemployment in this city now than for many months. Many men are coming here from outside points seeking for work, but without success. It is said that there is even more female help available than there is employment for in offices and factories, but the supply of domestics is below the demand.

Intoxicated Driver's Severe Sentence

Hamilton.—Wilfred Perry, of Toronto, arrested on a charge of being drunk while in charge of an automobile, was severely punished by Magistrate Jeffs.

He was fined $20, and sentenced to 30 days on the first count, and for having a bottle of liquor in his possession he was sent down for three months without the option of a fine.

Successfully Plug Gas Well

Calgary, Alta.—The gas well of the Canadian Cement company, which has been blowing wild for five or six years, has been finally plugged by officials of the mining lands, and Yukon branch of the Dominion government, after efforts of noted engineers from all over the continent had failed. Over [illegible] into the well.

Openings For Canadian Cadets

St. John, N. B. Military headquarters here reports that a limited number of vacancies at the Royal Military academy, Woolwich, and the Royal Military College, Sandhurst, [illegible] have been allotted to the Canadian government for nominations. Ages are between 17 and 18.

DESTRUCTION OF SOVIET ARMIES NOW COMPLETE

POLES TAKE 80,000 PRISONERS

Great Quantity of Guns and Ammunition Fall into Hands of The Poles

Paris.—The destruction of the Bolshevik armies now may be considered complete, according to advices received here. Of the host which swept down on Warsaw, nothing is left but 30,000 fugutives. The Poles have taken 80,000 prisoners thus far, but what is more important they have captured great quantities of guns and materials.

During the past three days there has been heavy fighting in the marshy valleys of the Narew between Ostrolenka and Lomza, where the Reds sought to break through in the direction of Bialystok. The losses have been heavy on both sides. On August 23 the Poles carried all the passages of the river. The Prussian frontier as far as Myszyniec is now occupied by the Poles. All the Red troops west of the line of Ostrolenka-Myszyniec have been captured. The exact number of cannon abandoned is not yet known. Detachments of cavalry and infantry which escaped proceeded northward, along the line of the lakes and marshes between the fortresses of Ossowiec and Grodno.

Profiting by the re-grouping of the Polish army, the Reds again invaded Galicia. General Budenny made a dash for Lemberg but has been defeated and is in flight. Another detachment crossed the Dneiper and occupied Stryie. This detachment sought to destroy the Borýilav oil wells, but was driven off by local workmen. In the region of Cholm, a Bolsheviki attack was repelled by troops occupied to the right of the Bug.

End of the C.E.F.

Will Carefully Preserve All Documents Relating to Ex-Members Of the Army

Ottawa.—The Canadian expeditionary force is no more.

The fourteen N.C.O.'s who were employed to conclude the statistical work of the army have written "30" on the concluding page of a mass of records covering every unit and every man who ever donned a Canadian uniform. Just the number of records kept of every individual man would come as a surprise to even the soldier whose records they are. The militia department has original and duplicates of about twenty-one army forms relating to every one who served. Asked what was going to be done with the thousands of apparently useless books and army forms, a militia department official stated that they would be carefully preserved and locked away.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, SEPT. 10

Election Features Institute Closing

Thursday morning's session opened with the singing of O Canada. Mrs. MacLachlan then gave reports of interest for the year. During the war the Institutes devoted their time to Red Cross work. Since then public health and school work had occupied their time. Health education is recognized by all as of greatest importance because unless backed by educational agencies every effort is very transitory.

In speaking of Saanich district the results had more than justified the efforts. Miss Foreshaw had ably conducted the work and was now assisted by three nurses, and a wonderful amount of work had been accomplished. The Women's Institute is a great rural organization and is constantly adding new branches. Seven new institutes have been added this year: Kootenay Valley, Bonnington, New Denver, Armstrong, Langley, South Vancouver and Strawberry Bay. There had been much co-operation between the Institutes and the department of education. It was not possible to get the same government allowance for a school nurse as for a teacher. A community nurse is a form of insurance. She is a defender of children, organizing them for health and good habits, and searches out cases of incipient tuberculosis.

Reports of Institutes

Reports of different Institutes were then called and the official delegates reported. All branches showed progress. Rock Creek with a small membership reported over $500 in funds, $300 of which—in addition to clothing—had been sent to sufferers from drought in Alberta. The improvement at the park in Nelson, which had been inaugurated by Nelson Women's Institute, came in for a good deal of comment.

Nakusp mentioned their "travelling basket" as a money maker, and Mrs. McLean was called upon to explain. The basket is a market basket provided with two account books and a purse. It is started out with a pie or a cake, the price of which is entered in one book. The basket is then passed to a member likely to need the contents. She puts the money in the purse, credits it in the other book, puts in her own contribution and passes it on. The basket is kept constantly travelling and is a money maker.

Mrs. McKay of Thrums then gave a paper on Child Welfare, in which she stated that the true wealth of a country is in the physical, moral, mental and spiritual health of its people. Reforms in medical practice had come about because people insist upon them but the infant death rate is still appalling—largely due to poverty. Any industry under unhealthy conditions is a liability, not an asset, and should not succeed.

Mr. Killam, superintendent of travelling libraries, then gave an interesting talk on the extension of library facilities in B.C. He said that so many people are fond of destructive criticism that they do not realize how dangerous it is. Ontario, which has the best Library Act in America, is the only province of Canada that has a better Library Act than B.C., with the exception of Alberta, which passed a School Library Act in 1907. The other provinces have either no public library act or no government machinery to carry it out. The B.C. act of 1919 is good but some vital provisions were left out. The guiding force is the Public Library Commission which acts without salary, but gets expenses when necessary. The task of these three people is to co-operate, promote and encourage. He then went on to describe the system of Co-Operative Libraries outlined by Miss Stewart on her recent visit. It was the intention of the government to make a larger appropriation next year so as to carry out, if possible, the co-operative scheme. He added that so far as superintendent of travelling libraries he and the commission were ready to give every help to struggling communities that wanted good reading and made application for service.

Election of Officers

The afternoon session began with the election of a member of the advisory board. The government delegates were called upon to take their places in the front row. Mrs. Chalmers, who had presided throughout, called upon Mrs. Fadden to take the chair. As there were at that time only 14 members present the question was raised whether Mrs. Fadden could, in justice as chairman give the casting vote, as she was a member of the advisory board, and in that case would have a vote over all the delegates of the Kootenay except the official ones. It was apparent that the situation was one of excitement for the chairman and vice-chairman. Dr. Warnock's advice was required several times, but finally it was decided that Mrs. Fadden retain the chair.

During the discussion it was made very clear that any institute could nominate a candidate and that no seconder was necessary. The result of this, however, would indicate that all delegates were primed before, and did not grasp the fact that this ruling practically absolved them from their oath (?) to their branches. The vote resulted in 10 votes for Mrs. Chalmers and 5 for Mrs. Hugh Ross; Mrs. Lyne and Mrs. Ogilvie acting as scrutineers.

Curiously, after the regular business had gone on for half an hour Mrs. Mohr of Willow Point, appropos of nothing, rose and moved that the ballots be destroyed, explaining that she always loved to tear up papers. This privilege was accorded her, and no one seemed to notice that she only destroyed the Chalmers ballots.

Committees Report

Mrs. Ogilvie reported on school matters, explaining that this year she had not been supported by her committee as formerly. She advocated promoting games among children that developed the spirit of fair play.

Mrs. Ashby discussed child welfare; Mrs. Quance the better housing of children. Mrs. McGregor interpolated the warning that instruction for the care of children should come from authentic sources. So very few people knew how to keep a baby clean. They invariably covered up the defects with talcum. Mrs. MacLachlan occupied ten minutes with an account of school and health improvements in her own district.

Resolutions

Resolutions were then brought forward by Mrs. McLean and her committee. Mrs. Mohr and Mrs. Ashby were responsible for one which advocated any British subject being permitted to vote on school matters by paying the tax, irrespective of land qualifications.

A matter regarding honorary memberships disclosed information that at present it was possible for a member of one institute to be a member of any number of institutes, and have voting power in each. This was considered a unbusinesslike a proceeding in view of what is customary in other societies that Miss Hamilton, of Kaslo and Mrs. Martin of Bonnington, assisted by the secretary, worded an amendment making it irregular for a member to vote in any but her home institute, but as an honorary member, if necessary for support of other branches, to pay the fee as a donation. This was carried unanimously.

A resolution, originating at Cowichan, advocating bible reading in schools was shelved as stimulating a separate school idea, which was not considered desirable in this province. Resolutions of regret were then passed regarding the death of Mrs. Blackwood-Wileman and various other deceased members and friends. Votes of thanks were extended to Mrs. Watt for a number of years, Mrs. Fadden and Mrs. McGregor for their attendance at the meeting.

A resolution from Cranbrook regarding putting that postoffice under civil service was not considered as the volume of business at that point would not put it in the civil service class.

Resolution recommending to all institutes consideration of health nurse and care of tubercular cases, and expressing desire to co-operate with government in its health campaign was carried.

The question of teaching First Aid in the High School course was considered unnecessary in view of the fact that provision was made by a course in the public school curriculum.

Creston then brought forward a resolution to have a Central Provincial Executive appointed for women's institutes. Explanation of the resolution being asked it developed that the sponsorship of this resolution really lay between Mrs. Watt and the Saanich Institute. As it appeared to be an effort of coast interests to stir up trouble between the department of agriculture and its loyal supporters in Kootenay, and as it also developed that in the event of such an executive being secured government assistance would no longer be provided, it was at once thrown out.

Other resolutions regarding enforcing laws in cases of Mennonite and Doukhobor school questions and establishing of hospitals for treatment of advanced tuberculosis were carried without opposition.

On invitation of Mrs. Clark the convention decided to meet at Crawford Bay next year. Votes of thanks were tendered the citizens of Creston and Creston Valley Institute for the many courtesies extended.

Sundown Trail

"The west that was" with its picturesque lawlessness, its daily shooting scrapes, its gaudy dance halls, its scarlet doves and the fierce untamed passions of its red-blooded men and women, is depicted in "Sundown Trail," Monroe Salisbury's newest Universal starring vehicle, which comes to the Petkin Theatre Saturday Sept. 11th.

Salisbury is seen as "Quiet" Carter, an easy-going Southerner who goes to a wild mining camp to descover that red blood counts for more than blue and that "the survival of the fittest' in that community is largely a matter of a quick trigger-finger.

Two spectacular incidents in the production are the hurling of Clyde Fillmore, the "heavy," into a rapids, and a hand to hand knife battle between Salisbury and Fillmore.

The glittering gaudy dance halls of the early days are vividly pictured in the production.

NEWS OF KOOTENAYS

Fernie has now two three-inch guns for war memorial decorative purposes, and for the present they are decorating the city hall grounds.

The miners working for the Consolidated Company at Rossland are to ask the company to run its own store for their benefit in that town.

In the cold dip the latter part of August the official thermometer at Cranbrook registered within three degrees of frost on one occasion.

Rossland, which for a couple of years has had lady high school principal, is this year reverting back to having a man at the head of high school affairs.

By the requisite two-thirds majority of those voting—and six to spare—Cranbrook city council has been authorized to buy the privately-owned electric light plant in that town, at a cost of about $60,000.

Rossland school board has been refused the use of the old armourv in that town for a gymnasium, the militia department stating that it would shortly require the building to accommodate a squad of cavalry that will be stationed in that town.

The new 220 h.p. engine is now working at the Penticton light and power plant, and as a result the town has an electrlc service night and morning. When the old engine is given an oyerhauling and put back to work the town will haye electricity day and night.

The Free Press commends the plan of W. R. Wilson for building two swimming pools near the golf links at Fernie. The town would very much appreciate this healthful and necessary convedience, though it is hoped the Saturday night rush will be so regulated as to give no cause for general complaint.

Fernie golf club now has a membership of 70, and the club is only two years old.

The co-operative store recently started at Penticton claims to be already doing a business of better than $5000 a month.

Rossland council at its last session refused to issue a licens to a Chinaman to operate a poolroom which the chink had recedtly purchased.

"Way he came to get that preserve is this. Jest about the time he was able to get up an' about a leetle, he fished an old man by the name of McGregor from the Flat Rapids. It was a mighty plucky rescue, too, an' McGregor allers felt he'd like to even things up with Dorkin. So here is what he does:—

"Mac had got hold of about a thousand acres of hardwood timber from the government, some way, an' after lookin' it over had come to the conclusion that it wouldn't pay him very big to tote it across to his mills, here. He did think somethin' about putting up a 'portable' up in the timber, but there agin' he was up against getting the lumber down. So, bein' a Scotchman, an' canny like, he suggests to Dorkin that he buy that strip at jest about one half what it had cost him. Dorkin buys it, more I do believe to accommodate old Mac than anything else— an' here's the funny part of it. When he got real strong agin', an' able to get around, he took to roamin' through the woods, an' sometimes he would come in with the greatest stories of what he had seen the wild animals an' birds doin'. He used to make us laugh with his descriptions, an' one night as him and me sat here on the porch smokin' he says:—

"'Pop,'—he allers called me 'Pop,' —'Pop,' says he, "I'm goin' in to rearin' birds an' animals.'

"I looked at him sharp, thinkin' this was a sign that the old cravin' was comin' back on him, but his eyes were bright an' his skin clear as a bell.

"'I'm goin' to stake off my limit an' put up "No Trespassin'" signs,' he says, 'an' afore long I'll have a little kingdom brim full of wild things.

"You'll have a big carcas brimful of bullets, more likely,' says I, thinkin' of Dalton an' them other outlaw trappers. 'What do you suppose old Daddy Farney an' the others will do to you if you put up "keep off" signs?'

"Why' I've talked it over with Daddy Farney, an' he thinks it's a good scheme,' he answers. 'Anyway, I'm goin' to try it.'

Pa Washburn laughed quietly.

"Wall, he did try it. That was five years ago, an' I will say Dorkin has worked wonders up thar in his Preserve. Has the finest cabins you ever set eyes on, an' animals—why, they eat out'n his hand. A Frenchman named [illegible], an' his wife, Marie, help him up there. The man looks after the will things an' the woman keeps house for the two of 'em.

"Last year, Dorkin shipped six thousand [illegible] worth of animals to different parties, an' this year, long after the season for October, he received [illegible] more. You, [illegible] Hardwoods [illegible], if you [illegible] a piece by canoe [illegible] trip now the [illegible]

[illegible] best forward, [illegible] at I nodded. "I think I'd very much like to," he said.

But the girl sat, [illegible] silent. [illegible] man had made for freedom, [illegible] Willow, [illegible] "[illegible] Willow, [illegible] he said gravely. "She plays the fiddle like it could talk; she kin swim three [illegible] she don't care what anybody thinks, so long as she thinks her own way. That's Willer up an' down. Mi[illegible] You'd like her awful. I [illegible] if she'd like you. She's some strange that thar way."

Finest Thing Ever For Chronic Catarrh!

Gets Away From the Medicine Habit, Cures by Novel Method

With the many remedies you have tried you surely know that no liquid medicine can cure your throat or nose. Even a gargle only bathes the entrance of the throat—it can't really get inside, nor can it reach the inflamed bronchial tubes.

With Catrrhozone it's so different from medicine-taking — you simply breathe its healing vapor, inhale its balsamic fumes, which carry cure and relief to the minutest air cells in the lungs, nose, throat, and bronchial tubes.

In this scientific way the soreness and inflammation is rapidly allayed, relaxed cords are toned up, the entire mucous membrane invigorated. Every trace of catarrh disappears, the disagreeable dropping of mucous in the throat, hawking, spitting and stopped-up nostrils — all these sure signs of catarrh and bronchitis are permanently cured by Catarrhozone. Large outfit lasts two months, costs $1.00; small size 50 cents, trial size 25 cents, at dealers everywhere.

of the morning. A flock of wild ducks were feeding out on the lake, splashing, diving, swimming in and out and marking strange patterns of brown and black on the limpid foreground of water.

Edna followed the path to the lake and started skirting its clear-fringed shore. She was still thinking of the man who had made the gallant fight against a weakness and had won, when, half an hour later, she turned a bend in the path and came face to face with a tall, thin young man, whose lean face mirrored the furtiveness of the forest. They stood for a moment gazing at each other, then Edna flashed him a smile.

"I beg your pardon," she spoke, "But are you Tommie Washburn, the Temagami Ranger?"

The boy shook his head. "My name's Farney," he informed her; "our trappin' grounds lay away up yonder." He jerked his thumb over his shoulder towards the grey-blue sweep of the hardwood Highlands, miles distant. "What might your name be?" he asked.

"Edna Marsh," she answered, amused at the directness of the question.

"You're a pretty gal," he said grave. "You've got damn nice eyes."

Edna colored and laughed an embarrassed little laugh. "Your name is Dannie, isn't it?" she inquired, ignoring the unconventional compliment. "Mr. Washburn was speaking of you only this morning."

He nodded. "Some calls me Dannie, and some Satan, Miss. What does Satan mean, d'ye know?" he asked with sudden directness.

"Why," said Edna hesitatingly, "it —the fact is it isn't a nice name to call anybody. It's another name for the Devil, you see."

"Oh!" a flicker of a smile flashed across the grave face. "I've allers sorter hankered to know what the name meant. Willer said she figured as it meant somethin' outen the ordinary, an' it seems she was right. Willer's my sister," he explained proudly. "She's got another name, too. She's called the Wisp. She's eighteen years old nearly, an' she's hell with the rifle."

Edna fell back, with a little gasp. The lad looked surprised. "Maybe, I be savin' things as you can't get the right swing onter," he apologised. "Pop Washburn never lets me talk some too much to the folks he has at his place, 'fe's he's around to sorter smooth over my rough spots. I guess maybe I've said somethin' that jars on you, Miss; if so, I'm sorry."

"It's all right," said Edna quickly. "[illegible] don't mind me. Tell me some [illegible] about Willow, I'm interested [illegible]

"Why, she's about everythin' you'd [illegible] a gal, Willer is," he said gravely. "She plays the fiddle like it could talk; she kin swim three [illegible] she kin paddle [illegible]

[illegible] "Yes, I'd like to see Dannie," said Edna [illegible]

"Are you going down to Mr. Washburn's?" she inquired.

"Why, yes, I be," answered Dannie. "Dorkin, he allers looks fer me to come down Wednesdays and get his letters an' newspapers. Don't know Dorkin, do you?" he asked, his eyes on Edna's face.

"No," she replied, her cheeks glowing, "but I hope to, soon."

"Sure!" he exclaimed heartily. "Well, you'll find him jest what everybody says he is, 'same man.'"

The lads eyes had fastened themselves questioningly on the portfolio beneath the girl's arm. Understanding, she drew it forth and opened it, displaying to his astonished gaze a woodland picture which she had painted a year ago.

"Did you make that?" he asked wonderingly.

"Yes," she answered, glad of the true praise she saw mirrored in his eyes.

"An' you intend puttin' down some of these trees an' hills an' lakes, that-a-day?" he asked eagerly.

"Yes. This is called a painting," she explained; "and the one who puts it down, as you say, is called a painter."

BOLSHEVIKS LOSING GROUND

Repeated Efforts to Encircle Lemberg Have Resulted in Failure

Warsaw. — Further gains on the northern front are reported in the Polish official communication which says the Polish troops occupied Augustowo, northeast of Grodno, where they were enthusiastically received by the population. Lithuanian detachments encountered by the Poles have been most friendly.

The Bolsheviki are continuing to give way before Polish pressure in the Bialystok sector, say the communication. The Poles have recovered Narew. The Russians are preparing to make serious resistance in the region of Malanarwka river.

Quiet prevails in the Brest-Litovks sector. The Poles are resisting repeated efforts to encircle Lemberg. Prabowiec, which had been temporarily evacuated by the Poles has been regained in a counter-attack.

Bolsheviki attacks upon Zaeworze, east of Lemberg, have been repulsed with heavy losses. General Budenny's forces have been driven out of the region of Zydyczow and Chodorow, south of Lemberg.

London.— The Poles have taken Suwalki, about 40 miles northwest of Grodno, it is announced by Lithuanian representatives here. A Polish division is reported to be advancing on Seiny, east of Suwalki.

Increased Output Result of Smoking

London.—An allowance of time for smoking at Dick Kerr's works at Preston has been so successful that the directors have decided to develop the experiment. Three months ago the men were granted permission to smoke for fifteen minutes each morning and afternoon. The management have now extended the privilege from 9 to 9.30 and from 3 to 4.30.

It is stated that the granting of smoking time has resulted in increased output.

Faint and Dizzy Spells.

Weakness and Shortness of Breath.

You can generally tell when the heart is affected by the faint and dizzy spells, the shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensations, weak, sinking, all-gone feeling, choking sensation, etc.

Many men and women become rundown and worn out when otherwise they could be strong and healthy if they would only pay some attention to the first sign of heart weakness.

No remedy will do so much to make the heart regain strength and vigor, regulate its beat and restore it to a healthy and normal condition as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. C. A. S. Drake, Paris, Ont., writes—"I have used on towards the second box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and find they have done me good. I had those fainting, dizzy spells, came in a while, and also weakness and shortness of breath, and would become so choked up at times I could hardly sleep without sitting up in bed. When walking too fast I would have to stop and try to catch my breath. I feel a lot better since I have used your pills and know that they have helped me wonderfully as I have improved very much."

Journalists Dine On Buffalo Meat

Something New Was on Bill of Fare For Press Delegates

Jasper, Alta.— Viscount Burnham, in cap and apron, carved a great haunch of buffalo for the luncheon given the Imperial press delegates at Jasper National Park, on the shores of Lake Bouvert. It was altogether a holiday party which gathered under the genial climate of northern Alberta. The weather could not have been improved.

Sir Emsley Carr, publisher of the News of the World, in acknowledging the kindness of all the park authorities, said it was a distinction that only Canada could provide.

The wonders of Maligne Mountain were visited in the afternoon, while the visitors eagerly returned to Lake Beauvert to bask in the sunshine and color of the picturesque scene of the water in Jasper Lake. The party entrained in the early evening for the next stopping point.

U.S. Trade Increasing

Notwithstanding Technical State of War Exists, Trade With Germany Grows

Washington.—Although a technical state of war still exists between the United States and Germany and Austria, trade with those countries is rapidly increasing. Reports of the department of commerce show that exports to Germany totalled $202,176,079 during the 12 months ended last June 30, as compared with $8,818,882 during the corresponding 12 months the year before. MILLIONS ARE INVOLVED IN BIG LAW SUIT

ACTION TAKEN BY STEEL CO.

Claim Payment for Rails Rolled Under Government's Orders

Ottawa.—A suit involving several million dollars, the point at issue being the value of steel rails which the Dominion government, under the authority of the war measures act, compelled the Dominion Steel Company to roll during the war period for the use of Canadian railways, will be heard by the exchequer court at a sitting which opens on September seven.

The amount involved is $8,727,617, less cash already advanced to the extent of $5,500,000. This makes the actual amount in dispute upwards of three and one-quarter millions with interest.

The amount of rails rolled under the government's order was something in excess of 100,000 tons, for which the company seeks payment at the rate of $75 per ton. As the government considered the price too high provision was made by an order in council for a reference of the dispute to the exchequer court.

The rails were delivered under the government order to the Grand Trunk Pacific and other roads. These railways have been made parties to the proceedings before the exchequer court, the purpose being to have the court declare that the railways must pay for the rails received the amount the court finds to be fair and reasonable.

Montreal Refiners' Price of $22.80 Hundredweight Likely To Obtain

Montreal.—While sugar refiners announced last week that the price of sugar would be dropped two cents a pound all around, making the quotations for the best granulated $22.80 a hundred net, local brokers who have had heavy stocks on hand have been offering this grade around 18 cents a pound, and there has been more fluctuation in the market between this figure and the twenty-two cent level.

The refiners state that the broker stocks are now practically exhausted and the expectation is that the price will stabilize at $22.80 a hundred lbs. for the best grade of sugar, with a steadiness in the other grades.
