VOL. XII. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, AUGUST 13, 1920 No. 24

Canyon City

BIRTH—On August 3rd, to Mr. and Mrs. N. Sherwood, a son.

Mrs. Pochin, sr., arrived the latter part of the week from England, on an extended visit to her son, A. D. Pochin.

D. G. Lyon, who left this section about a year ago, to open out in the garage line near Spokane, is now in Arizona, where he is now in the cotton picking line.

Joe. Larsen, who has the G. Leach place under lease, is at Creston at present, where he is working on the new Peekin theatre.

Mr. Sillitoe, who has been working at the mill for the past year, got away on Tuesday with his family, to Alberta, where they will again make their home.

All the members should be out at the United Farmers on Monday night, the feature of which will be the address of Manager Loveday of the Fruit Grcwers Union, who will discuss the central apple pack with local growers.

C. Blair is already busy rounding up his 1920 crew of haymakers, expecting to commence operations early in September. He will run at least five mowing machines this year.

Erickson

The C.P.R. opened its station with a resident agent on Thursday last, Mr. Hufty of Nelson is at present in charge, and is giving the full telegraph, ticket selling, baggage checking and complete express service.

All interested are reminded of the United Farmers meeting next Friday night at the schoolhouse, when it is hoped there will be a considerable delegation of new members to enroll. Erickson local designs to look after the practical needs of the district and the support of every resident is desired.

F. V. Staples is home for the week from Grand Forks, but will return there any day now to take charge of the branch the Staples Fruit Company is opening at that centre.

Tne last car of pipe for the Erickson Water Community irrigation system arrived on Tuesday. The 8-inch pipe is now laid as far as Hall's corner and it is now assured that water will be available early next week at the Fraser ranch.

A deal is about complete with the Water Community and the ranchers and landowners from the Alf. Palmer ranch to Adlard's corner, whereby those resident in that neighborhood will connect up with the Community systtm for a domestic supply, which will be installed almost immediately.

Jim Long had to negotiate a sudden recovery from a rather aggrevating attack of tonsolitis last week, in order to take charge of a crew of about a dozen men who are fighting a fire in the timber about eighteen miles up Goat River, as well as another squad of two dozen who are fire fighting in the Porthill section.

This dry weather is exactly to the order of Sam Fraser whose 20-ton crop of summer cabbage is now all moved with the exception of half a dozen ton. A heavy rain any time within the past two weeks would have done a splitting business amongst the krout makers.

The 1920 tomato shipping season opened on Wednesday, R. J. Long ranch providing the first crate of this year. A rain this week will ensure a pretty average crop of them in the Erickson section, as well as staving off the inevitable point rot.

Twenty-Five Cents a package on your Fruit, and One Cent a pound on your Vegetable shipments of 1919 would have added

Could you make use of this much additional capital this year?

Lister

Mr. and Mrs. N. Stones are enjoying a well-earned vacation at present, which they are spending on a fishing trip at Kootenay Lake points. Williams brothers are also visitors along the lake, on a similar errand.

Gus. Charleson, who has been on the sick list for the past few weeks, was able to resume work again on Monday.

A couple more Listerites got away this week to lend a hand with prairie harvesting operations. They are Messrs. Paul and Lazanchuk.

Col. Lister's new residence here is now completed, and Clarence Embree is back on the camp staff of carpenters.

Mrs. Webb and young son are holidaying for the week with friends at Creston.

Owing to many of the men being absent on fire-fighting duty in the Porthill section, the meeting of Lister United Farmers, which was called for Saturday night, had to be cancelled.

Geo. Carrick is a visitor with Cranbrook friends this week.

F. N. Thompson is now assistant to storekeeper Mitchell, succeeding F. Gallamore who is away on his holidays.

The sawmill is shut down for a few days at present while a spark arrester is being attached to the smokestack.

G.W.V.A. ladies' auxiliary figures Saturday night's weather will be just right, and are putting on a dance at the schoolhouse, proceeds to go to the piano fund.

A meeting was called for Tuesday night to make arrangements for the cut of hay on the Flats next month. There are about 100 head of stock in the area and at least 100 tons of hay will be required.

As per official notice the cookhouse closed down on Friday night last. If there are any prizes for bachelor cooking at the Creston fair certainly some of them are likely to come to Lister.

Fifteen new section houses and new coaling plants at Fernie and Yahk will get away with a good part of the $350,000 the C.P.R. plans spending on improvements on the Cranbrook division.

During the middle of July Cranbrook experienced three or four days of 96 in the shade. However, this was not unbearable. A year ago the natives sweltered in a touch of 99 occasionally.

At Revelstoke a license to sell two per cent. beer costs $100 per annum, and no person under 21 years of age is allowed on the premises of such licensee. No place of business within 3000 feet of a church can get a license.

The Great Northern is dismantling the line from Grand Forks to Phoenix and has advised the hospital authorities in the former city that all the ties, bridge timber and other fuel left behind will be available for the use of the hospital at the Forks.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reply to Mr. Wigen

A considerable number of your readers, during the past week, seem to be under the impression that the Staples Fruit Co. is indebted to O. J. Wigen and the Creston Review for a certain amonnt of cheap advertising obtained from a letter published in the issue of August 6th, under the heading "Fruit Growers, Attention." As a matter of fact we are not in a position of needing advertisement of this kind and take the view that this letter, which was evidently written for the purpose of injuring us, may possibly have achieved its object to a limited extent, especially amongst strangers who have come to the valley this year and who are not intimately acquainted with the parties interested.

Whether the cause is billiousness or some kindred ailment, it seems to be necessary to Mr. Wigen's wellbeing that his name appear in print every so often. So long as he was posing as an apostle of W. J. Bryan of grape juice fame, and trying to introduce a new system of world finance, there was no reason for public complaint; the articles gave Mr. Wigen's confidence in himself, much needed nourishment, and did the rest of us no particular harm.

This spring, however, the supply of visions appears to have failed and we find the Board of Trade being abused because its members did not see fit to turn the organization into an emergency road crew. About the same time we find him trying to discredit the ability of a citizen who is trying to earn a living amongst us as a linesman and telephone expert and who, we believe, is a capable workman.

Now we find Mr. Wigen coming to the front with an attack on a firm which is offering its services as an agency for the distribution of the fruit and vegetable products of the valley. We take it that sufficient provocation has been given to the public and to the parties directly concerned to justify Mr. Wigens recieving a little of the same sort of attention from us.

It is to be regretted, in dealing with Mr. Wigen's letter, that he did not come out from behind the billy goat appendage long enough to make his statements somewhat more definite. It is evident, however, that the meaning he wishes the public to take out of his letter is, that the Mutual Brokers hired the writer of this article away from the Fruit Growers Union, and that their purpose in doing so was to secure a strangle hold upon the ranchers of this district for the purpose of exploiting the growers' interests for the personal gain of the Mutual Brokers.

The amount of truth contained in Mr. Wigen's insinuations can be gathered from the following facts: While in the employ of the Fruit Growers Union the writer was never offered a position by any person or firm with the exception that on one or two occassions other farmers organizations made approaches along this line. The writer is not now, and never has been, on the payroll of the Mutual Brokers, a fact which we rather regret as we know them to be very fine people to have dealings with.

The so-called Nash organization has never in all its dealings, with the fruit growers, made the slightest attempt to control farmers products or in any way to injure producers for the benefit of themselves and we defy Mr. Wigen or anyone else to produce an instance where such control has been attempted

What makes Mr. Wigen's lying insinuations all the more malicious is the fact that he was in Creston the Monday preceding the publication of his letter, met the writer of this article on the street, and made not the slightest attempt to secure the true facts in connection. Mr. Wigen is very fond of suggesting that phrases be placed on the backs of people who do not fit in with his fantastic ideas. Mr. Wigen needs no placard; a letter such as the one published in last week's issue is quite sufficient, in my estimation, to brand him as a dishonest and unmitigated ass.

Mr. Wigen attempts to lead his flock of human derelicts through the imaginary toils, struggles and vicissitudes which he pursuades them beset their path through life has been very amusing from the point of view of the disinterested onlooker, but possibly not so amusing from the point of view of people who furnished the sinews of war.

Our first memory of Mr. Wigen dates back to the time when he proudly displayed a towel and wash basin which he claimed were being used for the purpose of converting siwashes into sanitary berry-pickers; the remarkable part of the exhibition being the fact that the towell was clean.

Next we had the pleasure of inspecting an amusement park for strawberries, the prominent feature of which was a roller-coaster. After a strawberry had taken a trip over the bumps on this contraption it was supposed to be in such an amiable frame of mind that it was absolutely impossible for the germs of blue mold to live in the atmosphere of joy.

Next we remember helping to unload a sick canning factory on Mr. Wigen, but his adventures with the car of sugar and the car of sealers and the preserving experts are a chapter by themselves. His attempt to pack strawberries by machinery should also have more than a sentence.

Another interesting chapter could be written on Mr. Wigsn's brilliancy in introducing a strawberry cup that forced the Wynndel growers to pack in the neighborhood of two pounds of berries to the crate more than their competitors. This extra weight crate was placed on the market at the same price as the lighter crate and must have been no small factor in cutting down selling expenses. What we have never been able to figure out is where the Co-Gperative Growers profit came in.

The most interesting and amusing reading of all comes in the history of Mr. Wigen as the patron saint of co-operation. In the spring of 1916 Saint O. J., the man who has made every sacrifice in the cause of co-operation, circularized the whole country in an attempt to force upon the Creston Fruit Growers Union a policy that might easily have spelled bankrutpcy. He throttled the farmers organization in Creston, and forced them to pay the sister organization at Duck Creek the last cent of a debt owed by the Union to the Duck Creek organization when other outside firms, without any interest whether in co-operation, or in fruit growers as indiyiduals, were extending lots of time to the Union as a debtor. Failing in his attempt to break Creston organization by this means (and he failed largely because of the offorts of R. B. Staples) Saint O. J. called a meeting of all the growers in the Creston Valley for the purpose of getting them to ditch their own organization, that was providing them with vicissitudes, and to sell their stuff through the Okanagan United Growers. Again his attempt to bust co-operation at the Creston end was baulked by the fact that R. B. Staples was a little too wise for the saint. We have often wondered just what was back of these attempts on the part of Mr. Wigen and have thought that possibly he had some idea of straying from the paths of democratic co-operative rectitude and having himself proclaimed King of Creston Valley.

There is an amusing incident in connection with Mr. Wigen's adventure with the O.U.G. in 1916. Things did not pan out in the rosy manner anticipated, and Mr. Wigen constituted himself a committee of one to investigate at Vernon. A Mr. Skinner was in the employ of the O.U.G. at this time and Mr. Wigen was turned over to him by the O.U.G. manager. Mr. Skinner had an enviable reputation as an entertainer and appears to have been able to prevent Mr. Wigen's investigation from becoming embarrassing to the O.U.G. It was reported at the time that when Mr. Wigen got back as far as West Robson on his return trip he was still saying, "Isn't it wonderful"—with some accent on

The dance in the Clubhouse last Saturday night was attended by a fair sized crowd. The music was hardly up to the standard of Duck Creek excellence, but most people report a good time.

Mrs. Cuell, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. E. Wall, for the past two months, returned to her home in Calgary on Tuesday. She was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Cuell.

Mr. Vachon, provincial police, Creston, and Mr. Galbraith of Fort Steele, Indian agent, were visitors here on Saturday.

E. Uri has his new house well under way, and is rushing construction as fast as he can.

Monrad Wigen has purchased a new motor boat from Jack Boydell of Alice Siding, and figures that when he gets it fixed up he will have about the best boat in the district.

Some of the Wynndel players again assisted Creston ball team against Porthill on Sunday, and helped materially in piling up the 14 to 1 score that Creston won by.

There was a meeting of the farmers at the depot on Saturday night to discuss a scheme for co-operative irrigation. There was a very extensive turnout and the question was fully discussed.

M. Wigen shipped in two cars of crate parts this week, and is busy unloading them.

Two automobile loads of people from Calgary arrived here on Friday night, stopping over until Tuesday, when they resumed the journey to the coast, where they are to make their permanent home. They shipped one of the cars on Monday's way freight.

The busy season being pretty well over several parties are talking camping trips, with Sanca Creek the most favored spot.

Tuesday night gets more than honorable mention in these parts, on which occasion we were blessed with the downpour of rain the farmers have been praying for. The thunder and lightning was quite the worst of the season.

The Co-Operative Association started the 1920 apple crop moving the early part of the week, O. J. Wigen and Paul Hagen being the early birds.

A special invitation is extended all dance devotees to attend the dance at the dance hall on Saturday night, which is being arranged by Harry Bathie and Donald Dewar. Good music has been secured, and a committee appointed to provide refreshments and see that everybody has a good time. Gentlemen 75 cents, with an extra charge of 25 cents for a first-class lunch. Everybody welcome.

Above the piping of the birds had sounded the song of a violin, played by a master-hand. Sweetly the strains came floating to him, as he listened, and, gripping a tall sapling, he stood, head bowed, lips forming voicelessly the words of the refrain:—

"Sweet and low, sweet and low,
Wind of the western sea,
Low, low, breathe and blow,
Wind of the western sea!
Over the rolling waters go,
Come from the dying moon, and blow,
Blow him again to me;
While my little one, while my pretty one sleeps."

It was an old song which Daddy Farney had taught him and the girl; the only one the old man had ever been known to sing. The lad caught his breath quickly. When he looked up there were tears coursing down his cheeks. Slowly he approached the house. Seated beneath a trailing wild-hop vine he found Willow.

She laid the violin across her knees and looked slowly up at him as he approached.

"What'd you come back fer?" he asked abruptly.

"Fer you," she answered.

"Well, I ain't goin'."

She laid the violin gently down upon a block and came forward to where he stood with head bowed, fingers fumbling the lock of his rifle.

"I ain't comin' fer two reasons," he said as she placed her hands on his soulders. "Fust is, I've got somethin' important to do 'cross the tamaracks. Second is, I ain't goin' to put Dorkin to no more trouble on my account. He's been right good to us, an' I ain't goin' to make him sorry fer it."

"He says he wants you up there in the Preserve, Dannie."

"That's all right, an' it's mighty like him to say it, but it's no good, Willer; I can't go. You go on back and say much obliged ter him fer me. I'm too damn no-count to do it fer myself. Tell him how I hated to sneak off without thankin' him."

The girl looked at him with big troubled eyes. To her this hot-hearted lad, with whom she had been reared, was [illegible] than mere brother; he was [illegible], a part of herself, as [illegible] she knew and understood [illegible] Daddy Farney was [illegible]. one trapper leaves his ground for any reason, either by dyin' breakin' the law, or any other cause, that that ground goes to the trapper south of him, if thar's nobody thar to hold it. It's a dam-fool Injun law, but it goes, up here. Now Dads gone it's up to me to hold out fer our 'rights, ain't it?"

"I say ain't it?" he repeated half angrily as the girl made no reply.

She nodded quickly.

"Well, then, you understan' how 't is, Willer. I jest can't leave this cabin, much as I'd like to go up and sort of help Dorkin on the Preserve. You see, it I was to leave now, Abe Dalton, the trapper south of us, 'ud come along, an' then—"

He clicked his strong teeth shut with a snap and springing to his feet tossed the rifle across his arm "Damn him!" he cried, "I'll get him. Yes, I'll get him jest as sure as I'm alive. I'll even things up with Dalton."

"Do you think ——" the girl commenced; then she too stood up, her face whitening and her eyes growing dark with feeling.

"Well, if you ast me, I do think it," he answered. "Oh, Gawdamighty, think of it, Willer; think of him layin' out there in the bush waitin' fer poor old Dad to come along so's he could shoot him in the back, think — think—"

He broke off wildly, his slender body swaying with emotion. But the girl stood strait and tall before him, and spoke quietly:—

"If he done it, Dannie, if you are right shore he done it, why, of course you've got to kill him; but you've got to be right keerful, 'cause he's goin' to kill you fust if he kin."

He turned, with a smile, and half raised his hands as though to draw her to him. "Willer," he said huskily, "you be a right sort of sister. I was half scared to tell ye, but I'm glad you feel that way about it. If Dalton gets me first, though?" He looked away through the darkening forest and shrugged— "What then, Willer?"

"Dannie," she cried, lifting her hands above her head, "if he kills you, if he as much as tries, I'll kill him. I swear I'll do it. Oh, don't you believe me. Don't you, Dannie?"

He caught her as she swayed and for a moment he held her against his breast, his drawn face pressed against her hair. Up above their heads an oriole twittered and hung head downward, his crimson breast [illegible] rainbows against the dark green foliage of the trees.

[illegible] and still hold[illegible] hand, led him across to the [illegible] table.

"[illegible] down, Dannie," he said. "[illegible] the [illegible] somethin' on [illegible] a little song tune to [illegible] make you forget, [illegible] report."

of spun gold, lined with purplish spray, slipped down through the chinks of the trees and touched the face of the bush-lad huddled in the doorway. The girl caught the gleam and smiled tenderly. She saw the blue-veined lids sweep over the weary eyes, and heard the long sigh of surrender as he gave himself up to the sleep he had not known since the dawning of the tragedy which was to stand out upon his life.

And so she played on, and the swift Northern twilight dropped like a cowl and from the distant lake there came the voices of the diving water-fowl.

The stars were blossoming in the sky when she at length rose and slipped quietly past the sleeper into the cabin. Silently she lit the candle on the rough table, then sinking on her knees before the skin-covered couch she let the full tide of her grief have sway in tears.

Where Pontius Pilate Reigned

Colonel Storrs, Graduate of Cambridge, is New Governor Of Jerusalem

The office of governor of Jerusalem once occupied by Pontius Pilate, is now held by Col. Ronald Storrs, a graduate of Cambridge University, and son of the Dean of Rochester College, England.

His task is one to test the administrative ability of any man. Jerusalem is a city of disunions, where, whatever may come of the future, for the moment, Zionists and Arabs are passionately divided, and to steer a just path between them and induce them to join him on that path is thankless work.

It is to that task, however, that he chiefly devotes himself. Twice a week he has meetings of his favorite pro-Jerusalem society, when French, Italians, British, Americans, Rabbis, Zionists, leaders, commercial men of standing and others who are in any way prominnent in the life of the city are brought together and in the course of debate, led to see that they have in common a single citizenship. His motto as governor is, 'unify and be friends."

Colonel Storrs was one of the prime movers in the establishment of an independent Arab kingdom. He is 38 years old.

Trend of the Times

What Western Cities are Doing in The Building Line

Comparison is a mighty good guide from which to judge the trend of the times.

A comparison of the building activities in the Prairie cities point to an optimistic viewpoint and a belief that the present cost of building is not only justified but is not likely to make any rapid decline.

January 1st to May 31st

City	1919	1920
Calgary	$1,076,800	$1,245,500
Edmonton ..	128,775	1,396,725
Regina	453,760	1,273,650
Winnipeg	475,750	4,190,000

In Winnipeg, building permits for June, as at June 28th were approximately $1,700,000, as against $22,900 for 1919.

A very good percentage of this wonderful increase is for individual homes, of which thousands are being erected.

Approximately 600 houses and 14 schools will be built in Winnipeg in 1920. This is but an indication that is prevalent throughout Western cities of own "your own home" and "build now" idea.

Make it an individual question to settle with yourself. Are you a renter—in a home—a suite? Why not catch that "Build Now" spirit. Own your own home.

All lumber dealers are fully equipped to render every assistance. Free plans —working drawings and every co-operation is being rendered by the lumber dealers for promoting the "Build Now" idea.

A young man who could not get up enough courage to pop the question to his girl mailed a proposal. He got a postal card in reply, briefly stating "Fetch on your preacher."

Recruiting for Militia

Training Camps to be Established in All Parts of Canada

Reorganization of the militia forces of the Dominion is proceeding satisfactorily at present insofar as the selection of commanding and other officers is concerned, according to officials of the headquarters staff. It is not expected, however, that a great deal will be done in the way of recruiting before September. Then, it is expected, recruiting will get off to a good start, in view of the arrangements which have been made to train at local headquarters by city corps and some artillery and machine gun units.

By next summer, when it is fully expected that training camps will be established in all parts of Canada on a pre-war basis, it is believed that the various authorized regiments and other military units, will, without difficulty, be brought up to full strength.

A Land of Opportunity

Canada is A Most Attractive Land to The Immigrant

In an article on Canada as a land of opportunity, the Manchester Guardian points out that never in her history has Canada been a more attractive land to the immigrant with political ideals. "Her growing sense of nationhood, no less than her fresh outlook on her internal problems," the Guardian says "offers to a man of independent mind and democratic outlook a real hope of shaping things as he would wish in a new country. And above all her needs in importance is that of immigrants of the right stamp, men with the character and the fortitude to settle her great empty spaces that yield so rich a return to those who will dare and labor them, men who appreciate a country where needless social distinctions go by the board, and where the dignity of labor is more than a phrase."

Farmer Not A Proletarian

It is an interesting fact, although the recent Socialist convention at New York contained eighteen editors, seventeen skilled mechanics, twelve lawyers and twelve printers, there was only one of the 156 delegates who was a farmer. Socialism is a city dweller's dream. The farmer is not, and can hardly become, a proletarian. —Youth's Companion.

A MOTHER'S TRIALS

Care of Home and Children Often Causes a Breakdown

The woman at home, deep in household duties and the cares of motherhood, needs occasional help to keep her in good health. The demands upon a mother's health are many and severe. Her own health trials and her children's welfare exact heavy tolls, while hurried meals, broken rest and much indoor living tend to weaken her constitution. No wonder that the woman at home is often indisposed through weakness, headaches, backaches and nervousness. Too many women have grown to accept these visitations as part of the lot of motherhood. But many and varied as her health troubles are, the cause is simple and relief at hand. When well, it is the woman's good blood that keeps her well; when ill she must make her blood rich to renew her health. The nursing mother more than any other woman in the world needs rich blood and plenty of it. There is one way to get this good blood so necessary to perfect health, and that is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills make new blood, and through their use thousands of weak, ailing wives and mothers have been made bright, cheerful and strong. If you are ailing, easily tired or depressed, it is a duty you owe yourself and your family to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. What this medicine has done for others it will surely do for you.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

For Manitoba Highways

Manitoba to Receive Federal Grant of $80,000 for Good Roads

The Manitoba provincial treasury will this year be partly relieved of the burden of providing good roads in Manitoba, according to Hon. Geo. A. Grierson, minister of public works. Federal legislation which becomes effective provides that the federal government shall give the province a flat grant of $80,000 for construction of roads, and bear the burden of 40 percent. of roads constructed. It is stated, however, that the flat grant is included in the percentage quoted. An official request for this assistance will be made by the provincial government in the immediate future.

Under the present provincial legislation the government bears 50 percent of the cost of construction in market roads and sixty-six and two-thirds percent of the cost of construction on provincial highways. In both cases, however, it is required that the roads be gravelled. One of the stipulations on which federal government pays 40 percent of the cost is that the particular road construction work on which this has been paid must be submitted for approval to the federal board set up under the act.

Navy Reduced to Point of Prudence

Earl Beatty, receiving the freedom of Sheffield, said that with the disappearance of the German fleet they were released from the burden of competitive building, but they must bear in mind that the day would come when veteran ships must be replaced, and under the present financial conditions very little would cost a great deal. The navy, he said, was now reduced to the lowest limits consistent with prudence.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

the last syllable. In any case whatever Mr. Wigen found in Vernon must have been to his liking because it is commonly reported that he is back again co-operating with the O.U.G. this year.

The writer is the representative of a number of prairie wholesalers, and very efficient ones, approached Mr. Wigen before he had made any arrangements for handling this year's strawberry crop, and suggested that it might be in the interest of the Wynndel growers, when the time came to sell their crop, if he (Mr. Wigen) would give the writer a chance to make an offer. No such opportunity came our way; in other words, Mr. Wigen refused to discuss the marketing of the Wynndel growers crop with the man whom he describes as one of the smartest, shrewest, and keenest live wires in the community, and representing what Mr. Wigen describes as the most powerful and most perfectly organized corporation in Canada for the distribution of fruit products.

I'm not going to make any statement to the effect that our offer would have been better than the one obtained by Mr. Wigen. Our houses wanted strawberries and were willing to pay spot cash for them; they had a man on the ground to look after the deal, and the shipments would have been free from commission shark rake offs. Our houses got their strawberries, and got them at a price which suited them, but how? I am open to correction on the following statement for I have neither the time nor the inclination to secure the absolute facts.

As I understand it the wholesale houses in Winnipeg bought from a brokerage house which pays a rake-off to a sales agency in Vernon. These two rake-off experts bought from Mr. Wigen's representative in Lethbridge, who in turn worships at the shrine of O. J. A worship which no doubt produces pickings. This looks very much like consistent co-operation (?) to us; the "co-operative" ring consisting of a Winnipeg broker, an Okanagan selling agency, a Lethbridge commission man and our esteemed friend. The question is where does the rancher and his vicissitudes come in? In other words find the derelict.

While on this subject let's dispose of the Mutual Wigen-Nash bunk. What Mr. Wigen refers to as the Nash organizations consists of around thirty wholesale fruit and grocery houses in the three prairie provinces. That these people are a very important factor in the distribution of B.C. fruit is fully proven by the fact that in 1919 they handled over one thousand cars of British Columbia apples and vegetables. Just what would have become of this block of stuff if the Nash houses had not acted as its distributors is a problem which we would be very glad to have Mr. Wigen solve for us. We doubt very much if his friends, the O. U.G. could offer a solution, for they, too, were very glad to have the assistance of the Nash organization in 1919. It is an absolutely true statement of the facts when we say that the Nash houses are indispensible agencies for the distribution of B.C. fruits and vegetables; performing an indispensible service for which they are charging a price that is just and fair and as reasonable as that being charged by competitors, and in many cases much more reasonable than the charges made by co operative concerns so called.

Occasionally we hear tell of people who, in the hope of furthering their own interests, knock the Nash organization. People whose ability in any partieular line is a negative quantity often become quite expert in casting reflections upon the integrity and good intentions of more successful competitors. In the fruit business people of this stamp find the Nash houses very suitable targets at which to aim their dishonest insinuations. The Nash organization is just a little too big to pay attention to petty libel and, in addition, the fact that they have houses all over the west gives men of Mr. Wigen's stamp a chance to talk. In Creston it is an easy matter to tell what terrible things the Nash organization has done in the Okanagan. The Okanagan agitator can refer to the damaging operations which he imagines took place in Washington or Oregon. The Nash organization has been handling the bulk of Creston Valley fruit for the past three seasons and in all that time not one single incident has occurred that can cast the slightest reflection upon the honesty of any of the houses.

Mr. Wigen would like to give the impression that there is something very mysterious about the Staples Fruit Company, and that it has been organized for the purpose of busting some person or business. The Staples Fruit Company depends entirely upon the energy and ability of the writer of this article for its success, and if we have been able to attract a few thousand dollars of outside capital into Creston Valley, that is a matter for congratulation, and every rancher in Creston Valley, no matter how he disposes of his products, will be benefitted.

We have friends scattered from one end of the Valley to the other who have confidence enough in our good sense to know that we are not going to try to build ourselves up by tearing down some other institution, and to those good friends the fact that we are securing the support of the Nash organization is a very good indication that the members of that organization are all that they should be in honesty and business ability. The writer has neither the inclination nor the need to mix up with anything that in his estimation is not going to work out to the best interests of the fruit growers of the Valley.

In conclusion: The Staples Fruit Company is opening up in a legitimate line which so far as this Valley is concerned is certainly not overcrowded. We expect to play a very important part in the distribution of the Valley's products; a distribution which, because of the rapid growth now in evidence, will be one of the big problems of the near future. In view of the past record of the manager and the unquestioned integrity of the business houses with whom he will be associated we submit that the Staples Fruit Company deserves at the hands of O. J. Wigen and others a little better reception than that contained in the former's letter, headed "Fruit Growers, Atention," in the Review of August 6th.

The Lone Star Ranger

Steele (William Farnum) is a Texas Ranger who has sworn to avenge the death of his friend, Neil, Captain of the Rangers, shot from ambush by one of a notorious band of cattle thieves. Steele is known throughout the border country as a fearless man and "lightning quick on the draw."

While on his way to Fairfield, the supposed centre of the band of cattle thieves, Steel meets Ray Longstreth, daughter of Cyrus Longstreth—who, unknown to the girl, is the leader of the gang of outlaws, while passing as a leading citizen of wealth and irreproachable integrity.

Ray has just returned from the East, and when the stage leaves her at a desolate plains settlement Steel saves her from two gunmen and earns the gratitude of both the girl and her father. Steele is not recognized as a Ranger, but is told by Longstreth, out of gratitude for saving Ray, that he can have a "job" on his ranch.

The arrival of Steele in Fairfield is looked on with suspicion by the members of the band—chief among them being Jeff Lawson, a nephew of Longstreth, and Bully Brome, a bad man and also a lieutenant of Longstreth.

Steele takes the "job" on Longstreth's ranch in order to be "under cover" while tracking the thieves. Soon his duties include those of riding companion to Miss Ray. The rustler Lawson, who loves Ray, looks on the stranger as an interloper whose coming bodes no good, and watches him closely.

Steele learns that his employer and Lawson are the ringleaders of the band of cattle thieves, and sets about getting them into the clutches of the law. His constant attendance on Ray has resulted in a friendship which shortly ripens into love. Steele, having learned the true character of her father, realizes his predicament.

Having found enough evidence against the ringleaders, Steele discloses his indentity and makes clear to Ray how her father is involved. She pleads that her father has always been in the power of Brome and Lawson and wins Steel's promise not to do her father harm.

The rustlers plan to put Steel out of the way. He hears of the threat, and in an encounter with Brome he kills the latter and leaves for Longstreth's ranch. There he confronts Longstreth and Lawson, accusing Lawson of having killed Neil, captain of the Rangers. There follows a pistol duel in which Steele kills Lawson. He gives Longstreth his freedom. The cattling rustling band is broken up, and Steele leaves Fairfield with Ray as his bride.

Canada's Interest In World Conditions

Six years have elapsed since Germany threw down the gauntlet to civilization and embarked upon her mad enterprise to dominate the world. Almost two years have passed since the signing of the armistice by which Germany acknowledged a humiliating defeat and made an abject surrender.

Yet the world is still in a state of political upheaval, with battles raging on many fronts and a state of war existant between nations of millions of people. Russia and Poland are at war; Greece and Turkey are still fighting, with the Greek armies advancing right into the heart of Turkey in Europe; British, French, Belgian and United States armies are yet in occupation of a large part of Germany; large bodies of British and French troops are constantly on guard in Mesopotamia and Syria. A recent visitor to Greece reports that martial law still prevails there, and that all the old war regulations and restrictions are in full force, and that thousands of Greeks are in the army who have been there since 1912 and cannot get out. The United States is still technically at war with Germany and Austria.

Are these things of any vital interest to Canada, and have they any bearing upon Canadian conditions? Most decidedly so. As long as such unsettled conditions exist, there is an ever present danger of a spark starting a general conflagration, and Canada, as a member of the League of Nations, has a duty to perform to the world and may conceivably be drawn into any new struggle.

The danger may be remote, but there is a phase of general world conditions, especially in Europe and Asia, which [illegible] the welfare of the [illegible] every day, whether [illegible] or not. WELCOME TO EDITORS FROM THE OLD LAND

HERE TO STUDY PROBLEMS

Purpose of Visit is to Learn More About This Dominion

Halifax.— Outlining the problems facing the English-speaking countries of the world and urging the necessity for co-operation between all countries, Lord Burnham addressed a large gathering of publishers and citizens of Halifax and district on the occasion of a civic luncheon tendered the delegates to the Imperial press conference.

Robert Donald expressed the hope that the 'moral lapse' 'of the United States will be temporary and that the United States would yet consent to assume some of the responsibility devolving upon it through its triumphant entry into the war. Viscount Burnham was the chief speaker on behalf of the overseas delegation, and acknowledged formal welcome given the press in Halifax. He reiterated that the purpose of the visitors from beyond the seas, as they affect the world publishers, was to see Canada and learn more of her problems and her people and regarding empire unity.

Several of the delegates spoke in the same vein informally during the Halifax welcome.

The afternoon was spent in informal social functions.

Employment Increase

Reports From 5,100 Employers Indicate That Industries Are In Good Shape

Ottawa.—Reports from over 5,100 employees to the Dominion headquarters of the department of labor employment service indicate that, disregarding loss of time due to the strikes, there was another increase in the volume of employment during the week ending June 26. For the following week, however, there was a net decrease in staffs of 140 persons, or two percent. The decline was attributed mainly to be estimated curtailment of operations in the iron and steel group of industries because of a shortage of fuel. In comparison with the returns for six months earlier in the year the firms reporting stated that they had made very considerable additions to the number of persons on their payroll.

French Fighter Injured

Montreal.— An injury to Georges Papineau, lightweight champion of France, in the fifth round of his scheduled ten-round bout here, with Fighting Fred Fitzgerald of Australia, brought the bout to an abrupt end. Papineau fell through the ropes and struck his head on the corner of the press table, being rendered unconscious. Up to this time there was little to choose between the two men, both fighting toe to toe for the four rounds.

Five-Year-Old Killed

Winnipeg. — Frank, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Dier, died at the Children's Hospital from the effects of scalding when he fell into a pan of boiling water yesterday. The boy was playing in the home with two sisters younger than himself when the accident happened.

Bolshevik Menace

Constantinople. — Refugees from Sulting and Kustendje in eastern Rumania, are arriving here in large numbers, fleeing from the Bolshevik menace. They report conditions to be highly unsettled in Rumania and declare that a Bolshevik movement is feared.

Paris Waiting for Turks

Peace Will be Signed if the Italo-Greek Controversy Is Patched Up

Paris.—If the Turkish delegates are not detained on their journey from Constantinople and arrive in time, it is probable that the peace treaty with Turkey will be signed at Sevres as planned. There is a possibility, however, that Greece may withold her signature from the treaty because of the controversy between Italy and Greece over the recent Aegian wrangle. The belief is expressed in the French official circles that the Italo-Greek controversy would be settled in time for signing.

The difficulty that loomed largely this evening was the fact that the Turkish delegates had not put in an appearance and that its whereabouts did not appear to be known. The delegation appeared to have left Bucharest on a train that should have brought it to Paris. Nothing has been heard of the Turkish plenipotentiaries, however, since the report of their departure from the Rumanian capital.

Seek Pirate Gold

Ontario Prospectors Leave For the South Seas With Metal-Finding Device

Ottawa.—Pinning their faith on the powers of a newly invented device for the detection of gold deposits, Andrew Cullins, a well known prospector of Haileybury, and Rev. Father Theriault, of the same town, passed through this city on their way to the south seas in the hope of finding the hidden pirate treasure on Treasure Island. It is claimed that the trip is being financed by a New York Capitalist, whose name has not been disclosed. Final arrangements are to be made when the travellers reach New York.

Ottawa.—According to returns received at the department of statistics for the week ending July 9, the quantity of wheat in store at the different elevators throughout Canada has decreased by 3,674,504 bushels in wheat, oats, barley, flax and rye. Three Saved from Drowning

Were Rescued From Sinking Punt On Pike Lake

Saskatoon.—By a narrow margin, Alex. Wemyss, his wife and their baby daughter, 701 Thompson Chambers, were saved from what might have been three drownings in Pike Lake when Harry Tupling, of this city, and Hugh Forbes, boatman at Pike Lake, got to the sinking punt in which Mr. Wemyss and his family were sailing, in time to drag them out. It sunk almost immediately.

Mr. and Mrs. Wemyss are none the worse for their experience.

IRISH MAKE A NEW MOVE FOR PEACE

FOR A DOMINION POLICY

Nationalists Are Joining With the Others in Framing this Policy

Dublin.— Renewed activity is apparent in Irish political circles favoring dominion authority. Many Irishmen of all political faiths are subscribing to the new funds being asked for and asking for Irish self-government.

Nationalists hitherto violently opposed to this course have come round to favor it and have the support of the Freeman's Journal, which in recent months, under a new proprietorship, could not be distinguished from the Sinn Fein organization.

In agreeing to waive the republican claim and accept county operation for Ulster, groups have met both parties and agreed to waive certain agreements so that the settlement can be received, and Sinn Feiners think this will be the best policy. The Irish Journal looks forward sanguinely to an adjustment of the difficulty.

Influential Irishmen, under Lord Dunraven's leadership, are endeavoring to improve the conditions with the British government, and the Sinn Fein leaders to meet the premier, it is declared.

Powerful influence on the Sinn Fein policy is exercised by the Republican army which numbers more than 200,000, and has been described as occupying towards the Dael Eireann, the same relations as Cromwell's Ironsides, did to the commonwealth parliament.

Villa Surrenders

Will Return to Private Life and There is Rejoicing In Mexico

Eagle Pass, Texas.—Francisco Villa, bandit leader, surrendered unconditionally after an all night conference with General Eugene Martinez, commanding the Torreon military zone, according to advices received by the Mexican consul here.

Villa will return to private life, the message adds. Much rejoicing is reported throughout Mexico and celebrations are being arranged.

Carl Haegelin, United States citizen, president of a brewery at Sabbinas, who had been held for ransom by Villa, has been released, the report adds.

Murray Government Sustained

Liberals in Nova Scotia Have Majority of Fifteen

Halifax, N.S.— Late returns from Pictou gave a majority of 35 for Hon. R. M. McGregor, Liberal, whose defeat had been announced. Pictou will offset, however, the defeat of Hon. G. H. Murray, premier, by J. Leblanc in Richmond county by a majority of 53. Mr. Murray was also elected in Victoria county.

The standing of the parties now is as follows: Liberals, 29; Farmers, 7; Labor, 5; Conservatives, 2. Total, 43. Majority for government, 15.

London.— Prince Antoine Bibesco has been apopinted Rumanian minister to the United States, according to the London Times.

No Bonus for Industries

Prairies Cannot Hope for Manufacturing Until Population Grows

Quebec.— The twentieth anniversary of Canadian municipalities, in session here went on record as opposing bonuses by municipalities as an inducement to industries to establish plants.

J. D. Saunders, city clerk, of Camrose, Alta., and secretary of the Union of Municipalities, spoke on the recent progress of western municipalities. During his speech he said that until the west has a population commensurate with its vast areas, there is no use of talking of establishing industries. J. N. Bayne, of Saskatchewan, discussing the bonus question, remarked that if firms were not strong enough to stand on their own feet without the aid of bonuses they should not look for help from the municipalities.

Alderman Dickson of Montreal, expressed his opposition to the bonus system. A firm which could not do business without a bonus was not worth much, he stated.

Canadians for Mexico

Mexico City.—President De la Huerta received the Canadian agricultural commission with which he conferred concerning a plan to bring 10,000 Canadian farmers to the state of Coahuila.

JOINT REPLY TO THE NOTE FROM SOVIETS

PREMIERS IN AGREEMENT

Poland Must be Represented in the Proposed Conference

London.— Mr. Lloyd George, before leaving Boulogne, informed the Reuter correspondent that a complete agreement had been reached on all points. It has been decided, subject to Italy's approval, to send a reply to Russia saying that certain things must be made clear before the allies will attend the proposed conference. Poland and other border states must participate in the conference whose primary object is to establish the peace of Europe. Then the conference could discuss the question between Russia and the allies with a view to establishing normal normal relations.

If the Soviet replies that it could only make peace separately, the conference will fall to the ground, according to Mr. Lloyd George. If the Soviet complies, the conference can meet within a month.

The British prime minister added that Premier Millerand and he agreed that a good piece of work was done at Boulogne.

This is the result of an energetic campaign instituted and carried out by the government with the co-operation of the municipalities and individual school districts.

Miss Beatrice Hardman of New Westminster arrived on Wednesday on a visit to Mrs. C. O. Rodgers. Miss Hardman will be remembered as teacher of the primary room of Creston school a couple of years ago.

The tomato season opened on Wednesday when the R. J. Long ranch marketed the first crate—for Creston consumption. With a good soaker of a rain within a week the crop of these should be quite an average one.

Kootenay Flats is now clear of water and a look at the area from the town would indicate that the hay crop is coming along fine, although it will be early in September before cutting is likely to commence this season.

Creston Indians are away on the annual huckleberry harvest at present, most of them going down the lake for this fruit this year. From the buckets of them they are bringing in it would look as if the crop was a banner one.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hamilton and family, Mrs. and Miss Ebbutt, Misses Lyne and Messrs. Robt. Stark and Percy Watson are a local camping party who left on Saturday for a week's rustication at Kootenay Lake points.

R. L. T. Galbraith of Fort Steele, the Kootenay Indian agent, was here on an official visit over the week-end. Indian constable Fred Ryckman will be along any time now to make headquarters here during the haying season on the flats.

At the board of trade meeting on Tuesday night the motion to connect up with the East Kootenay associated board produced a tie vote and it was up to Vice-President Bevan, who presided, to decide the matter. His vote was for affiliation.

Wynndel baseball team will be here for a game with Creston on Sunday afternoon, which will start right after the arrival of the noon train. The visitors have developed considerably since their last appearance here and a fast, close game is sure to result.

The new voters list for the Kaslo riding will show not less than 1900 names for the liquor referendum vote in October. Any whose names have been omitted have a last chance to get on if they apply in person at the court of revision at Kaslo on Sept. 13th.

The prolonged dry spell has been responsible for materially shortening up the raspberry crop this year, and from appearances the export of these will certainly not be over 4000 crates. Last year, which was a particularly dry season, had a shipping of just over 5000 crates.

Rev. Geo. Knox, who arrived from Kamloops a couple of weeks ago to take the pastorate of Creston Methodist Church, has opened up the work again both at Canyon and Lister, and after the busy season will likely be holding service at Erickson alternately with Canyon City.

Creston Valley is supplying a quantity of black currants to coast jam factories this season. In the past ten days the Staples Fruit Company has shipped almost a ton of them to Vancouver, and has buckets out amongst the growers that will take care of at least another half ton.

Local road foreman T. Harris pulled out on Monday with a small crew and camping outfit, and has started work at the Sirdar end of the new road from that point to Kuskanook. Tenders were called for the work but these were not satisfactory, and it has been decided to do the job by day labor.

The weather statistics for last month show that for July the Valley was favored with a rainfall of almost one inch—.93 to be exact. On two days, the 10th and 17th, we were favored with touches of 92 in the shade, while the coolest registration was on the 26th, when the mercury got down to 45.

For the conference banquet on Sept. 1st invitations have just been issued to all the members' husbands, and if these all put in an appearance along with their better halves, with the forty odd delegates that will be here, a banquet spread for about 200 will have to be served. Another citizen whose car was noticed in action with but one number plate, one headlight and no tail lights was mulcted in the sum of $2.50 and costs.

The first rain of any consequence since the soaker on July 12th was in evidence on Tuesday night, when a fall of the wet goods measuring just over one-third of an inch was in evidence at all Valley points. While about four times that quantity would have been just about right the ranchers are thankful for small mercies. The wetness at least washed off the dust and will help some on the late raspberries as well as the tomatoes. The thunder and lightning that accompanied the rain was quite the worst of the year.

Fire warden Jim Long has had the busiest two weeks of the two seasons he has been on the job the past couple of weeks, with a crew of almost 30 men handling a fire in the neighborhood of the Continental mine in the Porthill section, and another 18 men handling a blaze in the timber about fifteen miles up Goat River. Both are now under control and have not caused any serious loss of standing timber. In handling the Porthill blaze Fred Belanger has been on the supervising job with him and with a crew of fire fighters mostly from Lister have certainly taken care of a ticklish situation admirably.

There was quite a large and enthusiastic attendance at the congregational meeting of the Presbyterian Church on Wednesday night, at which the chief business was the decision to extend a call to Rev. J. Burkholder of Caledon, Ont., to become permanent pastor of Creston church. The matter will come before the Kootenay Presbytery immediately and be referred by them to the presbytery in which Caledon is located for their consent to his transfer Rev. Mr. Burkholder has been taking the services here the past three Sundays and has created an exceptionally favorable impression, and has promised serious consideration of accepting the pastorate.
