Secretary A. W. Atkins of the school board is calling for tenders for several items of work to be done in connection with the school, namely: Building of large cupboard for junior class; shingling 12 x 18 foot woodshed; hanging one door and placing bolts on three doors, and placing of runners on 40 seats. Tenders to be in by Nov. 2.

The meeting of the United Farmers scheduled for to-night, Nov. 4th, has been cancelled until such time as apple packing school lists are complete.

Friends of Mrs. Henry Christensen will be pleased to hear that word has been received of her safe arrival at Liverpool, England.

A hallowe'en party was held on Saturday afternoon in the schoolhouse. Cakes, candies, were served and the juniors had a real fine time. At 5 o'clock an auction sale was held for the benefit of the bachelors, when cakes donated by the ladies of the settlement were sold to the highest bidders. The proceeds went to the piano fund. Again in the evening a whist drive was held, which was well attended and prizes were awarded the high scorers. A cake donated by Mrs. F. Powers was raffled and netted $6.10.

The United Farmers were in monthly session on Thursday last, with President Fred Powers in the chair. Data that had been collected re a tree pruning school and an apple packing class was read. Names were taken of those wishing to attend these and these have been forwarded the department. It was decided that all applicants should forward cheque for $2, same to be forfeited if they do not attend, and refunded if they carry out agreement.

C. W. Traves, the provincial poultry inspector, spoke to an interested crowd for over an hour on Thursday night last, on the feeding of poultry for egg producing. E. L. Langston, jr., occupied the chair, and Mr. Traves was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for his effort. During his stay Mr. Traves visited all the local poultry men and culled their flocks of birds. He will be back again in January for a lecture on killing poultry.

The Trading Company store has added baker's bread to the many lines of goods handled. An excellent article of the staff of life is supplied by the Norris bakery, Creston.

Sirdar

Announcement is made that a fowl supper will be served in the Sirdar schoolhouse on Monday evening, November 7th.

Mrs. Hopwood of Creston was a week-end visitor here with her sister Mrs. Whitesides.

Mrs. Dennes was a between-trains visitor at Creston on Friday.

Church of England service is anounced for 10.30 a.m. at the schoolhouse on Sunday. The local congregation is busy raising its assessment of $30 for the M.S.C.C. fund.

After discontinuing operations for about ten days—due to the engines being required for work on the K.C.—the work trains resumed operations on the fill at the Landing on Monday.

Mrs. Foreman of Erickson was here Saturday, and presided at the piano at the Social Club dance at the school that evening.

S. Pascuzzo was a business visitor at Creston on Saturday.

GRAND THEATRE
Saturday, November 5

A mystic love story of a maid who led a life of cotton and abuse by day and love and silk by night.

A hallowe'en social was held at the schoolhouse on Monday night, the schoolhouse being tastefully decorated by the children and the ladies of the town. Numerous witches, cats, owls, and jack o' lanterns gave the room a real spooky appearance. Lunch was served from 6 to 7.30 and the balance of the evening was spent in playing hallowe'en games. Besides several contests and races, the fortune telling was very amusing. At intervals community singing was introduced. Just at the close it was announced that the evening proceeds were $20.25, and this will be donated as payment on the community piano. The evening closed with the national anthem, and all went home happy if tired.

Kitchener

H. A. McKowan, who has been in Cranbrook for some time, returned to Kitchener on Tuesday.

R. Hunt of Arnprior, Ont., arrived last week on a visit to his brother, G. A. Hunt.

Painters are busy at present introducing the Kitchener Hotel to a fresh coat of paint.

Mrs. Rodgers of Creston and Mrs. Long of Erickson were between trains visitors with Mrs. Hunt on Sunday.

Dr. Thompson of Ottawa, Ont., was a Kitchener visitor last week.

Mrs. Willson of Erickson, who has been attending Mrs. Johnson during her recent serious illness, left last week for her home, Mrs. Johnson being much improved in health.

Mrs. G. A. Hunt and daughter, Clara, and Miss Schmidt, were week-end visitors with Erickson friends.

Victor Geroux, who has been in Alberta for several months, returned home on Saturday.

Rev. J. A. James of Creston held service at the schoolhouse on Sunday afternoon. The two children of Mr. and Mrs. Peterman were baptized.

Cards and Concert

The ladies of Holy Cross Church were hostesses at a decidedly successful concert and whist in the Parish Hall on Thursday night last. In spite of the inclement weather there was quite a large turnout, the card players accounting for almost twenty tables, while the concert was a decided treat, the evening being a decidedly pleasant change from the usual routine of church socials. Father Bessette was master of ceremonies, and at cards two "cuts" were required to decide the winners of the ladies' prizes. For the high score prize Mrs. Geo. Young and Mrs. T. Trevelyan were equalled and in the cut Mrs. Young drew the high card. Mrs. Payne and Mrs. E. Small tied for low scoring honors, with the latter winning in the card cutting. E. Taylor made the gentlemen's high score, and M. Little was low scorer.

The concert programme was entirely musical. Mr. Chorlton was heard to the usual good advantage in two 'cello solos, and Mesdames Crompton and Garland were equally popular in a couple piano duetts. The vocal numbers were a couple of well rendered solos by Mrs. Crompton; the quartette, "Sweet and Low," by Mesdames Garland and Crompton, and Messrs. R. B. Staples and Capt. Crompton, was enthusiastically received, while the latter's two solos, "I Love the Moon," and "Bay of Biscay," were timely and popular numbers artistically rendered.

The thanks of the church ladies are extended Mrs. Garland and Messrs Staples and Chorlton for their co-operation in the musical features, and to those whose assisted with the refreshments. Capt. and Mrs. Crompton, who sponsored the musical programme are accorded more than the usual meed of praise for providing such a likable concert menu. After paying all expenses the affair will net the ladies some $25.

Valley's Apples Win Top Honors

Creston Valley grows the best Cox Orange apples produced anywhere in Canada or any of the British dominions overseas, and the second best dessert apples grown anywhere in the whole of the British Empire also come from the Creston Valley. And in Snows and McIntosh Reds the Creston Valley takes third place in all the overseas units of the empire.

This is the satisfactory intelligence cabled Creston Tuesday from London, England, where the awards in the big British Apple Show at the Crystal Palace were announced Monday.

In Cox Orange the Robert Stark ranch carried off first prize and the W. G. Littlejohn ranch second, in the five-box lot competition open to all the British overseas colonies, and in which class there was an exceptionally heavy entry list from British Columbia points, due to this variety being the top favorite with English apple buyers.

Robert Stark, whose twenty-two boxes of Cox Orange were awarded second prize in the best dessert apple class, also met with the strongest kind of competition in a class which was open to growers of the whole British empire.

The other exhibition honors went to Mr. Littlejohn, whose Snows and McIntosh Reds were third in the dominions competition. On Wealthys neither the Littlejohn or W. V. Jackson ranches, both of whom had a five box entry, were successful, but at that the Valley's score of one first, two seconds and two thirds on seven entries is a showing that will certainly take some beating.

That the entry list at the show was large, especially from B.C., is indicated in the fact the sixty odd boxes shipped from Creston to Vernon to be included in the Okanagan fruit in the express car trip to Montreal, was part of at least two straight cars of exhibition fruit that was assembled at Vernon from the other Okanagan centres.

In addition to the satisfaction that comes of knowing that in the Cox Orange variety the Valley is the dandy district of them all, it is still more commercially satisfactory to have achieved that prominence in the Old Country at a time when the local product of that variety will be a contender for the trade on the English apple market, with a Valley planting to the Cox that should make Creston a considerable exporter of that variety next season.

Particularly in view of the outstanding success of the Creston fruit it is fortunate the Valley has Robert Stark as a personal representative at the big fruit fair. Amongst the thousand of callers at the show Mr. Stark is peculiarly well qualified to extol the advantages of the Creston district to interested parties, while the awards gained at the show will be all the corroborative evidence necessary to convince that in the product of high class fruit the Valley ranks second to none.

Great commendation is also due Messrs. Littlejohn, Stark and Jackson for the splendid public spirit displayed in going to no end of trouble to select, pack and ship—to say nothing of the financial side of the incident—the prize winning fruit in the quantities called for, while an equally hearty vote of thanks is coming to Manager Loveday of Creston Fruit Growers Union, who worked overtime in his efforts to secure a representative display of Valley apples at the show, as well as doing no inconsiderable amount of work getting all the needed information regarding the exhibition and looking after all the other details connected with the exhibit.

The Valley show fruit will be sold to the highest bidder after the fair closes, and the Review hopes to have a letter from Mr. Stark in due course advising as to what prices the apples brought, as well as giving a story of the apple show in such details as will be of local interest.

Erickson

W. Percival of Yahk is a visitor with Erickson friends this week, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. Dodds.

Mrs. Haskins left last week on a short visit with friends at Strathmore, Alta. She was accompanied by her neice, Miss Hazel Hisdin, who has spent the summer here.

The second car—and likely the last—of potatoes to be shipped this season from any Valley point, left Erickson last week for Yahk, the E. W. Klingensmith and E. Haskins ranches combining to make up the 30 ton car.

Mrs. and the Misses Jensen of Cardston, Alta., who have been guests of Mrs. Jas. Lockhead for the past month, left for home on Saturday.

While abroad along Goat Mountain on Saturday endeavoring to earn a dividend on his big game license by taking a deer or two, F. J. Klingensmith was fortunate in bagging a black bear, which he finally captured after some pick and shovel effort to extricate brain from the underground apartment into which he had crawled to recover from a couple of rifle shot wounds.

W. G. Littlejohn spent a couple o days at Nelson the fore part of the week, attending the Farmer-Labor party nominating convention.

The so-called salubrity of the climate at Kuskanook has nothing on atmospheric conditions that prevail at Erickson. The R. J. Long ranch closed the local ripe tomato shipping season with an export of almost fifteen crates on October 25th.

Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Leveque entertained at a most enjoyable house party at their home on Thursday night last, at which cards and dancing were the features. At whist the prizes fell to Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Long, cards being followed by a tasty supper and then dancing was the order of the evening until 1.30.

Miss Puddifin, who has been with Mrs. W. V. Jackson at West Erickson for some months, left last week for Cripple Creek, Colorado, where she will reside in future.

As compared with October, 1920, Erickson shipments last month show an increase of almost 125 per cent. over last year. The exports included 49 cars of apples, 2 cars of potatoes, 687 express packages, which were mostly apples, along with another 1227 boxes of apples that were shipped by way freight.

Erickson United Farmers meet in November session on Tuesday night, at the schoolhouse.

Work started this week on the erection of the new store building for the co-operative association that has recently been organized here. The building is about 18 x 24 feet, and is being erected close to the station. M. R. Palmer is supervising its construction, along with a couple of houses that are being built on the road leading from the station to the main road, which thoroughfare has been officially named Main Street, Erickson.

Wynndel

At the United Farmers meeting on Wednesday last it was decided to send five delegates to Creston to the meeting on Oct. 28th. A. H. Piggot was appointed delegate from this local to attend the nominating convention at Nelson on November 1st. Secretary E. S. Butterfield handed in his resignation as he expects to be going to the coast at an early date, and A. H. Piggot was appointed in his place. The new entertainment committee is Mrs. H. Rosindale, Miss D. Butterfield and M. J. Wigen.

The United Farmers had a dance in the Clubhouse on Saturday night which was well attended, and the crowd one of the liveliest. About twenty-five couples were on the floor and the usual good quality of local music was furnished by Miss D. Butterfield and Messrs. M. Wigen, E. S. Butterfield and Rider Andestad. Everyone had a jim dandy fine time.

O. J. Wigen and A. H. Piggot left on Monday for Nelson to attend the Farmer Labor party nomination convention in that city. They expect to be back Wednesday.

D. Sutcliffe arrived here for another visit from Riondel, on Monday, and is looking up old acquaintances.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Rosindale were hosts at a most enjoyable hallowe'en party on Monday night. Dancing and games were the order of the evening and, as usual with all of their parties, everybody had a most enjoyable time.

Another enjoyable hallowe'en gathering was at the home of Paul Hagen when about twenty of the juvenile citizens had the finest kind of a time and an equally satisfactory lunch, the celebration not breaking up till after midnight.

S. R. Kelly, who has been at Wattsburg for the past six months, returned on Monday, and is the guest of Mrs. Joy. He expects to be leaving for England about the end of November.

Jas. Garden, who has been working on the T. W. Davies place all summer left for Coleman on Sunday, and expects to make his home in that vicinity all winter.

O. H. Dodge of Pincher Creek, Alta., is now the owner of the Anderson place, and is busy putting it in shape for next spring.

M. O. Ringheim and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. H. Ringheim, arrived home from Saskatchewan on Saturday and figure on spending the winter at Wynndel.

H. Ringheim arrived here on Wednesday from the prairie with a car of horses, stock and household effects and figures to make his home here in the future. He reports thing very slow on the prairie just now.

Canyon City

At a special meeting of the United Farmers on Wednesday night last it was decided to send a delegate to the Farmer-Labor nominating convention at Nelson on November 1st, and E. VanAckeran was the unanimous choice as representative. Messrs Embree, Penson, Littlejohn and Cuming attended the meeting from Erickson.

John Vance, who has been a sunstroke patient at the Cranbrook hospital for the past six weeks, arrived home a few days ago, his condition being much improved. Mrs. Vance went to Cranbrook and accompanied him back.

Otto and John Johnson will start work in a few days on a log skidding contract they have just closed with the Canyon City Lumber Co.

Martin Nelson is home for a week from Slocan, at which point he and L. Moberg have a logging contract that will keep them busy for some time yet.

A. Abbott is back again from Saskatchewan, where he spent the past two months at harvest and threshing operations.

Mr. and Mrs. VanAckeran and two children, along with Phonse Huygens, were at Nelson a couple of days early in the week—where the two men were attending the Farmer-Labor political convention.

Miss Alice Wood is a visitor with Cranbrooks friends a few days this week.

Messrs. Hewitt and Cook of Calgary, who purchased land opposite the Hurl and Otto Johnson places earlier in the fall, returned to Canyon at the end of the week to make their permanent home here, Mr. Cook being accompanied by his wife and daughter. Their car of effects came in on Monday. They will get busy at clearing operations at once, it being Mr. Cook's intention to go in for berries.

Friends of Major and Mrs. Burritt, who left here about three years ago to reside in Saskatchewan, will learn with regret that Mrs. Burritt has recently suffered a stroke that has severely broken her health, and since leaving Canyon the major has lost sight of one eye.

Peter Burns is now busy on his contract to slash and clear the ten acres H. Lamont recently purchased back of the Pochin place.

A Midnight Romance

The Grand Theatre announces that Saturday night it will present Anita Stewart in "A Midnight Romance," a fascinating story of mystery and romance. The production was directed by Miss Lois Weber, from the story suggested by Marion Orth.

The events pictured take place at Sea View Hotel, a society resort. Here Marie Alexander, a hotel maid, played by Miss Stewart, upsets the bachelor vows of Roger Sloan, a wealthy young guest, thereby becoming an innocent accomplice in the plan of two plotters to make Sloan the victim of a blackmailing scheme. No sooner is Sloan saved from their machinations, than he discovers that the mysterious maid is no other than the beautiful, charmingly gowned vision whom he had met on several occasions in the hotel gardens and on the beach at midnight. Before he can recover from the surprise she disappears, and the mystery surrounding her deepens. And when he again finds her it is under circumstances and in surroundings more startling and unexpected than those that attended his discovery of her as a chambermaid.

DISTRESS IN THE THROAT CAUSED GREAT ANXIETY

Not an uncommon experience, was that of Mrs. H. S. Wilmot, of Shulee. N.S.: "Many remedies failed, still splendid results were found in 'Catarrhozone.' I have been a most dreadful sufferer from Bronchial trouble and Catarrh. On damp days I would hawk and suffer great distress in my throat. I used all kinds of medicines but didn't get permanent relief till I used Catarrhozone. It strengthened my throat, stopped my cough, and made me well." Try Catarrhozone yourself—see what wonders it works on a bad throat, or colds, catarrh, bronchitis. Different from the old way, because you breathe Catarrhozone. (Continued)

During the drive homeward his thoughts persistently turned to the share his wife had had in Beulah's departure, and his feeling toward Mary grew more and more hostile. Not that he altogether disbelieved her when she professed ignorance of the young couple's intention; he could not go so far as to think that she had lied to him, but he was inwardly convinced that she had at least an inkling of their plans, and that, so far from attempting to dissuade them, she was really in sympathy with their wild escapade. Harris was very fond of his wife, who had shared with him all the hardships of pioneer life, and who, he admitted, had been a faithful and devoted helpmate, and her desertion of him in the present crisis was therefore all the less to be excused or condoned. He resolved, however, that there should be no open breach between them; he would neither scold nor question her, but would impress her with his displeasure by adopting a cold matter-of-fact, speak when-you're-spoken-to attitude toward her.

Under the circumstances it was not remarkable that Harris's work began to loom larger than ever in his life. The space left vacant by his daughter he filled with extra energy driving the great ploughs through the mellow summer-fallow. A new tank-man was engaged, and the rumble of the engine was heard up and down the fields from early morning until dark. From his wife he held aloof, speaking with strained courtesy when speech was necessary. She, in turn, schooled for years in self-effacement, hid her sorrow in her heart, and went about her work with a resignation which he mistook for cheerfulness, and which confirmed him in his opinion that she knew more of Beulah's intentions than she had cared to admit. Only with Allan his relations remained unchanged; indeed, the attachment between the two grew deeper. The young man avoided any reference to Beulah; what he felt in his own heart he kept to himself, but the father shrewdly guessed that he laid the whole blame on Travers.

So the summer wore on; the black bosom of the fallow field widened day by day, and the smell of growing wheat filled the dew-laden evening air. The picnic season, the time of athletic competitions, baseball matches and rural sociability, rolled by, but Harris scarcely knew of its passing. He had long ago ceased to take any personal interest in the frivolities of the neighbourhood; he saw in picnics and baseball games only an unprofitable misuse of time, and when he thought of them at all it was to congratulate himself that Allan was not led away by any such foolishness. Finding no great happiness in his own home, he had fallen into the way of walking over to Riles's on Sunday afternoons, and the two spent many hours in discussion of their proposed land-seeking expedition.

Meanwhile Mary plodded along with her housework, toiling doggedly from five in the morning until half-past nine or ten at night. Beulah's departure had left all the labours of the home upon her hands; her husband had made no suggestion of securing help, and she had not asked any. The new man made no offer to milk any of the cows; a dozen hours in the field was day enough for him, and whatever time was over he spent smoking cigarettes in the shelter of the barn. Allan occasionally did help with the milking, and more frequently with turning the separator, but it was so late when he stopped his work in the field she was sorry for him, and tried to have the milk cleared away before he arrived on the scene. One or two postcards she had had from Beulah, but they brought no great information. They came in the open mail; her husband was welcome to read them if he chose, but as he had sought his own company exclusively since Beulah's departure she made no attempt to force them upon him.

At last one morning came a letter, a big fat letter, left in by an neighbour passing by, as the custom was for any settler going to town to bring out the mail for those who lived along his route. She tore the envelope open nervously and devoured its contents with hungry eyes.

"My Dear Mother,

"Here I am, in the shadow of the Rockies. That may sound poetical, but it's a literal fact. It is still early in the evening, but the sun has disappeared behind the great masses to the west, and the valley which my window overlooks is filling up with blackness. The Arthurses are pure gold, and I have told them everything. They don't blame anyone, not even father. How is he? Slaving as usual, I suppose.

"Well, I must tell you about my trip. When I left the house that night I had no idea where I was going, but the simplest thing seemed to be to go first to Plainville. The North Star led that way, and it seemed a guide to follow. As I walked the lights came out in the Arctic sky—a great bow of them, swelling and fading in their delicate tints. I watched them and plodded along, trying not to think very much about anything.

"You've no idea how heavy that suit-case got, but I took my time, as there was nothing to gain by reaching town before daylight. When I got there it struck me it might be a good plan to have some breakfast, so I walked round to Goode's boarding-house. Mrs. Goode was bustling about, and received me with open arms. 'Well, my Land! if it ain't Beunah Harris!' she exclaimed—she always called me Beunah—'Goodness, child, what are you doing about this early in the morning? But there, I needn't ask, knowin' what a worker your father is. I'll be bound he drove you in before sunrise to lose no time with his ploughin'. Well, that's what makes the mare go. I wish my man had some of it—he's snorin' up on the second floor at this minute like to lift the shingles. I often say to myself, 'For the little he does and the lot he eats the Lord knows what keeps him so thin.' (It's a grievance of Mrs. Goode's, that her husband won't fatten up; she thinks it's a reflection on her cooking.) 'And with your suit-case! You'll be taking the train? West, is it, or East? But you'll be hungry, child. Take off your things there while I see to my buns—I always give the boarders hot buns for breakfast——' you know how she rattles on. But she's a good soul, if a bit conceited over her cooking, and wouldn't take a cent for my keep either. Of course she didn't wait for me to answer her questions, and she really suggested the plan which I took. After breakfast I went over to the station, and asked what the fare was to Arthurs' station; I found I had enough money for the trip, and I bought a ticket without further ado.

"I won't try to tell you all about my trip—it would take a book. But what a country it is! Of course I had learned in school that there was about two feet of map between the Red River and the Rockies, but there's only one way to know how big it is, and that's to travel it. If you've got any imagination at all a trip over these enormous prairies must set it stirring. For the most part there's no settlement; not a house, nor stack, nor any sign of life. Pretty much like Manitoba was, I guess, when you first saw it, but bigger and grander, and more suggestive of the future. You see, Manitoba has made good, for all the doubters, and this bigger West will do the same, on a bigger scale. As we rolled along through that unbroken prairie, with here and there a great herd of horses or cattle in the distance, I felt at last that I was really beginning to live. Not that I was doing anything grander than running away from home, but still that feeling came over me—the feeling that here was a country where things were going to happen, and that I was going to play some part in their happenings.

"Well, if I ramble on like this it'll be a real book after all. Calgary is the big cow-town of the West, just beginning to aspire to higher—or lower (there's a real question there)—civilization, and mixing schaps and silks on its streets in a strange struggle between the past and the future. But my stay there was short, as I was able to catch my branch train with little delay, and that night saw me at Arthurs' nearest station. The homestead rush is on here in earnest; the trains are crowded, mostly with Americans, and the hotels are simply spilling over. They're a motley crowd, these homesteaders. Down with us, you know, the settlers were looking for homes, and a chance to make a living, but up here they're out for money—the long green, they call it. Their idea is to prove up and sell their lands, when they will either buy more or leave the country. But the great point is that they are after money rather than homes. They belong to a class which has been rushing for a generation ahead of a wave of high land values—I heard a man say that in the train, and I made a note of it—they're rovers by birth and training, with no great home instinct. To them one place is as good as another—provided always there's money to be made there—and one flag is almost as good as another. Of course this will right itself in time; the first flood of land-seekers are soil-miners, but the second are home-builders—the man said that too; you see I'm picking things up; I want to know about something besides the weather—and when that second flood comes this country won't know itself.

"But to come back to the hotel; that's what I did when I had taken a good walk about the little town, and admired myself almost homesick looking at fine horses tied to hitching-posts and fine men swaggering about in the abandon of cow-boy costumes. One thing I have learned already, and the discovery shocked me a little at first; the cow-boy considers himself better clay than the farmer—the 'sod-buster' he calls him—and treats him with good-humored contempt. I wanted to ask someone about Arthurs, and I didn't like to inquire in the hotel. There was a lot of drinking going on there. But near the door were two young men talking, and I overheard one of them mention Arthurs' name. Pulling myself together, I asked him if he could tell me where Arthurs lived.

"'Yes, miss,' he answered, lifting a big hat and showing when he spoke a clean set of teeth. 'It's twenty-five miles up the river. Were you expecting him to meet you?'

"I explained that I had intended to drop in on them by surprise, but I had had no idea they lived so far from town.

Mrs. Rose M. Brown Gained 20 Pounds In Four Weeks Time

Declares It's Simply Astoning To See The Wonderful Benefits She Has Derived From Tanlac --- Says Terrible Headaches Have Disappeared.

MRS. ROSE M. BROWN.

"It sounds unreasonable, but I have actually gained 20 pounds in less than a month's time by taking Tanlac and the wonderful benefit I have derived from the use of this medicine is simply astonishing," said Mrs. Rose M. Brown, 111 Third Street, Manchester, N. H.

"Why, I am so happy to be relieved of my troubles I can really never praise this medicine enough. Up to the time I began taking Tanlac, I suffered for something over two years with a very bad form of stomach trouble.

"My appetite was so poor I could scarcely eat a thing. My stomach would be so badly bloated with gas sometimes I was almost afraid to go to bed for fear I would actually smother. I felt tired and worn out most of the time and became terribly discouraged over my condition. I often had such violent headaches I was unable to be out of bed for two or three days at a stretch.

"Four bottles of Tanlac completely restored my health and anyone can see at a glance the wonderful change that has taken place in my condition. I have a splendid appetite now and the stomach trouble has entirely disappeared. I can eat just anything I want without ever feeling a sign of indigestion. The best of all, I am never bothered any more with headaches and this was the greatest relief of all. I want to tell everybody what this medicine has done for me."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Reporters have been admitted to the British Parliament since 1835.

Nervous Breakdown

The extreme depression and discouragement which comes over one at times is the most alarming symptom of nervous exhaustion.

This letter is a message of hope to all who find themselves in this unfortunate condition.

Mrs. Geo. T. Tingley, Albert, N.B., writes:—

"For years I was in a very nervous, run-down condition, was much depressed in spirits and suffered a great deal at times. The least noise would irritate me and at times I felt as though I certainly would go crazy. I consulted different doctors to no effect.

"A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and I can truly testify today to the great benefits received. There was a marked change before I had finished the second box and when I had used a dozen boxes my nerves were thoroughly restored and I was entirely relieved of those terrible feelings I used to have. I shall ever be ready to testify to the benefits of this wonderful medicine, feeling sure that it will give to others the quick and permanent relief it has given me."

World Happenings Briefly Told

John Boyd Dunlop, known as the inventor of the pneumatic tire, died in Dublin, aged 81.

A bandit held up a drug store in the heart of Vancouver and took $65 from the till, while the street was thronged with a theatre crowd and two policemen were exchanging small talk 50 yards from the store entrance.

Soldiers hurriedly compelled the evacuation of the population in the vicinity of the fort at Aubervilliers, two miles outside Paris, when fire broke out and caused the explosion of gas and other shells. The fort is one of the chain of 40 forts surrounding Paris.

The Eddystone Lighthouse

First One Was Built of Wood in 1696.

The Eddystone rocks are in the English Channel, nine miles south of the Cornish coast, and fourteen miles southwest of the Plymouth breakwater. They are submerged when the tide is in, and the water round them varies from 12 to 150 fathoms. In consequence of the frequent shipwrecks, Mr. Winstanley, in 1696, planned and built a lighthouse of wood 100 feet high. So confident was he of its safety, that he lived in it himself, and expressed a wish to be in it when the wildest storm that ever blew should come.

In 1703 a great storm raged. Before its full force broke, a passing boatman warned Winstanley of his danger, and offered to take him off. He refused, but when, after three awful days, the storm subsided it was found that the lighthouse and inventor had been swept away.

New Building Material

Straw Mixture Said to be More Durable Than Concrete.

Investigations conducted by experts at Alberta University have satisfactorily proved the possibility of making a building material out of straw. By a secret process chopped straw is mixed with other ingredients and the resulting composition is said to be a material capable of withstanding more severe tests than concrete. With the enormous quantities of straw available from the grain crops of the prairie provinces, little economic use of which is made at present, the success of the new material may revolutionize the building trade in the west.

A scow load of lake trout has reached the town of McMurray from the Mackenzie Basin Fisheries plant at Black Bay on Lake Athabasca, and further shipments, it is expected, will be made before the close of navigation on the big river. This is the first shipment of northern lake trout that has reached McMurray for shipment to the markets of Canada and the United States, and demonstrates one of the unbounded resources of the untapped regions which lie beyond the Athabasca.

Minard's Liniment for Distemper

Evening Gown Of Taffeta And Brocade

By Marie Belmont.

Taffeta and brocade in golden brown tones are interestingly combined in the fashioning of this attractive evening gown for autumn. Touches of dull orange and blue are also noted in the brocade and the former shade is used to line the overskirt that has a flaring heading about the waistline. Bronze beads girdle the low waistline and make a striking decoration for the front of the skirt where they are finished with beaded tassels. Strands of beads strap the shoulders. A noticeable feature of this gown is the length of the skirt.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, NOV. 4

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Leveque Writes 'Finis'

EDITOR REVIEW:

SIR,—I notice by your last issue that Mr. Edmondson is at it again. Apparently incompetent, and unable to refute the facts and figures brought out in criticism of his irrigation scheme, he continues his campaign of ridicule and abuse in a small bit of half-baked doggerel to which no self-respecting man would care to affix his signature. This low down parody on legitimate poetry proves conclusively that he is far better posted on slander and rot than he is on irrigation. It has neither the merit of rhyme nor metre, and was written for the sole purpose of trying to calumnize and abuse any and all who dare differ in opinion with him. Such stuff could only emanate from the bigoted mind of that self-conceited type of individual who is too narrow minded to concede that other people are entitled to have an opinion of their own.

In concocting that trash Mr. Edmondson could not even confine himself to the truth. He himself is the one who would inflict on this thriving community conditions such as were experienced in France with his chlorinated water. He now tries to convey the impression that it is otherwise. He has given no proof or figures on a scheme that would supply the Valley. The only parallel he gave is the one of the 155 engines, which was ridiculous and absurd; nor has he given any complete or authentic information of any kind. Yet all those who did not swallow his clap trap hook, sinker and all, and take the rest for granted, he likens to the swine of the Gospel. If this came from a recognized level headed thinking man one would very likely feel hurt, but coming as it does from the same individual who deliberately wishes to supply a community of white people with putrid, stagnant water one is more or less tempted to pass it up. In the midst of this there is one great consolation, which I think is well worth considering, and that is no more of these so-called pearls are to be fed. We may now bow our heads and say, "For this and other mercies," etc., etc. It is just as well in view of the fact that in this case the so called swine have better sense than their would-be feeder and refuse to be humbugged with counterfeits.

I will grant that the government of B.C. does pump to irrigate; so does Grand Forks. There is good reason why, in both cases, but will Mr. Edmondson please cite us a case where pumps are used for such a large volume of water where it can be obtained by gravity within a reasonable distance—let's say five miles, or so.

Will he please tell us of one case where pumps were installed to supply a community with water, the source of which was known to be putrid.

For reasonable irrigation this Valley would require at least four million gallons of water daily. Will Mr. Edmondson please give us authentic figures showing the cost of a plant capable of lifting this volume of water, together with cost of installation, reservoirs where required, and all piping necessary to deliver the water to each ranch; amount necessary to place in sinking fund for replacements, and above all the yearly cost of upkeep of such a plant.

To sum up, will Mr. Edmondson be man enough to return to our original subject; it is one worth while, and interesting to almost every citizen of the Valley, and far more worthy of a man's attention than the rubbish to which he has been devoting himself recently. A short time ago Mr. Edmondson stated that he did not have the time to discuss irrigation. Must we take it that his time is all taken up composing such trash as appears in your last issue.

I will always try and find time to discuss so vital a subject as irrigation, but do not wish to waste any more time on this other stuff. I do not want to degrade myself to that extent.

LEONARD T. LEVEQUE.

Farmer-Labor Party Gets Busy

Supporters of the Farmer-Labor party had an enthusiastic and well attended get-together on Thursday night in Speers' Hall for the purpose of discussing the advisability of placing a candidate in the field in West Kootenay, and the selection of delegates to attend the nominating convention called for November 1st, at Nelson.

President Swanson of the Creston local of the United Farmers, was the unanimous choice as chairman of the meeting, with W. B. Embree chosen as secretary. After briefly stating the reasons for calling the meeting, the chairman threw the meeting wide open for the discussion of the subject, and after practically all those present had endorsed the idea of nominating a candidate the motion to select delegates was put and carried, and the following were chosen to act as representatives for the Wynndel, Creston, Canyon and Erickson polling subdivisions: Guy Constable, W. V. Jackson, W. B. Embree, O. J. Wigen, Phonse Huygens, Frank Palmer, W. Truscott and A. R. Swanson.

These will constitute the Valley's full quota of eight delegates, but in addition to these the convention will seat as regular voting delegates one representative from each United Farmer local in West Kootenay, and of the five locals in the Valley four will be represented as follows: Wynndel, A. H. Piggot; Creston, Jas. Adlard; Erickson, W. G. Littlejohn; Canyon City, E. VanAckeran, all of whom were selected as regularly called meetings of of their repective locals. Owing to the Lister local having earlier in the month passed a motion to the effect that the soldier settlement U.F. would observe a hands off policy in this campaign they will not be represented.

The delegates go to the convention free to support the most likely looking candidate offering, but it is understood that the local representatives will caucus the situation before balloting for a candidate commences, in the hope that the dozen votes from here may be all marked for one and the same standard bearer. Another meeting of the party supporters is called for this Thursday night (Nov. 3) for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization and arranging for the prosecution of a vigorous platform and canvassing campaign at this end of the riding.

Winter Apples Go Into Storage

In view of the unsatisfactory state of the October apple market and the authentic information obtaining as to apple prices stiffening within the next few weeks, the deal Creston Fruit Growers Union has made whereby the whole of their winter apple shipping, including some McIntosh, but excluding Delicious, will be stored at Calgary, Alta., pending the rise in prices, seems an excellent stroke of business on the part of the Union management.

Briefly stated the deal is that a Calgary storage house takes the winter apple supply, pays the freight on all of it to Calgary, advances the growers $300 per car, and according to contract will not be able to sell any of the fruit until instructed by the Growers Sales Agency—the firm handling the sale of the Union output this year. For this service the storage house will be paid a fixed commission per box whether the market rises or falls, and while the Review is not at liberty to divulge the commission to be paid, it certainly looks a modest one considering the service rendered.

That the Union directors have negotiated a deal that should prove profitable is indicated in all the market reports. In eastern Canada and the eastern states the apple yield is about 65 per cent. of normal and already exceptionally heavy shipments of B.C. fruit have gone east—last week Penticton alone sent 100 cars to the American market. Coupled with this is the announcement that prairie houses have been trading on the buy-as you need principle largely, and that even were they to start buying on their usual scale now it is doubtful if B.C. could supply them with their usual quantities—in view of contracts already made in the east, and it must not be overlooked that this year the apple season is at least two weeks earlier than usual.

Beattie-Oatway Limited

Commenting on the deal J. A. Grant, prairie fruit markets commissioner, in his Markets Bulletin, points out that "the bulk of the supply, from the Okanagan is going to other markets. Everything points to a firmer market immediately with higher prices after Christmas than the opening prices named by B.C. shippers."

"We predict that jobbers will make money this season by buying within the next few weeks. We also predict that few sales will be made owing to the pessimism prevailing on the prairies at present. There is nothing but optimism at the shipping end."

In the past Mr. Grant has invariably guaged the marketing situation fairly accurately, and certainly the weight of evidence is in favor of the optimistic view he takes of matters. And assuming the wisdom of waiting for the rising market, it must be conceded that even if the Union had storage—which it has not for this year's crop—the place to have the fruit is a central location where it can be moved on a day's notice almost when the higher prices eventuate, a detail that would be impossible of accomplishing were the apples held in the Valley.

The Man of the Hour

In this hour of Canada's most acute national crisis, the country's greatest need is leadership—not class leadership, not sectional leadership, but NATIONAL leadership. A pilot must be chosen possessing the necessary courage, foresight, breadth of vision and determination to lead the nation safely out of the existing economic uncertainty.

And one man stands out head and shoulders above all others as pre-eminently fitted for the task.

Born on a farm near St. Mary's, Ontario, Arthur Meighen is a true son of the people, a toiler who has fought his way to eminence by sheer ability and force of intellect. Entered Parliament in 1908; appointed Solicitor-General in 1914; Minister of the Interior in 1917; and Prime Minister in 1920.

At the Imperial Conference he was acclaimed by the Press of Great Britain as a great statesman, as a strong, virile, vigorous personality—alert in mind, keen and far-seeing in judgment, and with a fearless determination to stand for the right.

Professor A. D. Skelton, of Queen's University, and biographer of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, wrote of the present Prime Minister:—"He has already given proof of high administrative capacity. His personal integrity is beyond question."

Of himself, Arthur Meighen said to his constituents the other day:—"You know where I stood on this issue in 1908, in 1911, and as in 1911 I stand to-day."

Where Railway Revenue Comes From

Certain statements made before the board of arbitration at Ottawa on the wage disputes between the Canadian National Railways and their employees would appear to have a direct bearing on Canada's outstanding financial problem, namely, how to put an end to the appalling deficits in the operation of the national railway system.

Ever since the deficit on the Canadian National Railways was shown some time ago to amount to a million dollars or more a week, statesmen, financiers, railway managers, and, last but not least, Canadian taxpayers, have been deeply concerned in striving to find some way of relief from such disastrous losses. While politicians have been striving to load the responsibility for creating conditions leading to these deficits upon political opponents, and while pessimists have talked blue ruin and and inevitable bankruptcy, men with constructive minds and not at all concerned with pettiness which is always to be found in politics, have seriously advanced suggestions with an eye single to the good of the railways and the welfare of the Dominion.

Probably the suggestion which has attracted greatest attention and carried most weight with thoughtful people is that only through an increase in population, with consequent increase in production, and therefore in railway traffic, can the true and lasting remedy be found. Economics effected in operation costs at the expense of efficient service might serve to temporarily reduce the deficit, but such reduction would only be of a temporary character and in the long run would prove to have been pennywise and pound foolish. More traffic, and therefore greater earning power, offers the only permanent solution.

The question then presents itself: How to bring about that increase in traffic? In this column we have urged the adoption of a vigorous and well directed immigration policy with a view to bringing about the settlement without further delay of the enormous area of untilled lands in the West, and the prosecution of such a policy without intermission until the desired result has been achieved.

In this connection it is to be noted that the statements made before the board of arbitration at Ottawa already referred to are highly significant. They have a direct bearing on this question, and certainly go to support the arguments already advanced. Addressing the board of arbitration, F. P. Brady, of the Canadian National Railways, declared that the railways would be better off without passenger traffic, and that sleeping cars and observation cars were invariably a source of loss, while A. C. Egan, for the Canadian National, made the statement that all the railway's profits are made during the last five months of the year when the grain is moving.

Of course, passenger traffic must be cared for whether it is a paying proposition or not, but if observation cars, which are a luxury and not a necessity, invariably lose money, then they should be reduced to a minimum or discarded altogether. Furthermore, inasmuch as it is only the well-to-do who make use of sleeping cars, rates should be advanced to a figure where such cars would not be operated at a loss, even though they did not produce a profit. Or the rate should be reduced to a figure that would make it possible for the less well-to-do to use them, thus obviating these cars running across the continent only partly filled. Volume at a less rate would be more profitable than partly empty cars. The average Canadian taxpayer should not be called upon to provide comfort for others which he cannot himself afford to enjoy.

The amount of money it requires to build a sleeping car or an observation car will build several freight cars, and, according to these railway officials, it is freight that produces profits. Again, be it noted, freight profits are piled up when there is a heavy and continuous freight movement, as is the case when the grain is moving. It is not the haulage of the products of the factories that keeps the railways busy during the last five months of the year, but the products of the farms. But if, through immigration and the creation of conditions which will keep the people on the land, the number of cultivated farms in Canada are doubled, or trebled, as is quite possible, not only would the volume of grain traffic be enormously increased during the last five months of the year, with still larger profits to the railways, but these additional millions of people on the farms would create an enormous demand for manufactured goods, fuel, lumber and merchandise of all kinds, which would provide a much heavier freight traffic throughout the other seven months of the year.

What our Canadian railways need more than anything else is more traffic to keep profitably loaded trains rolling over the tens of thousands of miles of rails in this country. In order to create that larger traffic there must be more people in Canada—people who in the first place produce something from the almost illimitable natural resources of this Dominion, and who, in turn, would require to be supplied with those things, manufactured and otherwise, which they do not themselves produce but must have to sustain life and enable them to carry on their work of production.

A national policy to encourage production is the only way to save the National Railways and make them earners of profits instead of producers of deficits.

A DESIRE TO EAT WHAT YOU WANT

Stomachs Can be Restored to a Healthy Condition.

Not to be limited in diet, but to eat whatever he pleases is the dream of every dyspeptic. No one can honestly promise to restore any stomach to this happy condition, because all people cannot eat the same things with equally satisfactory results. But it is possible to so tone up the digestive organs that a pleasing diet may be selected from articles of food that cause no discomfort.

When the stomach lacks tone there is no quicker way to restore it than to build up the blood. Good digestion without rich, red blood is impossible, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills offer the best way to enrich the blood. For this reason these pills are especially good in stomach trouble attended by thin blood, and in attacks of nervous dyspepsia. Proof of the value of Dr. Williams Pink Pills in cases of indigestion is given by Mr. John A. McDonald, Tarbot, N.S., who says: "Every sufferer from indigestion has my heartfelt sympathy, as I was once myself a bond slave to it. Eating at all became a trial, and as time went on I became a mere skeleton of my former self. I took all sorts of recommended medicines, doctors' and advertised, but to no avail. Then a friend said to try Dr. Williams Pink Pills. I got a box and I thought before they were done I could feel a change. Then I got six boxes more, and by the time they were used I was eating my meals with regularity and enjoyment. My general health is now good, and it is no wonder that I am an enthusiastic advocate of Dr. Williams Pink Pills."

You can procure Dr. Williams Pink Pills through any dealer in mdeicine or they will be sent you by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing direct to The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Millions For Roads In West

Twenty Million Will be Spent on Rural Highways.

At least $20,000,000 will be spent on highways and market roads in Western Canada during the next five years according to the provincial programmes which have now been submitted and approved by the Federal authorities. Manitoba programme provides for the construction of 4,000 miles of roads at an estimated cost of $6,602,250. The Dominion Government Act providing for subsidies will result in reimbursing the province to the extent of $1,402,265. Saskatchewan has outlined construction covering 2,500 miles which is expected to cost $5,329,500, of which $1,806,255 will be repaid by the Federal Government. Alberta intends to go ahead with 2,475 miles of roadway, the estimated cost of which is $3,694,525. Of this sum $1,477,819 will be paid by the Federal Government. This programme is for rural roads and does not include the sums which will be spent as civic enterprise. The highway systems of the three prairie provinces will be thus linked up.

Charge Spanish Officers Have Illtreated British In Foreign Legion

London.—Great Britain has asked Spain to allow a British representative to proceed to Morocco to make an independent and impartial inquiry into allegation of ill-treatment by Spanish officers of British subjects who have enlisted in the Spanish foreign legion.

This announcement was made in the House of Commons by Cecil Harmsworth, under secretary for foreign affairs, in answer to a question by Earl Winterton. The latter asked if the Government were aware of the serious allegations made against Spanish military authorities by British subjects, mostly ex-service men, recently enlisted in the Spanish foreign legion, who claim that conditions of pay and service, promised by Spanish consuls here, have not been carried out.

Earl Winterton asked further if the Government were aware that some of the British who protested were ill-treated, robbed and sent to Gibraltar, and that others who actually joined the legion had been kicked and beaten by Spanish officers.

A number of Canadian ex-service men are included in the British subjects who enlisted for service in Morocco. One vessel that sailed from New York during the past summer with recruits for the Spanish foreign legion, carried 32 men who had seen service in the Canadian forces during the war.

New German Government Says Settlement Was Illegal.

Berlin.—The Reichstag voted confidence in the new ministry of Dr. Wirth. The vote was 230 against 132. The majority was made up of Majority Socialists, Independent Socialists, Centrists and Democrats.

Chancellor Wirth declared that the new government's viewpoint regarding Upper Silesia differs in no way from that of the preceding government. He declared the German Government would protest against the recent decision of the council of the League of Nations concerning Upper Silesia on the ground of the illegality of the Allied Supreme Council having referred the question to the League of Nations. This procedure, he said, was not provided for by the treaty of Versailles.

Tree Planting Car Was Well Attended

Prairie Farmers Received Valuable Information From Mr. Mitchell.

The Tree Planting Campaign in Western Canada, inaugurated by the Canadian Forestry Association last year, received a material boost through the tour of the Association's Tree Planting Car during the past five months. The car was in charge of Mr. Archibald Mitchell again, and during the summer it travelled 8,800 miles. The total atendance this year was over 49,000 at 369 lectures, which demonstrates that the prairie farmers are keenly interested in the subject. For several weeks the car was attached to the Saskatchewan Governments' "Better Farming Train," and during this period 32,774 persons visited the car and heard Mr. Mitchell lecture. Scores of farmers brought their tree planting problems to the attention of Mr. Mitchell and they received personal consideration. A special feature of the tour this year was the assistance rendered municipalities in planning and laying out parks. Plans and detailed instructions for planting were supplied gratis to a number of towns.

Many prairie farmers hitherto believed that to plant a windbreak or a few trees around their homes was a costly operation and beyond their slender means. In his lectures Mr. Mitchell demonstrated that such is not the case and that with the expenditure of a little time and money wonders could be worked if the farmer went about the job in the right way. Many failures to successfully grow trees in localities where soil-drift occurs or where moisture is scarce has resulted in no trees being planted. The tree planting campaign aims to show the farmer how to plant, what to plant and when to plant, no matter what the moisture conditions may be.

A well laid out windbreak means a great deal on a farm as a protection for the crops. A few trees about the house makes the house a home and brings a measure of contentment not found when there are no trees.

Transmission service was prostrated while the property loss for Lee County is expected to total well over a million and a half dollars.

Local railroad officials said this city would be without transportation service for three days. The highways out of Fort Meyers are almost impassable, and many houses in Puntarassa were either badly damaged or washed away.

Prince Of Wales Goes To India

Political Unrest in East Causes Anxiety Over Trip.

London.—The Prince of Wales left the Victoria Station at noon today for Portsmouth to embark on the battlecruiser Renown for a tour of India and Japan. A great crowd outside the station gave Britain's heir-apparent an enthusiastic send-off, while on the platform were King George, Queen Mary, Princess Mary, Prime Minister Lloyd George, several members of the British Cabinet, U.S. Ambassador Harvey, Japanese Ambassador Hayashii and other distinguished personages.

Anxiety over the Prince's journey has been caused by the troubled political conditions in India. The possibility of an attack on him is minimised here but it is feared the Indian Nationalists led by Mahatma Ghandi, may possibly attempt to carry out their threat to call strikes in each city visited by the Prince.

"Cascarets" If Sick Bilious, Headachy From The Bowels

Get a 10-cent box now.

You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, bad taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have a bad cold. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse the stomach of sour, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from liver and carry out of the system all the constipated poison in the bowels. A Cascaret physic to-night will straighten you out by morning.

Should Double Japs' War Construction

U.S. Engineer Suggests Counter-Action If Conference Fails.

San Francisco.—The U.S. should build two warships for every one constructed by Japan if the Washington conference on the limitation of armaments fails of its purpose, John Hays Hammond, internationally known mining engineer, declared here upon his return aboard the liner Golden State after three months in the Orient.

Japan has already an unfavorable trade balance and she realizes it means the depletion of her gold resources to attempt to keep pace with this country in war construction.

Montreal.—That the Japanese are going to the Washington conference with something that amounts to an ultimatum, was the view expressed here by Col. Robert H. McCormick, president of the Chicago Tribune, who is passing through this city on his way back to Chicago from a holiday spent on the lower St. Lawrence.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Sirs,—I have used your Minard's Liniment for the past 25 years and whilst I have occasionally used other liniments I can safely say that I have never used any to equal yours.

If rubbed between the hands and inhaled frequently, it will never fail to relieve cold in the head in 24 hours. It is also the best for bruises, sprains, etc.

Yours truly,
J. G. Leslie.

Strike In South Africa Settled

Skilled Artisans Have Compromised On Wage Difference.

London.—A Reuter despatch from Cape Town, South Africa, reports the settlement of the strike called on October 7 by the skilled artisans employed by that municipality.

The strike arose out of an announced ten per cent. cut in wages, which, it was claimed by the men, was a violation of the existing agreement. The settlement was on the basis of a compromise, whereby certain of the men who have long service records will be placed on a fixed establishment, with privileges, while the remainder will receive the trade rates without any privileges.
