THE CRESTON REVIEW

VOL. XIV. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1922 No. 40

Erickson

Jas. Maxwell who has spent the past three months on a visit to friends at Napanee, and other Ontario points, arrived home the latter part of the week.

Mrs. and Miss Pearl McKinnon, who have spent the past month at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Smith, left on Thursday on the return trip to Summerside, P.E.I.

Rev. H. Varley will be here for English Church service at the schoolhouse on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. T. W. Bundy was a week-end visitor with friends at Cranbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Kelly have taken the W. G. Willson house for the winter, and took possession at the end of the month.

Walter Long continues to make satisfactory progress from his hunting mishap and at the rate he is improving it will not be long until he is around again as usual.

The united Sunday school, which reopened at the first of September has closed down again. In the majority of cases the scholars were an age that permitted them attending the denominational Sunday schools in Creston, and with a none too adequate supply of teachers it was thought no hardship would be inflicted by discontinuing.

The next meeting of the United Farmers, on Tuesday, Nov. 14th, will be an open session and all residents are invited to attend. Business of great importance to the community will be under discussion. This is your invitation to be present.

The report of Erickson school for October has just been handed out by Miss Vaughan as follows: Ferfect attendance—Edward Clarke, Lloyd Celli, Jean Craigie, Walter Dodds, Effie Littlejohn, Ruby Martin, Beth Putnam, Margaret Fraser, Jeannie Hall, James Handley, Edward Martin, Winnifred Palfreyman, Madeline Putnam, Allan Wood. Highest standing: Entrance Class—Jean Craigie, Winnifred Palfreyman, Effie Littlejohn. Junior Fourth—Jeannie Hall, Willis Wood. Senior Third—Richard Hall, Beulah Penson, Jean Wood. These We Shall Miss Memorial Day!

By T. M. EDMONDSON

Future events their shadows cast, as clouds o'erhang a mountain pass,
And prudent is the man, indeed, who to its warnings doth take heed.
Lord Roberts saw those shadows fall, strange as it seems to be;
That earth's most cruel war would soon be waged by Germany.

Though motley crowds at him did laugh, and legislators scorn,
Still, war was brooding in the air as sure as you were born.
Look, yonder, see the mighty hosts whose swords and bayonets gleam;
On August fourth, eventful day, the year nineteen-fourteen.

As meteors from their planets to earth they meet their doom,
So Germany with murderous heart did shatter Belgium.
Great Britain's lion roared aloud, writhed forth in agony;
Her voice was heard, and heeded, too, from every colony.

Brave volunteers from every land throughout her great empire
Offered their lives for justice's sake, their courage we admire.
We gathered at the station to see the troops entrain,
As first they crossed the continent, and then they crossed the main.

Maidens and mothers all were there to bid the boys goodbye
And sweethearts dear did drop a tear, and wives did heave a sigh.
And prayed in hope that God in heaven would heed their humble prayer
And bring them back in safety, after the cruel war.

Millions of men obeyed the call; to Britain's flag did rally,
And many of the bravest men came forth from Creston Valley.
Oh how our bosoms swelled, and how our hearts did pain
When we heard of how our boys trod the mud of Salisbury Plain.

And how sad the boys did feel when by chance they were alone,
When they fondly thought of kin and friends at home sweet home.
Their training being over they were marshalled forth to go,
To fight for good old England, to fight their fiercest foe.

When they heard the cannonading, and the mighty thunders roar,
And the agile airplanes shooting, as had ne'er been done before.
Whe they saw the cities falling, and the men o'ercome with gas
The stoutest heart said in his soul, "My God, alas, alas."

But with strength, as if from heaven, like a mighty ocean wave,
As bulwarks strong we'll fight the wrong, and thus our country save.
For four long years the battle raged; it raged and knew no peace
Till on November's eleventh day they signed the armistice.

Seventy five hundred thousand men on this battlefield were slain,
And thirty million suffered pain on this devastated plain.
The men from Creston Valley who in this war did fall—
Who fought, and no surrender, were twenty-six in all.

Their names inscribed in stone, who for their country stood,
In fair, far distant France were once inscribed in blood.
We do not know the order in which our soldiers fell
But we know they did their duty, cheerfully and well.

Among the first to fall in this great battlefield
Were William Burn-Murdoch and Philip Butterfield,
Harry Bothwell and Arthur Biddulph the summons did obey;
They volunteered when duty called; they never would say nay.

Frank May and Nelson Brown and William McBean
Brave soldiers fell, we know them well—lives of noble mien.
John Wood and William Johnson, and Edward Harold Kemp
Fought bravely for their nation—they were on duty bent.

Roy Stocks and Robert Smith and Herbert Stewart stood
For justice cause and freedom—for this they gave their blood.
William Timms and William Turner with J. Sidney McHugh
Gave freely of their lives as valiant soldiers do.

Edgar Penson, Stanley Reid and Charles Pendry—
We'll meet them all again in God's own time and way.
Irwin H. Simmons and Fred Hilton obeyed the nation's call—
A case of no surrender; we will win though we should fall.

George Smith and Robert Hubie, we know not where they fought,
But in the annals of this page their names are not forgot.
Other brave men whose blood was shed; who fought the war to win,
Were Dennes Howard, Edward Fortier and also Stanley Gwynne.

Ye brave and valiant men, who fought the war and won,
For your great sacrifice will hear the Master's great "Well done."
At God's right hand we then shall meet when war and death are o'er,
Ye have trod the path with marty'rs feet, what could ye have done more.

Children Get Free Show Saturday

School children from all points in the Valley who are at the Soldiers' Memorial unveiling on Saturday afternoon, will be treated to a free moving picture show at the Grand Theatre at the conclusion of the unveiling exercises.

This will be a treat to the youngsters from the business men of Creston who have leased the theatre for the afternoon show of films and invite all the boys and girls of school age to be their guests Saturday afternoon for a couple of hours.

As there is almost sure to be in the neighborhood of 400 children at the unveiling it is at once apparent that no grown-ups can be possibly admitted—not even mothers who usually accompany their children—and to avoid any unpleasantness it is asked that neither parents or adults seek admission that afternoon.

For the convenience of children who have to go home on the westbound train, arrangement is being made to announce the train's coming at least five minutes before it is due.

Free admission awaits every school child in the Valley, and the town business men will be disappointed if any youngster misses Saturday afternoon's picture show.

Ready for Soldier. Memorial Unveil

The arrival on Tuesday of the bronze wreaths that will adorn the top of the granite shaft assures that the Soldiers' Memorial unveiling on Saturday afternoon will be complete in every detail, and should reasonably good weather prevail a very large turnout of Valley citizens is looked for.

The only change in the programme as announced last week is that Major Mallandaine will speak for the returned men in place of Col. Pollen, who has written stating he cannot be present.

The children have been rehearsing the musical numbers to band accompaniment this week, and this feature should be particularly attractive, as there is prospect of some 400 children taking part, all the outside schools arranging to have their pupils present.

The youngsters are to be rewarded for their effort by the business men of Creston who have engaged the Grand Theatre and are putting on a free picture show for school children only immediately after the unveiling exercises.

Canyon City

Vickers Construction Company crew is back here again for a couple of weeks, putting down the new steel on the cement approaches they earlier in the season built to the C.P.R bridge.

Miss Nissie McRobb, who is attending high school at Cranbrook, was home for the Thanksgiving vacation.

Mr. Helquist of Cranbrook, the Norweigan church evangelist, was here for service in the schoolhouse on Thanksgiving evening, and was greeted with quite a good turnout.

Ted Swanson and family are now permanently located here in the house on the A. Wesling place, and Ted has gone to work for A. G. Samuelson.

BIRTH—On October 28th, to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Davie, a son.

The Vance brothers are awarded the contract for supplying the school with this year's needs in the wood fuel line.

Mr. Hummel has just completed the erection of the house on the land he lately purchased here, and has gone to work for the Company this winter.

While the colder weather that prevails has been quite ideal for those engaged at bush work, it has caught many ranchers with very little fall ploughing done.

From all appearances Canyon will be almost unanimously represented at the memorial unveiling at Creston on Saturdyy, especially if the weather is fine. The school children will parade to Creston for the occasion.

Business at the United Farmers meeting on Saturday night was mostly of a routine mature, arrangements being completed for the dance and box social at the school on Friday night. The U.F decided to play Santa Claus to all the youngsters by providing an old time Christmas treat for one and all.

Imperial Fruit Fair Prize Winnings

Definite word as to the success of Valley growers at the Imperial Fruit Show in London the latter part of October came to hand on Friday last by way of chief fruit inspector Clarke at Vancouver, and his report indicates that four first prizes and two thirds were awarded local exhibitors—all prizes coming in the Overseas section.

Robert Stark was successful in capturing red tickets on Cox Orange and Winter Banana apples and Clergue pears, and also took first for having the finest display of fruit from British Columbia.

The third prizes went to W. G. Littlejohn of Erickson on Snow apples and any other variety—presumbly McIntosh Red.

Failure to capture prizes in the British Empire class is not unexpected, due to the fact that in that department the fruit was not allowed to be re-packed on arrival. After a 3000 mile train trip and another 4000-mile water haul, with the trucking and handling at trans-shipping points it would be hardly fair to expect Creston fruit to look as good as the England-grown product that went almost direct from packing shed to fair building, or even the eastern fruit that escaped practically any rail haul.

Show Wealthys at Toronto

The next exhibition effort that Valley citizens will watch with interest is the Dominion Fruit Fair, which opens at Toronto, Ont., toward the end of the month, and at which B.C. is entering apples in many of the classes. By arrangement each fruit district in the province has been allocated one variety at least, and after a careful inspection of local orchards by an Okanagan expert it has been decided that the Valley would go after the honors in Wealthys, the Poehin ranch having been called upon to supply the necessary three boxes. Creston Fruit Growers Union are looking after this eastern exhibition effort.

Kitchener

Mrs. A. Johnson of Moyie spent Thanksgiving Day with Mrs. Franzen.

Mr. Joyce has just arrived in Kitchener to take the position of bookkeeper with the Paulson-Mason Company.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Driffle have arrived from Creston, and expect to be in residence here for the next few months.

School inspector Manning made an official visit to the school this week, and found it filled to capacity. The trustees have received an excellent report from him as to Miss Hunter's management of the school.

There is a great deal of building going on at present in an around Kitchener. Hendren and Watson will be busy at carpenter work here for at least the next month.

Mrs. Hunt, Miss Hunter, and Clara Hunt and Mildred Andeen spent the week-end with friends in Spokane.

Mr. and Mrs. Bush are the newest arrivals from the prairie, and are living at the Paulson mill.

Dr. Henderson of Creston had a hurried call here on Thursday last to attend Walter Long, who was shot

Lister

Miss Winnifred Land of Ipswich, England, arrived a few days ago and will make an extended visit at the home of F. N. Thompson.

Miss Irene Huscroft, who is attending high school at Cranbrook, was home for the Thanksgiving holidays.

Misses Redpath and Hardisty of the school teaching staff, were week-end visitors at the former's home in Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnston have moved to Klockmann, Idaha, for the winter, where Jack is employed at the Continental mine.

Mr. Taylor, who recently sold his ranch near here to an Alberta buyer, and since then has resided on the prairie, is back again, along with Mr. and Mrs. Matthews of Pincher Creek, Alta., and are occupying one of the houses near the mill.

C. F. Hayes of Creston was a week-end viistor in the area, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Langston.

Miss Campion of Nelson, a former teacher at the Lister school, now at Blfour, was here for the week-end, the guest of Mrs. Rowbury.

At the United Farmers meeting on Friday night a canvass was made for pupils for the proposed apple packing school this winter but as not enough names were submitted the school will not be held.

John Huscroft is this week shipping a supply of his Early Ohio potatoes to Grand Forks, where they will be shown in the provincial potato fair this month.

The October report of Lister school is as follows: Division I., Miss Redpath, Principal: Highest standing: Junior Third—Annie Yerbury, Freda Lye, John Malthouse, Flossie Evans, George Charleson, Gus Charleson, George Chudley, Peter McKay. Bar B Ranch,
November 20th, 19—

Seven whole weeks since I wrote in my diary! And but for Mrs. Bingham it might have been even longer. A few days after we had been to Carbon City to the Exhibition I woke with a splitting headache and a sore throat. I dressed and went down to breakfast, but could not eat anything. Mrs. Bingham became anxious, took my temperature and found it above normal, looked at my tongue, then sent me back to bed, and dispatched Mr. Bingham to the Agency with orders to bring Dr. McMurray back with him as soon as possible. The doctor was not at the Agency, and Mr. Bingham had to ride an additional ten miles before he found him, and it was not until late in the evening that they reached the Bar B. All day I felt wretchedly ill, and when the doctor came he made a hasty examination, asked a few questions, and then growled, "Scarlet fever. All the rest of you had it?"

I was surprised and dismayed, but Mrs. Bingham was neither. "We've all had it, except Sunny, and I can easily keep her out of danger. I'll go into quarantine with Miss Eliot. Mrs. Davidson will be glad to come and keep house for me."

"Can't I go to the hospital?" I asked. "I shall be an awful nuisance to you all if I stay here."

"I suppose you want to have pneumonia, too, do you?" questioned the doctor, rather unsympathetically, I thought. "No, young lady; you'll stay where you are—and thank your lucky stars that you have a good nurse to look after you."

I felt too ill to remonstrate further, and it was several days before I was able to appreciate Mrs. Bingham's kindness properly. She might have had someone else to look after me, and she must have been very anxious about Sunny, but she never so much as hinted that she was making any sacrifice. In fact, even now she refuses to let me thank her, and when I try to do so she only laughs and tells me that she was delighted to get into uniform again, and to have a patient to tyrannize over. She was a nurse before her marriage.

She moved me into an unoccupied bedroom which opens on the balcony, and there we lived for six long weeks—six months, it seemed to be. For a couple of week I was too ill to be lonely, but after that each day was longer than the preceding one. I had to stay in bed for four weeks, and even now I feel very wobbly about the knees. The doctor says that my heart is not very strong and that I must avoid all exertion for some time.

Everyone was so good to me. As soon as I was able to listen to them Mr. Paget and Mr. Livingstone gave concerts, assisted by Mrs. Davidson. Lee excelled himself in the making of dishes that would have tempted the most fickle appetite. Mary Little Bear sent me fresh eggs, a few at a time, whenever she had a chance. And the deaconess, Miss Marshall—she prefers to be called "Sister Lillian"—wrote a very kind note, offering to relieve Mrs. Bingham if another nurse should be needed at any time!

And letters! Mary wrote twice a week—long, rambling, funny letters, which were almost as good as a visit from the writer. Gypsy Fiske, who is now in Winnipeg attending college, wrote each week, telling me all the Elba news. And I had a very characteristic epistle from Mrs. Mills—I was so sorry that it had to be burned—Mr. Hartford, Mr. O'Hara, and the twins added postscripts, and the resulting manuscript was so weighty that it required double postage.

We had a private system of postal delivery too. Mr. Livingstone and Sunny used to write the quaintest little notes to me and put them on my tray. Of course all the writing was done by Mr. Livingstone, but he made no distinction between what he wrote for himself and what was dictated by Sunny—you may imagine what a queer jumble of nonsense those letters were. They invariably began, "Dear Auntie Elinor," and they usually ended in this fashion,

Yours sincerely,
Don Livingstone
and her
Sunny X Bingham
mark
X X X X X X X X X X X X

"P.S.—These are kisses."

But it is Mrs. Bingham who has won my lasting gratitude. Before we were shut up together I liked her very much, and admired her never-failing optimism; but now—well, for six weeks she was mother, sister and nurse all in one, always ready to pet me when I was blue and homesick, and to amuse me when I was restless and fretting against confinement. Mere "liking" is too mild a term for what I now feel towards her.

I wish she could be persuaded to write a book about her experiences as a nurse. Her patients have been of so many sorts, ranging from a society woman with an imaginary case of nervous prostration to a smallpox patient in one of the lumbering camps in the wilds of Northern Saskatchewan.

"There is not so much romance in our profession as many people believe," she said one day when she was in a reminiscent mood. "In this country 'The Lady with the Lamp' frequently gives place to 'The Lady with the Broom and Wash-tub.' I have often nursed in places where I had to wash and cook and keep the house clean, simply because there was no one else to do those things. Of course there is a certain amount of fun to be had 'on the side,' if one knows where to look for it. For one thing, men have an incurable habit of falling in love—temporarily, of course—with their nurses. They always fall out again, but the attack is very serious while it lasts, and if the man is young and eligible, and has a mother within range, the old lady nearly always adds the last touch to the comedy by trying to counteract the nurse's influence. Poor old ladies! They waste a lot of valuable time and energy, and all because they do not know that a man's infatuation for his nurse is but one stage in his convalescence. My experience in this respect has not been very wide, but some nurses I know could tell you tales that would make you open your eyes. The girl I roomed with while I was in training had one typhoid patient who used to quote 'Maud' to her when he was delirious. As soon as he began,

'She is coming, my own, my sweet,'

Molly would get the ice-pack out and then jab the thermometer into his mouth. The poor man was very ill at the time, but even when he was out of danger and supposed to be quite rational he stopped reciting 'Maud' only to tell Molly whenever he had the chance that she was the very image of the only girl he had ever loved.

"Molly was the worst flirt I ever knew. She kept in practice by experimenting on everyone, from the visiting doctors to the elevator boys. And whenever I remonstrated with her, she would excuse herself by saying that there were times when books and cards failed—when one had to flirt with a patient in order to keep him from being bored to death."

The Kidneys

The office man and the outdoor worker suffer alike from derangements of the kidneys.

Backaches and headaches are among the symptoms. In some cases Bright's disease soon develops, others suffer from high blood pressure until hardening of the arteries sets in.

In order to forestall painful and fatal diseases prompt action should be taken at the first sign of trouble.

Mr. A. D. MacKinnon, Kirkwood, Inverness county, N.S., writes:

"I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to all suffering from weak kidneys. I suffered from kidney disease for a long time. I may also say that for three years I was nearly always troubled with headaches, and no treatment seemed to do more than afford temporary relief. I was finally told of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and after using a few boxes was completely relieved. I have also used Dr. Chase's Ointment with the best results, and never fail to recommend these wonderful remedies."

THE WORLD'S GREATEST HEALER

World's Rarest Stamp

Only One of Its Kind Was Sold For $32,000

The world's rarest stamp, British Guiana 1856, 1c red, was sold at auction in Paris a short time ago for the sum of $32,000. The stamp, the only one of its kind, was in the collection of the Philipe de la Renotierre, von Ferrari, an Austrian nobleman, who was reputed to have the best collection in the world.

The collection was in Paris at the outbreak of the late war and the French Government seized it as alien property and a short time ago began selling it by auction.

This is the highest price ever paid for a single stamp, but there are several other stamps at the auction that have brought high prices also.

RHEUMATISM?

Health is the Most Valuable Asset You Have. You cannot Afford to Neglect It

Crofton, B. C.—"I was troubled for years with inflammatory rheumatism and rheumatic fever. I tried several cures for rheumatism, but did not receive any benefit from any of them. I had been in the hospital for months, being unable to walk. A friend advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets. After taking the first bottle I began to improve, and after taking six bottles I had no more rheumatism. I think Dr. Pierce's Anuric is the most wonderful medicine that any one can take for rheumatism. I have recommended these tablets to several of my friends and they, too, have all been benefited by them."—Melville Collinson.

People are realizing that the kidneys, just as do the bowels, need to be flushed occasionally. The kidneys are an eliminative organ and are constantly working, separating the poisons from the blood. Uric acid backs up into the system, causing rheumatism, neuralgia, dropsy and many other serious disturbances.

This can be avoided by stimulating the kidneys to increased action, and because of its tonic effect on these organs any one would do well to get Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets which are to be had nowadays at almost any drug store or send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont., for trial package and write for free, confidential medical advice.

Not One of the Firm

Negro Porter's Explanation Might Have Been Misunderstood

Just after closing hours one day at the offices of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., it was discovered that some very important papers had to be delivered to J. P. Morgan, of the J. P. Morgan Company, and that there was no one left in the establishment to deliver them except the negro porter.

The importance of conveying the papers was so great that it was at last decided to immediately dispatch the negro messenger on the errand. Upon his arrival at Morgan's offices Rastus explained that he must see J. P. Morgan, of J. P. Morgan Company, in person, on an important matter. He finally reached the big financier's exclusive retreat and asked if he was J. P. Morgan, of J. P. Morgan Company.

"I am," condescended Mr. Morgan, "and who are you that comes on such an important errand?"

"Suh," replied the negro haughtily, "I'se de coon of Kuhn, Loeb & Co."—Judge.

First Person Cremated

First Recorded Cremation in U.S. Took Place in 1792

The first person cremated in the United States, according to wishes and desires expressed by himself, was Col. Henry Laurens, one of the revolutionary patriots. He was born in Charleston, S.C., and died on his plantation near that place Dec. 8, 1792. His will, which he requested to be opened and read the next day after his death, was supplemented with the following:

"I solemnly enjoin it upon my son, as an indispensable duty, that as soon as he conveniently can after my decease, he cause my body to be wrapped in 12 yards of tow cloth, and burned until it is entirely consumed."

The request was carried out to the letter and was the beginning of cremation in America.

Saskatchewan Butter

Shipment Sent to England Meets With Favorable Reception

Two cars of Saskatchewan creamery butter, which was sent to one of the large British produce houses in England some weeks ago met with a favorable reception on the English market, according to reports received by the Provincial Department of Agriculture. This was the first shipment made direct from Saskatchewan to a British firm under Government grade certificate this year.

Saskatchewan is rapidly forging ahead in an endeavor to become the premier dairy province of the Dominion. Thirty-four of the fifty-five creameries operating in the province are equipped with mechanical refrigerator plants and an aggregate refrigeration space of 1,859,070 cubic feet.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent. air and 6 per cent. common kerosene (coal-oil).

The inventor, T. V. Johnson, 579 McDermot Ave., Winnipeg, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

Who Helped the Turks?

Turkey was crushingly defeated in the world war and exhausted by it. Without money or credit it was not believed that it would be possible for her to make war. But make war she did, and with terrible effectiveness. Those who enabled her to do so must stand convicted before the world as in part responsible for the awful fate of Smyrna.—Indianapolis News.

Protecting the Caliphate

Reasons For Stand Taken By Britain To Keep Straits Open

The old traditional policy of Great Britain in the Near East has three justifications, or as its enemies would say, excuses. The first and greatest was fear of Russia. As things were then, possibly as they are now, if the Turks did not control the Bosphorus the Russians must, with the possibilities of a desperate flank attack upon the pathway to India. The Crimean war was fought upon this issue and Disraeli brought Britain to the verge of war over it before the Berlin conference.

The other justifications were the keeping open of the Straits and the protection of the Caliphate as a sacred Mohommedan institution possessed of vast religious influence over a large portion of the British Empire. It was Gladstone who maintained that this policy of supporting a government so cruel, decadent and corrupt as that of Turkey was carried out at too great a moral expense for any material advantages it might offer. He preached something like a holy war against the Turk, and the echoes of his eloquence are not done reverberating yet.

However much conditions may have been changed since the Russian revolution and the Great War, it remains essential to the British Empire to keep the Straits open and to protect the Caliphate.—Winnipeg Tribune.

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day it is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Manitoba's Big Crop

Conservative Estimates Place Wheat Acreage at 3,250,000 Acres

The value of wheat, oats and barley produced in the province of Manitoba this year is estimated at $106,712,920, according to Government officials. Conservative estimates place the wheat acreage in the province at 3,250,000 acres, barley 1,044,000 acres and oats 2,250,000 acres, while the yields are 67,000,000 bushels, 35,496,000 bushels and 101,280,000 bushels, respectively.

Health cannot be looked for in the child that is subject to worms, because worms destroy health by creating internal disturbances that retard development and cause serious weakness. "DR. FOWLER'S"

Saved The Lives Of Four Children

Diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera, infantum and summer complaint are responsible for more deaths, especially among children, during the summer months than any other form of disease. According to statistics, in the City of Toronto alone, in the past five years out of 1,008 deaths of children, from diarrhoea, 757 died during the four summer months. It therefore behooves every mother to look after her children on the first sign of any looseness of the bowels by using Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, a remedy that has been on the market for the past 77 years, and has been proven to be the best there is.

Mrs. Harold Sellers, Pennfield, N.B., writes:—"Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry saved the lives of four of my children when all other remedies failed. It stopped the vomiting and terrible diarrhoea with which they were troubled. I will always recommend it, and now always have a bottle on hand in case of emergency."

Price, 50c a bottle; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Pleasant Advice

A lesson that small boys have been trying to impress upon their parents for ages is confirmed by a London medical authority. He warns against the habit of getting out of bed suddenly in the mornings. He advises: "Lie awake at least five minutes before arising. Stretch every limb and a few minutes spent in reading is excellent." Occasionally a health specialist prescribes something that can be performed with pleasure.—Vancouver Province.

Political Stage Cleared In Britain For The Coming General Elections

London.—With the swearing in of Rt. Hon. Andrew Bonar Law, the new Premier, and the members of the new Government, a fighting speech by Rt. Hon. David Llayd George, the former Premier, and the issue of a Labor manifesto, political stage is further cleared for the impending general election. The public has now been placed in possession of all the party platforms.

Premier Law is expected to announce an extensive reform of administrative departments with the objects of retrenchment.

This reform probably will affect the ministries of labor and transport, the duties of which may be relegated to other department with a considerable saving in the expense of administration. This, however, can hardly be regarded as a new policy, rather it would be carrying out the recommendations of the Geddes commission and other economy suggestions during the Coalition regime.

In general outlines, however, the platforms of all the parties are known. Perhaps most striking in this connection is the fact that Lloyd George, after some hesitation, joined his voice with the leaders of other parties against socialism and labor. The former Premier thus placed himself in line with Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Churchill on this question, though in a somewhat less pronounced manner. He declares: "Labor is against social order, and we must contest that policy."

He confesses he has no election slogan, and this is characteristic of the manifesto of all the parties with the exception of the Labor party.

Prince Postpones Visit To South Africa

Finds It Impossible to Take Trip This Year

London.—Although the Prince of Wales is anxious to visit South Africa at as early a date as possible, he regrets that it will be impossible during 1923, according to a statement issued by Prince Arthur of Connaught, Governor-General of the Union.

So anxious are the people of South Africa to have a visit from the Prince that reports have been in circulation in the Dominion that His Royal Highness would visit them almost immediately.

Protest Changing Date Of Armistice Day

Veterans Want Celebration Held On Original Date

Ottawa.—A protest against the changing of the date of Armistice Day in Canada was voiced in a resolution passed at a meeting of the Dominion Veterans' Alliance. The resolution urges "that the Government take immediate steps to rectify this change with the expression that such change of date is unpopular throughout Canada and certainly will never be recognized by the men who assisted to bring about that armistice of the day of November 11, 1918." The resolution is being forwarded to the Government.

An act was passed last year, it will be remembered, bringing the Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day holiday together on the first Monday in November. This year the holiday falls on Nov. 6, but war veterans throughout the Dominion are in most cases holding their armistice celebration on the original date, which is the following Saturday, November 11.
