THE CRESTON REVIEW

Vol. XVIII. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1926 No. 33

Canyon City

Mr. Knott and Miss Muriel Knott got back at the end of the week from their three weeks' holiday trip spent at points on the coast, the return being made via the the Okanagan.

Mrs. Currie and Mrs. Humble of Bellvue, Alberta, are Canyon visitors this week, and are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Searle.

Canyon had 12 degrees of frost on Thursday morning last, which put the finishing touch on all garden stuff, and it is feared has done some damage to unpicked apples, particularly the winter varieties.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Waldie of Fernie, who are on a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Wearmouth, spent a few days with Trail friends last week.

There was considerable extra bustle around the school at the first of the week, getting the collection of fruits, vegetables and grain for the Canyon exhibit in the school districts' competition at Creston fair.

The heavy frosts on Thursday and Friday last created a suspicion the winter was just around the corner and a rush has been made to get through with the laying of the pipe on the extension to the Water Users' irrigation system, and the job will likely be completed this week.

Miss Siegel, dramatic reader, made her appearance at the United Church on Tuesday night, and was greeted with a very fine crowd, all of whom appreciated the programme given.

Martin Nelson has taken a log sawing contract with Frank Tompkins at Goatfell, and will be working there for the next few months.

Sirdar

Mrs. Pearson of Columbus, Ohio, was a visitor here on Thursday last, the guest of Mrs. Martin.

Mrs. Loasby was a weekend visitor with relatives at Cranbrook.

Rev. S. Newby will be here for Church of England services on Sunday morning, and attention is directed to the fact that the Sunday school will meet at 9.45, in place of 10 o'clock, as in the past.

Miss Eva Brain, who has been on the staff at the C.P.R. boarding house for almost a year, is taking a holiday, and is on a visit with her mother at Cranbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pascuzzo, who got back from their wedding trip on Friday, were tendered a reception the same evening, which was much enjoyed by all the guests. Dancing was the feature and very fine music was supplied by Jerry Cooper, saxaphone; Charlie Price, Cranbrook, drums; Mr. Talerico, violin, and Carl, piano and accordeon. Refreshments were served at midnight, with dancing continuing until about one o'clock. The young couple were married at Bonners Ferry on September 12th, the bride being Miss Vadne Cooper.

Sam Bysouth of Kuskanook went through on Monday on a business visit at Creston.

Chas. Murphy, C.P.R. general manager of western lines, and C. A. Cotterell, general superintendent, made an official visit to Sirdar one day last week.

Wynndel

Miss Loreen Williams left on Saturday for Calgary, Alberta, where she is attending Normal School.

Wilfrid Mason is at Kaslo helping the apple packing work. He left for that point on Saturday.

Victor Johnson got bach on Saturday from a business visit in Nelson.

Misses Penson, Ringheim and Benedetti got away on Sunday to Boswell, where they will have charge of apple packing work this season.

Miss Severn, teacher of Division 2 Wynndel school, spent the weekend at her home in Proctor.

Oscar Ofner and Arne Andestad returned from Harrop on Tuesday, where they had been erecting a cabin in readiness for their trapping season.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Uri and party motored to Yahk on Saturday, where they were guests at a dance that evening.

A party of Wynndel young people were at Kitchener for the dance in in Hunt's Hall on Saturday night.

E. Foxall and H. F. Packman left on Sunday for Nelson.

The rally day exercises at Wynndel United Church Sunday school on Sunday afternoon were largely attended by both scholars and adults. All the classes had a part in the programme, the feature of which was the giving of the dramatic reading, "The Mansion," by Miss Siegel. This has been the most successful year yet with the Sunday school, which now has a staff of four teachers.

Alice Siding

Robert Moore left a few days ago for Victoria, where he will attend the provincial normal school this term.

Mrs. John Marshall and daughter, Lucy, and Henry Vaness, were Cranbrook visitors at the first of the week, attending the Cox-Vaness marriage on the 27th.

Dr. and Mrs. Wells and family got away at the end of the week on their return to Duncan. Their son, Kenneth, arrived to spend a couple of days with them prior to their leaving Principal Moore is giving the schorlars a holiday today so that all can take a hand in the school sports at the Creseon fall fair.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized at Cranbrook on Monday evening, when Rev. M. S. Blackburn united in marriage Miss Marie E. Vaness of Alice Siding with Albert G. Cox of Cranbrook, the ceremony taking place at the home of the groom in the presence of about 35 invited guests. The bride was given away by her brother, Will Vaness, and wore white silk trimmed with radium lace. The bridesmaid was Miss Lucy Marshall, also of Alice Siding, whose costume was of flowered silk. The groom was supported by his brother, Ray Cox. Immediately after the ceremony the guests sat down to a wedding supper, which was followed by dancing and a most enjoyable evening was spent by all. Mr. and Mrs. Cox received many useful gifts for the new home, while a host of friends will extend best wishes for a long and happy life here, where they will reside on the Vaness ranch, which they have leased for a term of years.

Fall Fair Display Lighter This Year

Just as we go to press (Thursday) afternoon Creston's eighth annual fall fair is officially opened, and will remain open until 5 p.m. today.

The exhibits in all departments is lighter than usual. This, of course, was to be expected in the case of garden vegetables and flowers, all of which were taken in the killing frosts of a week ago, and with the fruit the usual generous exhibit couln hardly be looked for—the bad weather of almost the past month has caused the rancher to lose too much time, which he is now endeavoring to make up with the weather cleared.

The show of boxed fruit, however, is well up to the mark and Messrs. E. C. Hunt of Nelson, and W. A. Middleton of Vernon, who made awards in this class have had their troubles placing the red tickets.

Mrs. Hugh Ross of Nelson and Mrs Rothwell of Wardner placed the awards in the ladies' sections in which there is a fair display, the needlework class attracting considerable outside attention.

The ranch display is a new feature that should be encouraged. This year there is but two entries, but now exhibitors have lost interest in staging vegetable collections for the board of trade cup, the ranch display takes its place to much better advantage.

Wynndel, Canyon, Erickson, and Creston all have entries in the school districts' competition that is even more attractive than a year ago, with first prize likely to go to Wynndel, which school has gone to no end of trouble to collect and stage most everything in fruit, vegetables and cereals.

Due to the busy season the attendance yesterday was below the usual opening day standard, but with the excellent weather that now obtains there should be a large crowd out to-day.

Lister

Mrs. George Chudley got back a few days ago from almost a month's holiday trip, during which she visited friends at several coast points, return via Spokane.

Mr. Wills of Cranbrook was a guest of Col. Lister the past few days, and weather permitted was out trying his luck with the ducks on the flats sloughs.

C. H. Phillips of Kimberley, with his son, Speery, of Vancouver, arrived this week to spend a couple of weeks at the ranch. They are to be joined this week by friends from Victoria for shooting and fishing.

Mrs. Bamford of Nelson is a Lister visitor this week, the guest of Mrs John Bird.

A. R. F. Bernhard of Invermeae, with his friend, Mr. Martin, of the same place, spent a few days at the former's ranch here at the first of the week.

Rev. S. Newby of Creston took Church of England service here on Sunday afternoon, and had quite a good turnout.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Holland (nee Jenie Yerbury) of Kimberley spent part of their honeymoon trip at Lister, guests at the Yerbury home leaving for Kitchener to visit Mrs. McKee on Saturday.

Lister friends will extend heariest congratulations to Mrs. John Johnston on the occasion of her marriage this week to Angus McLeod, who resides near Spokane, and in which city the bride has been living for the past two years. Part of the honeymoon was spent with friends in Creston.

Local and Personal

R. B. Staples, who is located at Vernon as buyer for the Nash-Simington Company, Limited, Calgary, spent the weekend at his home here. At most of the Okanagan warehouses the weather prevailing on the prairie last week had stopped apple shipping almost entirely and the warhouses were stacked so full of McIntosh Reds that there was no room for other varieties.

Almost 100 per cent. attendance was registered by the Sunday school scholars of Trinity United Church at the rally day exercises on Sunday morning, with a very encouraging turnout of parents. Miss E. Arrowsmith, assistand superintendent, presided, and the feature was the reading, "The Selfish Giant," by Miss Siegel. Attendance at Trinity Sunday school is well maintained, and the enrollment is just over 90 with a staff six teachers.

The October meeting of Creston and District Women's Institute is scheduled for Friday afternoon next, October 8th. Those who planted seed potatoes supplied by the Institute are asked to attend so arrangement can be made to make a show of spuds at the provincial potato show next month. Arrangements will be made at this meeting, too, for the usual Armistice week entertainment, and a delegate to the conference at Nelson is also to be chosen.

Messrs. G. Johnson and C. W. Allan were busy on the area to be dyked in the first unit of the Reclama- Company on the flats on Sunday, getting samples of soil which were on Monday forwarded to the office of the Dominion reclamation commissioner of the department of the interior at Calgary. For the first 30 inches down the soil is a rich black and chocalate loam, but below that clay is encountered, which should give a splendid lot dyking material.

R. Randall has closed up his barber shop in the Auditorium, and with Mrs. Randall and son, Dick, left on Monday for Spokane, where they are to reside in future. On Friday night they were guests at a reception given by the choir and congregation of Trinity United Church at which Mr. Randall was presented with a purse of money. They will be missed by Trinity congreation, particularly Mr. Randall whose place in the choir will be hard to fill.

The many admirers of Rev. F. A. Robinson of Toronto, who conducted a two weeks' joint evangelistic campaign in the Presbyterian Church almost three years ago, will be pleased to know he is paying a one-night return visit next Tuesday, Oct. 5th, when he will be at Trinity United Church. Still more interesting will be the appearance with him of his daughter, Miss Grace Robinson, who has just completed a training course in the Moody Bible Institute, and whose musical ability adds much to the attractiveness of the services.

Kitchener

Ed. Merrit, who has been away for some time, returned on Thursday, and is working for the Continental Lumber & Pole Company. He got a royal welcome back to Kitchener.

A. C. McMillan of the Great West Life Assurance Company, Vancouver, was here on a business visit, Thursday.

F. H. Pym, district forester, Cranbrook, and Roy Burch, forestry patrol, Yahk, were Thursday callers.

Will Wickholm was at Canyon for the weekend, on a visit with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Holland of Kimberley were here over the weekend, on a visit with her sister, Mrs. D. McKee.

E. G. Scamon of the Page & Hill Cedar Company, Spokane, was a business visitor here on Thursday. Ed. Sneff of the same firm was a business caller on Friday.

A. LePage left on Monday for Lumberton where he has secured a job and intends remaining for some time. He was popular with Kitchener people, and will be missed by many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. E. McGonegal and daughters, Vera and Hazel, of the McConnell Hotel, were Creston visitors on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Johnson, A. G. Strudwicke and A. LePage motored to Creston on Friday on business, and brought back Misses Mildred Andeen and Clara Hunt for the weekend at their homes here.

Misses Esther Nelson and Edith Geroux were calling on Creston friends on Thursday.

Ludwig Anderson and Will Spence of the Sash & Door Company, made a business trip to Creston on Saturday.

D. McKee is having a visit this week from his mother, who arrived a few days ago from Elko.

T. Lytle and daughter, of Creston, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dan McDonald.

Continental Lumber & Pole Company shipping department is busy shipping out a big order of matched plank, and certainly appreciate the fine weather at present prevailing, which expedites hauling.

Carl Anderson and son, Ludwig, A. LePage, Claud Simpson, Miss Edith Geroux made up a motor party who were at Creston for the picture show on Saturday night.

Mrs. R. Dalboom of Wynndel was a between trains visitor here on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Paulson and Chester Paulson, all of Spokane, spent the latter part of the week here on business call.

The dance held in Hunt's Hall on Saturday night was not as well attended as usual, but at that there was a good crowd out and all enjoyed themselves. Mrs. Lister's orchestra supplied the music. The next dance is on October 9th, and we hope everyone will come.

Tolerance

Some years ago that master craftsman among movie picture directors, D. W. Griffiths, conceived and produced a great spectacular film play under the title "Intolerance." Like other Griffith productions it was not only a wonderful and entertaining picture, but it sought to teach a great lesson. It depicted in a convincing manner the wrongs inflicted upon humanity at different stages of the world's history as a result of the intolerant views held by those in power for the time being.

Unquestionably, with the growth of education and a more widespread enlightenment of people, there is a lessening of bigotry and a larger degree of toleration in the world today than ever before in its history, and, it is a matter of rejoicing to know this spirit is developing. Nevertheless, there is plenty of room for a still greater development of this spirit not only in international relations, but within the bounds of each individual nation.

With another general election pending in Canada it is perhaps timely to urge the necessity for the display of a more tolerant spirit and attitude in matters political. As individuals we may differ on points of constitutional law, but that is no reason why one person or group should denounce those who do not see eye to eye with them as disloyal either to Canada or the Empire. East and West may hold opposite opinions on the subject of the tariff, and both be perfectly honest and sincere in their views, but such difference of opinion surely provides no reason why the West should denounce the East as desirous of bleeding the West white, or for the East to accuse the West as selfish and ready to ruin all Eastern industry. Unity of opinion on such a controversial question is impossible, but it is possible that there be, and there should be, a tolerant attitude and a respect for each other's views.

A spirit of tolerance should characterize the adherents of every religious denomination or sect, yet all too frequently the reverse is true and the narrowest bigotry and bitter intolerance is displayed. In this, however, it is pleasant to note that the old racial and religious antagonisms and intolerance which for so many years in our past history disgraced and disrupted Canada have largely passed away. Today in our own country as well as elsewhere danger seems to lie in the wordy warfare between the Fundamentalists and the Modernists. By all means let there be full discussion and debate. Only so will the full truth be disclosed and established, but in it all let there be charity and tolerance.

It is well to remember that intolerance and bigotry are by no means confined to religion and politics. As Dr. Frank Glenn, head of the University of Wisconsin, and former editor of The Century Magazine, recently pointed out, there are bigots of patriotism, bigots of education, bigots of science, bigots of business, bigots of journalism, bigots of medicine, bigots of theology, bigots of reform. Each and every one of them is dangerous, and every one of them doing real damage to the cause of truth.

There is a very real need still apparent for a constant preaching of the gospel of tolerance; a very real need for combatting the still all too prevalent tendency on the part of many people to adopt an intolerant attitude towards all people and all questions with whom or which they are not in agreement. This "I alone am right, and you are wrong and must therefore be suppressed" attitude is the cause of more heart-burnings and community quarrels than almost any one other thing in our present-day civilization.

Intolerance, nothing else, has split many a village and small town into factions not only to the detriment of each and every individual, but to such an extent that all community spirit and enterprise has been killed. And, after all, it is the most futile and nonsensical of human weaknesses. On the other hand, respect for other people's opinions, the encouragement of a spirit of charitableness, makes for peace, happiness and contentment in the home, for helpful co-operation in community life and effort, and for strength and unity in the nation. Intolerance aims at the suppression of truth, but truth cannot be suppressed. It is mighty and will prevail, and all that intolerance in thought and action can accomplish is to create ill-will and discord and thus retard the onward march of progress and achievement.

Anyway, the man who has no faith in himself is able to realize his own weakness.

Opportunity is an angel in disguise that some people suspect of being a gold-brick peddler.

The early fly that falls into the boarding-house milk pitcher is reasonably sure to find a watery grave.

Wonder Canyon Of Rockies

Trapper and Explorer Finds Gorge That Rivals the Colorado Canyon

A deep mountain canyon, carved almost perpendicularly through a high rocky ridge, a canyon so deep that it is said to rival the world-famous Colorado canyon, has been discovered by Albert Mercer, trapper and explorer, who has returned from a long journey through the little-known wilderness of the Copper River country in British Columbia.

This spring Mercer attempted to penetrate the country of the south fork of the Copper River, a country that has aroused his curiosity. Even though he did not reach his objective, he discovered the canyon and he believes that this find amply rewarded him.

The canyon is from 12 to 15 miles long and from three to four thousand feet deep. It is a paradise for mountain goat, Mercer claims. The canyon, he says, is so rough that wolves and other enemies of the goat cannot penetrate its fastnesses. He saw goats skipping about on points of rocks where a slip would have meant a straight drop of thousands of feet.

The south fork of the Copper River is described as a great grizzly bear country and would be a favored hunting spot if more accessible.

Canada's Enviable Position

Largest Trade Balance Per Capita Of Any Country in the World

Canada now has the largest favorable trade balance per capita of any country in the world. For the fiscal year 1926 Canada's favorable trade balance amounted to $401,134,405, an increase over the previous year of $116,705,299. At the end of March, 1926, Canada's favorable trade balance was almost entirely with the British empire, the amount for the empire being $392,631,842 and for foreign countries only $8,502,563. The unfavorable balance of trade with the United States amounting to $123,970,454 was approximately compensated for by a favorable balance with other foreign countries.

Prolongs State Of War

Occupied Area in Germany is a Thorn in the Flesh

By continued occupation of large areas of the Rhineland, the allies are prolonging the state of war, Chancellor Wilhelm Marx declares.

"So long as this state of war endures, the thorn is bound to remain in the flesh of the German people," he said. "It behooves the rest of the world, if it honestly desires peace, to release the still occupied zones."

The chancellor said he would consider it his task in September to carry on negotiations for Germany's entry to the League of Nations.

Western Farmers Should Receive Higher Prices For Wheat On The Basis Of Protein Content

The protein content of Canadian wheat averages so much above that of wheat from other countries that there should be even more price preference for the Canadian farmer than is now obtained, but it is doubtful whether such recognition will come so long as chemical analysis is not given definite weight in the established standards for wheat grading. Neither United States nor Canadian standards give a recognition to this factor, that results in increased return to the farmer producing extra fine wheat.

Protein content of the wheat constitutes an index of the gluten content in the flour. Flour with high gluten content is more nutritious, absorbs more water, and will make more loaves of bread per barrel. Standards of bread making in Canada and the United States have reached a point where bakers pay close attention to the chemical content of their materials, with the result that they are willing to pay premiums for better flours. When this was first realized, millers were able to pick up odd lots of good quality wheat in a particular grade without paying more than the average price for the particular grade. Now, however, the situation is changed. A recent statement in "Wheat Studies" is to the effect that: "There are great variations in the protein content of wheats of a given grade. Consequently, because of the importance of this factor in millers' requirements, there is commonly a far greater range of prices for wheats of the same grade but of different protein content, than between average prices for adjacent grades."

To a great extent the farmer has failed to profit by this new criterion of wheat values because his wheat is sold almost entirely by standard grades. The dry land farmer who produces under conditions of high cost both because of summerfallowing and frequent loss of crops, is the farmer whose wheat would receive most recognition under this new standard. Recognition of protein content as a factor in grading wheat will do much to aid many of the farmers who are now marginal producers and will also raise the general level of the quality of the wheat produced. In the long run, standardization of a type which gives full credit for quality, benefits both the producer and consumer.

In line with the idea concerning the importance of emphasizing protein content is another suggestion pointing out the advantages of a policy of keeping low grade wheats off the market and using these grades for feed purposes. Not only do low grades have a disproportionately bearish effect upon the market, but they also tend to injure the reputation of the region from which they are derived. Strict maintenance of present standards has gone far to reward quality production, but because of the high quality of our wheat, further refinement of standards in terms of protein content will be particularly advantageous to Canada.

The province of Saskatchewan is particularly interested in this phase of the development of wheat production and marketing. It is a fact—by the way, not sufficiently advertised—that Saskatchewan wheat has the highest protein content of any wheat produced in Canada, and the milling interests of the Dominion have a map showing the particular districts in this province where the high protein wheat is grown. South of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway and west of the Soo Line, produces the largest quantities of this extra high-grade milling wheat. The importance of this to our farmers is not yet realized. By concentrating on quality wheat production and establishing a Saskatchewan inspection system, and placing our wheat on the world's market as Saskatchewan wheat instead of the generalization of the northern numbers, it is possible that immense benefit may accrue to our grain growers, particularly when the Hudson's Bay route is opened up, ensuring our wheat reaching the markets of the world pure and undefiled by low-grade mixtures. It appears that it would be a great mistake for Saskatchewan to regard the present inspection system as final. Under it our wheat producers are suffering a loss for the benefit of the Canadian grain crop as a whole. —Moose Jaw Times.

The Feeding Of Chicks

Feed Containing Cod Liver Oil Found Of Great Benefit

Most satisfactory results are reported at Lennoxville, Que., Dominion experimental station from feeding chicks with a commercial starting feed containing a percentage of cod liver oil. The feed is supposed to be fed dry in open troughs or feeders as an exclusive starting feed for the first two weeks of a chick's life. The superintendent of the station (Mr. J. A. McClary) in his annual report, states that last year almost all the chicks were started on this starter meal and that the results were outstanding in the health of the chicks, there not being a case of leg-weakness or rickets and no toe-picking. Fresh water was always available and sour milk was gradually introduced after the fourth or fifth day, about the eight or tenth day alternate feeds of a good scratch feed was scattered in a litter, which practice was continued until the chicks were around six weeks old, when they were gradually accustomed to coarser grains, self-feeding hoppers being used in preference to hand feeding. Excellent results were obtained from having a home-mixed ration of equal parts of wheat and cracked corn in one compartment of the hopper and a dry mash of bran, middlings, cornmeal and a percentage of beef-meal in another compartment.

Mr. McClary concisely gives this counsel regarding the rearing of chicks: Don't feed until at least 48 hours of age; have sufficient brooder heat to prevent crowding; feed every three hours a little at a time; musty or mouldy food or litter must not be used; supply plenty of fresh water in clean fountains; make all changes in feeding gradually.

Cattle Exports Decline

Cattle exports to the United Kingdom continue to decline heavily in comparison with last year. During the week ended July 15, only 912 head were exported, a reduction in comparison with the corresponding week of 1925 of several hundred head. The total shipments for 1926 up to date are 49,495 head, and for the corresponding period of 1925 47,225 head. At one time the exports of cattle for this year were greater than for 1925 by 10,000 head. Now the increase has dwindled down to less than 2,000 head.

To Dominiate Clover Seed Market

British Columbia To Undertake Extensive Cultivation of Clover

British Columbia sees visions of dominating the Canadian clover seed market as a result of the reclamation project in and around Sumas Lake. This body of water was recently drained by provincial authorities, leaving a valuable tract of land, which will be opened up by a system of roads and offered for sale. In the meantime the government has experimented in growing clover seed, probably of the red variety, though a recent report in the Victoria Times does not specify the particular kind.

A field of 500 acres will be harvested this fall, the yield, it is expected, running around eight bushels per acre. Next season 5,000 acres of government land will be ready to harvest. The provincial minister of agriculture, Hon. E. D. Barrow, confidently expects to make a profit of $100 per acre, and to have enough clover seed next fall to supply the whole domestic market without importing.

Registered Seed

Order Placed In Saskatchewan For About Fifteen Carloads

An inquiry for a quotation of 500 tons of registered Saskatchewan Marquis wheat has been received from a British firm by the Saskatchewan Registered Seed Association. This quantity represents 16,000 bushels, or about 15 carloads, and if filled will be the biggest consignment yet sent from the province. Substantial orders for registered seed, wheat and other grains have been filled by the association for Argentine, United States and Canadian buyers in the last twelve months.

Immigration To Canada

Heavy Increase is Shown in First Four Months of Present Year

A compilation of immigration to Canada for the first four months of the calendar year shows an increase of 81 per cent. over the first four months in 1925. The actual figures are 39,442 in 1926 and 21,776 in 1925. There have been increases in every month of the year ranging from 16 per cent. in January to 132 per cent. in March. For the first four months in questions British immigration increased from 9,319 to 13,925; from the United States from 4,773 to 5,797; and from other countries from 7,679 to 19,722.

Landing Fields In Mid-Ocean Are Proposed By Engineer For Trans-Atlantic Air Line

A trans-Atlantic air line between Atlantic City, N.J., and Plymouth, England; eight 100-acre floating and anchored landing fields fitted with sumptuous hotels in midocean; a fleet of super planes that would carry 25 passengers in addition to baggage; a series of powerful acetylene searchlights that would blaze a trail of light across the Atlantic.

This is the outline of a 30-hour voyage from America to England, as conceived by Howard R. Armstrong, of Philadelphia, chief of the mechanical division of the E. I. Dupont de Nemours Company, of Wilmington, Del.

Armstrong has been flying since he was 11 years old, and he has been working on his seadrome idea for 20 years. If distance is the aim in aviation, Armstrong holds that speed and carrying capacity must be sacrificed. Hence he proposes eight midocean stations where refueling may be effected.

Soon he will display to army and navy officials, representatives of large shipbuilding concerns and experts in the field of commercial aviation, a model of the seadromes and a model of the SS. Majestic on a large pool at his country estate. A blowing apparatus will make the waves on the pool the same, in ratio, as ocean waves. He expects the Majestic to sink and that the seadromes will not be damaged.

Naval men and airmen believe the plan feasible, Mr. Armstrong said. The seadromes would be anchored and, he claims, entirely free from the pitch to which the great liners are subject. The ocean landing fields would cover approximately 111 acres, having a displacement of many thousand tons, 97 per cent. of which would be below the line of wave disturbance. They would contain hotels, fuel storage tanks, food, machine shops and meteorological bureaus.

Market For Cereals

Czecho-Slovakian Trade Pact Would Be Aid To Canada

Should a trade agreement be reached with the Czecho-Slovakian Government, Canada would receive the benefit of a reduction amounting to almost 50 per cent. on her exports of cereals and wheat flour to that country, according to F. V. Kveton, consul-general of the Czecho-Slovakia Republic in Montreal.

The new tariff law passed by the Prague Government imposing duty of $1.68 on wheat, $1.44 on oats and $4.20 on wheat flour per 100 kilos had been suspended until August 13. After that date the consul hoped that Canada would take advantage of the "most favored nation treatment" extended by Czecho-Slovakia. Under such a treaty the duties would be lowered.

No Poison On Apples

Canadian Apples Not Affected By Spraying Methods

Following cabled reports from England of arsenical poisoning from eating imported apples, Dr. Frank T. Shutt, D.Sc., Dominion chemist, produced for analysis 43 samples of authenticated sprayed apples from the chief apple exporting districts of Canada in Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia.

Examination showed that approximately one-half the samples were entirely free from arsenic and the greatest amount found was slightly in excess of one-two-hundredths grain per pound.

At this rate it would require one dozen apples of average size to supply the minimum medical dose and four dozen apples to supply the maximum dose.

Backward In That Respect

A pal in China sends me an amusing yarn about Lord Willingdon, Lord Byng's successor as Governor-General of Canada. His lordship, who has democratic leanings, was asked quite seriously by an eminent Chinese diplomat why the English Government didn't settle its labor disputes with machine guns. "We are a very backward race in that respect," answered Lord Willingdon, "but then in comparison with you we are still a young race, so please don't judge us too harshly."—London Mail.

Green Cabbage Worms

Poison Spray May Be Used As A Remedy

During the late summer and autumn green cabbage worms, which are the caterpillars of the white cabbage butterfly, destroy large numbers of cabbages by riddling the leaves and heads of the plants. The butterfly is very common in gardens, where they can be seen depositing their eggs on the leaves of cauliflowers and turnips in addition to cabbages. Poison spray may be used as a remedy until the heads are half formod. A good non-poisonous remedy is fresh pyrethrum insect powder. One part of the powder should be thoroughly mixed with four parts of cheap flour and kept in a tight vessel for twenty-four hours before using. The mixture may be applied from a duster, sold by seedsmen, or from a cheese cloth bag tied on the end of a short stick, the operator holding the bag over the plants and tapping the stick with a cane held in the other hand as he walks along the rows.

The Keeping Of Eggs

"Guarantize" Process Eggs Found to Have a Better Flavor

A series of experiments conducted over two years has brought out several points, according to the report for 1924 of the Dominion poultry husbandman, relative to the keeping of eggs, among which are: That eggs treated by the "Guarantize" process grade much better when taken out of storage and have a better flavor than those not so treated; that eggs should be stored with the small end down; that freshness has an important bearing upon their keeping qualities; that clean eggs keep better than either dirty or washed eggs, and that cleanliness of flats and fillers is a point that should be observed. The experiments, excepting that referring to the "Guarantize" process were repeated at Charlottetown, Brandon and Agassiz farms and stations.

The Calgary Stampede was unique in Canada, in that it was not professional. The actual cowboys, actual chuck-wagons and work horses from the ranches in the district were the performers. In other words, this stampede is "the real thing" in a ranching territory, where every kind of thrilling sport known in the west is participated in by genuine westerners. It is described as a gigantic celebration, staged on its own grounds, by a western community. There are very few such events in America or even in the world.

Traffic Regulations

Now the heavy hauling season is getting nicely under way may be a good time to direct attention to the fact that earlier in the year some rather stringent regulations were put in effect by the public works departmen: governing the operation of motor driven and oth er vehicles on provincial highways.

For the most part these regula tions are to prevent overloading, with the inevitable destruction of highways that will not stand the wear and tear from too heavily loaded or improperly equipped vehicles. Particular care has been taken to set out exactly what loads may be hauled over certain classes of highways—even to providing that the loading must be evenly done so as to not give more than a specified weight on a single wheel mounted on a certain siz. tire.

The experts of the works depart ment have drawn up schedules to show width and thicknesses of tires that may be used and severe penal ties are provided in case one drives a car with any of the wheels equipped with tires that are brok en or defective in such a manner as to cause additional impact or pounding upon or injury to the surface of the highway.

The carrying capacity of any vehicle shall be that fixed or adver tised by the manufacturer, and the dimensions of a load is set down at 8 feet long, 12½ feet in height, and 20 feet in length, the only exception being in the case of loose hay, where a width up to 10 feet is permitted.

Loads carried, too, are subject to two periods, winter and summer, and according to the class of high way that is being used, these latter being grouped into three clas es: Concrete or macadam, stone or gravel not laid on a cement base, and all highways not included in the foregoing.

A regulation of particular interest in this district is the one provid ing for lights on vehicles, which reads as follows: "Every vehicle other than a motor vehicle or trail er and other than a bicycle shall be equipped with one lamp mount ed in a conspicuous position on the left hand side of the vehicle, approximately over a line joining the front and rear wheels of the vehicle, and showing a white light readily visible from the highway both in front and in rear of the vehicle. During the period from one-half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise such lamp shall be kept lighted whenever the the vehicle is on any highway."

For the most part there is not likely to be any seriona contraven tion of the regulations in this dis trict but as penalties from $10 to $500 are imposbale it would be well for all interested to become familiar with these new traffic laws, which information can be had at the office of the provincial police.

B. C. Penalized

Although Harry Gale's letter of appreciation, which appeared last week, was written just two days after election, it has already been demonstrated that he knew what he was talking about when he wrote, "September 14th was a sorry day for Liberalism in this province, but the days to follow may be more sorry for the province than for the Liberal party."

Confirmation of Mr. Gael's observation came officially at the end of the week with the announce ment of the new King cabinet in which Hon. Dr. King, member for East kootenay, is given the port folio of Soldiers Civil Re-establish ment and Health. In the former cabinet he occupied the position of minister of public works—the mort important cabinet position of them all.

For the life of the present King government public works admins tration will be in the hands of Hon. J. C. Elliott of Middleesex, Ontario, and the reason for his perference is most likely due to the fact that in the voting of September 14th that province increased its Liberal memership in the house from twelve to at least twenty-five, whereas British Columbia thought so little of Liberal policy that it reduced its former Liberal follow ing of three members to a single representative—the member for East Kootenay.

Taking West Kootenay as a whole the transfer of Dr. King to his new work will be particularly regretted, because from the years 1922 to the time of the midsummer exit of the King adminstration, no interior constituency had been more generously considered than West Kootenay.

However, it's an ill wind that blows nobody good, and in this in stance Creston should not lose sight of the fact that in his new sphere of activity the doctor may be in a position to help us get somewhere with the development of the Lister area in which he will be directly interested due to the peculiar loca tion there of quite a number of returned men.

Now that the lands in that area have been given a revaluation that should make them look attractive as to price, some teamwork on the part of the provincial and federal departments of agriculture, with such assistance as the new minister of soldiers civil re establishment can give, should go a long way toward initiating a development policy that will at least put men on the places already developed, and in due course lead to the open ing up of the whole tract owned by the land settlement board.

Back to Liberal Rule

The Mackenzie King govern ment, which triumphed at the polls on September 14th, is again in charge of the big business of runing Canada, the shift from Meighen to King taking place on Saturday.

While probably two thirds of our readers—judging by the vote on the 14th—will not agree with us, we are still of the opinion that the return to power of the Liberal party is the finest thing that could possibly happen, even British Columbia.

The country is particularly for tunate that the adminsitration of affairs will b resumed by practic ally the same lot of adminstrators as were in charge at the end of June. With but two months intermission Hon. J. A. Robb, minister or finance, will be in al most as good position as ever to give Canada a continuance of the practicularly fine budget of 1926, and with portfolios so important to the devlopment of the west held by three ministers from Saskatch ewan, and one each in Alberta and Manitoba, there should be little need for undue loss of sleep by even the most chronic sufferers from preotectionitis.

While it is true the West Koot enay fruit growers have nothing to hope for from a partizan of the W. K. Esling type sitting in the cool shades of opposition, it is well to remember that the making and revising of tariffs is now pretty much out of the direct control of parliament, with the appointmont earlier in the year by the Macken zie King government of a perman ent tariff commissian, headed by a very practical easterner, Geo. P. Graham, with whom is associated two other business men, only one of whom hails from west of the great lakes.

It is further reassuring to know that the matter of fruit duties has already engaged the attention of growers and shippers' organiza tions, and plans are already made to have L. E. Taylor, president of the B.C.F.G.A., appear at the first opportunity before the tariff com mission, and present the British Columbia situation.

In order to inform Mr. Taylor as to what the industry needs various meetings have been held and it seems likely a seasonal tariff with specific regulations for keeping imported fruit out of cold storage, will be asked for—along with the dumping regulations that have hitherto been enforced.

In a statement just given out in this connection the Vernon News says. "It should be made plain, the shippers state, that they are anxious to obtain as wide a distri bution of British Columbia fruits and vegetables as possible, and that they recognize that any at tempt to set too high a price for B. C. products, protected by a season al or any other tariff, would defeat the ends they have in view, name ly, the stimulation to the greatest possible extent of the consumer demand during the season in which the products are available.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

For more detailed information see the Bulletin "How to Pre-empt Land."

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

Local and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Angus McLeod of Spokane were visitors here at the middle of the week, guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Fisher. The couple are on their honeymoon trip, having been married at the first of the week. The bride is Mrs. John Johnston, formerly of Lister, and well known in Valley musical circles.

A meeting to wind up the affairs of the 1926 fall fair will be held early in the week, and at this meeting the directors will also decide whether permission will be given the curling club to put a leanto on the main building for curling rink. If this is done the whole of the main building would then be available for skating.

That 18-inch dahlia in the Jansen garden at Kuskanook was never really entitled to championship mention as the Review had previously seen one from the garden of Mrs. C. O. Rodgers, which was just the even 24 inches in circumference. It was of a delicate mauve shade and a new variety known as the "Millionaire."

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dow were agreeably surprised at the end of the week to have a call from Dr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Anderson of Calgary, Alberta, who were on a motor wedding trip through the Kootenay and the Banff-Windermere road, and spent a couple of days here. Mrs. Anderson is a niece of Mr. Dow's.

"Around the World with the Missionary Society of the Anglican Church" will be the subject of a lantern talk to be given on Monday evening next in the Parish Hall, at 8 o'clock. This gathering is under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. which extends an invitation to all. There will be a collection towards expenses.

The first real luck Creston has had in raffles at outside points was scored by Mrs. Hare, sr., at Nelson at the weekend when she had the good fortune to hold the lucky ticket on a Ford car raffled in connection with the Nelson fair by the Gyro Club of that city. The win is worth $700 credit on the purchase of a new Ford.

Jas. Cook is busy aa present with a 30-foot enlargement to his greenhouse, along with which will go the installation of a modern steam heating plant, his intention being to go extensively into the production of winter vegetables as well as plants and flowers. When the addition is complete he will have an area 75 x 20 feet under glass.

Jimmy Lockhead was a visitor at the fall fair at Bonners Ferry on Friday and Saturday last, taking along his running horse, First Principle, which captured two seconds in the the open events the final day of the fair. Due to his horse being unshod and the track frozen the animal was an unsuccessful competotor in the events of the first day.

The evening service of rally day at Trinity United Church drew an audience that fully occupied the seating capacity and everyone was deeply impressed with Miss Siegel's semi-dramatic presentation of the religious reading "The Mansions." The service was brightened up with the vocal number, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," renedered by W. J. Truscott.

The C.P.R. wrecking crew with steam crane was rushed to Creston early Saturday morning to re-load a car of steel rails that were spilled in the neighborhood of the north end crossing when the flat car on which they were travelling broke with the load. Fortunately the train was slowed down for the run through town otherwise the wreck would have been much worse.

Color Stage for Jonathan Harvest

The quality of an apple is determined largely by the stage of maturity at which it is picked. Fruit which is picked too green fails to develop full flavour while that which is left too long on the trees tends to undergo rapid decay. The Johathan variety in particular must be harvested at just the right time if it is to reach the consumer in prime eating condition. This statement is amply borne out by the results of experiments carried on during the past three years. These results are presented at length in the B.C.F.C.A. report for 1925 and the report of the Summerland Experimental Station for the same year. Nevertheless it seems advisable, at this time, to remind growers of a few facts which may be of assistance to them in harvesting the 1926 crop, writes R. C. Palmer, assistant Superintendent Dominion Expreimental Station, Summerland.

It has been observed that, in the past, losses from breakdown have been most serious in years when the crop has matured earlier than usual. Furthermore it has been found that an early blooming season is commonly followed by an early harvest. In this connection it may be well to remark that, in British Columbia, fruit trees blossomed several weeks earier than usual tuis year. At the present time all indications point to a similar advancement of the harvest season. Accordingly it is logical to expect serious losses from breakdown unless special precautions are taken to pick the fruit at proper time.

Various maturity tests have been tried out in the endeavor to find one which is reliable and at the same time simple enough for the grower to use in the orchard. The most satislactory test which has yet been found is what is known as the "ground colour" test. The ground colour of an apple is the colour of the skin of the unblushed side of the fruit. As an apple ripens this ground colour changes from green to yellow. Jonathans picked when the ground colour is still distinctly green develop poor quality and are susceptible to storage troubles such as shrivelling and scald. On the other hand breakdown is likely to occur in fruit which is left on the trees until the ground colour is clear yellow. Between these two extremes there is a stage of maturity when the ground colour shows just a tinge of green. Jonathans picked at this stage develop good flavour and seldom break down. A simple colour chart has been devised which shows the stage at which Jonathans should be harvested and also the stage at which the fruit is too green and ripe for best results. A number of these charts have been prepared and copies are available for distribution to interested growers and shippers.

There are a number of factors besides maturity which have been found to influence the suceptibility of apples to breakdown. Of those factors size fruit, amount of crop and character of soil are important in connection with the harvesting of the crop. Over large fruit from trees carrying a light crop or from trees growing on heavy soil is more likely to develop breakdown than apples which are smaller in size and firmer in texture. For this reason special care should be taken to pick the fruit early from lightly loaded, heavily thinned and over-vigorour trees, especially in districts where the soil is heavy.

A BROKEN DOWN SYSTEM.

This is a common term for the state to which doctors give many names, but which few of them really understand. It is simply weakness—a breakdown, as it were, of the vital forces that sustain the system. No matter what may be its causes (they are almost numberless), its symptoms are much the same, the more prominent being sleeplessness, sense of prostration or weariness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. Now, what is more to the point, is absolutely essential in all such cases is an reared vitality—vigour, vital strength and energy to throw off these morbid feelings, and as night succeeds the day this may be most certainly secured by a course of

Gandhi Would Reform India

Tells What Measures He Would Take If He Were Emperor

"If I were Emperor of India," Mahatma Gandhi, the great Indian Nationalist idol, states, "I would prohibit the importation of intoxicating liquors and close down every distillery; I would summon the representatives of both Hindus and Moslems, search their pockets and deprive them of all eatables and weapons, and then lock them together in one room and open it only after they had settled their quarrels.

"I would ixtend the hand of fellowship to the whole world, irrespective of caste, color or creed; I would disband the entire army of occupation in India, retaining only enough police to protect the citizens; I would guarantee full protection to every European as well as all honest European enterprises; I would guarantee protection to all forms of religious worship, except that which is repugnant to the moral sense of mankind; I would not bribe the frontier tribes as they are now being bribed, but would cultivate their friendship, and I would impose a prohibitive tariff on all foreign cloth."

The Sea Growing Safer

Use of Wireless Proves of Great Help To Vessels

For the three years from 1922 to 1924 the number of ships posted missing at Lloyds averaged twenty; last year there were only ten. It is believed that this is due to the law which requires all ships of 1,600 tons gross to carry wireless. Of the ten ships missing last year all but one were without wireless; one, lost on the voyage to Amsterdam, was 1,550 tons. If it had had wireless it would almost certainly have been saved. No doubt the law will soon be altered to include smaller vessels. The one ship with wireless that was lost sent out its S.O.S. and many ships rushed to the rescue, but it had disappeared when they reached the spot.

Coolidge May Not Run Again

Senator Cummins Makes Prediction In Interview

That President Coolidge will not be a candidate for re-election in 1928 was one of the predictions made by Senator Albert B. Cummins in an interview.

"One doesn't know that President Coolidge will be a candidate or that he wants to be a candidate. My own prediction is that he will not be a candidate. I think he will have had enough of it by that time. It is an immense task and few men last through it.

"I think Mr. Coolidge has been a very successful president in all but one thing," said the senator, "and that is his policy toward agriculture."

Miller's Worm Powders are a pleasant medicine for worm-infested children, and they will take it without objection. When directions are followed it will not injure the most delicate child, as there is nothing of any injurious nature in its composition. They will speedily rid a child of worms and restore the health of the little sufferers whose vitality has become impaired by the attacks of these internal pests.

British Use Dollar Sign

Dollar signs on goods have appeared for the first time in the shopping districts of London frequented by American tourists. The marks, quite evidently, are London made, as they are very much of the perpendicular variety, and lack the original Yankee twist.

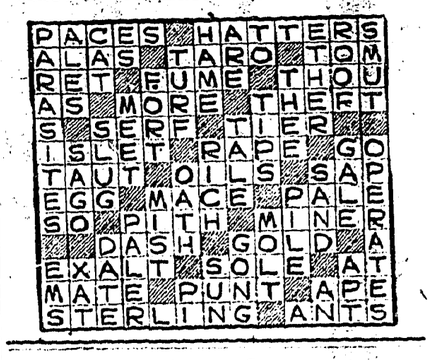
Answer to Last Week's Puzzle



Reunited After Twenty-One Years

A most interesting reunion which took place on the Cunard liner Ascania, docked at Quebec last week, was when Mr. Harold Taylor, well-known buyer for the C.N.R. in Winnipeg came aboard and met his mother, who was one of the passengers. Mrs. Taylor had not seen her son for 21 years. In the picture above Mr. Taylor is shown on the left, while on the mother's left is her grandson, whom she had never seen.

Auxiliary Lungs

Artificial Lungs Provide Air Pilots With Oxygen For High Altitudes

Auxiliary lungs enabling airmen to reach unprecedented heights, are said to have been perfected by a French chemist, M. Garsaux. Th Academy of Science regards the invention as one of the most important to the science of aviation in recent years. Artificial lungs, adjusted to a rheostadt, provide pilots with increasing amount of oxygen as the plane climbs. Experiments have shown that a pilot can stand minimized air pressure corresponding to a climb of 50,000 feet, hitherto unattainable by man.

Strange, Romantic Love Adventures of the Flapper you know!

Joanna

Joanna laughed gaily with him. "Funny things to look forward to, golden weddings, aren't they?" he bantered, looking down at her quizzically.

"Fancy you, now, getting through the marrying stages fast enough to leave time for an anniversary like that!"

"Oh, I shan't be so quick to get married that I'll be likely to change my mind," Joanna retorted.

"Now that's a sensible resolve," Kenilworth agreed. She felt his arm tightening a bit. He was holding her closer than Brandon had, almost as close as her own dancing boys customarily did. She began to wonder much about him. She had thought him old, much too old, but he danced with her and talked to her on the level of easy youth. She had observed earlier in the evening that most of the men around the tables appeared to be much older than their women. But she reflected, they seemed to be men who had a place in life and, so were more worthwhile than inconsequential younger men. And she rather liked the change. Her companion was still talking to her as he swung her deftly in and out among the dancers on the well crowded floor.

"An exquisite flower like you, you and your happy kind—is much more attractive when you're not set on being exclusively worn in one coat lapel. I shouldn't say half the things I really mean if I thought you'd be adding them up into a matrimonial sum. You'll find life is all too short for that sort of thing."

Joanna looked at him queerly. "I ought to saying something to that," she announced, "but I'm not sure just what. "It'll probably come to me in the middle of the night and then I'll know I'm a dumbell."

"I shall supply your comments now, and spare your slumbers," he returned. "I don't like that dumbell! You should say: 'Sit at my feet, sir, and speak freely of pleasant things. They shall enter one ear and depart not from the other!'"

"Your deliveries will have to be better than your samples, or they won't even get into the first ear," she promised him. "I thought we had decided to talk about Yvonne, and the husband. Why did she divorce him, if she had to marry him at all? I've always wondered about such things."

"Our beautiful friend is one who is never comfortable without a thrill," Kenilworth informed her. "A new husband is a thrill, I suppose. As for other reasons for Yvonne's whims, you'll probably find them out for yourself. She has taken a liking to you. I know the signs. She'll probably decide to take you under her wing. You will make an admirable foil for her."

A curious turmoil shot through Joanna's blood. "Yvonne Coutant might take her, Joanna under her wing! The most glittering wings in the world according to her standards. She glanced shyly at the man who was dancing with her. He caught her glance and fathomed it.

"Quite probable, I assure you," he insisted. "And the obligation won't be on your side, you know. You mustn't forget that. It won't be the money. She's collected half of at least two millionaire fortunes already. It'll be Brandon."

"Mr. Brandon? I don't see what you mean."

"Now you've got me gossipping! Oh, well, we're all new friends. You'll play us one against the other, most likely. So I'll start your imagination working. If there is one thing in the world that our charming Yvonne desires, that she hasn't found a way to get, its Brandon, your banker's nephew. And Brandon undoubtedly will be having a try at you. Because any other woman would handle the situation differently I've a mind Yvonne will want to take her newest rival right into her own camp."

He spoke lightly, almost whimsically but Joanna was certain he was serious. And she remembered her impression that the coming of Yvonne and Kenilworth to Brandon's table had been pre-arranged. It made another puzzle that baffled her. She tried to catch Kenilworth off his guard.

"Why are you telling me this?" she flung up at him.

He didn't answer her at once, but smiled, quizzically again, and let his eyes roam over her upturned face. The music stopped, and he guided her to the rim of the dance floor, toward an opening between the tables. Still he had not acknowledged her sudden question. She put her hand on his sleeve and stopped him.

"You haven't told me, you know," she reminded him, standing quite still so that he could not evade her again; "Why you warn me against your—both of your friends."

"For perfectly obvious reasons, my dear girl," Kenilworth said, then, meeting her gaze steadily; "I've suddenly decided to have a try at you myself. Brandon plays his games deep, and I think Yvonne plays her's deeper still. And just now you are the stake. I'm going to play for you, too."

CHAPTER XI.

Joanna Is Invited To Yvonne's

The flush that deepened the hues of Joanna's cheeks, and the wrinkle in her brow, did not escape Yvonne when Kenilworth and the girl returned to the table. Brandon, too, saw, and divided a quick glance between the girl and the man who had been dancing with her. Yvonne, in her fluttering way touched the girl's hand.

"He's been making love to you! I knew it. Was I right? Didn't he begin with your eyes?"

Joanna's frown vanished. In the sheer joy of her closeness to the woman whose exotic beauty and fascinating adventures in a world of hectic romance had made her a celebrity, her trouble over the mystery which confronted her in each new association was quickly charmed away.

"Am I supposed to tell?" she parried, appealing to Kenilworth, who was nonchalantly lighting a gold-tipped cigaret. He answered easily:

"Some day, my dear, you will wear your loves like medals on your breast, for your friends to estimate and your rivals to envy. You may as well begin now, I make my confession. I promised to overwhelm you with my adorations. But you must assure the company that I did not begin by paying you compliments."

"I have heard," Brandon remarked, "that Roddy never compliments a woman. A dozen of his victims have assured me that he declares his love first and then tells them why. His reasons are, therefore, accepted as being truthful statements of fact, and not flatteries. A woman doesn't class what is said of her by a man who is in love with her, as flattery. She believes it to be a just inventory of her perfections."

"Clever, that!" Yvonne declared. "It proves what I've always contended—that a man ought to have a style of his own. It's positively tiresome to listen to most men go sentimental."

"What weary hours you must spend!" Kenilworth exclaimed. "I promise you complete relaxation if you will take a turn on the floor with me. Miss Manners, here, is dying to ask Brandon what sort of a chap I am, and to ask him who you're planning to marry next."

"A cocktail, first," she demanded. A waiter, to whom Kenilworth had entrusted a pair of silver flasks, responded to his signal. Joanna had refused a previous offering and had not been pressed. This time Brandon quietly reached across the table and turned up her glass.

When Yvonne, with a nod to her, had moved away for her dance with Kenilworth, Joanna turned to Brandon eagerly.

"He seemed to read just what I was thinking," she said. "Tell me about him—and Yvonne, too. I never dreamed that some day I would know her. You see she has been one of those interesting people we talk about just to prove that we keep up with the news."

AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Mrs. Dayman Gives Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the Credit

Colborne, Ontario.—"When I was first married I was very thin and weak. The doctor said I was weak and would never be able to have a child, but I did, and from the time my baby came I suffered all the time and doctored and took medicine. Life became a burden, and doctors said an operation could help me, but my husband was opposed to that. I had seen Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine advertised, so I told my husband that I thought I would try it, that I might get some relief.

I had not taken one bottle when I could feel it helping me. I took five bottles and had better health. Now I have three girls and a boy and have done my work up to confinement. I am now at the Change of Life and owe my good health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I take a bottle when I think I need it."—Mrs. SUSAN DAYMAN, R. R. No. 5, Colborne, Ontario.

Large Appetites

Average Person Consumes One Thousand Pounds of Food In A Year

Averaging the small and large eater, it requires 1,000 pounds of food per person to maintain him a year. The average person will eat, in that time, 120 pounds of meat and fish, 378 pounds of breadstuffs, a similar amount of potatoes, vegetables and fruits and some 20 pounds of butter and cheese. There are some 1,600,000,000 people in the world and 100,000,000 of them produce the food for the entire number.

It Testifies for Itself.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil needs no testimonial of its powers other than itself. Whoever tries it for coughs or colds, for cuts or contusions, for sprains or burns, for pains in the limbs or body, will know that the medicine proves itself and needs no guarantee. This shows why this Oil is in general use.

Little Helps For This Week

But why dost thou judge thy brother?—Rom. xiv., 10.

The glance that doth thy neighbor doubt,
Turn thou, O man, within,
And see if it will not bring out
Some unsuspected sin.
To hide from shame the branded brow,
Make broad thy charity,
And judge no man except as thou,
Wouldst have him judge of thee.
—Alice Carey.

Such as everyone is inwardly, so he judgeth outwardly.—Thomas A. Kempis.

What man can judge his neighbor aright, save he whose love makes him refuse to judge him?—George MacDonald.

Power Launch Sinks When Fifteen Seals Climb Aboard

Seals looking for a place to sun themselves are playing havoc with small boats off Santa Monica, Cal.

Attracted to the bay in unusually large numbers by good fishing, the seals have failed to find rocks upon which to sun and so have taken to the small craft anchored a short distance off shore.

A 22-foot power launch sank after fifteen of the animals, many of them weighing more than a human being, climbed aboard. Two other vessels were almost sunk before the seals were driven away.
