Masquerade Ball.

The Young Britons held their anniversary masquerade ball on Thursday last and all who were present voted it a success. The Cumberland hall was artistically decorated for the occasion by the members and when filled with the happy maskers presented such gay ety as has seldom been seen in the city. Generally at a masquerade ball the spectators are the happy witnesses of many incongruities of dress but on this especial occasion there was an absence of that rowdyism of dress which is often marring of a masquerade. The suits on the whole were sufficient to disguise, and keep people guessing. There were also many beautiful dresses and the judges must have experienced much difficulty in choosing the winner.

The following were the prize winners;-

Best Dressed Lady, Miss Murdock.

Best Dressed Gent, Mr, W. H. Harrison.

Prize Waltz, Mrs. Woods.
" Mr. H. Grant.

Best National Character, Miss Lillie Grant.

Best Sustained Character, Miss Marian Webster.

Best Sustained Character, Mr. W. Woodhus.

Best Hobo, Mr. H. Grant.

Best Clown, Mr. L. Piket.

Cake Walk, Miss Carrie Piket and Mr. Andrew Gibson.

Most Comical Lady, Miss Henry Bates.

Best Topsy, Master Willie Cessford.

The attendance shows the popularity of the Y. B's especially among the younger folks in the city for youth and beauty was there in all its supremacy and grandeur and the members have every reason to shake hands with themselves on the financial and social success of the event, and those present who, if not in words, in thoughts and actions voted the young men royal entertainers.

An Entertainment.

A Musical and Dramatic Entertainment.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of Holy Trinity Church an entertainment will be held in the Cumberland Hall on Thursday November 7th. It will consist of the Operetta "Beauty and the Beast," "Clever Daddy" character songs, music, etc. Admission 25 cents, Reserved Seats 50 cents. Tickets for sale at Peacey's Drug Store. Doors open at 7.30 Commence at 8 p. m.

PAINTING OF McBRIDE.

Mr. C. S. Hatch, artist of Winnipeg, who is now in Victoria, has received a commission to paint McBride as he is on a three quarter life size oil painting, the painting to be presented to him at the opening of the Legislature in January.

RATS IN DEMAND.

Rats are worth 50 cents a dozen, dead, in Vancouver. The City Council has decided that these rodents shall die in order to head off the bubonic plague.

First Anniversary.

On Thursday evening in the K. of P. Castle Hall the Pythian Sisters celebrated the first anniversary of their Temple in a manner which does credit to them as entertainers, and a society, A grand spread, fit for a king and his bride was enjoyed. After this a most excellent programme of songs and speeches whiled away the pleasant hours and formed a most attractive part of the evening's entertainment.

Benevolence Temple, No. 9 was formed one year ago with a large membership which has increased during the year. Grand Chief Mrs. Neave of Silver Leaf Temple Nanaimo, was present and spoke on the principals of the Order—Purity, Love, Fidelity and Equality and congratulated the Sisters of Benevolence Temple on such a healthy membership, and complimented the members upon the excellent work they were doing.

Benevolence Temple is the only woman's Society in the city and during the past year its members have been very active in building up the membership and strengthening the Order by making the members more proficient in their work, thus giving the Temple a foundation of stability that will make its influence felt in the community.

District Deputy Grand Organizer Baele of the Flatfoot Society paid a fraternal visit to Cumberland last week. On his arrival here he found no candidates ready for initiation, all applicants having been "blackballed" at a previous meeting. He continued his fraternal trip to Comox on Saturday where the work was conferred on several candidates and they were received into the fellowship With due ceremony and eclat the candidates are now able to give all the signs and appreciate the privileges of the society.

The society was organized at Campbell River some months ago where the president resides knowing that the good work is being successfully carried on by the Most Worthy Grand Organizer. The society is now some two hundred strong, with a very strong branch in Cumberland.

New Store in Town.

It was not likely that the present good times in this camp during the past few months would not see some new businesses open up in the city. Only a couple of weeks ago we announced the opening of a new and up-to-date millinery establishment in the city. Now it is our duty and pleasure to announce the branching out in business of Ald. McLeod. During the time he has been in business here he has made many friends who will be pleased to know that next Pay-Day he intends to have opened out and ready for business a fine line of the Right Sort of Boots and Shoes, and a fine line of Gents Furnishings and is inviting your inspection.

There is one thing the News is able to say and that is if he has his plans as well matured as the publicity department he will make a success of his new adventure. A good start is half the battle and we call attention to his new ad.

10 Feet Wider.

Decision of Navy Department at Washington—Work on Locks Proceeds.

One hundred and ten feet is the width which the navy department has finally fixed upon as desirable for the locks for the projected Panama canal. This is an increase of ten feet in width over the plans on which the commission is now working. Work on the designs for the lock gates and sluicedays is advancing steadily.

Hitch your business to an advertisement in the NEWS.

The Daily Scare.

Fire Broke Out in The Palace Hotel—Many Guests Narrowly Escape

Chicago, Nov 2—More than 500 guests of the Palace hotel, Clark street fled from their rooms early today when fire broke out in the basement of the hostelry. The building was filled with smoke and many of the guests had difficulty in reaching the street, and most of them thinly clad sought refuge in the stores near by.

For the information of the parties who wrote us regarding certain business openings in the city we might say that all first-class business houses have advertisements in the NEWS.

New Settlers.

Colony from Russia to be Settled on Shores of Arrow Lake.

A deal has just been completed by Col. Orian Clyde Cullen, travelling manager and diplomatic agent of the Poeple's Guild [Russian Republican Military association], for the purchase of 4,000 acres of land located on the Lower Arrow Lake. This land is to be parcelled out among 22 Circassian families, who are bringing over some of their Arab horses and Angora sheep and goats for brood purposes.

This is the first time in many centuries that large bodies of Circassians have emigrated. They are a mountain people, honest and industrious. If satisfied in this province many thousands of these people will gradually follow the group of families now coming.

Let's have one on "grandpa."

TUESDAY, NOV. 5, 1907

With this issue we make a change which we trust will be only the beginning of a series of changes all with a view of giving our readers a better paper, whether we succeed or no depends very much on our financial support.

Our serial story "The Making of a Successful Wife." Those who have not read the story before, will be able to enjoy it now The story is made up of a series of letters from a father to his only daughter previous to and after marriage. Needless "the old man" knows it all even to the brand of cigars the son-in-law should keep in the house in order to enjoy a good smoke in the evening,

The Making of a Successful Wife

By CASPER S. YOST.

PAPA'S CONSENT.—It's All Right if William Loves You and You Love Him and He's Neither a Dead Beat Nor a Spendthrift, but Has a Good Job and a Little Cash on Hand.

[Copyright, 1906, by Casper S. Yost.]

MY DEAR LITTLE GIRL—I am simply consumed with astonishment. The idea of my daughter, my little sweetheart, thinking of marriage comes to me like a blow from a pile driver, and you know, my dear, that pile drivers hit a pretty hard lick, especially when you aren't looking. I'm away from home so much that it's mighty hard to realize that you are not my baby any more; that it is no longer proper nor dignified to dandle you on my knee—not for me, at least; that your dresses have lengthened downward until they curl around your dainty ankles, and the golden hair that used to hang down your back like a streak of woven sunshine is now done up in a fashionable something or other on top of your head. I forget that you are a young lady, a graduate from a swell seminary, can hammer the piano to make a Paderewski (I'm not sure whether I spell that right or not) sit up and take notice; can embroider dinky little flowers so faithfully that the honeybees come into the windows to suck the corner drug store perfume from their silken centers; can quote Virgil and Tennyson and Browning and other people that I don't understand and don't care to, but am mighty proud that you do; can write and read such erudite papers on the whitherness of the wherefore at the women's club that all the hearers, I am told, are filled with wonder that so much knowledge could be brought together under such a pretty hat. In short, my dear, I forget that my daughter as an up to date young lady is strictly it.

Can hammer the piano.

In me, child, it seems only yesterday that I was reading you fairy stories from a yellow covered linen book and showing you how A was differentiated from B by certain peculiarities of architecture. Don't you remember how you used to hide behind the rosebush by the walk and jump out and frighten me half to death by hollering "Boo!" when I came home in the evening? Don't you remember how you used to climb up into the haymow and slide down with a cry of alarm at the start and a shout of delight at the finish when you landed safely in my arms? Don't you remember—but, pshaw! Of course you don't. You haven't reached the age of memories yet. In your imagination all the beauty and brightness and glory of life are just ahead of you, and you look that way. I pray God that you may always look that way, always see the sunshine a little brighter just beyond until you bask in the light supernal.

The Young Man in the Case.

And now my little girl wants to get married and would like to have papa's consent. Papa's a good deal in the position of the countryman who goes up against the shell game at the circus. The young man in the case is working the shells, and the chances are 100 to 1 against papa. I'm mighty sorry that I don't know him. At least, I don't remember having met him unless he was one of that string of dough faced popinjays that danced around you all the time I was at home last trip and kept me from seeing you when I wanted you all alone. Of all the high collared, turned up trousers dudes I ever saw that bunch was the worst. But, there; maybe he was one of them, and, come to think of it, my judgment was based on the mass.

Up against the shell game.

You say he's the dearest, sweetest, bestest—but, my dear little girl, if Mr. William Jackson Rollins is all that you say he is the morning papers in heaven must be running display advertisements asking for information as to the whereabouts of a lost, strayed or stolen angel. If William fits your description he's got no business down here. His proper job is flitting around the pearly gates shooing away us old sinners who want to break in. But I'm willing to make allowances for superlatives of rhetoric and enthusiasm and consider your prospectus on a 1 per cent basis. Besides, your mother assures me that William is all wool and the proper width, and forty years' experience has taught me that your mother's judgment can be relied on.

Personally I don't think any man that walks—or any that rides in an automobile, for that matter—is good enough for my little girl, but your old daddy's got sense enough to know it's the way of woman to let some good for nothing cuss in trousers carry her off, just as I did your mother, though for the life of me I never could understand what she could see in this bundle of bones to hanker after. The Lord did a mighty good job when he made woman, but it seems to me he might have improved upon Adam a little.

I don't expect to find perfection in William. If he's got a sufficient quantity of good, everyday sense, if he's honest and upright, if he doesn't jump backward when anybody says work, and if he really and truly loves you, I reckon that's all that I can reasonably expect.

He Must Be Saving.

I'm not particular about the size of his bank deposit. Just as an evidence of backbone I hope he's out of debt and has a little money laid by. I would hate to see you married to a deadbeat or a spendthrift. One is a moral and the other is a mental delinquent, and you wouldn't be likely to find happiness with either. But given industry and a disposition to spend a little less than is made and comparative poverty in youth is no great drawback. When I married your mother I had a stout heart, a steady job, my trousseau and $200 in cash. That was all my capital. I have more than that now in cash, but I don't feel as rich as I did then, nor was I in reality. That is a good enough foundation for any youngster to begin married life with, provided, of course, the girl in the case is contented to start with that and be satisfied with what he can provide for her without overstepping his income. So I say that if William is as well fixed as I was I shall have no objection to him on the financial score. But it is mighty important that he have this start. It's mighty embarrassing to a bride to find the tailor's unreceipted bill in the inside pocket of her hubby's wedding coat, and if you discover that William is a little backward in money matters you'll better postpone the joyous ceremony until he can get a move on him.

Embarrassing to a bride.

[illegible] a roll as big as a telegraph pole I wouldn't consider it an insurmountable obstacle. Money is a mighty good thing to have lying around, and I don't know that I would consider it advisable to put a limit on the amount, provided it doesn't pile up around a man's legs so that he can't work. I have taken it for granted, little girl, that you love each other. I don't know why I should, for I am well aware that love is considered to be unfashionable, but I am one of those old fashioned fellows who believe that love is quite essential to happiness in married life and have no patience with those people who hold

Pay Up.

One Man's Selfishness Leads Him to Try to Upset a Privilege of His Fellow Workmen.

The Miners' and Checkweighmen Committee of No. 4 decided at a meeting held sometime ago that some of its delinquent supporters should pay-up or appear before Judge Abrams accordingly some four or five men were given notice to pay within a certain time.

On Saturday evening the committee summoned these men to appear in court to show reason why they were not contributing to the monthly support of checkweighmen.

The case of John Stephenson was first called. H. A. Dillon appeared for Stephenson and P. Phillips Harrison for the Committee.

The examination of several witnesses went to show that Mr. Stephenson had paid his monthly contributions at one time but latterly had not. The migistrate cross-examined to show that the duties of the checkweighmen were in the interests of the miners, that the checkweighmen were recognized by the Company on behalf of the miners, and further that the majority of the miners themselves wished what they deemed their privilege, kept up or they would not be contributing each month.

The examination being over the Captain took up the defense of Stephenson and the walls of the police court re-echoed the objections which poured forth in fluent and convincing argument, the magistrate listening attentively.

Mr. Harrison showed by section 23a that the committee were within their rights in bringing the men into court, and thought the Captain "must be joking" when he stated the committee was not in existence.

The magistrate thought the practice of having checkweighmen was a very good thing for the men as it left little chance of dispute about "lost boxes" but he wanted to be shown positively that the majority of the men are paying before giving his decision but disagreed with the Cap. that the committee should be an incorporate body before they could institute present proceedings.

In the meantime decision was reserved and case adjourned to
