What Has Been Done re. Building by School Board Since August 26th

The regular meeting of the Board of School Trustees was held in the City Hall last Friday evening. A number of interested spectators were present to hear the matter of school building, tenders, etc., discussed, but they went away disappointed, for the Board did not get even the matter of site settled.

A letter was read from the Provincial secretary stating that the initial appropriation for the school—$25,000—had been placed to the credit of Enderby in the treasury and was ready to be drawn upon on architect certificates as it was needed, and urging that the work be proceeded with.

A communication from Superintendent of Education Robinson gave the boundaries of the outlying school district, since the making of a new district out of North Enderby.

A letter from the Department of Health requested the Board to comply with the regulation calling for a report from the health inspector of the school. No local health inspector had yet been appointed in Enderby, and the Board requested Dr. H. W. Keith to submit a statement showing what the cost would be for the carrying out of the new health regulations.

The report of the returning officer showing the result of the recent vote on school building loan by-law and vote on sites submitted by the Board. The loan by law was shown to have carried by a vote of 92 to 5; the Sharpe site to have carried over the Forbes' site by a vote of 65 to 30.

After the passing of the regular accounts, the matter of site was called up by Mr. Fulton, who wanted to know what progress had been made in securing the Sharpe site.

Mr. Pyman said he would not consent to the purchase of the site by the Board until Mr. Sharpe would open, or guarantee to open, Sicamous street through his acreage property to meet the proposed opening of the street through the Teece property, adjoining that of Mr. Sharpe.

Mr. Fulton asked if Mr. Sharpe had been approached on the matter.

Mr. Taylor, in whose hands the matter had been placed at the last meeting of the Board, ten days previous, reported that he had endeavored three times to see Mr. Sharpe since the meeting and had failed. The matter stood as it had been left ten days before.

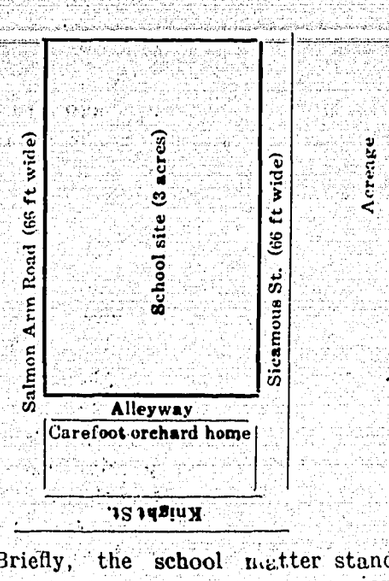
Mr. Fulton wanted to know the reason for these seemingly unnecessary delays. They had spent the summer investigating the matter of sites, had put up the two sites chosen by them as suitable, and had asked the people to make their choice. The vote showed the site preferred, and the matter was settled. He felt the people had all but kicked them into activity in the matter and showed that they wanted them to get busy without any more delays. The extension of Sicamous would have to come when the acreage was opened up. The matter of street should be left to the City to deal with when the plans of the subdivision were submitted to the council for its approval. The streets would have to conform with the city streets or the plans would not be approved. He felt that the other members of the Board were going out of their way to tie up the school project, and wanted to know how long they were prepared to sit still and wait for the street to be opened beyond the school property. The property now has a street on two sides, and there was no question about the street being opened beyond when the acreage properties were subdivided and put on the market. Until that time he did not see any necessity for the extension of the street.

Mr. Taylor agreed with Mr. Pyman. He did not think the school should be built on a blind alley, and felt that the people would not ask them to do it, until the matter of street was settled.

A general discussion followed on the question, which ended nowhere, and the meeting adjourned without going into the matter of tenders or proceedure, the matter being left in Mr. Taylor's hands to learn Mr. Sharpe's position in the matter.

Mr. Sharpe was seen by the Press this week, and states that there need not have been any delay so far as he is concerned. He is prepared to open Sicamous street, full 66 feet wide, the full length of the school property. He would open it beyond if there was any need of it, but as it is all acreage property from this point to the city limits, he did not think he should be asked to fence a street through his acreage until the street is needed. There is not any likelihood of the school being finished in less than a year, and at the present rate of going it may be several years, but he had stated to the Board that he was prepared to enter into an agreement to open the street in two years. At the same time, he realized that he would be placing this acreage on the market as a subdivision soon and would have to open the streets of his subdivision to make them conform with the streets of the city. Mr. Sharpe will open Sicamous street through his acreage by the time the school house is finished, and perhaps before.

Mr. Sharpe roughly sketched a plan of the site and its relation to the acreage property through which Sicamous street will be continued.



Briefly, the school matter stands thus: The government grant of $25,000 is subject to architect's drafts as the work proceeds; the additional grant of $10,000 will be ready by the 1st of April; the city of Enderby has voted the $25,000 loan by-law to provide the city's share of the cost of the building; the site has been chosen by a vote of two to one; Mr. Sharpe has met all conditions brought up by the School Board; the site is satisfactory to School Inspector Denton; tenders have been received for the construction of the building, and all that remains to be done is to sign the papers and proceed with the work.

We understand a meeting of the school board is to be held Thursday morning to finally settle all matters of difference, as well as to award the contract for the erection of the building. While the matter has never been officially announced, it is public talk that the tender of Mayor Ruttan is to be, or has been, accepted. Mayor Ruttan is now home from Fort Fraser, and it seems probable that the whole question will be settled to-day or to-morrow. The months of September and October are usually reckoned as the best in the year for handling foundation work and the system of underdrainage in connection with the building, and this part of the work will probably be undertaken at once. To have it completed before the winter sets in would mean the gain of at least three months in resuming operations in the spring.

ROBINSON—HILL NUPTIALS

A pretty home wedding was celebrated on Wednesday afternoon at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hill, Deep Creek, when their daughter, Miss Ruth A. Hill, became the wife of our energetic young townsman, Mr. Walter Robinson. The Rev. Mr. Brown, of Enderby, officiated. Miss Hayes and brother, cousins of the bride, stood up with the young people. The immediate friends and relatives of the bride and groom, some thirty in number, sat down to the bridal table. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson took the train at Armstrong for a trip to the Arrow Lakes. They will spend a week at Halcyon Hot Springs, returning to Enderby to make their home in the pretty cottage Mr. Robinson has just completed, corner of Mill and Sicamous streets.

ENDERBY TENNIS CLUB

A supplementary general meeting was held in the City Hall last Tuesday evening, at which there was a fairly good attendance. The question of incorporating was once more discussed and was at last disposed of by a resolution being passed that the club should not be incorporated. The call for shares had been very poorly responded to, and in the opinion of the majority the club would not be justified in taking such a step. A further resolution was passed to the effect that the club should be dissolved, although all regretted that this should have to be done. The meeting adjourned sine die.

NEW DROP CURTAIN

The new drop curtain for the Opera House stage was hung this week. It will be seen for the first time to-night by those attending the picture show. The business men of Enderby are well represented, the painting being done by Mr. E. Jamieson, an artist in that line. The curtain makes a very attractive appearance, and adds very much to the general view of the play house. Manager Will Nelson contemplates following this up with stage scenery, wings, etc., and also will paint the exterior of the building.

Blanchard & English are making improvements to the interior of A.E. Maundrell's bakery and ice cream parlor, this week, and C. G. Piper is following up with the paint brush.

The Boy Scout fire brigade is badly in need of three lengths of hose from the city. The boys practice regularly and can now throw a stream as quickly as most of the big teams.

Mrs. Robt. Bailey's condition has been less satisfactory this week, and her daughter, Mrs. Burns, of Carmi, B. C., was called to her bedside. A slight improvement in her condition was reported Wednesday afternoon.

Enderby Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will hold another of their popular At Homes, in K. P. Hall, Friday, Sept. 20th. They invite all their friends to join with them in making this occasion the best ever.

The progressive whist party given in K. of P. Hall last Friday evening by the W. A. was a great success. The games were most heartily enjoyed and the music kindly furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Mann following the refreshments was delightful to all.

Colonel Gee, of London, Eng., organizer and founder of the Lad's Brigade, with a membership of 66,000, will inspect Enderby Troop Boy Scouts, Monday evening, at 7:30 in the Opera House. The general public will be cordially welcomed to see the inspection.

The work of laying drains is being completed this week as far as Russel street on George. Considerable delay has been caused by the slow delivery of the pipes, and this has kept the streets torn up longer than was anticipated. Contractor Russel and Mr Kenny have worked together to give the town a good job.

School Inspector V. L. Denton was in Enderby this week. He inspected the site chosen by the ratepayers for the new school, and was most satisfied with it. Since the government is putting up 60 per cent. of the cost of the building, it is most important to have the government representative satisfied with the people's choice.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Calder, of Hamilton, Ont., are visiting their sister, Mrs. M. A. Wilson, Salmon Arm road. Mrs. Calder is particularly impressed by the excellent and complete stocks of goods carried by the big stores of Enderby. The stocks compare favorably with the stocks of the best houses in the larger eastern cities, she says.

Mr. and Mrs. Coles, some years ago owners of the Hazelmere Farm, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Fortune and other Enderby friends this week. After selling the Hazelmere Farm to Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Waddell, seven years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Coles went to England, where they have since resided. They are now on a pleasure tour of the Province.

The Fulton Hardware Company has made a valuable acquisition to its sale staff, in securing the services of Clarence Opperthouser, late of the N. S. Dalgleish firm, of Kamloops. Mr. Opperthouser is an experienced hardware man, and one with a knowledge of every branch of the business. Mr. and Mrs. Opperthouser and six boys arrived in Enderby last week

Geo. Johnston, an old-time chum of our townsman, Geo. Brown, is on a visit to Enderby this week. Mr. Johnston has spent thirty years in Texas. Water looks good to him. He has strained his eyes looking at the beauty spots on the shores of the sleepy soft-flowing Spallumcheen. He thinks Mr. Brown's cosy home on the river bank is just about ideal. Mr. Johnston recently sold his large sheep ranch holdings in Texas, and is residing with his family in Vancouver which city appeals to him strongly.

SETTLING MABEL LAKE VALLEY

We are in receipt of a communication from a Mabel Lake Valley settler, which, while too lengthy to publish in full, contains many statements going to show the deep-seated desire of these homeseekers to get a chance to cut homes for themselves out of the vast scope of valuable wild land and forest there existing. The writer says in part:

"I must thank you many times for your article in the Enderby Press of a week ago. I do not know anything about the other settlers, if they will thank you for it, but so far as I know they are all of the same opinion. Our opinion is that the Government is squeezing us out of here to form some government syndicate, but instead of there being fewer settlers, there are more and more of them, and there is room for a lot more. You are quite right that the best land is south of the river—many sections of it. If you know any one wanting land, send him to me. I will tell him all about the land, where it lies and almost what kind of land it is. It won't cost a cent, but I want farmers, and farmers prepared to stay in the country. We want to settle this valley, and get schools here for our children. We intend to settle and make our homes here."

This settler has expressed in his own way his honest convictions in the matter. His remarks regarding the government are, of course, without foundation and quite uncalled for. However, they go to show the false impression that has been caused by the tieing up of this district and the continued unsatisfactory conditions existing. That a better understanding of the matter is soon to be given the settlers, we feel sure. The government commissioner, Mr. Maber, is now in the Kamloops district, and efforts are being made to have him visit Enderby, at which time it will be up to the settlers to present their cases before him.

We understand many of the squatters have located upon land which is held by the lumber company under timber licences. What disposition can or will be made of these cases, if any, remains to be seen. The lumber company will no doubt meet each individual demand with its accustomed fairness, at the same time protecting its undisputed rights under the licences. Lands that have been logged are too valuable to be allowed to remain idle and unused, when so many bona-fide settlers are prepared to take them up and assist in the development of the district.

There is another section in the vicinity of Enderby—that lying to the northwest, and known as the Glen Mary settlement, between the Salmon Arm road and Deep Creek—that is of sufficient importance to bring before Commissioner Maber. Mr. Chas. Gardner, who perhaps knows the district as well as anyone in this vicinity, states that there are at least 25 quarter sections in that locality upon which no settler has as yet located. Much of this land is sidehill and valley, is lightly timbered, and it is not covered by any timber licence. The settlers who have had the hardihood to get upon the land and do some clearing and planting, have found the land to be excellent for fruits of all kinds that can be grown in this district. The young orchards, just now bearing their first fruit, look to be as healthy as any in the Okanagan. The development of this section would be a splendid thing for Enderby, and in a short time would no doubt lead to the opening of a short road from Enderby in to Deep Creek valley. These lands were closed to entry some six years or more ago, apparently for no reason whatever. The government surveyors, some years ago, reported that all the land in this district was unfit for settlement, and yet, many settlers went upon the land, and we have the Glen Mary settlement as a consequence, and all are pleased with their holdings and urge others to do likewise.

In this connection, it is well to remember that both the Dominion and the Provincial governments are doing their utmost to get things into shape so as to get settlers upon any land held under timber lease which is fit for agricultural purposes. Mr. R. R. Benedict, of the provincial forest service, has the work in hand. His work embraces all provincial lands held under timber lease throughout the Province. The intention of the government is to have a survey made of the whole province, with the object of having such lands cleared as quickly as possible by the lumber companies so as to make it available for the settler. The officials of the forestry branch are as yet only at the beginning of their work, but already they have got far enough along to estimate roughly that about six billion feet could be cut annually without diminishing the supply. The department has discovered that at present the amount cut is about one billion feet per annum. The quantity therefore can be increased six times with a corresponding increase of the provincial revenue from this source, and this rate of cutting can be kept up forever.

OUR AMERICAN COUSINS

In his reply to the address of welcome presented to him by the citizens of Calgary last week, His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, expressed this thought:

"We are very pleased to have this opportunity of visiting your important city, especially when the Stampede is recalling your early history and the picturesque life of the cattle range, which has now been replaced by a more scientific and more profitable method of stock raising.

"There are around me—I well know—a great number of our American cousins from across the border, who have been drawn here by the numerous attractions presented by the province of Alberta, and I wish to tell them that they are very welcome, and that we readily extend to them the hand of hospitality which they have extended to our young men in the western states during the past.

"The attractions for the settler are ever increasing, for the extension of the railway, milling and trading interests, as well as of the widely-spread irrigation schemes in the vicinity, are affording daily more and more openings to the enterprising, and I trust that this wave of prosperity which has now reached you, may never recede."

We know a great many people in Canada who keep one day in the week holy, and raise hell with everybody during the other six.—Greenwood Ledge.

IN THE GLORIOUS OKANAGAN

"Lady Gay," of Saturday Night, Toronto, recently made a trip into the Okanagan Valley, and of her visit she writes:

"All you who go travelling out there should stop off at Sicamous and go down the lake, if you love the fruit and flowers, humming birds and butterflies, hills and valleys, young growth of orchard and hop-field and vine. It is a land of plenty. To-day I have seen cherry trees bending in ruddy arches, with the rich, ripe fruit, which no one had time to gather, pear trees split asunder with the weight of thousands of fine fruit. I heard them crashing in the still night and saw them prone this morning. What the Okanagan must be like in flowering time one can only imagine, but I fancy it has the valley of Evangeline beaten out of sight.

"Up in the 'ledges,' behind the hills, are ranches and fruit farms which one must explore to appreciate. Charming bungalows, with soft tones of brown and green, or red-roofed; tennis lawns, vivid green, even in late July; riding parties; the men and women so trim and English-smart; motors by the hundred, sometimes driven by a starry-eyed, brown-armed girl, her mignon face framed in a drooping panama, or a fair-haired, blue-eyed, sun-proof lady, with no hat at all. A rich, teeming, abundant life is everywhere, and the graceful hop vines, the fine little fruit trees, the riot of old-fashioned garden flowers, the hen-yards with hosts of busy fowl, and harvest of creamy eggs at forty cents a dozen. The great ranches, such as the "Coldstream," Lord Aberdeen's place, over which I motored to-day, the boy's farm, where the young farmers are toiling grandly to get a great hay crop saved. The pretty little towns along the lake side, the regatta course and stand, and here and there a smart club house and cosy hotel, all these things alternate in my memory with the greetings of kinsmen, and the laughter of the tennis players, as I sit in my little room at Sicamous and think over a great two days in Paradise."

OVERSEAS CLUB AT MARA

In reporting to his home paper, the London Daily Mail, Mr. Evelyn Wrench says of his visit to Mara, in July:

"Our last visit to a branch in the Okanagan Valley was to Mara, where we attended an inaugural banquet of sixty covers. Mara is quite a small settlement, and for this reason our local members deserve the greatest credit for the banquet, held on July 6th. The banquet was also given in honor of Captain Edwards, R. N., and Mrs. Edwards, who are returning to the Old Country.

"Our chairman, Mr. Gordon Davies, made a charming little speech, as did Mr. H. M. Walker, the proprietor of the Enderby Press. Mr. Walker, like so many of my Canadian friends, comes from Ontario, and dwelt upon the urgent necessity of instilling patriotism into the minds of the children in the prairie provinces.

"I wish some of my self-satisfied friends in the Old Country and in Eastern Canada would only study conditions on the spot. Then perhaps they would realise the dangers of this foreign immigration in Western Canada. They seem to forget that 1,300,000 Americans and foreigners have come into the Dominion in the last eleven and a half years. If they wish to study the matter in detail they should read the statistics published by the Department of the Interior at Ottawa. But mere figures are not as valuable as first-hand experience on the spot.

"Canada—especially the prairie provinces—has a great deal to learn from the United States in the matter of instilling patriotism into the young. I would commend this subject to all members of the Overseas Club in Western Canada who ask for something definite to do."

SAFETY OF LIVES AT SEA

As an outcome of the Titanic enquiry instituted by the British government, the Board of Trade of England has issued revised rules for increasing the safety of lives at sea. The rules become effective on January 1, 1913. They provide that ocean-going passenger ships and emigrant steamships and foreign sailing ships carrying passengers, shall be required to furnish life-boat accommodation for all on board, the life-boat equipment which has been included must be in the boats as soon as the ship leaves the harbor and there remain throughout the voyage.

The number of persons to be carried in each boat must be marked on it.

Rt. Hon. Sidney Buxton, president of the Board of Trade, in issuing the new rules makes the statement that it may be necessary to obtain further legislative powers in order to make adequate boat drill compulsory and secure crews to man the boats properly. The rule abrogates that which permits ships with bulkheads to carry a lesser number of boats.

THE man who goes a-travelling needs clothes effective in appearance and suitable to his purpose. Travelling means hard wear. It also necessitates having clothes of impressive quality, so that the wearer may never be handicapped by an appearance open to criticism.

ART OF APPLE PACKING

In order to encourage a knowledge of the art of apple packing, the department of agriculture, Victoria, is conducting competitions at this year fall fairs. These competitions are open to any one who wishes to enter, except that in certain districts the fair managers may, at their discretion, exclude professionals. An entry fee of $1 is charged and the prizes are $15, $10 and $5. The judges are furnished by the department of agriculture. The money for prizes is to be taken from the grant of $27,000 made by the Dominion this year to the Province for agricultural purposes

There will also be at a number of fall fairs fruit-packing contests limited to those who attended the packing schools conducted by the department last winter and who made 75 per cent. or over, at the examinations. There were about 500 of these pupils and nearly all are eligible to enter the competition. The places where contests will be held are Ganges Harbor, Victoria, Vernon, Kelowna, Penticton, Summerland, Nakusp, Armstrong, Kaslo, Nelson, Grand Forks, Creston, Peachland and Keremeos.

Photographer James has put out some very good work since opening his studio in Enderby. He is open for any order in general photography and is also prepared to handle the developing for amateurs on short notice.

ADVANCEMENT OF SCIENCE

The British Association for the Advancement of Science met in Dundee, Scotland, on Sept. 4th, and the most interesting feature of the session was the presidential address by Prof. E. A. Schaefer, of Edinburgh university, which dealt with the nature, origin and maintenance of life. During the course of his address he said:

"We may fairly conclude that all changes in living substances are brought about by ordinary chemical and physical forces."

Speaking of the properties of growth and reproduction, he declared: "They are possessed not alone by living bodied, for inorganic crystals grow and multiply and reproduce their like, given a supply of requisite substance."

Further on, he said: "It has been proved that we can no longer consider such an apparently vital phenomenon as the fertilization of the egg as being the result of living material brought to it, since it is possible to start the process of the division of the cell in the egg and the resulting formation of cells and ultimately of all the tissues and organs, in short, to bring about the development of the whole body, if a simple chemical reaction is substituted for the male element in the process of fertilization.

"We may even hope to see the material which composes the nucleus of cell life prepared by the combination of the proper substances."

In summing up his remarks he said that research "seems to point to the conclusion that the possibility of the production of life—that is, of living material—is not so remote as is generally asserted."

A MODERN MIRACLE

Horrified at the sight of an almost headless corpse, the remains of John Edmonds, who was run over and killed by a train on Tuesday afternoon on Main street, Kamloops, A. Jasiniski, an employee of the Queen's Hotel, a deaf mute, well known to everyone in this city, suddenly regained his speech and hearing, the miracle having been worked, it is supposed by shock, at being confronted suddenly with such a ghastly sight. "Dummy" as he was called, was an eye witness to Edmond's death, and was the first to draw away the coat that the police had placed over the body. In trying to utter a cry of horror, something snapped in his throat and ears and speech and hearing suddenly returned to him after two years of affliction as a deaf mute. Jasiniski, since his marvellous discovery, has been making good use of his tongue and has never stopped talking, and seems as well and intelligent as any one.—Kamloops Standard.

BIG PROFIT FROM TOBACCO

It will be interesting to note, in view of the fact that the land about Enderby is very well adapted to the growth of tobacco, and climatic conditions are ideal for its ripening, what the possibilities are for anyone who will venture its cultivation as a marketable product. The Penticton Herald has this to say of the first tobacco crop raised at Penticton:

"The first tobacco raised in Penticton will be cut to-day, on Major T. E. Naish's ranch. Over 8000 plants set in the beginning of the season, have matured and look clean and healthy; a proof of the possibilities for the industry in this district.

"One acre of land, lying on a gentle sloping ridge, was prepared and the plants set, under directions from Mr. Holman, of the British North American Tobacco Co. Two classes of plants were put in; the Havana and the Spanish Comstock. The former is the best paying, as the leaf can be sold any size at 20 cents per pound, while the latter must have leaves 19 inches long, in order to bring 20 cents. Anything below 15 inches are counted as culls, for which the price is 6 cents per pound. The average crop from an acre of land is 1600 pounds, and the estimated net profit about $200. Beyond the first irrigation; which must be done very thoroughly; no further moisture is necessary, but regular cultivation, every 10 days, must be attended to if the plants are to thrive their best. With proper implements this is not difficult, as the plants are placed two feet apart with three feet between the rows. Profits can be increased if the Bemis planting machine is used, as the acreage covered is as five to one planted by hand."

WILL DRIVE EIGHT MILE TUNNEL

It is understood in well-informed Canadian Pacific circles that the vast improvements involving the double-tracking of the C. P. R. between Calgary and Vancouver to be carried out during the next four years, include the driving of a double-track tunnel a little over eight miles long through the summit of the Selkirks, in order to eliminate the steep grades over Rogers Pass, the scene of many dangerous snowslides. Surveys for the proposed undertaking have been completed by engineering parties working under the direction of Mr. F. F. Busteed, formerly general superintendent of the Pacific division, and now engineer in charge of double-tracking surveys, with headquarters at Kamloops. The proposed tunnel will extend from Bear Creek, east of the summit, to a point west of Glacier station. The cost is estimated at over $1,500,000 per mile. The major portion of the tunnel will have a gradient of one per cent with a central section of a short distance with a gradient of about two per cent.

SPARKLING WATER, cool and sweet, refreshes the farmer who builds a

Concrete Well or Tank

THE FARMER, above all others, appreciates good water. He drinks more water than the city man. The city-dweller is dependent upon the public water-supply for the purity of his water, while the farmer can have his own private source of water, and thus be sure that it is pure and healthful.

MAN hasn't found a better drink than cool water, properly collected and stored. But in order to keep water fresh and pure, a tank or well casing that will keep out every possible impurity must be used.

CONCRETE IS THE IDEAL MATERIAL FOR TANKS AND WELL-CASINGS.

IT is absolutely water-tight, protecting your water from seepage of all kinds. It cannot rot or crumble. It is easily cleaned inside. Time and water, instead of causing it to decay, actually make it stronger.

THERE are scores of other uses for concrete on your farm—on every farm. If you would like to know of them, write for our book, "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete." The book is absolutely free.

OUR Farmers' Information Department will help you to decide how to build anything, from a porch-step to a silo. The service is free—you don't even have to promise to build. When in doubt ask the Information Department.

Lord Strathcona Predicts that Our Dominion will be Pivot of the Empire

The last issue of "Country Life" to hand contains the following article on "The Two Canadas: 1838—1912," by the Right Hon. Lord Strathcona, G. C. M. G., High Commissioner for Canada.

"It is now three-quarters of a century since I first went to Canada, and what a contrast between the Canada of those days and these. My young imagination had been moved by a family connection with John Stewart, the companion of Simon Fraser in his memorable trip of discovery to the Pacific Coast, and afterwards Chief Factor of the Hudson's Bay Company of Lesser Slave Lake. The West, remote as it then was, had also been made familiar to us through relationship with the Great family, who were prominent in the stirring days of the fur trade in Rupert's Land in the early part of the last century, and the offer of a clerkship in the Hudson's Bay Company was not to be refused. At that time the first steamship was preparing to brave the Atlantic, and it took our little sailing ship of eight hundred tons, or thereabouts, 43 days to cross from Aberdeen to Canada, and our vessel was considered a very fast one at that. Last year I was able to leave London, cross the Atlantic and be back in England again in half that time. Moreover, the voyager of to-day passes to and from Canada in ships so well equipped and luxurious as to make the condition of 1838 almost unrecognizable.

"But great as has been the lessening of the Atlantic passage, far greater things are to come. The day must soon arrive when Canada will secure the full advantage of her splendid position on the North American continent, and we shall be able to leave London at noon on one day and arrive in Quebec four and a half days later by steamers as fast and as efficient as any on the high seas, and reach the Pacific Coast in eight days.

"When I first saw Canada there was not a mile of railway in the country; to-day the Canadian half of the continent is threaded by some of the world's most powerful railway systems, and in their wake have followed the abundant blessings of civilization.

"For a general picture of Canada in 1838 we naturally turn to Lord Durham's historic report written in the following year. The condition of Canada was troublous indeed at the opening of Queen Victoria's reign. The land was rent with political discontent and racial feuds. What are now the prosperous provinces of a confederation were petty and warring communities, and the West, the hope of Canada and the Empire, was a wilderness trodden only by the buffalo, the Indian and the trapper. 'I expected,' said Lord Durham, 'to find a contest between a government and a people; I found two nations warring in the bosom of a single state; I found a struggle not of principles but of races.' The industrial condition of the country reflected the gloom of its politics.

"Lord Durham dwells with justice upon the striking contrast then presented between the American and the British sides of the frontier line. In respect to every sign of productive industry, increasing wealth and progressive civilization. On the American side all was activity and bustle. In Lord Durham's words, 'Good houses, warehouses, mills, inns, villages, towns, and even great cities, are almost seen to spring up out of the desert. Every villiage has its schoolhouse and place of public worship. Every town has many of both, with its township buildings, its book stores and probably one or two banks and newspapers; and the cities, with their exchanges, court-houses, and municipal halls, of stone or marble, so new and fresh as to mark the recent existence of the forest where they stand, would be admired in any part of the Old World.' But on the British side of the line, with the exception of a few favored spots, where some approach to American prosperity was apparent, all seemed to Lord Durham waste and desolate. 'There is but one railroad in all British America, and that, running between the St. Lawrence and Lake Champlain, is only 15 miles long.'

"That was the Canada of 1838 as pictured by a great British statesman. To-day the 'bustle and activity' which Lord Durham found so marked a feature on the American side, is the peculiar possession of Canada from sea to sea; what he saw as the 'waste and desolation' on the Canadian side of the boundary is now the home of a united, prosperous and ever-increasing British community, many thousands of whom come from the Republic itself.

"Pessimism and apathy were the prevailing notes of Canadian sentiment in those early days. Seventy years ago there was not a dozen people in the whole country who behaved as if the Canadian West could ever be anything else than a fur-producing wilderness, and there was a general doubt whether a railroad would ever cross the northern half of the continent. When in later years the Canadian Pacific was first spoken of, it was regarded as an idle dream. Even when the contracts were actually let, there were not many who imagined that the road would be completed inside of twenty or thirty years, if ever.

"What do we see to-day? Not one transcontinental road, but three, with innumerable branch lines penetrating a land dotted with the homes of thriving cultivators. When I first saw it, the buffalo roamed over the plains in thousands; to-day men talk without surprise of a production this year of 180,000,000 bushels of wheat of high grade on the prairie alone, to say nothing of the vast output of other produce from farm and factory.

"Winnipeg, the present metropolis of the prairie country, was, when I first saw it, a hamlet containing some 120 white people; to-day it is a city of cosmopolitan characteristics, with a population at the time of the last census of 135,000 people, reckoned among the best of the continent, a city selected a little while ago for the annual meeting of the British Association, and destined before many years to rank among the leading industrial cities of the world. When I saw Vancouver, only twenty-six years ago, its site on Burrard Inlet was just a burnt patch in a wilderness, without one inhabitant settled there; to-day it is a bustling and beautiful city of about 120,000 people with world-wide business associations. Calgary, now the home of 44,000 energetic citizens, stands in one's early recollections as Whiskey Point—a designation due to the quantities of liquor brought there by hasty trappers from across the boundaries. In Edmonton, instead of the desolate Hudson's Bay Company's post of earlier days, we have a great centre of commerce with a population of 25,000 and a university on whose roll many of us may be as proud to be inscribed a Doctor of Laws as when similar honors come from the empire's most ancient seats of learning, Oxford and Cambridge.

"At Saskatoon another university is in the making, for Western Canadians realize full well that it is not by wheat and dollars alone, or even chiefly, that a people are judged, but by the higher possessions which material wealth places within their reach.

"Such instances of Canadian development could be multiplied indefinitely in the East as well as the West. It is an inspiring story of pluck and progress.

"To go through the western land to-day is, indeed, to be lost in amazement at the change of the past few decades and to gain new hope of the future. May many more Englishmen go there to see the work of cultivation for themselves and find how to take their part in it. But great as have been the advances of the past, they are as nothing to the improvements which some of those now living will see in the next seventy years. What the United Kingdom is to-day in population, wealth and power, Canada will be before the close of the present century. The vast lone prairies with their myriads of buffalo—Indians, the hunter and trapper, the Red River cart—they have passed away, and in their place we see thriving homesteads and busy cities, and in them we have promise of a far greater future. We who are of Canada have higher aims than to be mere Dominion. Our Dominion will yet be the pivot of the British Empire, and it is our hope and prayer that it may be an Empire which will ensure peace and liberty throughout the world."

BACK FROM FORT FRASER

Mayor Ruttan returned from Fort Fraser Saturday about midnight. He left Fort Fraser Tuesday noon, by auto. No rain had fallen there in the month of August, and the dust was up to the shoe-tops on the road. At Ashcroft, however, he encountered wet roads, and from Kamloops to Enderby very bad ones. Mayor Ruttan looks hale and hearty, and is enthusiastic about the Fort Fraser country. To the Fort Fraser News, Mayor Ruttan stated in a recent interview that his company's saw mill at Fort Fraser is now sawing 15,000 feet per day, and this will be increased as soon as possibe. When asked if there was any market for this output, he replied, "My, yes; settlers are arriving daily, and as they all want lumber the first thing, we are compelled to allot to each such an amount as we know they are in need of. The plant will have to be increased several times to supply the demand. The owners of the plant, the Dominion Stock and Bond Corporation, Ltd., are delivering lumber to bona fide settlers at cost, and in addition to this, the company has fifty men at work clearing and grading on the Fort Fraser townsite.

"I have a store at Fort Fraser, but owing to the distance from a supply point it is impossible with one team going all the time to keep much of a stock on hand. However, as soon as the iron horse of the Grand Trunk Pacific arrives, and their grade is now only 70 miles distant from the west, these difficulties will be overcome."

Mayor Ruttan was asked what chances a man of limited means would have there. Would he advise anyone to go there to make their home? "Most emphatically yes. Any man, especially young men, who want to get away from a slave earning wage, can go there and make a fortune, if he gets in now before the railroad."

OPTIMISTIC CROP CONDITIONS

A despatch from Winnipeg under of Sept. 7th, says there is a very optimistic feeling throughout the West as a result of the crop situation. In most sections of Manitoba, about 80 per cent of the grain is in the stook. This is about 20 per cent ahead of last year, and ahead of normal years. Threshing is under way in Southern Manitoba, and will commence this week on the Portage Plains and throughout the Brandon district. There is every indication that the yield will be over 125,000,000 bushels, with Saskatchewan's yield double that of Manitoba, according to acreage.

The quality of the new grain received is well up to the standard and everything suggests that in quality and quantity this will be the best year in the history of the West. Mr. Bruce Walker, commissioner of immigration, is reported as saying that 35,000 harvest laborers have been distributed in the prairie provinces and that while 50,000 were required, the situation is being kept in hand by moving the men from points where the harvest is over to the more northerly sections. He thinks, on the whole the labor situation is favorable and about 30 per cent of these men will remain in the West permanently.

Listen! Big Sister's Beau must dress well.

Be careful about the shadow you cast. People will see you.

Dress well; cast a well-shaped shadow; then your "shadows" will fade.

Positions are hunting for those who smile while they work, and feel that they owe it to the firm that hires them to make a good appearance, and worthily, properly represent them.

Buy our ALL-WOOL clothes: you will cast a good shadow; your girl, your wife, your employer, will think more of you; you'll think more of yourself.

A MONEY-GETTING STAMPEDE

The management of the Stampede may be congratulated on the ability with which the affair was organized. It cannot be congratulated, however, either on its demeanor towards the public or its treatment of the public on several occasions. In fact, if there is anything of which Calgary feels a little bit ashamed today it is the management of the Stampede itself. As the days passed, the impression became prevalent, and events appeared to justify it, that those who had the affair actively in charge were out after the money, and did not care much for anything else, as long as they got it. They broke faith with the public on several occasions. They turned thousands of people away from the grounds one day without giving them more than a few minutes' of a show, and without endeavoring to return them their money. They charged an admission fee to see the Calgary Cadets honored by the Governor-General of Canada, thus making a circus spectacle of a public event. Then when they had taken the people's money they excluded them from the inspection.

Last night they got the horse show building jammed with people at so much per head, rushed through a hasty program, and turned their audience out at a quarter to ten in the evening. Towards the press, which has so loyally supported them, the attitude of the management has been arbitrary and discourteous on many occasions. It is the hope of Calgary people that if this performance is repeated another year it will be placed in the hands of those who will see that faith is observed with the public after the public's money is taken as well as before.—Calgary Herald.
