There is likely to be some change in the staff of teachers when school reopens after the holidays. Mr. Calder has accepted a position with the Penticton school, and Miss Campbell is taking a school in one of the western states. There will be one teacher less employel this year, and a 10 per cent reduction in salaries is proposed. The question of a small charge monthly for high-school tuition is also being considered.

Last Wednesday, June 30th, was the last day on which the tax discount was allowed, and the way the money flowed in to the City Treasurer on that day made him forget all about hard times. He collected upwards of $5,000, and on Monday and Tuesday a further amount of $2,000 was paid, which, with the amount already paid to the Bank of Montreal on the demand note, enabled the city to pay back to the bank the full amount of the $9,000 carried over from last year.

Fruitful Life of Beloved Pioneer Ended

Died—At his home near Enderby on Monday morning at 8.30, July 5th, Mr. A. L. Fortune, aged 85 years.

Forty-nine years ago the 15th of June Mr. A. L. Fortune and partner from the Cariboo gold fields, rowed up the Spallumcheen river and landed on the river bank just west of the present site of the commodious pioneer home, overlooking what has since been known as Fortune Meadow—a fine stretch of fertile land. At that time no white man had been seen in this end of the Valley, and the roving Indian bands made life somewhat uncertain. There was something in the atmosphere of the Spallumcheen that was attractive to the then young man, and he decided that he would not look any farther. With a party of venturesome spirits, he had come from Fort Garry (now Winnipeg) to the Cariboo. Not finding what they were looking for in the Cariboo the party broke up, some going here, some there. Mr. Fortune found in the Fortune Meadow the exact spot his heart longed for, and, despite all persuasion on the part of his partner, he located upon this choice section. The early years of his life here were more or less eventful, with the Indians then of a less civilized type, and with tribal troubles frequent and fatal—to the trouble-makers.

Some six years later he returned East and brought Mrs. Fortune out with him, and there on the banks of the Spallumcheen they since have made their home. They had no children to bless their union, and, perhaps because of this, they loved and were loved by the children of others with whom they came in contact. Long before there was a white child in the district, Mr. Fortune was conducting, in conjunction with the Catholic priest, a Sunday school on the Indian reserve, adjoining the Fortune Meadow. Mr. Fortune's work in this direction was a great help to the Indians, and to this day his memory is revered by the Indian men, women and children.

Later, when the white people began to locate in this district, Mr. Fortune held a prominent place in the hearts of all. He was ever on hand to lend his aid to any helpful movement. He was the only magistrate in the district for many years, and to him, as such, many weary wanderer in life's by-ways owes a debt of gratitude for being helped upon the pathway to better things by Mr. Fortune.

As the Christian churches were established in Enderby, Mr. Fortune took up the work in the larger field, where he served, more particularly in connection with the Presbyterian Church, for many years, giving up the work only when his feebleness made it difficult for him to regularly attend.

On June 15th, 1911, a banquet was given to Mr. and Mrs. Fortune by the citizens of Enderby and district, in recognition of the great service they had rendered as the pioneer settlers of the Northern Okanagan. At this banquet there were present pioneers from many parts of the Interior, and on this occasion a costly gift of silverware was presented to the aged couple. On this occasion, too, the banquet hall resounded with praise from men of the old school and men of the new, in honor of the guests of the evening, for their steadfastness to principle coupled with their unselfishness and broad hospitality.

That was four years ago, and even on that occasion Mr. Fortune was able to but feebly respond to all the good things said of him and his good wife. Mr. Fortune's words at that time mirrored more closely than anything that we might say the magnanimity of the man. "I am at a loss to express to you my feelings tonight," said he. "I can only say, thank you, thank you, thank you, friends, for all the esteem you have shown unto us. There are many pioneers in this section who are making their mark, yet they are not banquetted like this. Were I a genius who had given the world some great and good work, or had invented some great machine destined to be of untold benefit to mankind, then such an honor as this could well be understood. But, instead of any of these, here am I, a simple, plain clod-hopper. Just because I have held to the work and love of Jesus—just my duty—you have shown me this honor."

This banquet was given to celebrate the 45th anniversary of the landing of Mr. Fortune on the banks of the Spallumcheen at Fortune Meadows. It was seen then, four years ago, that Mr. Fortune's days with us were numbered, and the Rev. Duncan Campbell conceived the idea that it would be the proper thing to fittingly honor the aged couple while they were still in health and service. It was a magnificent affair, and the citizens of the district have felt better for its having been given. Mr. Fortune's decline since then has been slow, but ever perceptible. Each winter has found him less able to withstand the rigorous climatic changes from summer sunshine to winter's snows. Owing to the unusual mildness of the past winter, he came into spring exceptionally well, and looked forward to at least another summer in the home he loved so well. But this was not to be. For several weeks his condition had gradually become worse—he had no recuperative power. Kind friends were present to administer to his every need. Sunday evening last he insisted that his clothes be placed at his bedside, as he intended to dress himself and "get about" the next morning. But when Monday's morning sun shone upon the emerald green fields of Fortune Meadows the eyes of the beloved pioneer were looking out upon other shores not of the Spallumcheen.

Funeral Services

Mr. Frank Hassard and Mr. Geo. Heggie, close friends of the deceased from pioneer days, took charge of the funeral arrangements, while Mrs. Jaquette, Mrs. Greenhow, Miss Race and other close friends comforted Mrs. Fortune in her greatest of sorrows.

The funeral services were held in the Presbyterian Church, on Wednesday afternoon, July 7, Rev. Mr. Dow and Rev. Mr. Henderson, of Armstrong, officiating. A great number of pioneer friends of the deceased were scattered in the congregation, several auto loads coming from Vernon alone. Every part of the Okanagan district was represented. The pall-bearers were all old-time friends: Messrs. Gus Shubert, Frank Hassard, George Bell, J. M. Wright, Donald Graham, and B. F. Young.

Beautiful floral pieces were piled high in every available place upon and around the casket, and the pew occupied by the deceased when in health was draped, with a tiny spray of white sweet peas pinned at the head rest to denote purity in the life that had been spent. In his remarks on the life of Mr. Fortune Mr. Dow spoke of the great worth he had been to the community, but spoke as one in the dark. And this is not strange. Indeed, it is more to the honor of the speaker and the departed, for, as Mr. Dow explained before proceeding, he knew the departed but a comparatively short time, and could not speak of him as the pioneer. In this connection it should be said, that the eloquence of a Demosthenes would fall flat in attempting an oration on the life of a man of the type of the departed pioneer. It was Mr. Fortune's simple heart-to-heart touch that made him such a power for good. There was not an ounce of eloquence in him unless it was the eloquence of his simplicity, and this, one might grasp by personal touch with the man, but not by speech. Mr. Fortune's life in this community became a part of it; it was not the man: he stood for a principle—of service—and, as the Rev. Mr. Dow put it, it was his fidelity, his gentle courtesy, his thoughtfulness of others that made his simple life loom so large.

Interment took place at the Lansdowne cemetery, where so many of the pioneer days rest beneath the grassy slopes of the hill which long years ago was the playground of the children of the first settlers.

Amongst the old-time friends of the deceased in attendance at the funeral from Valley towns the following were noted: Vernon—Messrs. L. Norris, Hon. Price Ellison, F. B. Jaques, Thos. Crowell, J. Campbell, S. McDonald, A. O. Cochrane, J. A. Mackelvie, S. Smith, S. McCully, Geo. and Hugh Heggie, S. Muir, W. R. Megaw and wife, C. O'Keefe and wife. Armstrong—Mayor Wright, Messrs. Donald Graham, Frank Young, Gus Shubert, Aaron Ford, Sam Reid, Geo. Murry, H. Swanson, T. R. Skelton, W. H. Keary, L. W. Patten, Geo. Parkinson, J. F. Pringle, Alex Crawford, W. T. Marshall and wife, J. Fraser and wife, Wm. Hayhurst. Kelowna—Mayor Jones and party.

LATEST WAR SUMMARY

Stiff fighting on the western front and at the Dardanelles today overshadows in interest the stubborn resistance the Russians are reported to be making against the Teutonic advance in the eastern theatre of war. London military observers are of the belief that the flood tide of the Teutonic rush is passed, and they believe that if the Germans do succeed in hammering their way further toward Warsaw it will be only at the cost of enormous losses. Grand Duke Nicholas' armies are reported to be fighting desperately between the Pruth and the Dneister rivers, and the lengthened lines of German communication are believed to give the Slavs a good chance of success in stemming the Teutonic tide.

Along the western front the Germans are admitted to have gained some French trenches along the Moselle, and about the forest of La Pretre, but this is offset by a British advance which is reported to have hurled the Germans back from their works on the east bank of the Ypres Canal.

Terrific losses for the Turks on the Gallipola Peninsula are claimed in official advices from Sir Ian Hamilton heartening England today, but the jubilation was chastened by veiled admissions that the British losses there have been very heavy as well. Steady progress, however, is claimed, and the consensus of opinion in London is that the Allies at the Dardanelles are doing as well as could be expected.

A special cable to the London Daily Telegraph from Milan, Italy, says that the Italian campaign, according to all indications, is about to enter a new phase, in which a gigantic attack en masse by the Austrian legions will have to be met. "Putting many things together," the correspondent says, "it is plain that Austria and Germany are preparing what they expect to be one of their sledge-hammer blows. With the troops that have been gradually poured south since the beginning of the war with Italy the total of these contingents may not be far from one million."

RED CROSS FUNDS

The following acknowledgment has been received by the secretary of the local Red Cross Society:

Head Office Canadian Red Cross Society, 77 King St., Toronto, July 2, 1915.

Miss Mabel R. Gibbs, Sec. Okanagan Ambulance League, Enderby B.C.

Dear Madam: Replying to your favor of the 27th ult., I beg to acknowledge receipt of your cheque for $100, and herewith hand you an official receipt for the amount.

You are quite correct in saying that money is needed. We are expending thousands of dollars daily for hospital supplies. The number of wounded men has gone far beyond anything we had expected and so far as one can see the end is not near.

On behalf of the Committee I shall be glad if you will thank all those who contributed so generously to the amount that you sent in. We are very proud of the manner in which Canada has responded to the call of the Red Cross, and not by any means least is the work that has been done both in money and materials by the Province of B. C. From all parts of the Province we are receiving contributions and can truthfully say that hardly a mail comes in without a letter enclosing a cheque or a receipt for goods shipped, and the Committee regret that they know of no better way of thanking you than by a mere letter of acknowledgment.

As to your question regarding requirements, I am referring that to the Superintendent of Supplies, as she is more competent to answer it than I am.

Yours very truly,

NOEL G. L. MARSHALL,
Chairman Executive Committee.

JULY 8, 1915

MR. A. L. FORTUNE, PIONEER

The passing of Mr. Fortune takes from the Okanagan a character much loved—a man simple in his goodness, childlike in his fidelity to friend and acquaintance, and a giant in faith in the God over all. Few men have had the opportunities that were his, and none could make greater use of them. Half a century ago he located on the banks of the sleepy, soft-flowing Spallumcheen. With his partner he came by rowboat up the Spallumcheen river, and landed on the identical spot where he has since made his home. He was the first white man to locate here; for some years his only neighbors were the wandering Indians. In the development of the district he always took an active interest, and for one and all he had a word of encouragement and cheer. It is impossible to think of Mr. Fortune in connection with anything that was not helpful to individual and community. He was wise as he was simple in his faith, and, though not of the brilliant type of manhood, he carried under his coat a heart that beat true and loyal to all that was best in the welfare of his fellows and his community and country.

START A SCHOOL GARDEN

Perhaps this is not the time to mention the matter, but any time is better than no time to bring attention to a needed improvement. The Board of School Trustees last year spent some $90 in buying and planting grass seed about the Fortune school, and there were favorable indications looking to a lawn, with the possibility of flower beds and shrubs added later. Today all these indications have flickered out. The school "lawn" is a thing of the past—grown over with weeds, unkempt and untidy.

This should not be. Every school child must have someone's encouragement and help in getting started at gardening. The remarkable successes of vacant-lot garden work in the cities and the club movement among farm boys and girls that have been inaugurated in other places show that once they are started the young people will carry the work on enthusiastically. It is the task of the teacher or parent to help them make the start. Gardening is good training, healthful, and often gives the boy or girl the first incentive to earn money. It is at the same time the most natural and the most logical method of starting the young mind in the thought of self-support. And it does seem to be most unwise and unnatural to see the school grounds going to waste, and the school children so much in deed of training and encouragement along this line.

HOW VAIN THE KNOCKER'S HAMMER

How vain, futile and inept is the Knocker's Hammer! Ten years ago the astute sitters called you silly, absurd—insane, didn't they? They prophesied how long you would last, as their scandal tongues rolled the gossip microbes. Yes, they prophesied your speedy finish. And still you live, and love, and laugh and work! And the Knockers, where are they? Mostly filling knockers' graves. The rest are in hospital, poorhouse and booby-hutch, or polishing park benches and holding up the railway station. They pulled you into their hard-luck story, and their part has all come true. Fear you not, friend,—the fates are on the side of the man who does his work, not with those who look after the affairs that are none of theirs. Take care of the rogue right under your own hat and you will do well.

CONGRATULATIONS, ENDERBY !

When the Bank of Montreal said to the City of Enderby at the commencement of the year 1915, "We will not accommodate you further: you must pay up what you owe the bank before you receive any further accommodation," that institution did a good service. But in taking this stand, it reflected upon the credit and the stability of the town and every ratepayer in it, for the municipality is only the corporation of the individuals in it, and what effects the corporation has a bearing upon every individual property owner. As a result of this policy of the bank, the City of Enderby was given a blow that, under different circumstances, it would have been very difficult to ward off or to overcome. But, to anyone acquainted with the ordinary handling of municipal business, here or elsewhere, the proposition does not present anything that should be permitted to embarrass the municipality in the present or the future. True, with the bank grabbing every dollar that came in from the ratepayers to apply on the $9,000 overdraft, the City could not meet some of its debenture coupons when they were presented, and in this way the credit of the corporation was seriously impaired, temporarily at least. But this impairment will be quickly overcome.

The law of diminishing returns does not rest. Because a thing is good is no reason you cannot get too much of it. Every businessman recognizes the need of retrenchment and conservation in business and municipal affairs at this time. But no businessman can see the wisdom of pushing this policy to the limit where it imperils the credit and business standing of an individual or a community. And when a businessman knows that a certain individual is to have money in at a certain time and cannot get it earlier, he carries that individual up to that time, advancing to him such requirements as are demanded to carry him until harvest time, or his mony comes forward. Taxes cannot be collected until the tax levy is made, and, under the Municipal Act, this levy cannot be made until well along in April or May. Enderby is usually the first town in the Valley to get assessment papers into the hands of its ratepayers. But even with this it is June 1st before taxes for the current year can be paid,and the period of 30 days for cash discount has to be allowed on top of this, which brings us to the end of June before it can be expected that taxes will come in. What is a municipality to do up to this time in order to meet its debenture and other obligations? In past years the Bank of Montreal has carrid the City at the prevailing rate of interest on demand loans. This year the bank refused to do so. And, in addition, it demanded the right to hold fast to every dollar of tax money that came in, whether arrears or current. It can readily be seen, therefore, that the City would have its hands tied in such a way that it could not meet its debenture obligations and current expenses falling due between the 1st of January and June 30th. And this inability should not and must not be allowed to reflect upon the credit of the municipality. That it will not we firmly believe, for, to the credit of the ratepayers, it may be noted that on June 30th they had paid back to the Bank of Montreal $7,000 of the $9,000 demanded, and, by the 5th of July, the entire indebtedness to the bank carried over from 1914 had been cleaned up.

Enderby has been clean and above-board in the matter of its finances. It has endeavored to cover up nothing. It has kept its sinking funds intact and has not touched them to be used for general purposes. It has paid back to the bank every dollar of the demand loan carried over from last year. Can our sister towns who pretend to see so much of peril in Enderby's position say as much ? Can they show as clean a sheet ?

We have before us the balance sheets for 1914 of most of the sister Okanagan municipalities. From these we learn that Vernon carried over from 1914 an open indebtedness to the Bank of Montreal of $61,560, and to sundry persons $45,679; Kelowna carried over a temporary loan from the bank of $23,000; Penticton, $32,660; Summerland, loan and overdraft, $18,480, and Peachland $12,256. The carrying over of these loans does not reflect upon the credit of the various municipalities. We mention the fact only to show that Enderby's case is not an isolated one nor anything out of the ordinary. The fact is that Enderby's position is not and never has been serious, and it is not easy to understand the arbitrary attitude of the bank in dealing with the City. The readiness, almost eagerness, of the ratepayers to clean up the temporary loan which caused the bank so much uneasiness is proof of the contention held by many that the lack of confidence and desire to assist the City was entirely unjustifiable, at least from the point of view of the public. It has been a good lesson, however, and will induce the City to eventually place itself in a position where it cannot again have its credit placed in question by its inability to promptly meet its obligations owing to the changing policy of the banks.

"The Customer is Always Right"

This is the text or motto of a great and famous department store in Chicago. It is an assertion of the customer's place of supremacy in relation between buyer and seller.

Any retailer who slights his customer is committing business suicide. The customer wants those who serve him or her to use the newspaper as a vehicle for their announcements of goods or service.

This is the modern and right idea. Newspaper advertisements give desired business news in the right place and at the right time. To ignore your customer's wishes in this matter is to commit a costly mistake—far more costly than newspaper space.

WILL MAINTAIN BLOCKADE

In a reply to President Wilson's note regarding the long-distance blockade maintained by the Allies against the German coast and neutral shipping to neutral ports, Great Britain's note was made public in the United States last week. In this note it was made clear that the Allies will not deviate from the policy to starve out Germany. The only concession the British government is willing to make to the United States is a further extension of the period in which American importers will be allowed to bring from Europe German goods paid for before March 1st.

It is said that in view of the failure of the British government to promise any material modification of the long-range blockade operations, the President contemplates adopting a more aggressive policy to compel England to desist from barring access to neutral ports, forcing American ships to submit to detention in British ports and seizing food and other goods not contraband destined for the non-combatant population of Germany. These practices of which the United States complains President Wilson holds to be flagrant violations of international law.

In this connection an article in the Review of Reviews for June briefly points out the futility of all the wordy effort of President Wilson. "In its very nature," it says, "war is the denial of rights of all kinds, private and public. When two small nations are at war, it is true that the rights of neutrals are respected. But this is not because the neutrals have rights, but because they have power. When, however, great nations are at war, the rights of neutrals are less likely to be regarded, unless the neutrals have both the power and the disposition to translate their rights into terms of force. * * * War is so desperate a recourse when the foremost powers of the world are engaged in it that what we call "rights" cease to exist, and nothing is likly to be considered except in terms of war power. Germany's plea for invading Belgium was 'necessity.' England's plea for interfering with neutral commerce is of xactly the same kind, and is put upon the same ground. * * * Moreover, in critical times, laws of any sort will fail to operate if there be no strength or power behind their enforcement. Treaties and other arrangements that give support in ordinary times to the body of rules and customs which we call 'international law,' will almost invitably be disregarded when the greater part of the world is at war, and when the remaining part is not strong in the military sense to secure from the belligerents the observance of a rule or a custom that is found to conflict with military necessities."

OUR "SOUR FIGHTERS"

Kipling in a well-known passage describes the fighting qualities of the three races that people the British Isles. The Englishman fights stolidly; the Irishman imaginatively; the Scot dourly. It has been reserved for the overseas race of Britishers to develop a new type of fighting man in touch with the melancholy of the Northern snows and the immense monotony of the western prairies. An English officer who has seen the Canadians in action at the battle of St. Julien called them "sour fighters." The phrase, carved in the quick of swift vision, will live. Our boys are not out for a "lark." To them it is a matter of deadly earnest, of concentrated will, of undeviating duty. Like the Ironsides of Cromwell's army, they have but one aim; the regeneration of the world by blood and iron. Like them, too, when the time comes, they will lay down their arms secure in the consciousness of a duty well done.—Beck's Weekly.

People who are running noxious weed farms will save expenses by harvesting the crop at once. Provincial constables have been instructed to prosecute under the Act.—Slocan Record.

CANADIAN FRUIT TRADE

As showing to some extent how much a good fruit-growing industry means to Canada it is worth while noting the amount of trade formerly done by the countries at war that lies open for cultivation by this country. At the Canadian Fruit Growers' Conference held at Grimsby last September, Mr. J. A. Ruddick, Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner, stated that he had taken a period of five years and that he had found the importation of apples from Germany to Britain varied each year from 5,000 to 14,000 bushel boxes, from Belgium 100,000 to 500,000 boxes, from France 500,000 to 575,000 boxes, and from Portugal from 175,000 to 350,000 boxes. Of pears the importations varied from 4,480 to 56,000 bushel boxes from Germany, from 262,800 to 508,480 boxes from Belgium and from 422,440 to 506,160 boxes from Portugal. Large quantities were also imported from the Netherlands, which may not be available. Mr. Ruddick prognosticated an increased demand for dried and evaporated fruit from Great Britain for use in the army. In 1913 Canada exported of this line to the United Kingdom 121,188 pounds, to Newfoundland 10,899 pounds and Germany 247,802 pounds. Of course the trade with Germany will be cut off, but the exportations should expand in other directions.

BILLIONS IN SPUDS

Although it is recorded that the potato was used as human food more than a thousand years ago, its culture did not extend beyond the boundaries of South America until the middle of the sixteenth century. To Sir Walter Raleigh is credited the introduction of the potato into England, and in 1586 it was definitely known to have been grown in Ireland. Since that time the cultivation of this crop has extended over the civilized globe. So great has the reliance upon it become that when blight occurred in Europe at various times during the past three-quarters of a century, the failure of the crop was attended by serious famine conditions

The potato has acquired a position next to wheat for human consumption in the annual field crops of the world, and enormous quantities are utilized in the arts and for stock food. The world's crop of potatoes exceeds that of wheat by some two billion bushels. Valuing wheat at one dollar and potatoes at fifty cents per bushel, the world's crop in 1912 may be set down at an approximate worth of $3,800,000,000 for wheat and $3,000,000,000 for potatoes. Last year the figures for Canada were, for wheat 161,280,000 bushels, valued at $196,418,000, and for potatoes 85,672,000 bushels, valued at $41,598,000.

Reply to Note will be Favorable

Washington, June28.--Germany's reply to America's second note on the submarine warfare will be conciliatory and favorable to the American position, Ambassador Gerard cabled the state department today. His information is understood to have been obtained in an interview with Foreign Minister Von Jagow. The exact nature of the ambassador's message was not divulged and it did not become known whether he revealed any indication of the trend of the forthcoming German reply. The ambassador's despatch was of sufficient detail, however, to put officials in an optimistic attitude.

HOW TO FIGHT CUT WORMS

Farmers, market gardeners and others who cultivate the soil will be pleased to know that the entomological branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, has issued a 31-page bulletin (No. 40) on 'Cut Worms and Their Control," prepared by Mr. Arthur Gibson, chief assistant entomologist. In the introduction it is stated that cutworms as a class rank in importance with such well-known pests as the San Jose scale, the Codlin moth and the Hessian fly, all of which are among our most destructive insect enemies. There are certainly few insects which, year after year inflict such widespread damage as the various caterpillars known commonly as cutworms. The annual loss occasioned by these insects in Canada amounts to hundreds of thousands of dollars. In the bulletin the methods of controlling cutworms are discussed fully. Under "Preventive Measures" the value of clean cultivation is referred to as well as the placing of bands of tin or paper around plants which are set out. "Remedial Measures" include descriptions of various poisoned baits to destroy the cutworms, directions for the making of proper furrows or ditches to prevent the advance of armies of cutworms, etc. Fifteen common kinds of cutworms are described in popular detail, and much information given on the habits and life-history of the various species. Copies of this new bulletin may be had free of charge on application to the chief of the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture Ottawa.

BORROWING FROM UNCLE SAM

It is reported from New York that negotiations are in progress there between officials of the British treasury and a group of New York bankers headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. for the floatation there of a $100,000,000 war loan. It is said that this may possibly be increased to $300,000,000 if the bonds are well received. Proceeds of this loan will be left in America to be drawn against by the British government in the shape of war supplies purchased in the United States.

A New York despatch states that the Paris branch of the Rothchilds has completed the floating of a $50,000,000 war loan in the United States, at 5 per cent. This sum, like that loaned to Britain, will remain in America for war material.

SUNDAY TRAIN SERVICE

Effective Sunday next, July 11th, there will be increased service in the Okanagan district. The train service between Sicamous and Okanagan Landing will be daily on the present schedule. The steamer Sicamous will be operated daily on Okanagan Lake, northbound leaving Penticton at 5.30 a.m., southbound same as at present. The second boat will leave Gellatly at 5 a.m. and will run northbound daily except Monday, southbound daily except Sunday, leaving Okanagan Landing on arrival of train from the north. The northbound calls on the lake will be divided between the two boats, Kelowna being the only point at which both boats will call.

MAKING LIFE WORTH WHILE

If one poor burdened toiler o'er life's road
Who meets us by the way,
Goes on less conscious of his galling load,
Then life, indeed, does pay.
If we can show one troubled heart the gain
That lies alway in loss,
Why then, we too are paid for all the pain
Of bearing life's hard cross.
If some despondent soul to hope is stirred,
Some sad lip made to smile,
By any act of ours, or any word,
Then life has been worth while.

GERMAN SUBMARINE AND TENDER

Since the German submarines have traveled so far from their base, as much as 3000 miles, many have wondered how they get their supplies. A recent despatch says that the latest type of German underwater craft is 300 feet in length, and can travel 2,500 without replenishing. In some instances they sail with a tender loaded with stores as shown here.

SUNSHINE SERMONS

Cheerful Guidance to a Happier, Healthier Life
By the Philosopher-Physician
GEORGE F. BUTLER, A. M., M. D.

There is no more pitiable wretch than the man who has mortgaged himself, soul and body, to money, in whom the desire to accumulate money has starved every other affection and desire. The poorest of all human beings is the man who is rich in gold, but intellectually and spiritually bankrupt.

Little that is truly noble can be expected from one whose chief object in life is the making of money. Though a man without money is poor, a man with nothing but money is poorer. He may enlarge his premises, but that very night his soul may be called away; and whatever monument with flattering title his heirs may erect over his grave, God shall write his epitaph in one word of four letters—"Fool." That kind of a man makes money his idol, before which he constantly bows down, whereas the thrifty person regards it as a useful instrument, and as a means of promoting his own happiness and the happiness of others.

All the money you get is really only in the nature of a trust fund, which you are in duty bound to use as a steward, to better the condition of life of others as well as yourself, and make men and communities happier and more useful. Wealth cannot purchase pleasures of the highest sort. It is the heart, taste and judgment which determine the happiness of man, and restore him to the highest form of being.. Money cannot buy health, life, love or a happy hereafter. A great fortune is not necessary for the attainment of faith, hope or charity; and he who has these cannot be unhappy.

Twenty Years In Chains

A woman dwarf has been discovered in the Village of Olivet, near Orleans, France, who has been kept chained to a trestle bed for twenty years, by fetters which allowed her to move only three yards. The prisoner's stepmother and a half-brother are responsible for her captivity and are supposed to have acted in this way to have the benefit of an annuity of $140, left to the dwarf by her father. A commercial traveler selling sewing machines, was passing by a lonely barn when he heard groans and, going in, saw, in the gloom, the pathetic figure of the dwarf raising imploring arms to him. He went to the Paris police and next day ten people listened outside the barn and heard the dwarf moan. They then asked the old woman and her son for the stepdaughter, who had not been seen for twenty years. With complete cynicism the pair confessed that she had been chained all the time in the barn.

Board of C nsors Passes Judgment on Picture Reels

In ten months 5,913 reels containing in the neighborhood of 1,000 feet each were examined by the Saskatchewan board of moving picture censors. Of the total 227 reels were rejected as unfit for exhibition, while portions regarded as objectionable have been eliminated from 155. Among the scenes to the representation to which the board of censors has taken exception are such as depict drunkenness, gambling, domestic infidelity, indecency, murder, suicide, insanity, burglary (where the actual theft is shown), cruelty and others to which it has considered there is a moral objection. Such are the grounds upon which, in general, films have been partially or wholly eliminated. The board of censors is organized under the provincial secretary's department. The task which its members undertake is an arduous one. In order that nothing to which they believe exception could be taken shall be allowed to pass, the closest scrutiny must be given to moving pictures which are presented for their censorship during a period of many hours each day, and the work is necessarily carried out at high tension.

There seems to be some misunderstanding in connection with newspaper charges for locals advertising church socials, society teas, ect. It should be understood as a general proposition that in all cases where a charge of admission is made, or refreshments are sold, a charge of 10c a line is made on locals advertising he event. This applies in all cases except Red Cross and similar relief work.

What The Creator Did with the Overs

"When the Creator had made all the good things, there was still some dirty work to do, so He made the beasts and reptiles and poisonous insects, and when He had finished He had some scraps that were too bad to put into the Rattle Snake, the Hyena, the Scorpion and the Skunk, so He put all these together, covered it with suspicion, wrapped it with jealousy, marked it with a yellow streak and called it a KNOCKER.

"This product was so fearful to contemplate that he had to make something to counteract it, so He took a sunbeam and put it in the heart of a child, the brain of a man, wrapped these in civic pride, covered it with brotherly love, gave it a mask of velvet and a grasp of steel, and called it a BOOSTER; made him a lover of fields and flowers and manly sports, a believer in equality and justice, and ever since where these were, mortal man has had the privilege of choosing his associates."

Comprehensive Market Propaganda Prepared by Hon. Martin Burrell

Following the announcement recently appearing in the press that the Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture, had initiated a comprehensive market propaganda in the Live Stock Branch of his department, an explanation respecting the details of that policy will be of interest. The scheme involves:

1. The organization of an intelligence system which shall provide for—

(a) Statistics of annual population and of production. Co-operation with the Census Branch of the department of Trade and Commerce and with the Provincial departments of agriculture in the collection and analysis of statistics of animal population. Gathering current data as to the exact situation in the country respecting breeding and feeding operations, the supply of feed, the condition of stock, when heavy marketing may be expected, the districts from which the largest supplies may be available and the districts in which a shortage exists.

(b) Information regarding the home market. The collection of definite and reliable information regarding market demand in the several provinces of the Dominion, with particular reference to current prices in the leading market centres and to conditions governing interprovincial trade in meats and other live stock products.

(c) Information regarding the foreign market. Through the foreign service of the Department of Trade and Commerce and from such other sources as are available, the gathering of adequate statistics and data to make possible an intelligent interpretation of trade conditions in foreign countries, exporting and importing, with the view of assisting our live stock interests to develop foreign trade, to adjust their operations to the requirement of foreign demand and to take advantage of such outlets as may from time to time appear for the profitable sale of live stock products.

(d) Distributing information to producers. The dissemination to the producers in such an effective way that they may be able intelligently to anticipate market demands, to adjust successfully their operations to the trade situation as developed by local and foreign requirements and to equalize production in the several provinces, thus providing against the alternate gluts and shortages which have in the past invariably tended to upset trade balances and defeat the expectations of the breeders.

2. The organization of farmers for co-operative action in sale of—

(a) Their eggs and poultry. The successful demonstration given in Prince Edward Island of the co-operative sale of eggs suggests the need and wisdom of extending the system now in operation to all provinces in Canada and of its further elaboration as required by varying local conditions and in the development of interprovincial and foreign trade.

(b) Their wool. The policy to be pursued in this work must closely adhere to the principles followed during the past year, but it is hoped that means may be devised which shall secure to the growers the commercial advantages of deferred sale when the market warrants the holding of the product.

(c) Their lambs, hogs and cattle. It is proposed to initiate the co-operative sale of live stock in accordance with the principles followed in the work already undertaken.

It should be made clear that in the prosecution of this program it is not expected or intended to involve the Department of Agriculture in any commercial obligation, the farmers' associations, as a matter of deliberate policy, assuming full and complete responsibility in the transaction of their own business and, ultimately, in the executive administration of their organization.

3. The promotion of sale by grade and payment according to quality. It is widely recognized that the sale of produce on a flat rate basis, for example in the case of hogs, invariably inflicts a penalty on the progresive farmer and in effect provides a premium for low grade goods. Evidence is not wanting that a well directed effort by the department would favorably influence buyers and merchants toward an acceptance of standards and the rating of prices on a basis of market merit. It is the experience of the branch that a movement in this direction is fundamental to any advance which may be made in improving quality and in increasing production.

4. The Co-operation of all interests in the development of our live stock trade. Under a markets policy, the department may usefully endeavor to have itself recognized as a medium for the adjustment of differences between the producer, on one hand, and the packing, transportation and financial interests on the other, and an organization through which co-operation may be effected by these great industrial bodies in building up Canada's agricultural trade.

The markets policy of the Live Stock Branch, operated in accordance with the foregoing outline, will be administered under the immediate direction of Mr. H. S. Arkell, assistant live stock commissioner. The present organization of the branch will be made use of to the fullest extent, the work being carried on through the chiefs of the several divisions.

Couldn't Negotiate the Plaids

An old negro was asked by a colored brother what had killed the pet chameleon that he was in the act of burying. "Well, suh," responded the negro, "dat meelyon jest natcherly killed itself. I put it on a piece of pink goods, an' it done turn pink; I den tried it on a piece of blue stuff, an' he turned blue; den I fotches a piece of green goods an', befo' de Lord, he done turn green. Den I laughed an' says 'I'se got yer now, Mr. Meelyon, an' I puts him on a piece of plaid goods—an' if dat fool meelyon didn't jest bust hisself tryin' to make good."

THE GARDENER'S FRIEND

The toad lives from ten to forty years, and it can lay over 1000 eggs a year. It has lived two years without food, but cannot live long under water. It never takes dead or motionless food. It captures and devours wasps, yellow-jackets, ants, beetles, worms, spiders, snails bugs, grasshoppers, crickets, weevils, caterpillars, moths, etc. In twenty-four hours the toad consumes enough food to fill its stomach four times. A single toad will in three months devour over 10,000 insects. If every ten of these would have done one cent's worth of damage the toad has saved ten dollars. Evidently the toad is a valuable friend of the farmer, gardener, and fruit-grower and can be made especially useful in the greenhouse, garden and berry patch.

Butter Wrapper Parchment

The Dominion law against the selling of butter without the words "Dairy Butter" or "Creamery Butter"—as the case may be—printed on the butter wrap, is a blessing in disguise to the average farmer. In the first place, if his Butter wrappers are neatly printed with his name and the brand of the butter on the label, the storekeepers can readily sell the butter at 5c a pound more than he can get for butter wrapped in paper that is not printed, and the butter-maker gets the advantage in 5c a pound more for his butter from the merchant.

It is the duty of every butter maker to comply with the law in this matter. Some butter makers have only a cow or two, and make so little butter that it does not appear to them that they can afford to have their butter wraps printed. They do not like the idea of having 500 or 1000 butter wraps on hand. To accommodate this class of butter makers, The Press has printed up a quantity of "Custom" Butter Wraps. They are printed with the words "Fresh Dairy Butter" but do not bear the name of the maker. However, these wrappers fill the requirements of the law governing this point, and can be bought in small quantities at the rate of 50c a hundred in 100 or 50 lots. If you do not repuire butter wraps in larger lots, take these wraps in lesser quantities.

Civic Half-Holiday Proclaimed as Mark of Respect to Mr. Fortune

At a special meeting of the City Council Monday evening, Ex-Mayor George Bell appeared before the Council and stated that he had been deputed to inform that body of the death of Mr. A. L. Fortune, which had taken place that morning, and that interment would take place on Wednesday, July 7th, at 2 p.m. The following resolution was thereupon moved by Ald. Grant:

That the Mayor and Aldermen of the Corporation of the City of Enderby have heard with deep regret of the passing away of Mr. A. L. Fortune, the pioneer settler of the Northern Okanagan; and they hereby place on record their appreciation of his worth and long career of usefulness in this community, and tender their respectful sympathy to Mrs. Fortune in her bereavement.

The resolution was seconded by Ald. Faulkner and carried unanimously. The Council further decided to attend the funeral in a body and ordered that the flag of the city hall be flown at half-mast. And His Worship the Mayor proclaimed the afternoon of Wednesday, July 7th, a civic half-holiday, as a mark of respect to the memory of the late Mr. Fortune, and to facilitate attendance at the funeral services.

Aldermen Hartry and Faulkner were appointed a committee to take charge of the arrangements in connection with the Council's attendance at the funeral.

His Worship the Mayor and all members of the Aldermanic board were present. After the reading of the minutes and their adoption, and the formal sealing of a temporary loan by-law, the following resolution was read from the City of North Vancouver, and on motion of Aldermen Dill and Sharpe the resolution was endorsed by the Council:

Resolved, that the attention of the Provincial Legislature be called to the fact that, in municipalities which contemplate holding tax sales, the property of soldiers who have enlisted and gone to the front is liable to be sold for arrears of taxes:

Be it further resolved that a memorial be prepared setting out these facts, signed by the Mayor and City Clerk and forwarded to the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council praying that the lands of all soldiers who enlist and go to the front be protected from and be exempt from sale for arrears of taxes in all municipalities until the end of the war, and for a further period of six months thereafter:

Be it further resolved that copies of this resolution be forwarded to the Councils of all municipalities in British Columbia, with a request that they co-operate with this Council in obtaining the redress here outlined.

The board of works was authorized to have the noxious weeds on the armory property cut before they come to seed.

The clerk was instructed to interview the Bank of Montreal and ascertain whether it would now be possible to obtain an advance to meet the pressing obligations of the City.

JULY FIRST AT ARMSTRONG

Weather conditions were most favorable for the Dominion Day celebration at Armstrong, and our neighbors made every effort to make their visitors enjoy the day. But the celebration spirit was not there, and no amount of preparation or care in carrying out the program could have aroused the old-time enthusiasm which always used to bubble over at Armstrong. It was apparent at all times during the day that to attempt any kind of a celebration under present war conditions is a mistake. The people are not in the spirit. They are too serious. They cannot forget what the boys at the front are doing. And to remember it precludes the possibility of acquiring celebration enthusiasm, even for a day.

Aside from this, Armstrong had a very fair day, though there was not a tenth of the crowd present that was expected. The field sports were pulled off promptly on schedule time, and the sports were interesting. In the foot racing Dean Fravel was the only Enderby runner entering. He walked away with first money in the 100-yard dash and the half-mile.

The lacrosse game between the soldier boys from Vernon and the Armstrong team was won by the latter by a score of 3-7. In this game Bert McQuarrie, of Armstrong, was knocked out in the third quarter by being hit squarely on the nose by the ball direct from the stick of one of the powerful soldier boys throwing for goal. It was the only accident of the day.

In the baseball game between Armstrong and Enderby, the score stood 3-1 in favor of Enderby.

Armstrong's only score was made by Johnston, who hit a three-bagger and crossed the plate on Doc McCullough's single in the second inning.

Enderby layed six eggs before a run was recorded. The Jack La Forge miraculously connected for two bags in the seventh and scored on Patten's single to left.

In the eighth Elmer Black and F. Dill added the scores that won the game. Black put one that was good for two bags high enough over third that Woodward could not stop it and scored on Dean Fravel's drive to centre. F. Dill hit to Steel Fisher who fumbled the ball, and scored on Ed. Dill's teaser to short.

Patten played his usual good game in the box, and his support was errorless. In the Armstrong team, Graham and Woodward put up star ball—Graham in the box and Woodward on third.

The game was not so closely played as the score would indicate. The Enderby boys had many men on bases—in one inning three and in another two, but lacked a pinch-hitter and could not score them.

HAPPY IN THE HOME TOWN

Ex-Mayor George Bell spent a few days in Enderby the past week from Victoria, where he is a member of the City Council, and is prominent in many of the forward movements in the best interest of the Capital City. But Mr. Bell was many years a resident of Enderby, and his heart is here still, inspite of the fact that his business interests are in Victoria. Mr. Bell spent a very pleasant week here, though the last few days were shadowed by gloom in the passing of his old friend and co-worker, Mr. A. L. Fortune.

Mr. Bell knows every nook and corner of the Okanagan, and he is also well acquainted with the coast districts and the interior of the Province. And when he tells you that of all the districts he is in touch with in British Columbia the Enderby-Mara district beats them all, he means it. Mr. Bell is now convinced that we have here ideal conditions for the intensive farmer. He believes if we had five hundred or a thousand milch cows steadily producing, between Enderby and Mara, we would have the most prosperous community in the Province. He sees room here for three or four thousand more families than we now have, and predicts when this day comes that we will have here the most prosperous and contented community in America. His experiences at the coast convince him that the people of the Northern Okanagan have less to complain of than those of any district he knows anything about—and this inspite of the fact that we are not producing a tenth of what the district is capable of even under present conditions of development.

ENGLAND MEETING THE CRISIS

London, July 5.—Germany's formidable offensive in Galicia and Poland is believed in London to portend a desperate effort by the Germanic coalition to win the war before the coming winter. The forces operating against Russia are thought to exceed largely the armies similarly employed in the past, probably totalling not much fewer than 4,000,000 men on a thousand-mile front—men all well trained and abundantly equipped. It is believed that the Germans hope to inflict a crushing defeat on the Czar's armies and thus force Russia to an early peace, then to hurl their whole military strength against France and Italy, preparatory to squaring accounts with Britain.

Here the plan is believed to be dictated by a realization on the part of the Germanic powers that unless they achieve complete victory in the next few months they will be compelled to accept a peace far different in character from the peace they want. Little doubt is entertained in the best-informed circles in London that the Germans are convinced that they must make a thorough success of their general offensive this summer and next fall or abandon it entirely and adopt a strict defensive policy.

Meanwhile the British, French and Italian forces are doing their utmost, first to bring all possible pressure to bear at this time on the common enemy; second, to augment their power, in order to make pressure vastly more effective in the future.

With every day that passes the people of Great Britain are addressing themselves more fully to the task before them. Slowly but surely the whole national thought and energy are finding channels that lead in the direction of scientific and unified prosecution of the war. Rich and poor alike are learning the difficult lesson of close economy. The war loan is being augmented by sums ranging from penny stamps to millions of pounds sterling. Business men, professional men, clerks, shop assistants and boys are making munitions nights and Sundays. Hundreds of thousands of women are clamoring to help and will help, as their sisters in France and Germany are helping those nations. British men in great numbers have held that woman's place is in the home. Today, in this unexpected crisis of liberty, these men find that woman's place may be in the munition factory, and not only there, but in practically every pursuit on which men are capable of laying their hands.

MOTHER AND CHILD DROWNED

Details of the distressing drowning accident which took place at the Hazelmere Ranch last Wednesday afternoon make this the saddest occurrence of the kind ever recorded in the district. Gathered at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Skyrme on the afternoon in question were a number of lady friends with their children. All were enjoying the afternoon on the grassy mead in the shade of the trees on the river bank near the house, the children having a frolic in the back-water of the river. Mrs. Skyrme was some distance away when the children were being grouped in the water to have a picture taken by one of the ladies with a kodak. Little Olive, the eldest daughter of Mrs. Skyrme, nine years of age, backed up in the stream that flows through the "draw." In so doing she stepped off of a ledge into a hole where the water is six feet deep. The child screamed, and instantly there was general confusion. Mrs. Skyrme heard the daughter's cry and intuitively scrambled over the garden fence and ran directly to the water hole. Without waiting an instant she plunged in. The shock of the cold water coupled with the excitement must have stopped all heart action, for she immediately sank below the surface without a struggle. Mr. Skyrme was called from some distance and he, too, plunged into the hole. He was unable to swim and was, himself, drowning when Mrs. Kelly, of Mara, one of the friends present, had the presence of mind to grab him by the head and draw him to the bank, where she held his head out of the water until assistance came and he was raised out and laid upon the bank.

The bodies of the mother and daughter were soon recovered, but both were beyond resuscitation, though Dr. Keith, who was called by phone, was quickly on the spot.

Mr. Skyrme was quickly brought around, though he, too, had a very narrow escape.

Funeral services were held on Friday afternoon from the home, interment taking place at Lansdowne cemetery.

The heartfelt sympathy of the community goes out to Mr. Skyrme and the surviving chilren.

Making a Supreme Effort

Petrograd, July 5.—His advance guards a hundred miles southeast of Warsaw, General Von Mackensen today had concentrated his main force and heaviest guns in the district near Krasnik, Zamosc and Krasnestaw, in Southern Poland, in preparation for a supreme effort to break the Russian line. If successful there, the Russian fortress of Ivangorod will be the Teutons' next objective.

Although admitting that General Irmanoff, commanding the Russians along the Gnila Lipa, had fallen back after rearguard actions, the war office here today professed little fear for Warsaw.
