Geo. Folkard tells The Press that Station Agent Burnham may know a lot about the mosquitoes at Sicamous in his time, but his experience antedates that of Mr. Burnham some years. He says 29 years ago they used to run a yard engine along the track in order to make way through the mosquitoes for the express train.

Mr. A. R. Rogers, of the Okanagan Saw Mills, visited his property here last week, and inspected the company's timber limits on the King Fisher. This is one of the best limits of the company. Logging will be started there this year. It is estimated that between sixty and ninety million feet of logs will be taken from this limit, some of it the finest white pine standing in the interior of the Province.

Some excitement was occasioned on the streets of Enderby Sunday when some soldiers drove into town in a stolen car from Vernon. The local police had been notified, and Constable Patton endeavored to stop the car at the point of his revolver, but the driver shot by him at full speed. The constable fired six shots at the wheels in an effort to puncture the tires, but failed. The motor car was seen at the Fortune crossing by the train crew on the northbound, where the joy riders had left it and taken the railway track in the direction of Vernon. The military police were notified by Constable Bailey and were on the look-out for the auto drivers and captured them as they walked into camp.

LOOKING FOR BUGS

Mr. Tom Wilson, F. R. H. S., Inspector of Indian Orchards, and Mr. Reginald C. Treherne, of the Division of Entomology, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, were in Enderby Wednesday morning, accompanied by Major Megraw, Inspector of Indian Reserves. Mr. Wilson and Major Megraw went to the Salmon River to inspect the Indian orchards there. Mr. Treherne left for Penticton where he is to address the convention of horticulturists convening there this week.

Speaking on the subject of fruit tree pests and the obstacles encountered by the fruit growers of this Province, Mr. Treherne said he was sure the troubles of the fruit men here were no greater than are met with elsewhere, as to orchard and fruit pests. In fact, he said, there were many pests and fungus diseases in other fruit-growing districts which have not been encountered here. The few fruit-growing troubles we have here, he said, were of the ordinary type, well known, and not difficult to guard against.

These gentlemen spoke with regret at seeing so many orchards where the trees were seriously injured by the winter cold, both in the vicinity of Armstrong and Enderby and also farther south, but it was their belief that what now looked like a disaster would prove a benefit to the lowland farmer, for it would induce him to keep his fruit orchard down to what he could nicely handle and devote the larger part of his lowland to raising feed for live stock fed on the place.

Intense interest was shown in the "Diamond from the Sky" films last Saturday evening by a large crowd at the Opera House. The chapters of last week and this are closely interwoven in the working out of a new phase in this dramatic masterpiece.

PREMIER BOWSER HERE

Premier Bowser and party managed to spend a short time in Enderby last Friday evening on their way south. The city arranged to give them a welcome, and the business people generally turned out to greet them at the City Hall on their arrival, shortly before 8 o'clock.

Mayor Dill gave a few words of welcome to the Premier, who replied briefly. His trip this time, he said, was not political. In the years he had held office under Premier McBride, his time had been almost entirely devoted to hard work in his offices at Victoria. He had been unable to get about the Province and meet the people. Now that he had taken up the office of Premier where laid down by the Hon. Richard McBride, he found it necessary to get about and see the people, and note the country's requirements. This was his present mission. In about a month's time he would return to the Okanagan on a campaign tour, when it was his intention to address the people of Enderby district on the political issues of the day.

Premier Bowser said this was not his first visit to Enderby, as many believed. Some years ago he paid an official visit here as Grand Master of the Masons. On his present trip, however, he noted marvelous changes in the development of the farming portions of the district. This, he said, was particularly encouraging, and but mirrored what he had seen in the various parts of the Province visited by him. The fuller development of our agricultural industry was, to his mind, the most important undertaking this or any other government could promote. Three years ago, he said, the total value of agricultural products imported into the Province reached $21,000,000. Last year this had been reduced to $16,000,000—five millions less than three years ago. But even this amount was far too great, when it is remembered that nearly every dollar of this vast sum could be kept at home if the produce was raised here.

He said he was glad to note, in all parts of the Province, that the people had given up the habit of swapping real estate and were settling down to the real work of development and practical farming. This, he said, was the first essential, for all other industries now developing depend upon the ample production of agricultural products. The mining, fishing, lumber, shipbuilding and all commercial industries are dependent first upon the farmer for the food essentials, and if these are not produced at home they must be imported from other countries, which means a loss to every resident of the Province, no matter what his or her occupation.

At the conclusion of his visit here Mr. Bowser was motored to Armstrong. He was accompanied by Hon. Wm. Manson, minister of public works, and Hon. Price Ellison.

COMFORTS FOR THE BOYS

Mrs. E. Gray informs The Press that the ladies of the Enderby Tobacco Fund have now socks for all the Enderby boys at the front, and the ladies desire to make up packages of comforts for each. In order to do so they would like to have friends put in a quarter, or a half, or a whole, so they can purchase cigarettes, etc., to put into each package. Mrs. Andrew Glen has sent in $1.00. There is an opportunity for all to add their bit to make the packages convey to the boys in the trenches some feeling of encouragement and cheer direct "from the friends at home." See Mrs. Gray, or send in your "bit" or "bits."

WORKING FOR SOMETHING

Country boys do not kick on hard work and plenty of it if they have something to work for. Some fathers do not seem to realize this fact. All fathers have a plenty of things spurring them on and are willing to work to their limit six days in the week with little diversion except church and viewing their crops on the seventh day. They are busy acquiring more wealth to properly care for their families. They have some objective, but the boys are likely to have none, and under such circumstances work with no enthusiasm. Work without enthusiasm is drudgery. Give the boy some objective; see that he is working for something. That something may be a share in some crop or some live stock, or it may be a ball game or other sports which he may anticipate with pleasure. A boy who has an object in his work is happy at it and does it well; if he works hard day after day just because he thinks he has to, the chances are that he will grow up to hate farming. A boy is made manly by achievement; he cannot achieve without a chance.—Farmers' Review.

WHY THE ALLIES MUST WIN

Presiding at a luncheon given by the Pilgrims to James M. Beck, former assistant attorney-general of the United States, in London recently, Viscount Bryce said the Allies cannot agree to any such peace terms as have been suggested by well-intentioned Americans or by the German government. "In the first place, we do not think this war will be a 'draw'," said he. "The Allies are going to win. The Allies will prove to be stronger on land than the Germans and because we hold unshaken and unshakable control of the sea.

"Secondly, peace cannot be made now because the German government is not prepared for it on any terms we could accept. The German government may know they are going to be beaten, but the German people do not yet know it. They are ignorant of the facts, and their government, which has fed them with falsehoods and held out prospects of territorial gains, fears to accept terms which would recognize their own failure.

"Thirdly, because peace made now on such terms as the German government would accept would be no permanent peace, but a mere truce. We are fighting for great principles—principles vital to the future of mankind, principles which the German government outraged and which must at all costs be vindicated. We do not hate the German people; we do not wish to break up Germany nor destroy its unity, nor inflict permanent injury upon it. What we desire is to exorcise an evil spirit and discredit the military caste which delights in war and threatens not only Europe but all countries—America included."

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

At a meeting of the City Council Monday evening, there were present His Worship the Mayor, Aldermen Faulkner, Fravel, Nichol and Sharpe.

The clerk reported that Mr. Wm. Polson, for the owner, had cleaned up the lot and building corner of Cliff and Belvedere streets in accordance with the request from the council, and had stated that he was about to remove the shack from the lot.

The resolution from the Kelowna Board of Trade read before the council at a previous meeting relating to the mode of collecting taxes under the Muncipal Statutes, was taken from the table and a resolution passed endorsing the suggestion therein made.

Mr. G. L. Williams reported on the special survey he was making on Plans Nos. 211, 211a and 211b, and referred to the council a letter received from the District Registrar, stating that it would be necessary for the city to resurvey the subdivision "Belvedere" in connection with the survey now being made. This property includes the lumber mill property east of Vernon road, embracing some 20 lots. Mr. Williams offered to make the survey on the same basis of cost as charged for the work now being done. It was decided to make the necessary application to the Attorney-General to permit the survey to be made.

Ald. Nichol, as chairman of the board of health, again brought up the question of a small building at the cemetery. After some discussion it was decided to postpone the erection of the building until next year.

Ald. Faulkner reported that Mr. C. E. Strickland had complained that his water supply was inadequate and that apparently there was some block in the pipe. As the pipe to Mr. Strickland's premises, which are outside the city limits, is a privately-owned one, the council did not feel it was within its jurisdiction to have work done upon it.

A letter was received from Mr. A. C. Skaling, solicitor for Mr. A. D. Stroulger and Mr. P. H. Murphy, stating that he was unable to have a certain deed registered until a description suitable to the district registrar had been filed covering the right-of-way of the city's water main through the property in question, and as it would mean that a survey would have to be made, and it was understood at the time the right-of-way was sold to the city that the corporation would pay all costs in connection with the transfer, it was asked now that the city bear the expense. It was decided that, as the city had agreed to pay all expenses necessary in order to obtain a deed to the property, and as said deed had been in the city's possession since 1908, the council considered that they had no right to incur any further expense in the matter.

OFF FOR THE LAKE

Station Agent Burnham and family are moving to Okanagan Lake this week, where they will spend a month in one of the summer cottages fitted for camping. The train boys tell us that if you want to get a glimpse of solid comfort personified, elongated and long drawn out, you want to see "Our John" in a bathing suit, stretched upon the sandy beach under a sunshade with his toesies dangling in the rippling waters of the lake as the little wavelets come bashfully up to kiss the ringlets out of Jack's tousled locks of golden jet-black hair. John takes no tariff troubles with him when he goes camping. He will leave them this time in the hands of our old friend, Al. Currie, who used to be station agent at Salmon Arm when that burg had a baseball team of slivers all about his size, averaging about 200 pounds each. For the past nine years Mr. Currie has putting in time on a 35-acre fruit orchard at Salmon Arm. He now has some 5000 trees coming into bearing. Owing to the increased demand for men with station agent experience, Mr. Currie is getting back into harness, and is now on the relieving staff.

CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATES

The names of three prominent Okanagan men will in all probability be brought before the Conservative convention which is to be held at Vernon next Monday afternoon. These are Mr. Ellison, Mr. Keary, of Armstrong, and Mr. Kidston, of Vernon. Mr. Ellison is the present member, and a man in whom all old-timers, especially, have confidence, and admiration for. Mr. Keary is the owner of the McQuarrie ranch, at Lansdowne, the reeve of the Spallumcheen Municipality, and prominently connected with many movements which mean much to the advancement of Armstrong and district. Mr. Kidston is a prominent rancher in the vicinity of Vernon. He was a member of the agricultural commission, and has been closely associated with Conservative politics, at Vernon, some years. He is also a man of wide vision and outspoken in his ideas of party purity. It will be remembered that he took an active interest in the campaign launched a year ago by Mr. Bassil Gardom against the cattle deal involving Mr. Ellison.

These men are all capable, and the selection of either would mean that the Okanagan would be well represented. Mr. Ellison's work for the Okanagan, as its representative in the local house the past nine years or more, is too well known to need repetition. Prior to coming to the Okanagan a few years ago, Mr. Keary was mayor of New Westminster several years, and president of the Provincial Fair Association of New Westminster, when it was at its zenith of effectiveness and popularity. He is also a north-end man, which means, no doubt, that he will receive strong support from north-end delegates. Mr. Kidston is equally experienced in public work for the Valley.

The choice of the convention, therefore, will receive the unanimous support of the Conservative voters of the riding. And this unanimous support will be necessary if the party is to win at the polls. In view of this it will be necessary that each candidate should appear at the convention and address the delegates on a definite platform which he proposes to carry out if selected to lead the party here. There should be no stone left unturned to select the best man for the position. The party must not be sacrificed for the man. The delegates to the nominating convention have a great responsibility resting upon them. The old idea that anyone named by the convention can be elected should be exploded. The nominee must be a man against whom the opposition can bring no charge. Personal considerations should take second place.

The contest is not going to be easily won. Let the cattle deal, the exposing of which a year or more ago brought the resignation of Mr. Ellison from the cabinet, be forgotten if you will. Can the forgetting of it by his friends induce the Opposition to forget it? And will the remembering of it add votes to Mr. Ellison or prestige to the party? These are questions that would be better answered now than after the date of election, however embarrassing they may be, and however much we may dislike having to answer them.

PREMIER BOWSER, THE MISUNDERSTOOD

Somebody has said that "men congratulate themselves on their position, no matter what it is—the Government is wrong, not they." In the long ago the Pharasee thanked God he was not like other men, and the 'other men' thank God they are not like the Pharasee. If we were to believe all we have heard about Hon. W. J. Bowser, told by his enemies—or rather, by people who do not, and never have taken the trouble to, understand him, perhaps both the Pharasee and the 'other men' would thank God they are not like Mr Bowser. But it is well for us to remember that in all ages, the world's best men have first been discovered by their enemies. The adversary turns on the searchlight, and the proof of excellence lies in the ability to stand the gleam. For the past decade, Hon. W. J. Bowser has been in the spotlight of B. C. public life, as attorney-general, and, for the past year or thereabouts, as acting premier, and now as premier and leader of the Conservative party. In these years his public life has been a strenuous one. He has been charged with offences many and varied, and at all times the searchlight has been upon him. He has accepted every charge when made the natural outcome of events as they would appear to the minds of his accusers. He never has shown the white feather in the face of his political traducers. On the contrary, each seemed to act as an incentive for him to go forward on the mission he has proven himself so well fitted to accomplish. As he was traduced, he smiled, and, when the opportunity offered, fought back. But at no time has the Hon. W. J. Bowser been unprepared for his enemies, and where is the one who has not learnt to respect him as a fighter?

In a month's time, it is the Premier's intention to visit this part of the Province on political business. That trip will be as strenuous politically as his present trip has been otherwise. And we may expect to hear from him then much as to his future intentions. In the short time he has been Premier, Mr. Bowser has exerted a tremendous influence in the way of bringing the business of the Province down to a purely business basis. 'Pull' and 'patronage' are not strong features of his administration. Indeed, the word 'efficiency' seems to have taken the place of both 'pull' and 'patronage' in his handling of the public business. It is safe to say that, as Premier, the attorney-general has brought himself into closer touch with the electors of the Province, and in so doing will bring about a better understanding of himself by the electors. So busy has Mr. Bowser been on the work of the administration that he has failed to appreciate the feeling of the people of the Province toward him. While his political enemies have been industriously circulating all kinds of stories about him, he has gone quietly on doing the work as he saw necessary, and keeping a sharp eye on the future needs of British Columbia. As these measures put forward by him are put into force the electors will then understand that, while his enemies have been busy endeavoring to make evil stories stick to him, he has been quietly endeavoring and working to bring about a better condition for the laborer and the people and industries of the Province. While his enemies have been kicking and knocking, Mr. Bowser has been working, with the result that instead of the complaints and knocks injuring him, they have boosted him into the highest office at the gift of the people.

MABEL LAKE AND ITS BEAUTIFUL VALLEY

As the summer months come and go the tendency of our people—who love Nature in the wild—is to spin away from every-day home and business environment and spend a few days or weeks in the open, by the side of a singing brook in the forest depths, or on the shores of the shimmering lake where the loon calls and the splash of jumping fish are the only excitement to break the humdrum of camp cooking. We of Enderby are particularly fortunate in having at our door the charming Mabel Lake Valley and its placid lake, and the deep, swirling Spallumcheen as it skirts the wooded hills or flows lazily by rich meadows, green with grasses gracefully bending in the breezes and shaded by lofty pines or bunches of cottonwoods and birches, with unpretentious but sufficient settlers' homes scattered along the way. Today these scenes are marred by the presence of clouds of mosquitoes, which make life hard to live, but a few weeks later these imps of the wood will disappear, and then will be enjoyed to the full Nature's great cure-all—an outing in the hills. Our Mabel Lake neighbors are people of the right sort. They have an undeveloped empire in potentialities. Just now they have a very much developed potentiality that follows high water and bright sunshine where the meadows are rich and fertile and forests deep. One cannot appreciate the meaning of this without seeing and feeling it. But it is there, "believe me," as the street gammon would say. And the men who can stick to their homes while the skeeters are harvesting their crop are certainly of heroic mould.

Dr. Milton Hersey of Montreal, head of the greatest mining engineering firm in Canada, predicts a great advance for mining in British Columbia when the war is over. In general he finds conditions very good throughout the West, the improvement being particularly marked on the coast.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

NEED OF A NATIONAL BANK

The Mining Engineer and Electrical Journal has taken up the question of the need of the establishment of a national bank in Canada. The people of Canada are being aroused to the importance of this question, though it may be some years before Canada can boast of a Government at Ottawa composed of men strong enough to bring the question to an issue. It used to be said that the only obstacles standing in the way of the parcel post in the United States were the express companies established there. It is now clear in Canada that the great obstacles in the way of a national bank here are the chartered banks of the Dominion. Speaking on the question the Mining Journal says:

"Ottawa dispatches state the Dominion Government proposes to float a domestic war loan of $300,000,000. With a practically idle gold reserve of over $100,000,000 there is no necessity for the Dominion Government to float such a loan. On that gold reserve the Dominion Government can safely issue $500,000,000 of national currency, including the present Dominion note issue of $174,714,231. What Canada is suffering from today is the dearth of money in circulation. The Dominion note issue is at present entrusted to the banks, and as they do not pay interest on it and are not forced to circulate it, the issue, which was originally devised to put money in circulation with which to do the business of the country, remains in the bank vaults to defeat its purpose. The former value of the Canadian banking system is thereby destroyed, and instead of a benefit, the system, as now conducted, has become a hindrance to the progress of the country. If the Dominion Government would establish a National Bank of issue on the lines of the issue department of the Bank of England, it could control the money in circulation so that it should neither be in excess or insufficient to meet the demands of business, and we should have in Canada permanent prosperity instead of the 'boom' or 'burst' alterations that the present banking system has brought upon the country. The national bank of issue could handle the entire $500,000,000 issue of national currency, which would bring back prosperity to the country by giving the people enough money in circulation with which to do their business, and without the necessity of saddling the public treasury with an annual interest charge of $5,000,000 a year under the proposed system of raising the money. If Canadian financiers honestly studied the history of the Bank of Venice or the war finance of Pitt and Napoleon, and such authorities on 'money' as Walker, Mill, Jevons, their eyes would be opened by the lessons of history."

PLEASES THE BOHEMIANS

The Bohemian (Czech) National Alliance of America, Canadian branch, with headquarters in Winnipeg, is in receipt of a letter from the president of France addressed to the president of the alliance, in Paris, acknowledging the valor and stamina of Bohemian soldiers fighting in the battle of Verdun. The president writes: "This blood sacrifice for the republic by the best of your sons has forever cemented the brotherly unity of both nations, which will fight hand in hand until the complete victory, not far away now, from which the new life will be created for all mankind."

The Winnipeg branch officers have also been notified of the recognition of the Bohemian nation by the French parliament. The French government has established the legal standing of Bohemians to the French republic by the ministerial enactments and bylaws to the French code, sanctioned by the board of laws. These ministerial enactments are relative to the free residence of Bohemians in France, to enable the Bohemian volunteers to join the army, the state factories, and to permit the business intercourse between Frence and Bohemians residing in the allies' domains, also including the special privilege in the nature of paying rents. This rent order has been renewed every three months and includes the Bohemians with residential rights in France. The action of the French chamber of deputies is regarded as of great political importance to the Bohemian aspirations to independence. It is the first act of the French government in which the Bohemians are no more acknowledged as a friendly nation with privilege of residence only and the first time the parliament has passed an act in which the Bohemians are no more proclaimed the subjects of Austrian Hapsburgs, but as relieved from subjugation to Austria..

THE SOLDIER'S NEED

Among the papers left by Richard Harding Davis, the brilliant American war correspondent and author, his brother discovered the following message, written apparently a few days previous to his death:

"Men at home who breathe tobacco smoke as freely as they breathe air, cannot know how much tobacco means to the men in the trenches, or rather how much the loss of it means. During the Spanish-American war, in the U. S. army regulations, tobacco was officially classified as "officer's supplies." It was considered a luxury.

"When I cabled from Cuba that our soldiers in Cuba needed tobacco, my appeal was ridiculed and I was asked if our soldiers did not also want silk pajamas and eau-de-cologne. The man who never had gone without tobacco, and who could fill his pouch or case at the street corner, still thought tobacco a luxury.

"It was Sir Frederick Treves, during the South African war, who made people understand that for the soldiers tobacco was a necessity. A man can hunger, he can suffer cold, fatigue and wounds; these things he can endure if he can smoke.

"I have been a looker-on on seven wars, and I find it so with each of them, and with men of all races. Give them tobacco and there is no hardship that they will not cheerfully suffer.

"If the glorious record of the Canadian troops has been made on short rations of tobacco, we may feel confident that, well supplied with it, they will in a short time be in Berlin, which is my heartfelt wish."

THE MAGIC OF GARLIC

One of the most important medical discoveries of the war is the magical properties of garlic as an antiseptic. It has proved to be a tremendous boon to the wounded soldiers. The discovery was first announced in The Lancet by Dr. A. D. Serrell Cooke and Dr. V. Gabriel, two London medical men who introduced the remedy into Paddington Infirmery with remarkable results. Of the hundred cases treated there not a single failure was recorded. Most of these cases were of people in very weak health and with terribly infected wounds, and of infirm, old people who appeared to have no chance of recovery. Equally gratifying results have been obtained at the front. When applied to a wound the garlic stops the infection and heals the wound in astonishingly quick time, where other antiseptics injure the tissues if used at the strength required to arrest the infection. The juice gets the infection under control within 48 hours, even in the worst cases.

The medical properties of garlic were well known in our grandmothers' days, and no garden was considered complete that did not make provision for medicinal herbs, including garlic. But the medical lore of women has almost died out.

While travelling in France recently an army doctor found an old peasant woman carrying a bunch of garlic. She said she rubbed pieces of garlic on sores and found that it cured them. Native apothecaries in India affect cures by using garlic as a plaster. Garlic is a popular article of diet in Southern Europe, and its pungent flavor may be detected any day when passing through the foreign quarters of our cities. The discovery of its antiseptic properties has enhanced its value. English druggists now order it by the ton where formerly they only stocked small quantities. The juice costs about six cents an ounce. It is obtained by crushing the vegetable. The juice is then filtered, diluted with three to four parts of distilled water, and applied to the wound with a syringe.

THE DUTCHMAN'S DOG

A Dutchman addressing his dog used this philosophy: "You vas only a dog, but I vish I vas you. When you go mit your bed in you shust turn round dree times and lay down; ven I go mit der bed I haf to lock up de blace, an' vind up der clock, and put der cat oud, and ondress myself, und my frou wakes up und scolds, den der baby she vakes up an' cries, and I haf to valk him mit de house round, den maybe, ven I gets myself to bed it is dime to get up again. Ven you get up you shust stretch yourself, dig your neck a leedle an' you vas up. I haf to light der fire, put on der kiddle, scrap some mit my vife already und get myself breakfast. You blay round all day und haf plenty fun. I haf to vork all day and haf plenty drubbles. Ven you die you vas dead; ven I dies I haf to go to hell yet."

It is getting to be extremely difficult, in this burg, to believe all that one hears. The way the wildest yarns get going around beats all creation. Some trivial incident crops up and in being handed around among the gossips it rarely fails to gather embellishment as it goes. When something really important does manage to crop up, the way the tongues can wag is a caution. There are also quite a number of scandal peddlers in beautiful Kaslo. Once in a while they get something real juicy to chew on, and they certainly chew it to death. Some of them get far more delight out of blasting people's reputations than they would out of a Germen defeat.—Kaslo Kootenain.

Butter Wrapper Parchment

The Dominion law against the selling of butter without the words "Dairy Butter" or "Creamery Butter"—as the case may be—printed on the butter wrap, is a blessing in disguise to the average farmer. In the first place, if his Butter wrappers are neatly printed with his name and the brand of the butter on the label, the storekeeper can readily sell the butter at 5c a pound more than he can get for butter wrapped in paper that is not printed, and the butter-maker gets the advantage in 5c a pound more for his butter from the merchant.

It is the duty of every butter maker to comply with the law in this matter. Some butter makers have only a cow or two, and make so little butter that it does not appear to them that they can afford to have their butter wraps printed. They do not like the idea of having 500 or 1000 butter wraps on hand. To accommodate this class of butter makers, The Press has printed up a quantity of "Custom" Butter Wraps. They are printed with the words "Fresh Dairy Butter" but do not bear the name of the maker. However, these wrappers fill the requirements of the law governing this point, and can be bought in small quantities at the rate of 50c a hundred in 100 or 50 lots. If you do not require butter wraps in larger lots, take these wraps in lesser quantities.

CLASS LEGISLATION IN B. C. PROHIBITION ACT

Measure Would Mean One Law for the Rich and Another for the Poor

As the details of the Prohibition Act, on which the electors will give a referendum vote on September 14, are being brought out, the measure is becoming unpopular with fair-minded men because of the fact that the Act covers "class legislation" of the most pronounced type.

It is one of the principles of true and stable government that general laws should treat all citizens—whether workingman or employer, whether rich or poor—alike. This principle is violated in a glaring manner by the Prohibition Act, and, for that reason, the measure is being condemned by the working class in particular and fair-minded electors in general.

While many clauses of the Act are of the "class legislation" type, the most glaring instance is that which is contained in Clause 57, the section which provides for the uncontrolled, unrestricted and unlimited importation of liquor from outside the Province. This clause reads as follows:

"Nothing in this Act shall be construed to interfere (a) with the right of any person to import from without the Province liquor for bona fide use in his dwelling house.'

This clause is a direct blow at the workingman, the mainstay of the prosperity of the Province, and the man of moderate means, whose earnings are insufficient to allow him to save money to any considerable amount.

It is legislation which says to the man who has money at his disposal, "You may import all the liquor you want, ordering it by the quart, gallon, case or barrel, so long as you send outside the Province for it." To the workingman or man of moderate means, who is accustomed to buy his beer or other beverage by the glass or bottle, it says in emphatic terms: "No, you can't do that any longer. If you want to get liquor in small quantity and buy it in your home town, as you have been accustomed to do, you must go to the doctor and get a prescription, paying his fee, and then get the prescription filled at the drug store."

Is not this one law for the rich and another for the poor, or man of moderate means; one law for the workingman and another for the employer? And what, in the name of justice, is that but "class legislation?

As far as the principles of Prohibition are concerned, the man who would be hit by this class legislation is asking the question as to why Prohibitionists think there is any more danger to be feared from the consumption of liquor which is bought by the quart, case or barrel outside the Province than there is from its consumption when bought locally by the single glass or bottle. This question is a hard one for Prohibitionists to answer, as the Act sent to the electors with their approval provides for the purchase of just as much liquor as was previously the case, so long as it is secured from a drug store or imported from points outside the Province.

An illustration of the manner in which even men of means view the Act is shown by the words of a prominent Vancouver financial man when he said:

"If I voted for the Prohibition Act, I'd do it with the knowledge that I could get just as much liquor as I wanted anyhow, for I can afford to send away for it. But I can't vote for a measure which is so unfair as to give me privileges which are denied to the workingman just because he isn't as well fixed as I am." J20-1

Local Conservatives Prepare for Hot Contest in Opening Campaign

A joint meeting of the Enderby and District Conservative Associations was held in K. of P. Hall last Saturday afternoon for the purpose of preparing for combined effort in the Provincial election campaign now on. Some twenty members were in attendance. Mr. Cochrane and Mr. H. Heggie, president and secretary of the North Okanagan District Association, presided at the meeting. A resolution was passed making a working organization composed of an executive of seven members from the city and district associations, from which number a president is to be chosen. These officers will handle the business of the combined associations until the next annual meeting, when the resolution introduced by Mr. A. Tomkinson, Grindrod, will be acted upon. This resolution provides for the consideration of the question of forming local associations at Grindrod, Mara and other points in the Enderby district. In moving the resolution, it was argued that better work could be accomplished through local associations scattered about the district than through one association which attempted to cover the entire district. The formation of these local associations would give each locality direct representation on the North Okanagan District Association, as the president and secretary of each local association would be members of the District Association and would have a voice in whatever business the District Association had to transact, and, through having this representation, each local could carry its own business before the District and there have it acted upon. This resolution was carried unanimously, showing conclusively that it was the opinion of the meeting that the local association idea was the correct one.

It was decided at this meeting that a general meeting of the Conservatives of Enderby district, now including Mara, Grindrod, Glen Mary, Deep Creek, Hulcar, Mabel Lake, and other polling places north, would be held Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of completing the working organization and for the election of delegates to the nominating convention to be held at Vernon Monday afternoon, July 24th.

At the meeting held Wednesday afternoon, the names of Messrs. F. Hassard, G. Rosoman and G. R. Sharpe were added to the Executive and Mr. Hassard was selected as president of the Association.

The following delegates to the nominating convention were elected from the polling places within the Enderby district:

Enderby—F. Hassard, W. J. Fenton, F. H. Barnes. Geo. R. Sharpe, A. A. Faulkner, H. G. Davies, G. Rosoman, A. Fulton, W. G. Pell, Ed. Harrop

Mara—Chas. W. Little, Jno. Robertson, S. D. Hines.

Grindrod—C. S. Handcock.

Deep Creek—W. G. Evans.

Hupel—A. Torrent.

Hulcar—Dave Crane.

The question of sending the delegates instructed was brought up, but was voted down, it being the will of the meeting that the delegates go into the convention free to act in the best interests of the party and the district.

MR. GEO. HEGGIE A CANDIDATE

Word was received from Vernon last evening that Mr. George Heggie had definitely decided to allow his name to go before the Conservative convention as a candidate for the nomination. This means that there will be four candidates in the field—Messrs. Ellison and Heggie, of Vernon, Mr. Kidston, of Coldstream municipality, near Vernon, and Mr. Keary, if Armstrong. All strong men, and experienced in the needs of the district.

ALWAYS A CONSERVATIVE

A story is being told locally to the effect that Mr. Keary, the candidate for the Conservative nomination from Armstrong, was, up to his seeking this nomination, a Liberal. Mr. Keary was asked as to the correctness of this report, and he sends The Press this message:

"Message received. Have been a Conservative all my life, and never evci cast a Liberal vote.

Signed— "W. H. KEARY."

"BRITAIN PREPARED"

One of the most impressive pictures shown in the Imperially authorized film of British war activities entitled "Britain Prepared," is that showing the Dreadnoughts in action firing broadside after broadside from their huge guns. Most impressive of all, however, is the picture of the Queen Elizabeth discharging her 15-inch monsters of explosive destruction.

The date for the appearance of these films at Enderby has not yet been named, but it will be in the near future. In England the opening presentation of "Britain Prepared" took place in the Empire Theatre, London, and Right Hon. Arthur Balfour, First Lord of the Admiralty, appeared on the stage to publicly sanction the film and give it official authority and approval. Their Gracious Majesties, King George and Queen Mary, also extended their patronage to the production. The main purpose in the mind of the British authorities in directing the preparation of these pictures was to produce unanswerable proof that Britain was in this war with all her might, and in it to win. Copies of the film have been sent to Russia and the allied countries on the continent to give the people an idea of what Britain has done, is doing, and intends to do.

The Queen of Oil Stoves

What the housewives of Canada have wanted is an oil cooking stove equal in equipment to or closely approaching the gas range—something safe, convenient and easy to use—an oil range with plenty of power, which does not need constant watching, which will give just the degree of heat, intense or mild, which you need for boiling, frying, baking or simmering. A cooking equipment very economical to use, which will eliminate the necessity of an overheated kitchen, and which will make it unnecessary to swelter over a hot coal or wood range.

The Fulton Hardware Co. has in stock a full range of the McClary Florence Oil Cook Stoves, and the housewives of Enderby are urged to visit the store and have demonstrated to them the excellence of these great labor savers in the kitchen. These stoves have no wicks to require trimming—to smoke, smell and soot up the house. They have no valves to wear out—nor clog—nor leak. Their heat is easily and quickly regulated by turning a simple, little, patented lever device. You light a match. You turn a lever. At once you have an intensely hot, clean blue flame. The blue flame means that you are burning oil-gas. The Florence turns every drop of oil into gas, mixing with the right quantity of oxygen (air.) It cannot smoke and it does produce the hottest flame for cooking, whereas, when the old kind of an oil stove showed a yellow flame, it was merely burning oil—which does not produce a hot flame and which does smoke and smell.

We are the sole agents in this district. Let us demonstrate them to you.
