ENDERBY AND DISTRICT NEWS

Good morning! And whom do we have to thank for digging us out?

Lieut. Hatcher spent Sunday at his home here.

Mrs. A. Reeves returned from the coast cities last week.

Mr. John Kidston of Vernon, was a visitor to Enderby Monday.

Mrs. R. E. T. Forster returned on Saturday from a visit to Edgewood, B. C.

Capt. Thos. Wilkinson visited Enderby the week-end from Vernon camp.

Born—At the Cottage Hospital, Sept. 10th, to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Glenn, a daughter.

Tax Sale at City Hall, Oct. 13th. Latest date to save expense of advertising, etc., Oct. 2nd.

Pts. S. Robert, Edwin Wheeler, H. A. Preston, and C. Wynne, spent the week-end at Enderby.

Mrs. F. S. Stevens intends spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Geo. Keyes, at Kentwood, La.

One thing about it: Mr. Price Ellison has a lot of company—if that is consoling—and good company, too.

Mrs. A. S. Fox, of Vancouver, is visiting Enderby friends, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Anderson, Mrs. Glenn, and others.

A meeting of the Woman's Club will be held at the house of Mrs. Walker, Enderby, Saturday, Sept. 23rd, at 2.30 p.m.

E. J. Mack, C. C. Fravel and Provincial Constable Patten left Saturday on a two-weeks' big game hunt far up to the head of Seymour Arm.

Ex-Mayor George Bell, member-elect for Victoria, will visit Enderby next Thursday and spend a few days shaking hands with his old friends.

St. George's Church, harvest thanksgiving, Thursday, 21st, 7.30 p.m. Sunday, Holy Communion, 8 a.m.; Evening service, with repetition of harvest hymns, etc., 7.30.

Miss Mowat, who has so faithfully and cheerfully served the public as assistant postmistress for several years, is contemplating leaving for England on or about the 15th of October.

The evaporator plant at Armstrong is again in full swing, but the sad feature of it is that the great portion of their employees are Chinamen, no other help being available.

The sale of plants, home cooking, etc, on the Bank of Montreal grounds on the afternoon of the 14th proved a very successful affair for the W. A. and very enjoyable to all participating.

Mr. J. M. Wright drove up from Armstrong Tuesday evening. Mr. Wright says the Agricultural Fair which is to be held in Armstrong next Thursday and Friday gives promise of being one of the best they've had.

The annual Rally Day service will be held in the Presbyterian Church at 11 a.m. Sunday next. The officers and teachers desire a full attendance of parents and children. The children will meet 10 minutes before eleven in the Sunday school room.

Friday and Saturday evenings of this week, the movie bill at the Opera House will include the four-reel masterpiece "The Lure of the Mask," and "Fatty's Seaside Lover." These special feature programs are taking well with the patrons of the house. Some enjoy them better than the more elaborate serials.

Mr. W. J. Lemke returned from Bremerton this week. He will remain with the Okanagan Saw Mills until the 1st of October when he will return to Bremerton to permanently remain. Mr. Lemke is elated over the success thus far had in the vulcanizing plant recently purchased by him and Mr. Mann, and says the outlook for business is growing brighter each week.

Attention is called to the advertisement for the Armstrong Fall Fair, in this issue of The Press, to be held next Thursday and Friday, Sept. 28-29. Every possible arrangement is being made to make this the best of fairs that have been held at our sister town, and Enderby friends are cordially invited to attend and enjoy seeing the excellent exhibits. Others are urged to enter exhibits in the various classes, and thus capture some of the substantial money prizes which are offered.

Dr. K. C. Macdonald spent a few hours in Enderby Monday evening, and, inspite of political differences which some hold, he received from one and all sincere congratulations. Those who have been politically against Mr. Macdonald have nevertheless recognized in him in all the campaigns he has fought in this constituency a clean fighter and a gentleman.

The father turned to his little five-year-old daughter last Friday and said, "Well, Verna, women can vote now." Very dryly and unconcerned the little miss replied, "Oh, well, I'll vote, but I won't go to Parliament!" "And why won't you go to Parliament?" quizzed the fond parent. "Well, you know, Daddy, sometimes Parliaments catch fire and burn up, and I may be there and get caught in the fire!"

Manager Bobbs of the Opera House greatly accommodated his patrons and the public generally last Thursday evening in getting the special election returns over the C. P. R. service and flashing them on the screen in conjunction with a specially good movie program. And he held the charge down to 25c for adults—just 5c over his regular admission fee. The returns were not received with any degree of satisfaction from the various constituencies, but the news of the general results as summarized on the slides met with wild applause.

Constable Bailey went to Harrison Hot Springs on Saturday to remain two weeks or longer. For the past six months Mr. Bailey has not been in his usual state of health, but he has been able to comply with the trying demands of his position. At last he came to a point where he could not mistake the call and he concluded to go to the springs to chase the rheumatic bug out of his system. Mr. Thos. Kneale is acting for Constable Bailey in the latter's absence.

No man wants to be pessimistic, but if you are wise you will take this tip: If you have a family to provide for, and a piece of land on which you can keep a few cows, get into the dairy business as early as possible. Hard times haven't hit Canada yet—but they will if we are not better prepared than we now are. We can help Canada best by doing everything within our power to make ourselves and the community more nearly self-sustaining.

Liberals Make Grand Sweep of Province

The latest returns, and these are supposed to be final, show the Liberals elected thirty-six, the Conservatives elected nine, and the Socialists one. Prohibition is leading by a majority of 6,000 or 7,000, while Woman Suffrage was carried by a tremendous majority.

The civilian vote gave the Liberals a tremendous majority. There is the possibility of the soldiers' vote giving Premier Bowser a majority over the low man on the Liberal ticket in Vancouver, who now leads the Premier by 200 votes. It is not possible, however, for any material change to be brought in the general standing of the parties by the Overseas vote, which will not be counted until October 14th.

The following ticket gives the names of the successful candidates from the various constituencies. It is not likely the complete returns will be given out until the soldiers' vote is counted. This led to great dissatisfaction when the election bulletins were received at various points. They were never so poorly compiled. In fact, only a few constituencies gave their returns election day evening, though when both Vancouver and Victoria went against the Government, it was conceded early in the evening that the Government had been defeated.

North Okanagan

Dr. K. C. Macdonald is now credited with a majority of 240 over Mr. Price Ellison, the Conservative candidate. At nearly every polling place Mr. Macdonald walked away with a majority. In Vernon, Mr. Ellison's home, he polled 385 votes to 335 for the former member and minister of agriculture and finance. Armstrong gave him 156 to 138 for Mr. Ellison, and Enderby gave 112 to 79 in favor of the Liberal candidate. Mara gave 18 for Macdonald and 14 for Ellison, Mabel Lake gave seven of a majority for Ellison, while Hupel gave 12 to 1 for Macdonald, and Grindrod 19 to 18. On Suffrage, Enderby polled 157 for and 36 against, and on Prohibition the vote was 135 for to 60 against.

GEORGE BELL

Former Mayor of Enderby, now a resident of Victoria, where he has been a member of the aldermanic board for the past two years, and has now been elected a member of the Provincial Legislature, leading his higest opponent by 1053 and being the highest candidate on the Liberal ticket excepting Mr. Brewster the party leader.

All Enderby citizens, we feel sure, will be pleased to join The Press in extending to Mr. Bell the hearty congratulations of the community on the political success that has been his. Mr. Bell drifted into Enderby some 25 years ago, a stranger to all and with $10 in his pocket. He was then 21. In the intervening years up to the time of his removal from Enderby to Victoria, five years ago, Mr. Bell succeeded in gathering about him no small amount of this world's goods, and was, indeed, considered a man of wealth and business ability. He still owns considerable rental property here, and has other land interests in this neighborhood. Mr. Bell is too good a man to stop at his present achievement. We expect to see him chosen as one of the ministers in Premier Brewster's cabinet, and if his vote standing is taken into account, Mr. Bell deserves this of his party. In addition to his popularity, Mr. Bell has the ability to fill such a position.

MAIL MATTER FREIGHT

Simpson's big catalogue house, of Winnipeg, "puts one over" on the local merchants in every community in the West. At the same time, the Post Office Department aids them in doing so. They ship their catalogues from Winnipeg to different distributing centres, by freight, and from these distributing centres the catalogues are mailed to any point within a radius of 20 miles at 6c postage. If these catalogues were mailed direct from Winnipeg, the cost on each would be 20c, the same as is paid by Eaton. It should be very convenient for these mail order houses to be permitted thus to misuse the postal regulations.

Davies desire to acknowledge with thank the following donations: Flowers and vegetables, Miss Rosoman, Mrs. Hatcher, Mrs. Carlson, Mr. Pound, Mrs. Handcock, Mrs. Carson, Mr. Beattie, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Inch, Mrs. McPherson, Mrs. Oakes, Mrs. L. BIG DEMAND FOR B.C. POTATOES

Winnipeg speculators are buying heavily of B. C. potatoes. One broker is reported to have sold 90 cars and another 40 cars at prices around $16, $17 and $19 a ton B.C. points. Minneapolis is enquiring for potatoes from this Province. It is learned that Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Iowa have practically no crop at all, while Michigan, Wisconsin, North Dakota, New York and Maine have a crop 70 per cent of last year. One Minneapolis firm is in the market for 50 cars of potatoes. North Yakima is endeavoring to get the Minneapolis market and has sold potatoes at $22 f.o.b. for Netted Gems and Burbanks, these varieties always commanding a premium. Idaho has offered potatoes in Minneapolis at $14 f.o.b., but the trade there seems a little afraid of Idaho spuds. Walla Walla is asking $25 f.o.b., but no sales have been made at that price. A car of B.C. potatoes was sold in Minneapolis recently at $1.50 a bushel, or 2 1-2c lb. wholesale price.

GATHERING UP THE FRAGMENTS

Unless the twenty thousand soldiers now Overseas from British Columbia, and whose votes will not be counted until early in October, come to the aid of the Conservative party, there will not be enough left of Premier Bowser and his administration to "wad a gun." The turn-over was complete. It was a landslide, a snowslide, a tumbling down of mountains and an engulfing by the seas all in one. There are some things so plain that they cannot be argued. Nothing can make them more plain. The results of the recent election is one of these questions. In the face of legislation which is recognized by voters of both parties as the best that has been put through since the party came into power in British Columbia, and in the face of every assurance that Premier Bowser would administer the affairs of the Province economically and ably, the electors, on September 14th, made almost a clean sweep of every Conservative candidate. With a campaign cry of "too great a majority; we must have a strong Opposition to have good government no matter which party is in power," the voters turn the tables, and instead of an overwhelming Conservative majority as heretofore, they have now an overwhelming Liberal majority. In the last legislature the Conservative administration had on the Opposition not more than five members; in the next legislature the Liberal administration will have not more than seven members, unless the soldiers' vote makes material changes.

Out of the frying pan into the fire. The complaint hurled at the Conservative administration last year will this year be hurled at the Liberal administration, and with, perhaps, equal justice. The worst position any party leader can be put into is to be placed in power with an overwhelming majority and a weak Opposition. The results are invariably the same. The leader must bear the burden while the voters, the real culprits, feel at liberty to immediately turn and condemn the leader for having so large a majority.

The result of the vote in the North Okanagan was not a surprise to anyone. It was to be expected. It could have been otherwise. But in this constituency the party was sacrificed by the organization—commonly known as the "machine"—in control. We see here a repetition of what has transpired to wreck every party at one time or another in its history in Canada. The average Canadian voter is honest in his desire for clean government. He will not have the wool pulled over his eyes when things are not as they ought to be. And inspite of the increased steam piled on, and the free use of the party whip, by the party engineers, who refuse to see the cataclysm they are bringing on the party, the average voter is prepared to vote his convinctions, even if it does mean that his party must go down. It seems to be the only way of breaking up the family compact into which all parties are more or less inclined to drift.

It was so in Vancouver and in Victoria where independent Conservative candidates were put up against the regularly nominated party candidates.

Out of what now appears to be a party calamity the Conservatives of the Province will gather up the fragments and start anew to build for a bigger and a better party. In the meanwhile we all will find plenty to do in joining hand-in-hand with the administration in an effort to solve the larger problems which confront the Province, the Dominion and the Empire.

Did you notice, Mr. Voter, when you cast your ballot on September 14th, that neither of the referendum ballots on prohibition and suffrage were marked with an official mark on the back, as required by the Elections Act? A mere technicality, of course, but grave results could and may follow.

HERE'S TO THE WOMEN

Said a man: If women are to have the vote they ought to study the principles of our government and the merits of political issues. Said the one addressed: How would it do for men to set the example? This is the final test. Will women be less indifferent than the men have been? Will women, after years of suffrage, know as little about the principles of our government and the merits of political issues as men voters now know? Will they not lead the men in this respect? Any man who will honestly face present day political conditions must admit that men have shown a woeful lack of interest, if not woeful ignorance of and in the principles of our government and the merits of political issues. In fact, the last thing men seem to be interested in is a study of the principles of our government. At election time they become intensely interested in the success of their party, but even then have very little interest in the larger issues of government. They fight earnestly for the election of this man or that, but forget entirely what either man represents. Very few, indeed, have a full and free knowledge of even party issues. Indeed, party issues today mean very little to the average male voter. The prime issue seems to be that of patronage. Whether women do or do not study the principles of our government and the merits of political issues, they cannot fall far short of what men voters know of these things. Perhaps when women begin to study politics it will lead the men to do likewise, to the good of all.

September 15th—a space of time in which something happens after something else has happened.

PREMIER BOWSER THE STRONG

Premier Bowser stands today a defeated politician, but not a defeated man. He has been the strong man of the Conservative administration in the past thirteen years, and it will take more than a political defeat such as the one he has recently suffered to break the man, even with the people who have most reviled him. If we should be so fortunate as to have him elected by the soldiers' vote, he will be the most valuable man in the legislature for Premier Brewster and his ministers. As leader of the Opposition Mr. Bowser would be a tower of strength, not so much for the Conservative party as for the administration. No man is better acquainted with the government machinery and the country's needs. And, with party issues out of the way, Mr. Bowser could and no doubt would confine himself to the more important issues confronting the Province. It was not Premier Bowser's administrative ability nor his actions as leader of the Conservative party that brought defeat upon the Government. It was his strength. He was too powerful a leader for the little men he had about him. He dominated. He did not lead. But is that a fault of the man or his followers? Had they been large enough and strong enough they would not have permitted him to dominate. But because they lacked the strength his forceful character overshadowed all, and for years it has been "Bowser" who was to blame for everything. He became the party scape-goat, and had to face the music made by the poorer players associated with him.

You can always tell a defeated politician—but not very much.

THE RIGHT KIND OF LOVE

Edward Goldbeck, in the Chicago Tribune, tells this story, "Kate and and Max:"

"Max—You say that you want to develop all your faculties and that the fact of being married ought not to prevent you from doing that. Agreed. Now, what are you intending to do, please?"

"Kate—I think I will study sociology.

"Max—Don't you think you had better take singing lessons?

"Kate—There seems quite a jump from the one thing to the other.

"Max—To study sociology is a matter of years. Neither is your body strong enough for daily scientific work of about eight hours, nor is your mentality adequate to the endeavors.

"Kate—May be, but this is the only thing which appeals to me.

"Max—Singing lessons would give you great pleasure and would do you a lot of good physically. You would learn how to breathe deeply—

"Kate—I need not learn that. I can breathe deeply enough for daily purposes. (She breathes provokingly deeply.)

"Max (with a smile of superiority)—I beg your pardon. That is not at all the right thing. You are breathing naturally. I want you to breath scientifically.

"Kate (nervously)—You want me . . . you want me . . . and I want to study sociology.

"Max—But, my dear child, isn't it silly to refuse my help? You must know that, as a scholar of some standing, I am a better judge of these things than you. Let me guide you—

"Kate—I don't want to be guided. I want to go my own way.

"Max—But if you go astray?

"Kate—I prefer to go astray after my own ideas to going straight after another one's.

"Max—This answer only proves how feminine you are. You will never amount to anything in scientific work. And the domain of woman is art. There she can use her beauty, her charm, her personality.

"Kate—Look here, Max, why don't you let me develop myself after my own ideas?

"Max—But, Kate, I want you to develop yourself, only do it in the right way. I feel responsible for you. I love you!

"Kate—You tyrannize me. With the best intentions, of course, you want me to develop, but only if I remain your pupil, your spiritual creature and after your preconceived ideas. You love me, certainly, but is that the right kind of love?"

VACANT LOTS GARDEN CLUB

The city of Calgary a few years ago organized a Vacant Lot Garden Club, for the purpose of tilling the vacant lots scattered throughout that city. The movement "caught on," has spread rapidly and now it is one of the most important economical institutions in the city. It has done not a little in helping to keep down the high cost of living for fresh vegetables "form our own gardens" are being served with real housewifey pride in hundreds of homes throughout the prairie city. The idea has grown so rapidly and the club has met with such success that it was decided last year to hold a potato show, and very successful it was. This year the club, under the guidance of the city council, has decided to branch out somewhat and hold a larger and better show this season. Vegetables as well as potatoes are important and so the Calgary Soil Products Exhibition is to be held on Oct. 17-18-19, when all the biggest potatoes turnips, beets, carrots and cabbage will be shown in the big horse show building. British Columbia fruit growers have been asked to make a display and all the Calgary fruit brokers and jobbers were appointed a committee, headed by W. E. McTaggart, B.C. Fruit Markets Commissioner, with offices in that city, to look after this part of the display. Our fruit growers are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to place B. C. fruit prominently before the fruit buyers of the prairie city. It is argued that this would be a good way to combat the movement of the Alberta Grain Growers, who recently passed a resolution binding all members to boycott British Columbia fruit because of the increased fruit tariff law passed by the Dominion in response to a demand from the fruit growers of this Province.

APPLES BRING BIG PRICES

According to "Better Fruit," of Hood River, Ore., the apple crop of the United States is 72,000,000 barrels, while that of 1914 was 84,000,000 barrels and that of 1915, 76,000,000, yet the Western apple growers will receive nearly double the price. "Better Fruit" says the season is not far enough advanced for fixing prices very definitely, and that it is too early to get scared and too early to go crazy.

Patronage formed a prominent part in the programme of the incoming premier. He promised to abolish it. We will now have the interesting spectacle of seeing him either doing it or sidestepping it. It will not be an easy matter for Mr. Brewster to do that. For thirteen years his party have waited in the hungry lanes of opposition for a chance to come in and feed in the fat barnyard of power. Each man has his job picked out. He has had his eye on it for a long time past and if he does not get it there will be trouble.—J. P.'s Weekly.

TUBERCULAR SOLDIERS

The Dominion Hospitals' Commission has arranged for a conference of experts on the question of dealing with tuberculosis among Canadian troops. There already are 370 tubercular soldiers in the sanitariums of the different Provinces. Of these 175 have been overseas and 195 have not yet gone across. Of those who go overseas, about 30 soldiers infected with the disease return to Canada every month. This is not a large percentage of the men who have gone overseas, but along with the cases originating in Canada military camps it presents a problem which the commission must solve. In order to see what improvement can still be made in the treatment of such soldiers, the conference in question has been called. The experts are being asked to advise the commision regarding the location of sanitariums, the most recent methods of treatment, diet and exercise, the maximum and minimum capacity for sanitariums and all other questions pertaining to the treatment of the disease.

It was only a few years ago that experts condemned cigarette smoking as the prime factor in producing tuberculosis. As a result of the campaign then inaugurated by the anti-tuberculosis leagues and others, several states to the south of us passed very stringent laws dealing with the cigarette evil. In many states it is a penal offence to sell a package of cigarettes. And yet we in Canada, perhaps more in the interest of the tobacco trust than for the good of the boys at the front, are pleaded with to send cigarettes by the millions to the boys in the trenches. And then we appoint commissions to deal with effects!

NATIONAL ROAD PROBLEMS

Under the direction of the National Secretary of Agriculture, the United States Government has concluded to tackle the road problems of that country in a national way. The enormous importance of good roads has been recognized for some years, but no well-defined policy of national scope has as yet been developed. According to the secretary of agriculture, bad roads are a very expensive possession. It is estimated that it costs 23 cents under ordinary road conditions to haul a ton a mile on the average country road, and only 13 cents on a properly improved road, and this is not all the story. The direct cost is very great but the indirect costs are possibly even greater. With bad roads the farmer is compelled to haul when he should be engaged in other work, while with good roads he can plan his operations without reference to the weather.

Realizing these things, it is the object of the federal government to co-operate with the states, and to this end a comprehensive road-building program has been laid out. Each individual state must take the initiative, through its road department, to secure federal assistance. The federal government will spend, in co-operation with the states, some $75,750,000, on road improvements. This money will be spent in road work only, and under the strictest supervision of the state and federal road departments. Road-building gangs, trained and equipped for the work, will operate in the several states, and the whole problem of road building and maintenance will be taken out of the hands of the counties and put into the hands of the federal and state departments.

MR. BREWSTER IS THANKFUL

To the Victoria Colonist Mr. H. C. Brewster, leader of the victorious Liberal party in the Province, made the following statement after he received he news of Premier Bowser's defeat in Vancouver: "It is needless to say we are delighted with the vindication the policies advocated by ourselves received from the people of the Province. But although we are much pleased with the results, we are sorry that we will be unable to know for some time the result of the soldiers' vote. * * * I want, through the newspapers, to extend our thanks to the various persons who, regardless of previous party affiliation, assisted us in this victory. Many of the Liberal party will regret that the Prime Minister met defeat in Vancouver, as we are all anxious that there should be in the House a strong opposition to assist the Government with its legislation. Personally I feel the responsibility that the people of British Columbia have placed on the Liberal party. Because of this we are asking the support and assistance of all persons of every shade of political opinion in our efforts to bring about healthier financial conditions in this Province. It is too early to state what line of action will be taken by the Liberal Government. Until we know at least a little more of the results it would be entirely premature to say anything."

QUEERING HIS POLITICAL CAREER

Various political aspirants have had their political careers queered in strange and unlooked-for ways, but the story of Mark Twain's experience beats most of them: A number of his friends induced him to run for governor of a certain state. He was just getting started on his campaign tour, and was billed to speak at a certain large town. He no sooner got upon his pins to make his opening remarks than about two dozen negro, half-breed, chink, Jap and Italian kids, ranging from four to five years of age, swarmed upon the stage and, throwing their arms around his shanks, yelled "Papa!" in great glee. That queered him right there.

LATEST WAR SUMMARY

By the aid of a new motor contrivance, which is simply an improvement on the well-known "caterpiller hauler," but armored and equipped with machine guns, the British forces on the Somme front succeeded in advancing their line a thousand yards on a mile front, and gained a victory over the Germans as important as any which has taken place since the allied offensive began three months ago. The ground gained is said to be of great strategic value.

In the vicinity of Verdun the French are reported to have gained important ground.

In Southeastern Roumania the Russo-Roumanian forces advancing to make a dash into Serbia in an effort to capture the railway line connecting Gremany with Turkey and Bulgaria, said to be 180,000 strong, were caught in a deep pocket at Dobric by the Bulgarian-German army and forced to abandon large quantites of booty in a hasty retreat. Field Marshal Mackensen is in command. After falling back some thirty miles, the Russo-Roumanian forces have been reinforced and at last reports were holding a line across the Dobrudja valley a few miles south of the railroad running from Constanza to the Danube. The taking of the Roumanian forts on the Danube known as Tutrakan and Silistria, by the Bulgars, places these forces within fifty miles of Bucharist, the capital of Roumania. It is obvious that this check of the Russo-Roumanian forces will seriously retard the movement from which so much was expected when Roumania threw in her lot with the Entente.

In the vicinity of Monastir, on the Saloniki front, the allies have won a victory over the Bulgarians, and at last reports the enemy was falling back in the direction of that important point. The allies have obtained command of the ranges dominating the Florina plain.

On the Trentino front the Italians have renewed their attacks against the whole Austrian front on the Carso plateau.

DODGING THE "DRY" LAW

Ontario became "dry" on the 15th September, but instead of waiting for that event, the liquor men of Toronto were selling local option non-intoxicating beer for weeks before that date. They were selling it simply as "beer" and the public didn't know the difference. Here is how thirsty Toronto was deceived. For over a month hotels which have agencies for certain brewers have been selling temperance beer with less than 2 1-2 per cent alcohol contents to their unsuspecting customers. Mr. Bartender served his customers, took his money and rung up the sale without a smile. The man in front of the oaken bar sipped the beverage to slake his thirst, smacked his lips and departed. He asked for lager beer, but he got temperance beer and never knew the difference.

Hotelmen were anxious to see how the public would take to this light beer. They have to sell it from now on or close up their places. They agree that customers never knew the difference. Several asked their patrons how they liked it, stating it was a new kind of brew. "Fine," was the answer.

The shopkeepers have been selling it in bottles with the regular labels. One man told a reporter on the Toronto Star that a brewery in Toronto had sent out over 100 cases to their trade and everybody was "sold" and not a complaint was heard. There is also an American beer that is being sold in Toronto. This beer, proofed by test, shows a strength of two and five-sixteenths per cent alcohol, or just three-sixteenths under the forbidden content. This beer is claimed to be 50 per cent cheaper than Toronto temperance beer.

TAKING IT NICELY

"Oh, yes, it was time for a change," said a prominent Conservative to the Vancouver Province, when asked his opinion of the election. Strange to say, after the hard fought campaign in all constituencies, this is the general opinion expressed by men who are high in the councils of the party.

"Well," said another, "we have been beaten and we have nothing to say. We must just go ahead and organize our party better than it has been the past year. We know how to take our medicine and we can only hope that things will go as well with the Liberals as with the Conservatives."
