ENDERBY AND DISTRICT NEWS

Good morning! Nail the business.

Miss Marie Murdock is visiting at Lacombe, Alta.

School Inspector Anstey visited Enderby the past week.

Pte. Bush visited his home from the Vernon camp over Sunday.

Armstrong merchants have combined to hold a Dollar Day on Friday.

Mrs. W. J. Thompson, of Armstrong, visited Enderby friends the week end.

J. A. Dougal left on Monday for Vancouver, where he will remain some time.

Cougar have been seen several times recently along the road to Mabel Lake.

Miss B. Leatherdale returned last week from a two-weeks' visit to coast cities.

Willey R. Barrows says he has no intention of severing his connection with the Okanagan Saw Mills.

Mrs. P. Miller, who has been visiting her parents several weeks, left for her Cranbrook home Monday.

The honor roll of the Enderby boys at the front was unveiled at the Presbyterian church last Sunday.

Mrs. A. Glenn returned Friday from a visit of several weeks to relatives in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Elmer Black returned from a visit to Seattle last week and went to Vernon, where he joined the medical corps.

With all polls in the Slocan riding heard from, Mr. Wm. Hunter, the Conservative member, has a majority of 17.

You can still avoid tax sale expenses—but only by paying up your 1914 arrears between now and Monday next at 6 p.m.

The local Masonic lodge gave a very enjoyable At Home in the I.O.O.F. Hall Wednesday evening to its members and their ladies.

Miss Winnifred McDougald visited her home in New Denver last week from Saskatoon, where she is nursing in one of the hospitals.

Anniversary services will be held in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday, Oct. 22nd. The annual dinner will be held the Tuesday following.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Chapman are visiting their Loon Lake retreat for a few weeks, and enjoying a quiet rest after a busy summer in Vernon.

The Big Game Hunters returned on Monday from the headwaters of Seymour Arm, bringing back—a flourishing crop of curly whiskers.

On October 12th, in the Methodist Church, Rev. J. H. Howe, of Vernon, will give a dramatic recital, assisted by several artists, vocal and instrumental.

Monday evening Mayor Dill and Ed. Mack motored to Hupel and returned the following afternoon with two deer, which they bagged that morning.

The last day of registering to be placed on the Provincial or Federal voters' list will be October 2nd. Any one who is not registered may do so before that date.

A meeting of the Red Cross will be held in the City Hall at 3 o'clock Tuesday, Oct. 3rd. Important business is to be taken up, and a full attendance is desired.

Percy G. Farmer has severed his connection with the Okanagan Saw Mills, and left Monday for Vernon where he has accepted a position with S. C. Smith Lumber Co.

When the evenings are too cold for an ice cream, a cup of tea or coffee, with cake or sandwiches as they are served at Joe's might add the same amount of cheer and make the music sound as soulful.

Manager Reeves reports receipt through the Enderby Growers Association of a very fine quality of apples, though the quantity this season is below the average. The bright weather of the past month has been ideal for bringing the apples up to the highest color. The price is good and demand great. Spuds have taken a temporary drop in price, but this, it is believed, will not continue long.

P. H. Murphy is proving how profitable registered pigs are, on his King Edward ranch this season. With the finest brood sows and one of the best boars in the Valley, he has several litters of porkers that are a picture to look at.

Today and tomorrow are going to be big days at Armstrong. Those who are not exhibitors, however, who are going simply to see the exhibits, will be well advised if they make the trip on Friday, when all exhibits will have been in place and judged.

Rev. E. C. Curry officiated at a very pretty home wedding at the residence of the bride's parents on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 27th, when Susan Lila, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Baird, Knight street, became the bride of Mr. George N. Loomis, of Sicamous. Mr. and Mrs. Loomis will reside at Mara.

Mrs. S. Polson and Mrs. S. Speers will hold a whist drive on Tuesday evening, Oct. 3rd, at 8 o'clock, admission 35c. The object of holding the whist drive is to obtain yarn to knit into sox for the Christmas parcels for the soldier boys. The yarn will be obtainable on the night of the d ive so anyone wishing to knit can get the yarn from the president.

In the Methodist Church, Thursday evening, Sept. 28th, the officers and musical members of the Vernon Camp Y.M.C.A. will give an evening of entertainment in connection with the work of the Association in the military camps in Canada, Overseas and at the front, with vocal and instrumental music to intersperse the lecture. A collection will be taken up in aid of the fund.

WATER LOW IN RIVER

Owing to the extremely dry season, little rain having fallen during the summer months, and the fall rains not having yet commenced, the water in the river is rapidly falling to a point not reached in many years. A report is current to the effect that the Okanagan Saw Mills will stop the season's cut this month, but the latest information from the mill office is that cutting will continue as long as the logs can be floated in the mill boom, which may be some weeks yet.

MILITARY WEDDING

St. George's Church was crowded to the doors Tuesday afternoon, by friends of the pride and groom, to witness the happy event, the marriage of Miss Hope Aldin, a native Enderby girl, to Capt. Thos. Wilkinson, of the 172nd Battalion. The church was beautifully decorated. The groom was attended by Capt. Plumbly, and Capt. Wiseman, chaplain of the 172nd officiated. Capt. Colly and Capt. Wagbert, were also present. The bride wore a travelling suit of khaki, and the sharp, military trimness of the ceremony lent to the beauty of the occasion. After the ceremony the bridal couple were motored to Salmon Arm where they took the train for the coast. They will spend the winter at Victoria.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Aldin, pioneers of the district. Twenty years ago, or thereabouts, Mr. and Mrs. Aldin were themselves married in Enderby, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Lawes. "Hope" was their first daughter. She advanced to girlhood, then into womanhood, beloved by all. Capt. Wilkinson came to Enderby four years ago, as manager of the Burnham poultry farm. A year ago he joined the colors and has won rapid advancement.

MANUAL TRAINING SCHOOLS

The Provincial Educational Department is endeavoring to induce each small community that feels it can stand the cost, to establish a manual training and domestic science branch, with the idea of making the book work more effective. To the great majority of people books do not appeal; and no interest or impulse to effort is found in the written word. Experiences are what count in educational affairs. The handling of the real material with which to do real work appeals to the nature of most boys and girls; consequently manual training and domestic science forms the ground work of effort and energy from which springs success. Manufacturers associations, trades unions, social reformers and educators are all pointing out the wisdom of such work in schools. In 1909 the American Federation of Labor passed a resolution to this end: "We demand this training as a right, for have we not to make our living by our hands?"

Manual equipment can be installed in the public elementary school at very little expense, as the Educational Department defrays 75 per cent of the cost. In addition, a substantial grant is paid to assist in the salary of the instructor.

SEED GRAIN AND POTATOES

By instructions of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture, a distribution of superior sorts of grain and potatoes will be made during the coming winter and spring to Canadian farmers. The samples for general distribution will consist of spring wheat (about 5 lbs.), white oats (about 4 lbs.), barley (about 5 lbs.) and field peas (about 5 lbs.) These will be sent from Ottawa. A distribution of potatoes in samples of about 3 lbs. will be carried on from several of the experimenatl farms, the Central Farm at Ottawa supplying only the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. All samples will be sent free by mail.

Only one sample of grain and one of potatoes can be sent to each farm. As the supply of seed is limited, farmers are advised to apply early. Requests received after the end of December will probably be too late. Anyone desiring a sample should write (post free) to the Dominion Cerealist, Experimental Farm, Ottawa, for an application blank.

STRIKE TROUBLES BREWING

Labor organizations including about 1,100,000 workers, met in New York Sept. 25th to vote on the question of joining in the proposed general strike to take effect there this week. Ernest Böhm, secretary of the conference of labor leaders directing the movement, asserted to the press that unions representing 179,500 workers, already had voted to quit work. The secretary also asserted that if the strike becomes effective it will not last more than two days, as he belives it will quickly force the traction companies to arbitrate with their striking employees.

CONSERVATIVE MEETING

A general annual meeting of the Enderby and District Conservative Association, for the election of officers and other business, will be held in K. of P. Hall, Saturday, Sept. 30th, at 2 p.m.

LATEST WAR SUMMARY

The British have entered Combles on the Somme front, and are overcoming the resistance of the Germans. More than 1500 prisoners and a large amount of war material were taken. The French forces cooperating with the British, have come in from the opposite direction and have taken the Combles cemetery, also capturing many prisoners.

On the Russian front heavy fighting is in progress at all points, the Russians taking the offensive.

On the Italian front Austrian reports claim to have repulsed all attacks of the enemy.

In Dobrudja Valley it was reported that the Teutons had been defeated in a six-day battle with the reinforced Russo-Roumanian forces and were in retreat. A later report states that a Bulgar-German-Turk army had attacked the Roumanian forces from the flank and rear and that the Russo-Roumanians were in turn on the run.

In Macedonia heavy fighting is in progress in the vicinity of Florina, with the whole Macedonian front more or less involved.

A report states that Greece has consented to get in on the side of Allies if England and France will put up the cost.

A third Zeppelin raid was made upon England Monday night, this time on the south coast. No report yet made as to damage or casualties.

SOON WILL GO OVERSEAS

According to the rate at which battalions are now being sent overseas, there will not be more than 60,000 Canadian troops left in Canada over the winter, although this number will, of course, be greatly augmented as recruiting goes on. Last winter over 100,000 troops were quartered in Canada in November and December. By the beginning of November there will be considerably more than this number in training in England, where it is stated climatic conditions are better for effective battalion and brigade training during the winter months. In addition to this reason for sending the troops overseas this fall there is the further reason that they will be immediately available in the spring for a movement to the front for what is hoped will be the final big offensive. It is probable that a number of the towns throughout the Dominion which will benefit from having military units quartered there during the winter will be announced later. Most of the troops will be concentrated in a few large centres, as the billeting and small unit system has been abandoned.

"ON THE NIGHT STAGE"

This popular Master Picture will be the big attraction at the movie show in the Opera House, Friday and Saturday evenings of this week. It will be accompanied by the excruciatingly funny comedy "Ethel Gets Consent." See them.

Pass Half Billion Mark Pre Month

American exports finally have passed the half billion a month mark. Statistics issued this week by the department of commerce at Washington, show that goods sent abroad in August were valued at $510,000,000, a record not only for the Uinted States but for the the world.

Men and Things as Seen Thro' Hank Reklaw's Periscope

The Fence Viewers for the Mara-Grindrod district are endeavoring to untie a tangle in Governmental red tape which is more than exasperating. The tangle has arisen out of the Fence Viewers' decision some months ago to allow a ditch to be dug along the east boundary of L587, running north and south through the Hazelmere Ranch and the adjoining properties of Messrs. Bell, George and Weir. The purpose of the proposed ditch is to drain much valuable land on these properties which is now virtually useless except as pasture during the summer months. The ditch, as surveyed, also cuts through a small portion of Timber Berth No. 287, now the property, under lease, of the Columbia River Lumber Company. This berth has been tied up as a timber lease for 20 years or more, yet in that time, residents of that locality tell us, not a log has been cut on the limit by this company or its successors. The Berth includes some 160 acres, and embraces excellent agricultural land.

The hard knot in the tangle seems to be the Columbia River Lumber Company's claim that it has the right to refuse to allow the timber to be cut along the proposed ditchway without compensation being paid the company. And the company claims, further, that the Dominion Government, while licensing the timber, still retains an interest in same to the extent of government dues and royalties. And, furthermore, the Columbia River Lumber Company refuses to acknowledge the Fence Viewers' right to construct the proposed ditch through its berth without permission of the Dominion Government and of the company. All of which may be technically true and at the same time absurdly foolish.

We wonder how much longer the Dominion Government is going to permit these immense tracts of valuable agricultural land to be tied up and withheld from preemption as timber limits, without a stick of timber being cut on them year after year? We wonder, too, how long the land department will permit these Fence Viewers to be tied up with the proposed ditch started and well under way, by a simple red tape technicality invoked by the Columbia River Lumber Company as a means of delaying and discouraging the ditch building? Nobody will question the lumber company's rights under the lease. But does it not seem to be most unjust for these farm lands of the men named above to be rendered practically useless, while the timber berth is unused by the lumber company and cannot be made use of by anyone else?

There are so many other case of a similar nature in this district that it would seem to be advisable for the Government to make a thorough investigation of conditions. The case in point is of more pressing importance. Unless the ditch is finished this fall it will mean that it will have to be held over until next summer's end, and the land which might be reclaimed, rendered useless still another season.

SAVE THE LIVE STOCK

Men in a position to know tell us there are fully double the number of cattle, sheep and hogs in this district today that were here a year ago. If this is true it is one of the best signs of the times we know of. There is yet room for one hundred milch cows where there is one today, and for pigs, sheep, horses and poultry in the same proportion. This district will not come into its own until we have them. At the same time, men who know, tell us that, owing to the high price which hay will unquestionably bring this winter, unless the winter be an open one, farmers are going to sacrifice their stock in order to cut down the feed bill. There are indications that the winter will be a mild one. This would mean more than we can imagine for the farmers of this district. It no doubt would mean less profit for the hay men, but it will mean the saving of several hundred head of stock. This, after all, is the important thing. A few dollars more or less on a ton of hay is a small matter compared to the holding of the young stock, so much needed in the district.

Harvest days are over, this year. If your returns have not been up to expectations, you will have all the quiet long evenings of winter to take a long, sane squint at yourself so you can discover how to plant differently and cultivate differently in order to bring better results.

LACK OF CO-OPERATION, AGAIN

Hay men tell us that, while first-class Okanagan hay is now retailing at $26.00 a ton at Vancouver, the highest they are offered by hay buyers in the Valley is $14.00 per ton. Putting the freight rate from Valley points to Vancouver at $4 per ton, the middle man gets away with $8 per ton for handling the hay from the farmer to the consumer. We are not in a position to know whether this is an unreasonable profit or not, but let it be reasonable or unreasonable, it is profit that would mean a great deal more to the district if left in the pockets of our farmers than in the pockets of the middlemen, here or at the coast.

We have always contended, and here wish to reiterate, that the community which produces the raw commodity will always be the poor community as compared with the community producing the finished product. The selling of hay at $14 or even $20 a ton means a depleted community in the long run. It means loss with every ton sold. It means land starvation and moral starvation. It means putting dimes in one pocket and taking out dollars from the other. We have been doing this for twenty years in some parts of British Columbia, and then wonder why the development of agriculture has been so slow.

The ducks are said to have clear backbones this fall, and this is given as a sure sign of an open winter. If you don't believe it, take your gun and get a duck.

CAN ROUMANIA MAKE GOOD ?

One of the remarkable things which this world war has demonstrated conclusively is that there is a distinct code of morals for the Eastern front and another for the Western front. When Germany approached Belgium and offered her immunity from harm, together with certain other considerations, provided Belgium would allow the Teutons to march through her territory, little Belgium heroically replied: "We are a nation, not a road!" And we know full well what followed. The world today applauds Belgium for the position then taken. And Great Britain, we are told, is fighting the battle of this heroic little Kingdom upon whose neck the foot of the intruder is set. Contrast this with what we see on the Eastern front. It was a great moral as well as diplomatic victory when we induced Italy to break her treaty with Germany and Austria; it was another moral and diplomatic victory when we quietly slipped into Saloniki Bay and landed troops on Greek soil and said to Greece, "allow us peaceful possession or we shall blockade your coasts," and we did it and got it. Now, the last great coup. Russia induces Roumania, by offers of territory, etc., to allow the Russian army to march through Roumanian territory in order to attack the Teutons at what is believed to be their weakest front. And we do not hear anything about Roumania being a kingdom and not a road. King Ferdinand, ruler of Roumania, is a prince of the house of Hohenzollern; Queen Marie of Roumania is a British princess of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, and the granddaughter of Queen Victoria. She is also a cousin of King George, the German Emperor and the Czar of Russia.

The great question now is: Can Roumania do the job? Can she assist the Russians into Serbia and enable the great bear of Europe to cut the line of communication between Germany and Bagdad? If she can, then her lack of Belgium heroics will be forgiven her. If she cannot—this is unthinkable. The Balkan campaign now centres around this one great objective—the effort of the Allies to wrest back the Oriental railroad from the Central Powers and the effort of the Teutons to retain it. This Oriental railroad affords Germany the only direct route to Constantinople and beyond, with all the immense possibilities that may follow—an object long desired by the Kaiser. As we see it now, this effort is only a war for a railway, but, as some of the world's best thinkers believe, it may mean a war for a world.

Listen closely—and not very closely, either—and you can hear the heathen giving us the laugh. Armed Christianity masks a savage—and even the Siwash knows it.

WHEN WILL THE WAR END ?

This seems to be a favorite topic for guessing contests just now—particularly for poets and greater or lesser literary gentlemen. Scarcely a day passes that a "story" does not come from London giving the guess of this man or that on this momentous question. Some will go as far as naming the month, but all are very hazy about the year. The other day the world was startled by the guess of Hall Cain, that noble Manxman who wrote "the Eternal City" and others—most of it in bed. Mr. Cain's guess was that if the British army had exactly three thousand of those caterpillar "tanks" the war would be ended in a month. And all the while these literary gentlemen are elucidating on the war and proving, to their own satisfaction at least, how much and how little they know about it, never a word is heard from the men who are doing the fighting and the planning. These men are the only ones who are in a position to know anything about it, yet we never hear of them making a guess as to time limit. In fact, they are the only persons who even faintly realize what this war is coming to. On both sides, they are face to face with the horror of it all. They see each day thousands of men killed and wounded carried to the rear or buried where they fall; gains and losses are recorded by the foot or yard; and they know that this sort of thing must go on and on until each side is exhausted and there are no more men to send to face the machines of destruction. These men see and know. And they fight on, each believing that his side will outlast the other. It remains for our feather-bed and easy-chair literary war experts and poets at home to tell us when and how it is all going to end.

Easy jobs are hard jobs to hold, for there are so many after them.

BUYING AT HOME

Every day $100,000 are spent by the people of this province for goods brought in from outside—goods which could be purchased at home in quality just as good and for just as little money. Are you doing your part, dear reader, to remedy this evil? Do you always ask for B.C. goods, or do you carelessly take what is offered, or, worse still, do you insist on the foreign article. Create a demand for the home article by refusing to buy the imported commodity.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent of sub-Agent of the district in which rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights as may be considered necessary for the working of the mine, at the rate of $10 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

" AFTER THE WAR"—WHAT ?

People talk glibly about what they will do "after the war." Just as if, some fine day, word will come that the war is over and all will go merrily on in the same old way as they were proceeding when the storm broke. They little realize the tremendous readjustment of things that must inevitably follow, either while the war is on or at its close. Some writers feel that these changes must come before the war ends—in fact, that anarchy and internal strife must first come within the nations at war, and out of it will emerge peace—world peace. This view, of course, is contrary to the view and purpose of the war party in each of the nations at war. They will put their foot upon it the moment it shows itself. But these writers conscientiously believe that the time will come, when the people have suffered sufficiently, that the cry will not be "when will the war cease", but "when will the men who are making the war cease." We think we hear it in Germany today. We shall hear it in England as well, and in France, and in Italy, and in all the others of the fifteen nations engaged. At the present time each nation is feeding its subjects on stories roseate with victories on this front or that, but the only net results of it all that anyone can see is in the casualty lists which continue daily to mount ever higher. As one writer puts it: "Perhaps it is in relation to certain of the things about which most confidence is expressed that the prospect is the least reassuring. There is for example the general fraternity that is so much spoken about. We are told daily, in every patriotic speech the note is sounded, that all class distinctions have been blurred, that the war has united all sections of the people, that it is impossible the old jealousies and antagonisms should be revived after the war, and that henceforth merit in every class and sphere will come into its own. But meantime there are no signs, unless at the front, that we are moving out of the old ruts. Really nothing is being done in the way of ameliorating unjust conditions. Apparently reform is to be deferred until after the war, which means that there will be no actual reform. The old conventions will hold the field and we shall have no new baptism, but only a fresh outpouring of fine phrases."

Breathe more, laugh more and love more, and talk less of what they are doing in Europe, if you would really benefit yourself and the community.

MUST PRODUCE SOMETHING

Sir George Foster, speaking to the people of Vancouver the other evening, said: "One lesson the war brings us. It is the power of co-operation and organization. If those two great factors had not been put together the army would not have been supplied today. Is not co-operation, teamwork, needed in Canada today? Our trouble is that every individual is too much for himself, too suspicious of his fellows. The system is all wrong.

"You cannot have trade unless you have production. You must get out and produce something; get out on the land and produce crops. Don't be content to sit down and holler for trade because you have a fine harbor and other facilities. You must get out and work to produce and then you will have a great and growing trade. You will never have real prosperity until you do produce. You must learn to look upon production as the means to develop moral, mental, physical and spiritual qualities and to bring to the full that manhood for which God gave all the wonderful riches of this Province with the idea that they would be used for ultimate good and benefit of all. Let us stop quibbling and quarreling and partizan strife and frittering away of effort, and develop for the after-war period that same spirit of co-operation and determination which characterizes our people during the war."

In the dark ages of the past the great men of the world were warriors, priests, diplomats, poets, statesmen, explorers, generals, sculptors, artists. Today the big men of the world are businessmen.

ONE HUNDRED BANTAMS WANTED

The 143d Overseas Battalion—the B. C. Bantams—want 100 men to fill up the battalion, and any man in this district who is willing to serve his King and Country in the field is asked to communicate without delay to Capt. J. Gordon Smith, recruiting officer, Victoria, B.C. He will arrange for transportation of any man who is physically fit to join the Bantams at Victoria. It is expected that the Bantams will be ready to leave for Overseas in October, and efforts are being made to have the necessary hundred men required to bring the unit up to full strength enrolled as quickly as possible.

CANADIANS IN THE FIGHTING

Heavy casualty lists received at Ottawa the past week indicate that the Canadian forces are doing their part in the British offensive on the Western front. With the toll of 4,000 in the battle of the Mouquet Farm, the total Canadian casualties up to September 23rd are officially given at 42,063. Of these 6,650 were killed in action, 2,505 died of wounds, 447 died of sickness, 927 are presumed dead, 1,052 missing, and 30,482 wounded.

CANADIAN COW HOLDS WORLD'S RECORD

Few people know that the world's record for butter and milk production is held by May Echo Sylvia, a Holstein, owned by Mr. A. C. Hardy, of Brockville, Ont. Speaking of the performance of this champion of champions, the Belleville paper says: "It should be a source of pride and satisfaction to all dairymen in this premier district to know that the cow that is now the acknowledged queen and the wonder of the dairy world was bred in the township of Sidney, in the herd of Mr. Fred R. Mallory. This phenomenal milk and butter machine is now the property of Mr. A. C. Hardy of Brockville. For this record-breaker Mr. Hardy was offered $25,000 in cold cash by an American, but this offer was promptly turned down. Double that figure, or $50,000, is the value set upon May Echo Sylvia by her owner.

"From June 1st to July 15th the records of 69 cows and heifers were received and accepted for entry in the Record of Merit. The sensational feature of this report is the work of the mature cow, May Echo Sylvia, the greatest milk producer the world has ever known. The largest official one-day milk record ever previously reported was 136.5 lbs. May Echo Sylvia sets the mark at 152.1 lbs. In seven days she gave 1005.8 lbs; in thirty days, 4,196.9 lbs; in sixty days, 8,220.1 lbs; in ninety days, 11,855.1 lbs; and in 100 days, 12,899.8 lbs., making her the world's champion for all these periods. Her seven-day butter record of 41 lbs. gives Canada her first 40-lb. cow, and makes her Canadian champion for all ages. Her butter record for 30 days is 169.72 lbs.; for 60 days, 323.32 lbs.; for 90 days, 463.6 lbs., and for 100 days, 505.34, all champion records for Canada.

"Some people affect to believe that payment for milk acording to quality will give other breeds an advantage over the Holstein. May Echo Sylvia's record of 505.34 lbs. butter in 100 days is a fitting answer to any such claims. It is highly doubtful if any other cow in Canada, except Holstein, could produce 25 per cent of the above amount in the same time."

The secret of keeping busy is the secret of keeping well.

THE RIGHT KIND OF LOVE

Edward Goldbeck, in the Chicago Tribune, tells this story of "Cecil and Ellen." It is the last of the series. If you have followed those which have preceded this, you will the more appreciate this, the climax:

"Ellen came home from shopping. 'Will Mr. Webster be in for dinner?' she asked the maid.

"'No, madam. Mr. Webster left a letter for you.'

"'Where is it?'

"'Here, madam.'

"Ellen dismissed the maid, looked into the mirror, smiled, looked at the letter, sighed, and tore it open. She sat down in a little cozy corner at the window and read:

"Dear Ellen—I shall not return tonight. I intend to go for a trip to the Adirondacks. This seems rather sudden and not very polite. But I shall give you the reason. I have felt during the last few months that you are drifting away from me, and I want you to be alone, to think things over, and to tell me when I am coming home what you have decided. Most men keep their wives in slavery. They adore them; they idealize them; they pervert them; they educate them, they don't love them, although, of course, they think they do. I am different; I have a deep respect for the freedom of a human being. If you feel that you do not want to live at my side any longer, leave me. I shall not protest. I shall suffer, but I will not hinder you. You are free to stay or go. I want you to be free, because I love you. Cecil."

"Ellen crumpled the letter in her hand. 'He says he loves me,' she muttered sadly, 'but that is not the right kind of love!' "

The Devil to Fritz: "Say, Bill, you are now getting yours because you called me God."

RECRUITING AT FALL FAIRS

British Columbia has already more than recruited her quota of men in the grand army of 500,000 which Canada has set as her limit in the great life struggle of the Empire. In the Eastern provinces they have not done so well, and the recruiting officers are finding difficulty in bringing their battalions up to strength. The latest move is being made upon the Fall Fairs. Here advantage will be taken to the fullest extent, and no one is a closer student of dates for the fall fairs than the officers of the units at Barriefield Camp. To every fair, without regard to the place in which it is held a recruiting staff is being sent. They will conduct meetings, and the visitors to the fairs will have given them a full explanation of why the Empire now needs men. The requirements of the service will be detailed and the most strenuous effort of personal appeals will be made to bring in more men to the khaki ranks.

If a homely woman lives long enough she will become a pretty old one.

Wall Paper Bargains

Wall Paper prices have steadily advanced since we purchased our present stock, and if we were buying this paper today we'd pay as much for it wholesale as we are offering it to you retail. We do not believe in carrying over old stock, even if our fall buying has to be made at a much higher figure. We want to clean out the present stock to make room for our new Fall shipments. You can buy at the old price, which means that every offering is a bargain—and every roll a snap.

Butter Wrapper Parchment

The Dominion law against the selling of butter without the words "Dairy Butter" or "Creamery Butter"—as the case may be—printed on the butter wrap, is a blessing in disguise to the average farmer. In the first place, if his Butter wrappers are neatly printed with his name and the brand of the butter on the label, the storekeeper can readily sell the butter at 5c a pound more than he can get for butter wrapped in paper that is not printed, and the butter-maker gets the advantage in 5c a pound more for his butter from the merchant.

It is the duty of every butter maker to comply with the law in this matter. Some butter makers have only a cow or two, and make so little butter that it does not appear to them that they can afford to have their butter wraps printed. They do not like the idea of having 500 or 1000 butter wraps on hand. To accommodate this class of butter makers, The Press has printed up a quantity of "Custom" Butter Wraps. They are printed with the words "Fresh Dairy Butter" but do not bear the name of the maker. However, these wrappers fill the requirements of the law governing this point, and can be bought in small quantities at the rate of 50c a hundred in 100 or 50 lots. If you do not require butter wraps in larger lots, take these wraps in lesser quantities.

WAR LOAN OVERSUBSCRIBED

Cash subscriptions to the Dominion war loan received by the department of finance up to midnight on Saturday, Sept. 23rd, the date of closing, totalled $169,000,000. This includes the $50,000,000 subscribed by the chartered banks. When it is considered that only $100,000,000 was called for, some idea of the success of the loan may be gained.

"A am confident," said Sir Thomas White, finance minister, "that when the subscriptions now in the mails are received, the total will be $180,000,000, and probably more. Ninety-five per cent of the subscriptions are Canadian. The number of subscribers may reach thirty thousand. The lists closed on Saturday and no further subscriptions can be received."

The question of the amount allotment to the subscribers cannot be considered until the returns are nearly all received, that is to say, until about the middle or toward the end of next week. It is regarded as probable that the banks will receive no part of their $50,000,000 subscribed, and that the smaller subscriptions will be allotted in full. The cutting down will be done in connection with the larger subscriptions.

"BUT WHEN THEY COME"

Sadly, grimly, the British are going now about their work. There is no hymn of hate in their resources; they have no 'Marsellaise'; theirs will be a slow, silent but relentless action. What you have to feel and see is millions of men who are at last awake to the fact that all that life means to them nationally, morally, spiritually, has been and is threatened. After the tradition of his race and the fashion of his nation the Englishman, millions of him, has now gone out to kill and be killed until the work that is to be done is done. Once that spirit was clear in England, then those of us who believe that all that America as well as all that democracy held best in the world was at stake in this war, could afford to roll up the war-maps and put aside the battle reports. The incidental changes would mean nothing. "They come slowly," the Frenchman told you of his allies six months ago, but in saying this he added out of his race consciousness of half a thousand years of Anglo-French conflict, "but when they come they will never stop."—New York Tribune.

Two Legs and Four Legs

Ali Baba came over to the Shop the other day, says the Philistine, followed by a shaggy Scotch collie.

"I am going to kill that dog," said Ali, and make a pair of gloves out of his hide."

"What's the matter with the dog: he looks like a good one?"

Why!" said Ali, "he is what you call a grave-digger dog."

"Go on," I said, "I don't exactly understand."

"Well, it is this way," he said. "that dog is like some folks, he is always digging up things that have been buried; and I believe that when things have been buried properly they ought to be left buried. Let 'em rest in their graves.'

"MY CREED"

The Rev. Toward A. Walter, of Hartford, Conn., is the author of this brief poem

I would be true, for there are those who trust me;
I would be pure, for there are those who care;
I would be strong, for there are those who suffer;
I would be brave for there is much to dare;
I would be friend of all—the foe—
the friendless;
I would be giving, and forget the gift;
I would be humble for I know my weakness;
I would look up—and laugh—and love—and lift.

NOT A CARPENTER'S JOB

In a pioneer Western town, say twenty years ago, writes a correspondent, my watch stopped. Neither winding nor shaking would make it go again.

Seeing 'Watchmaker and Jeweler' over a store, I went in. The man opened my watch, turned his head first one side and then on the other, and said he thought he could put it all right. When I got it back, it went for half an hour then stopped again. He had done it more harm than good . It cost twice as much to repair in the end as if he had never touched it.

That man, I found, was a carpenter by trade. He had done his best—but a carpenter's "best" for a disabled watch is not quite so curative as his best for a rickety chair. It was not a carpenter's job.

When a soldier comes home "out of repair," we have got to remember that a man is a more delicate and complicated piece of mechanism than even a watch. Also, he is infinitely more valuable to his country than the most marvelous chronometer ever invented. The country naturally insists that the most skilful surgeons and physicians shall be employed to heal the soldier's physical ills. But this is only the first stage of the disabled soldier's treatment. Equal skill and thoroughness must be employed to equip him, educationally, with technical knowledge and practice for rejoining the ranks of industry.

Even then we cannot turn him adrift. We must exert continued and systematic care to see that he gets work suited to him, or trouble is sure to follow.

The Military Hospital Commission of the Dominion Government, and the Provincial Commissions and local committees in co-operation with it, are trying to do this. If anyone can help them, either with practical suggestions or offers of steady work, it is his duty to do so.

No two leaves on a tree have precisely the same shape, and no two men are exactly alike. Each man's capacities have to be carefully studied to avoid putting round pegs into square hole and square pegs into round holes. On the care we take now depends the answer to the question whether our returning soldiers are to be a burden or a help to themselves and their fellow citizens. Mere quacks and theoretical cure-alls are mischievous enough at any rate, and especially at times of great emergency like ours. This is no carpenter's job.

Pushing the Dollar Into First Place

Max Hoschiller, in an article in the Temps, Paris, contrasts America's financial position now in respect to the foreign countries with what it was before the war, and says: "Then the United States was sending to Europe from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 in interests on its borrowings, $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 spent by tourists, $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 spent by expatriates and $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 in ocean freights. Since the war the United States has imported $740,000,000 in gold and has paid back a considerable amount of its borrowings, increased its foreign trade by $2,250,000,000 yearly and lent to foreign countries $1,470,000,000, so that the dollar now has replaced to a considerable extent the old sovereignty of the English pound abroad."

He Was Sho' Sick

An old negro was asleep on the train out of Sedalia the other day; mouth open and snoring, when a commercial traveler emptied a quinine capsule on his tongue. The old darkey awakened, began to spit around and call for the conductor, and said:

"Boss, is there a doctor on this 'ere train?"

"I don't know," said the conductor; "Are you sick?"

"Yes, sir, I sho' is sick; I sho' is sick."

"What seems to be the matter with you?"

"I dunno, sir; but it tastes like I busted my gall."

Fancy candies, delicious cakes and cookies, cooling ice cream and sodas, always will be found at Joe's

TWO MORE AIRSHIPS DOWN

Of the twelve big Zeppelins that invaded the British Isles Saturday night to deal death and destruction from the skies, two lay stark and black masses of steel and aluminum in the little village of Mangold, Essex County. One came down a flaming torch, while the second, disabled by gunfire, effected a landing which saved the lives of the crew, who are prisoners in England. The crew of the first raider died in the consuming flames of their own ship.

The raiders took a heavy toll of lives before their destruction, 28 persons being killed and 99 wounded in the metropolitan district of London alone. The property damage, while widely distributed, is reported to be confined for the most part to small suburban dwellings and shops, although one railway station was damaged, some empty cars being destroyed and part of the tracks torn up. London also reports that twelve Grimsby trawlers were sunk in the North Sea by German submarines about the time the Zeppelins raided England. This leads to the belief that U boats accompanied the airships to afford them a certain amount of protection while crossing the water.

POULTRY RATIONS

"Poultry Rations and Their Practical Application" is the title of Circular Bulletin No. 19, which has just been issued by the Department of Agriculture, Victoria. All the rations given in this interesting little circular have been experimented with many years ago, and have been used constantly and successfully by a great many poultrymen in this Province. It is with the idea that many poultry raisers can better and cheapen their methods of feeding their stock by following out the suggestions in this publication that it is isued at the present time.

The Bishop's Presence of Mind

A bishop recently addressed a large assembly of Sunday school children, and wound up by asking in a very paternal way: "And now, is there any little boy or any little girl who would like to ask me a question?"

A thin, shrill voice at the back of the room called out: "Please, sir, why did the angels walk up and down Jacob's ladder when they had wings?"

"Oh, ah, yes—I see," said the bishop; "And, now, is there any little girl who would like to answer this question?"

SUNDAY READING

Now days, when our Christian nations are spending most of their Sundays and week days trying to kill each other and praying the Good Lord to help them do it, the best thought of the best people is not what we can do for God, or get God to do for us, but what can we do rationally to better the condition of men without interfering with others in their beliefs or religious faith. Within the past few years great changes have occurred in the sentiment of the people as to the Day of Rest, and also there is a change in our ideas as to what constitutes rest. Absence of effort is not rest; absence of effort is concrete laziness. A mind quite idle is a mind distressed. Rest consists in change. That folks should be allowed to rest in their own way, so long as they do not interfere with others, is now the prevailing opinion of all sane minds. Moses was all right in his Sunday-closing and pork-eating laws, but we are not living in exactly the same conditions that prevailed in Assyria three thousand five hundred years ago. We have a different climate and different occupations. And we have fewer wives to take care of. The majority of intelligent people everywhere regard it not only as a privilege, but as a duty, to get out in the open air on Sunday and indulge with the children in a little harmless laughter, frolic and exercise. Natural joys bring no headaches, no back-aches and no heart-aches.

There was a man in our town,
And he was wondrous wise,
He swore (it was his policy)
He would not advertise.
But one sad day he advertised,
And thereby hangs a tale,

And headed, "Sheriff's Sale."
