Enderby Growers Declare 6 per cent Dividend and Bonus

Nine hundred dollars profit on a paid-up capital of $1,300, in twelve months' business, is a showing that few businessmen can make. But that is what the annual statement of the Enderby Growers' Association makes for the year 1920. And, when it is realized that of this pro[illegible]ly $28 (in round figures) was made in handling fruit and vegetables, and $274 in handling hay, wheat and wood, for its members, it will be seen that the source of the profit was from and in and through the Association buying and selling flour and feed to its members, in which department alone there was the gross profit of $3,100. From the remarks of President Coltart at the annual meeting held Tuesday in Farmers' Hall, it was clear that the shareholders fully realize that the great percentage of growers in the district are not using the Association as fully as might be desirable, with the result that the volume of produce handled for the farmer is insignificant compared to the volume of flour and feed sold to the farmers through the Association store.

While the directors and shareholders feel that the Association has filled and is filling a need in the common interest of the community, they realize at the same time that much is being lost by growers not taking full advantage of the organization's marketing facilities. However, they feel that this will come in time, and in the meatime the profits from the flour and feed department will keep the Association alive and ready to serve the farming community. It is probable, too, that the trading department will be extended, and other lines of goods may be handled. This power was given the directors at the annual meeting.

The attendance at the meeting was greater than at any other annual meeting held in years, and the interest shown was quite a contrast to that of previous years. The big fight of the meeting, all very good-natured, was to retain the old board of directors. Mr. Emeny, and Mr. Anderson, who have been members on the board from the first, and Mr. Forster and Mr .Coltart, later members, each expressed a wish to be relieved of the duties, but the shareholders would not hear of it.

An effort was made to put through a motion that the Association present to each director the sum of $25 and to Mr. C. Reeves, the manager, a bonus of a month's salary. Each of the directors declined to accept any amount, and asked that the motion be voted down. Mr. Reeves did likewise, but in his case, it was decided to pay the bonus as an expression of appreciation for the good work of the past year.

The board of directors were empowered to handle eggs for members, and to buy eggs for non-members under regulations similar to those of the old egg circle.

After some discussion it was decided to declare a dividend of 6 per cent, and to pay a bonus on the year's business to members.

Mr. Proctor was elected representative of the Association to the Central organizaation, and the firm of Crehan, Mouat & Co., auditors.

In their report for 1920 the auditors say: "We are pleased to be able to draw to your attention the good showing made by the Association during the year under review. The result of the year's operations, as disclosed by the profit and loss account, is a net profit of $908.40. As no dividend or rebate had been declared up to the time of making our statements, we have carried this amount to a surplus account, which account now shows a balance of $1,019.73."

O. U. G. Business

At the conclusion of the business on the agenda of the meeting, Mr. Rennick, assistant manager of the O. U. G. gave a concise statement of the business handled in 1920. He said the management met with unforseen obstacles in many ways as the season advanced, and at the closo of the shipping they found the total volume of business had not reached one-half the volume anticipated and prepared for at the season's opening. Particularly true was this with regard to apples, owing to the short crop. He said, too, that they were finding the New York market more difficult to get into, for the reason that apple orchards had sprung up there more rapidly than they had in the West. The total increase in orchards in New York State last year alone was greater than the total orchard acreage of British Columbia, Washington and Oregon combined. But in spite of this, Okanagan apples of certain varieties found a ready market in New York at very satisfactory prices, and this he attributed to the high quality of the Okanagan pack under the supervision of Mr. C. W. Little, inspector of fruit packing for the O. U. G. Mr. Rennick said the growers have had to recognize the steady increase in volume in the growth of vegetables in the irrigated districts of the Northwest, which, being nearer the market heretofore held by the Okanagan growers, was gradually making the market more difficulty to get into.

Mr. Little spoke briefly on the general outlook, and referred in pleasing manner to the pleasure he experienced in returning to Enderby and meeting old friends and to witness the advance made by the local organization in getting down to a sounder basis of doing business. He drew attention to the good work of the O.U.G. and, while not minimizing the conditions which would have to be met in the marketing of our Okanagan product, he spoke confidently of the ability of the O. U. G. to hold its own against any competition that may arise.

PIED PIPER OPERA

There was this week returned from Mrs. Geo. Butterworth and Mr. Wm. Coel, of Mara, the sum of $2.50 each, refunded by them to the Enderby Hospital "Pied Piper" fund, thus increasing the amount from $75.08 reported last week, to $80.08, which amount will be spent in purchasing an operating table, etc., to be a gift to the hospital from the school children of Mara.

To Enderby Committee:

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of $50.27. On behalf of the parents of the Mara school children and teachers please accept thanks for the comfort afforded and for the great kindness shown by all to the children on the afternoon and night of February 24th.

WANT TO GRAVEL ROAD

Last week the property owners on the Salmon Arm road from the school corner to the city limits, showed what can be done in a day by co-operative work in the way of sidewalk improvement. These same property owners, having had to endure the most disgraceful piece of wagon road in the country for years, have now a proposition to make to the city along the same lines. It is only reasonable and just. They propose to undertake the gravelling of the road from the school corner to the city limits if the city will grade the road and cut down the Teece hill to a reasonable grade.

Messrs. P. H. and J. F. Murphy left on Sunday for Ironwood, Mich., in response to a wire received on Saturday telling of their mother's death.

Miss Eva Jones has resumed duty in the postoffice after a few weeks' holidays spent at the Coast. In her absence Miss K. Broom assisted at the wicket.

Miss Ruth Baxter returned from Vancouver last week, where she finished her course in stenography. She will remain at her home for the spring months.

Supposing now that France, England and Belgium have thrown troops into Germany, Fritz sits down on his keg of sauerkraut and limberger and says "Vell!" who's going to pay the reparation demands?

Thos. Woods was in town last Friday and Saturday on his way home to his Alberta wheat ranch from Portland, Ore., where he spent the winter. Mr. Woods says they are dealing with the H.C.L. problem there in a systematic effort to get prices back to the pre-war level. And in the line of eats he says they have done it. Two eggs any style are served in the restaurants at 15c, and other meals are on a like basis. He noticed some difference when he had breakfast on the C.P.R. dinning car and paid 60c for two eggs. Roses are so plentiful in Portland Mr. Woods thought he had one in his coat buttonhole all the time.

TELEPHONE EXTENSIONS

Wire Laid Down at Enderby for Deep Creek and Mabel Lake Lines

A shipmnet of wire for the Okanagan Telephone Company for the Deep Creek and Mabel Lake extensions, arrived in Enderby this week. We understand from Mr. Godfrey, superintendent of the Okanagan system, that the Deep Creek line will be built just as soon as the work can be done to advantage. Construction of the Mabel Lake line will follow that of Deep Creek if present plans are carried out.

Questioned as to when these lines would be ready for service, Mr. Godfey said:

"That will depend largely on the way the snow goes off and the general condition of the roads. Tell them this summer. Individuals and district organizations are appealing to us daily for service and, much as we desire to extend our facilities, feeling that each extension increases the value of the service to those at present on our lists, we are unable to meet all demands and are compelled to direct our energies, in turn, to points where the needs seem greatest or from which assistance has come in the way of capital to cover initial expenditures."

United Farmers in Convention Seek to Better Conditions

At the regular meeting of the Enderby Local, United Farmers, last Thursday evening, Mr. A. L. Glen, delegate to the convention, reported on the business transacted. He reported the attendance large and the spirit of the convention most inspiring.

The re-election of Mr. R. A. Copeland as president was carried with loud cheers, while the election of Mr. Laidman as second vice-president, went through without opposition, Mr. Laidman winning by right of merit, he having taken a prominent part in all the deliberations, winning the confidence of all on the floor by his wisdom and broad-guage spirit.

The election of Mr. Chapple again as secretary was also heartily applauded, it being recognized that he had proved his worth and was the right man in the right place.

Briefly, here are the important matters dealt with:

Annual fee to central, $3 instead of $2, this to run from Jan. 1, 1921.

Any local requiring financial assistance to receive it from headquarters.

Fee after Sept. 1 in any year, $1.50.

Official organizer discontinued, and this work to be left to the President, with expenses provided.

President and secretary to receive not less than $150 per month each and travelling expenses.

Central offices to be secured.

One hundred and fifty resolutions were presented and dealt with. The two from Enderby Local regarding the Indian Reserve and conservation of the waterpower at the Skookum Chuck were each made of no avail by the addition of a rider embracing all Indian Reserves and all waterpowers in the Province.

Legislation against Orientals was asked for; cheaper fertilizer through reduced freight rates or subsidy to manufacturer was demanded; an amendment to the Workmen's Compensation Act was urged, to include the farmer and farm laborer.

Assistance was demanded for disabled veterans whose ailments make them physically unable to farm the number of acres they at present hold.

No farmer candidate for political honors may be called a United Farmer candidate.

Publicity requested for calling public attention to the law that all made in B. C. honey must be so marked and be up to market weight.

SUDDEN DEATH IN WOODS

Saturday morning "Amie," youngest son of Mrs. Napoleon Simard, of Mabel Lake Valley, 17 years of age, left home to hunt in the woods close by. He did not return and searching parties put out in an effort to locate him. They searched that night and on Sunday and Monday. The boy's tracks were followed some distance into a swamp close by, then all tracks were lost. Tuesday the search was resumed, and in a little declivity close to the road the body was found lying in the soft snow near the Pautry home, at Hupel. The gun that the young man carried was leaning up against a log that the boy had stepped over or attempted to.

It would appear from tracks in the snow that the young man was returning home and on stepping over the log was taken by a spell of dizziness, for he circled in the snow before falling, and there was no evidence that he moved a muscle after falling.

No marks were found on the body, but the face bore every indication of heart trouble.

When it was found a party of six of the searchers went to the scene and after making note of the surroundings they carried the body to the road and it was brought to Enderby Wednesday morning.

Burial will take place this afternoon from the undertaking parlor of A. McPherson.

BRICK YARD RE-OPENING

Mr. A. Fulton started preparatory work in the Enderby Brick Yard this week. The work is under the foremanship of Wm. Freeman, a brick expert from the Coast, who believes he will have things in shape to start brickmaking by the 1st of April, if the weather continues favorable.

Mr. Fulton says the outlook for a good season are most favorable. He has been in touch with the coast market and is confident that a ready sale will be found for all the brick he can turn out of the yard this year.

POLSON-ALBRIGHTON

The friends of Mr. J. Ross Polson were delighted to greet him in Enderby this week, and with him his winsome bride, nee Miss Ellen Albrighton daughter of Rev. G. A. Albrighton, of Kamloops. They were married at the home of the bride on Sunday morning, the Rev. Mr. Reid, formerly of Enderby, officiating, and on Monday they motored to Enderby to surprise their relatives and friends, returning to their home in Kamloops Wednesday.

HADLEY-LARGE WEDDING

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Large, of Hupel, Thursday evening, March 3rd, when their daughter, Elsye Jean, of Winnipeg, was given in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Charles Berry Hadley, Capt. Rev. J. G. Gibson officiating. Miss Winnifrid Large acted as bridesmaid and Mr. Milton Large as groomsman.

Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kass, and Miss Huffman were the only ones present outside of the family. The ceremony was held under an archway of evergreen. The bride was dressed very becomingly in silver tissue and cream lace, with a veil held up by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid wore a gown of white silk mull and also carried a bunch of carnations. Mrs. S. O. Moore played Mendelsson's wedding march and later, during the signing of the register, sang "Oh Promise Me." After the ceremony dinner was served by Mrs. Joseph Kass. Later in the evening the happy couple left for their new home across the river from Mr. Large.

NORTH DEEP CREEK

R. Beddington left for the coast on Monday.

Mr. Harvie is putting up a new shed for his implements.

L. Smiley is the latest purchaser of a car, coming home on Monday with a Ford.

Miss Monk and Miss B. Tompson have been visiting their aunt, Mrs. T. A. Sharpe, for a week.

Mrs. Jamieson gave a whist party on Wednesday evening, which was greatly enjoyed by all present. The lucky winners were: First prize, Mrs. T. A. Sharpe; consolation, Mrs. Green; gentleman's, first, Mr. Green; consolation, Mr. Hall.

At the regular meeting of the U.F. held Saturday night it was resolved to follow regular business by a social evening in future, hoping by so doing to get a better attendance of the ladies, and gentlemen, too. The members were disappointed in not hearing through T. A. Sharpe a report of the convention proceedings, but as Mr. Sharpe was ill it was impossible for him to be present.

Geo. A. Rands received a carload of Fordston tractors this week.

Before It Is Too Late

If Enderby is to celebrate May 24th in anything like the old-time vigor and enthusiasm—a vigor that ensured a celebration that was looked forward to by all, and which attracted crowds from sister towns and the outlying district, and which were of such a nature as to make the day thoroughly enjoyable to each and all—then we should take a leaf out of the experience of the past year or two and not wait until it is too late to get for the celebration the sports and other events which are most enjoyable. If we can this year get an early start, and at the outset of the season, manage to get in touch with the playing teams before they are booked for other places, we can then have something upon which to build a program of sports that will be appreciated, and which can be advertised with vigor early enough to allow people to make plans to spend the day in Enderby.

There is a double reason why we should begin early this year. It is now pretty well understood that the city will this year give the proceeds of the gate, after the expense of the celebration is paid, to the skating rink building fund. It therefore should be the aim of everybody to make the event the greatest success possible. It cannot be done without a lot of hard work. And a lot of hard work cannot be done in a week or two when it is too late to do anything.

Let us remember that the success of the hospital drive last year is not a standard to go on in connection with the building of a skating rink. In the first place a hospital and a skating rink do not appeal to the sympathies of the average person in the same way. In fact, there is nothing in common between them. It must be remembered, too, that the net proceeds of the gate, last year, turned over to the hospital fund after the expense of the celebration had been paid, did not reach $110.00. If the net result of this year's celebration is not any greater, this will not go far in the erection of a covered rink.

However, the thing to look at in holding the celebration is not the gate receipts so much as preparing a program of sports that will please our visitors, and this cannot be done if we make too late a start.

Would Bring Utopia Too Quickly

At the convention of United Farmers in Vancouver last week they passed over one hundred resolutions. They did a lot of other things perhaps more valuable. They re-elected Mr. Copeland president and Mr. Chapple secretary; they decided to stay out of politics as an organization; they decided to raise the membership fee from $2 to $3 per year and they decided to pay their president $150 a month and travelling expenses. All of those things were, of course, the right things to do. But those resolutions, Lordie! One hundred and more! What for? Is life so short that they would remake the conditions in one convention? Surely our farmer friends would not have all this beneficial legislation brought down in a single session of the legislature. We do not wish to criticise our farmer friends, but, seriously, wouldn't more be accomplished if less were asked? Why not get down to something concrete and seek to accomplish one thing at a time, instead of putting through a hundred or more resolutions that can get us nowhere?

It is quite probable that had the farmers taken up one or two definite, pressing propositions, and had these been studied out and concretely placed before the Government, something might come of it. But a hundred resolutions! Why not make it a thousand?

In Sheer Desperation

When one studies the reparation demands on Germany the thought cannot escape us. How can one expect to eat his pie and keep it, too? In the last analysis it is demanded that Germany shall pay the last farthing she is capable of paying, and this can only be done by exports of manufactured goods. Then France makes the additional demand that a tax of 12½ per cent be put upon all exports from Germany, which gives all other countries a full eighth the better of her in the world market. Laboring under this handicap, how is Germany to get into the markets of the world? And if she cannot get into the markets on a basis that will make it possible for her to sell goods in competition with other nations, how then can she find the money with which to pay the indemnity? It would seem that France is making demands in sheer desperation that can not be met. And Britain, in her time-honored chivalry, having defeated the enemy, is prepared to assist in making him prosperous, knowing full-well that unless Germany is prosperous there is no likelihood of her ever being able to meet the reparation demands.

In a Span of Sixty Years

On the 7th of March, 1861, a young man going on 21 years of age, left his home town, Cornwall, Ont., on a trip across the great, vast Canadian Prairie for the gold fields of Cariboo. His experiences on the trip were not different from the experiences of many other pioneers who joined in the gold rush of those days. If put in book form they would make interesting reading today, but he, like others, was too much engrossed in the affairs of the hour to give any thought to other things. The days came and went much as they come and go today with most of us, with little thought of the morrow and less of the next generation.

In due time this young man reached the rich gold fields of Cariboo. He was there with the first of them and stayed as long as there was any gold to be found on any of the creeks that were then in the placer belt. For twenty-two years he worked claims on all of the creeks then prospected, taking from the pan as much as any of them and enjoying life in the open as did all in those days of gold.

There were some rough and tough characters in the Cariboo in those days, but not so wild and woolly as one imagines now. Most of them were given short shrift at the end of a rope. In his twenty-two years' experience in the Cariboo this young man of Cornwall met all the gold kings of the gold age. He lived a quiet life in the midst of excitement, and to him all the wild stories of millions and hundreds of thousands simmered down to three figures. He saw too much of the real thing to give much credence to the yarns spun in those days, as they are spun today, about the millions and the hundreds of thousands in gold men were reported to have been robbed of or to have taken from claims in a day's or a few weeks' panning. What he was prepared to believe in those days, as he is to-day, was and is that more millions were brought into the country and spent by promoters and mining companies than ever came from the mines. Just as an illustration, he tells of thirty-five carloads of big iron pipe, shipped direct from England, and freighted into the Cariboo by a single mining company. He saw another company build a town, with hotels, residences, lighting facilities and everything then modern, at a cost which was said to be a million and a half, at a point on a creek that had previously been prospected and passed up as worthless. And when the stock had been sold the town melted away.

In 1884 that Cariboo pioneer came into the Okanagan and bought from the Government the ranch now known as the Hazelmere, at $1 an acre. He developed the farm and lived thereon fifteen or eighteen years, when it was sold to a Mr. Cole, who farmed it only a few years. It was then taken over by Robt. Waddell, who, in turn, won distinction as a breeder of fancy poultry, etc. Later the Hazelmere was bought by the Skyrme Brothers, where each is now residing, the ranch having been subdivided.

The Cornwall boy and Cariboo pioneer then moved to Enderby and has since that day been a conspicuous figure in the quiet circle. Aleck Bilsland was a friend to all and the enemy of none. Day after day he made the circle as regularly as the hands of a clock He was free with his money in attempted kindness to friends in need. He had the old Cariboo spisit of liberality, forgetting himself in his giving.

The other day sickness came upon him. For a little time only. Then came an invitation from his old home in Ontario, and on March 7th, he left Enderby on his first trip to the home town since he came West exactly sixty years ago.

Free Range Law.

This is a free range district. If an animal puts its head through a fence, a man may drive him off the premises, but no farther. He cannot drive an animal away from the fence for any specific distance. He can merely drive him off the premises. He may drive it off in spite of any protestations of the owner as long as the animal is trespassing on his property. Under the "Animal Act" it is unlawful to allow swine to run at large at any time of the year. In this respect they are differentiated by statute from cows. If swine break through your fence you have a remedy under the act to seize the same and notify the owner and hold him until the owner pays damage. You must, however, feed and take care of the swine while it is in your possession. The only laws dealing with stock and fences is the Animal Act, Revised Statutes of British Columbia, 1911.

President Harding in Harness

President Harding was inaugurated on March 4th. In his inaugural address he gave a grand conception of American ideals, and a broad vision of the highest principles of Democracy. Here are some of the high lights he gave utterance to:

"Our eyes never will be blind to a developing menace, our ears never deaf to the call of civilization. We crave friendship and harbor no hate.

"We are ready to associate ourselves with the nations of the world, great and small, for counsel, to seek to express views of world opinion, to recommend a way to approximate disarmament and relieve the crushing burdens of military and naval establishments.

"America is ready to encourage, initiate and participate in any seemly program likely to lessen the probability of war and promote that brotherhood of mankind which must be God's highest conception of human relationship.

"What mankind needs is a world-wide benediction of understanding.

"When the governments of the world have established freedom, have sanctioned the pursuit of peace, I believe the last sorrow and the final sacrifice of international warfare will have been written.

"We shall give no people just cause to war upon us: we do not hate, we do not covet; we dream of no conquest, nor boast of armed prowess.

"No civilization can survive repudiation. We can strike at war taxation, and we must.

"There is no instant step from disorder to order. We must face a condition of grim reality. We must charge off loss and setart afresh.

"My most reverent prayer for America is for industrial peace with its rewards, widely and generally distributed amid the inspiration of equal opportunity.

Labor's Sound Reasoning

We have heard much from certain quarters about the danger of the labor element getting too strong politically. But if we are to believe one half what we read of the blunders and changes of policy, the switching and back-peddling, the bluff and camouflage of some of those European makers of piece, and then compare their public speeces and actions with the sane, controlled utterances of the spokemen of labor, say of the Trades Union Congress of England, we cannot but wish that we had more of labor in control of national and international affairs. A manifesto on the proposed German indemnity was adopted at a joint meeting of the parliamentary committee of this congress, held in London last week. This manifesto places the blame for the industrial unrest in England for the most part abroad. All Europe had been impoverished by war and part of it had been ruined by peace, it said.

"We are now faced in the indemnity terms," it continues, "with a demand for an immense tribute from German industry which must reduce still further the capacity of the German population to consume our goods. We shipped directly last year to the German, Russian and Austro-Hungarian ports less than one-tenth of what we sent them in 1913. That decrease alone would suffice to account for most of the present unemployment. In this general impoverishment which by ruining our customers has thrown our workers idle, there is something worse than the inevitable waste of wealth caused by war. The blockade of Russia was a wanton act of policy. In clause after clause the peace treaties have completed the ruin which the war began.

"Germany was bidden (quite properly) to work in order that reparations might be earned, but the treaty which imposed this obligation took her merchant marine, deprived her of three-fourths of her iron ore, diminished her supply of industrial coal and closed her banks and businesses by which alone she can trade abroad."

MILLIONS KILLED IN ACTION

Wonderful news! Millions and millions of germs killed in action and thousands and thousands of victims relieved of bronchitis, asthma, coughs, and colds. There is great rejoicing in the fact that science has at last invented the world's surest death trap for germs—Buckley's Bronchitis Mixture. With the first dose this remedy gets right down to business, and never ceases in its destructive work until every trace of the disease is completely removed and the victim restored to normal health. Letters from all parts of Canada praising this wonderful mixture are literally pouring into headquarters. Read this letter:—"Years of suffering from that terrible affliction, bronchial asthma, ordered by all medical men to close my business in Montreal and go south to a warmer climate, but I noticed your ad. in the "Montreal Standard" for the above mixture and I said I would give one more trial to health before I leave my native town, and thank the good maker I did. My bronchial tubes are clear, the hacking cough has disappeared, the wheezing cough has ceased as if by magic, and all discomforts have gone since taking your wonderful mixture."—Herbert Corri, 417 McKay Street, Montreal. There is no reason whatever why you cannot be completely and speedily restored to health if you take this remedy. You are satisfied or the money is refunded, according to our guarantee. Don't delay. MARA ITEMS

Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Goodrich were in Enderby on Monday.

Miss Winnie Collison returned on Thursday from a month's visit to Vancouver friends.

Major and Mrs. Feilden were visitors to Vernon last week, where they spent a day or two.

Mr. Rimmer Mrs. Spilstead, Geo. Little and Wm. Coell were amongst the Maraites returning last Monday from Vernon.

The monthly meeting of the Mara local, was held Monday night and was well attended. The main subject was the delegates' report which was thoroughly discussed.

A large crowd from Mara took in the U. F. social at Grindrod last Saturday and report having had a fine time. They hope the Grindrod people will return the compliment, and we can promise them an equally good good time.

It was with genuine regret that many of the old timers of Mara saw Alex Bilsland going out of the Valley for Eastern Ontario on Monday, and many were at the station to wish him a happy and comfortable sojourn in his reclining years. To those who have known him for 25 or 30 years it will be a loss. All who remember him when he owned the Hazelmere, then heavily timbered land and cattail swamp, will recall his straightforward, rugged honesty and openhandedness, and there are many who will give to him the credit of having given them advice which, when followed, was greatly to their advantage. He is a pioneer to whom B. C. is greatly indebted, and we wish him the best of life's pleasures in his new surroundings.

GRANDVIEW BENCH

Mr. Ed Smith had the misfortune to lose a valuable horse last week.

Mr. Jesse Tomkinson was a business visitor in Enderby last Saturday.

Mr. Arthur Lidstone and Miss Myrtle Lidstone were visitors in Enderby last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Lidstone spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs.Campbell in Enderby.

A number of young people of the Bench took in the Banff orchestra dance last Friday.

Miss Dorothy Woods spent the week-end with Mrs. A. D. Stroulger at her home "The Birches."

Mr. Joseph Swallow returned to his homestead after having spent the winter cutting timber for Mr. J. Tomkinson.

A negro was trying to saddle a mule, when a bystander asked,

"Does that mule ever kick you, Sam?"

"No, suh, but he sometimes kicks where I'se jes been."

GRINDROD NOTES

Mrs. Fyall was in Enderby this week.

Robt. Salt was in Armstrong on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. McEwen were in Enderby on business Monday.

Miss Joan Enoch is spending a few days with friends in Grindrod, from Deep Creek.

A number of Grindrod people journeyed to Enderby last week for the Banff orchestra dance, and all speak highly of it.

Last week W. J. Monk quarreled with a monkey wrench. The monkey wrench had the best of it, knocking out three teeth and cutting his lip. Luckily that was all.

A very enjoyable and successful evening was spent at the G. F. Hall last Saturday evening when the local United Farmers held their first social. The evening was spent in songs, music, dancing and cards, and at 11 a light lunch was served.

ENDERBY AGRICULTURAL CLASS

No teacher could be more interested in his pupils than Mr. Munro, of the agricultural and general science class. In submitting the results of the past week's exams, which follow, Mr. Munro says: "I cannot understand how it is that the girls lead that class in Enderby. It is a subject that naturally should appeal to the boys, but they let the girls carry the honors every time."

"During February the students of the preliminary class studied yeasts, molds and bacteria, as prescribed in the General Science text. The result of their examination shows that their interest in minute organisms must be very real. The work was of a practical nature and dealt with diseases, of plants, man and domestic animals, as well as with bread-making, vinegar making, ripening of cream and even the innoculation of clovers for the gathering of nitrogen compounds from the air.

"The following list includes only those securing over 75% of the possible marks in the test:
