TALMAGE IS NO MORE

The Noted Divine, Lecturer and Writer Passes Away.

Washington, D. C., April 14.—Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, the noted Presbyterian divine, died at 9 o'clock Saturday night at his residence in this city. It has been evident for some days that there was no hope of his recovery and the attending physician so informed the family. The patient gradually grew weaker until life passed away so quietly that even the members of the family, all of whom were watching at the bedside, hardly knew that all was over. The immediate cause of death was inflammation of the brain.

Dr. Talmage was in poor health when he started away from Washington for Mexico for a vacation and rest six weeks ago. He was then suffering from influenza and serious catarrh conditions. Since his return to Washington some time ago he has been quite ill. Until Tuesday, however, fears for his death were not entertained. The last rational words uttered by him were on the day preceding the marriage of his daughter, when he said: "Of course I know you, Maud." Since then he has been unconscious.

At Dr. Talmage's bedside, besides his wife, were the members of his family: Rev. Frank DeWitt Talmage, Chicago; Mrs. Warren G. Smith Brooklyn; Mrs. Allan F. Donnan, Richmond, Mrs. Clarence Wyckoff and Miss Talmage, Washington.

While arrangements for the funeral have not been finally completed, the family have about decided to have the body taken to the Church of the Covenant here on Tuesday, where services will be held. The body will then be conveyed to Brooklyn, where interment will be made in the family plot in Greenwood cemetery, probably on Wednesday.

YUKON DOING WELL.

Victoria, April 14.—Another judge is to be given to Yukon this session. Yukon will also be given representation at Ottawa.

MAKE OCEAN WORK

An Old Dream of Inventors Put to Practical Use in California.

To make the unruly ocean, with its ponderous waves and resistless tides, work for man is an old dream that has lured many inventors, yet the city of Santa Cruz, California, possesses proof that it is not all a dream. For four years an efficient wave-motor has been working on the coast near that town.

It stands at the edge of a rocky cliff fronted by deep water. Two well-holes, one eight and the other five feet in diameter, were sunk in the rock, the foremost within five feet of the edge of the cliff and the other directly behind it. These wells extend from a level thirty feet above high tide to a point below ebb tide, and at the bottom are connected by a horizontal tunnel with the ocean, so that the water stands in the wells at the same level as in the sea outside.

In the well nearest the cliff-edge is a counterbalanced float, rising and falling with the swells of the sea. The second well contains the plunger of a force pump, working in a long pump, working in a long pump-barrel and and actuated by being connected with the rising and falling float.

In this way sea-water is forced on every down stroke of the piston in the pump to a vertical height of one hundred and twenty-five feet, where it enters a five thousand-gallon tank, carried on a derrick sixty feet above the ground. From this tank it runs off to smaller tanks distributed along the roadsides over the surrounding country, where it is used for sprinkling.

The pump and the float are both carried by guides, supported by a derrick above the wells, and fastened to the end of a round timber sixty feet in length, which is counterbalanced at the butt and provided with wheels running on a short track, so that it can advance or recede as well well as oscillate up and down, and thus the entire apparatus is kept in adjustment.

Under the name of the British Columbia Coal Company, limited, an association has been formed in Victoria to develope six square miles of coal lands in the Similkameen valley.

Miss Mary Burkhart, the daughter of a wealthy lumberman, is a candidate for congress on the prohibition ticket in the Tenth Kentucky district. She is making a house-to-house canvass, and says that no law will prevent her from taking her seat if elected.

Hon. C. H. McIntosh has interested Scotch capital for the operation of the Giant mine in Burnt Basin, and the Lavina in the Lardeau, and intends pushing operations vigorously this spring.

The house committee has reported favorably the senate bill giving Mrs. William McKinley an annual pension of $5 000. As the estate of the late President McKinley was said to be valued at over a quarter of a million, it is safe to assume the taxpayers who will have to foot this expense will not appreciate this unwarranted extravagance. If Mrs. Kinley will decline acceptance of the donation, she will be remembered with grateful pride by a nation of admirers.

The citizens of the Christina lake district—that is, that portion of them that live by honest toil—would be much pleased and profited if the provincial officer at Cascade, during his leisure time, would break up the band of thieves that infests that section. For two or three years past they have broken into miners' cabins and confiscated their provisions, cooking utensils, and even going so far as to take doors, windows and dressed lumber from the buildings. These depredations could be stopped if the officers of the law would exert themselves in that direction.

If, as is generally expected, the Yukon is going to be a permanent source of wealth, and especially if quartz mining shall be carried on extensively it is not difficult to see that the problem of supplies will be solved by a railway running through British Columbia. When this is done the boundary question will be less important than it is today. Northern British Columbia will be connected with the Northwest Territories, and the miners will be revelling in bread made of No. I hard, British Columbia fruit and fish and Alberta beef, while all these regions will profit by selling their stuff at miners' prices. Eastern Canada will supply manufactures. Our American friends will not be "in it" when the Territories and British Columbia are connected with the Yukon by rail, unless they join the great American migration into Canada.—Toronto Globe.

On the Velvet mine railway charter coming up in the senate, Senator Templeman said it looked like a line to the Boundary. The charter was passed with a proviso that a line to the Boundary could only be built by consent of the Governor-in-council. This latter would read more correctly if it were as follows: "Only by consent of the Canadian Pinch."

H. C. Smith, the First street saddler, is receiving a fine line of Canadian and imported saddles at all prices.

It said that another Greenwood firm is about to remove to Grand Forks. This latest acquisition to our business directory, so rumor asserts, is Mr. Butler, the harnessmaker, who will occupy the old News office on Riverside avenue.

The Boundary agent of the Giant Powder company gave an exhibition, on Matt Miller's ranch yesterday, demonstrating what Judson's improved stumping powder would do when exploded under a stump. None of the stumps came down hereabouts.

The public school at Armstrong has been closed on account of a mild form of scarlet fever, of which a few cases have been prevalent. When the school re-opens it will be in the fine new building which is now about completed. Mr. John Simpson, who is the principal of the school, owns a twenty-acre tract on the south side near Matt Miller's, and will spend his summer vacation here.

Bruce White, of Spokane, passed through today bound for Midway. On his return trip he will stop off here to look over the mining field.

Jimmie Synott, of Cascade, is in town. He has moved out to his Mohawk claim, near the Dewdney trail, to do his annual assessment.

Situation, Environments and General Resources.

The City of Columbia is situated near the junction of the North Forks of the Kettle river with the main Kettle river, and is distant about 300 miles east of Vancouver.

The natural situation of the city for beauty is not excelled in America. A verdure-clad and flower-bespangled rolling prairie, traversed by a river of bright, sparkling water, fringed with forest trees and surrounded by mountains, forming a charming combination of picturesquesness and grandeur

The Columbia & Western railway, which was constructed by the Canadian Pacific Railway company, has its station, freight warehouse and yards in the center of Columbia, and the Vancouver, Victoria & Eastern Railway company, has located its depot, freight sheds and yards along the east line of the corporation, thus giving the city connections with two transcontinental lines.

The Canadian Pacific railway company has large interests in the city, having selected the site on account of the superior natural advantages as a railway centre.

The climate, taken all the year around, is the best in Canada—part of the summer is rather hot and dry, but the rest of the year is enjoyable.

Throughout the Kettle River valley there is an extent of fertile agricultural land, part of which is now being cultivated.

Apples, plums, pears, prunes, cherries and all the small fruits grow abundantly. The valley surrounding Columbia, divided into small fruit and vegetable farms, will sustain a large population.

Building material is plentiful in the district. Lumber can be procured at fair prices, and brick lime and stone of good quality can always be obtained when required.

The mining interests are of the first importance to this country, and will do much to build up Columbia. Large mineral lodes have been discovered through the mountains adjacent to the city, and what were mere prospects a short time since are now large paying mines.

Water is supplied the city by pumping from a beautiful spring of exceptional purity, capable of supplying a city of 50,000 inhabitants.

The Granby smelter and converter—the most modern and perfect plant of the kind in America—employing hundreds of men, is contiguous to the city,

Owing to the fine climate, the central situation, the beautible environments, the bright prospects for future growth and prosperity, Columbia will be an educational centre, a city of homes, as well as a wholesale distributing point; and when finally allied and wedded to her sister sister, will be the best and largest city in the interior.
