Resents Council's Action in Removing Trees

Should Have Been Placed Before Meeting of Park Committee

The recent removal of some trees from the business section of Bernard avenue was the subject of some little discussion at last Friday's meeting of the council, when a letter was read from Mr. Lionel E. Taylor, a member of the Parks Committee, tendering his resignation from that body. Mr. Taylor pointed out that the cutting down of certain trees was discussed at the council meeting and the matter left in the hands of the Park Committee. Although Mr. Taylor was one of the committee he had received no notice of any meeting called for the purpose of deciding whether the trees should be cut or not. It was not the first time that important matters had been decided without a meeting of the commissioners being called, or called at such short notice as to make it impossible for him to attend. He had no desire to serve on any committee under such conditions and asked that his resignation be placed before the council. He concluded by stating that a considerable amount of dissatisfaction had been expressed over the removal of the trees in question, and that he personally could not see the necessity for their removal. The trees in front of the court house he said could have been pollarded if they were interfering with the power wires, and he could see no reason whatever for the removal of the tree near the water trough.

Alderman Duggan, who is chairman of the Parks Committee said he had consulted with a majority of the committee before issuing instructions for the trees to be cut down, and they had all expressed themselves as in favor of such a course. He had not thought it necessary to call a meeting after the other members had expressed a decided approval. As to other complaints contained in the letter he had no recollection of any such occasions.

Alderman Copeland said if committee meetings had to be called over every trifling matter of that kind, most of the members would be doing nothing else but attend meetings.

The expediency, however of having all committee work decided at regular meetings of committees and the keeping of minutes of such meetings was discussed at some length.

Acting Mayor Sutherland brought the discussion to a conclusion by suggesting that Mr. Taylor's letter be referred back to the Parks committee for further consideration. He said it would be very unfortunate for the city to lose Mr. Taylor's valuable services through a slight misunderstanding.

The Kelowna Hospital Society wrote suggesting that the council should offset the Hospital's light and water rates against the grant from the city for 1914.

Alderman Sutherland recommended that in view of the present difficult financial position of the hospital that this request be granted and a resolution was passed to that effect.

Application was made by the Bankhead Orchard Co., for a permit under section 55 of the Health Act to cut ice on the pond in front of the house and to supply the ice for domestic purposes in the city.

Communications were received from the provincial secretary of the Canadian Patriotic Fund enclosing circulars and model relief forms from the Vernon Belgian Relief Fund, and from the Vancouver branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Alderman Sutherland said he understood that a patriotic concert was being organized for Kelowna in the near future in aid of the Patriotic Fund.

Alderman Rattenbury, chairman of the Fire committee reported having consulted with Fire Chief Jenkins in reference to the sale of the old hand fire engine, about which enquiries had been made from San Francisco. The chief was of opinion that the engine should not be sold for less than five hundred dollars.

The matter was referred back to the committee to inform the Fire Brigade that in the event of the engine being sold the proceeds would be handed to the Fire Brigade as the council did not consider it to be the property of the municipal council, having been purchased prior to incorporation by public subscription. In the meantime the clerk was instructed to write the curator of the museum at San Francisco asking for an offer for the pump.

Alderman Sutherland reported that an application had been received from Mr. W. Haug for a lease of the foreshore fronting his premises, as he would like to pile brick, pipe, etc., on the same. Mr. Haug had been informed that the city could not consider granting a lease but they might be willing to rent the land for a nominal monthly sum.

After some consideration a resolution was passed that Mr. Haug be given the use of the foreshore for the purposes named at a rental of $1.00 per month.

Alderman Rattenbury reported having authorized the changes in the Fire Hall telephone service as suggested in the secretary's letter of Sept. 17th.

The clerk was instructed to suggest to the convention of B. C. Municipalities, which he would be attending this week at Kamloops that a recommendation be made to the provincial government to amend the section of the Municipal Act dealing with rebates on taxes for prompt payment so that rebates could be given on all rates and taxes except Local Improvement and Road Taxes. At present it is possible to give the rebate only on the general tax leaving the debenture and school rates net.

The following accounts were passed for payment:

F. Henning, refund road tax	$ 2.00
City of Vernon, care of prisoners	24.60
C.P.R., freight	3.78
D. McMillan, digging grave	5.00

J. Berger, waterworks	34.20
A. Tate, waterworks	84.50
W. A. Scott, waterworks	35.10

The council then adjourned to meet again at the call of the acting mayor.

Another Contingent to Be Recruited at Once

Canada Will Keep up Stream of Recruits

In an official statement Sir Robert Borden says it is the intention of the government to keep under arms till the end of the war 8000 men for the defence of Canada, and to have as well 30,000 men well under training at all times.

As soon as arms, guns, etc., can be provided for a force of 10,000 men the latter force will be despatched to Great Britain, as the first instalment of the secondary force. Thereupon additional men will be enlisted, so as to keep the number under training continuously at 30,000.

This process will continue from time to time. That is to say, as soon as each force of 10,000 is despatched to Great Britain, another force of 10,000 will be enlisted to take its place, and to bring the number in training up to 30,000.

It is anticipated the first force of 10,000 men will be despatched in December, and thereafter at regular intervals, similar forces will be continuously sent, followed as rapidly as they can be armed and equipped.

Including the forces on garrison and outpost duty, we shall thus have under arms or in training about 40,000 men in Canada, and until the end of the war, or until the war office advises, a steady stream of reinforcements will go forward to the seat of war.

RECRUITS FOR BERMUDA

Recruits for the Royal Canadian Regiment, regular forces are to be enlisted in Vancouver for special service in Bermuda. The men will be taken on for a year or for the duration of the war. The forces will be formed into a garrison to relieve the regular imperial soldiers now on duty there for active service.

The Canadians will likely be afforded an opportunity later to go to the front, it is stated. Only single men between the age of 18 and 45 will be accepted. The minimum height requirement if 5 feet 2 inches; the minimum chest measurement is 34 inches. Recruits to the number of 75 will be enrolled in Vancouver. Others will be taken in other parts of the province.

TURK SHOOTS BRITISH REPRESENTATIVES

A despatch from Bucharest says: "Noel Buxton (member of the British parliament for North Norfolk), and his brother Charles Roden Buxton, former governor of South Australia, who has been in Bulgaria to confer with politicians regarding their country's attitude toward the European war, were both shot today by a young Turk, Pachet Hassan. "The Buxtons were travelling in an automobile with a son of M. Guechoff, former Bulgarian premier, to attend the funeral of the King of Roumania, when Pachet Hassan fired four shots at the party from a revolver. One of the Buxtons was shot through the lungs. The other was only slightly wounded. "The assassin, who has just arrived from Salonica, was arrested. He had a passport which was vised at Constantinople, Sept. 26."

A "JACK JOHNSON"

The British men at the front have nicknamed this German army siege gun, "Jack Johnson". It is this type of gun which battered Namur and Maubeuge. and is here pictured in the hands of the Austrians being taken into Belgium to assist in the fight of the coast line.

British Fleet Help Land Forces to Drive Back Germans

Enemy's Attempt to Rush Through Army to Seize Channel Ports Fails. — Situation Looks More Promising

News of operations in the French and Belgian scene of the war has been decidedly more encouraging during the past few days, and the latest advices would seem to indicate that at last the allies are getting the northern wing of the enemy into a position where they must retire to a new line of defence well over the Belgian frontier or be in grave danger of decisive defeat. It seems certain that the German attempt following the taking of Antwerp to throw a large force to capture the coast line of Belgium and northeast France, for the alleged purpose of getting control of the English Channel has failed as completely as did their former whirlwind descent upon Paris. Aided by the fire of the big guns from the British fleet which did great execution amongst the German artillery, the allies have gradually driven back Von Kluck and his army, in spite of large reinforcements.

The newspaper, "Nord Maritime" says the allies have driven 5,000 Germans out of Bruges, and that the allies are now in possession of the city. A general advance has been made by the allies, who are fighting mainly with artillery. Large numbers of French and Belgian prisoners have been retaken from the retreating Germans.

The assistance rendered by British warships in bombarding the German lines advancing upon Nieuwport, has been an important factor.

The following press accounts comes through from a correspondent who is behind the lines in the north: "The position of the allies everywhere is satisfactory. The Germans attempted to make their attack from Ostend through Lille to Douai, but a steady succession of defeats frustrated this purpose. Instead of a united army marching in an unbroken line across the Department of Pas De Calais, the Germans were broken up into a series of detachments. The troop movements north of the Belgian border are still being hampered by heavy rains, which turned the roads into quagmires. It looks as if the Emperor's channel army is doomed."

British warships which are co-operating with the allied forces off the Belgian coast were attacked Tuesday by German submarines. Scouts and a division of British destroyers went to the support of the larger ships, and attacked the submarines. In the course of the action twelve torpedoes were fired by the submarines, but not one of them hit. The submarines were finally driven off.

At the other end of the great battle line of French troops have almost reached the outlet of the valley leading to the plains of the River Ill, which flows north through Alsace and empties into the Rhine.

The French now consider that they are firmly established in Alsace on territory doubly dear to them. Word has been received also that the Germans are hastily preparing new defensive works around Strassburg and digging innumerable trenches in front of this city. Vineyards have been leveled by the German engineers in carrying out their work.

The Russians in the east are sending tremendous numbers of reinforcements to the front, and the armies now opposing the Germans in the long battle line from the Baltic to the Carpathians numbering 3,000,000 men will soon be increased to 4,000,000, says a despatch from Petrograde to the Messagero. The German advance has been halted and the Russians have assumed the offensive. The Russians now hold formidable positions and are waiting the right moment for a general offensive.

VON MOLTKE REPORTED DEAD

The Russian government will never again embark in the manufacture and sale of alcoholic drinks. This statement, confirming previous reports, has been made in the name of the Emperor himself.

Instructions which have been sent out in connection with the mobilization of further contingents for overseas service, state that while young men from 18 years up may be recruited, those under 21 must have the written consent of their parents. Men 21 years and older are not required

During the recent blizzards in southern Alberta much damage was done among the stockmen. Near Foremost a large flock of sheep were driven before the terrible force of the storm into a large reservoir and some 2,000 were drowned. The sheep belonged to the Alberta Wool Growers' Association.

SWEDE ESCAPES CHARGE OF ATTEMPTED MURDER

The case of Nelson, the drunken Swede who created the disturbance in town a few weeks ago by shooting at various people with a loaded rifle came up at the Vernon assizes Monday. The jury however considering the drunken condition of the man at the time refused to allow the serious charge of attempted murder, and the milder charge of "discharging firearms to the danger of the public" was substituted. Of this he was found guilty, sentence being reserved till the end of the assizes. Witnesses in the case were Messrs. R. A. Copeland, W. B. M. Calder, R. Dundas, Jack Adams and Malet.

The embargo on the exportation of jam from the United Kingdom will increase the demand for Canadian made jams! During the fiscal year ending March 31, 1914, over $500,000 worth of jams, jellies and preserves were imported from the United Kingdom into Canada. The deficiency created by the British government must be made up by the Canadian jam factories.

Kiosk for Display of Okanagan Attractions

Board of Trade Contributes to New Building on Sicamous Platform

There was only a bare quorum at the Board of Trade monthly meeting Tuesday evening, though several matters of importance were discussed.

Amongst them was the question of bearing a share of the cost of the new "Kiosk" which is being erected on the platform at Sicamous for the purpose of exhibiting to the travelling public the products of the Okanagan.

Mr. A. R. Pooley informed the Board that Mr. R. L. Lowe, assistant Commissary agent for the C.P.R., who was working up the scheme was in town and would like to have some decisi from the Board as to their intentionl Mr. Pooley strongly advised the Board not to let the opportunity slip by. He pointed out that for years Kelowna along with other towns in the valley had been endeavoring to obtain from the C.P.R., the privilege to place an exhibit of some kind upon the platform at Sicamous so that the hosts of travellers passing along the main line would be able to get some idea of the kind of country to be found in the Okanagan valley to the south. It had long been a sore point with valley residents that there was nothing at Sicamous to show that the Okanagan valley was anywhere within a thousand miles. The C.P.R. had hitherto always turned down proposals of the kind but Mr. Lowe had succeeded, not only in inducing the company to consent to this kiosk but also to render considerable assistance in making it effective. The cost of the kiosk had been assessed against the different towns in the valley and Kelowna's share amounted to $200. Nearly all the other towns had already paid this amount.

It was obviously the general desire of the members of the Board to contribute to the scheme, but the somewhat meagre financial resources caused some hesitation. Eventually however it was moved by Mr. Pooley and seconded by Mr. Lionel E. Taylor that the Board give a six months note for $180. The remaining $20 Mr. Pooley generously undertook to pay out of his own pocket.

This resolution was passed and the hearty thanks of the meeting accrued to Mr. Pooley.

Late in the evening Mr. Lowe himself came in to the meeting and after thanking the Board for their contribution, he briefly explained the working of the scheme upon which he had been engaged for a considerable time. He said that the kiosk was already in process of erection and he hoped to have it finished in a few weeks' time. though the painting might have to be left over until next spring. He was especially anxious to have everything in working order for the early part of next year, as the C.P.R. anticipated an enormous increase of traffic over their line to the Panama exhibition. It was anticipated that the passenger traffic in 1915 would greatly exceed anything ever before known by the C. P. R.

Mr. Lowe said they were putting up a handsome building which would be a credit to the valley, and one of the best advertising mediums which they could possibly have. Each town would receive an ample share of publicity, and the windows and interior displays would be kept right up to the minute. The provincial government were furnishing a fine display of bottled fruit, and there would also be an exhibit from the C.P.R. Department of Natural Resources. The Okanagan United Growers had undertaken to see that the kiosk was always kept kept supplied with fresh fruit.

There would be no cost to the different towns for upkeep as the C. P. R. had undertaken to furnish heat and light free, and the only expense would be occasional repairs or painting, which would probably be covered by returns from sale of fruit after exhibiting.

Remounts for Army

The secretary read an extract from a letter from Mayor Jones who is at present in eastern Canada respecting the purchase of remounts for the war. General Sir Fred Benson it was stated had been sent over from the old country to make purchases and an enormous number were required. The western end of the purchasing was in the hands of "The Remount Purchasing Office, Imperial Bank, Winnipeg." The inspection and requirements were very severe, and no scrubs would be taken Prices ran from $175 to $225, and the weight 1100 to 1300 pounds.

It was stated in discussion that Mr. Collett was already in communication with the authorities. and that it would perhaps be well for anyone in the district who had suitable horses to get into touch with him.

Redistribution

Mr. S. T. Elliott introduced the question of redistribution of the valley, and the necessity for sending in a recommendation from the Board to the Royal Commission as requested during their visit here.

After a good deal of discussion the following resolution was passed on the motion of A. R. Pooley, seconded by M. Hereron:

"That the following be the recommendation of the Kelowna Board of Trade, viz., That in the event of two members. being accredited to this district, we desire the division to be at or near Okanagan Landing; and in the event of there being three members, the Kelowna riding be from the north of Okanagan Centre to the southern boundary of the present riding."

Prize Fruit Land

Included in the correspondence was a letter from the owner of the tract of land in Washington, adjoining the Haydn Lake property which was won as a prize by the Board of Trade at the Spokane Apple Show in 1908 and which the Board had made successive attempts to dispose of but without success. The letter contained an offer for the five acres of $60 per acre.

Mr. McTavish however stated that when he became secretary three months ago he had immediately made an enquiry into the title of the Board in the property and found that it had been sold for unpaid taxes. No trace of any notice could be found and owing to the apparent absence of receipts it had been impossible to determine whether the taxes had really been paid or not.

Several of the members were sure that the taxes had been paid, and it was decided to make a more thorough search for receipts. A resolution was also passed that in the event of the Board having still any right in the property the offer of $60 per acre be accepted.

Mr. F. R. E. DeHart said he noticed that at last meeting the question had been raised as to who held the deeds for this and the other property belonging to the Board. He stated that two years ago the same question had been discussed and he had then turned the deeds over to the Board and they were at present deposited with the Bank of Montreal.

A letter was read from Mr. Hamilton Lang stating that the dangerous portion of the road near Duck Lake which had been the subject of a communication from the Board had been investigated and would be remedied so far as funds permitted. Mr. Elliott informed the Board that this had been done, and that the road was now quite safe.

Secretary McTavish, whose temporary term of office expired Oct. 7 was unanimously reappointed for another three months until the annual meeting.

The Russian Army Made Anew

Whole System Reorganized After The Japanese War

The Russian army which has entered with such promptitude into the field and has been so successful in coping with the forces of Austria-Hungary, is the subject of a special article appearing in the columns of the Daily News and Leader.

The article is written by a Russian Sasha Kropotkin, and gives a highly interesting description of the modern Russian officer, differing in every way from the popular concept of a gallant horseman and dancer which, to a certain extent, was based on fact in the period preceding the Rusro-Japanese war.

"Immediately after the Japanese war" says Sasha Kropatkin, "Russia set about reorganizing her army, paying enormous attention, amongst other things, to the officers. Officers of the Russian army are drawn from all classes, any one having finished a gymnasium course (secandary school) and completed two or three years in a special military academy, being eligible Great nnmbers of them are also men with a university education.

"These qualifications, though sufficient to procure a commission, will not help a man to promotion, which formerly was largely automatic." Apart from the great attention which is paid by the authorities to the moral calibre of the men, another important innovation to be remarked is, continues the writer, "the tremendous amount of up-to-date knowledge of military matters which is required from the officer.

"To this end evening lectures have been arranged in each regiment, the attendance at which is compulsory. These lectures deal with tactics and every branch of military science. Problems of all possible kinds are set, and their solution must be presented at the following lecture. Every facility is afforded in obtaining the latest works in all languages on military matters, and the officers are expected to keep au courant of all innovations.

"On the other hand, far less time is devoted to unnecessary parades, and much more time is spent in camp and in manoeuvres. Where formerly only six weeks were spent in manoeuvres now six months are devoted to them and three months of these are spent in camp. The Russian is by nature generally anything but bellicose. He is too good natured, often too lazy and easygoing to be what is usually considered an ideal soldier. But he has another quality which goes further than sternness in holding an army together—especially when the tide is going against it—and that is a truly democratic spirit.

"The married officers usually spend only such time as is absolutely necessary with their men, but the unmarried ones spend every moment they can spare with them. They write interminable letters for the soldiers (who are often completely illiterate), beginning with "I send my greetings to mother, father, grandmother Maria and great Aunt Anna, and to grandfather Nicholas, and my brothers and sisters." . . . A list follows and then the whole village is enumerated. Some times a rouble accompanies the letter, often contributed to by the officer, who also provides paper and stamps. When these items, small in themselves, are drawn from a salary of 100 or 110 roubles a month, a certain amount of self-denial is involved on the part of the officer.

"Then also, the officers spend much of their time reading to the men, and teaching them, taking them to cinematographs where there are films of educational value, and generally doing what they can for their welfare. As a result, the men trust their officers completely, and the ties which bind them together are very strong. And since it is not what every man can do, but what he can't do and still does, which wins battles, it is of incalculable value that the officers should be men who can inspire their soldiers to that supreme effort.

"That the Russian officers of today who lives on such good terms with his men, is of this stuff will be proved in the present campaign. In time of war the officers of the reserve also plays an important part in the success of an army. There are supposed to be seven officers to every battery; usually there are only five. In time of war the battery is enlarged and split into two.

"There are, therefore, only two or three ordinary officers to each half; the rest are officers of the reserve. Sixty per cent. of these are men of university education, and, though their knowledge of military matters cannot obviously be as complete as that of a regular officer, they have been well grounded, and the fact that at various times since serving their term of military service, they have been in camp for certain periods fits them for service. What they lack in knowledge they will more than make up in enthusiasm in this war.

"German culture is respected in Russia but the appalling results of fanatical militarism have been realized only too well, and besides, every Russian is a patriot, and will fight for every inch of his country. The army which Russia has put into the field is a different "proposition" to the one she sent out, man by man, to the far east 10 years ago.

"The entire army has been completely rearmed and reorganized especially the artillery, which is magnificent and the officers are men efficient, steady, willing . . . and above all, absolutely confident of the loyalty of their soldiers."

Too Cheerful

The amount of inaccurate writing and guess work that is being done by the war commentators, and that is being eagerly devoured by a public that grasps any chance for information, is so large as to be bewildering. There is a little news every morning of one or other battlefield—sometimes a little from two or three of them which can be told in a few authentic lines—but the special writers and the newspapers who want to keep their public interested in the news of events, are befuddling the intelligence of the readers. In order to please British readers, any day that General Von Kluck has not been captured since he started on his retreat from Paris to Noyon, his army has been just about to be surrounded and annihilated. The whole German army in France is continually on the verge of a great rout, but the capture of Von Kluck never comes off; the advance of the French around his front never materializes; the drive of the German army into Belgium still halts, and those who believed the special writers and expected day after day to hear of a great and utter collapse of the German army of invasion are becoming despondent. Fewer false prophesies given as historical facts would be a pleasant change.—Witness.

A Peace, Not a Truce

If we lose, neither we, nor any other nation in Europe except Germany, will have anything to say as to the future configuration of Europe. If Germany wins her war lord will parcel out Europe at his pleasure. Directly or indirectly we shall all pass under the yoke. No nation will be really free and independent, and those that have any seeming freedom and independence will only hold those gifts at Germany's will and pleasure. But suppose, as in the end we are confident they will, the German ideals of autocracy and militarism and monopoly fail to beat those of freedom and national independence, then there will be a great duty imposed upon us and the states with whom we are in alliance—a very difficult duty, and one which, the longer and harder is the fighting will be the more difficult to accomplish. This duty can be expressed in a single sentence. It is to yield to no temptation, however great, to let the peace when it comes be merely a truce, a peace which shall have in it the seeds of future wars, which shall store up disaster for the future as assuredly as did the peace of Frankfort. We must whilst our eyes are still undimmed by success—should it come in God's mercy—determine that we will have no sowing of the dragon's teeth. By this we mean that the terms of peace shall not include such ruthless negation of human rights as the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine.—London Spectator.

THE "AFTER THE WAR" SETTLEMENT

Let us set about defining our intentions. Let us borrow a little from the rash vigor of the types that have contrived this disaster. Let us make a truce of our finer feelings and control our dissentient passions. Let us re-draw the map of Europe boldly, as we mean it to be re-drawn, and let us re-plan society as we mean it to be reconstructed. Let us go to work while there is still a little time left to us. Or, while our futile fine intelligences are busy, each with its particular exquisitely felt point, the Northcliffes and the diplomatists, the Welt-Politik whisperers, and the financiers, the militarists, the armament interests and the Cossack Tsar, terrified by the inevitable red dawn of leaderless social democracy, by the beginning of the stupendous stampede that will follow this great jar and displacement, will surely contrive some monstrous blundering settlement, and the latter state of the world will be worse than the former.—H. G. Wells, in the Nation.

At the coast it is proposed to can the meat of whales for shipment to Japan.

King George and Queen Mary and their children, with the exception of the Prince of Wales, who is an army officer, are at Sandringham Palace. Though not definitely so stated, it is generally understood the transfer from Buckingham to Sandringham Palace, was due to the government's opinion that the latter would be the safest place in the event of a German Zeppelin raid.

EATS DIRT GILLETT'S LYE CLEANS DISINFECTS

More About the Calgary Fruit Exhibit

"We won because we had a commercial and not a horticultural exhibit," declared Manager J. Sewell of the Penticton Fruit Union this week, upon his return from the International Irrigation Congress at Calgary, where Penticton apples and grapes won first price for district fruit exhibits. This is Manager Sewell's explanation why Penticton took first honors from competing districts, such as Kelowna and Spokane, which came second and third respectively.

"Kelowna had a nice exhibit, principally in plates," said Mr. Sewell, "but that district had 54 varieties of apples in this display and 17 varieties of pears as well as walnuts, peanuts and so on. It was more of a horticultural nature than a strictly commercial proposition and it seems to me that the judges at the irrigation congress were looking more at the commercial side of the question as one might suppose an irrigation congress judge would do.

"Penticton and Kelowna both scored 95 points. Additional judges, called in, gave the verdict to Penticton for the reason stated."—Penticton Press.

It is stated that the routhern Alberta Land Co., Ltd., the successor to the Robbins Co., in which Earl Grey and his son-in-law, Capt. Grenfell were interested, has been granted an additional $100,000 by the government to tide it over the financial difficulties in connection with the undertaking until next spring. Last June an advance of $50,000 was given the company by the government, and in August a further $90,000. These sums, together with the $100,000 now granted, are secured by a lien on the company's lands. The advances are made in view of the company's inability to raise funds in London under present financial conditions and to enable the company to carry to completion the works of irgation and settlement.

This year 28 elevators have been erected throughout Alberta by the Farmers' Co-operative Elevator Co. Recent legislation provides that the government will advance 85 per cent of the cost of the elevator, taking as security a first mortgage on the plant. Last year 51 elevators were built by the same company. With the exception of 2 of the 28 elevators built this year the capacity of each is 35,000 bushels, and the cost of each $8,150.

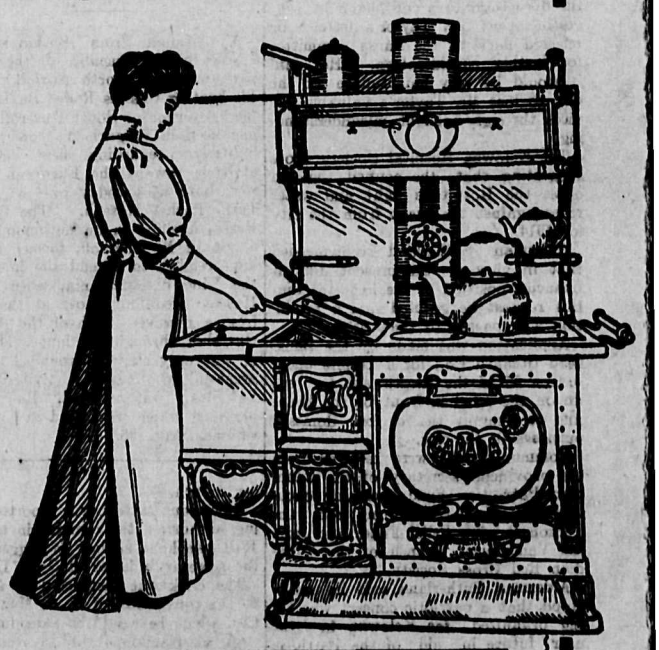
This Handsome Moffat Range—First Prize for your Five Best Recipes

A CONTEST OPEN TO EVERY WOMAN IN CANADA

First Prize	-	Moffat Range
Second Prize	- -	$40
Third Prize	- -	$25
Fourth Prize	- -	$10
Fifth Prize	- - -	$5

and Fifty Prizes of $2 each



For thirty years we have interested ourselves in good cooking for during this period we have been manufacturing the best Ranges we know how. Now we want to produce a first-class standard Cook Book for use all over Canada. What better plan could we adopt than that of asking Canadian housewives to help us by contributing their five best and well-tried Recipes?

There may be a number of good Cook Books published now, but there can never be one so good or so complete as one produced by the united efforts of good cooks all over the Dominion because this will then be a practical one based on the practical results of each individual contributor.

To promote interest, we have decided to hold a contest, and we are awarding the above valuable prizes for the best sets of five recipes sent in to us.

FIRST PRIZE—Canada 'B' Steel Range Special Exhibition; Nickel Finish; with reservoir; tiled panel in high closet; full nickel glass door, with thermometer; oven either 16, 18 or 20 inches. Or, if preferred, we will give our best cast iron range with Exhibition finish, or any of our high class coal and gas combination ranges in special finish

ALL YOU HAVE TO DO IS TO WRITE OUT YOUR FIVE BEST RECIPES AND MAIL THEM TO US

Sets of Recipes will be judged from the standpoint of variety, Economy of materials, Nutritive properties, Ease of preparation, Tastiness, etc. Remember that the recipes most likely to win a prize, are some of your own favorites—that you have tried and know to be real good. Write only on one side of the paper and be sure to sign your name and post office address at the foot. The First Prize is a handsome Moffat Range—the best we make—as illustrated and described (or you can have the best of any other Stove we make, either gas, coal or combination).

The other prizes will be awarded in the form of cash certificates for the amounts named and will be accepted at their face value by Moffat dealers at any place in Canada on the purchase of any Moffat Range.

Competition closes November 15, and all replies must be in on or before that date

If you wish to take advantage of the contest, and at the same time wish to buy a stove at once—buy a Moffat Range through our dealer in your town and send us your receipted bill—and when you win a prize, we will refund you the cash value of the prize you win.

Every Contestant will receive one of the Cook Books.

The Cook Book, when complete, will be one of the finest compiled, and will be worth at least $2.00. Every woman sending in five recipes will receive a FREE COPY. It will be well worth while for every woman to compete.

We have secured the services of a graduate of the Domestic Science branch of the Toronto Technical School, and two other ladies to assist her. Their decisions must be accepted as final.

(N .B.— You will greatly assist the judges by sending in your replies as early as possible. Don't wait till the closing date.)

Good Roads.

Good roads, good schools, good churches all cost money to maintain, and that money is contributed by the tax payers of this community. If you spend a dollar here, part of it at least, remains in the hands of one of those tax payers. It does its share toward making this a better place to live in.

If you send your dollar away you are doing just that much to hurt your town, its schools, churches, and roads.. Just think of this before patronizing a mail order house. Read the advertisements and spend your money with the progressive home merchants.

Fifth Annual Report of the Commission of Conservation

That the conservation movement has made distinct progress during the past year is closely indicated in the 'Fifth Annual Report" of the Commission of Conservation, which has just been issued.

In his annual address, the chairman of the commission, Hon. Clifford Sifton, covered the commission's activities with respect to waters and water powers, minerals, public health, agriculture, fisheries and fur-bearing animals and forests, indicating clearly and succinctly a number of the problems that had been grappled with and the advances that had been made in their solution.

With respect to water-powers, lengthy reports are presented covering the work in connection with the water-power surveys carried out in western Canada. Two volumes will be issued later giving the results of these surveys and will prove of great value to those who are interested in the development of the water-power of Canada.

The commission's committee on minerals has been further strengthened by selecting as chairman, Dr. Frank D. Adams, of McGill University. Dr. Adams is an outstanding authority on the minerals of Canada, and his assistance will be of great value to the commission. The report contains an excellent review by Mr. W. J. Dick, mining engineer of the commission, on the "Importance of Bore-hole records and the Capping of Gas Wells."

Several aspects of the problem of public health are dealt with in the report by well known authorities. Dr. Hodgetts in a brief address summarizes the work of the committee on public health, and, in addition, presents reports on such vital problems as "Infant Mortality", "First Aid to the Injured," and the work of Mr. G. Frank Beer, president of the Toronto Housing Co., develops at some considerable length the housing and city-planning question in Canada, with especial reference to the work of the Toronto Housing Co., and Col. J. H. Burland outlines the legislative requirements for town planning.

The work of the committee of lands is described by Mr. F. C. Nunnick, the commissions agriculturalist, who pays especial attention to the progress of the experiments with the growing of alfalfa in Quebec. Mr. Nunnick also describes in detail the commission's "agricultural survey" for 1913, showing in concise form the farming conditions in the several provinces as ascertained by the committee's investigators. Dr. James W. Robertson and Mr. John Fixter describe the work of the illustration farms of the commission.

Mr. J. Walter Jones follows in detail the progress in fur-farming in Canada during the past year. The work of the committee on fisheries was confined, during 1913, chiefly to the development of the oyster industry. Hon. A. E. Arsenault describes the new method of leasing oyster beds in Prince Edward Island. This method was advocated by the commission two years ago and will do much to regenerate the oyster industry in the Maritime provinces. An exceedingly interesting paper on the "Protection of Migratory birds is given by a leading American authority, Mr. W. S. Haskell, who urges Canada to join with the United States in providing sanctuaries for these birds.

Considerable advance has been made in the conservation of forests during the year. The commission has cooperated with the board of railway commissioners and the several provincial and federal forest services concerning the prevention of forest fires, with the result that much has been done to prevent forest fires along railway lines, especially in western Canada. In addition to the report of the chief forester, Mr. Clyde Leavitt. there are addresses on forestry by Dr. B. E. Fernow, and Mr. R. H. Campbell.

The report contains a number of splendid illustrations and gives in concise form such information that is of value to all Canadians interested in the conservation of our natural resources.

Four German Destroyers Sunk

Four German torpedo boat destroyers were sent to the bottom off the Dutch coast Saturday afternoon, by the British light cruiser Undaunted, which was accompanied by the destroyers Lance, Loyal, Legion and Lennox. She carries two six-inch and six four-inch guns.

The destroyers that accompanied the cruiser have each an armament of three four-inch guns and an equipment of four 21-inch torpedo tubes in pairs. The destroyers are 250 feet in length and have a speed of 29 knots an hour. They each carry 100 men.

The Undaunted is a new light cruiser, just out of the Fairfield yards at Govan. She is a comparatively small ship, having a displacement of only 3750 tons, but has a speed of 29 knots. She is one of the "pets" of the navy.

The Right Time.

The right time to reach the members of the family is when they are at home, and the right way to reach them is through the advertising columns of the paper that goes into the homes. There are other methods of advertising that enjoy a certain transitory popularity, because they are new or novel, but the oldest, wisest and most successful advertisers tie their faith to the home newspaper. When people are away from their homes, there are a thousand things to divert their attention, but an advertisement read in the quiet of the family circle will be read and remembered.

Khaki is to be used by the French troops, and British firms are working night and day to supply the necessary material. In those days no attention was paid to making inconspicuous in the field.

The offer has been received with the greatest gratification, but so far as the Union government has been able to bear the expense of all defence measures and warlike operations.

A proposal has been made, and is being generally discussed for the province of Quebec to maintain a military hospital in Paris as long as the war lasts. The idea is for the hospital to be created by the provincial government, and the beds supplied by the different municipalities in the province. The beds would be named after the donors.

The Canadian rifle league is making arrangements to encourage this winter more than ever before the practice of indoor rifle shooting with gallery ammunition, the miniature rifle shooting sub-target gun shooting and revolver practice. All of these can be conducted indoors and will be taken up as soon as the weather is too cool for shooting at the outdoor ranges.

How completely the war is disturbing English economic notions is shown by the government purchase of $90,000,000 worth of sugar in order to keep the prices down, although six months ago it refused to spend $500,000to establish a sugar beet factory. The government, in effect, is cornering sugar in the national interests in a way that no private enterprise could have done.

The loss of the captured Kronprinzessin Cecilie must have involved a deadly blow to the German sausage industry. When in Mincing lane, London her cargo was sold on behalf of the Admiralty, it was found to include countless thousands of sausage skins of all kinds and sizes, ranging from the lordly "large German" down to the uniform of the more diminutive "Frankfurter."

A despatch from the Austrian frontier says that cholera has assumed frightful proportions in Galicia and Hungary. In a large town and district in northern Hungary there were 10,000 cases among the soldiers and persons who had been in contact with them. The epidemic is extraordinarily violent and a large percentage of the stricken persons die within a few hours. It is asserted that the withdrawal of the Russians from Hungary was due to a desire not to expose themselves to the contagion.

The new issue of treasury notes by the British government this week makes the fourth sum of $75,000,000 since the war began, and indicated that the conflict is costing between four and five million sterling weekly. The war borrowings up to date are $185,000,000 and another $75,000,000 is now required. At the present moment the government is able to borrow on very moderate terms because of the glut of money in the financial districts.

"To the suggestions," the Westminster Gazette says, "that we shall be content with a drawn war, which leaves the German Empire under the same influences and with the same policy and methods to disturb our peace and to threaten our safety until eventually we fall prey to it, we can return but one answer. At whatever cost we mean to prevent that, and whatever means may be necessary to prevent it we mean with our allies to take."

The Petit Parisien prints a story of a bull, which, it says, killed 18 Germans. It appears that when the peazanne were warned of the approach of the Germans they opened the gates of the cattle pens and endeavored to drive the cattle to a place of safety. One enormous bull, it is said, becoming enraged by a sound of the cannon, broke away and charged the Germans, who looked on with stupefaction, believing it some trick of the French. At the first dash the bull gored six, throwing them high in the air. Others shot and wounded the animal, which, however, gored twelve more before succumbing.

PREDICTS A SHORT WAR

French economist Believes It will Not Last Over Six Months

Following are the views of an eminent French economist and one of the greatest financial authorities in Europe:

"French bank notes are now selling at par in neutral countries. German bank notes are offered at 75." This financial authority is now an officer in the French army. He writes that the war will rejuvenate France as nothing else could ever have done. He says France was commercially going into Nirvana. But the war has aroused the entire nation.

"If Germany had waited ten years and continued her commercial conquest France would have been left far behind. Germany has been thrown back 40 years by the war. Food in France is cheaper than at any time during the past three years. Hoarded money is coming out and going into circulation in buying necessities."

This authority estimates that within six months Europe will be entirely at peace.

Food Supply for Empire Under War Conditions

The problem of ensuring a sufficient food supply for the allied nations at home and in the field during the continuation of the war is one which is giving rise to grave concern and authoritative sources of information are busily engaged in endeavoring to comply such statistics as are available to yield some reliable information as to future probabilities.

In a recent issue of the Corn Trade News of Liverpool, edited by George Broomhall, a recognized authority, ventures to give a detailed estimate of the demand and the supply with regard to wheat up to the end of July 1915, but in doing so points out the many contingencies bearing upon the situation which make the problem very complicated and adversely affect the reliability of conclusions derived from statistics. The table submitted is as follows:

Denmark, Norway, Sweden	8,000,000
Austria-Hungary
Malta, N. Africa	500,000
Total	65,500,000

It will be noted that in the above estimate, no supply has been entered as available from Russia for the reason that by imperial ukase, the export of grain from that country has been prohibited. On the other hand no demand has been entered as arising from Germany or from Austro-Hungary on the score of the probability of the allies preventing these countries from receiving shipments from other countries. This assumption, however, it is admitted, may not be sound for the reason that there are certain countries such as Roumania, Italy, Norway and Sweden, Denmark through which Germany and Austria might succeed in obtaining a certain amount of wheat or other food supplies.

A summary of the relative yield of grain in the several countries is of interest at this juncture. The estimated yield of wheat for 1914 is given as follows in Dornbusch's floating cargoes list, the recognized authority in such matters:

	Bushels.
France	304,000,000
Russia in Europe	688,000,000
Russia in Asia	112,000,000
Austria	64,000,000
Germany	168,000,000
Servia	12,000,000
United Kingdom	60,000,000
Belgium	15,200,000
Rest of World	2,483,080,000
Total	3,960,280,000
Countries at war	1,423,200,000

or 36 per cent.

The unreliability of the yield for past years in endeavoring to gauge the situation even up to the end of July, 1915, let alone for the succeeding year, is evident from the fact that the utmost uncertainty prevails as to the crops of Germany, France, Austria Hungary, Russia, Servia and Belgium during the war. It is stated that nearly all the wheat and rye and a large proportion of the barley and oats grown in France, Germany and Austria-Hungary are winter crops, sown in the fall. In some of these countries it has been impossible to sow these crops this fall, and in others they may be destroyed before they are garnered, thus preventing a harvest in either case. Then with regard to all summer crops, such as potatoes, also cereals such as barley, rye and oats, these have been lost to a very large extent thus creating a very serious feature in relation to future requirements. Should the war last for a year it is quite evident that next summer or autumn the whole of Europe may be suffering from great scarcity of these staple food products if not famine conditions.

Similar conditions exist with regard to the meat supply of the nations at war. Reliable statistics give the following estimated number of cattle and sheep in the different countries:

	Cattle	Sheep
Argentina	29,016,000	80,401,486
Uruguay	8,191,692	26,286,296
Paraguay	5,500,000	214,060
Brazil	25,000,000
United States	58,386,000	51,873,000
Canada	7,103,702	2,393,950
Mexico	5,142,457	3,421,430
Australia	11,358,977	92,597,368
New Zealand	2,020,171	23,996,126
United Kingdom	11,909,469	28,951,469
Germany	20,158,738	5,787,848
France	12,552,430	16,425,330

Of all the meat consumed in Great Britain about forty per cent is imported, the remainder being supplied at home. Germany, on the contrary, imports only about six per cent, of the meat consumed in the country, and in order to replenish its available supply the customs duties on meats have been removed and large quantities are said to be entering that country from Denmark.

British imports of meat, of all kinds and from all sources for the year 1913 were as follows:

	Cwt.
Argentina	8,692,312
Australia	3,860,849
United States	2,847,054
Denmark	2,622,608
New Zealand	2,545,476
Netherlands	995,666
Uruguay	740,166
Canada	455,608
Russia	213,251
Chili	170,865
Other Countries	237,353
	23,281,208

So long as Great Britain retains control of the high seas the way, of course is open for the importation of food stuffs from all the usual sources to the full extent to which they are available. Conditions such as promise to develop in the future should impress upon all the British overseas dominions the necessity on the one hand of increasing their food products of all kinds to the utmost possible limit and of conserving that supply for the exclusive use of the mother country and her allies. Australia and New Zealand have already prohibited the exportation of food stuffs to any country other than Great Britain.

With regard to Canada, it is certain that the yield of cereals and of roots can be greatly increased, and that the national supply of meats available for export to Great Britain could be greatly augmented, not only by the raising of cattle, sheep, hogs in larger quantities, but also by a cessation of the heavy drain which Canada has sustained of late in this particular because of the active demand created by the United States market.

The problem is one the seriousness of which cannot be exaggerated and any legislative or other means which can be devised for aiding its solution will be fully justified by national and imperial needs.

Why Rain Follows Big Battles

Torrents of rain often follow a big battle.

History contains innumerable instances, both on land and sea, and on more than one occasion the storm or showers that followed an engagement had no small influence upon the life of nations.

We can hardly have a better example than that recorded in 1588 when England was threatened by the Spanish Armada. After the encounter with our own fleet it was struck by a heavy storm, which completed the work of our own gallant seamen.

The soldiers who fought so bravely under the leadership of Marlborough at Blenheim in the year 1704 had to suffer the misery of successive downpours after their brilliant victory.

Marlborough was anxious to follow up his victory without delay, but his men were so worn by the fatigue of the battles and the discomforts caused by heavy rains that he was unable to push on for several days.

On June 16, 1815, the British defeated the French at Quatre Bras, and Napoleon worsted the wily Blucher at Ligny, both within measurable distance of Waterloo. The heavy rains which followed these engagements made the clayey soil almost impossible for cavalry manoeuvres at Waterloo (fought on June 18) and so crippled the tactics of the Duke of Wellington. The victory would have been gained in any case, but experts are of the opinion that the rain was an ally of some value.

During the early weeks of the siege of Sebastopol, in 1854, the roar of canon and explosion of bombs was followed, day by day, by heavy downpours of rain until our men stood in the trenches knee-deep in mud. This has also been the case in the present war.

A terrible gale broke over the Black Sea and caused great disaster to our transports, and on the heels of this tempest came a heavy, steady downfall of rain that brought death to hundreds of our gallant fellows.

In yet another instance the heavy cannonading of a siege brought in its tain a disturbance of the elements. This was just prior to the fall of Plevna, in 1877, when the moisture of the clouds was turned to snow as it fell, and, by increasing the suffering of the besieged, helped to make Osman come to the determination to try a last chance for freedom.

The explanation of the rain is comparatively simple, and has been made use of to a certain extent for the benefit of agriculture in various parts of the world.

The atmosphere is laden with moisture, a concussion caused by loud reports or noises will often burst the clouds, with the natural result that the drops of water fall to the earth.

This has been tested when farmers have been groaning over the drought and scientists have, so it has been reported, induced some rain to fall by causing cannon to be discharged at altitudes varying with the locality.

SUSPICIOUS GERMAN "FACTORY"

A large factory owned by Germans was raided by the military authorities in Edinburgh last week. It was built ten years ago and has an imposing appearance, covering a large area and being three stories high.

Although capable of accommodating 500 hands, never more than six workmen, all Germans, were seen about the place. According to information supplied by the builders, $150,000 was spent on the magnificent foundations, the proprietor explaining that exceedingly heavy machinery would be required for the factory.

The machinery never arrived, the factory was never started, and no workers came, but the situation of the factory dominates Edinburgh, and the prepared position, jutting out on the sea would enable big guns to hit the forts and bridge.

Petty pilfering seems to be breaking out in the city of late, and several thefts have been recorded. This week several local housewives have had the whole family washing stolen from the line during the night, and a number of people report missing chickens, and other things. It would be well to keep a sharp lookout.

A good deal of comment has been heard lately upon the lights in Bernard avenue from Ellis street to the Presbyterian church. On this particular section they are so buried in the trees as to be practically useless for illuminating purposes. At the same time it is difficult to suggest a way out of the difficulty.

MAKING McCLARY STOVES

The school children were given a treat this week in the form of a free ticket to Monday afternoon's matinee at the moving picture show. The tickets were given out by Messrs. Morrison-Thompson Co., under arrangements with the McClary Stove Manufacturing Co., who had on exhibition two full reels of the most interesting films showing the planning, designing and making of a range from the drawing, through the different operations of making the wood patterns, the aluminum working patters, the castings, cleaning, mounting, finishing, inspecting and crating. Every operation was shown, and there are forty-four separate trades represented in the making of a modern range. One of the films included a very fine picture of the founder and president of the McClary Manufacturing Co., namely, Mr. John McClary. It also showed the smallest and the largest ranges made by the plant, the largest including a range with seventy-eight feet of cooking surface, which was built for the new Vancouver Hotel, Vancouver.

The Opera House was crowded with young and old, for in addition to the films named a capital program was given.

Mr. L. W. Muirhead and family have taken the house formerly owned by Mr. I. Mawhinney, east of the Presbyterian church on Bernard avenue.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY

The Baptist Young People's Society opened their winter session on Monday evening with a social, which, in point of numbers was the best attended they have had. Mr. G. R. S. Blackaby, the president for the session presided, and in presenting the financial statement for last winter stated that $15.00 has been raised for missions and $18.00 had been given to the church, and there was a small balance in hand. The program for the evening was of an interesting nature. Miss Jamieson delighted the company with some Scotch songs and had to respond to encores. Mr. A.S. Wade gave a humorous reading as did also Mr. Blackaby. Mr. Weeks sang, and Mr. and Mrs. Pelton rendered a duet. A magazine guessing contest followed, the party having a number of popular magazines to puzzle out, and this was followed by tableaux representing well known books. The serving of refreshments was the next item, and a most enjoyable evening was brought to a conclusion by the singing of the national anthem. The meeting next week is to be a missionary one, in charge of Miss Reekie, and an interesting evening is expected.

EUROPEAN ARMIES IN ACTION

A timely set of films showing the big fighting aggregations of Europe, will be the special feature at the Opera House next Thursday 29th, inst. The authenticity of the pictures is guaranteed by George Kleine, who again stands sponsor for this production. This series of pictures includes views of the armies of Great Britain France, Germany, Belgium, Austria, Switzerland and Servia, and intimate views of the leading statesmen and great generals of the countries involved in the great European catastrophe. Many interesting pictures are also shown of the soldiers and sailors now battling for world supremacy.

There will be three shown, one in the afternoon at 3.15 and two at night, starting at 7.15 and 9 o'clock. In reply to numerous enquiries, the management of the Opera House announces Thursday November 12th as the date on which "The Last Days of Pompeii" will be shown.

B. C. AND THE APPLE ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN

British Columbia growers are becoming a little alarmed lest the campaign will be to carry the market zone of eastern Canadian fruit further west than usual, and efforts have been made with the Dominion government to secure a change in the advertising in order to feature British Columbia apples west of Winnipeg. This plan could not be carried out, but the provincial government has under consideration backing the general campaign with a subsidiary one emphasizing the production of our own orchards, and the Okanagan Fruit Growers, Limited of Vernon, which is the marketing agency of about three-quarters of the co-operative fruit associations of British Columbia, has opened a campaign on the prairies in some of the papers there. Similar action has been taken by the Fruit Growers' association of Berwick Nova Scotia, which occupies a similar position for the Maritime provinces to that of the Okanagan growers in British Columbia. They are carrying on their campaign not only in the Maritime provinces, but in Quebec as well.

Says an English paper:—"An apple blossom that, so far as can be traced constitutes a record for size, was this year picked in the plantations of Messrs. Chivers and Sons, fruit growers, of Histon, Cambridge. This blossom, which grew on a Munse's seedling tree measured no less than 3¾ inches in diameter, and the proportions were perfect in every respect."

Bowling

The Dreamland Bowling League continues to furnish much excitement and enjoyment, for the many spectators as well as for the bowlers themselves, and the games are being very keenly contested for. Throughout the past week the scores have shown a steady improvement and the bowlers are settling down to their best form.

The Bears continue to lead the way having lost only a single game out of the nine contests into which they have entered, they are piling up good scores and will no doubt put in a strong bid for top honors when the season draws to a close.

The Dreamlands and Pastimes are having a hard fight for second position and are at present tied. The other teams, with the exception of the Starlights and Mission are pressing the teams immediately ahead of them very close and taking it all in all the teams show no decided favorites.

During the week Mr. Robt. Duncan, president of the league and proprietor of the Dreamland Alleys has presented each member of the league with a handsome button, bearing the words: "Bowling League, Kelowna B. C." as well as two bowling pins, between which rests a ball done in gilt against a blue background, making a very attractive pin.

Following in the report of games played since last issue:

Last Thursday the Bears took the odd game from the Beavers, as follows:

The Printers' Plight!

The boys of the two printing offices met again last Saturday in a match in which the "Courier" team hoped to retrieve the lost laurels of the previous week. The Courier staff had promptly issued another challenge after the first defeat, and had publicly declared their intention of eating up the "Records" next time. But alas! and likewise alack? the latter made tougher chewing than they reckoned upon, and instead of evening things up by a victory the "Courier" went down to an overwhelming defeat before the superior artillery of the "Record" army.

The accurate shooting of the allies completely mystified the attacking forces who were beaten back with a heavy loss, the casualties being 370 "pins".

Following is a complete report of the battle:

COURIER

Gen. von Hallauer	114	152	164—430
Von Frasermeyer	78	105	136—319
Lieut. Buddendorf	121	90	118—329

Britannia, Queen of the Sea.

Guards of the ocean, Brittania's pride!
Eager and ready whatever betide;
Free as the winds that sweep over the foam,
Keeping our heritage, guarding our home.

Happy your foe while the combat he shuns,
Anchored in harbors encircled with guns;
Where all his mighty ships fearing a raid
Hide behind nets and the mines they have laid.

Happier, you when you catch him afloat,
Lord! what a welcome shall burst from your throat.
Then Britain's banner shall flaunt in the breeze
Proving her heritage—Queen of the seas.

Livened by love of the land of your birth,
Knowing the battle shall 'stablish your worth,
Watchfully, patiently, seeking the foe
Strong in the spirit of Liberty go.

Ne'er shall you fear what the issue may be
Firm in your right of the rule of the sea
Never shall Britain relinquish control
Over the waters that wakened her soul.

Wakened her soul from the darkness of night,
Taught her to love and to battle for right,
Curbing all tyranny, freeing the slave,
Earning her heritage—Queen of the wave.

Sailors of Britain your white ensign flies,
Emblem of hope 'neath the lowering skies,
Surety of faith to our treaty-bound states,
Thwarting the foe who would storm at our gates.

Glowing like flame in the storm driven sky,
Proudly victorious long shall it fly;
Terror of tyranny, pride of the free,
Banner of Britons at home on the sea.

Guard it in honor wherever you sail,
Challenging foemen before it shall quail;
Shattered in battle their navies shall flee
Leaving Britann'a QUEEN of the SEA.
