CAPTURED GERMAN FLAGS IN PARIS

Several German flags, captured by the French in northern France and Belgium, being taken into the "Invalides" in Paris to be placed among the French war trophies. In this building are many relics of the war of 1870. The "Invalides" is shown in the background.

War News Continues Favorable to the Allied Forces

Steady Advance Continues in West — Russians Victorious in East Prussia — Kaiser's Forces Must Soon Defend Germany Against Invasion

News from the war seems to be gradually taking on a better tone, and although the struggle continues with terrific violence it is becoming more and more evident that the German war party, wonderful as was their accumulations of fighting material, and comprehensive and subtle the preparations they had made to achieve their dream of world dominance, had underestimated the magnitude of the task. One by one their plans, skillfully laid and pursued with relentless fury, have gone wrong, until at the present moment, in the opinion of competent experts their chances of further aggression lie in the balance and if the last desperate coup which they are aiming at the Allies in France fails, they must retire to a mere defence of their own country.

"The Kaiser's army in Flanders", says a correspondent from the Belgian frontier, "is a broken machine. His own personal orders—and predictions— have suddenly ceased and he is back at Potsdam. The movement of troops is no longer towards the Allies' lines, and every night Red Cross trains have been side-tracked to allow regiment after regiment to hasten to a new line, not of defiance, but of humble defence."

The advance of Belgians, says a despatch has penetrated to Ostend which means that the coast line from Dunkirk to Nieuport and Ostend is relieved from the menace of the past two weeks. Ypres is now the storm centre. The town itself has been razed by artillery fire and has been entirely abandoned by the populace. At this point it is stated the Germans are massing every available man for a supreme effort to break through the defender's lines.

It is rumored that Germany alarmed at the Russian successes in East Prussia has made preliminary offers of a peace settlement which have been refused.

The outbreak of war in Turkey is one of the worst of recent developments and already stories of the most frightful atrocities by the Turks are beginning to be circulated.

King George opened parliament again yesterday.

The British torpedo boat "Niger" was sunk in the English Channel yesterday by a German submarine! All the crew were saved.

Six German and one Austrian war ships were sunk by an explosion in Kiao Chou Bay during the taking of Tsing Tau by the Japanese.

General Dankl with the remains of the Austrian army is moving south through Galicia, refusing to co-operate further with the German General von Hindenbury.

The losses on the notorious Emden, which was driven ashore and burned, south of Java by the Australian cruiser Sydney are 200 killed and 30 wounded.

BRITISH MARINES WOUNDED AT ANTWERP

British marines who fought in the trenches at St. Lierre, outside Antwerp, during the German bombardment of that town, returning from the front for medical treatment.

The British marines bore much of the fighting in the vicinity of Antwerp, and many of them were wounded.

Regular Meeting of the City Council

There was a full attendance at last Friday morning's meeting of the city council.

Several matters of correspondence were dealt with, the first being a letter from Mr. R. L. Campbell Brown, who is the possessor of a golden eagle which he captured alive during August last. He offered to loan it indefinitely to the city for exhibition in the park, with the probability that he would never require it again. The offer was referred to the Park committee.

A letter was submitted by the chief of police from the Salvation Army Rescue Home at Vancouver, asking that some provision be made for the maintenance of a woman sent from Kelowna and order by the magistrate to be detained in the home. The letter was held over for a week.

The chief constable submitted his usual monthly report for October. During the month there had been only five minor cases before the magistrate. Two persons had been interdicted for habitual drunkenness. Four dogs had been destroyed, and there was one fire to report. The total fines collected had amounted to $145.00 Trade licences had been paid to the amount of $65 and road taxes $124.

In his report the chief stated that on October 3rd, twenty-seven samples of wines and spirits had been taken from the three city hotels and handed to the city clerk to be forwarded to the coast for analysis.

On October 21st, the tires of four bicycles standing in front of the Club had been maliciously slashed by some evil disposed person, who must have either used a razor or a very sharp knife. Up to the present it had been impossible to discover the perpetrator of the act.

On the 24th a raid was made on the premises of Liang Koi on Ellis avenue, and a quantity of prepared opium and pipes and scales found. The proprietor and another man found there were arrested and charged with keeping an opium joint. They were let out on bail for $50 and $20 which as they did not turn up for trial was forfeited to the city.

Complaints, it was stated had been received by the Park committee that birds and animals in the Park were being tormented by children poking at them with sticks through the bars of their cages. In one case a dog had got into a cage and nearly killed a valuable Asiatic pheasant. The hope was expressed that parents would instruct their children not to interfere with the interesting zoological specimens now confined in the park.

All German and Austrian subjects, the report concluded, who had been required to register last September were now under police surveillance and had all reported as ordered, and although greatly interested in the important events taking place in Europe and elsewhere, had so far gone about their business as usual and caused no trouble.

New Fire Truck Ready For Use

Mayor Jones reported that the new auto fire truck was ready for delivery. Fire Chief Jenkins had recommended that rubber footings be placed on the truck and certain improvements made to the entrance to the fire hall to facilitate its removal in and out of the building. He had also suggested that the council consider the question of engaging a chauffeur to run the fire truck and also to keep the hose and fire hall in good condition.

The council authorized the alterations to the entrance to the fire hall and also the purchase of rubber footings and a set of chains. As to the chauffeur the committee were requested to obtain full particulars of the duties of such a person and the remuneration he would require.

The point was raised as to whether the new truck would not entitle the city to some reduction in fire insurance rates, and Alderman Rattenbury was requested to obtain from the Board of Underwriters a statement of the conditions upon which a reduction could be obtained.

Mention was made of the lamentable death of Mrs. D. Leckie, who had been held in high esteem in the city, and as she was also the wife of a former member of the council a resolution was passed that a message of sympathy be sent to the bereaved family.

A letter was read from the B. C. Anti-Tuberculosis Society stating that they were in urgent need of funds with which to continue their work in the sanatorium, and requesting the council to give any assistance they could. In view of the very urgent nature of the appeal the council decided to make a grant of $50. This was ten dollars less than the usual annual donation.

Before the meeting adjourned the city clerk gave an interesting report of the recent convention of the Union of B. C. Municipalities which he had attended as a delegate on behalf of the city.

At the commencement of the convention, reported Mr. Dunn the following resolution was sent to H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught:

"The Union of British Columbia Municipalities in convention assembled, consisting of representatives of practically every organized local authority in this province, beg to assure you of the undying devotion and attachment of this province to His Majesty's Crown and person. We are pleased to note the entire absence of party politics in the speeding of Canada's first contingent for our war against aggression; proud that His Majesty the King has accepted our sons for his service; glad to assure your Highness that British Columbia can and will double or quadruple our endeavors if necessary."

This resolution was unanimously passed by a standing vote and the singing of the National Anthem, and a copy of same ordered to be telegraphed to the Governor-General.

Amongst the more important resolutions affecting municipalities passed by the convention were the following:

"That the term of office for Mayor and Aldermen, Reeve and Councillors, be for two years." When this resolution was passed the convention had in view the retirement of a portion of a council annually, similar to the present regulations governing the term of office of school trustees.

"That the government be urged to amend the "Trustee Act" so as to authorise the investment of Trust funds in the debentures or stocks of British Columbia Municipalities without requiring that they be guaranteed by the government."

"That this convention recommend the provincial government to issue 4½ per cent., provincial stock, the date of payment to be such that municipalities may, at their option, invest their sinking funds in same."

"That an uniform rate of interest should be charged on all taxes in arrears, be that rate, eight, ten or twelve per cent."

"That tax sale notices be issued on or before 1st April instead of 1st March."

In compliance with the council's instructions Mr. Dunn appeared before the resolutions committee in suppart of a request that the one-sixth rebate for prompt payment of taxes be made to apply to all tax rates, excepting only road tax and local improvement taxes. The Committee was in sympathy with the proposal and recommended same to the Union's Executive and the Municipal Inspector. The Union's Solicitor was in doubt as to the correct interpretation of Section 243, which is the section under which tax rebates are authorized. This matter was referred to the Solicitor and the Inspector of Municipalities.

Probably the most contentious question raised at the convention was the sale of liquor during the present war. A resolution was introduced requesting the government to fix the hours during which liquor might be sold at from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., until the end of the war. An amendment to this resolution was presented, requesting the government to prohibit the renewal of any liquor license at the expiration of same in January next, and prohibit the sale of liquor until the end of the war. This question was debated for at least one hour and resulted in the amendment being defeated by four votes. The original motion was defeated by a much greater majority.

Papers were read on the "Economics of Municipal Power Plants" by H. K. Dutcher, C.E. of Vancouver; and on "Civic Hygiene" by F. L. Glover, Sanitary and Plumbing Inspector of Kamloops.

Dr. Vrooman, superintendent of the Tranquille Sanatorium gave a lengthy address upon the work and requirements of that institution. He stated that unless financial assistance was received immediately it would be necessary to turn the patients out of the sanatorium and close the doors. The matters to which he referred were considered of such great importance that the convention requested him to send full particulars to all municipal councils in the province.

R. Baird, Esq., Inspector of Municipalities, have a very interesting and valuable address, a full report of which has been held over until next week.

The following accounts were passed for payment.

New Automobile Fire Truck Ready This Week

The new automobile fire truck which is being built for the city by the Kelowna Garage Co., Ltd., was given a preliminary trial run last week, and presented a very striking appearance with its gorgeous red finish and generous array of brass fittings. The roads just now are heavy enough to test any automobile, but the truck which carried a load of 1400 pounds in addition to four men, behaved remarkably well. It was afterwards taken back to the garage where some minor alterations and improvements which had suggested themselves, are being made. By Saturday, however, it will be ready for delivery to the city.

The truck has been built from designs by Mr. A. Brunette, manager of the Garage Co., the new body being constructed on a Cadillac chassis, with a power plant rated at ' ·· ' 30 horse power.

Equipped for the road it carries in addition to eight firemen, everything likely to be required in the fighting of an ordinary fire. In the body of the truck is storage room for 1000 feet of hose, while on the foot-board are pedestals to carry the nozzles. On an overhead framework is secured an extension ladder, an equipment which will no doubt save many a frantic search for some means to reach the second storeys or roofs of burning buildings. Securely fastened in brackets at the sides are lanterns and fireman's axes, while on the rear platform are two chemical extinguishers, useful in case of a minor fire where it is found unnecessary to use water.

In addition to the usual headlights and side lamps, the truck is equipped with a powerful moveable searchlight, from which a brilliant shaft of light can be thrown in any direction. The advantage of this will be apparent for use at night when the firemen's efforts are often hampered by having to poke around in the dark.

A novel feature in connection with the headlights and searchlight is an electric ignition, supplied from a strong battery and coil, and operated from the driver's seat. By means of this the acetylene gas is ignited by a small electric arc contrived to pass through near the burner. Thus all delays in fiddling with matches in a wind are eliminated, at the same time retaining the brilliance associated with acetylene lamps.

To accommodate the truck some alterations are being made to the entrance and floor of the fire hall.

The provision of this truck marks a most important advance in the fire protective machinery of the city, and in the hands of Kelowna's efficient brigade, will reduce fire risks considerably.

Volunteer Shot at Penticton

Some person unknown, but believed to be the anonymous letter writer who had been flooding Penticton mails scurrilous letters for the past few months, fired into the crowded assembly room of the Aquatic Club last Thursday, wounding two persons. The shot was fired through a door on the lake side of the building. T. Hickey of Summerland was hit in the shin bone, and Frank Bird of Penticton was grazed in the thigh by the bullet.

The club hall was the scene of the farewell to twenty-five volunteers for the second contingent, leaving next morning for Vancouver. Citizens were bidding them good-bye when the miscreant fired into the crowd and then escaped in the darkness. It is believed the missile was meant for J. H. McKoy, manager of the Bank of Hamilton. McKoy is sergeant of the volunteer company. Hickey, who war hit was also a volunteer. This is the second or third attempt made on the life of Mr. McKoy recently, following scandalous attacks upon his character, made in the flood of letters sent to citizens in the last few months. Detectives who have investigated the letter writing case have been unable to find any clue to the writer. McKoy was shot at through the window of his home recently.

Kettle Valley Will Not be Main Line

"People here should not get the idea that this is to become the main line" said George Bury, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific railway at Penticton. "The Canadian Pacific railway would not spend a fortune on the Rogers Pass tunnel if it ever intended to divert its main line traffic. Under no present known conditions will this line become the company's main highway through British Columbia, although it will certainly be an important scenic route, and also a valuable short line to the coast and prairies for the transportation of fruit, timber and coal." he said. "Next spring when traffic through to the coast via the Kettle Valley is commenced, the Canadian Pacific railway plans to put on trains through Southern British Columbia, running only in daylight hours, for the special benefit of tourists."

Discussing the proposed train service for tourists on the Kettle Valley line, the vice-president pointed out that the company expected a great increase in travel next year owing to the holding of the Panama-Pacific exposition. The Kettle Valley and Crows Nest were to be featured in its literature, he said, as providing an alternative route to the main line and travellers who came west on the main line could return via the Kettle Valley, or vice versa. In order to stimulate tourist traffic on this new line, the Canadian Pacific railway therefore planned to operate a daily train leaving Vancouver early in the morning, he added. This train will be held at Penticton, the tourists thus being given a chance to look over the city, to get an evening's trolling on the lake, and to test the hospitality of the local hotels.

The next night's stop would be at Nelson, the train making connections at Medicine Hat with the main line service on the third night. Similar trains would be operated from Medicine Hat through to the coast, stopping one night at Nelson and the next at Penticton. There would be two trains each day stopping all night in Penticton during the tourist season, according to the plans referred to by Vice-President Bury.

Rutland News

The Rev. I. W. Williamson, Sunday school field secretary for B. C., will address a gathering of teachers, children and parents on Sunday Nov. 15th at 11 a.m., in the assembly hall of the new school. It is hoped that a large number may take the opportunity of hearing this specialist in Sunday school work.

Canadian Nickel in German Warships

Attention has been directed to the fact, quite recently, that by taking over the control of the output of its nickel mines, Canada can render it practically impossible for Germany to proceed with the construction of new warships.

Nickel plays a very important part in the construction of a modern warship because of its importance in the hardening of steel. The old style iron-clad ships were built of 18-inch wrought iron plates. In 1897 steel faced or compound 14-inch armor came into use, of which three inches were held to be equal to four of the old wrought iron plates in resisting power In 1893, the introduction of the Harvey process made a steel of which two inches were equal to four inches of the wrought iron. In 1895 the use of nickel was first put to the practical test in steel plates, with the result that this nickel and steel combination, hardened by the Harvey process, gave a steel of which eight inches developed powers of resistance as great as eighteen inches of the old wrought iron. The Krupps made further improvements in the hardening process and six inches of Krupp steel became equal to nine inches of the steel produced by the ordinary Harvey process, and to over three times its thickness in wrought iron. The latest improvement has been produced by the Simpson process, discovered in 1909. Simpson steel plates four inches thick are better in quality and greater in resisting power than any of the previous plates mentioned. The important point in this connection is the fact that the secret of the whole matter lies in the use of nickel.

There are only two great deposits of nickel in the world which are worth working commercially. The Caledonia mines owned by France and the Sudbury mines owned by Canada. It goes without saying that Germany cannot now obtain any nickel from France, and a similar regulation upon the part of Canada would entirely deprive that nation of its source of nickel without which it would be impossible to build ships of war.

Practically the entire output of the nickel mines of Canada is controlled by the International Nickel Comuany, which it is declared is controlled by a Board of fifteen directors, of whom one is a Canadian and fourteen are capitalists of the United States. The net profits of this company out of Canadian raw material for the year ending March 31, 1914, are reported at $4,792,554.75. The raw material is not refined in Canada, but is exported to Bethleham, N.J., for that purpose, and inasmuch as Canada cannot control its distribution from that point, there is every reason to conclude that Germany has been obtaining all the Canadian nickel that was necessary for its purposes.

Now, it might not be possible for Canada to shut off that supply at once, but by taking such measures as would compel the refining of this Canadian product within our own borders the control of this situation would at once be placed in the hands of the Canadian government, except with regard to such reserve supplies as may be on hand at the Bethlehem refinery or in Germany. This surplus having been exhausted, the construction of warships by Germany would necessarily come to an end.

WIRELESS FOR FARMERS

Wireless for farmers in the outlying districts is the latest idea in Australia. It is suggested that the farmers in the various localities should organize themselves into a co-operative body, subscribing to a fund that would provide a wireless station for each member, and a central station at the nearest town, where an operator would be on duty. For the sum of $100 each a body of ten subscribers could purchase instruments, including a transmitter with a range of ten miles. The cost of the erection of the mast aerial and the assembling of the instruments would depend upon the ability of the erector.

HOSPITAL DIRECTORS ANSWER RUMORS

Owing to so many statements having been made in the vicinity, which are not in accordance with the facts, in reference to a reported accident connected with the death at the hospital of the late Mr. W. S. Morris, the Board of Directors of the hospital, upon hearing these rumors, immediately undertook a thorough investigation of the case, and now beg to submit the following facts:

This patient was to be operated upon for appendicitis, but upon examination, a serious complication of conditions was found to exist. An immediate operation was the only chance of saving the patient's life, which was undertaken on Sunday, Nov. 1st. This proved so serious, and the shock so great, that slight hope was entertained for his recovery.

On Monday evening, Nov. 2nd, the physician in charge gave up all hope of his recovery. On Tuesday afternoon about 2 o'clock, owing to the excessive and prolonged restlessness of the patient, one corner of the foot of the spring of his bed became unlocked, which allowed the foot of same to gradually descend until it rested upon the base of a screen which was surrounding him. At no time did the spring or mattress touch the floor, and the patient being in a recumbent position at the time, was not in any way discomfited by this occurrence. The matron, who was nearby immediately gave the matter her attention.

The Board takes this opportunity of requesting anyone who may have any complaint in reference to the management of this Public Institution, to be good enough to lay such complaint directly and immediately before them.

It is the endeavor of the Board to carry on the management of the hospital to the satisfaction of the patients and the general public; therefore, it is obvious they cannot do so without the assistance and cooperation of everyone in this district.

THE DIRECTORS.
Kelowna Hospital Society.

In the United Service Institution, Whitehall, London, reposes one of the most beautiful books the world has produced for many generations. Two years have been spent in the making of it, and the cost will be something like $2,500. It is "The Roll of the Dead of the South African war." It contains about 22,000 names of officers and men killed by the enemy or by disease, set out under the headlines of about 300 regiments, regular and irregular. It is to be placed on a shrine behind the bishop's throne in Cape Town Cathedral.

The Overseas Club is sending circulars and subscription lists to its members throughout Canada with the object of securing subscriptions from the public towards sending tobacco to the Canadians at the front. Permanent prohibition on the sale of absinthe and alcoholic beverages in France is a result of the war. Transportation and the sale of absinthe was forbidden when the war began, but traffic in other intoxicants was continued. The government has now supplemented its original order with another forbidding the sale of any alcoholic drinks similar to absinthe. There is a marked movement in all parts of France tending to perpetuate this prohibition.

The Panama Canal may be put to the usages of war for the first time, should reports which reached New York prove true. Seven British warships were said to be on their way to the canal, presumably proceeding to the Pacific coast of South America to avenge the defeat of the British cruisers by German warships.

American military observers, who thus far have been unable to view the fighting, may now have a glimpse of the war. The French war office has relaxed its strict orders and will permit observers from neutral countries to go to the front.

The German warship Geier, which has been undergoing repairs to her machinery for several weeks at Honolulu, and the North German Lloyd's steel schooner Locksun, which arrived there recently, and which was interned under the ruling that the vessel was a naval tender, have been placed under a guard of United States troops and will be held until the cessation of hostilities. The Japanese battleship Hizen and cruiser Asama still stand guarding the entrance outside the three mile limit awaiting the decision.

The famous German 42 centimetre gun which has been reported as a modern invention, appears to have been described in the German magazine "Prometheus," in the year 1893. The article at the time, gave the enormous weight of the gun and the velocity and the effect of the shots and this information was extensively quoted in a scientific magazine issued during the same year.

Canada, with the rest of the empire, is now at war with Turkey, a proclamation being issued providing the usual period of days of grace for Turkish ships in Canadian waters, as provided by the Hague conference. The proclamation which is similar to those issued with respect to German and Austrian shipping, is not much more than a formality in Canada, as Turkish ships are infrequent visitors.

The recent remarkable mobilization of German warships off the coast of South America has led the British embassy officials at Washington to believe that some secret means of communication extends to South America and that the German ships operating in southern waters have been receiving supplies from somewhere on the Pacific coast of the southern continent. Many letters have been received by the embassy offering, for various considerations, information of German wireless stations on American territory. Some tell of secret stations on the Pacific coast, in Maine and in Scotland and South America.

An agitation is on foot in Petrograd for the adoption of stronger measures to prevent Germany getting practically all the supplies she requires in spite of the British blockade. Newspapers express the opinion that it is time for the Allies to drop kid-glove war on the sea, and to act a littlemore as Germany would, if she ruled the water. Not a day passes, it is alleged, without fresh cargoes for Germany being shipped in Danish, Swedish and Norwegian bottoms, and although these ships all sail from a neutral port and have as their destinations equally neutral ports, it would be easy enough to establish the contraband nature of their traffic, if only the Allies made up their minds to be fooled no longer.

ENGLISH MARINES LANDING ON BELGIAN SOIL

Most of the British forces were conveyed from Ostend to Antwerp in London motor busses, which with their drivers were taken along for that purpose. These busses were also used for withdrawing the troops when it became apparent that the city could no longer hold out. They have lately returned to London, where they were loudly cheered upon their return. Some of them are bullet marked from the fire of the German advance guard which entered the city close upon the heels of the retreating British and Belgians.

Germany's Swelled Head

THE PAN-GERMAN CREED

(London "Daily Mail")

"France must be so completely crushed that she can never again come across our path."— General Von Bernhardi in "The Next War."

"No quarter will be given, no prisoners will be taken. Let all who fall into our hands be at our mercy."—Address of the Kaiser to his troops, July 29, 1900.

The determination of Germany to fight England and France, and perhaps Russia, was impressed on the English people some years ago by M. Emil Reich, a famous Hungarian professor, who died before his beliefs were proved by historical facts. His little book has now been republished with an epilogue signed with initials that conceal an able Oxford historian." Dr. Reich's quotations from German authors and speakers may now be brought up to date. The sequence in finished; the evidence complete.

We now know beyond dispute:

1. That Germany meant to fight a ruthless war.

2. That her object is a world wide dominance.

This is best seen not by argument but by quotation. First as to war, and ruthless war:

> I christen thee Fort Haeseler. Thou wilt be called upon to defend the conquests of Germany upon her western foes.

This passage occurs in a speech of the Emperor's on March 1, 1900, on the occasion of the completion of a fort. Seven months later, in celebrating Moltke's birthday, he expressed the desire that "the staff may lead Germany to further victories." A few few years later he said at an anniversary:

> Nothing must be settled in this world without the intervention of Germany and of the German Emperor.

It is not a far cry from the Kaiser to the professors. They are not less militant. In a formal history Professor Treitschke writes:

> To whom will belong the sceptre of the universe? What nation will impose its wishes on the other decadent and enfeebled people? Will it not be Germany that will have the mission to ensure the peace of the world? . . . . The future belongs to Germany, to which Austria will attach herself if she wishes to survive.

The most popular historical work that ever appeared in Germany is "The Foundations of the Nineteenth Century." In reviewing a period of early German history the author says:

> It was high time that the deliverer appeared . . . . We can regret only one thing—that the German did not, everywhere his conquering arm preyed, exterminate more completely.

The theologians are as bitter as the professors. Professor Lezius was cheered by students and professors for the following passage in a popular lecture:

> All Polish societies should be suppressed without the slightest apology, . . . as well as the societies of Alsace, Lorraine and Schleswig-Holstein, . . . The people should be allowed only three privileges; to pay taxes, serve in the army, and shut their jaws.

If the professors and divinity teachers speak in this way, what are we to expect of the soldiers? General Von Bernhardi, whose book, "The Next War" is read with admiration by the whole of Prussia, writes:

> The efforts directed towards the abolition of war must not only be termed foolish but absolutely immoral, and must be described as unworthy of the human race.

This general statement leads up to two direct and practical conclusions:

> (A) France must be so completely crushed that she can never again come across our path.
> (B) A pacific agreement with England is, after all, a will-o'-the-wisp which no serious German would trouble to follow.

The standard passage for German delight in the winning of a bloody and brutal war is the Kaiser's speech on the eve of the Chinese expedition; but it is not everywhere known that the most ruthless passage in the speech was circulated on postcards throughout Germany.

> When you meet the foe you will defeat him. No quarter will be given, no prisoners will be taken, Let all who fall into our hands be at your mercy.

The rest of the passage urges the Germans to act like the Huns who ravaged Europe a thousand years ago If the Kaiser will allow his own words to be capped, one further quotation on German belief in barbarity may be given. Field-Marshal Von der Goltz, who was sent to train the Turks because, as was confessed, they were "the only people who could attack the British trade route to India," wrote a book entitled "The Nation in Arms." It leads up to this climax:

> Wars are the fate of mankind, the inevitable destiny of nations. Inexorability and seemingly hideous callousness are among the qualities necessary to him who would achieve great things in war.

It was to a people fed full on such sentiments as these that the German Chancellor said exactly a month ago:

> We are now is a state of necessity, and necessity knows no law. Our troops have occupied Luxemburg, and perhaps are already on Belgian soil. Gentleman, that is contrary to the dictates of international law. The wrong—I speak openly—that we are committing we will endeavor to make good as soon as our military goal is achieved.

Is the Chancellor going to make good the Belgian children, the murder of their mothers, to mothers the murder of their children? Can he rebuild historic Louvain and repair ravaged homes? Can he knit the severed oath and ensure peace through the brutal war?

So much for war. The belief in war is founded on an amazing conceit, fed by a host of popular and professional writers, that Germans are "The Chosen People."

> True history begins from the moment when the Germans, with mighty hand, seizes the inheritance of antiquity.

So writes the author of "The Foundations of the N ineteenth Century," and as in the crusade on behalf of war, is followed by the preachers.

"The German people is the elect of God, and its enemies are the enemies of the Lord," is one pulpit utterance.

> We are the best colonists, the best sailors, and even the best merchants . . . We are the most intelligent nation there is, and the advanced in science and art. We are, without contradiction, the most warlike people on earth.

Such is another written claim, one of hundreds of like tenor. They are rounded up by the sonorous passage from a speech of the Kaiser's, who after, all, usually says pictorially and grandiloquently what his public feels and thinks.

> Our German people will be the granite block on which the good God may complete His work of civilizing the world. Then will be realizing the word of the poet who said the world will one day be cured by the German character.

Nothing is quoted above which has not had a vogue in Germany. But in considering the crime of Germany against the world I would make one subtraction from the charge. It is Prussia, not Germany, that leads the crusade. Prussia, not Germany, is is mad with the lust for war and conquest; and Prussia is at the mercy of the military clique, because she alone, of German provinces still refuses to allow her working people to vote on any equality with the rish.

APPLES FOR MARCHING MEN

In one of the hot, dusty lanes between two big suburbs on Saturd afternoon (writes the "Daily Citizen's' London Correspondent) I came across two batteries of field artillery halted for five minutes' rest at a wayside hamlet. The villagers ran out with glasses and refreshments, but although some, at least, of the liquids were profered out of pure hospitality it was noticed that many of the men declined to drink. All, however, without exception, were busily munching apples with rare enjoyment. Half an hour later, in the suburb outskirts, I found an explanation. Outside the house of a popular local doctor ranged along the pavement was a line of huge laundry baskets filled with the fine apples. Another battery of artillerymen was passing, and the good doctor, with all his household, was standing alongside handing up the fruit in generous handfuls. It was a kindly thought, and brought its author the quickest of all returns in frank appreciation.

Oh my,
And likewise I
Sit still, my curls, while I orate,
Me, I, Myself, the Throne, the State,
I am the Earth, the Moon, the Sun
All rolled in one.
Both hemispheres am I,

Oh my,
If there were three, the three
I'd be.

I am the Dipper, night and day,
The north and southern poles, the Milky Way,
I am they that walk, or fly on wing
Or swim or creep—I'm everything.
It makes me tremble like the Aspen tree
To think I'm Me;
And blink like stars up in the sky
To think I'm I—
And shrink in terror like a frightened elf
To realize that I'm myself.

Ye blithering slaves beneath my iron heel,
What know ye of the things I feel?
Did'st ever wake at dead of night,
And stand in awe of thine own might?

It took six days to make the land and sea;
But centuries were passed in making Me
The Universe? an easy task; but I —
Oh, my.

PAMPHLET ON CARE OF EWE AND LAMB

The live stock branch of the department of agriculture at Ottawa has issued a very practical bulletin on "The Care of the Ewe and Lamb." It constitutes a shepherd's presentation of the details of management of breeding flock, more particularly during the winter and spring months. It takes up, among other things, parturtion, feeding, docking, castration, the raising of pet lambs, and the simple and more serious ailments and accidents met with in the ordinary flock, concluding with a series of paragraphs, termed, "Leaves from the note-book of a successful Shepherd."

The bulletin, which is helpfully illustrated was prepared by T. Reginald Arkell, who has charge of the sheep and goat division of the live stock branch. Copies are available to those who apply for them to the publications branch, department of agriculture, Ottawa.

World Wide Pro-German Propaganda

Deep Laid German Scheme to Use Newspapers of World for Their Own Purposes—Report submitted to Government by British Ambassador at Berlin.

The following is an extract copy of the first of a series of reports submitted to the imperial government by Sir. E. W. Goschen, Ambassador at Berlin, with reference to an official German organization for influencing the press of other countries. The other numbers of the series were short despatches giving in greater detail information conveyed in the first despatch. It should be stated, however, that the reference to the Havas Agency was afterward found to be erroneous, for although that news agency had been approached by German agents, the Havas people refused to even take the proposition into consideration. The despatch, enclosed in a letter addressed to Sir Edward Grey, is as follows:

For some time past a variety of schemes had been ventilated in the press with the object of improving German prestige abroad. It was said that in certain foreign parts Germany was being persistently and wrongfully abused, that she could obtain no fair hearing because the press of those distant countries was in hands hostile to any German enterprise, and because the telegraphic agencies serving those countries were equally biassed. An "Association for World-Commerce" was to have remedied this evil by a persistent pro-German propaganda in the countries most bitterly complained of. It was hoped that the necessary funds could have been raised by contributions from all the trading and industrial societies interested in the German export trade, and in view of the supreme importance to Germany of her export trade, it was intended that agents of the association should be sent and stationed abroad to assist the exporting industries by timely advice and an active policy generally, such as private individuals pursue more effectively than officials.

The opportunity for realizing this scheme seemed to offer itself under the following circumstances. A plan was being prepared to start a German-American economic society. Similar societies with an application to other countries already exist—e.g., a German Argentine Society, a German-Canadian Society, a German-Russian Society, etc. The foundation of a German-American Society had been advocated in connection with the revision of the American tariff which gave German industries new chances of an intensified export to the United States. As was natural in any matters dealing with German-American affairs, Mr. Ballin, of the Hamburg-American Line, was approached to take the matter in hand. He consented. Under his inspiration, the idea of a German-American Society was abandoned and the idea of a World Society was substituted. A preliminary meeting was held at which the various German-foreign societies were represented; there were present also representatives of the "Central Association of German Industrials" and of its great rival, the "Federation of Industrials," as well as the most of the leading industrial firms. Internal dissensions, however, soon appeared, and several important members sent in their resignations.

The details of the foundation were to have been settled at a meeting convened for the 26th February; today the whole scheme stands prorogued sine die. If it is ever realized its plan will have to be considerably altered. In the meantime the original plan of a German-American Society has been revived. This society is, in fact, to be constituted in Berlin early in March in the form originally intended.

It would seem strange had M. Ballin so readily accepted defeat. The explanation lies in the fact that, at the request of very highly placed persons, his interest has been transferred to another more delicate and more or less secret organization, devised to undertake those duties of Mr. Ballin's would-be "Weltverein" which concerned the German reputation abroad.

A short time ago a meeting of which the secret has been well kept, was convened in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, of which Dr. Hamann, the notorious head of the press bureau of the German Foreign Office, was the originator, and at which the Foreign Secretary himself was present. The meeting was attended by members of the leading industrial concerns of this country; the North German Lloyd, the Hamburg-American Company, the Deutsche Bank, the Disconto Gesellschaft, the Allgemeins Electricitatsgesellschaft, Siemens and Halske, the Schuckert Works, Krupp, the Cruson Works, etc. They formed a private company with the purpose of "furthering the German industrial prestige abroad"— a conveniently vague purpose. The company will be financed by private subscriptions and by a government grant. The sum at first suggested as a necessary revenue from private subscription was £12,500, but the company present at the first meeting was so enthusiastic that it definitely promised annual subscriptions amounting to £25,000. The government will add £12,500 per annum—the whole Secret Service Fund, in fact at the disposal of the Imperial Foreign office for similar purposes (e.g., for the payment of subsidies to certain papers abroad).

The company has entered into an agreement with the "Agence Havas" that the latter will in future only publish news concerning Germany if supplied through "Wolff's Telegraphen-Bureau". The latter will receive its German news exclusively from the new company. The company intends to make a similar arrangement with Reuter's Telegraphic Bureau for those foreign countries in which Reuter controls telegraphic communications. If Reuter declines, the "Deutsche Kabelgesellschaft" a smaller German news agency supplying telegrams from certain countries (e.g., Mexico) and working in agreement with Wolff's Telegraphic Bureau, is to be financed by the new company to run a service in competition to Reuter's.

All the concerns represented at the meeting have furthermore agreed to pay into the company's hotchpot the very vast sums which they are accustomed to spend abroad for their advertisements in foreign papers. The total of this item alone is believed to be not less than £25,000 per annum—so the annual sum available for the purpose of the new company will reach a total of £50,000 to £75,000. The company will in future issue the advertisement of its members only to those foreign papers which publish German information originating exclusively from the new company, which is to be regarded as the only authentic source of information concerning Germany and all things German. This information they are to receive free of cost or at a nominal sum—so that the willing foreign papers will derive very material benefits from their collaboration with the company, viz., lucrative advertisements and free matter written in the language of the country in which the papers are published. The foreign press is to be watched by the company's agents appointed in the various foreign centres. Any incorrect reports are to be telegraphed home and corrected by telegrams issued by the company. The countries in which the system is to be immediately inaugurated are chiefly the South American States and those of the Far East, but the system is to embrace all countries outside Europe. The German cable rates for press telegrams are to be reduced in the interests of the new company.

It is difficult to say whether the evil which the new company is to remedy really exists, or exists to any preceptible extent, but it is certain that a very influential private company has been called into existence with every official encouragement commanding an enormous revenue for the purposes of a pro-German newspaper propaganda. Whether the evil exists or not—the money will be spent on secret service to popularize Germany abroad. It does not seem to have occurred to the promoters of the scheme that they are preparing the ground for a vast system of international blackmail—hardly a proper way to reach the desired end.

Note.—Information since furnished to the Foreign Office has conclusively established that such an agreement whilst apparently intended by the German company, was not in fact entered into, or indeed ever contemplated by the "Agence Havas."

FOREIGN BORN IN U. S.

A bulletin just issued by the census authorities at Washington shows that of the countries now warring in the world, the British empire is represented by very much the largest number amongthe population of the United States. There were in April, 1910, 13,515,000 persons of foreign birth in the country, constituting 14.7 per cent, of the population. The numbers were divided as follows:

England	876,456
Scotland	261,034
Wales	82,479
Ireland	1,352,158
Canada	1,201,146
Total	3,773,269
Germany	2,501,181
Russia	1,602,752
Austria	1,670,524
France	117,236
Japan, (about)	150,000

Another aspect of the question is the number of foreign born who have become naturalized. Of the males of whom a record is kept, Germany shows the largest proportion as indication, it seems fair to conclude, that the German citizen is more anxious to cast off the old ties of the militaristic Fatherland in favor of the new-found home of liberty.

FOLLOWING CANADA'S LEAD

Canada's example in instituting free distribution of forest tree seedlings, cuttings, etc., to prairie homesteaders for planting out as shelter belts, etc., bids fair soon to be followed by the United States Department of Agriculture. The prospect is that this distribution will be made from the newly established Field Station at Mandan, N.D. Mr. W. A. Peterson, the superintendent of the station, lately visited the Dominion Forestry Branch's Nursery Station at Indian Head, Sask., in order to investigate Canadian methods of carrying out the enterprise.

When the long distance telephone line of the Dominion government is laid to Midway from Osoyoos, says the Penticton Herald,—and this work should be finished by Christmas—there will only be a gap of eight miles between the lines out from Midway and Greenwood. When this gap is closed, people in Penticton will be able to talk over the Company's systems to friends in Nelson, about 300 miles away. The line south to Osoyoos was completed from Fairview to Osoyoos last Friday week and the boundary line a day or two later.

On the night of Halloween a bicycle was left outside Mr. W. W. Grummett's house at Benvoulin and is there yet. Whether this was somebody's notion of a joke or whether the wheel was stolen from town and ridden that far it is impossible to say, but anyone who has lost a bicycle about that time had better see Mr. Grummett.

The Court of Appeal for the province has found for the municipality of Penticton in the now well-known damage suit of McDougall & Co., vs. Penticton, in which the water system contractors sued the corporation for an amount in the neighborhood of $20,000. The total costs on both sides will probably run to another $10,000, so that it can be seen that the cost of the litigation is exceedingly important to the municipality.

The causes of the present war formed the basis of an interesting discussion at the weekly meeting of the Baptist Young People's Society on Monday last. The president Mr. G. R. S. Blackaby gave an historical sketch of events of the past hundred years and showed, from his point of view how the Germans had been planning and scheming for this war. A number of opinions were expressed as to the real causes, and at the close refreshments were handed round and a social time spent.

WOMEN CAMPAIGN FOR RECRUITS

The Misses Winnifred and Ivy Mulrooney, sisters, who are working hard for Lord Kitchener's appeal for recruits to fight the Germans. They ride through Hyde Park, London, and personally request all young men to join the British army.

These young women are merely one example of the spirit that pervades all England. Now that the British realize that the war is on in earnest, the general apathy and indifference that characterized the first few weeks of the war have given way to feverish excitement and to a grim determination to beat Germany at all costs.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories, and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Applications for the lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal subdivisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns shall be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lease may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to the Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion lands.

Bowling

With the games tonight and tomorrow night the bowling schedule will be half completed and the stronger teams are well bunched near the top while the four teams at the foot of the standing are having an exciting fight among themselves.

With half the games played it looks as though any of the first four clubs have a good chance while the teams at present forming the second division will have a hard time forcing their way into the first division without considerable new material to strengthen their ranks.

The Bears no longer have the honor of leading the league alone, now being forced to share that position with the Pelicans who drew up on even terms with them by winning three games from the Missions on Tuesday night.

The Dreamlands and Beavers are also in the race for the first place and will no doubt be found hard contenders for the honors when the seasons nears the close.

The Royals and Starlights are evenly balanced and will probably make an interesting race, while the Pastimes and Missions are slated to bring up the rear.

Alderman Sutherland pointed out that the payment of these accounts would deplete the city's funds, and urged the necessity of limiting expenditure for all purposes against current revenue to the amount of receipts from monthly rates until 1915 taxes became payable. He did not think the incoming council would be able to secure any further advances against current revenue from the bank.

Alderman Copeland said the Board of Works was giving steady employment to one team on street work for the purpose of keeping the streets in repair. He was of opinion that it would be false economy to lay off this team during the wet weather, but he would be governed by the council's decision

It was decided that the team should be retained until the streets became firmer through frost of fine weather, but at the same time it was requested that expenditure shouldbe kept to the minimum.

The Walls of Jellicoe

(Being Reflections of an A.B. somewhere in the region of the Arctic Circle.)

When you yawn your way upstairs, shake your duds off, bolt your prayers, and blinking on the pillow lay your head—lucky brute!
Ere you shut your eyes and snore, heave a thought to this here war, and consider how you get your daily bread—cheese and all!
For no Prussian bullets rain on your pretty window pane; no Uhlans rush your room to draw your teeth;
You're not screaming full of dread for the kiddies overhead or the kitten in the kitchen underneath—pretty puss!
And for why? Because you know, tho' no gratitude you show, that a lot of lumps of steel with works inside—tic-a-tac!
Are for ever on the feel round the funk-hole out of Kiel where the little bluecoat boys of William hide:
But you ought to be awake, verse, you did and no mistake, just to fancy how we beggars rub along,
On a nippy T.B.D. rolling nasty in the sea on a moonless night with breakers going strong—hold my hand!
When we're steaming thro' the dark showing not a blink or spark, and watching for a mine or puff of smoke,
And hoping that the nose of the German when it shows, may be punched into a blooming kind of joke—falling flat!

* * * *

On the flagship's bridge a man takes a long and quiet scan of a certain bit of coastline lying east—Vaterland!
And it's him what has to think how to get your meat and drink, and likewise how to save you from the beast;
It is him, too, has to know how and where to smash the foe as soon as e'er that foe is on the crawl,
He must make his mind up slick and let at 'em awful quick, and spoil old Tirpitz's mug for good and all—Full inside!
There is no one by to say, Can I lend a hand J. J.? There is no one near to treat him like a friend.
He's the lonliest bloke at sea, and thank God it isn't me, but you're safe while he is keeping up his end;
He is Admiral Iesimo, which is Johnny Jellicoe, and I hope you'll breathe his name in all your prayers—don't forget!
For he's you and me and all, and if his old walls should fall, earth would close for alterations and repairs—Burn the map!

* * * *

Now I'll leave you to your sleep with the hope that food is cheap, and wishing that the news may quickly run—
How the German fleet that was isn't any more because the Ocean hadn't room for more than one—Schlafen wohl

You Can't Earn Money When You're Laid Up

There are a lot of people in this town who cannot afford to be sick. Perhaps none of you feel that you can, but certainly some of you can't, for as soon as you are sick, your wages stop and worry and debts begin to pile up. The sensible thing for you to do, as soon as you feel run-down and worn out, no matter what the cause, is to take something just as quick as you can to build up strength and health. Make yourself more comfortable and provide against serious sickness.

We don't believe there is any other medicine made that will do as much towards saving your health and thus helping you save your money as Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion. It is a medicine that gets right at the trouble and relieves it by toning the nerves, enriching the blood, and giving new strength and health to the whole body. It doesn't do this by means of alcohol or habit-forming drugs, because it contains none. Its strength and health-giving power is due to pure Olive Oil and the Hypophosphites, long endorsed by successful physicians, the one for its food value, the other for its tonic value. Here for the first time, they are combined, and the result is a real nerve, blood and body-building medicine— a real strengthener that we are proud to tell you about. You don't need to hesitate in using it, because if it doesn't do all we say it will and satisfy you in every way, it will cost you nothing. If it doesn't make you strong and well again, come back and get your money. It will be given to you without a word or question. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall stores, and in this town only by us. $1.00.

Methodist Sunday School Entertainment

Entertainments by the children are always popular with the adults and the concert last Friday evening by the children of the Methodist Sunday school was no exception to the rule. The church was filled with an appreciative audience and each number on the program was greeted with applause which showed that the care and perseverance exercised in the training of the children was fully recognized. The ladies who had this matter in hand deserve great credit for the results attained.

While all the children taking part did exceedingly well the smaller ones perhaps came in for the larger share of applause, the primary class especially taking their parts very naturally.

The drill by the girls of Mrs. Switzer's class was the cause of much merriment and they were recalled to go through their evolutions a second time.

Of the adult numbers Mr. P. B. Snashall's description of Rubenstein playing the piano was undoubtedly the favorite and Mr. Snashall showed great talent in his rendering of this difficult piece. The songs by Misses Staples and Mawhinney and Mr. Campbell were also well received. The address by the pastor, Rev. J. C. Switzer was as usual eminently suited for the occasion and was as interesting to the adult members of the audience as to the children.
