Kelowna Boy in the Thick of the Fighting in France

Further letters have been received this week by a member of the "Record" staff from Private H. Lefevre, a Kelowna boy who writes from "somewhere on God's green earth, I don't know where!" Presumably he is in France, and probably by this time is in the thick of the fighting now taking place there. "Our battalion," he says in a letter dated Jan. 22nd, "received several boxes of apples from the Okanagan, and say, they were splendid! They were the most welcome gift I think our battalion ever received, and the boys sure did enjoy them. I am the only boy in our battalion, so far as I know, from the valley, and so you can guess I was proud of this gift. They have nick-named me 'Okey' because I told them that was the only place where they grew apples . . . .

"We have two boys in our battalion who have been awarded the "D.C.M." for bravery. One of them ran out under fire and carried in a chum who had been wounded. The other threw himself on a bomb to save a comrade. It was at the Grenade school and one of the boys was throwing a bomb, when he slipped and fell, the lighted bomb falling among a bunch of men standing around. There was no time to pick it up and get it out of the way. This fellow seeing this threw himself upon it so it would not hit the rest. He got wounded in the chest and arm but he will live all right. One of the other fellows got his leg blown off. It was the bravest deed any man could ever do, I think, but as it was not in the firing line, he could not get a V. C. . . .

"I guess you folks over there are all talking about the war being over soon and the boys in Kelowna saying they will not get over here before the finish. You tell them from me they will see all they want to see and maybe just a little bit more before they have finished.

"P.S.—Since writing you this letter we have pulled off a little stunt. About 29 of the boys thought they would visit Fritz, so over they went to the front line with bombs and bayonets one night, jumped into the trench and drove Fritz out, killing about forty and taking three prisoners, one officer, one non-com., and one private. There was a hot little corner of H—— over there for a few minutes and there is one machine gun will never shoot again.

"Two fellows worked for hours under the mouth of it cutting barbed-wire, One was wounded, but kept working. Fritz never showed fight but just threw up his hands, although there were thousands of them. They were Prussians."

Writing a few days later he says: "We are back behind the lines for a month's rest now and let me tell you we sorely needed it.

"Say, Bob, you would think the world had stopped to be away from those eternal bullets, bombs, sausages, coal boxes and whizz-bangs. The last few days put in in the trenches were sure a nightmare. Shell! Say, Fritzy must have shipped over a couple of hundred carloads from the U.S.A. We have found shell noses marked Simeon U.S.A., 1915.

"If I get over to England soon, I will send you a good souvenir. A shell landed near me and half buried me. The concussion drove me mad for a few minutes. I did not stop to dig up the nose just then as I had important business elsewhere, and the shells were just a little too thick to stick around, But I got it later when I could see things in a different light.

"One of our prisoners, who had an iron cross said Germany would win this war inside of three months as sure as the sun rises—but we all come from Missouri!"

Interesting Souvenir From Saloniki

A souvenir of the war from Saloniki and of especial interest to Kelowna, was received this week by Mr. Geo. Whittaker from his brother, who is with the British forces assembled in the Balkan port. The letter explains itself:

1175 Corp. E. Whittaker,
B. Co. No. 5 platoon
2nd Battalion, 28th Division
Saloniki Field Forces.

Dear George.—You will see I am using one of your firm's labels for notepaper, therefore you will know "Tommy" is being issued with vegetables—and don't they make our stew A 1. I must congratulate the Graham Company Ltd., on the fine quality, for the flavor and richness would be hard to improve upon. Before reaching us out here they have some travelling. Keep us well supplied until the war is over and I pray that may be very soon now. Trusting you are all in the very best of health. Will write further soon. Good luck. Best of wishes.

Your affectionate brother,
Ernest.

The label referred to was taken from a can of the Graham Co.'s "Julienne" soup preparation of dessicated vegetables, many of the ingredients of which are being manufactured right here in Kelowna.

Charges Unfair Practice in Victoria Election

The third by-election rendered necessary by the reorganization of the Bowser cabinet held in Victoria last Saturday, and which ended in another sensational victory for the Liberals, Mr. Brewster, former Liberal leader beating the Hon. A. C. Flumerfelt, minister of finance, by an overwhelming majority, was made the subject of sensational charges in the House on Tuesday by Ernest Miller, of Grand Forks.

Mr. Miller claimed that the publican and the preacher were both induced by the Liberals to support their cause in Victoria. One section of the Liberals gathered in the prohibition 6vote while another section captured the liquor interests. The Grand Forks member declared that in fact the Liberals who had posed as prohibition supporters actually had a conference with the liquor interests in Victoria and had arrived at an understanding with them. When this assertion was denied by Mr. Brewster, member elect for Victoria, Mr. Miller offered to produce the name of his informant, who he said had actually addressed the liquor gathering referred to. Mr. Miller went on to assert that the Liberals of the province imported Tammany Hall politicians from New York to help them win the by-elections and after their success in Vancouver brought over 150 heelers from the terminal city to help capture the capital city.

A Herd of Cattalo

The herd of Cattalo, recently purchased by the Dominion government, from the estate of the late Mossom Boyd, has just been received at the Scott station, for the winter months.

As this is the only herd in Canada, they are attracting considerable attention.

The cattalo are a mixture of cattle and buffalo blood. They are larger animals than either the buffalo or cattle, the cows weighing from 1,500 to 1,600 pounds. They have the buffalo coat, and dress out from 5 to 10 per cent. As a class, they appear to be hardy, and splendid rangers, facing the storm like the buffalo, instead of driftingwith the wind as do the cattle or sheep.

The main difficulty in the way of establishing this new breed, is the lack of fertility, particularly in the males. If these difficulties can be overcome, and a new breed established, with the buffalo coat, high dressing percentage, and hardiness, it will mean much to Western Canada.

The herd is running on a large pasture field on the station and do not appear to suffer from the cold. They are fed oat sheaves once a day. They appear no wilder than ordinary range cattle.

Agricultural Association's Finances Present Difficult Problems

Will Appeal to Farmers to Forego Outstanding Arrears of Prize Money --- Could Then Own Building and Start Anew With a Clean Sheet

The adjourned annual meeting of the Agricultural and Horticultural Society was held last Saturday afternoon in the dining room of the Royal Hotel Mr. R. A. Copeland, the president for the past year presided over a6 fairly large and representative meeting.

The financial condition of the Society which the auditor's report showed to be very unsatisfactory, overshadowed all other subjects for discussion. How to dispose of the accumulated arrears of prize money and place the Sociey on a firm footing once more was the problem which faced the new board of directors.

At the request of the directors, the accounts of the society, which had got into some confusion were thoroughly audited by Mr. G. A. Fisher, and in his report read at the meeting he puts the truth bluntly:

"It is apparent from an examination of the accounts that the sports, band and other expenses have left nothing to pay on prizes accounts. Of the latter there are now three years, or rather two full years, 1914 and 1915 and a part of 1913.

"You will note by the balance sheet that there is owing for prizes about $2,000 and sundry creditors for 1914 and prior $750 odd dollars, and for 1915, $79. Also, the sports prizes for 1915 are unpaid to the extent of $221.65 and for 1914, $70.

"Your assets are practically nominal amounting to a little over $200, and the buildings, which are not any use as a cash asset."

As a way out of the difficulty the following suggestion was made in the report:

"Issue a printed statement showing the amount of prize money due, the amount of bank loan and sports prize creditors, and, that you have no realizable assets to pay these accounts, except that if a show is held next year the government grant will take care of the bank loan, and leave a small balance.

"Then commencing with 1917 the Association will be in a position to resume cash payment of prizes. At the close of the letter, appeal to the prize winners to sign a release to the Association discharging the Association from the liability for the above prize money. For this purpose enclose a stamped (postage) postcard with the necessary form of release printed on it and addressed on the reverse side to the Association. Have every letter registered with a special extra postage paid of 5 cents on each letter which insures a return to the Association of a receipt for every letter delivered by the postoffice.

"You would, I think in this way get a sort of majority on the prize money question. It would be necessary to mail about 200 letters and the approximate cost would be $30, and I think it would be worth the expense."

This matter was debated at considerable length, and various views were expressed both for and against the idea of asking the prize winners to donate the amount due to them.

Mr. Pridham suggested that the matter should be brought up at the various local branches of the Organization Association. He believed that if the position was placed fairly before the farmers, they would be willing, out of loyalty to the association to make the sacrifice.

It was finally decided to leave the question in the hands of the incoming directors.

The chairman then read the following letter which he had received from the Armstrong Agricultural Society, suggesting the holding of a joint fair alternately at Armstrong and Kelowna:

Dear sirs,—I have been requested by resolution unanimously passed at a special meeting of the directors of the Armstrong and Spallumcheen Agricultural Society, held last Saturday to write and respectfully ask.

"If your association will forego their exhibition for the year 1916 as well as any grant you would expect to receive from the Department of Agriculture, Victoria, B.C., in favor of the exhibition to be held in this city Friday and Saturday, September 29th & 30th respectively. The Armstrong and Spallumcheen Agricultural Society for this concession agree to forego their exhibition for the year 1917, as well as any grant in aid they would expect from the Department of Agriculture, Victoria, B. C., in favor of the Kelowna Agricultural Society for the said year 1917."

I may be permitted to add that I have been appointed manager of the Armstrong and Spallumcheen Agricultural Exhibition for this year, without salary and if Kelowna agrees to comply with Armstrong's request I shall be very pleased to offer my services to manage your exhibition without emolument for the year 1917. My sole object in giving my services for ...what they are worth to both associations is my sincere desire to see one good exhibition in the valley each and every year and in my opinion this can be accomplished by holding one fair and the other localities assisting to make the exhibition representative in every way of what the valley is capable of producing in the way of Agriculture and Horticulture.

For this year I hope to be successful in arranging for two special excursions, one from Alberta and one from the coast to visit our exhibition here, and I shall ask that Kelowna, Summerland, Penticton and Pentiston be placed on the itinerary of the trip and would expect a committee of citizens from each of the places mentioned to meet these excursions and give every information possible to the visitors.

It will afford me very much pleasure to attend any meetings you may desire me to be present at and I shall be willing at all times to give you any information you would be of the opinion it was nevessary to have.

...I sincerely trust your association will grant the request of Armstrong's Agricultural Society and in the event of their doing so we would be very pleased if you would appoint a committee to act with our association to assist in making a success of the exhibition and a credit to the valley.

Yours respectfully,
W. H. KEARY, Mgr.

Mr. Copeland said that personally his experience with joint fairs had been that the first fair was apt to be a very good one, but the second somehow was never so successful. He advised going very carefully with any such proposition.

The following were the new directors appointed: E. R. Bailey, C.C. Prowse, W. T. Schell, T. Morrison, D. Ennis, A. D. Monsees, P. Casorso, J. L. Pridham, S. T. Elliott, H. W. Raymer, A. Cooke, A. McQuarrie, M. Hereron and C. Rogerson.

Votes of thanks were passed to the retiring Board of Directors, with especial reference to the president, Mr. R. A. Copeland. They had worked hard and faithfully in the interests of the Association and had put in a great deal of time without hope of any recompense.

At a later meeting of the new Board J. L. Pridham was elected president, with C. C. Prowse vice-president.

While no official announcement has been made from Ottawa so far with regard to the summer quarters of the troops mobilized in British Columbia, it is said that Vernon will in all probability be the scene again of the military camp for the forces in training this side of the Rockies. In all there are fourteen infantry battalions formed, being formed or authorized to be formed, and it is stated that if the camp is held at Vernon this summer in all probability some 15,000 troops will go under canvas there.

A fleet of twenty-five German warships was observed Monday cruising in the North Sea according to a despatch from Vlieland, North Holland. The vessels, the despatch says, approached from the northeast and later disappeared northward.

Under cover of a heavy snowstorm the German fleet has sailed from Wilhelmshaven, presumably for the purpose of giving battle to the British fleet, according to unconfirmed advices All efforts to verify the report have failed.

Government Publication Deals With Silos

Many requests have been received by the department of agriculture at Victoria for plans and specifications as well as advice on the building of silos, because wide-awake farmers are alive to the fact that the silo is one of the best paying investments ever made on any farm.

Silage when properly prepared is the best substitute for feed when pasture is not available. Many silos have been built under the direction of the department throughout the province, and to provide more accurate information for the farmer contemplating the erection of such a building, the department has just had published, Bulletin No. 66, entitled "Silos and Silage" which bring to the farmers in a comprehensive form the many details so necessary in deciding what type to build.

This bulletin is just off the press and farmers who desire a copy should write to the Department of Agriculture Victoria, B.C., and one will be mailed post paid.

Gardening on a City Lot

The rapidity with which the circular, "Gardening on a City Lot" was disposed of last spring has necessitated the printing of another edition of this much sought after circular.

Last year those living in the cities as well as those in the country heeded the Patriotism and Production advice of the government and to gain an intelligent idea of how to proceed in making a garden on a city lot. W. H. Robertson, assistant horticulturist, prepared this circular.

It deals with the cultivating of the garden before planting and the care of the land as regards fertilizer and moisture as well as many other matters having a direct bearing on the successful cultivation of a back yard garden. The best seeds to procure and how to plant them is given in detail, while the general information is well worth the perusal of those who decrease the cost of living. Copies of this circular may be had by addressing the Department of Agriculture, Victoria, B.C. Early requests are advised as the circular is a popular one.

The Kaslo Women's Institute has just issued an attractive 40-page cook book which contains about 200 recipes, which have been found to be all that the members vouch for them. This Institute is one of the most active in the province and its work in canning fruits has brought an enviable name to Kaslo. The products of the small jam factory, conducted by the Institute, are in demand by the people of the upper country and now the women of the province may make the many pies, cakes, puddings, soups, meats, candy, preserves, cookies and biscuits, and other tempting dishes from the recipes which have brought renown to the Kootenay district.

Growth of the Kelowna Poultry Association

Success Attends Cooperative Purchase of Feed

The story of the rapid growth in membership of the Kelowna Poultry Association, and the increasing scope of its activities was told last Wednesday evening at the annual meeting held in the Board of Trade room, when the secretary, Mr. A. Notley, gave his report of the year's work. With a membership almost quadrupled, and a comfortable balance in the bank the Association is now in a strong and health condition.

At the beginning of last year the secretary said, the local poultry industry had been in a deplorable condition, due largely to the high price of feed and the low selling values of eggs and poultry. Thousands of birds were killed off, and poultry keepers became very discouraged. The association consequently sank to a very low ebb.

The new board of directors however, resolved that this state of affairs should not be allowed to continue, and they tackled the problem with energy and determination. After much careful consideration, they came to the conclusion that the first necessity to revive the industry was cheaper feed. It seemed almost impossible at the time with an empty treasury, and a small membership to undertake the purchase of feed on cooperative lines, but the directors were men of backbone and determination and eventually means were found to purchase the first carload, and this was distributed to the members at only so much above cost price as would defray expenses of hauling. Since then the feed purchases of the association have amounted to nearly $5,000, and he estimated that the approximate saving to the members had been fully $700, which amply justified the existence of the association. The membership had risen from 30 to 112, and he believed that many more would join when they realized the benefits to be derived. In spite of the large amount of produce handled they had made no bad debts and were able to close the year with a balance to the good of $118. Next year in all probability twice the amount of feed would be handled at very little increased overhead expense.

The usual annual winter show had been a modest one, as regards number of entries, but this had been outbalanced by the unusually high quality of the exhibits. The egg and the dressed poultry classes had been by far the best ever exhibited in Kelowna, and certainly ahead of those seen at the Provincial Show at Chilliwack. This was ample proof that we had the right stock and that breeders knew how to prepare and exhibit it.

He believed that prospects for the coming year were bright. Enquiries were beginning to come in from the prairie provinces for breeding stock and eggs, and in his opinion a little money spent by the breeders in advertising their stock would be a paying investment.

He thanked the president and directors for their assistance during the year. 6

The meeting which was presided over by the retiring president, Mr. C. C. Prowse, was fully representative of the chief poultrymen, farmers and stockbreeders of the district, and a feeling of great satisfaction was expressed generally at the good showing made and the successful outcome of what had been more or less of an experiment.

A long discussion took place on the question of handling and marketing of eggs, and poultry products, and it was felt that vigorous steps should be taken to put this on a better basis. It was the general opinion that the present system of trading was most unsatisfactory. Negotiations had already been made with a view to putting this upon a cash basis, and it was unanimously resolved6 to continue the efforts along this line.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted in the appointment of A. R. Drysdale as president, with Lynn Harvey as vice president, and the following directors: J. Middleton, C. C. Prowse, A. Cooke, D. Ennis, J. Harvey, S. T. Elliott, W. Kirkby, H. Jenkins, I. Weddell, Mack Copeland, and W. B. M. Calder, with Al. Notley as secretary.

Hearty votes of thanks were passed to the secretary, the late president, and retiring directors.

Kelowna has been getting a good deal of attention from the coast papers lately. This is all right in one way. We are glad to see that they are really aware that there is a dot on the map of British Columbia bearing the name of Kelowna. They did not always seem to know this. The trouble is however that most of these notices have not been of a very welcome description, and have been misrepresenting facts in a way not calculated to do us much good.

We have many things to regret no doubt,—who has not? But there is one thing of which we citizens of Kelowna are justly proud, and that is our climate. We have had a severe winter, of course, but we would like to point out to our coast cantemporaries—and it really seems necessary to do this—that the severity of the season now happily past has not been confined to Kelowna! In some other parts of Canada, people have found it necessary to wear overcoats, and possibly to bring out a long-neglected snow-shovel or two. Is it necessary that we, who in comparison with other places, have been let off fairly lightly, should be held up as a horrid example of the way in which the North Pole tried to get down to the Equator? Great shivering Esquimoses! We didn't have to dig our way out of the back door with a snow plow, or to tunnel under ten feet of the beautiful to get to the sidewalk, as we understand from the veracious source alluded to they had to do at the coast! Nor did we have to burn up the back steps to keep us from freezing. One would think to read the "Province" lately that conditions in Kelowna were as bad as in Berlin.

Now what do you think of this for a sample?

"Kelowna has been in a most seri"ous position. She has no rail con-
"nection with any point, and boats
"cannot get near the wharf. The sup-
"ply of coal and wood is low. Wood
"is $8 a cord and farmers are haul-
"ing it twenty miles."

Boats can't get near us, eh! Don't you believe it, Mr. "Province." Tell your correspondent, he's had a nightmare. Why, H.M.S. Sicamous only missed her regular visit here once, and that was not on account of the ice here, but because she was detained by pressing business elsewhere! Pushing business in fact. As for coal shortage—yes, we admit we did get a little anxious for a day or two, because several cars which should have reached us were held up by the snow blockade at the coast; but they came through all right, and since then we have had coal enough for all comers. Wood is $8 a cord! No, it isn't. Not even in war times. Wood has been cheaper this winter than it has been known for years. The present market price is $4 a cord and thousands of cords have been hauled in at that price and even lower. That was while the sleighing was good, but the sleighing has been gone for a couple of weeks or more. Yes, the snow actually melted away, and now we have mud, M U D! Oh! don't try to spring any of that Dr. Cook stuff on us, because we know better.

We know you have had the advantage of lots of hot air at the coast while the by-elections were on, but Kelowna has fuel enough to keep warm, so don't worry any more.

The failure of the debenture by-law to secure the necessary three-fifths majority in South Vancouver caused the municipal council recently to pass a resolution instructing the municipal solicitor to institute suits immediately against every ratepayer who is $50 or more io arrears with his taxes.

Battleships to Survive Single Torpedo

Future American battleships will be able to survive the explosion of a single torpedo against her hull, regardless of where they are struck, in the opinion of United States navy experts. Experiments which have been in progress for more than a year, it is learned, have demonstrated that two or more torpedoes must find their mark before ships sub-divided and protected as the new American craft can be sent to the bottom.

The two super-dreadnoughts and two battle cruisers congress has been asked to authorize this year will be designed on this plan. Battleships Nos. 43 and 44, contracts for which have already been awarded to the Mare Island and New York navy yards have added interior construction resulting from the study made of the question of torpedo defense since the outbreak of the European war. But later ships will have even increased provision in this regard.

The experiments are continuing and officials expect further information on the subject to be developed. Details of the work are regarded as confidential, but it is known that some experts are at least hopeful that a type of construction will be involved which will greatly reduce the effectiveness of either mines or torpedoes against heavy ships.

Over 52,000,000 pounds of copper were produced in B. C. last year.

Random Remarks

By the "Chiel"

"A chiel's amang ye takin' notes,
And feth he'll print them."

I see by the coast papers that there is being organized there a "pay-up week", a period in which all petty accounts are to be paid off as far as possible. The promoters argue that if the public would fall in line and endeavor to pay the grocer,, the butcher and others the money which has been owing them for a long time, the result would be a great stimulus to business and a vastly improved state of affairs all round. More money would be put into circulation, and the worried business man would be able to get a good night's rest.

* * *

The idea is a capital one and perhaps if it succeeds the local Merchants' Association might copy the example. It is really amazing what an enormous amount of money is locked up in petty book-debts even in Kelowna. All this represents just a load for the merchant to carry. The goods he has sold he has had to pay for because wholesalers do not wait indefinitely.

* * *

The position is just this. Mr. Merchant buys some goods for Mr. Slowpay. Mr. Slowpay takes the goods and eats them or wears them, or osherwise uses them as the case may be and then instead of paying for them he takes a trip to the coast or indulges in some other luxury he could well do without, and Mr. Merchant gets apologies instead of cash. Meanwhile Mr. Merchant's period of credit on the goods has expired and he has had to dig up the cash, otherwise the wholesaler would shut off his supplies and end his career. Failing to get the money where he should have it—from Mr. Slowpay, he has to go and ask the bank to lend him a little, until Mr. Slowpay makes up his mind to come through. The bank after a microscopic examination of Mr. Merchant and all his belongings and a careful investigation of his family history and antecedents back to William the Conqueror, finally agrees to do so, and charges him a generous rate of interest. After that it is a test of endurance—whether Mr. Slowpay can stand off the collector long enough to let the bank absorb the whole thing in interest, or whether he will pay in time to limit that absorption to the profit Mr. Merchant expected to make out of him. Yes, by all means, let us have a "pay-up week."

* * *

Don't forget what your wife told you to get down town or you may get it when you get home.

* * *

It is the idle life and the empty mind and the empty soul that is in the greatest peril. It is on the vacant land that they shoot all the filthy rubbish. The bad pictures get on the walls because they are vacant spaces. It is a useless thing to try to exterminate evil in your life as though that were the end of your being. It is not enough to check vice, to say to your children, "Thou shalt not," and to suggest nothing positive. Be positive. —Rev. Charles Brown, D.D.

* * *

Every one who has drilled knows that the words of command take on a queer sound when voiced by some deep-throated sergeant. A certain regiment had been presented by a friend with a mascot in the form of a magnificent mastiff. The presentation was made one day before the regiment, and the Colonel made a little speech of thanks to the donor. After the speech there was brief silence. Suddenly the mastiff gave vent to two very deep, rich barks, "Wowff, wowff," whereupon the whole regiment immediately "formed fours!"

HINTS TO GARDENERS

Begin to make plans for the hotbed.

Put plenty of well-rotted manure on the garden.

Examine the hose and nozzels on the spray outfit.

Order the garden seeds early from a reliable seed house.

Take samples of all the different kinds of seeds as an insecticide.

Tomatoes started in hotbeds will bear fruit long before those which are started in the garden.

Use crop rotation in the garden to prevent the attack of diseases which winter in the soil.

On the ranges between here and Princeton can be seen horses standing in over two feet of snow and trying to plow their way through to get a mouthful of dried leaves hanging on small trees. The owners should be forced to round up the dumb animals and give them shelter and food.—Hedley Gazette

Mistaken For a Spy

A few days after Christmas, 1884, in the British camp at Korti on the Nile, where the Gordon relief force was waiting for its final dash on Khartoum, an Arab prisoner was brought in.

Tall and thin, his dress, a much patched djbbeh, and a dirty skull cap, there was round his nesk the string of ninety-two beads, that showed a devoted follower of the Mahdi.

"Another blooming spy," said one of the privates guarding him. "He'll be shot tomorrow, I suppose."

But he never was, for the Arab spy was Lord Kitchener of Khartum. Lord Kitchener knows the east as no other living man does; knows it so well that he can speak half its tongues and dialects with ease, and disguised himself so effectively as to be taken for an Arab.

Lord Kitchener's first job was in the east, three years after he had entered the Royal Engineers. He then went out to survey western Palestine. Lord Kitchener's last position before becoming secretary of state for war was in the east, when he was consul-general in Egypt.

In between those duties, save for the three years of the Boer war, Lord Kitchener has lived in the east. From Egypt to India, from Calcutta to Cairo his name is one to conjure with. He has talked trade and commerce in the crowded bazaars of Bombay and sat cross-legged with Arab merchants in the Soudan, gravely, gravely discussing Soudanese politics.

In all the bazaars of Egypt and Soudan he is spoken of as "El Lord" and he is regarded by the masses of the people almost as a god. Did he not smash the Mahdi, the god of the people of the near east?

The east looks upon Lord Kitchener as the greatest white man who has ever been among them, greater even than "Chinese" Gordon, and he was a great man. And it is because of that that Lord Kitchener went east. He is the only man who knows the eastern mind and has the power to sway it the way he will.

How Belgian Has Borne Burdens of War

It is doubtful whether the world understands that Belgium, through her government and her people, has borne the chief financial burden of the work of relief. A fund of $3,000,000 was provided by a group of Belgian bankers and given to the commission for relief in Belgium, to be expended solely for the chartering of ships in which to bring wheat or flour from the United States and other countries. The Belgian government has regularly appropriated $5,000 each month to be expended by the commission in the purchase of grain, flour and other goods. This contribution is not an outright gift to the commission, although in effect it accomplishes the purpose of a gift. The government of Belgium, ever since the war began, has continued to pay the salaries and wages of a very large number of government employees. Some of these employees have continued to perform the duties for which they are paid, such as burgomasters and other city and commercial officials, school teachers, etc., while some are idle because of the German occupation of the country. The money for the payment of these employees is not delivered directly to them by the government; in fact, the government has no direct channel through which it could make payment, It is, therefore, paid over to the commission for relief in Belgium, which buys relief supplies with it. The supplies are sent into Belgium where they are distributed, not given away, but sold. Proceeds of the sale are paid to the communes, and the communal officers then pay the salaries and wages of the government employees. The entire transaction is somewhat like the operation of a water wheel. The water drives the wheel in passing, but is not reduced in quantity by the service which it gives.

Tolmie, B.C. representative of the health of animals branch, Dominion department of agriculture will also address the convention.

Sinking of Submarine Showed German Cowardice

The London Daily Chronicle publishes the story of a member of the Baralong's crew, concerning the attack on the Nicosian and the sinking of a German submarine.

"On August 19th at 2 p.m.," says the gunner, "we received a wireless call from the Nicosian, saying she was being chased by a German submarine. We accordingly proceeded full speed to her assistance. At 3 p.m., we sighted the Nicosian, which was being shelled by the submarine, while the crew was getting the life boats out.

"We got plenty of ammunition ready on the poop and at 3.30 p.m., the marines took cover behind the bulwarks on the port side of the afterdeck with rifles. The gunners also took cover behind their guns. The excellent seamanship of our captain brought our ship up on the starboard of the Nicosian, the submarine being on the port side, so that for a few minutes we were hidden from the submarine's view. During that short interval we cleared for action, trained our guns, set the sights for 700 yards and hoisted the white ensign.

"As soon as we appeared around the bow of the Nicosian the submarine fired one shot at us, which went wide. The marines then opened with a well-aimed volley, which swept the decks of the submarine and seemed to demoralize the crew, for they immediately left their guns and rushed for the conning tower, several going overboard, but whether they were shot by rifle fire or dived over in panic, I cannot say.

"We then opened fire with our port and stern guns, but the first shot hit short. However, it may have hit the submarine beneath the waterline. The next shot hit the conning tower which appeared to be split in half, sending two men flying into the air. The next and succeeding shots all hit the submarine which gradually sank, everyone of the crew being either drowned or shot, and only a few parts of bodies and a large quantity of oil remaining on the surface.

"Not only were their two guns of heavier calibre than ours, but, in addition, they had several torpedo tubes whereas we could only get two guns to bear upon them. If they had stuck to their guns they would at least have stood a sporting chance, but apparently German submarines, although always ready to attack defenseless merchant ships and kill and maim their passengers and crews, have no stomach for fighting armed ships of his majesty's navy, even when the odds are in their favor."

Chinese eggs are being sold in British Columbia as "Produce of U.S.A." the label on the cases state. This would lead the purchaser of eggs to believe that the eggs are from the poultry farms just across the line, whose reputatian is well known throughout the northwest.

Those in close touch with the situation emphatically declare that these "so-called U.S.A. eggs" are none other than the little brown eggs from across the Pacific, which in some cases are mixed with the 'hen fruit' of the state to the south.

Shooting at Close Targets With Heavy Artillery

Remarkable performances in the way of close shooting upon the Gallipoli peninsula are recorded of the New Zealand howitzers and field guns. The New Zealand official war correspondent, Malcolm Ross, reports that toward the end of August a major of infantry. telephoned, calling attention to the face that the New Zealand howitzers were dropping shells into a Turkish trench only five yards in front of the trench occupied by his men. He therefore asked the battery to cease firing at that particular trench of the enemy. The reply was that the firing was being done purposely, inasmuch as the battery commander fully trusted his men and his guns even wirh a margin of only five yards. The reason for this close fire was because the infantrymen in the front trench had apparently run out of bombs and were being severely dealt with by the enemy.

During the Turkish counter attack on the night of May 19th, the New Zealand No. 2. battery of field artillery fired 611 rounds of shrapnel at Turkish trenches only 20 yards distant from the Australasian trenches. The shells shricked continuously over the heads of the Australasians crouching in their trenches, and throughout the night there was only one premature burst. As it was a dark night and the range only 1,000 yards, giving necessarily a very flat trajectory, "the feat" the correspondent says, "involved accurate and careful "laying" on the part of the gunners. The slightest error, such as the short setting of a fuse, would have been serious under the circumstances.

But that close shooting in the Dardanelles operation occasionally accidentally worked havoc among the British forces is shown by the fact that on the afternoon of August 8th, when Col. Malone, with a handful of New Zealand infantrymen, was actually within sight of the Narrows, having surmounted the Sari Bahr ridge, he was killed by shrapnel being fired by British warships at the heavy Turkish counter attack, and that there were numerous other casualties among the New Zealanders from the same cause.

Yesterday was Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent.

A long timer in New Westminster penitentiary is writing a book entitled "The Pleasures of Prison Life."

There are some 400 interned Austrians at the camp at Banff, and there are no Germans. All of the latter nationality have been sent to other camps some time ago, according to advices received from Banff. The reason for this separation of the alien enemy nations at our alien camps is that the Austrians developed a habit of knocking the spots off of the Germans when opportunity arose. The Austrians blame the Germans for drawing or forcing them into the war and the endless discussions which spring up in the internment camps often develop into pitched battles between Germans and Austrians. On account of this the prisoners have been separated.

Orders for Local Scouts

KELOWNA TROOP

Troop First! Self Last!

Orders by command for week ending March 18th, 1916.

Duties: Orderly patrol for week, Otters; next for duty, Curlews.

Parades. The combined troop will parade at the club room on Tuesday, March 14th, at 7 p.m.

The patrol leaders will parade at the club room on Friday, March 17th, at 7.30 p.m.

The combined troop will parade at the club room, wearing Scout Hats on Saturday, March 18th, at 2.30 p.m.

Second class Scout T. Taylor of the Curlews, at the parade on March 4th, passed that part of the first class test No. 6, in which you have to be able—to cook satisfactorily two out of the following dishes as may be directed: porridge, bacon, Hunter's stew, or skin and cook a rabbit, or pluck and cook a bird. Also make a "damper" of half a pound of flour or a "twist" baked on a thick stick. Mrs. Crowley kindly acted as the independent examiner. Scout Taylor satisfactorily cooked porridge, Hunter's stew and a damper in the open over an improvised stove made out of a coal oil can. Recruit Lloyd Day of the Wood Pigeons also successfully passed his Tenderfoot test.

Our thanks are due so Mr. Stevens, of the Kelowna Sawmill Company for a pretty little verse and picture of a Scout camp, handsomely mounted on a stained board. Mr. Stevens also presented us with a photograph of the troop leaving for camp last summer on the "Orchard City." These little gifts will help to decorate the walls of our club room, and we wish to thank Mr. Stevens very much for his kindness.

The census returns for the year ending June 30th, 1915, have just come to hand and show that out of 45 troops in the province Victoria 3rd, wins the Lieutenant-Governor's shield, with Chesterfield troop of North Vancouver second, and Kelowna third. A list of the twelve leading troops with the points obtained by each is appended herewith. We are proud of the high place in the list which we occupy but hope that next year we shall be still higher. We are afraid that the reason that we have not obtained more points is because we have too few second and first class scouts in the troop, and our proficiency badges are distributed amongst so few. We have 41 badges distributed amongst nine scouts, and while we must congratulate these nine, still there are, or were at the close of the census returns, thirty-six scouts without any badges at all. This of course tells against us. According to the returns Victoria third troop has a membership of 46, with 9 patrols, 37 second class and 5 first class scouts. Also they have 146 proficiency badges held by 34 scouts, 2 King's scouts, 9 all round cords (A) and 1 all round cord (B); Chesterfield has a membership of 24, with 4 patrols, 12 second and 19 first class scouts. Also 75 proficiency badges held by 19 scouts, 3 King's scouts, 7 all round cords (A), and 1 all round cord (B); Kelowna has (as at June 30th last) a membership of 45, with 5 patrols, 16 second and 4 first class scouts. We hold proficiency badges as set out above, and have 2 King's scouts, 4 all round cords (A) and 1 medal of merit, that held by second R. Thayer. We are the only troop in the province with this latter distinction. Numerically we are the fourth largest. We only have until June 30th next for this year's competition, and while we have grown much stronger in numbers since June 30th last year, hold a few more badges, have 1 more King's scout, 1 all round cord (B) and have 7 patrols instead of 5, still we must do much more if we wish to pull down Victoria 3rd troop from their proud place at the top of the ladder. Chesterfield troop is making a strong effort to do so, and we noticed just the other day that several of their scouts had successfully passed their first class tests. We congratulate our sister troop Naramata on her achievement in tying with Grandview troop of Vancouver for eleventh place.

The twelve leading troops in the contest for the Lieutenant-Governor's were as follows:

Victoria III.	85.2
Vancouver 4 (Chesterfield)	68.1
Kelowna	56.8
Vancouver 11 (Fairview)	52.2
Kamloops	47.7
New Westminster	39.7
Mission	36.3
Cumberland	31.8
Rosedale	30.7
Vancouver 1 (Grandview)	22.7
Naramata	22.7
Vancouver III (Seymour)	21.6

Lectures on Vexed Question

In his lecture on a recent Tuesday evening in the Rutland new school assembly hall while speaking on the subject of the "Sabbath" Evangelist E. R. Potter told of how a young Seventh-day Adventist minister was criticised by a noted judge as follows:

"Now, pastor, I have you just where I want you" said a judge of one of the state's supreme courts, as he took a seat beside a young Seventh-day Adventist in a railway train.

"I want you to tell me why you, and the people you represent observe Saturday instead of Sunday as the Sabbath."

Replying that he would be very happy to do so the minister opened his Bible to the twentieth chapter of Exodus and read the fourth commandment and then said, "There, that is the first reason I will give you why we keep the seventh day instead of the first. God in his law commands us to do so, and the second reason is——" and he began turning to another passage of Scripture when the Judge interrupted him saying, "Please let me take your Bible." He read the commandment over very slowly several times to himself and then said:

"In one respect you remind me of an attorney I once knew who had a case to defend in court. As frequently as the case was called he would manage in some way to get it postponed. At last the patience of the court was exhausted, and the judge asked the attorney why he asked for postponment, saying he had had ample time to prepare his case, and the opposing parties were anxious for the trial. The attorney replied that there was an important witness that it was necessary for him to have whom he could not then obtain. The judge earnestly asked where the witness was and why he did not have him there. The attorney replied that there were several reasons why he was not present.

The first was that he was dead, and the second was —— "Well, hold on," said the judge, "If the man is dead, that is sufficient reason why he is not here. We do not care to hear your second reason."

Then the judge fixing his piercing eye on the minister said: "I ask you for your reasons for keeping the seventh day, or Saturday for the Sabbath, and in reply you turn and read a law of God himself, spoken by his own voice, and chiseled by his own hand upon the granite quarried from the rock-ribbed, side of Sinai. And now you propose to give a second reason. My young friend no man who believes God, or God's word, ever ought to seek a second reason. Think of it. In the bosom of the only law that God ever gave his creatures, that law which is justly regarded, not only as the law, but the constitution from which all the legislation of God proceeded—— in that law he tells all His creatures to keep the seventh day or Saturday, as the Sabbath.

I repeat that no one who believes God, or His word can escape from your conclusions, and no second reason is admissible."

UNIQUE ADVERTISING

One must admire the candour of the Winnipeg clothing merchant in whose advertisement the following appeared. He takes the public right into his confidence, and it is to be hoped that he was duly rewarded for honestly confessing what some merchants are only too anxious to conceal.

"There are always a lot of odds and ends around a store that must be gotten rid of," says this candid adver- I've marked down every article in the money to carry over any dead stock. I've marked down every article in the store so it'll move, and the bummer the article the deeper the cut. I've heard it said that there's a sucker born every minute; well I need lots of these people to get rid of some of the things I have here. $2 caps for a dime—10 cents, good chinchilla $2 caps—but, the color looks like——peculiar, so a dime will rid me of them. Also $1.25 mufflers, cerise ones, they've been here since the year one. I don't think they are worth a nickel apiece so I'll sell them three for a dime. I hope they sell. I'm going to let you in on something cheap and appropriate for this weather—nice warm red neckties, and some good Irish green ones, too, 75 cent ones. Bengaline silk, and I'll only set you back 17 cents for one. This buyer, you know, I had years ago. He's enlisted and gone to the front, and I hope he makes a better soldier than he was a buyer. He must have seen this war coming, and knew that dyes would be scarce, and he sure did stock up." And so on for more than a quarter of a page.

The modern merchant pondered
Upon the ways of men
Who take as their example
The spider in his den,
"Let others, if they will," quoth he,
"Lie low and wait for flies,
In a dingy, cob-webbed corner,
But I'm going to advertise."

A Practical Princess Dress

McCall Pattern No. 7063, one of the many new designs for April

Where good serviceable wear is desired there could be no better model than this frock. It is slipped on easily and may be kept in excellent order. An exceedingly attractive dress might be developed of serge, or satin, with contrasting materials for collar, cuffs and belt. A touch of the brightly colored embroidery now the vogue, would lend an effective finish Such trimming is much favored just now and it renders a dress distinctive.

Do Not Wait For the Hotter Days

NOW is surely a good time to get your Spring Sewing done. We have just placed in stock a lovely large range of everything in staples and fancy wash and dress goods. Realizing the uncertainty of the markets we believe our stock was never quite so well assorted. New Jap Crepes in every conceivable shade, also in Stripes.

New Wool Dress Goods, Tweeds, Shepherd Checks, Poplins, Serges, Worsteds, &c. In this department we have been unable to get every color which the dye situation has created. You will, however, appreciate the lovely range we have assembled.

Wash Goods Section. Prints, "Famous Potter's English"; Anderson's Zephyrs; Kingcot Ginghams. Nurses and Romper Cloth. Bridal Cambrics. Demitys. Lawns. Spot Muslins. Organdies. "Spot, Striped, Hair Lined and Self-Stripes Voiles." This line of White Wash Dress Goods is certainly lovely, they being of French manufacture and are truly exquisite.

A Simple Frock of Voile

McCall Pattern No. 7057, one of the many new designs for April

The pretty striped and figured lawns, voiles and other sheer wash fabrics make up well into models of simple cut, with here and there a touch of a vivid color blending with its own soft tones. Lace has its part in these pretty dresses and is used effectively for collars, vests and flouncings. Ribbon also shares in popularity, being used extensively in various ways for trimming the costume.
