eeting of City Council

he council held its usual meet- Monday morning, the Mayor Ald. Blackwood, Copeland, mer, Sutherland and Taylor nding.

lans of a subdivision of Block Map 186 were submitted by ers. R. H. Parkinson and C. nn. Mr. Parkinson also sub- ed a plan of subdivision of k 6, Map 186. Mr. H. Hilliard alternative plans of subdivi- plans of Block 25, Map 202. se were laid on the table for week.

r. W. B. M. Calder's plan of of Block 27 was finally passed.

r. Webster of the Okanagan phone Co., asked the council ecide upon the proposed pole which the company wished to t crossing the park. They ex- ed to have their trunk line king through to Summerland December 10th, and wished to e an outlet from Kelowna. The line belonging to the govern- t passed through the park, but ould need rebuilding before could use it. If the govern- t wished to use their poles at time, provision was being le for the accommodation of r line. The line they wished was in direct continuation of Avenue.

ld. Taylor said he was not in or of any pole line crossing the k, as it would interfere with any nes on the open space usually d for that purpose.

was eventually decided that council should meet Mr. Web- in the afternoon and go over ground.

n agreement between the city Mr. A. McLennan relating to purchase of the site for the mping station was laid upon the le.

A rebate of $20.35 was granted Messrs. Boyce and Stirling, be an amount incorrectly assessed inst them.

Dr. Keller wrote drawing the ncil's attention to a difference ween the amount shown in his essment notice and the tax tice. The mistake had arisen ough a clerical error in copying m the assessment roll, but the ncil considered the error had en so obvious that it should ve been pointed out before. It s now too late to make any eration in the assessment, the ount of which was computed the same basis as adjoining operty.

A letter was read from the secre- ry of the Union of B. C. Munici- lities enclosing a copy of matters ought before the Municipal Com- ission at Vancouver.

Ald. Taylor raised an objection a clause which read as follows: No retail liquor license shall be anted or renewed for sale of quor within 300 feet of a church public school." He said it ould only be necessary to put up church or school within the three undred feet to put any hotel in e province out of business. He ggested that the word "renewed" hould be struck out.

A resolution was passed by the ouncil supporting this conten- on.

A resolution was also passed oting $15.00 as the council's share the expense of appointing, on behalf of the Union of B.C. Muni- ipalities, of a solicitor to watch ending legislation in the interests f the different municipalities.

Mayor Jones stated that Mr. Geo. Thompson had asked if the city would be willing to supply electric light to his house just out- side the city limits.

Ald. Sutherland said he could see no objection to granting Mr. Thompson's request on the same terms as the city had supplied light to others outside the city limits, namely that he pay all expenses in connection with the installation. He roughly estimated the exten- sion to be about $100.

The following accounts were passed for payment:

Ald. Copeland said he had been approached by many of the store- keepers on the south side of Bern- ard avenue with reference to run- ning a drain down the back lane to take away the surface water. It had been suggested that something could be saved by running it down in the same trench as the sewer which was now being laid. There was no doubt as to the need of a drain, as the lane usually got into a frightful state in wet weather. He thought a six-inch wooden pipe would fulfil all requirements.

The committee however, did not think it would be safe to put the pipe into the sewerage trench as this would have been partly filled and no opportunity given for set- tlement. It was left with the com- mittee to look into the matter.

Ald. Copeland made the sugges- tion that the Board of Works have gravel hauled in at once and plac- ed at convenient places along the roadsides where it would be handy for repairs. A great deal of ex- pense could often be often saved by repairing a hole in the road as soon as it was noticed instead of leaving it to cut through the sur- face and make a bad place.

It often took two or three loads of gravel to repair a bad place which could have been fixed with a wheelbarrowful if the material had been handy at the right time.

The meeting adjourned until the Thursday following the voting on the money by-laws.

A Unique Entertainment

The Kelowna Musical & Dram- atic Society has engaged the Opera House for Thursday, December 19th for the purpose of giving a variety entertainment. The society has gone out of the beaten track for this occasion, departing from the sedate orchestral performance, and will give an entertainment ab- solutely different from all previous efforts, and just as superior as it is different.

Features of the program will be a violin solo by Mr. N. Bornholdt, songs by Miss Francis A. Pearson, L.R.A.M.; a skirt dance by Miss Crowcroft, Kafir Indaba and war dance by the Taylors and a one- act play entitled "The Man in the Street," by Mr. and Mrs. Soames and Mr. Dart.

Other performers of consider- able ability have kindly promised their services, and the entertain- ment ought to be one of the finest ever offered a Kelowna audience. We hope to be able to give a full programme at an early date.

Annual Meeting of Farmers' Institute

The Kelowna Farmers' Institute held its annual general meeting last Saturday afternoon. Dr. Dick- son presided, and in the absence of the secretary read the report and financial statement for the year. The latter showed a balance to the credit of the Institute of $117.66.

The president, Dr. Dickson, in his address, said that although the work of the Institute during the past year had been very success- ful so far as attendance at the various meetings were concerned, yet the membership remained small. In a large district like this there should be certainly not less than 200 members. The govern- ment were doing their best in the way of supplying good lecturers, and he would like to see the Insti- tute placed upon a stronger basis.

He thanked the members for the honor they had done him in electing him president during the past year, and hoped that his suc- cessor would take up the work with enthusiasm so that when next year's report was presented to the government they would have a showing second to none in the province.

The appointment of officers for the year was then proceeded with and the following elected:—

President-J. A. Reekie
Vice-Pres.-Geo. E. Allen
Directors: For
Kelowna-John Leathley
Benvoulin-A. Patterson
Rutland-J. W. Woolsey
Ellison-M. Hereron
K.L.O.-W. C. Spenser
S. Okanagan-J. C. R. Harvey.

It was decided to constitute Glen- more a separate district of the Institute and it was left to the sec- retary to see the residents about choosing a director ro represent them.

It was intimated that Mr. Brooke, the secretary, wished to retire ow- ing to pressure of other work which prevented him from giving sufficient time to the duties of the Institute and it was left to the directors to select a suitable secre- tary.

Votes of thanks were passed to the retiring president and secretary for their services during the past year.

The new president, Mr. Reekie, then took charge of the meeting. He referred to the energy which his predecessor had managed to infuse into the Institute and hoped that all would realize the necessity for pushing the Institute as one of the best mediums through which the farmer could make his wishes known to the government.

Mr. H. W. Raymer was appoint- ed delegate to the Central Farmers' Institute meeting at Victoria in January, with Dr. Dickson as sub- stitute.

Resolutions to be presented at that meeting were then considered. Mr. G. C. R. Harvey presented a resolution that the government be asked to provide money at a low rate of interest to assist the farmer in developing his land. This was carried.

It was also decided to endorse the resolution passed recently by the Board of Trade respecting the prohibiting of fruit importations from countries affected with pests and diseases dangerous to fruit growing.

At a directors' meeting held yesterday Mr. B. C. Meyrick was appointed secretary.

The next meeting of the Poultry Association will be held on Wed- nesday evening, December 4th. at 7 o'clock, in Rattenbury & Wil- liams' real estate office. A very interesting meeting has been arrang- ed, Several birds will be on view and will be judged by those present.

An exceptionally good discus- sion was the attraction at the meet- ing of the Kelowna Brotherhood last Sunday when Mr. Leckie spoke on the Panama Canal question. All men are specially invited next Sunday to hear the Rev. H. G. Estabrook on "The Appeal of the Last West," at the Baptist church, at 3.45 p.m.

Ratepayers Discuss Sewerage By-laws

The municipal meeting held last Thursday evening to discuss the money by-laws projected by the council to raise a further sum of $40,000 to complete the sewerage works was not nearly so well attended as might have been ex- pected.

Mayor Jones occupied the chair and briefly sketched the history of the sewerage undertaking, and the unforeseen difficulties which had arisen to make the cost of the work much greater than had been anti- cipated rendering necessary the second appeal to the ratepayers. The sum of $35,000 originally voted and based upon the first estimate of the engineers had proved inade- quate A bad stratum of quicksand and coarse gravel which had been unexpectedly struck in excavating for the pumping station and the main sewer crossing the creek had involved expenses which had eaten up the original appropriation, and although the worst of the difficulties had now been overcome, there were no funds left to complete the work. The engineers had sub- mitted a second estimate which called for an additional expenditure of about $32,000 and the council had thought it safer to ask the ratepayers to sanction the borrowing of $40,000 to cover all contingencies. $20,000 was to be taken from debentures already issued but not used for street improvements.

Mr. A. W. K. Mitchell, the engineer in charge, responding to the call of the chair- man, said he could add very little to what had been said without going into technical details, but he was quite ready to answer any questions which might be put to him.

Mr. S. C. Cosens started the questioning by asking why the difficulties had not been discovered before a start had been made. He understood that test holes had been sunk in various parts of the city.

Replying, Mr. Mitchell said that the strata had proved so variable that the test pits dug had not proved typical of more than a few feet around them, and they had failed to reveal the quicksand and gravel which had been the source of all the trouble.

Mr. Leckie asked why, if the most "fi- cult part of the work had been done, it was necessary to borrow a sum which made the total more than twice the orig- inal estimate.

Mr. Mitchell pointed out that the new estimate did not call for quite $40,000. Unit costs on the work already done had been used in estimating the balance, and the sum had been made large to cover all possible contingencies.

Mr. G. C. Rose asked if it would not have been feasible to have let the work by contract instead of doing it by day work.

Mr. Mitchell said that matter had been fully discussed by the council before de- ciding to adopt the course they did. In the first place the job was so small that no large contractor would have undertaken to move his plant up from the coast; no local contractor had the necessary equip- ment, and the price would not have justi- fied him in purchasing it with the prospect of it being left on his hands. Further, owing to the uncertain nature of the diffi- culties to be encountered, a contractor would have naturally charged enough to cover himself several times over.

Inquiries were made as to how the ori- ginal estimate of $35,000 was arrived at.

Ald. Sutherland said when the council had first taken the matter up they had had five different reports from four different engineers. Although differing in some details these reports had been practically the same, and the cost estimated for the same amount of work almost identically the same. From these the council had formed the conclusion that $35,000 would suffice for the main works. All branch sewers were to be put in under the Local Improvement plan. As to how the work should be done the council had thought that the work could be done cheaper by day work—at least, they had decided, as all had to do at times, to take a chance. Any contractor would likely have charged a big price in order to safeguard himself, and they had taken what they thought was the best course.

The sewerage work reminded him of the question of water and light. Many people advocated a few years ago that a franchise be let to some company, but the city had undertaken the work themselves and it was now paying well, as he had no doubt the sawerage would pay in time. He strongly urged that the ratepayers give their support to the by-laws in order that the work which was so necessary to the city might be completed.

Mr. Leckie also spoke in favor of pass- ing the by-laws and moved a resolution that the meeting approved of the action of the council in calling for the loan.

This was seconded by Dr. Boyce and carried without any opposition.

Both By-laws Carry by Big Majorities

The result of the voting yesterday on the two money by-laws, by which the council sought to raise an additional sum of $40,000 to complete the installation of the main sewerage system was so decided as to leave no doubt that the ratepayers are eager to see the work completed and the system working.

The figures are as follows:—

By-law 119—For 82; Against 7; Spoilt 3.
By-law 120—For 86; Against 4; Spoilt 2.

Wilson Landing and West Side Notes

(From our own correspondent)

Mrs. Somerset and Miss J. Som- erset were passengers on Friday last by s.s. "Okanagan" to Okan- agan Centre, where they spent a few days, being the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cæsar.

Messrs. Batchelor and Seeley have had a furnace installed at the home ranch, such an extra- vagance in fuel being one of the few occasions on which country folk can score ahead of their city cousins.

Mr. John Rawkins who has been seeing a good deal of the surround- ing country with a C.N.R. survey party during the last season is a visitor at Enterprise ranch as a guest of the Misses Goodacre and Mr. G. E. Browse.

The Rev. D. Robertson held a Church of England service at Reid's Landing Sunday last. All are look- ing forward to the Christmas ser- vices which our vicar proposes to conduct at many points on the west side of the lake.

Authorized by wealthy associates in England to increase the invest- ments held by them in British Col- umbia to the amount of $1,000,000 Mr. R. Mason, a financial man from London, England, has arrived in B. C. and is now at Vancouver. At his own expense Mr. Mason will shortly erect a hotel in the Okan- agan Valley for the British Women's Immigration Society. The hostelry is to be built at Penticton and will be utilized as a distributing point for young women domestics sent out by the parent society in Great Britain.—Summerland Review.

The Ladies Hospital Aid are planning a "Hospital Shower," for Thursday, December 12th, at the hospital. All ladies of the town are asked to kindly remember this "shower" when articles for dining room and kitchen (not edibles) and small tray cloths and doilies will be acceptable.

Mrs. Chas. Berry and children of Wenatchee, Wash. arrived in town on Wednesday on a visit to to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Lock. She was accompanied by her brother, Mr. George Lock.

The Young Girls White Shield Society will hold a social at the home of Mrs. Fuller, Lake avenue, on Thursday, December 6th, at 8 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all who care to come and spend a pleasant evening. A good programme will be provided and a collection taken in aid of the Provincial Rescue Home for Young Girls.

Don't forget the cushion sale on Monday.

Mr. H. E. J. Amyot leaves this week-end for Montreal where he will spend the winter months.

Progress is being made with the arrangements for the Poultry Show which is being held by the local association on January 2nd and 3rd, and the secretary, Mr. E. L. Ward, is working energetically to ensure its success.

The death took place Tuesday evening at Victoria, at the age of 76, of an old Kelowna resident, Mrs. Sproul, mother of R. J. Sproul, of Rutland. The deceased lady was well known throughout the district having lived here some five years, leaving three years ago to reside in Victoria.

The sixth annual Fire Brigade Ball is announced for Friday, De- cember 6th. This popular annual event will be held in the Opera House, with a four-piece orchestra in attendance.

NOTICE

NOTICE is hereby given that at the next statutory meeting of the Board of Licensing Commissioners for the City of Kelowna, I, Arthur Peabody, intend to apply for a renewal of my license to sell liquor by retail in the premises known as the Palace Hotel, situated on the north side of Bernard Avenue, between Water Street and Pendozi Street, in the City of Kelowna, B.C.

Dated the 26th day of November, 1912.

Sutherland Beat Chet McIntyre

The great wrestling match be- tween Bob Sutherland and "Chet" McIntyre of Vancouver, which had been looked forward to with the keenest interest locally, as by far the most important of any that had yet taken place here, was brought to a successful issue Tues- day night in the Opera House, the local champion defeating his op- ponent after an hour's hard wrest- ling, by two falls to one.

After a preliminary bout between Walter Raymer and Willie Fletcher pupils of the gymnasium, in which Fletcher proved the victor, the two champions appeared on the stage and were loudly cheered.

From the very start it was evident that Sutherland had to deal with an opponent who was not only skilled in all the moves of the game, but was also from constant practice as instructor of the Van- couver Athletic Club, in the very pink of training. In the first bout the local man elected to depend more upon defensive tactics but when at the end of 17 minutes he lost the first fall to McIntyre, he changed his plan and became more ag- gressive. The second bout went fast and furious, Bob pressing his opponent to the limit. McIntyre however, showed not only great strength but amazing agility, and wiggled out of several apparently hopeless positions. Finally, however, Bob brought his shoulders to the mat, the second bout lasting but 12½ minutes.

The third bout was the most exciting of all, and several times the result of the match hung in the balance. Bob's power- ful scissors hold which after repeated fail- ures, he managed to secure so that there was no escape, again proved his winning card, and McIntyre had to admit defeat, the final bout taking twenty seven minutes to decide.

The crowd which filled the hall cheered lustily, and hearty conrratulations were showered udon the winner of a hard fought game.

McIntyre took his defeat as became a good sportsman, with a hearty hand shake to his conqueror.

Death of Great Canadian Financier

Sir Edward Clouston, one of Canada's leading financiers and vice-president of the Bank of Montreal, died suddenly of apple- exy at Montreal Saturday last.

Sir Edward was in the Royal Securities building when he was seized witd a fainting fit and was removed to the Royal Victoria Hos- pital where he died.

The late Sir Edward Seaborn Clouston, baronet, vice-president and also general manager of the Bank of Montreal and president of the Canadian Bankers' Association was born at Moose Factory, Hud- son's Bay, Canada, May 9, 1849. His father, James Stewart Clouston, was a native of the Orkney Islands and was the chief factor in the Hudson's Bay Company. On the maternal side Margaret (Miles) Clouston, mother of Sir Edward, was also descended from an old Orkney family. As a lad young Clouston attended the public schools and subsequently the Montreal High School, and in 1865, at the age of 16, he entered the em- ploy of the Bank of Montreal as clerk. In 1877 he was advanced to the position of assistant inspect- or. In 1881 he was made manager of the Montreal branch and in 1887 was appointed assistant gen- eral manager and in 1890 became general manager, being further honored in 1905 by election to the vice-presidency, which potitions he ably filled until his death. Sir Edward S. Clouston had never as- pired to any political office, nor had he ever held any.

The grand Christmas opening at Knowles' jewelry store is to take place on Saturday, December 7th. An orchestra has been engaged and visitors in town should not miss calling in. This opening has become quite an annual feature and is decidedly popular. The fol- lowing week, December 14th, the usual watch-guessing competition will be held.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ludlow had the misfortune to lose their little nine-month-old boy, Kenneth Wil- liam, on Sunday morning lrst. The funeral took place Monday after- noon.

BORN—This (Thursday) morning, to the wife of D. McFarlane, Glen avenue, a son.

Farmers' Institute Wants Members

Never in the history of the province has it been so necessary for the farmers to cultivate that "get-to-gether" spirit which seems to now be recognized as the only satisfactory modern way of solving difficulties which beset any commercial enterprize. Farmers in particular, and especially inexperienced farmers in a new country are almost daily up against problems which can be easily solved by a little friendly consultation and comparison with neighbors. A hint from a more experienced grower will very often save days of useless labor and dollars on the annual returns.

But it is the more complex problems of shipping and marketing of produce that the value of an organization like the Farmer's Institute will eventually be seen. Combination is now the remedy advanced for the ills of the farmer and fruitgrower, and there is wisdom in the cry. But do not let it stop there.

As was rightly pointed out at the annual meeeting of the Farmers' Institute last Saturday, the farmers have in that body the very best opportunity of realizing that ideal of co-operative action in the handling of their problems. With an association already formed and in direct touch with the government and farmers in the numerous branches all over the province, it is only necessary for everyone interested to become a member to make it immediately effective and powerful. Once such a body is got together with the sole object of the advancement of the district, good is bound to result.

An energetic campaign for new members is being planned. The membership fee of 50c. is low enough to allow no farmer an excuse for being outside, and it is hoped that the appeal of the directorate will be met with a ready response. The appeal, of course, is not primarily for money, but for membership, though, of course, some funds are necessary to carry on the work.

The duties of secretary are now being undertaken by Mr. B. G. Meyrick, and with the co-operation of the directors in each district it is expected that before the end of another year the membership will have reached between two and three hundred.

Amusements

Rex Vaudeville Co.

In the Rex Vaudeville Co. who appear at the Opera House on Friday (to-morrow) night, manager Duncan has again secured a fine aggregation of talented artists with a world wide reputation. The performance includes singing, dancing,comedy and a fine ventriloquist act by Harry C. Willis. The last item on the bill is a musical comedy Farce entitled "Mistakes will Happen." This is positively one of the funniest one-act hits, ever produced. Harry Lancaster, the famous Scotch comedian and Dave Caston, eccentric comedian and scare crow dancer are both well known in the London Music Halls and Moss Empires of Britain—in fact it will be like Leicester Square in Kelowna for one night only.

Famous Imperial Handbell Ringers

The Imperial English Hand Bell Ringers will be at the Kelowna Opera House on Saturday December 14th. This organization of musicians and glee singers have make a big hit all over America, being well known from coast to coast. Their fine musical selections include such pieces as "Il Trovatore," "L'Italina" and "Masariells." The company includes many soloists of note well known at English provincial concerts, and they come here very highly recommended as musicians of exceptional merit. Lovers of the best in vocal and instrumental music won't miss this treat.

How Much of Your Road Money is Spent in Filling Ruts?

IF the millions of dollars that have been spent repairing worn-out, washed-out streets and roads had been used to build more miles of good highways, fewer farmers would now be wasting valuable time and money taking "round-about" routes to town.

FIRST cost of an ordinary dirt or macadam road is usually only a "starter." The cost of upkeep soon equals that first cost and there is always an ever-increasing annual expense for repairs. The worst feature of it is that such a road is never a really first-class highway.

IN estimating the cost of a road you should include the expense of keeping it in good condition for at least twenty years. If you don't, you're figuring on the first payment for that road, only. And the remaining payments are as certain as taxes. The upkeep cost of concrete roads is practically nothing.

Concrete roads are the best roads from the first—and the best and cheapest roads at the end of ten, fifteen and twenty years.

CONCRETE is the ideal paving material for streets in small towns as well as for main highways in the country.

Edward N. Hines, Wayne County, Michigan, Road Commissioner, and one of America's foremost authorities on good roads, says:

Any community that wants a good road, a road that is cheaper for even a short time under fairly heavy traffic than any other good road, a road that is inexpensively maintained, a road that is sanitary and dustless, a road that is not slippery, a road that affords good traction for any type of vehicle 365 days in the year, a road that in the long run, say 10, 15, 20 years and longer, is the cheapest of all good roads, should investigate the merits of concrete.

WRITE for the facts about Concrete highways. When convinced, use your influence to have the roads for which you pay built to last.

We have highway experts who will visit any community intending to build more roads and explain just why and how concrete roads are best and cheapest.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Public Building, Greenwood, B.C." will be received at this office until 4.00 p.m. on Monday, December 9, 1912, for the construction of a Public Building at Greenwood, B.C.

Plans, specifications and forms of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at the office of Mr. Wm. Henderson Resident Architect, Victoria B.C., at the Post Office, Greenwood B.C., and at this Department.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted, the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, November 18, 1912.

THE GOLD SHIP

THE GOLD SHIP
The Way Treasure Is Transported From One Country to Another and the Precautions Taken To Protect It.

Of the many romantic happenings which relieve the drabness of modern life, few appeal more strongly to the imagination than the convevance, to and fro, of the great quantities of gold — whether bullion or specie — which, week in, week out, form an ever-flowing golden stream round the civilized world.

Perhaps the largest quantities of the precious metal are those conveyed weekly from South Africa, the output of the mines, which in bars, not unlike exaggerated cakes of yellow soap in appearance, find their way to the Bank of England and the other great banks. The value of these weekly cargoes frequently runs into millions

Then, too, every mail steamer which leaves the docks carries its quantum of gold. Gold in bars, gold in sovereigns, gold in the coinage of every nation.

The casual passer-by who wanders through the long corridors of the Bank of England may happen on a little stone-paved courtyard, completely shut in by several sets of iron gates. Here he may see gold "bricks" being thrown into very ordinary-looking vans by sturdy porters, who handle the precious metal as if it were mere clay.

A Big Responsibility.

The van being full, a couple of individuals, also very ordinary-looking, climb in and seat themselves on its gold-paved floor, and off it goes to the docks or the railway-station.

Arived at the docks, the gold, whether in bars or coin — which latter is packed in bags containing 1,000 sovereigns or their equivalent, which in turn are enclosed in iron-bound boxes, sealed with an official seal at the Bank of England on every joint — goes straight on board the ship it is to veyage in.

The bars, or boxes, are received by one of the ship's officers, and, with the assistance of a couple of quartermasters, are carefully checked and tallied. The officer — usually the second officer — signs a receipt for them, and they are placed in a special hold, to which access is obtained by only one entrance, and that is locked and sealed.

From the moment that he has signed the receipt the officer is personally responsible for the bullion and specie and its safe custody and delivery, and access to the treasure-hold can only be had — legitimately — by means of the key, which remains in his possession.

When Silence Is Golden.

As to the exact precautions taken to guard the bullion-hold and its contents, and its precise situation, representatives of the various companies preserve a complete, and very wise, reticence, and even sailors and officers on the actual vessel seldom know where the gold is kept during its transhipment, so well is the secret kept.

Probably not more than three or four people in the ship are in possession of the information. The truth is that, surprising as the statement may sound to the uninitiated, there are in existence very highly organised gangs of international thieves, whose special work is the theft, or attempted theft, of gold while in the charge of the steamer companies.

BENEFICIAL WARS

Some People Argue That Wars and Industrial Calamities Benefit Mankind in the Long Run.

Few calamities in the world's history have been unattended by some advantage to humanity. The late Lord Palmerston is credited with having stated that even a great war had its benefits for the English people inasmuch as it induced them to study geography. There are people who go much further, and seriously argue that the horrors of war are afterwards compensated by reforms and discoveries which mankind at large would never have enjoyed but for the drastic chastisement which war inflicts. Among the arguments of this kind deduced from history is the statement that all the wealth and luxury the world has enjoyed from the industry of brass-working would probably have been lost but for the sacking and burning of the city of Corinth in the year 146 B. C. In Corinth there were immense quantities of gold, silver, and copper, and it is said that the violence of the conflagration was so great that these precious metals were melted and ran together, and thus the famous Corithian brass was first manufactured.

EXPENSIVE DIMPLES

She had a dimple in each cheek — a deep, dainty, loving, delicious, kissable dimple

"Ah," exclaimed the young fool, "how I wish I had dimples like that!" And he reached out his hand and patted them softly.

The maiden smiled until the dimples were a hundred times lovelier than before, and the youth was completely captured. He took her for drives in the park. Then he took her to the Calldorf and treated her to a dinner such as visiting princes indulge in at the expense of the Government.

Next they went to the theatre and occupied a box, and after that they sought out a cosy café.

And since then he has had two dimples, two deep, cavernous, empty dimples, one in each side of his purse, and they wil istay there until next pay day.

Will Open Prairie Market

Upon the return to Victoria of Mr. W. E. Scott, deputy minister of agriculture, who is now in Chicago, says a coast paper, an energetic and systematic attempt will be made to increase the markets for B. C. fruits not only in the cities but also in the smaller towns of the prairie provinces. A considerable part of the energy of the fruit branch of the department of agriculture has hitherto been devoted to providing exhibits calculated to attract attention in the centres of the United States and Great Britain. The real object and purpose of these exhibits has been to bring in settlers and to sell lands to them rather than to sell fruit.

The approaching campaign on the prairies will be conducted on a different basis; its object being simply to provide an outlet for the ever-increasing fruit crop of the Okanagan and other districts. The fruit will be collected by the carload under the auspices of the department and will be sent forward, accompanied by an agent whose business it will be to dispose of it along the route, and, above all, to see that it is properly advertised. It is believed that this scheme in its carrying out will be comparatively inexpensive, as enough fruit should be sold from the train to cover the major portion of the cost.

Ontario's Apple Trade

Ontario's apple trade in western Canada has fallen off so much in the past two or three years that the government of that province has sent a special commissioner, Mr. A. Earle, of Creemore, Ont., to Winnipeg and the western towns to ascertain what the trouble may be and report at once to the government.

"No wonder we're losing to British Columbia," says Mr. Earle, "but we will have to stop this kind of thing. Apparently the Ontario shippers have been harboring the impression that anything is good enough for the west. They've got to alter that opinion at once and realise that they are doing business with people who demand the best and lots of attention. A better system of inspection will have to be established and I will recommend that to the government."

A wintry blizzard visited Montreal Sunday, and snow fell to a depth of ten inches.

The Nation contains a wholehearted protest against a vigorous organized endeavor to induce, incite or compel all parts of the empire to arm. It says the younger nations of the Empire are thereby drawn into the vices of the old, and incidentally it trounces Premier Borden for seeking to scare the dollars from his countrymen.

Henry Hudson of Sacramento, California, is carrying an egg under his arm in an endeavor to hatch from it a little chicken as a consequence of having bet his wife that Taft would poll a larger vote than Roosevelt. The egg is sewed up in a sack, which is strapped under his left arm.

The manager of a Winnipeg insurance company purchased a barrel of Ontario apples from a retail store the other day, paying $5.25. When he opened the barrel he found a letter addressed to 'the purchaser.' It read, "I got seventy cents for this barrel. How much did you pay for it?"

"The most prosperous year in company's history is covered by this thirty-first annual report," said Sir. Thomas Shaughnessy at the Canadian Pacific Railway's annual meeting at Montreal. "The gross operating income exceeded $125,000,000, and the net balance after providing for fixed charges and making the usual deductions, being $33,752,000.

Eighty-five per cent. of headaches are the result of eyestrain. If you are troubled that way consult Dr. S. L. Taube on his visit to W. R. Trench's drug store, Kelowna, B.C., on Wednesday, December 4th, 1912.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlin's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlin's Cough Remedy and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers.

FAMOUS DWARFS

Persons of Accomplishment and Fame of Royalty Who Were Not Only Small But Brave Enough to Hold Their Own.

One of the most celebrated dwarfs of past times was Jeffery Hudson, who was born at Oakman, Rutlandshire, England, in 1619. At 8 years of age, when the duke of Buckingham took him under his protection, he was only eighteen inches high which he did not exceed until he reached the age of 30, when he sprang up to 3 feet 9 inches, which he never exceeded. Soon after the marriage of Charles I he was presented to the queen, by whom he was kept for the amusement of the court, once being served up as a venison pie. When the pie was opened out stoped Jeffery in all the dignity of his eighteen inches, and made a courtly obeisance to the astonished and delighted queen who in response to the little man's appeal to be taken into her service, promptly granted the request.

In a duel that he fought, his antagonist at first took the affair as a joke and appeared on the ground armed only with a squirt, which so enraged the little man that a real encounter with pistols was arranged, resulting in the David killing the Goliath. Hudson died at the age of 63 while in prison for his alleged connection with the popish plot.

A Polish Dwarf

Another notable dwarf was Joseph Borulwaski, the Pole, of whose debut an interesting tale is told. As a boy of 15, when he was just one inch higher than a two foot rule, Borulwaski was presented to the Empress Maria Theresa, who was so charmed by his good looks and grace that she seated him on her lap and gave him a hearty kiss. To the queen's question as to what he considered the most interesting sight in Vienna the dwarf replied: "What I now behold, so little a man on the lap of so great a lady." This speech rendered the little fellow a great favorite.

He became a special favorite of Stanislaus II, who took him to England and introduced him to George III, and for more than half a century Borulwaski made his home at the English court.

This dwarf, who at his tallest was a yard and three inches, had a sister whose head just reached her big brother's shoulders. Borulwaski was not only a handsome and courtly man but a scholar of repute. He lived in five reigns and was laid to rest in Dunham in 1837, side by side with the Falstaffian Stephen Kemble.

Philetas

Among other dwarfs of interest was Philetas, who acted as tutor to Ptolemy Philadelphus, and who was said to be so light as well as short that he carried weights in his pocket to prevent being blown away. Then there were Coropas, and Andromede, two tiny handmaidens of Julia, niece of Augustus, each of whom was but 28 inches high. Richebourg, who died in Paris in 1858, was just one inch under two feet. Chevalier Desseesan, who flourished at the commencement of the reign of George III, was known as the "vain dwarf" and attracted to himself to little attention. Alboni, the first king of the Lombards had a dwarf as prime minister, to wit, Berthold, who has been described as the wittiest and the ugliest of diminutive humanity. George Romonde, nicknamed the "eccentric mimic," had the Jewish race boldly inscribed on his face and in stature never exceeded 2 feet 4 inches.

NOT THE USUAL CLIMAX

Outside it was a dark and stormy night. The wind blew — as it always does on such occasions — in fitful gusts. Suddenly a stranger appeared at the door. He pressed the button fearlessly. He was tall and handsome, but his face — as usual — was weather-beaten.

The door opened, and the maid thrust her head out.

"Who are you?"

"Is this the Spriggs's house?"

"Yes."

"Well, I am Mrs. Spriggs's long-lost son. I have been away from home for twenty years; during this time I have circled the globe. Break the news gently to mother, please."

"Mrs. Spriggs is not in."

"Where is she?"

"Attending a mothers own sewing meeting. She won't be home for two or three hours."

"But perchance my father——"

"He is upstairs repairing his clothes and has left orders not to be disturbed, even if you came."

"Even if I came? Why, they didn't know I was coming."

"They have been prepared for it in case you did."

"My sister Ellen?"

"She is rolling cigarettes for a bridge-party, and won't be finished for an hour. After that she dictates to her secretary."

"My brother William — where is he?"

"Of to the country for a holiday."

"May I come in and warm myself?"

The maid shook her head.

"Sorry, sir, but my orders are positive. Both Mr. and Mrs. Spriggs have notified me that if their long-lost child turned up at any time, to tell him that they have so many engagements that they couldn't see him for an indefinite time. You might, however drop in again in a couple of years."

"His First Offer"

Dr. H. W. Whiey, the food expert, was talking at a luncheon in Washington about a food adulterator. "His first offer," said Dr Wiley, "sounded, on the face of it, fair to the public, but it was in reality as unfair as the offer of the divorcee. A wife, after the diverce, said to her husband: I am willing to loan you the baby half of the time.' 'Good!' said he, rubbing his hands. 'Splendid.' 'Yes,' she resumed, 'you may have him nights.'"

COULD GRAPPLE

Col. Roosevelt, Ex-President of U. S. Once Turned Trick on Pro Wrestler Who Was Teaching Him Privately.

During the days Col. Roosevelt was governor of New York, Mike Dwyer had a gymnasium in Albany, teaching the solons how to be strong and healthy.

It was not long before Roosevelt decided that he needed a little conditioning himself, and he according arranged with Dwyer to go through some private stunts.

Day after day, the future president and Mike went to it, with the colonel's circumference melting under the exercise.

"How, Mike—now, honestly, how do you think I'm getting along?" the governor inquired, after the training had extended over several weeks.

"Fine!" Mike exclaimed in truly professional glee. "If you weren't such a prominent man, I'd like to match you with some of the ambitious."

"Really?" Roosevelt inquired, with a touch of suspicion in his voice.

Mike insisted that it was even so—and the men went to it again with renewed wim.

Now, Teddy had a private hunch back in his brain somewhere that he had been nursing for a long time, but he took no partners on his secret. He had taken to grappling like a duck to a limpid stream, and he gloried in in it.

It was never part and parcel of the colonel's make-up to merely practice. Whenever he went into anything it was whole-souled, and so it was with his labors on the mat.

Mike coached him in hold after hold lock after lock. First it had been "bully good exercise," and now the craving for knowledge included the acquisition of the actual works.

One day, when the political leader and trainer had stripped for action, Mike fancied that he detected an exceptionally bright glint in Teddy's eyes, but he attributed it to pulsing blood and physical fitness.

"Now,' said the colonel, "let us suppose we were really, truly opponents and there was a crowd right around us cheering us on. What would you do first?"

They went to it roughing it to and fro over the canvas, the trainer forgetting that he was manhandling the governor—or trying to.

Then with an especially dexterous move Roosevelt went back of Dwyer and slipped his ample arms into a full Nelson.

Mike was against it.

His pupil had slipped one over on him and was going to take a fall.

The harder Dwyer worked the harder Roosevelt labored, and finaly Mike felt his heels becoming light. Then they pointed skyward. There was one awful moment of uncertainty, and Mike came down on the ether side, with both shoulders planted squarely on the mat.

"How's that?" Teddy exclaimed joyfully.

"Well," said Mike, as he rose to his feet and shook himself, "if you weren't governor of the state I'd say it was a cussed mean trick. Only—mind you—never tell it to anybody."

Teddy promised.

He never told.

But the time came when Mike broke the silence and admitted that he had once met defeat at the hands of a man who occupied the White House.

The Beginning of Things.

Watches were being made at the beginning of the sixteenth century.

Wall paper, with fancy colored figures, began to be used in 1962. The art was developed thereafter largely by the French.

Fowling and falconry were practised by the ancient Greeks, but were carried to greater perfection in medieval England.

Colored glass came from Egypt. The Egyptians carried the art to great perfection apparently before history begins to tell of it.

Turf bogs were dug in 1113 for fires. Turf or peat bogs are used to this day for fuel, especially in Ireland, where they abound.

Buckwheat began to be cultivated in England in 1597. It had been brought into Europe from Asia one hundred years before.

The first cologne was called Hungary water, from the country of its invention. It was made from spirits of wine distilled upon rosemary.

Taking No Chances

Before he was well known, Wendell Phillips, the distinguished abolitionist, went to Charleston, and put up at an hotel. He had breakfast served in his room and was waited upon by a slave. Mr. Phillips seized the opportunity to represent to the negro in a pathetic way that he regarded him as a man and brother, and, more than that, that he himself was an abolitionist. The negro, however, seemed more anxious about his breakfast than he was about his position in the social scale or the condition of his soul, and finally Mr. Phillips became discouraged and told him to go away, saying that he could not bear to be waited on by a slave. "You must 'scuse me, massa," said the negro; "I is 'bliged to stay here 'cause I'm 'sponsible for de silverware."

GREAT CANVASSERS

Napoleon, and George Washington and Many More Great Men Were Successful Books Agents In Their Youth.

Books. — Well-known firm of London publishers require the services of country gentlemen to act as agents. Liberal commission. Districts apportioned. Hunting and shooting men preferred. Members of good families, younger sons who have been at the Varsities or public schools, will find this a first-class opening. Apply, etc.

When the above appeared in the advertisement columns of the English papers recently, no doubt many people who read it would ask themselves what things were coming to.

Country gentlemen taking to book-canvassing!

Certainly it reads revolutionary, even in these days of trading "nobility and gentry."

But greater men than country squires have, before now, been engaged in canvassing books.

Napoleon Bonaparte, Emperor of the French, the world's greatest military genius, was once a book-canvasser.

The future conqueror, while yet a lieutenant, and with nothing to live on but his scanty pay, undertook to "push" for Messrs. Boulanger and Co., the Paris publishers, a work called "The History of the (French) Revolution." And apparently he liked the work — with its emoluments — for after a short trial he applied to be given the sole agency for the Department of La Vendée. He had, however, to be content with a restricted district in suburban Paris. With what zeal he "worked" this may be seen to-day at the Louvre ,where there is exhibited his canvasser's outfit, together with the long list of subscribers' names which his industry secured.

Almost at the same time, in a different part of the world, another future ruler was partly earning his bread as a book agent. This was none other than George Washington, "Father" of the United States. The particular book that Washington canvassed bore the somewhat lengthy title of "The London of Stoke-on-Trent Square, American Savage; How He May be Tamed by the Weapons of Civilization."

To "get off" such a mouthful as this would surely require more than average ability and persuasiveness, and if, as he recorded, Washington's sales were eminently satisfactory, small wonder that in later life he accomplished so much greater things.

FAMILY POISONS

Some Astonishing Facts About the Poisons We Are Always Eating In Our Foods. Even Salt Will Kill You.

When the doctor told me he was prescribing prussic acid for the pain in my stomach, I said I would rather keep the pain than take such a poison.

"You need not have the slightest fear," he assured me. "Why, you eat poisons every day. When the Chinese want to commit suicide, one of their favourite plans is to take half a cup of salt."

"Common salt?"

"Yes. In large quantities common salt is a violent irritant. It sets up severe inflammation of the stomach, and kills as surely as arsenic.

"Salpetre, that colours bacon and corned beef an attractive red, is a powerful poison. One ounce has killed a person in three hours. Many people have been poisoned by this salt.

"You must know that your pudding and the icing of your wedding-cake are incomplete unless flavoured with bitter almonds. I am not sure how many bitter almonds it takes to kill a man, but they contain a good deal of this prussic acid that you object to.

"Oxalic acid, with which foolish people so often commit suicide, is the salt which gives rhubarb and sorrel their pelasant flavour. It is a violently irritant and dreadfully painful poison.

"Need I tell you that caffein, the exhilarating principle of coffee and tea, is a poison?

"In nearly all our condiments we eat poison. The oils of nutmeg, cloves, black pepper, cinnamon, peppermint, carraway, horse radish, thyme, etc., are all poisonous in large doses.

ENOUGH SAID

A noted lawyer had a case in which, among other things, he wished to prove that his client had no money, and to that end he cross-questioned one of the opponent's witnesses as follows:—

"You asked my client for money, did you not?"

"Well—yes sir."

"Answer promptly, sir! Let us have no hesitation. You asked him for money. Now, what was his answer?"

"I don't know as I can tell."

"But surely you remember?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then out with it! What was his answer?"

"I'd rather not tell."

"Ho, ho! You are on that tack, are you? You won't tell?"

"I would rather not, sir."

"But you must; and if you do not answer my question promptly and truthfully I shall call upon the Court to commit you for contempt."

"Well, sir, if I must tell tales out of school, here you have it. I asked him yesterday if he could lend me half a dollar, and he told me he couldn't."

"And you believed him, did you not?"

"Yes, sir, for he said you had robbed him of every cent of his ready money, and if he didn't get out of your hands pretty soon his wife and little ones would soon come to——"

"That will do, sir. You can stand down."

FROM BEDS OF PAIN

Many of the Songs and Stories We Enjoy Have Been Written on Beds of Sickness by Chronic Invalids.

For more than twenty years the late Clark Russell, writer of some of the finest sea-stories in the English language, never set foot to ground.

Crippled by rheumatism, and never for a single day free from racking pain he lay on his couch, or was wheeled about in his bathchair, and wrote.

At least, he did not write himself — he was not able to — but he dictated to his daughters, who took down his words. In a way, it is to his long illness that we owe his books.

Many a book which has thrilled thousands of readers has been written on a bed of sickness.

"The Mystery of a Hansom Cab" is a case in point. Fergus Hume was at that time a poor journalist in Melbourne, living in a single room, and making barely enough to pay his rent and for bread-and-butter. In his spare time — little enough he had — he began this extraordinary mystery yarn, and was half-way through when illness overtook him in the shape of a raging fever.

Hume's Sleeping Partner

He was in debt, being some weeks overdue with his rent, and in the intervals between attacks of delirium he still tried to struggle on with his work. Presently he collapsed completely. Then appeared a man whom he knew slightly, an actor, who had read the first part of the story, and who promised to pay his debts and make him an allowance for a time, on condition that he shared the profits of the book; and not only that, that Mr. Hume should go halves with the proceeds of all future work, if he recovered.

A document to this effect was duly signed, and for some years the author loyally kept his share of the undertaking. The sleeping partner, who had taken so unfair an advantage of Mr. Hume's illness, died, however, by his own hand.

Helen Mathers was a mere girl when she wrote "Coming Through the Rye." A very pretty girl, too, and a very active one.

But one of her best-known books—"Honey"—was written when she was lying on her back, suffering agony as the result of a bad accident.

Tennyson in Trouble.

The great Robert Louis Stevenson is another instance of an author who struggled year after year with increasing illness, illness which drove him at last out of England to search for warmth and sunshine in the islands of the Southern Pacific. All his later books were produced under the strain of ever-growing weakness.

Tennyson himself suffered much from ill-health. In 1843 he lost all his money, and fell into such a condition that his friends despaired of his life. For many months he was in a hydropathic establishment at Cheltenham, and it was chiefly to the Crown pension of $1000 a year that we owe all the magnificent works of his later life.

"Stephen Adams," whose real name is Mr. Michael Maybrick, ex-mayor of Ryde said in a recent speech that he was ill in bed when he wrote his two most famous songs, "Nancy Lee" and "A Warrior Bold."

CHEAP CLOTHING

Some of he Cheap Clothing Swindles That Are Taking Place Every Day Throughout the Country.

During the winter months the "cheap clothing" swindler comes to the fore. This is the method of manufacture of the "new and up-to-date" clothing. The "clothes for nothing" firm employs agents all over the country who make a point of buying up all old clothing as cheaply as possible. Nothing is despised. The agent is prepared to take old suits, whether they are threadbare or not; coats that would look shabby on a beggar; trousers patched and mended till hardly any part of the original pair remains, and, in fact, anything that once may have been clothing of some kind are fish for his net.

"Tearing Down" Factories.

At his "factory" the clothes are "torn down" by women. That is to say, they are picked to shreds. A certain amount of discrimination is shown, the sounder parts of the secondhand material being placed aside and carefully sorted. The dilapidated parts of these old clothes are more roughly treated. All colours, all patterns, they are all shredded. When this has been done they are placed in a strong dye for some hours, after which the material is dried and woven into new cloth. Once more it is dyed and then turned into ready-made suits by the aid of sweated labour. These suits are sold for from $6 or $7. The dyes used are the cheapest obtainable, and the customer sees the result when his clothes soon begin to acquire a rusty brown or a green tint.

Given Warning

Mrs. Wilson's husband was often obliged to make long journeys on business, and frequently did not reach home till after midnight. His wife had usualy slept peacefully at these times, but a number of burglaries in the neighbourhood during one of Mr. Wilson's trips had disturbed her calm. One night Mr. Wilson was stealing carefully up the stairs, so that his wife should not be awakened, when he heard her voice, high and strained.

"I don't know whether you are my husband or a burglar,' she called; "but I am going to be on the safe side and shoot. So if you are Henry you'd better get out of the way!"

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-west Territories, and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for the lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal subdivisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.

Items from Ellison

(From our own correspondent)

We regret to learn that the Misses Clower and Hay are suffering from severe colds. We trust they will soon recover.

We understand that Messrs. J. Carney and T. Orchard are about to dispose of the half-million ties they cut some time ago; that is, if the jar doesn't empty too quick.

Archie has built a new barn, and Fred has enlarged his, but John J. H. has them both beaten a mile for architecture, as you will see when passing his ranch on the Vernon road, so just take notice of his new style hay barn.

Mr. M. Hereron is on a visit to Calgary. It is supposed that he will bring back with him the 345 ducks that Frank Fraser and Dr. Huycke shot (?) when they went hunting a while ago. They will no doubt be a welcome addition to the Ladies' Aid supper on Saturday night. (Perhaps.)

The annual meeting of the Ellison Literary Society was held on Friday last, Dr. Dickson in the chair. The following officers were elected for the ensuing twelve months:—

President—Mr. Bowser
Vice-Pres.—Mr. T. Morrison
Sec.-Treas.—Miss Taylor
Committee: Mrs. Bulman, Mrs. Hay, Miss Orchard, Messrs. M. Hereron, G. Monford, Booth, Peters and Baron. A social evening was arranged for on Friday next, the 29th inst. All welcome, admission free.

Considerable interest is attached to the discovery of human footprints in some sand stone slabs taken from the Steeres quarry at Warrambool, New South Wales. It is estimated that the impression of the footprints was made between 20,000 and 30,000 years ago.

Don't waste your money buying strengthening plasters. Chamberlain's Liniment is cheaper and better. Dampen a piece of flammel with it and bind it over the affected parts and it will relieve the and soreness. For sale by all dealers.

Benvoulin Notes

A social was held in Mission Creek School last Friday evening by the Benvoulin Literary Society. A fairly large crowd was present and a thoroughly enjoyable evening was spent by all. Rev. J. O'Brien acted as chairman and all joined in singing "Praise God From Whom all Blessings Flow."

The following programme was rendered:

Address - - Chairman
Reading - - Mrs. McLean
Scotch reading - Mrs. Squair
Violin Solo - - Mr. Tuff
Address - Mr. Wallace, Pres.
Mouth Organ Solo - Mr. Scott
Solo - - Mrs. Fisher

The readings by Mrs. McLean and Mrs. Squair were heartily encored.

The rest of the evening was spent in contests and games. At the close refreshments were served by the ladies.

During the evening some thirty members were enrolled, and the secretary will be pleased to receive the names of any others wishing to join the society.

The next meeting will be held in the Benvoulin school on November 29th. It will be known as a "Two by Three" evening. The speakers to choose their own subject and write their notes on a piece of paper not larger than two inches by three inches. A cordial invitation extended to all.

The Gurney-Oxford is prompt

No matter what comes or goes—meals we must have.

The preparation of meals comes round three times a day.

Every housewife wants to know that she can depend on her stove absolutely; she wants to know that there is no element of chance or likelihood of mishap in her cooking arrangements; that meals will be ready promptly on time.

The Gurney Economizer is an assurance against accident and mishap in cooking. It is a simple device and found only on the Gurney-Oxford. One lever controls everything. The fire can be slowed down for hours and revived in a few minutes. An arrangement of flues makes the Gurney-Oxford Oven always uniformly heated—the Gurney-Oxford Oven is never to blame! It will make a good cook a better cook; it does more than its share towards making every meal a success and a pleasure.
