Meeting of City Council

Council Asked to Give Site for Armoury

The council meeting held on Friday was attended by Aldermen Calder, Cosens, Copeland and Thompson in addition to the mayor.

The report of the building inspector Mr. J. A. Biggar was received for the first six months af the current year as follows:

Dear Sirs,—

From January 1st to June 30th, there have been granted 114 building permits, as against 57 during the corresponding months of 1912.

The buildings are classed as follows:

Residences	$107,455
Business Blocks	101,633
Miscellaneous	68,455
Total	$277,543

being a net gain of 147 per cent over the first six months of last year.

In Woodlawn and other subdivisions adjoining the city $30,000 would be a conservative estimate of buildings erected and now under construction which would make a grand total of $307,453.

Some of the most prominent buildings are the Kelowna Central School building, the Willits block, the Casorso block and the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

I may add that the approximate estimates given is in nearly every case from 20 to 40 per cent., below the real cost. Respectfully submitted,

J. A. BIGGAR.
Building Inspector.

The report was commented upon as being extremely creditable to the city and an excellent evidence of prosperity. It was pointed out by the mayor that the Financial Times showed Kelowna to be the highest placed city in the list of building for Western Canada and the second highest in the whole dominion in the latest statistical record.

Major Clarke appeared to discuss with the council the matter of the proposed armory referred to last week. He stated that the government was prepared to erect an armory provided that the city authorities would give a site; the building would compare in size with the new edifice at Vernon. Its cost might be anything from fourteen to twenty thousand dollars and its size would probably be about 120 feet long by 60 or 60 wide. It would be used primarily as an armory and drill hall and if conveniently situated could be used by the cadets and boy scouts.

Its equipment would include gymnastic appliances and it might be used for dances provided they were in aid of charity, the rant in such cases being merely nominal.

The clerk was requested to enter into correspondence with the minister of militia with a view to getting details of size of building and the ground it would occupy.

The mayor pointed out to Major Clarke that the only three po tions of land at the disposal of the city were the park, the exhibition grounds and the sewage ground (laughter.) The exhibition grounds had appeared most suitable because the B. C. Horse, who would use the drill hall most would find it convenient to their mounted parade ground.

Major Clarke observed that such proximity was of no consequence in the case of the mounted troops who could easily ride a mile or so to their drill area: he thought the only possible place was the park and the city might rest assured that the government would only erect such a building as would be an ornament to the park. The corner of the park bordered by Abbott street and the creek was then suggested and considered a suitable spot. Major Clarke in support of his view pointed out that it would be undesirable for cadets, for instance to have to traverse the length of Ellis street to the exhibition grounds at night; he added that the proposed building would also include a miniature shooting range.

The mayor closed the discussion by stating that the city would give a good site if they were satisfied as to the nature and appearance of the armory and he requested the clerk to correspond with Col. Hughes with a view to obtaining details of what the department proposed to erect.

It was proposed bo Alderman Calder and Alderman Cosens that the assessment roll for 1913 as presented by the assessor Mr. P. T. Dunn be accepted. Carried.

It was moved by Alderman Thompson and Alderman Copeland that a Court of Revision be held for hearing and determining any complaints against the assessment on Monday, Aug. 11, at 10 a.m.

A report was received in connection with the prevalence of thistles. Alderman Copeland said that if all thistles were cut down in their green stage the stalks (which were hollow) would fill with water and the roots would be destroyed in addition to which the seedswould not mature and blow about whereas if the weeds were left until they flowered it would then be too late to prevent dissemination by cutting for the seeds would continue to mature after connection with the root had been severed.

A long list of property affected with thistles was produced showing owners of the same and it was deemed advisable to take steps to ensure the extermination of this noxious weed.

Alderman Calder reported that he had visited the C.P.R. agent in reference to putting a colored light on the wharf for the guidance of belated small craft on the lake; it was explained, however, that the wharf which had been discussed in this connection at the last meeting was the ferry wharf as being more generally used for small boats.

On the subjects of lights it was stated that the colored bulbs along the park side walk were dim, and had not been renewed since last season.

The report of the finance committee recommending payment of the following accounts was adopted:

False Bottom Cherry Boxes

Four thousand baskets of cherries, shipped to New York from Wenatchee, Wash., were seized Tuesday by the commissioner of weights and measures who charged that they were short of a quart by more than nine cubic centimeters each. The discovery was made when one of the baskets had been eaten into the false bottom by a mouse.

The third Inter-Valley tennis tournament is on this week at Penticton, commencing Tuesday. Players from all over the Okanagan representing, Vernon, Kelowna, Peachland, Summerland and Penticton are taking part in the contests. Five cups are offered for competition in men's singles, ladies' singles, men's doubles, ladies' doubles and mixed doubles in addition to numerous prizes.

On the opening day of the tournament a dance was held at the Hotel Incola, and a similar event is to take place tonight at the Aquatic Pavilion.

Orangemen Will Celebrate at Enderby

The "Glorious Twelfth" and 223rd anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne will be celebrated in the usual loyal manner by the Orangemen of the valley at Enderby. Some doubt has been felt locally as to whether arrangements could be made for the trip up the valley and it was feared that a smaller affair would have to be got up in a hurry at Kelowna to accommodate the points down the lake. But almost at the last moment the C.P.R. have announced their willingness to run the excursion, and there will no doubt be a large number of people participate from Kelowna, Summerland, Peachland and Penticton.

The departure from Kelowna on the 12th, which is next Saturday, will be by the "Okanagan" which will probably arrive at the wharf a little earlier than usual. The rest of the journey will be by train to Enderby. For the return trip the "Okanagan" will remain at the Landing, the "Aberdeen' making the usual schedule trip down in the afternoon.

The loyal members of Enderby are making extensive preparations for the entertainment of their visitors and a programme of sports, etc., will be included in the day's amusements.

Baseball

Once more our baseball boys drank from the bitter cup of defeat yesterday at Vernon. The game, however was a good game with the exception of the third inning when the Vernonites secured four runs by bunching hits and some loose fielding on the part of the Kelowna team. Kelowna presented a changed line up in this game and the new men worked nicely at the first and third corners, and when the whole team have been together and worked together on the diamond for a week or so and become familiar with each other's style of play the local aggregation will be a hard nut to crack. The new material on the team has added much strength to the hitting and yesterday Williams, who so far has proved so hard for the local players to hit found his task much harder and everybody got busy with the stick and hit hard, the Vernonites fielding saved several good hits. However Kelowna registered six hits while Vernon got eight, but the latter were lucky in getting them in a bunch while the Kelowna hits were scattered. The game closed with the score 5 to 1 in favor of Vernon.

According to reports the Revelstoke team handed Kamloops the most decisive beating of the season at Revelstoke yesterday, the score being, according to a wire received in Vernon was 26 to 5.

Owing to lack of time and space last week we reluctantly omitted to mention the baseball games played by the local aggregation. On Thursday the boys of the Orchard City suffered defeat at the hands of the Revelstoke team by a score of 5 to 0.

On July 2nd the local baseball team journeyed down the lake to Penticton where they played two of the best games of ball ever witnessed in the valley. They defeated Oroville, Wash., in the forenoon by a score of 1 to 0, and in the afternoon suffered defeat by the same score at the hands of the Penticton team, which was reinforced by outside players. Henning being unable to accompany the team left a weak spot in the box which was filled in by Purdy and Tait respectively.

The baseball game at Kamloops last week between Vernon and Kamloops, went only five innings, the score at that stage being 0—0. A dispute arose as to a decision of the umpire and others beside the players took part. The result was that Manager Eastman of the Vernon club was put under arrest and the game called off. The fault however, according to our Kamloops exchange was not Eastman's but the outsiders who "butted-in."

Merchants Association and Credit

At the meeting of the Kelowna Merchants Association last night the subject of giving credit to "slow payers" was again discussed. For a long time it has been felt that some combined action should be taken to stop the increasing burden of bad debts and the doubtful accounts with which the merchants have to contend, and steps are being taken which will help to reduce these to a minimum.

The need of legible signs at the corners of the streets was also brought up, and a resolution passed that the council be urged to provide these. The assistance of the Board of Trade was invoked in pressing the matter upon the council.

Grading is in progress at the end of Pendozi street, being the extreme north end of the new lake-shore road.

The widening of the road through Okanagan Mission from the tennis courts to the Bellevue Hotel is now being carried on and will prove of great benefit when properly completed.

A new telephone has been added to the line at Okanagan Mission and installed at the residence of Dr. Wansborough Jones, the number being 2311.

A considerable portion of Penticton's inhabitants will be visiting Kelowna next Thursday. The occasion is the picnic connected with the Sunday schools, and it is expected that about 250 children, besides a host of parents and friends will take part in the excursion. The day has been declared a civic holiday in Penticton. The Steamer Aberdeen has been chartered to convey the party and will arrive here about 11 a.m.

On returning from the picnic at Okanagan Centre on the 1st inst., one of our well known worthies had the misfortune to upset the buggy, whilst driving along a road which had been recently graded. As a result of the accident he and the fair lady who was with him were thrown out of the vehicle, the lady unfortunately receiving a fine pair of black eyes whilst the gentleman had his chin badly cut! Buggies don't like you B . . . . you really will have to get an auto, Mike's getting one.

We note with great pleasure that building operations are in full swing in this district again. Our progressive friend, Mr. M. Hereron is having another large hay barn built on his ranch, in order that the crop (one of the largest he has had) may be secured against damage by the elements, thereby ensuring his customers the very best grade of hay. The barn, which is being constructed to hold 125 tons of hay is 100 feet long, 54 feet wide and 31 feet high. Mr. G. A. Bowser, the contractor, expects to have the building completed by the end of the week. This is Mr. Hereron's second barn built specially for storing hay, whilst Mr. J. Christian and Mr. H. Geen also possess large barns built expressly for storing their share of Canada's largest crop.

Amongst the several distinguished invalids at the present time are Walter Long, who has undergone an operation; Earl Minto and Sir T. Carson, who are suffering from neuritis.

PROPOSED NATIONAL LIVE STOCK SHOW

Hon. Martin Burrell, minister of agriculture, has appointed a commission to enquire into the possibility of holding a national live stock show on the lines of that at Chicago. The following are the members of the commission' Mr. John Bright, live stock commissioner; Dr. Creamer, western representative of the live stock branch, and Dr. Tolmie of British Columbia. It is thought that later an eastern member may be appointed.

Bill to Reform Calendar

A bill has just been introduced into the British house of commons by Mr. Robert Pearce to reform the calendar by fixing Easter, and increasing the number of bank holidays. In the memorandum attached to the measure, it is stated that the Swiss government, in November, 1910, at the instance of the International Congress of Chambers of Commerce held in London in June, 1910, agreed to take steps for an international diplomatic conference on the subject of fixing Easter and otherwise reforming the calendar. The British government and other European powers had, it was understood, expressed willingness to take part in such a conference.

The bill is intended as a basis for an Imperial conference on the subject, and it proposes that the first of the year should be a bank holiday called New Year Day, but not be a day of the week or of the month or quarter. This leaves for the rest of the year 364 days, which divide into four equal quarters of exactly 13 weeks, divided into two months of 30 days each and one of 31 days. Starting in 1914, Easter Sunday and all the moveable fasts, feasts, and dates dependant upon it would be fixed so as to fall in every year on the same day of the same month, as well as on the same day of the week. April 12 would, it is proposed, then and always be Easter Sunday. Christmas Day, December 25th, would always be on Wednesday. Each day of the month would always fall on the same day of the week. To provide for leap year, one other bank holiday, to be called Leap Year Day, would in leap year be inserted between June 31 and July 1. It would not be a day of the week, month or quarter.

Proposed New Anglican Diocese

Bishop De Pencier has announced that good progress is being made in the proposed division of the present Anglican diocese of New Westminster into two parts, the northern, part of which will be known as the Missionary See of Cariboo. The synod for the election of the new bishop will be assembled in the autumn, and it is hoped that the new diocese will be in active work in the beginning of the new year.

Airship Manufacture Not Profitable

Despite the large subsidies granted by the German government to the Zeppelin company, the balance sheet from her last fiscal year shows a loss of $375,000, a sum representing half the firm's capital. The loss is explained by the long list of disasters that have occurred to the various airships planned by the veteran, Count Zeppelin. Incidentally, the price of a Zeppelin airship has doubled in the last two years, having risen from $125,000 to $250,000.

Using dynamite as a substitute for firecrackers, some men at Nakusp, whose identity provincial police are endeavoring to ascertain blew the corner off the house of D. T. Bulger, shipyards superintendent, and tore a huge hole in the ground during a Fourth of July celebration. Mr. Bulger and wife had left the house a few moments before the explosion, which was caused by several sticks of dynamite. The police believe the explosion was the result of a drunken prank.

Jupiter Pluvius and Jupiter Tonans are vieing with each other in their efforts to show the mortals their power over the elements. So far Jupiter Pluvius wins the laurels. The downpour of Sunday was a record breaker while it lasted.

The city fathers are taking a commendable pride in keeping the business streets clear of paper and rubbish and the residential sections free from weeds and grass. It is to be hoped that the residents and lot owners will co operate with the street committee in this good work. With fertile soil in which all kinds of shade trees grow to perfection and which is at the same time ideal for lawns there is no good reason why one little town by the lake should not become as famous for the beauty of its homes and their surroundings as it now is for its charming situation, its scenery and its orchards.

But no matter how much care and attention may be given to individual homes, if the streets are ill kept, the sidewalks out of repair, vacant lots weed grown and buildings unpainted, the general effect is bad and the well kept home serves only to emphasize the defects of the whole.

It is to correct these evils that in many towns associations of citizens *have been formed for the express pur*pose of cultivating a taste for the beautiful and of improving local conditions. In most cases these have been productive of the greatest good. Interest in things beautiful has been aroused. the practical result of which is seen in clean streets, cleaner lanes, better kept lawns, well painted buildings, more trees and, above all, healthier and happier people.

Irrigation Works in Northern India

The greatest enterprise ever undertaken by British Irrigation engineers, the Lower Bari Doab Canal, in the Punjab has just been completed, and its opening makes a landmark in the wonderful and romantic story of Indian irrigation. The engineering supplement of the London Times contains an account of the completion of this third and last section of the "Triple Canal Project" which is now irrigating vast areas in the Punjab.

The Lower Bari Doab Canal is unusual in construction, for it actually crosses, upon a level, the important river Ravi. The new canal has cost about one and a half millions sterling and it is expected that it will irrigate over 871,000 acres of crops. The Chenab Canal, which is another section of the Triple Project alone irrigates an area equivalent to two-thords of the whole cultivated area af Egypt. The great Punjab canals have done more for they have literally peopled the desert wastes. The cultivators have been established in districts which were formerly quite useless. Their villages are thriving, their land is growing in value, and for them the desert sands have indeed proven golden. The Triple Project cost close to £7,000,000 but it yields to the government a return upon capital outlay of 7½ per cent. Yet it means affluence to the peasantry also, and life in the canal colonies is so popular among the stalwart men of Northern India that the development of irrigation is seriously affecting recruiting for the native army.

In Oregon, says an exchange practically all fruits have been badly damaged by frost. The yield will be much below the average. Parts of Idaho will also have a very light crop.

A joint stock company for the purpose of starting a fur farm has been organized at Exeter, Ont. The territory purchased by the company is to be stocked with muskrat, skunk and mink and later on it is intended to include the breeding of foxes in the foxes in the industry.

An Edmonton fur company is said to have paid more than $10,000 for eleven fox skins this spring. A recent shipment included one pure black fox skin, valued at $1,500 and three handsome pelts, traced with silver, said to be worth $2,500. They were caught in the Peace River country, where the trappers are making efforts to take the animals alive, realizing that they bring more money for breeding purposes than for their skins alone. It is likely that a fox breeding farm will be established on the outskirts of Edmonton this year.

Coming Irrigation Convention at Lethbridge

The "Official Call" of the Western Canada Irrigation Association inviting delegates and the people of western Canada to attend their seventh annual convention to be held in Lethbridge, August 5th, 6th and 7th has been issued from the office of the executive at Calgary, and is both attractive and interesting. Not only will there be an excellent program of addresses by men prominent in irrigation and agriculture in the whole of western Canada and south of the line, but in addition a splendid program of entertainment and amusement has been provided.

Amongst those who will speak is, Mr. W. A. Holabird, who comes representing the International Irrigation Congress, and is general manager of the California Development Company of Los Angeles, Calif. Mr. Wm. Hanley, president of the Oregon Irrigation Congress, The Hon. Neil Neill, trade and Immigration commissioner of the United States and Canada, and Mr. D. H. Bark, engineer in charge of irrigation investigations for the United States government in the state of Idaho. Mr. L. O. Armstrong, former industrial commissioner of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Montreal, will deliver an illustrated lecture on "The West of Pioneer Days," and illustrate same by up-to-date moving pictures. Dr. J. G. Rutherford, Supt. of Agricultural and animal husbandry branches of the Canadian Pacific Railway will tell of the work of the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome John H. Lewis, state engineer for Oregon will speak on "Irrigation practised in Oregon" and Prof. F. H. Newall, director of the United States Reclamation service, will talk on the "Economic Aspects of Irrigation" as adaptable to Canada."

Amongst the local speakers who will address the delegates will be Prof. W. J. Elliott, principal of the government agricultural school at Olds, Alberta, who will tell what the provincial government propose to do along education on irrigation lines, Dr. Allison Smith, of the Cypress Hills Water Users association who has made a special success of his farm at Medicine Hat, and who will tell the farmers of the difficulties he encountered in his pioneer days and how he overcome them, Mr. W. H. Fairfield, superintendent of the Dominion Experimental farm at Lethbridge who is probably the most noted exponent of alfalfa culture in the west, will talk on the growth of his valuable crop, and Walter Huckvale of Medicine Hat will make a special address to farmers. It is expected that Mr. E. F. Drake, superintendent of irrigation of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, will be on hand, and in addition the ministers of agriculture of the three western provinces will take an active part. Premier Sifton, Premier Scott, and Premier McBride are all expected to be present and with the active campaign that the association is undertaking, it is expected that the convention will be largely attended and be one of great interest and value to the delegates.

One of the morning's will be given up to a motor trip to the irrigated districts, the coal mines, the famous viaduct, 317 feet high by over a mile long, the government experimental farm and other points of interest. There will be a luncheon on Mr. D. J. Whitney's farm and the proceedings will close with a banquet to the visiting delegates by the board of trade.

Increasing Emigration From England to Canada

The total immigration to Canada during April and May, 1913 was 146,560, made up of 56,940 British, 33,507 American and 56,613 from all other countries.

During April and May, 1912 the total was 129,453 composed of 42,279 British 39,595 American and 40,579 from all other countries.

The increase is 13 percent. The figures show an increase of nearly 10,000 from Britain, with a corresponding decrease from the American movement.

Letters of a Self-raised Office Boy to His Pal

Dear Sid,—You know how I have been telling you of the canopy of fadeless blue and of the smiling skies of our peerless Valley. I'm airaid, Sid, I'll have to eat those words, we have been getting large and generous helpings of wetness. It reached the grand finaleon Sunday last. On that day Jupiter Pluvius loosed the flood gates, and believe me boy she sure did rain some, you couldn't see over half a block away. Some of the people here tell me they have noticed the skin growing between their toes, if it don't stop soon we'll have a grand settlement of web-feet.

Do you remember those Arabs what you told me you saw in Seattle? We are going to have them at the opera house next week. From what you said and from what we hear from others they are about as good tumblers as the Kelowna ball team!

In speaking of the ball team I see several new players around town for which heaven be duly thanked. We either need some new players or else an infusion of ginger into the ones we've got. But never mind, as I have remarked oft before, you can't keep a squirrel on the ground, and our team is sure to get a strangle hold on fate and wrest victory from her tenacious grasp.

On the first our lacrosse team journeyed to Kamloops to play their team or what by courtesy was called the Kamloops team, but in reality was made up princiaplly of base hirelings from your own dear Vancouver. Kelowna was conceded about as much chance as a snow-ball in the realm of Mephistofleas (I know that's spelled wrong but you know what I mean). Did we lose? (Altogether now!) We did not! The game was a tie, which was really a great victory. The team plays Armstrong today and the boys swear to win or else leave their battered and bruised bodies on the battle field.

Oh! Sid I almost forgot to tell you that we are going to have an "Uncle Tom's Cabin at the opera house on the 30th of July. This one is the real thing, with a band and real blood hounds. They are going to give a street parade and one performance and we are assured of a fine bill.

Well, Sid, I guess that's about all all. A short whi e ago, Mr. Hudson, a local photographer, but one of national reputation came to the boss and asked him, if he got a moviog picture camera and took views in Kelowna and the valley would he run them in the opera house and Dreamland. The boss said he sure would, so they got together and determined that the irst picture would be of the Dominion Day sports at Penticton. Mr. Hudson went down and secured some fine views, one in particular being the Kelowna people coming off the Aberdeen, these pictures we will show in the near future.

Au revoir Sid, be a good boy to your parents and heaven will reward you. How about that marriage of yours, has it fallen through? If it has, you had better come to Kelowna to heal your broken heart. We have some of the finest menders of broken hearts in the world right here in Kelowna.

Your old pal,
JIMMY

A law which went into effect this month makes murder in Washington no longer punishable with death. Capital punishment may be meted out only for treason, while one who takes the life of another will face life imprisonment.

Boy Scout Notes

BY MAGISTER

In continuation of the list of ranks that of Chaplain is the next quoted:—

A Chaplain is a minister of religion nominated by the local association or Scoutmaster to develop the religious training of a troop. His badge consists of a green fleur-de-lys enamelled pin with a cross superimposed. It will be noticed that the chaplain may be appointed from any denomination.

For the purpose of enabling a local association to register a troop of Scouts, ladies may, if recommended by the district commissioner, be designated and recognized as Scoutmasters but warrants will only be issued to them under special circumstances.

Honorary Scoutmaster.

Headquarters will consider applications for this rank for a retired Scoutmaster who wishes to remain attached to the troop of which he was in charge, or for other persons specially recommended by the commissioner.

Assistant Scoutmaster. ...

The only difference between the qualifications for assistant scoutmaster and scoutmaster is that he may be not less than 18 years of age. The distinctive mark is a red plume in the hat badge and a red shoulder knot.

Commissioners are appointed to act in each province or portion thereof.

The duties of a commissioner are:

(A) To inspect troops and advise how to conduct them on proper lines.

(B) To test badge wearers in knowledge of their subjects while having power to withdraw the badge from them if inefficient.

(C) To secure the harmonious cooperation of all scoutmasters in the district.

(D) To recommend to headquarters the grant and withdrawal of all warrants, and the formation and suspension of associations af troops.

(E) To foster and encourage the movement generally throughout the district.

Here follows a list of badges and decorations; it is a very common thing to hear "What is the object of the scout training," asked by people who have not given the matter any careful consideration, and for their edification we here submit the practical side of the movement with a view to showing how very useful is the knowledge which all scouts must acquire to make them self-reliant. There are over fifty "Proficiency Badges" each requiring a considerable amount of study and practical knowledge and the value of the uses to which some of these might be put cannot be overestimated.

"Ambulance."

To acquire this qadge a scout must know:— The fireman's life; how to drag an insensible man with a rope without injuring him; how to improvise a stretcher; how to fling a lifeline; the position of the main arteries; how to stop bleeding from vein, artery and internal or external bleeding; how to improvise splints and to diagnose and bind a fractured limb; the Schafer method of artificial respiration; how to deal with choking, burns, poisons, grit in the eye, sprains and bruises as the examiners may require. And also the laws of health and sanitation as given in the handbook including the dangers of smoking incontinence, want of ventilation and lack of cleanliness.

"An Airman."

Must make a working model of an aeroplane or dirigible which will fly at least twenty-five yards; and must have a knowledge of the theory of aeroplanes and dirigibles and their engines, and of balloons.

"Bee-Farmer."

Must have a general knowledge gained in practice, of swarming, hiving, hives, and general apiculture, including a knowledge of the use of artificial comb, etc.

"Blacksmith"

Must be able to up-set and weld a one-inch iron rod, make a horse shoe, know how to tyre a wheel, use a sledge hammer and forge; how to shoe and rough a orse correctly. and be able temper iron and steel.

"A Boatman."

Must be able to manage a boat single-handed, rowing, punting and sculling over the stern; to steer a boat under oars and bring her alongside a vessel and landing stage. He must be able to box the compass and know to tow or be towed. He must be able to distinguish the various classes of vessels by their rig; to make the various bends and hitches, knots and splices, and to throw a life line.

Dominion Aid for B.C. Agriculture

The agreement between the British government and the Dominion government providing for the expenditure of British Columbia's share of the appropriation under the Aid of Agriculture Act, has been signed by the federal authorities. An order-in-council was passed on Friday last approving of the details of the agreement. The total amounts to $47,334.76.

The largest amount is $7,500, which is to be devoted to demonstration work in the growing of fodder roots, grain, etc. Another $7.500 is to be used towards the appointment of provincial instructors or inspectors along the various lines of agricultural instruction and education. Five thousand dollars is to be spent on demonstration dairy farm work and $5,000 on demonstration work in horticulture for winter short courses of two weeks duration with Farmers' institute all through the province. Another $2,500 is to be devoted to the conducting of short courses in domestic science, hygiene, sanitation, home nursing, dressmaking, cooking, etc. For cow testing work there is placed in the agreement $2,500. For school gardens, towards the cost of supplying seed, giving instruction, etc., there is to be spent $1,000. For demonstration field work there is $2,500, and $1.000 towards the holding of stock judging competitions, while $2,500 is to be used toward the cost of preparing and printing bulletins and circulars of instruction.

The remainder of the total of $47.-334.76 is to be devoted to contingencies, connected with the successful carrying on of any of the above lines.

Scottish Home Rule

The bill to extend home rule to Scotland passed its second reading in the House of Commons by a majority of forty-five votes. It will for the present go no further. There is no immediate prospect of, nor even general demand for Scottish home rule but the debate to which it gave rise is important as indicating the probable course of future events. As one of the speakers remarked, the completion of devolution must soon arrive, and the setting up of the constitution of the United Kingdom will lead to the creation at no distant time of a truly imperial parliament, in which the Overseas Dominions will be represented For this reason, the at present merely academic question of Scottish home rule is worth examination, writes a London correspondent of the Montreal Witness.

Last Saturday at the New Westminster a crowd of ranchers, police and trackers were being paid their fees for attending the two Indian outlaw trials and it is stated on good authority that $50,000 will not cover the cost of the two convictions.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories, and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for the lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal subdivisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

IN THE WORLD OF SCIENCE

COMICAL WAYS OF CRABS

Peculiarities of the Crab Before Reaching the Tinned Stage Awaken Curiosity of the Naturalists.

The peculiar fascination of crustacea consists largely in the extraordinary variety of bizarre forms which they have assumed under the pressure (so to speak) of their environment — infinite variations on much the same theme of joints and legs. Furnished by nature with a beautifully articulated suit of armour (which they are compelled to discard and reproduce from time to time to allow for growth), evolution has had to play some queer pranks with them to equip them for the very varied situations in life in which we find them — exaggerating or diminishing out of all sense of proportion (according to our ideas of congruity) a limb here, a joint or series of joints there; tucking one part of the body under another; flattening into a plate in one case, drawing out into a mere thread in another; and thus and in other ways giving rise to the quaintest series of forms to be met with in the animal kingdom. Then their curiously intelligent habits are no less fascinating to watch — their habit, for instance, of carefully testing their environment with their feelers; their alternately retiring and pugnacious disposition; their inimitable gait and comical ways of walking off sideways and of "backing." All these features combine to awaken our curiosity and strike our sense of humour. Added to this lack of dull monotony in the group is the additional advantage to the student that crustacea, where they occur (and they occur practically everywhere), are comparatively easy to capture and to keep in activity. They do not require shooting or a laborious hauling of nets, or even digging up to any extent. A dipping or a towing net or a simple trap is generally all that is necessary to ensnare them. No wonder, therefore, that the crustacea are a favourite group with naturalists, both professional and amateur.

A LIGHTNING PHENOMENON

Reports of the occurrence of globular or ball lightning during recent severe thunderstorms in Europe have again drawn attention to this rare and singular electrical manifestation. Half a century ago the reality of this phenomenon was much doubted, but the gradual accumulation of trustworthy evidence has now thoroughly demonstrated its actual existence. The records agree in describing the appearance as that of a luminous ball, generally of a bluish colour, and varying in diameter from a few inches to as much as three feet. The sphere has a sluggish motion, either falling slowly from the clouds or drifting over the surface of the ground, the movement always being such as to give the impression that the thunderbolt is of material heavier than air. It remains visible for several seconds or even minutes, and as a rule finally explodes with great violence. The disappearance is generally followed by a strong smell of ozone in the locality. During the period of visibility the ball often behaves in an extremely peculiar manner. Sometimes it seems propelled along horizontally by a feeble air current or by electric forces. Frequently it has been seen to follow the course of a conductor, such as a water main, and it almost always explodes on coming into contact with a sheet of water such as a pond or stream. The immense store of energy which the ball undoubtedly contains is evidently not held in the shape of a surface electric charge, as it is not destroyed by contact with ordinary conductors. Thus the ball may touch earth, pass down a chimney, traverse a room, and so on, without being dissipated, although it has thus had abundant opportunity of giving up any surface charge of electricity. It is indeed this very tenacity of existence which has in the past caused certain physicists to be rather sceptical of the phenomenon, while so far at least all attempts to produce analogous appearances experimentally have been entirely unsuccessful.

Stinging Trees

In the southern part of Formosa grows a tree, about 10ft. in height, having long leaves which possess the property of the nettle, and produce a maddening irritation of the skin when incautiously touched. The natives call it chiao-jen-kou, meaning "man-biting-dog." Mr. Tokutaro Ito, of Tokio, who has recently made a botanical exploration in Formosa, suggests the name "viper tree" as a more distinctly warning title. There is another species of "stinging tree" in Australia, which attains a height of 15 feet, and the effect of whose touch appears to be even more maddening to men and animals. Horses stung by it have to be shot, and dogs, when affected by the poison of the leaves, run about whining and biting themselves.

Spiders' Threads in Astronomy.

The cultivation for scientific uses of certain species of spiders, solely for the fine threads they weave, has an important bearing upon astronomy. No substitute for the spider's thread hsa yet been found for bisecting the screw of the micrometer used for determining the positions and motions of the stars. Not only because of the remarkable fineness of the threads are they valuable but because of their durable qualities. The threads of certain spiders raised for astronomical purposes withstand changes in temperature, so that often in measuring sun spots they are uninjured when the heat is so great that the lenses of the micrometer eyepieces are cracked. These spider lines are only one fifth to one-seventh of a thousandth of an inch in diameter, compared with which the threads of the silkworm are large and clumsy.

PLAY WITH DEATH

Men Who Are Reckless in Handling High Explosives.

STORIES BY HUDSON MAXIM.

The Accident by Which the Inventor's Left Hand Was Blown Off—John Bender's Contempt For Dynamite—Mixing Fire and Nitroglycerin.

"It is practically impossible," writes Hudson Maxim in Adventure, "to make the ordinary laboring man appreciate the necessity of care in the safe handling of explosives, and the life of the careful man is always endangered by the actions of the careless one.

"After I had sold the works at Maxim and had invented motorite I needed a place in which to make the material and hired a branch of the works there for that purpose. It was winter. My wife had accompanied me as a precautionary measure. She was sitting in the laboratory to keep warm, near a big barrel stove charged with bituminous coal.

"On entering the laboratory for something my wife asked me what was in those two tin pails sitting near the stove. She said that she had a suspicion it might be nitroglycerin, and she informed me that one of my men had just been in stirring the fire and that the sparks flew out in all directions, some of them lighting in the buckets to be quenched on top of the oily liquid.

"'Horrors!' I said. 'It is nitroglycerin!'

"I called the man who had placed it there and told him to take it away. As it was necessary to keep the material from freezing he took it into the boiler house near by. A little later on, going into the boiler house, I saw one of the men stirring the fire while the other was standing with his coattails outstretched in either hand, forming a shield to keep the sparks from flying into the nitroglycerin.

"In the manufacture of high explosives and in experimenting with them a little absentmindedness, a very slight lack of exact caution, a seemingly insignificant inadvertence for a moment, may cost one a limb or his life. The accident that cost me my left hand is a case in point.

"On the day preceding that accident I had had a gold cap put on a tooth. In consequence the tooth ached throughout the night and kept me awake a greater part of the time. In the morning I rose early and went down to my factory at Maxim, N. J. In order to test the dryness of some fulminate compound I took a little piece of it, about the size of an English penny, broke off a small particle, placed it on a stand outside the laboratory and, lighting a match, touched it off.

"Owing to my loss of sleep the night before my mind was not so alert as usual, and I forgot to lay aside the remaining piece of fulminate compound, but instead held it in my left hand. A spark from the ignited piece of fulminate compound entered my left hand between my fingers, igniting the piece there, with the result that my hand was blown off to the wrist.

"Once when entering my storage magazine at Maxim, in which were several carloads of dynamite along with 37,000 pounds of nitrogelatin, I saw John Bender, one of my employees, calmly but emphatically opening a case of dynamite with a hammer and a chisel. I promptly discharged him.

"Not long afterward the innkeeper at Farmingdale called on me to buy some dynamite and said he had engaged Bender to blow the stumps out of his meadow lot. I told him Bender was courting death for himself and everybody around when handling dynamite, but Boniface still wanted Bender to do the work.

"'Well,' said I, 'the dynamite you want is 16 cents a pound, but if John Bender does not succeed in blowing himself up and killing himself with the dynamite you can have it for nothing. On the other hand, if he does blow himself up you must pay for the dynamite.'

"A few days later there was some hitch in Bender's exceptional luck. A particularly refractory old stump had resisted a couple of Bender's dynamic attacks. The failure to dislodge the stump Bender took as a personal affront because it reflected upon his skill as a stump blaster.

"'Next time,' said he, 'something is going to happen.' He placed about twenty pounds of dynamite under the deep rooted veteran, touched it off, and several things happened in very quick succession. The huge stump let go its hold on earth and proceeded to hunt Bender.

"It was a level race, but the stump won. Striking Bender on the north quarter, it stove in four ribs, dislocated several joints and damaged him in several other respects and particulars. Boniface came to settle for the dynamite.

"'Sixteen cents a pound,' I said. 'Bender hasn't a chance in a hundred. Wait till the doctors are through with him.'

"'What do you say to a compromise,' suggested Boniface, 'of 8 cents a pound? For, really, I do not believe that Bender is more than half dead.' And the account was settled on that basis."

Kind words are the brightest of some flowers. They make a paradise of the humblest home.
