POWER PLANT IN DISCUSSION

The Unsatisfactory Main Shaft - A Considerable Extension of the Plant May Soon be Necessary for Power Purposes - More Arc Lamps Wanted

It was hard work getting together a quorum to conduct the City's business last Monday, and it was not until after eight that the meeting started. The members present were Aldermen Cox, Ball, Bailey and Mayor DeHart, the business unimportant and varied.

The usual preliminaries having been gone through, the city clerk read a tender from the Orchard City Record for printing the municipal voters' list. It was mentioned that this work was now in hand and would be finished on the morrow.

A letter was read from a firm of steel bridge manufacturers. This letter was ordered to be filed.

The mayor, by way of a casual remark, stated that some of the quotations for steel bridges might come in handy later, as he had heard from people along Mission Creek, that some danger of washouts was likely if the creeks overflowed again this year.

Several letters were next read, quoting on the next issue of the city's debentures, including a telegram from Brendt Noxon & Co., also some quotations for the investment of the city's sinking fund in five per cent. debentures in the cities of Fernie, Kamloops and Revelstoke. It was decided that the matter should be left in the hands of the finance committee, to go in to and report.

A tender from Mr. G. A. Fisher, quoting a price of $75 for auditing the city's books was next read. It was mentioned that the council had been in the habit of paying $50 annually for this work during the last three years, but taking into consideration the increase in the city's financial undertakings, the tender of G. A. Fisher was recommended as suitable, and the finance committee were instructed to look into the matter, with power to act.

The following accounts were referred to the finance committee to be paid if found correct:

C.P.R. undercharge on carting shaft	$9 00
C. Blackwood, teaming on street	20 25
Miss J. Wild, typing by-laws	2 70
W. C. Russell, inspecting wiring	24 00

Mention was made of the various houses being wired for electric light. Mayor DeHart said he was pleased to see so many as 24 houses being connected up with the lighting system during one month and hoped the figures and connections would continue.

The pound report from Oct. 14, to Nov. 23rd, showed an amount of $11 coming to the city.

Ald. Bailey reported on a visit to the power house with reference to the main shaft having been bent out of true or else not properly straightened. He suggested that the council should pay the account of the Vancouver Engineering Works for straightening the shaft, as in one of the letters received it was mentioned that the work was done to the satisfaction of Mr. Gilmore. This Mr. Gilmore, it seems was a government inspector, and having once passed through his hands as a satisfactory job, was indisputable with the Engineering Works.

Ald. Ball did not agree with paying the account, but considered, that the account should be held in abeyance until a reply was received from the Engineering Works.

Reference was made to the remarks of Messrs. Downey and Peck, when they visited the plant some time ago, as to the shaft being untrue, and it was considered absurd that a jar of any description could occur when the shaft was in transit.

Ald. Cox was opinion that the shaft never left the works straight, and that no jar had been experienced when it was in transit. He thought that the only satisfactory remedy was to have a new shaft.

Mayor DeHart was also of the opinion that a new shaft was necessary, and that it would not be long before an extra unit was required on the plant, in order to supply several plants in town with power. He had received word that Mr. D. Lloyd-Jones would use electric power if it was obtainable, as also would Mr. J. B. Anderson both for sawmilling purposes. He did not consider there would be any difficulty in getting 100 horse-power taken up through the town. The cost of this extension would be between five and six thousand dollars, but it was a question that sould be referred to the incoming council.

A short discussion ensued with reference to the exciter at the power house, it being explained that a new one was being sent.

The question of lighting Ellis St. was next brought up, Mayor DeHart stating that incandescent lamps would be placed up at an early date.

Ald. Cox was of the opinion that an arc light should be placed on Ellis Street, as there were some 20 or 30 houses at present without a light of any description.

A long discussion ensued as to the advisability of turning the arc light transformer at its utmost capacity it being considered that at present, it was working 24 lights which was sufficient.

The locality where the only available arc light should be placed, came under discussion, it being agreed that if it was possible to put up an arc light, it should be placed at J. Fletcher's corner.

Ald. Ball considered that a light was badly needed down the street in question, but suggested that as one light was considered enough for two blocks in other parts of the town, that one arc light would be sufficient to light the upper portion of Ellis st. No definite action, however, was taken in the matter.

Ald. Bailey reported on a meeting of the Police Commissioners, and advised the council that the case which was brought to their notice with reference to Mr. Todd and relative to which Messrs. Todd and Morris appeared before the council last week, should not receive consideration.

He would have liked to have seen the matter brought to justice, but the evidence in the case was only circumstantial, and he would not advise the council to take any steps. Mr. Greenshields, when going over the case with him, had stated that a similar case to the one in question was fought by the postal authorities not long ago. The law-breaker was traced and experts present to give their evidence, but a lawyer for the defence tore the evidence all to shreds, and the case was lost. He considered it was a dangerous thing for the city to take up, but thought that if Mrs. Todd would lay the information, the matter could be taken up without it costing a cent to the parties agrieved.

Ald. Cox did not like to see the case dropped, and said he would like to see the parties concerne take action in the matter.

Ald. Bailey further stated that in reference the dog tax, Police Hidson had agreed to go round and collect, and all who refused to pay would have their names handed in by the 15th of the month. Provision was also made for a special constable to take the place of Police Hidson, when he was away at Vernon, with reference to a horse stealing case, it being stated that he was subpœnaed to attend on Wednesday. It was agreed that a special should be put on.

Ald. Cox asked if something could not be done to turn off the incandescent street lights in the early morning, as there was a lot of light going to waste. No action, however, was taken in this matter.

The council then adjourned, to meet again at the call of the Mayor.

Summary of B. C. Winnings at Spokane

Kelowna Heads the Province

The statements made by many that the exhibit sent to Spokane this year by Kelowna, did not come up to anticipations or, in other words was a failure, is severely repudiated by looking over the complete official prize list just received.

In comparison with other points in B. C., Kelowna makes an exceptional showing, and a glance at the following list of prizes won by B. C. exhibitors will show how thoroughly we beat the other towns and districts of the province.

The following figures are taken from the official prize list set out in the December bulletin of the National Apple Show, Spokane.

OKANAGAN DISTRICT

Town	Amt.	1sts	2nds
Kelowna	$301	11	5
Salmon Arm	$72	2	2
Vernon	$56	7	6

KOOTENAY DISTRICT

Nelson	$17	3	4
Kaslo	$16	1	5
Willow Point	$12	1	1
Hanops	$5	1	1
Needles	$4	0	2

OTHER DISTRICTS

Grand Forks	$8	1	1
Spences Bridge	$5	1	1

Thus it will be seen that the Okanagan district carried off eighty-five per cent of the total prize-money, while Kelowna was responsible for over three-fifths of the total prize money taken away by British Columbia exhibitors.

It is also interesting to note that the majority of districts received financial aid in some way or other from public bodies whereas Kelowna's exhibit had no outside finances to help it along. Vernon's exhibit it is understood cost somewhere in the neighborhood of two thousand dollars and took a whole season to prepare. Mayor De Hart collected his exhibit in ten days.

The fact that with such a small exhibit Kelowna has won such a large share of the prizes, shows that we lead the way in the great fruit-growing province of Canada, and it is only fair that due credit be given Mayor De Hart and Mr Gibb who were responsible for an exhibit ever leaving this point to earn such distinction in the United States.

Kelowna Orchardist Visits Fruit Centres

Increases Confidence in the Kelowna District.

Mr. S. Sproul returned last week from a most interesting trip to the coast districts, taking in the Westminster and Spokane shows, and a chat with him elicited many facts of interest to the farmers and fruit-growers of this district.

Mr. Sproul, in company with his father and mother, left Kelowna on October 12th, and made a very pleasant and quick ride to Vancouver in just 24 hours. A very enjoyable week was spent here in visiting a brother and family, with whom many of the beauty spots were visited. Vancouver has made big progress since Mr. Sproul's last visit ten years ago. It was then a city of 30,000 inhabitants, and has now reached 115,000.

Whilst at Vancouver the Westminster fair was visited, and Mr. Sproul was enthusiastic over the good work done there by the Kelowna exhibit. Mr. D. Gellatly and family, whom Mr. Sproul calls the "Tomato King of the Okanagan," and other Kelowna friends were met, and a balloon ascent witnessed.

Victoria was next visited, after an interesting run on the fine C.P.R. steamer Princess Charlotte. Mr. Sproul's sister, Mrs. F. H. Stephenson, resides here, and his daughter, Pearl, is also there taking a college course. Victoria has increased her population by 25,000 during the past ten years. A very fine city, Mr. Sproul thinks, and bound to go ahead. Okanagan friends were also met there, including Dr. Gaddes and the Hon. Price Ellison.

Okanagan fruit commanded a good price at the coast, apples selling for $2.25 to $2.75 retail, twice as much as coast grown fruit, the flavor of which is as turnips compared with the fruit of the interior. The same thing was noticed at Seattle, the next place visited, the fruit of the interior states being so much superior to that grown around Seattle.

A trip over the Cascade mountain, which includes a tunnel 2¾ miles long, through which trains are run by electricity, and Spokane was reached in time for the great apple show. Spokane is in the centre of a fine fruit country, and is a favored city in the way of possessing abundance of cheap power drawn from the numerous falls on the Spokane river. There are eleven railroads running into Spokane and three more building, despatching 33 trains daily for various points.

The Apple Show from the 20th to the 25th of November, said Mr. Sproul, was good, and an education in itself to the fruit-grower. It proved conclusively where the good fruit came from. Apart from any bias which a man might have for his own district, it was generally conceded that the judging had not been in accord with the popular verdict, the Okanagan deserving a much higher place than was awarded to it. A stand, displaying Kelowna's fruit and literature, was a good suggestion from Mr. Sproul for next year's show.

Returning via Keremeos and Penticton, Mr. Sproul came back more fully convinced of the soundness of the claims made for the Okanagan as a banner fruit-growing district. Whilst many of the points visited have undoudted futures before them, yet none have so much reason to look forward to a continual increase in population and importance as the Kelowna district.

Chas. Hehner left this morning for Toronto where he will take part in a happy event. He will also while away confer with the Department of Agriculture with the idea of placing upon the market a special spray he has invented for destroying San Jose scale. The Government has already tried his preparation, and found it satisfactory, and consequently have written him in respect to the matter, as the disease is breaking out in great force in Ontario.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING

Resolution to be Submitted to Meeting of Associated Boards of Trade - Committee Appointed to Consider the Extension of the Telephone System.

The usual monthly meeting of the Board of Trade was held on Wednesday evening in the school-room in the Keller block, only a small attendance being present. Mr. DuMoulin, the vice-president, was in the chair.

After the minutes the following correspondence was read:

From Rod and Gun, B.C. Develoment Co., Fruit Magazine, Bulman Bros., Mail Publishing Co., and Westward Ho! re advertising. Referred to publicity committee.

From the secretary of the Spokane Apple Show, thanking the Board of Trade for the silver cup they had presented, and stating that the same had been won by Messrs. Tedford Bros., of Wenatchee, Washington; and from Telford Bros., thanking the Board for the cup won by them. Filed.

From the Department of Agriculture, re the resolution of the Board in reference to the fumigating of nursery stock, and promising the same attention.

From the Department of Marine and Fisheries, stating that it was impossible to stock the lake with whitefish, as the nearest hatcheries were at Winnipeg, and transportation would be too great; and from Prof. Prince, pointing out that whitefish could only be caught with a net, and could not be taken with a hook and line.

A letter from L. J. Hill, of the C.N.R., stated in reply to the secretary's remarks on the advisability of a line from Penticton to Oroville that the country so far had not received any serious attention, but that it would be taken into consideration later.

J. Carsorso wrote asking that the Board of Trade would take steps to have better facilities made for the hauling of produce to and from the new C.P.R. wharfe, stating that the city council should be approached to do their share and the C.P.R. to do likewise. It was agreed to refer the matter to the city council to see what could be done, and that the council should be asked to confer with the C.P.R. on the matter.

The committee appointed presented the following resolutions to be brought up at the Associated Boards of Trade next January:

(1.) Whereas the political representation of the Okanagan Valley in the Provincial Legislation is far short of what its population entitles it to, this meeting respectfully requests the Legislative Assembly of B. C. to sub-divide the said valley into thre electoral districts.

(2.) This meeting urges upon the Post Master General the importance of appointing a mail clerk on the S.S. Okanagan on the Okanagan Lake, without delay.

(3.) This meeting urges upon the C.P.R. the necessity of keeping a daily steam boat service on the Okanagan Lake all the year round.

(4.) This meeting requests the Hon. Minister of Agriculture to establish an experimental station in the Okanagan.

These resolutions were adopted by the members present, it being agreed that they should be brought before the associated boards.

The question of the disposal of the land won at last year's Spokane Apple Show was brought up, it being mentioned that Mr. Gibb, when at Spokane did not have time to look over the property.

Mayor DeHart explained that the land in question was valuable, and was irrigated by means of a pipe system.

Mr. D. W. Sutherland moved that means should be taken to find out the value of the land.

Mr. C. B. Daniel suggested that the banks in the localities should be written to and an estimate on their value obtained in that manner also that the district assessor be asked to value the land.

A long discussion ensued with reference to the arrangements at the C.P.R. track, which resulted in Mayor DeHart drawing a map on the blackboard, showing the land occupied by the C.P.R. and by other parties.

Mr. Leckie did not agree that the C.P.R. arrangements for loading and unloading would be adequate, The matter, however, was left with the council to confer with C. P. R. Mr. Leckie next stated that when he was at the Dunsmuir Ranch at Shorts Point, he was informed that the Vernon Telephone Co. were c ntemplating installing a telephoe at that point. He considered that Kelowna should make some move in that direction, as if the other side of the lake was connected up with Kelowna it would bring trade. He had spoken to Mr. Millie with reference to the matter, and had learned that the chief dfficulty was that the cable was working nearly all the time and would not stand more connections. Mr. Leckie considered that another cable should be laid across the lake, so as to coraal some business there.

It was the opinion of the board that steps should be taken in this direction, it being decided that Messrs. Leckie and Hayman be appointed a committee to look into the matter.

Mr. Kerr made mention of the success of Mr. F. R. E. DeHart at the Spokane Show, and suggested that this was a fitting opportunity to congratulate Mr. DeHart and Mr. Gibb on the success. He also mentioned that there was a deficit which might be discussed.

Upon motion it was agreed to thank Mr. DeHart for the advertisement he had given the valley by his exhibit this year, and also to provide for the deficit up to $150.

Mr. DeHart thanked the Board of Trade for their kindness in this respect, and said that if the district exhibit had fallen to Kelowna as it should have done, he would have been ahead.

Mr. Kerr moved that a list should be prepared giving the total amount of prize money won by Kelowna during 1909, and that a committee be appointed to prepare such a list. It was agreed that Mayor De Har, Mr. R. B. Kerr, and Mr. G. C. Rose should form a committee to draw up the pamphlet, and have 1,000 copies printed.

Mention was made of the fruit sent by the the government to the Old Country in charge of coast men, it being considered that a man from the Okanagan Valley should be s nt, as 90 per cent. of the fruit came from this district.

It was agreed to write the Spokane Apple Show directors, pointing out that a certain amount of unfairness in judging was experienced this year, and that the board would not consider showing again if like judges were put on in future.

The matter of entertaining delegates to the Associated Boards of Trade meeting referred to the reception committee to be appointed at next meeting.

Mr. McTavish brought up the matter of obtaining a permanent meeting place, no no steps, however, being taken.

Mr. Leckie was appointed auditor of the books for the year, and with this the meeting adjourned.

First Mate of S.S. Okanagan Dies at Vernon.

Last Wednesday, the Aberdeen and the Okanagan were at the wharfe together both flying their flags at half mast. The casual visitor to the wharf perhaps did not notice the fact, but it was not long before the reason was circulated around the wharf. Steve Seaman, the first mate of the Okanagan was dead. It is only two weeks since he was admitted into the Vernon hospital suffering from typhoid fever, and although the reports had not been very favorable, very few thought that the dread fever would eventually take him away.

The death occurred Wednesday morning, and the gloom which it was noticed had come over the boats' staffs spoke of the high esteem in which their late colleague had been held by them. The news will be received both up and down the lake with sympathy and regret.

The funeral is to take place on Friday at Vernon, a number of the boat's staff attending.

J. N. Cameron left this morning on a business visit to Vernon.

Examinations are now in progress at the High School.

CANADIAN NAVY.

Editor Orchard City Record,

Sir,—In your editorial on the Canadian navy question you infer that the chief objectors to a local navy are the ship-builders of the old country who are after contracts. I think that statement is hardly in accordance with the facts. No doubt a local navy is bound to come sooner or later, but the present extremely dangerous European situation cannot be ignored, and if we possessed a local navy at the present time we should not as a partner in the firm of John Bull & Co sacrifice the strength of the of the home fleet, or concentrate all our attention on our own navy to the detriment of that squadron which must always remain our only real protection. It guarantees the heart of the empire, and at the same time the empire itself from disaster. A local navy, if efficient, will guarantee us against a few individual commerce destroyers which might break through the British cordon. I refer to a possible war with Germany and her allies, and it is only by a study of the concrete conditions of the particular conflict we have in mind that we can arrive at a sane conclusion. Our local fleet, for decades to come, would only be a mouthful for the fleet of any great naval power—Germany, for instance—if the Royal navy were defeated. It is as much our duty as the motherland's to keep the premier fleet up to the mark, and our local fleet must be regarded as of minor importance from a strategical and practical view-point. With the supremacy of the home fleet assured by the combined efforts of the British Empire, our local fleet might indeed do good service in protecting our ports and commerce, but it would hardly render any practical aid to Britain's battle fleet in a great naval action. Germany is only a few hours steam from Sheerness, and a naval campaign might easily be decided before our local fleet got well started, supposing we should aspire to a battle-ship fleet in the future. A Canadian commerce-protecting fleet is a logical ambition; a battleship fleet (I refer to the future) would be a strategical blunder.

I cannot agree with your statement that Canada would be fulfilling her duty to the empire and herself by building a "tramp" destroying fleet, which for years to come could only play a minor and comparatively insignificant part in a great war, and could only be of any practical value if we assure the supremacy of the Royal navy. There is no reason why Canada should not build her local fleet herself with the aid of a few British experts, and your statements on this side of the case are hardly warranted.

I would suggest a debate some time this winter in town, to talk the matter over, and promote local interest, and remain, cordially yours,

OLD SALT.

MADAM SATAN

The May Roberts Gillard Company, who are putting "Madam Satan" at the Opera on Saturday night, come here with a big reputation, and should draw a crowded house. In Calgary where they played for six weeks, The Herald says: "May Robert Gillard is probably the finest comedy actress Calgary has ever seen."

The Edmonton Journal says: "Mr. and Mrs. Gillard are the finest actors Edmonton has had the pleasure of seeing for a very long time."

This company should especially appeal to the ladies of this city, as all the costumes worn in the production are brought direct from Paris by May Roberts Gillard, for this, her final Canadian tour before retiring.

Rutland News.

The Rutland Literary Society met at the home of Mr. C. H. Leathley on Friday last, the evening being devoted to a study of Tennyson and his works. A large number of people were present and an interesting evening was spent. Dr. Baker introduced the subject by a short character sketch of the poet, when Miss Fullerton read "The Children's Hospital," a work which perhaps more than any other shows Tennyson's intense love for children. Miss Gladys Bird read "Dora," and Miss Ida Fleming sang "Some Day," and Miss Lillian Sproul recited "Minnie and Winnie." Selections were also given by Dr. Baker, Mr. Leathley and Mr. Dickerson.

Tomorrow (Friday) the Society meets at Mr. S. Sproul's, when a discussion on "Socialism" will be led by Mr. Geo. Stirling. Next week being Christmas eve there will be no meeting, but the week following an inter-debate has been arranged between the Ellison and Rutland societies.

Mr. Reed met with a nasty accident last week. He and his partner Mr. Green were levering a large stone out of a well when the plank slipped and caught Mr. Reed an undercut on the jaw, causing him to see stars, and also several teeth. This method of extraction could scarcely be called "painless." We are glad that it proved no worse.

Mrs. Goodrich is visiting friends at Airedale, Alta.

Mr. and Mrs. Clever left for the prairie last week, and will remain there until after the holidays.

The Ladies' Aid of the Mount View Methodist church held a sale of work on Tuesday evening last, when a creditable amount was gathered in. Miss Annie Gay attended to the candy stall, while Mesdames S. Sproul and J. Woolsey had charge of the refreshment stall. The articles made by the ladies were sold by Mesdames Fleming, R. Sproul, and Whitehead. Towards the end of the evening Mr. Dickerson auctioned off some of the articles, and proved that in time of need he could profitably add the profession of auctioneer to those of cow-puncher, orchardist, and debator.

Mr. W. Schell returned from Enderby last Saturday. We can quite believe that the competition amongst chicken fanciers was very keen when he failed to carry off the prizes with his splendid lot of white Wyandottes!

What might have been a very serious accident accurred on Tuesday night when Everitt Feming was driving to the Methodist church and Eddie Goodrich and Edith Gay were going to the store. The rigs collided in the darkness, throwing the Eddie and Edith Gay to the ground, they luckily escaping with a few bruises. Everitt and his sister Ida were also fortunate in escaping serious injury. The harness of the Flemings' team was badly damaged, and Gay's buggy smashed. The horses continued on till they reached the church, when they stopped of their own accord from force of habit.

Be sure and attend the Christmas tree entertainment given by the kiddies on Monday at 7.30 p.m. at the school. Also the concert by the Sunday School at the Church on Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Rev. S. J. Thompson will continue the series of sermons on the Christian Home, preaching next Sunday on "The Model Son." Much interest is being taken in the sermons, as they follow a slightly different line from the usual pulpit theme. They are practical, sensible talks on the true home life. Young men and boys specially invited for next Sunday night.

Rev. Herdman and Thompson will exchange pulpits next Sunday morning.

The Epworth League social gathering at Mr. I. Mawhinney's last Monday evening, was a great success. A short programme was given, which was hearily appreciated, after which a guessing contest and an auction sale caused much amusement. A vote of thanks to the host and hostess brought forth an eloquent reply, after which the meeting dispersed.

News of the Valley.

The school house at Peachland had a narrow escape from being burned down last week. The blaze which started in the furnace room was at once noticed by the caretaker, Mr. Dryden, who gave the alarm. With the assistance of the pupils and a few pails of water the blaze was soon put out, with little damage resulting. The trouble was caused by a smoke pipe coming in contact with a joist.

As one of the electric light poles were being raised into position at Peachland, it swayed in the wind and fell, catching Mr. Keating and rendering him unconscious for a while.

H. Fraser, formerly one of the proprietors of the of The Observer was in town this week in the interest of the Red Cliff Mining Co., which owns some valuable mining propety on the coast. Mr. Fraser, F. Wilcox and J. Savage are amongst the former residents of this place who are interested in the property. —Salmon Arm Observer.

Mrs. B. Reeves had a painful experience on Tuesday nigh. She had been up to the mill of Ruth & Turner and lost her way on the return trip, getting lost in the bush. She wandered around all night and was brought into town in the morning with both hands and one foot frozen, though not seriously. Salmon Arm Observer.

At Kamloops recently, H. Fraser appealed from the decision of local magistrates, who fined him $10 and costs and $50, the value of the dog which was shot by him. The dog in question was worrying Mr. Fraser's sheep—appeal was allowed.

A big irrigation scheme is planned in the vicinity of Oroville. It is proposed to tap the Similkameen above the falls and run the water through a high level ditch. Land owners are to be asked to turn over one-third or one-half of their lands in return for getting a water service for the remainder. Chicago capital is behind the scheme.—Keremeos Chronicle.

Shooting at ducks has been one of the pastimes of the past week indulged in by local powder burners. Many a little duck is telling hair-raising stories of sudden claps of thunder and violent hail storms, which, however never touched them.—Sumnerland Review.

An Indian named Andclap, while out hunting at Kirchner a few days ago, missed his footing while on top of a high mountain, and actually slid to the bottom of the high hill. It is stated by onlookers the Indian shot like an arrow fully a quarter of a mile down the mountain side. Strange to say he was not hurt in the least, except for some scratches on his knee.—Keremeos Chronicle

A Queer Trial Which Was Used a Queer Defense

SHIPPING A CASE OF GOLD.

The Solution of the Difference in Weight of the Box at Cape Nome and at San Francisco—The Clever Move of an Astute Young Lawyer.

One of the most interesting trials that ever took place in any country was that of James Stevens in the California courts for theft. The circumstances were as follows:

There were four prospectors in the Klondike region when the gold fever there was at its height, among whom Stevens was one. They "struck it rich," divided up and started out for the United States. Just before leaving Stevens got into a faro game and lost everything he had. Winter was coming on and he bade fair to starve unless something was done for him. So the other three decided to pay him so much to guard their dust on the ship and pay his way home to San Francisco. They each had their share of dust and nuggets accurately weighed and then put them into a common pile, pending, of course, their reapportionment on reaching port.

This they placed in a strong box which they nailed up and sealed carefully. It was Stevens' duty to watch this by day and sleep by it by night until the destination was reached. There was exactly 600 pounds avoirdupois of the gold, sworn to by a regular weigher. It was worth a great deal of money.

Well, everything went along smoothly until San Francisco was reached, Stevens seeming to appreciate what his former partners were doing for him and guarding his trust jealously. When the ship came into port the box was immediately removed, under the supervision of Stevens, to a place of reweighing, so that each could take his share again and deduct so much for Stevens' pay.

It was found that instead of having 600 pounds of gold as before there was now only a fraction over 598 pounds. The partners were loath to distrust Stevens and had it reweighed twice, but with the same result each time.

Reassured as they were of his guilt and having contempt for such ingratitude, they immediately swore out a warrant for his arrest. He all the time protested his innocence, but was not able to account for the loss.

The poor fellow was thrown into prison and held for trial. Not having any money or friends, he gave up all hope of being acquitted, as the circumstantial evidence seemed absolutely against him. A young lawyer was appointed by the court to defend him. This young man, Thaddeus Wayne by name, set to work on the seemingly hopeless job with great enthusiasm, as he had few clients anyhow and plenty of time.

The case was soon called and all the circumstantial evidence set forth. Wayne did not even question a witness.

When all the testimony was in Wayne requested the judge to allow him to qualify Samuel L. Johnson, teacher of physics in a high school, as an expert witness. The judge, not seeing any relation of physics to the theft, was about to refuse the young man when a peculiar glimmer in the latter's eye persuaded him to humor the boy. Johnson was placed on the stand, and the following colloquy ensued:

"With what does physics deal?"

"With natural phenomena, or the changes in the state or condition of matter."

"Does the weight of a person change as he changes his location on the earth?"

"Yes."

"Just how does that happen, and how much does the weight change?"

"The weight of any body is greatest at the poles of the earth, as they are the nearest points to the center. It gets less and less the farther we travel toward the equator, for we go away from the center. This effect is enhanced by the rotation of the earth, bodies tending to fly off more at the equator than near the poles. The combination of these two makes a body weigh one two hundred and eighty-ninth less at the equator than at the poles, and a proportionate amount for distances between."

"About what fraction of its weight would a body lose in going from Cape Nome, Alaska, to San Francisco?"

"I should say about one in 300."

"Then gold weighing 600 pounds in Nome could not possibly weigh over 598 pounds here, could it?"

"It could not."

It is needless to say that Stevens was acquitted on this evidence. His former partners were so sorry of their recent suspicion and so eager to make amends that they not only paid him the salary they had promised him, but set him up in business from their ample funds.

This fact is peculiar, but perfectly in accord with reason. It is recognized by the United States government. Every time bullion is sent from Washington to the New Orleans mint a certain amount of weight is lost in the mere act of transit. So in order to get the same amount of metal in each coin compensating weights or those specially calibrated have to be used or else special scales. If the weights are made at Washington and sent to New Orleans of course they will lose in weight and will weigh true on a pair of balances. But spring balances cannot be used.—Lawrence Hodges in Denver Times.

Provincial Paragraphs

Doped Whisky.

Both the city of Fort William and the Ontario Government are considerably exercised as a result of statements made by the city police and the coroner, G. W. Birdsall, to the effect that a new whisky, which contains sufficient poison or "dope" to kill the person who drinks it steadily for a few weeks, is being sold across bars at Fort William. Several recent deaths have been traced to poison from drink, and one man about three weeks ago went blind after taking five drinks. He may never regain his eyesight. At an inquest held the other day on the remains of a man who went to sleep in a drunken stupor and never awoke, coronor Birdsall said that morphine in the liquor would affect the optic nerves. A special dispatch to a local daily from Toronto states that the Ontario government will at once institute a rigid investigation into the affair.

New C. P. R. Hotel for Kootenay.

William Whyte, second vice-president of the C. P. R., is said to have approved of Balfour, opposite Proctor, as a site for the new C. P. R. tourist hotel in the Kootenay. The choice was made by F. W. Peters, C. E. McPherson, and H. W. Wills, and it is said that construction will commence early in the spring. The building will be rushed to completion so that it may be available for tourist traffic next fall. Balfour is 22 miles from Nelson, at the junction of West Arm with Kootenay lake.

Methodists to Build Theological College.

Plans are now under way for the new Methodist $100,000 theological college which is to be erected on the university site, Strathcona, in connection with Alberta college. The construction of the college will commence in the spring with the object of having the building completed in time for the opening of the fall term next year. A site of seven acres has been granted by the senate of the university for a Methodist theological college from the 250 acres included in the university site. The new college will have a residential accommodation for about 90 students, and will have five or six large rooms in which the faculty will carry on their work.

Typhoid at Montreal.

Typhoid fever if becoming increasingly prevalent in Montreal. The hospitals now have 148 cases and in every instance they have had to turn away anywhere from four to 35 patients applying for admission. Numerous deaths from the disease are already reported. Infected water supply is the apparent cause of the outbreak.

Government Buys Victoria Property.

Hon. Price Ellison, as minister of lands, tendered cheques last week to the last of the owners in Parliament square, Victoria, who have not sold out their property to the government. Expropriation proceedings will be entered and later the government will negotiate for the acquision of property occupied by the drill hall. When all have been acquired the government will proceed with it plans for additional buildings.

New Blue-Funnel Liner.

Officers of the Blue-funnel liner Bellerophon, now in port, have received advices from England that the new liner Prothesilaus, which is approaching completion at Hawthorn-Leslie's yards at Newcastle on Tyne, will sail from Liverpool for Vancouver on her maiden voyage on February 5, arriving in April. The Prothesilaus will include a new feature in the Blue-funnel line for she will have limited passenger accommodation. Among her officers will be chief engineer Collins, who was in charge of the Bellerophon's engine room on her last voyage here.

Premier to Visit Yale.

Premier McBride has returned from the south and has signified his intention of leaving with the Victoria contingent for Kamloops convention. Afterwards he will go to Yale to meet his constituents. It is understood that the Premier will sit for Victoria in the new legislature and that Mr. C. A. Semlin may contest Yale in the conservative interest at the by-election thus necessitated. Mr. Semlin is a former Premier.

Recount at Victoria.

The recount upon the spoiled ballots cast in the local option plebiscite throughout the province will be held before the county judge in Victoria. Formal application for this has already been made by Mr. C. N. Haney, legal adviser for the local option league. Its officers feel confident of victory in the end, although by a somewhat narrow margin over the necessary 50 per cent.

"Our position throughout the province has not been greatly changed within the past few days," said Rev. Dr. Spencer to day. "Richmond returns just received give us 260 majority. In the 28 constituencies thus far received we have considerably over 2,000 majority. We have yet to receive definite returns from the remaining 14, which, we are sure, will highly increase our majority, and we believe will give us the necessary percentage."

Winter Injury to Fruit Trees.

The following article from the report of the horticulturist at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, is so full of interest-matter and valuable advise to the fruit-grower as to the care of his trees during a severe winter or unfavorable weather conditions, that we think a useful purpose might be served by reprinting the whole article.

During the past twenty years much experience has been had at Ottawa in winter injury to fruit trees, and the observations which have been made during that time, and the conclusions drawn and recommendations made are now summarised, in the hope that much injury may be prevented by adopting the best methods. It would appear that there are at least ten distinct forms of winter injury.

If one could make an accurate estimate of the number of fruit trees which have been winter killed in the colder parts of Ontario and the province of Quebec, the figures would be astounding, they would be so large. Trees which were killed the year after planting; trees which were killed just when they were beginning to bear fruit; and trees which were in their prime and bearing bountiful crops, all have suffered. This terrible destruction from winter has caused great discouragement among the people, and has been one of t e belief causes of the slow development of the fruit industry in the colder parts of Canada.

Much of this loss could have been avoided if the hardiest trees only had been planted, but how f w there are who know the details connected with the establishment and maintenance of an orchard, and who know there is almost or quite as much difference in the hardiness of varieties of fruit as there is between the hardier and tenderer kinds of vegetables. All farmers have learnt by observation that with a very slight frost potato tops will be killed, but that it will take a much lower temperature to kill a cabbage. But the cause of death in fruit trees still continues to be a very mysterious thing to most farmers, who when a tree has been root killed, for instance, sees it leaf out and bloom but eventually wilt under his very eyes in the summer from no apparent cause. Unfortunately this lack of knowledge on the part of the farmer has been taken advantage of by unscrupulous men, and farmers have been urged to buy the varieties of fruit which appeal to them most strongly in the colored plate, or from the glowing description of the agent. Of late years our best nurserymen seem to be impressing upon their agents the importance of offering only those varieties suited to the district in which they are sold, and we have been very pleased to have these agents call upon us at the Central Experimental Farm and get what information we could give them on the fruit most suited to the district they were working in. For a long time it was not known what varieties of fruits were hardy in the different parts of the provinces of Ontario and Quebec, but experience has taught which will succeed, and the results of this experience have been recorded. With the literature now available and the information which may be obtained by applying to the proper authorities, there is no reason why anyone should plant varieties which will not succeed with him, provided he has the proper soil in which to grow them, and gets good trees and looks after them properly.

The forms of winter injury which will be discussed here are root-killing, bark-splitting, trunk-splitting, sun-scald, trunk or body injury, crotch injury, killing back, black-heart, killing of dormant buds, killing of swollen buds.

ROOT-KILLING.—Root-killing is caused by the exposure of roots to frost, and by the alternate thawing and freezing of the roots. It is most prevalent in winter when the soil is dry and when there is little or no snow. It is of very common occurrence in Manitoba and the Northwest provinces, and in the states of Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, and Dakota. Roots are in many cases tenderer than the tops, and are sometimes killed when the tops remain uninjured. Some valuable experiments were conducted by the Nebraska Agricultural Experimental Station to determine the condition under which root-killing occurred. Trees were planted in boxes 2 feet square and 18 inches deep, each box having 25 young apple trees. Six boxes were left outside about the middle of December with soil having different percentages of moisture. One box was covered with a mulch of straw 4 inches deep. One was kept covered with about 4 inches of snow whenever snow fell. The remaining boxes were left without any covering, any snow which fell being swept off. The trees were examined in February, when out of 25 apple trees set in the unprotected box containing 10.4 per cent. of moisture, the roots of 20 trees were dead and the remaining five uninjured. In the unprotected box containing 15.2 per cent. of moisture, 19 trees were dead and 6 injured. In the box with a moisture content of 19.8 per cent 3 were dead, 10 injured, and 12 uninjured. In a box with 25.6 per cent. moisture, 8 trees were dead, 4 injured, and 13 uninjured. The box covered with straw mulch contained 16 per cent. of moistuse, and none of the trees were dead in this box and but 7 injured. In the box occasionally covered with snow and containing 15.8 per cent. moisture, 7 were dead and 8 injured. Not a root was injured in a box stored in a cool dry cave, though it contained but 10 per cent. of soil moisture. These figures are very striking. The fact that the trees kept in a cool dry cave were uninjured was believed by the experimenters to prove that cold as well as dryness was necessary to cause the death of the roots, which is borne out by our own experience. The fact that the injury was found to be so great in the dry soil would appear to show that the dry, cold air entering the soil killed the roots by dry freezing and that in the soils which were moist even thawing and freezing would not destroy them. As the soil in the provinces of Quebec and Ontario is usually moist in the autumn and further drying out is usually prevented by a covering of snow, root-killing does not often occur, there having only been three times during the past twelve years when there has been much injury. This infrequency of root-killing is, however, liable to make fruit-growers careless, and a time comes when an orchard is just in its prime when the trees are swept out by root-killing to the owner's great disappointment and discouragement.

What then are the preventives of root-killing?

CHRISTMAS STORE NEWS.

What a change the past week has made in the general aspect of Main Street. The shop windows have been greatly brightened up by the addition of attractive colors and decorations, and now the town really looks as though it is preparing for the great festival of Xmas.

An arrival by the boat would almost forget his long and tiring journey, and instead of proceeding to his hotel or home would want to walk down the main Street to see what the town has to offer in the way of Christmas goods.

The Spokane Diplomas in Messrs Hewetson & Mantle's window are perhaps the first thing the visitor would look at, and having got a good impression of the town, would wend his way towards the jewelery store of J. B. Knowles.

To the lover of fine art, here is a feast for the eyes. Hand-hammered brass goods of all descriptions and sizes are on display, not to mention the large assortment of silverware and dainty ornamants. Watches and clocks too are also on view in an attractive manner, and a step inside means a purchase sure.

The next store along the long line is where can be found all sorts and descriptions of good things suitable for the Xmas table. Figs, dates, plums and other fruits, together with the usual dried fruits that go to make the usual Christmas Plum Pudding. This only deals with the grocery side of the question, for what is the use of these dainties if you have nothing to eat them off. Le quime Bros. are making a speciality of ornamental china sets this year, and certainly are displaying some fine pieces of the potter's art.

The dry goods department is well worth a visit, for even though the various assortments of suitable Xmas presents are so bewildering, it is not long before a choice can be made from the numerous articles on display.

Passing along the street, we take a glance in window of Kenneth F. Oxley.

He has only been here a few weeks, but a glance at his window shows that he is open for business and a lot of it too. Fruits of all sizes, shapes and colors are here, not to mention the cranberries, many of which will go to make jelly or sauce for the Xmas Turkey or Goose.

Past numerous other stores, including the old curosity shop belonging to Mr. J. W. Wilks, and other well decorated windows we come across the general hardware store of are carrying as usual a good show of turkeys and other Christmas fare including the sausages which are a most important accompaniment.

D. Leckie & Co.

Skates and stoves, (a very good combination for the winter) are tastefully displayed, the former being wreathed in holly in the window Cutlery, too, forms a part of the window display, but the same as in the other stores, a trip inside reveals numerous other handy articles which make desirable gifts at all times as well as at Xmas.

Although the next store of

is mentioned down the list a little way, their store is usually the first consideration of the housewife at this particular time of the year. Pies, puddings, chocolates and tempting Christmas Cakes are all displayed with excellent taste, and many will be the small boys who flatten their noses against the windows of the store, longing for a good big lump of that ice covered cake and a box of those chocolates the very sight of which makes ones mouth water. Still further along we come to the store jointly occupied by Parker and Trench.

The former, as jeweller, displays in one window a choice assortment of Yuletide gifts and it would be a hard task to find which one would be the most acceptable to the recepient.

Mr. Trench has somewhat departed from his usual line and has his store window filled with toys of all kinds and descriptions, ready for the stocking and the Christmas tree, but his special line comes in later on, when everyone is sick with an overdose of Yuletide fare. and physic plays a great part in the recovery from this over indulgence.

Crawford & Co.

Mr. Crawford has done full justice to his large new store by making a fine show of toys and fancy goods as Christmas gifts for young and old. Tasteful calendars and leather goods are here in plenty.

Thomas Lawson, Ltd.

This firm can be congratulated upon a vety attractive window display this season, and for artistic arrangement their china window is one of the best they have yet exhibited. Stockings filled with Xmas candies and a host of other seasonable delicacies form the display in another window, while the other two are utilized for the display of neatly embroidered table linen and other dry goods. To frame a good opinion as to what the store really carries, a trip inside is the only way of finding out, and the various articles displayed inside almost bewildering. Mr. Lawson believes in giving his customers choice, both in the description of the articles and the quality of the goods, and so he cannot be blamed for puzzling them with such an unlimited display.

Having left Lawson's, which is a very hard thing to do, you cross to the Oak Hall Clothing Co.

This imposing store is always filled with good styles and fashions in clothes of all kinds, and there is little doubt that once inside, one is forced (of your own free will) to buy something. The window display is usually the best, and the best has exceeded itself this year, possibly owing to the increased window space and the commanding position they occupy on the main street. This week one window is practically taken up with handkerchiefs of all sizes, colored and plain borders, while the opposite side is filled with neckwear of all descriptions.

One of the hardest stores to decorate is a butcher shop, and yet, has made a very neat showing of his Xmas goods this year. Turkeys geese, sausages and the good old round of beef are shown off to a good advantage in the windows.

Somewhat hampered by the unfinished alteration of his premises, has had a hard task putting in an attractive window. He, however, can be congratulated on having been successful, despite the difficulties. All you need for the Xmas dinner is here displayed. Figs. fruits, oranges, spices, currants, raisins and the usual other Xmas fare are ready for you to look at, and why not buy?

C. C. Josselyn

Tutcher Millinery Parlor.

Mrs. Tutcher is tempting the ladies with a display of fancy needle work in addition to her usual stock of millinery.

The Kelowna Furniture Co.,

are this year making a speciality of pictures, and have on view some fine works of art, ready to decorate the walls of your room. Of course, pictures are not the only teing that this store provides. Furniture of many kinds, from baby carriages up to the old man's easy chair.

From the furniture store, we go on to the hardware store of where skates and stoves make the chief window attraction, and as we said before, a noble combination providing the material for a good healthy amusement for the young folk, and for the older folk a good stove can be reckoned as something good to sit by on a cold evening when the means of keeping warm by skating is impossible. In another window we see a splendid array of lamps and cutlery, not to mention numerous needles and scissors and knives.

Pass along please,—we are now counting buttons at store, together with numerous other young folk who are busy at the same job. A large doll is the prize offerered to the person guessing the correct number of buttons in a jar then there is no wonder all the children are so eager to get at the right number. The rest of Mr. Calder's window is cramed with toys of all descriptions, while gents' furnishings are displayed to advantage in the other window.

P. B. Willits & Co.,

have gone largely into the stationery buiness, and have received a shipment only recently of leather bound books with really superb illustrations. They are also making a special feature of Waterman's Fountain pens, a most suitable gift. A library of Shakespeare's works with colored plates is included in the display, and would make a very presentable Xmas Gift.

S. T Elliott

When in town farmers should take a visit to S. T. Elliott's to inspect his extensive stock of labor-saving devices for the farm; easy-going buggies and democrats, not to mention the latest noiseless auto-buggies. Mr. Elliott has been meeting the boat pretty regularly of late, for he is expecting a car of cutters and bob-sleighs ready for the winter trade, together with a good assortment of harness, and no wonder he is anxious for their arrival for he sees real Christmas weather ahead. A special line of garden seeders is also included in the stock and are well worth having a look at.

Campbell Bros.

Another store well worth a visit if you are contemplating having your house wired for electric light is Campbell Bros., and a glance at the select stock of electric fixtures they are displaying at the present moment leaves little more to be desired.

THE SAFEST SPOT.

Deck of Vessel is, Perhaps, Most Secure in the World.

Probably the majority of people, if asked what they considered to be the safest spot for them to be in, would reply, "In bed, or in an arm-chair by the side of the fire." But they are quite mistaken. The risk of injury is much greater than if one was traveling by ship or rail; at least, that is the conclusion which the writer of an article on accident insurance, published in the World's Work, has come to.

The curious fact is mentioned that, according to statistics, 60 per cent. of accidents happen while the victims are at home or in the street, the explanation being that a man when going a journey, or entering upon a hazardous undertaking, exercises special care, thus escaping injury, but while at home, or taking exercise, vigilance is relaxed, familiarity with common dangers breeding contempt.

Probably the safest place on land or sea is the deck of a first-class ocean liner. A first-class railway carriage is also an exceptionally safe place. This is so clearly recognized that accident insurance companies can afford to double the compensation when accidents occur on railways or tramcars. Certain companies will insure commercial travelers at premiums appreciably lower than those charged by general accident insurance companies.

A man may undertake a journey round the world with a comparatively light heart. But extreme care and vigilance are needed should he venture to hang his pictures or walk down his own stairs. The perils of the streets in London and our big cities are, of course, so well known that there is no need to comment thereon. Most people imagine that they must be fairly safe in bed. Yet accidents happen even there. Not long ago a wealthy man was seriously injured by being burned by a hot-water bottle after he had retired to rest. The moral is, of course, that whether a man lie, sit, walk, drive, or engage in any occupation or sport, he is always exposed to the risk of accident and should take his precautions accordingly.

Origin of the Cherry Tree.

As a cultivated fruit the cherry is of eastern origin. The first garden cherries, as well as the name, have come from an old Greek town on the southern shores of the Black Sea. The name of the colony was Cerasos, and the inhabitants cultivated the cherry. So in Greek the cherry became cerasos, in Latin cerasus, in French cerise, in English cherry. Pliny relates that the Roman General Lucullus, conqueror of the great Mithridates, brought the cherry from Cerasos to Rome. A tree laden with fruit is said to have adorned his triumphal procession. In the course of the next 120 years the culture of the cherry had spread far and wide and reached even remote Britain.—London Globe.

The Second Fiddle.

The second fiddle is, on the whole, the most widely played of all instruments—fortunately, since it is so especially the instrument of harmony.

A great many men have an aptitude for the second fiddle, and, where they take it up at once without too much vain experimenting with more pretentious parts, they find much satisfaction in it. There is plenty of poor work done with the second fiddle, though. Men who are forced to it by marrying or other mischance are very likely to play badly.

A master of the second fiddle is not least among masters, and he has besides the promise of inheriting the earth.—Puck.

Another Opportunity.

A Certain Man, having read somewhere that Opportunity knocks only once at each one's Door, concluded to Sit up all Night for fear he would Miss the Call. So while he was Sitting near his Door there came a heavy Knock thereon.

When he opened the Door a Stranger seized him and Beat him all up and Took his Money and Garments and Chided him for being so Easy.

"But," said the Man, thinking to excuse himself, "I thought it was Opportunity who knocked."

"So it was," replied the Other, "but it was my Opportunity."

Moral.—It is Better to Carry your Opportunity with you.

An Attentive Daughter.

"I don't see why you are not as considerate of my comfort as you used to be of your father's," remarked a husband to his wife, who had shown signs of neglect. "When I come into the house I have to hunt for my slippers and everything else I happen to want, but when I used to court you, and your father would come in from the city, you would gather up his things, wheel his easy chair to the fire, warm his slippers and get him a head rest and a foot rest, so that all he had to do was to be comfortable."

"Oh, that was only to make him go to sleep sooner!" was the young wife's satisfactory explanation.—London Mail.

In Doubt.

A prominent church worker of Baltimore was delivering one Sabbath a talk to a class comprising pupils who lived in a rather squalid section of the town, says Harper's Weekly.

The good man touched upon the quality of untruthfulness, and at one point in his address he said:

"I want every little boy who has never told a lie to raise his hand."

Not a hand went up. But a lad in the rear rose to ask a question.

"What is it, my boy?"

"Well, sir, what I want to ask is is it a lie if nobody ever knows?"

What He Meant.

"Your novels will not endure," said the critic.

"I know it," said the author.

"They are not literature," said the critic.

"Correct," said the author.

"Well, then, what do you mean by them?"

"Money," said the author. "Waiter, fetch me a porterhouse steak."

Town and Country News.

We are pleased to see Mr J. Axon around again after dis severe attack of typhoid fever, and his long confinement in the Kelowna Hospital. He however feels a little shaky yet but the wholesome climate of the Okanagan will soon set that to rights.

To-night marks the first performance of "Oh! Susannah" at the Opera House, and there is little doubt but what all the persons who can will turn out to witness this the Mustcal and Dramatic Society's initial performance of the season. The chief part in the play will be taken by Mrs Legge Willis, and is a character part, a la Louie Freear, and is a part which could only be taken by an accomplished actress. As the play has no preliminary, but starts right into fun directly the curtain lifts, it has been requested that all patrons will be in their seats before the curtain rises: The play starts at eight oclock sharp.

What a dandy thaw we had last Sunday. Even though old Sol did not peep through the clouds it got kind of uncomfortable with a fire and many windows were noticed thrown wide open to cool off the room. Winnipeg papers report weather, thirty-one degrees below zero: Guess the people in the North West ought to come up here to get warm.

The Public Examinations and Xmas exercises in connection with the Public School, will take place Friday morning, from 9:30 to 12 o'clock. Parents and friends are cordially invited.

The Baptist Sunday School Christmas entertainment will be held in the church Tursday evening Dec. 23. A good programme of music and recitations has been prepared, and a cordial invitation to parents and friends to be present is extended by the committee in charge.

Christmas week, being the occasion of the Gladstone Centennial, Rev. D. J. Welsh, B.A., B.D., will deliver his lecture on "Gladstone, the Great English Commoner," on Sunday evening, Dec. 26th. This will be the first in a series on "Great Men and their Religion." A very hearty invitation is extended to young men to attend this series of Sunday evening lectures.

The entertainment and Christmas tree in connection with the Benvoulin Sunday School, will be held in the church there on Thursday, Dec. 23rd, at 7:30 p.m.

On account of the peculiar circumstances in connection with the death of Mr. Kenneth McMillan which did not permit of funeral services being held at the house, the Rev. A. W. K. Herdman, at the close of his sermon last Sunday morning, spoke in feeling terms of the deceased, who has been a member of Knox Church for five years.

We are in receipt of the Xmas issue of the "War Cry," a publication issued by the Salvation Army. The rapid progressive steps this paper has taken since in inauguration have at last brought it up to date and on a level with other publications, and the Xmas number is certainly a very creditable piece of work.

The Presbyterian congregation have made a unique Christmas present to their pastor, the Rev. A. W. K. Herdman, having had the manse fully installed with the electric light.

See Josselyn's advert. to the left of this notice.

Mr. S. Sproule has just returned from Spokane, via Keremeos and Oroville. He reports a long and tedious journey over the road, but brings back word that the Keremeos people are great in their praise of Kelowna's canned goods. Canned beans and tomatoes are among the the favourites and are branded by the Keremeosites as the best.

Mrs. K. McMillan has asked us to express her thanks to the people of Kelowna for the kindness extended both to herself and to her family during their recent illness and bereavement.

Kelowna has again achieved a triumph with her fruit; this time prizes being taken for a display in the Old Country. It will be remembered that a display of fruit was collected some time ago, and sent to England with Mr. Scott—for this exhibit B.C. has received a gold medal. The exhibit was practically an advertisement for B.C., and not for any one district, but it is pleasing to notice that in the awards Kelowna has not been forgotten. Messrs. Stirling & Pitcairn are the winners of a silver Banksian medal, while the Okanagan exhibit as a whole, is winner of a silver knightian medal. A large amount of the fruit in the Okanagan exhibit came from this district, and will serve as a good advertisement for the valley.

The Secretary of the Board of Trade was in receipt of a letter from the Old Country last Thursday, marked "urgent," and quickly tearing open the envelope, was surprised to find that the contents were a request for a Board of Trade pamphlet. This only goes to show how people are clamoring for news of the Okanagan Valley, and the wonderful town and district of Kelowna.

Mrs. T. Lawson is the winner of the gold watch given by Mr. J. B. Knowles for the nearest guess at what time the watch, which Mayor DeHart wound up last Saturday would run. In all the watch run 32 hours, 37 minutes and 16 sec. Mrs. Lawson's guess was 32 hours, 40 minutes and 10 seconds, closely followed by Willie McKeown and Miss Rose Weddell, who both guessed 32 hours, 40 min. and 20 seconds.

There is a well founded rumor abroad to the effect that the C.P.R. will resume their winter service on the first of January next. Efforts have been made by the Board of Trade and others to persuade the company to continue the every week day service all the year round but apparently they do not consider it advisable. If the rumor is true we shall have to be contented with having the Okanagan come down only three times during the week, instead of six.

T. Hidson, Constable Tooth and Mr. McMinns left for Vernon on Wednesday to attend the trial of Richards, the horse thief, who was detained here on the charge of stealing three horses and committed to the assizes. Constables Tooth and Hidson are also away in connection with the McLeod case.

The May Roberts Gillard Company have booked the Opera House for Saturday next when they will produce the society play, "Madam Satan." This is one of Chas. Frohman's successes in New York, and should draw a full house on Saturday.

PAUL JONES' PROMISE.

Our Great Naval Hero and the Duchess of Chartres.

The Duchess of Chartres was an enthusiast in the cause of American liberty and a warm friend of its great naval champion, Paul Jones, whom she nicknamed the "Knighted Knight of the Sea." The duchess was a royal princess and a very great lady, and Captain Jones was a sailor, self educated and the son of a Scotch gardener, but in the exchange of gifts and compliments which, according to the custom of the day in France attended their friendship, he was not to be outshone.

At a luncheon which she gave just before he sailed from France in the Ranger on that famous cruise of his which carried the war to the very shore of Britain it was the good fortune of Paul Jones to share in a conversation touching a French naval engagement in which the grandfather of the duchess had borne a conspicuous part and to defend and explain his maneuvers on that occasion, showing a knowledge of every ship and every captain engaged and winning on the spot the ardent personal adherence of Mme. de Chartres

At the close of the feast she presented him a valuable watch which had been her grandfather's. Taken by surprise, the American captain nevertheless accepted it with a grace that charmed the courtly company, promising that in return, if fortune favored him, he would some day "lay an English frigate at her feet."

It was a daring boast, but in A. C. Buell's biography of Paul Jones it is related how he kept it. Within two years occurred the marvelous victory of the Bonhomme Richard over the Serapis, concerning which the victor wrote the duchess a letter, ending, "The enemy surrendered at thirty-five minutes past 10 p. m. by your watch, which I consult only to fix the moment of victory."

That was a phrase to delight a society that reveled in pretty phrases, and the duchess was amply satisfied. When Paul Jones reached Paris she gave a grand banquet in his honor. Just before it ended he reminded her of her gift and his promise. A servant was sent to his room and returned with a long leather case, which the duchess took amid the exclamations and eager curiosity of the company.

"Your royal highness perceives the impossibility of keeping my promise in kind," explained the knight of the sea, smiling. "The English frigate proved to be a forty-four on two decks, and she is now at Lorient with French colors flying. The best I can do toward keeping my word of two years ago is to place in your dainty hands the sword of the brave officer who commanded her. I have the honor to surrender to the loveliest of women the sword surrendered to me by one of the bravest of men—the sword of Captain the Hon. Richard Pearson of his Britannic majesty's late ship, the Serapis."

Fooled.

He was a doctor and was patiently waiting for his first patient.

Thought he: "If the mountain will not come to Mahomet, Mahomet must go to the mountain. And as patients will not seek me out I must needs seek them out."

He strolled through the cheap market and presently saw a man buy six nice cucumbers.

"Here's a chance!" said he and followed him home.

Patiently he waited for four long and lonely hours, and about midnight the front door quickly opened, and the man dashed down the steps.

He seized him by the arm and cried earnestly:

"Do you want a doctor?"

"No!" replied the man roughly. "Want more cucumbers!"—London Answers.

The Bride's Linen Room.

If a groom elect has not provided an extra room to his house for storing his bride's linen he should build it in time for in these days whenever a girl marries her mother closes her lips grimly, goes after pa's pocketbook and does the right thing with nine dozen towels, fifteen dozen napkins, eighty-four pairs of sheets, etc. She doesn't expect her daughter to open a boarding house, but she has proper pride and intends to do the right thing by the girl even if it breaks pa.—Atchison Globe.

Couldn't Forget It.

"Saturday night some miscreant lugged off a whole cord of my wood, and somehow I can't forget about it!" declared Silas.

"Have you tried to forget it?" inquired his friend.

"Yes. Sunday morning I went to church hoping I could get it off my mind, and before I had been there five minutes the choir started in singing 'The Lost Chord,' so I got out!"—Judge.

Lunch and Luncheon.

"We don't have dinner in the middle of the day at our boarding house any more."

"You have lunch, I suppose?"

"No, luncheon."

"Well, that's the same thing."

"Oh, no, it isn't! Lunch is a light dinner, and luncheon is a light lunch."—Puck.

Cure For Lonesomeness.

The redheaded girl is a winner—and the man who gets one will not be lonesome. He will soon find out whether he has drawn a Titian haired angel or a combination of a cyclone and a sunset.—Baltimore Sun.

The learned man conceals his erudition; the silly man clothes himself with it.—Hosmaye.
