Rapid Development of District Makes Good Roads Essential

Many Improvements Being Made - Central Okanagan Land Co.'s Great Irrigation Scheme

If we were to ask the question: "What is it the Okanagan needs most?" we venture to think there would be very little disagreement as to the answer. Transportation! Roads! And good highroads not less than railroads. Land, and plenty of it—vast areas of fertile land, the majority as yet untouched is not wanting. Climatic conditions the finest in the Dominion. But before a country, however favored, can develope to any extent, access must be provided to its hidden wealth, and lines of communication established.

We in the Okanagan are fortunate at the present time in having a government which realizes in no slight degree our possibilities and our needs. Last year's substantial appropriation for roads in the Valley was an evidence of this, and this appropriation we hope to see not only equalled but greatly increased in the next estimates. But we are impatient—the result of progressing faster than it has evidently been in the power of the government to keep pace with us. Much has been done during the past year or two, but much remains to be done, and with urgent cries from all directions for "more roads" a little impatience is perhaps excusable. Rome, however, was not built in a day.

In company with Mr. Hamilton Lang, the busy road superintendent for the Okanagan, and his lieutenant for our own district, Mr. M. Hereron, we made the other day a tour of inspection through the neighborhood. The services of Mr. Dalgleish with his "Mighty Reo" were commissioned, and a course taken along Pendozi street in the direction of the K. L. O. bench.

No sooner were we outside the city than abundant evidences could be seen of the improvements which are being gradually effected in our old arteries of traffic. Strenuous efforts are being made to render "the crooked straight and the rough places plain."

It is only within the last year or two that the government has seriously taken the road problem in hand, and some of our old highways present almost insurmountable difficulties. The early settler, to whom road-making was formerly entrusted, naturally took the line of least resistance so far as he himself was concerned, without regard to the grades which would have to be encountered further on, and the choice of a location for the road in many cases has been anything but happy.

For the sake of economy, too, roads were made narrow, and the flimsiest of culverts and bridges were put in. Fences have now to be put back to the full 66 feet width, causing friction in some cases, and awkward turns and twists straightened out. Much money which might have been spent on new roads has had to be expended on first improving the old ones. Old wooden switchback culverts are being replaced with cement pipe. Fills are being made where possible to replace ricketty bridges. The benefit of all this what might be termed foundation work will be evident in the future, when more attention can be paid to the extension of the road system.

The old serpentine Gulch road is at present the only highway to the K. L. O. bench, but a new and straighter road, with easier grades is planned and already partly constructed. This will prove an enormous convenience to a now thickly settled district.

There is probably no more inspiring sight, nor one better calculated to impress the beholder with the vast possibilities of the Kelowna district, than the magnificent view from the residence of Mr. E. M. Carruthers, the manager of the Kelowna Land and Orchard Company. Entering from the road and traversing a neat and well-kept gravel drive through the beautifully laid out grounds surrounding the manager's residence, the visitor is struck first with the pretty appearance of the house itself. Modelled on what are for the district entirely novel lines, it is built to the level of the first storey of stone—round unchiselled cobbles firmly set in mortar and surmounted by a second storey of green shingles. But the greatest surprise is on reaching the west side of the house, where a truly glorious prospect is unfolded to the eye. Immediately below on the lower bench is the great orchard of the company, with its endless rows of uniform trees, apples, peaches, pears, cherries and other fruits, eloquent testimony to the productive soil, the favourable climate and skilful cultivation. Below this is a wide stretch of fertile bottom land with the silvery sheet of the Okanagan lake in the distance, beside which nestles the city of Kelowna, and beyond the timber clad hills of the West Side. A tiny toy of a steamer was just puffing its way along the placid water, seemingly making no progress at the great distance from which it was seen. The crustiest grouch that ever lived could not but have felt proud of the country in which he lived when viewed from such a point of vantage.

It was a place to linger, but time was pressing, and once more the engine of Mr. Dalgleish's "Mighty Reo" coughed impatiently, and climbing aboard we headed for what will probably always continue to be known as "Long's Orchard."

The whole district is indebted to Mr. Long for demonstrating in so forcible a way what can be done with skill and judgment in the way of turning out the finest fruit on a large commercial scale. The trees in the fine orchard were bending to the ground beneath their weight of rosy cheeked apples. Although the trees are only seven years old, we understand that over 150 tons of fruit have been shipped this season from 17 acres.

New roads are being cut in all directions, giving access to the finest land which a few years back was covered with scrub and timber. One fine new highway, almost completed crosses the upper bench from east to west, and forms part of the great road which is planned to give more direct communication with Kelowna.

Descending to the lower level again and re-crossing the reconstructed K. L. O. bridge, a turn to the left was made along the Mission road in the direction of South Okanagan, and then to the right along the old Swamp road—now a swamp road no longer, since material has been brought down from the hill and a long fill made, resulting at the time we passed in a stretch of hard and level road. Returning from a hasty visit to the pretty lakeside ranch of Mr. Hobson, a break was made to enquire into the troubles of Fred Gillard, whose place on the banks of the creek suffers from the erroding action of the current at high water. A party of Siwashes were camped on the bank busy cleaning and salting for winter fare an enormous catch of "kickinninies."

A few minutes run of the swift and untiring car and town was reached in time for lunch.

After refreshing the inner man another start was made, this time along the Vernon road, turning into the Black Mountain road in the direction of Rutland. Here also were the same signs of improvement, fences going back, and straightening of curves. The first of the "Five bridges" is being rebuilt in line with the the straighter road, and dangerous pitfalls at the sides filled in. The branch road to Rutland is another instance of the old-timers' trail which will need considerable fixing in the near future to bring it into shape for the enormously increasing traffic which passes along it. From the Rutland store to the right, onward toward the headwaters of Mission creek a good deal of work has been put in this year, and a fine road now exists as far as "Billy" Huckle's place, where formerly was nothing but a trail through the bush.

Our journey was continued up the Vernon road, past the Ellison school to the canvas town of the Kelowna Irrigation Co. Here a large gang of men are engaged laying the great 32 inch steel pipe, which forms the first section of what will undoubtedly be, when completed, one of the most efficient and permanent irrigation systems in the country. Dr. Gaddes, the president of the company, who had joined the party after lunch was now our guide, and taking the road to the left we followed the course of the pipe-line across the valley. The pipe descends the hill on the east like a black serpent, crosses the valley in a trench and ascends again to the highest point on the west. Here it empties into an open concrete-lined ditch, which skirts the hill to the west of Glenmore, the fine new property which the Central Okanagan Lands Company are developing at so much expense.

The laying of the concrete ditch is proceeding at a rapid rate, though the greatest care is evidently being taken to avoid anything in the nature of temporary or slipshod work. The foremen in charge of the construction work are all experienced men men brought from over the line, and as a result many novel features have been introduced, making for efficiency and economy of construction.

A rock-crushing plant, driven by a large gasoline engine is erected at the foot of a natural rock slide, providing abundance of excellent material at very little cost of handling. After passing through the crusher the gravel is carried on an endless bucket chain to a revolving cylindrical screen which separates it into various sizes for different purposes. From there it is hauled to the concrete mixer, which is placed along side the ditch. The concrete lining of the ditch is moulded into shape by wooden forms which are moved along as each section becomes set.

Steel open fluming on concrete piles is substituted for the concrete ditch where it is necessary to bridge any gully or depression in the land. No wooden fluming is to be used in the entire leugth of the ditch, and even the laterals are to be of cement pipe. Leakage and waste of water from a system of this kind is reduced almost to a minimum.

It does not require much power of penetration to foresee a great future for this section of the country. The valley of Glenmore starts within half a mile of the city limits and stretches in a northeasterly direction for some six or seven miles, and comprising some 6,000 acres of first-class fruit land. Already the company has disposed of over $100,000 of the property, and, said Dr. Gaddes, sales were very active at the present time, and many deals were in prospect. The purchasers are for the most part the best class of settlers from eastern Canada, the prairie provinces and coast cities, as well as a large number of local people.

It is the intention of the company to plant a large block of the land next spring as a private orchard, and for this purpose they are securing the services of an orchard expert, who will also look after the planting and care of lots for purchasers who cannot immediately take up residence upon their holdings.

A domestic water system is to be installed, for which a reservoir having a capacity of 500 acre feet, is to be constructed, with a separate pipe system from this to each lot.

At the present time about 240 men, all told, are employed on the undertaking, including a gang of some 35 who are at work on the dam at the headwaters of Mill Creek, increasing the height, enlarging and strengthening it. A new headgate is being put in the creek and from this a large steel flume will connect with the pipe line. This part of the work, it is expected, will be completed this fall.

Some of the purchasers ot lots are already making arrangements for fencing and other improvements and it is the intention of the company to have the ditchin shape for the turning on of the water before the commencement of the irrigation season next year.

What the bringing of so large a tract of land on the very edge of the town under cultivation, and the large new settlement which must spring up there will mean to Kelowna we leave the reader to conjecture. At present there are not more than four or five houses in the whole of this great valley. In three or four years there will be a hundred or more.

And here again we are faced with the ever-present need for more roads. Up to the present time the only road from town has been narrow and tortuous, with stiff grades and an out-of-the-way course. A new and more direct road, however, is staked out, which will make these difficulties things of the past. Men and teams under Mr. Hereron are now at work on the section nearest town. When completed the new road will traverse the full length of the Glenmore valley, with cross roads at intervals.

We might mention here that Mr. Hamilton Lang has just installed a complete, portable rock-crushing plant for use on the roads in the district. A heavy steam road roller is also included in the equipment. This was badly needed and will remove many of the disabilities under which road work has hitherto been carried on.

New Electrical Business Opens in Town

Mr. F. V. Moffett who has been in the electrical business, and in charge of the city plant of Enderby for the past five years, has opened business in Kelowna this week, renting the store lately occupied by Messrs. DeHart and Harvey, next to the Royal Bank. He will carry a full line of all electrical supplies and fittings, and is we understand, an experienced gasoline engine expert.

The W. C. T. U. will hold a mother's meeting at the home fo Mrs. Capt. Knight next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The topic under discussion will be, "The Model Home." The several phases of home life will be dealt with by members of the union. A very cordial invitation is given to all interested in home life to attend.

Mr. F. R. E. DeHart last Friday received a letter from J. A. Ruddick Dominion Dairy and Cold Storage Commission, asking him to undertake the preparation of a car of Kelowna fruit for shipment to London Eng., for exhibition purposes.

The Roman Catholics of the district are collecting funds for the erection of a fine new church in town, the building of which is to commense in the spring. The site has already been selected on Richter street near the new English church.

Mr. Ernest Wilkinson came up Monday from Peachland, where he has been engaged for the past week or two assisting in the running of the cannery there.

The council mecting arranged for Monday night had to be abandoned, as owing to the absence of Ald. Leckie and Cox at the coast it was impossible to obtain a quorum.

Gerald Desmond, a prominent B.C. Socialist, is to lecture in the Lequime Hall next Thursday, Oct. 13th.

The Women,s Auxiliary of the English church are beginning their fall work at a meeting at Mrs. DuMoulin's on Friday, Oct. 7th. They are anxious to receive orders for all kinds of sewing, knitting and mending.

Wedding Bells

BROOKE—DICKINSON

An interesting event took place at the Methodist church last Saturday morning when Mr. Percy Brooke was married to Miss Clara Dickinson, who recently arrived from Bradford, England. The ceremony was preformed by the Rev. J. W. Davidson, Mr. Davies acting as best man, The bride was given away by Mrs. Armstrong, and a large number of friends were gathered in the church. Mr. Brooke and his bride left shortly afterwards by automobile for Vernon where a short honeymoon was to be spent They were accompanied to Vernon by Mr. Davies who was himself to figure iu a similar ceremony at that point.

DAVIES—BLACKWOOD

At the Vernon Presbyternian church last Saturday evening, Mr. J. H. Davies, of Davies and Mathie, was married to Miss E. Blackwood, daughter of W. C. Blackwood. The Rev. McKenzie, of Vernon, was the officiating minister, and Mr. P. Brooke acted as best man.

BIGGIN—SERCENT

The marriage of Mr. H. W. Biggin took place last Thursday at Carnduff, Sask., to Jessie Belle, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Sargent, of that town. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Cornelius Martin, and is known to many here, having been a visitor to Kelowna last Summer.

Rutland News.

(From our own correspondent.)

Misses Fullerton returned from their visit home to the east Tuesday last. They were accompanied by their brother.

Mrs. S. Sproul and Lorne left Monday morning for a visit to the coast and the New Westminster fair.

A disastrous fire occurred Tuesday last at the home of Mr. J. Morrison, when the house, tent, furniture and practially everything in the house was destroyed. No one was home but the boy Tom, who had been in to light up the fire in the afternoon, and leaving the house for awhile he noticed smoke coming out of the roof. It was too late then, unaided as he was, to save the building, and only a few things were saved before the flames enveloped everything. The loss is only partly covered by insurance.

British Columbia's fire fighting bill for the month of August, apart from the salary list of the regular fire wardens, totals over $ 30,000. The special fire fighters employed during the month, according to the report just received, was 3,233, with the regular staff bringing the total to 3,572. The 325 fires destroyed over 1,000,000 feet of standing timber and 67,000 feet of logs.

Dr. Martin was a passenger by Monday's boat on a visit to Vancouver.

Mr. Nelson and daughter, from Nebraska, are visitors in town this week. They are staying at Mr. Collin's in Glen avenue.

Calgary People Use Too Much Water

City Will Have to Instal Meters

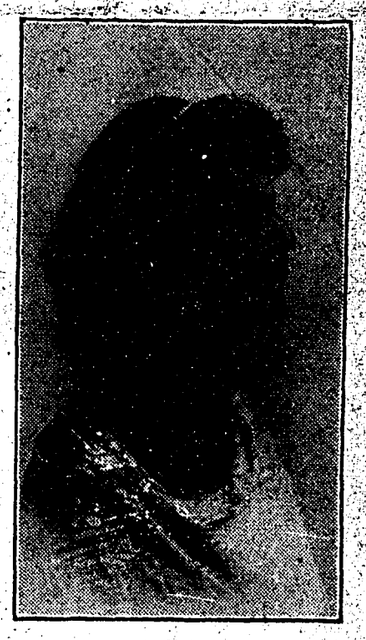
Calgary people use too much water, City Engineer Child thinks. He doesn,t mean that the people drink too much but they waste a lot on the lawns aud in other ways Seven million gallons are pumped into the city's mains, and Winnipeg with a population of 125,000 uses about the same amount of water. Calgary's population is 45,000. Mr. Child suggests installing meters in the homes of those using city water.

Newspaper Office Blown to Pieces

Blame Laid on Labor Unions

The office of the Los Angeles Times was completely wrecked by dynamite last Saturday morning, resulting in the death of twenty of its employees and the loss of nearly half-a-million dollars. The paper has been a bitter opponent of labor unions, and the management lays blame for the explosion to their agency.

Miss Jeanne Russell at the Opera House



Local theatre-goers may look forward with a feeling of pleasant anticipation and absolute confidence to the engagement of Miss Jeanne Russell and the Jeanne Russell company at the Opera House for three nights and Saturday matinee, starting Thursday, October 13.

Miss Russell is probably the most popular stock actress ever appearing in western Canada. From Calgary and Edmonton, where she has apbeared for several weeks at a time, comes nothing but the highest praise for her work and her productions, which are far superior to the ordinary one night stand plays which tour Canada.

This season she is supported by a company of the very best artistes, and as this is her first visit to the Okanagan, a special effort will be made to please the theatre goers.

The opening play will be Mr. J. Grattan Donelly's international success, "The American Girl," an avalanche of comedy, and full of dramatic interest. The other plays will be "David Harum," a dramatization of Noyes Westcott's famous nevel, "The Spuaw Man," the great Western drama, and "Cousin Kate," which was Ethel Barrymore's greatest London and New York comedy success, and in which Miss Russell recently closed a starring engagement throughout the States.

Full scenic equipment for each play is carried, and an entirely metropolitan production is assured. The company also carries their own orchestra, and the musical program is no mean feature.

Metcalfe's Fruit Report

Commissioner Metcalfe, writing this week from Regina, Brandon, and Winnipeg, says that peaches are now practically over, and prunes very nearly so. Crabs are scarce and in great demand at high prices. Jobbers, he says, are discouraging the shipping of crabs in other than the regular apple box or the half apple box, as growers and shippers, when quoting and shipping, do not state the size or kind of box, giving cause for dissatisfaction among jobbers and retailers by the use of various sizes. He thinks it advisable for shippers to use a uniform box, leaving no cause for complaint and misleading.

Pears are in great demand and prices are high. Apples of good quality and pack are in good demand, and prices fairly high for good stock, although some quotations from American points are low. Apples in New York State are reported as being bought at $3 per barrel, with the expectation that prices will advance in the near future.

Prices for Ontario apples as the season advances are rising, with a very short crop of poor quality. Reports coming to hand from various sources state that the East must draw largely from the West for their supply of apples this season, and for these and other reasons, the commissioner would advise B.C. shippers to hold firm to present prices being asked for good stock, and at the same time maintain the present high standard of fruit being shipped.

Demonstration Orchard Scheme Advancing

Preparations are advancing rapidly for the location of the demonstration orchards provided for by the appropriation of $10,000 included in the estimates of last season. The provincial demonstration orchard scheme is based primarily upon the well established fact that many orchards planted with the best of intention by more or less experienced men are not successful commercially. This is happening at the present time not less in British Columbia than in the states to the south.

With the object of demonstrating to planters of orchards the methods best adapted for the assurance of commercial success in their respective districts, the department of agriculture therefore proposes to co-operate with them under practical conditions. The demonstration orchards about to be established will, it is intended, be practical object lessons of the methods best calulated to avoid the usual causes of failure, and to yield the owners the largest possible returns for their investment.

The work of selection and allotment has been somewhat delayed by reason of the keen desire manifested by almost all fruit growers to enjoy the marked advantage which the scheme provides.

To the island two orchards are allotted, the one to be between Cowichan and Nanaimo, and the other in the Saanich peninsula somewhere in the vicinity of Victoria. Four orchards are allowed to the lower mainland; one probably in the Delta, one in Chilliwack and two in the Dewdney ridge.

The second orchards district is to comprise Shuswap, Armstrong, Nicola, Salmon Arm and Penneys (Wallachin), two orchards going to the constituency of Yale and two to that of Kamloops, Either three or four orchards are proposed for the third official district, which is to include Vernon, Kelowna, Summerland, Penticton and Keremeos. The fourth district provides for the Arrow district, Kootenay and the Boundary country, East and N. E. Kootenay.

It is expected that two orchards will be awarded to the Slocan district, one being given on Arrow and one on Slocan lake, with one on the Kootenay lake in the vicinity of Nelson, one at or near Cranbrook, one at Windermere, one at Rossland and another at Midway.

Northern British Columbia will constitute the fifth official division, to which two orchards will be given, the one in the Kitsumkalum, and the other at Lakelse.

The Canada Gazette announces the summoning of the Dominion Parliament for November 5th, but the openinp date of the session will probablybe thursday, November 11th.

PERSIAN WEAVERS.

The Way the Carpets Are Made by the Hand Workers.

In describing Persian industries Mrs Hume Griffith, in "Behind the Veil in Persia and Turkish Arabia," tells how the beautiful carpets of that country are made, of course without machinery of any kind. The warp is stretched on a loom, which is merely a frame. The woof consists of short threads woven and knotted by hand without the aid of a shuttle. When a row is finished it is pressed tightly to the rest of the web by means of a comb inserted into the warp.

"The weaver does not see the pattern as he works, for he sits with the reverse side of the web toward him. The looms are generally kept in an underground vaulted room, often with water running through the center. At each loom three or four workers sit, according to the size of the carpet. Sometimes the workers consist of one man and two children, and occasionally the owner uses boys and girls only for the weaving.

"I sat on the high stool by the side of a tiny girl, whose fingers were working away so fast I could hardly follow her movements. The overseer was walking up and down the room calling out instructions to the workers. To me it sounded a horrible, incoherent jumble, but the children seemed to understand it perfectly.

"The overseer held in his hand a paper, from which he was apparently reading out instructions. It was something like this:

"'To No. 1, three blue threads, one white, two green; No. 2, four yellow, one white,' and so on, each child repeating after the 'master' the instructions given. As it was all said in a high pitched monotone the result was confusing and deafening. But there the little weavers sit, day in, day out, week after week, in this dark, gloomy cellar, kept hard at it by the overseer."

WONDERS OF A WATCH.

Its Marvelous Mechanism and the Power That Moves It.

We hear much from time to time of the wonders of this or that complicated and intricate machine, but there are few pieces of machinery more marvelous than that of the common watch.

A watch, it may be stated as a general proposition, is the smallest, most delicate instrument of the same number of parts that has ever been devised. About 175 different pieces of material enter into its construction, and upward of 2,400 separate operations are comprised in its manufacture.

Certain of the facts connected with its performance are well nigh incredible when considered as a whole. A blacksmith strikes several hundred blows on his anvil in a day and, as a matter of course, is glad when Sunday comes, but the roller jewel of a watch makes every day and day after day—432,000 impacts against the fork, or 157,680,000 blows during the course of a year, without stop or rest—some 3,153,600,000 blows during the space of twenty years, the period for which a watch is usually guaranteed to keep good time.

But the wonder of it does not cease here. It has been calculated that the power that moves the watch is equivalent to only four times the force used in a flea's jump. The watch power is therefore what might be termed the equivalent of a four flea-power. One horsepower would suffice to operate 270,000,000 watches.

Furthermore, the balance wheel of a watch is moved by this four flea-power 1 43-100 inches with each vibration, or 3,558¾ miles continuously in one year.

Not much oil is required to lubricate the little machine on its 3,500 mile run. It takes only one-tenth of a drop to oil the entire machinery for a year's service.—Harper's Weekly.

Duck by Duck.

An old farmer had brought twenty ducks to the market to sell and, after the usual amount of haggling inseparable from a bargain of that description, managed to dispose of the lot to a dealer.

"That's 30 shillings I have to give you," said the dealer as he proceeded to count it out.

But the old chap's strong point was not arithmetic, and he was not satisfied with this mode of payment.

"Noa, noa!" he exclaimed. "Ye bought them at wan an' six apiece, an' ye'll jist pay for them duck by duck."

And "duck by duck" it had to be.—London Scraps.

How It Is Done.

Returning from school the other afternoon, a little girl proudly informed her mother that she had learned to "punchtate."

"Well, dear," said her mother, "and how is it done?"

"You see, mother," explained the child, "when you write 'Hark!' you put a hatpin after it, and when you ask a question you put a buttonhook!"

In Doubt.

Visitor—So your boy is in college, is he, Mr. Corntossle? Farmer—I can't say exactly. He's in ther ball nine, an' in ther rowin' crew, an' in ther jimnayzeeum, an' in ther domytory, but whether he's ever in ther college is more'n I kin find out by his letters. —Harper's Bazar.

Time's Changes.

Father (meditating on time's changes)—Ah, yes, the fashion of this world passeth away! Daughter—Indeed it does, papa. I shall want a new hat next week.

Employment and hardships prevent melancholy.—Johnson.

National Apple Show Facts

Great Vancouver Show Will Establish Record

The extensive scale upon which the management of the first Canadian National Apple Show have organized things will be evident from the facts given below. The show is to be held in Vancouver from Oct. 31st to Nov. 5th, inclusive, and will without doubt be a memorable event in the history of fruit growing in the province.

The services of the famous military band of the 48th Highlanders have been engaged. The band includes many stars in the Canadian musical world.

The big arena of the Horse Show building will be used to display the District, Limited two box, two barrel, two basket, two jar and plate contest, and box exhibits. The ring is 75 x 199 feet, containing nearly 15,000 square feet. The exhibits will be arranged around the ring upon an incline of 45 degrees, having a perpendicular of about 12 feet and 12 feet base. This arrangement will give a continuous display 12 feet wide, 12 feet high and approximately 450 feet long and will have the appearance of a veritable cascade of apples, having a fall of 17 feet without beginning and without end, which with the beautiful colourings of the King of fruit will present a scene never before equalled in the history of the world.

Completely surrounding the show ring are the spectators' galleries having a total seating of 3,000. A splendid and remarkable feature will be that every portion of the exhibit can be seen from any seat in the gallery.

The carload exhibits and plate displays will be housed in a temporary shed erected on Alberni street. This building will be 300 feet long, and longer if required. The carload exhibits will be arranged on a 17 feet incline, of 45 degrees around the four walls of the building.

Tables six feet wide will occupy the centre of the building and will extend its entire length. They will be specially constructed stair tables for the display of the plate exhibits, having three twelve inch treads with two four inch rises on each side. This arrangement, with a building fifty feet wide will give a passage way on each side ten feet wide. Allowing thirteen feet at each end for a passage way. The plate display table will be 250 feet long. Using ten inch plates this immense table will accommodate 1,800 plates of apples.

It is estimated by the secretary of the first Canadian National Apple Show that there will be 21 carloads apples exhibited at the big exposition. The exhibition rules require 600 boxes for a car, hence there will be a grand total of 12,600 boxes of apples on display.

There are 36 to 225 apples in a box according to size and the manner in which they are packed. The average would therefore be about 130 apples to each box of a total of 1,638,000 apples in the entire show. These apples will average about two and one-quarter inches in diameter, and if they were placed in a single row it would be 698 miles long. If a little boy should start to walk to the end of the row, and walk seven and one half miles a day it would require three months and three days to accomplish the feat.

The owners of these apples will receive $25,000 in prizes, or nearly two dollars per box. After the show is over the apples will sell readily at two to five per box, say an average of $3.50 per box, or a total of $44,100. Therefore the exhibitors will receive approximately $70,000 for the apples exhibited at Canada's first National Apple Show.

Now then, suppose that a greedy little boy who lives in London should ask his papa to buy all of those apples; how much would it cost his papa at a shilling apiece, and how long would it take that little boy to eat all of them, eating six apples a day?

The first Canadian National Apple Show management will give a season ticket entitling the holder to two admissions daily to the first 100 school boys and school girls of Vancouver who send in the correct answer to the above problem, and a prize diploma to the school whose pupils send in the most correct answers. Each contestant must give name and age and name of school of which he or she is a pupil.

A similar offer is made to the school boys and school girls of Victoria, and to the school boys and school girls of British Columbia living outside of Victoria and Vancouver.

The answers must be addressed to:

Canadian National Apple Show,
Room 7, Winch Building,
Vancouver, B. C.,

and on the lower left hand corner of the envelope must be the words "Vancouver Contest," or "Victoria Contest," according to the home of the little boy or girl. Those living outside of Victoria or Vancouver will simply write the word 'Contest' on the envelope.

A handsome souvenir cane and pennant will be given by the Salmon Arm, B. C. Fruit District to each and every contestant sending in the correct answer. The answers will be arranged alphabetically as to name of contestant and the pennant-canes distributed at the Horse Show building during the entire week of the National Apple Show. Any little boy or little girl who has sent in a correct answer may get the prize at the Horse Show building at any time during the week of the Apple Show. All he or she will have to do will be to announce his or her name to the "Apple King" who will be there for the purpose of distributing canes.

All answers must be received at the Secretary's office, Room 7, Winch Building, on or before October 7, 1910.

A Study in Heredity.

Prof. W. C. Ashcroft in a talk on alcohol in the Sunday Times relates the following:---

The most forceful presentment of the consequences of drink and the blessings of temperate life that I have seen came to my desk a few months ago in the shape of a little book giving a parallel in heredity. Its title is "Jukes--Edwards," and the author is Dr. A. E. Winship, of Boston. The study is that of two families, the one notorious and the other noted. The one is the family of Jukes, a name given to a Hollander who came to this country and settled in the state of New York something like two centuries ago, while the other is the family of Jouathan Edwards, the great New England theologian and preacher of colonial days.

Jukes was one of those fellows such as is usually conspicuous about saloons, who got drunk on occasion, would swear innocently and tell a dirty story in a way to make the boys laugh. He was not regarded as a good example, of course; and being thought worse to himself than to any one else, he was held as "good hearted," whatever that may mean. Jukes married and became the first progenitor of a family of about 1,200 persons, most of whom figured in the criminal records of New York. Some of them became thieves, some murderers, many of them paupers, and many of the women became prostitutes. The family has cost the state of New York in court trials, and for maintaining them in poorhouses, asylums, jails, and penitentiaries, $ 1,250,000, or over $ 1,000 each. The Edwards family, on the other hand, reached the number of 1,400 persons. They became famous as college presidents, governors of states, judges of courts, congressmen, members of legislatures, railroad presidents, merchants, lawyers, doctors, preachers, teachers, farmers, etc. They filled places of usefulness and contributed to the up-lift of society in every station of life. And the only degenerate of the 1,400 if he can be rated as such. was Aaron Burr jurist, United States Senator, and Vice-president, who failed to reach the presidency by only one electorial vote. The Edwards family were all producers of wealth and contributers to the general thrift of society. They were the products of the beneficent influences of education and religion.

But Jukes and his family were products of drink and its accompaniments, of the baser tendencies of a promiscuous and aimless life. They wrecked not only themselves, but sapped the wealth of the public.

This parallel study of the tendencies of drink on the one hand and of education and religion on the other, which I have gone over all too briefly, has been set down in a book; but these deadly and startling parallels are to be found in this and every other community where intoxicating liquors are sold as beverages.

Alcoholism Without Intoxication.

Drunkenness is ordinarily of brief duration and does not long outlast the presence of the intoxicating agent in the blood and tissues. It is essentially diffrent from the cronic poisoning (known as alcoholism) which has no necessary connection with drunkenness, but may and does very often develop in persons who have never been drunk in the proper sense of the word. The degenerative changes known as chronic alcoholism may vary from relatively slight modifications of the nutrition of the cells up to the total destruction of the essential tissue elements.— W. C. Sullivan M. D., in Alcoholism.

WHAT SOME PEOPLE SAY

And what they think is sometimes vastly different. Not so here. In the case of Repairs I tell you exactly the truth of the matter, and show you the proof. If I think the watch will not be as good as ever it was, I will tell you. Few people have any idea of the amount of work in repairing a broken watch,and therefore do not realize when they are overcharged. If you bring your repairs to me, you can rely on them receiving careful and prompt attention, and the cost made as low as possible.
