Ralph Smith At Revelstoke.

There was a fair attendance at the public meeting called on Saturday evening, including a number of ladies. J. M. Kellie took the chair, and there were on the platform Messrs. Ralph Smith, J. H. Hawthornwaite and Wm. Woodman, of Nanaimo; Thos. Taylor, conservative candidate, and Frank Craig. The chairman said the meeting was called in the interests of the labor party and to hear discussion from a labor standpoint.

Mr. Craig, the first speaker, said that the workers of the earth and world comprised seventy-five per cent of the total population and that they allow themselves to be led by one party because they said they were friends of labor, this is the condition of the workers to-day. He spoke of the benefits of labor unions and said that every working man should belong to a union. Working men have only lately found that to secure legislation conducive to their interests they must have labor candidates.

Mr. Woodman, the next speaker, expressed himself as always glad to see ladies present at a meeting. He quoted Thos. Jeffries on the object of government, and explained the stand of the labor party as being independent of all parties, this being due to the last year and largely to the present premier. He advocated an eight-hour day by compulsory legislation and said this measure was defeated by Joseph Martin putting forth every effort to defeat the Semlin government. The labor class of the constituency which last election elected Martin have come to the conclusion that they can no longer trust him and have banded together to put in candidates of their own. He spoke of an instance which attracted his attention while in Victoria about a month ago an army of Japs marching up the street, which he could only compare to a body of locusts.

Mr. Taylor was next called on, and after thanking the audience for the reception given him, said that he did not come for the purpose of making a speech but came on the invitation of Mr. Smith. On looking over the platform showed him by Mr. Smith he said he did not think there was anything wrong with it or anything not agreeable to the conservative party or Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Hawthornwaite said he was here to speak on behalf of the labor organizations of the coast. He spoke of the abuse of the Vancouver World on their arival in Vancouver for the purpose of organization. The labor organizations have come to the conclusion that it is time to do something for themselves. The platform of the Nanaimo labor party he said could do nothing but good. Five parties have been nominated by the labor parties on the coast and he hoped to have one here; in Nanaimo no party has dared to bring out a candidate against Ralph Smith. The eight-hour law was introduced by the Semlin party but that government was defeated principally by Joseph Martin. He thought eight hours long enough underground. It has been proven by the New Vancouver Coal company that white labor can intelligently compete with Japanese, Chinese or other labor brought to the coast. In Nanaimo, he said, it is a matter of bread and butter in opposing Joseph Martin.

Mr. Smith, the principal speaker of the evening, then came forward. He first spoke of the franchise to ladies of this country and explained the stand he had taken on this question; he had never yet met the person who gave reasons why women should not vote, and as he believed it to be right he would do all in his power to bring it about. Mr. Smith said that all he wanted to do in Revelstoke was to express his opinion on the political situation unbiased, as according to the papers the premier had taken liberties with his name; said he was prepared to speak without spite or feeling. The political organizations have been so perfected that a man cannot belong to a party and take a free hand. In 1898 he was connected with the Semlin party as a choice; the men who composed that party were men who had opposed the Davie and Turner parties and fought nobly; the Semlin government was not perfect, no one ever thought so. The question of road wages was then taken up and Mr. Smith expressed his opinion that every man working out on government work is entitled to more than $2.00 per day in this province; there had been an advancement made in July 1898 for object of getting men to vote the right way, but that kind of thing does not carry influence as it used to, and the Semlin government simply allowed it to stand at the former rate. How can we ask the mine owners to raise the wages from $2.50 to $2.75 when government pays $2.00 per day? He was entirely in favor of an eight-hour day in mines and everywhere if we can have it. The great friend to the labor union is the man who is disposed to be fair and just. What is not right for the mine owner can never be right for the miner. The eight-hour law is there to stay and differences between ten and eight hours must be settled on some other principle. He did not believe in allowing Dominion government to dictate in the matter of Chinese legislation as all sections are agreed on it. His address was brought to a close by advising the sending of men to the house who would stand honorably.

Mr. Lawrence having arrived, was invited to speak and cited the narrow escape after having this awful man Martin here as described by Mr. Smith. He said he was nominated as an independent supporter of the government platform but further than this was unpledged. "I am going to stay by my decision at that time—an independent supporter of government—and want no hole in the corner business but everything honorably, trusting that you will uphold me and deal as I wish to be done by—fairly and squarely."

Mr. Hawthornwaite then statad that the sole object they had in coming here was to bring out a labor candidate.

The meeting closed by singing "God Save the Queen."

On the invitation of Mr. Ralph Smith a number remained after the meeting when discussion arose as to the advisability of nominating a labor candidate and finally decided in favor of it upon a vote being taken. Nominations were then declared open and two names, those of Frank Craig and W. A. Nettle, were placed in nomination, the former being the choice of the meeting.

BACK FROM BIG BEND.

Well Satisfied With What They Saw But Went in Too Early.

W. R. and S. F. Ralston, M. A. Mitchell and F. C. Whitney, of Spokane, who went up to the Bend some time ago, returned yesterday. They visited Ground Hog and Standard Basins but in both places found the snow very deep and were unable to get a satisfactory look over the ground. On the return they went up Smith creek for a considerable distance and report discoveries which they claim the old timers knew nothing of, one of these is a waterfall of about 500 feet on one of the forks of the creek and this they say was a very pretty sight from a distance though the timber spoiled the view when near by. The latter part of July or first of August they expect to again visit the district but for the present they will return home to Spokane. Asked their opinion on the Upper Columbia for navigation they said that the canyon would be the most difficult place owing to the recent slide some rocks of which would probably have to be blown out in low water but above that there would not be much difficulty. The trail is in good condition.

A BEAR STORY.

Taree Silver Tips Shot at Laforme Creek.

Ed. Adair returned Friday evening from his properties at Laforme creek and tells a story of a bear hunt. He arrived at the mine at noon on Thursday in time for dinner at which caribou meat was served, and in speaking of it Dan McIntosh remarked that he had two quarters of meat cached but the bears had raised it and he would get even with them. Going out in the evening they saw three silver tip bears finishing the remaining meat. McIntosh armed himself with a rifle and accompanied by Dave Morgan carrying a bar of steel went in pursuit of the bears opening fire on the largest one first and shooting twice before being seen; the injured bear charged until within 20 feet of Mac when a third shot finished it, Dave being promptly to the rescue with his bar of steel. The remaining two made for up the hill but the second was killed without difficulty, the third made an attack coming within about 15 feet when a second shot knocked it out. The trio was composed of one old bear, the others being about one and two years of age.

Mr Adair says work is progressing at the mine but there was nothing new in the way of strikes.

The Municipal Council

There were present at the city council meeting Friday evening Mayor Smith and Ald. Patrick, Kilpatrick, Abrahamson, Newman and Peterson.

Minutes of last regular meeting read and adopted.

A communication was received from W. Cowan re the installation of new telephone pole system plan submitted, and asking the council's advice on prevention of turning in false fire alarms by wires crossing while being strung.

Chief Bain reported a washout on Campbell avenue causing the road to be closed. Referred to public works committee.

W. A. McKinnon, an engineer in Vancouver, wrote offering to do the work of inspecting water works plant for $20 per day and $250 for a report. Filed.

C. M. Field submitted rate for insuring firemen against accident while on duty. Filed.

Moved and seconded by Ald. Newman and Abrahamson that Revelstoke, Trout Lake and Big Bend Telephone Co. be notified that this council intends to pass a by-law regulating the erection of poles and wires within the city, and that they be requested to delay the erection of any poles pending the passing of such by-law. Carried.

Moved and seconded by Ald. Kilpatrick and Abrahamson that the chairman of the public works committee be instructed to have a new culvert placed at washout on Campbell avenue as per attached plan without delay. Carried.

Your special committee appointed to consider the matter of crossing over the C. P. R. at Douglas street recommend that on account of the unsatisfactory nature of the reply received from the C. P. R. officials that this committee be empowered to employ a surveyor to prepare plans and profiles of the proposed crossing; also to call any witnesses or take affidavits which may be required so as to bring this matter to a satisfactory conclusion before the railway committee at Ottawa, and that provision be made out of the civic funds to defray the necessary expenses.

Moved and seconded by Ald. Kilpatrick and Abrahamson that the report of special committee be received for consideration. Carried.

Ald. Abrahamson explained proposal of C. P. R. to bear expense of road way under Columbia bridge, or allow council to make a tunnel crossing at First street at its own expense. He said there is now a good crossing at Douglas street where the people want it if the company will lay plank, and that the council should not be obliged to follow course to satisfy railway company.

Ald. Peterson said company was afraid of danger on Douglas street crossing but others could not see it.

Ald. Patrick thought it was a good safe way to go around under bridge.

Ald. Kilpatrick would like to see crossing on Douglas street to satisfy people but thought proposal of C. P. R. to do work at bridge free of cost to city fair.

Ald. Peterson asked how it will be if another crossing is wanted at Douglas street after accepting proposal of company, saying that he thought it would be the same again.

Mayor Smith was in favor of accepting offer of company as the road would probably be put though at once.

Ald. Abrahamson replying to Ald. Kilpatrick said that he did not consider present route a crossing at all not being on a street. The crossing on Douglas street would not be dangerous as there is clear space on either side for considerable distance.

Ald. Kilpatrick said it was either a matter of accepting proposal of company or go to railway committee.

Ald. Peterson remarked that there is not one crossing in town but C. P. R. can stop. If necessary law suit should be taken up as company is merely running a bluff.

Ald. Kilpatrick said both sides of question must be looked at as in case of expenditure citizens would ask what money was spent for. He said council had an offer of two crossings and the acceptance of one of these did not bar them from getting another. This council should use a great deal of consideration before entering into lawsuit.

Mayor Smith thought an underground crossing safer.

The correspondence passing between railway officials and city since October 12th last was then produced and read.

Ald. Abrahamson thought all that is required is to demand crossing and law suit would not be necessary. Unsafe condition of Douglas street is no excuse. He compared danger of Douglas street crossing with that of McKenzie avenue where trains are continually shunting.

Mayor Smith suggested accepting offer of company and then trying for Douglas street crossing.

Ald. Abrahamson thought council was not asking a favor but rights as one individual can demand a crossing wherever wanted.

Ald. Newman suggested letting the matter go to the people.

Moved and seconded by Ald. Abrahamson and Peterson that the report of special committee be adopted.

Ald. Kilpatrick inquired where the funds were to come from.

Ald. Abrahamson replied that they would come from same place that other funds do.

Ald. Kilpatrick—Am I to understand that it will go before the people.

Ald. Abrahamson thought the only expense would be of an engineer and counsel at Ottawa.

Ald. Patrick thought some idea of cost should be given.

Motion was put, Ald. Abrahamson and Peterson voting for; Ald. Kilpatrick, Patrick, Newman and the mayor against.

Moved by Mayor Smith seconded by Ald. Patrick that the city council accept offer of C. P. R. for Front street crossing giving away no right for Douglas street. Laid over one week.

The public works and property committee reported the contract for painting fire hall completed satisfactorily and recommended payment.

Moved and seconded by Ald. Newman and Abrahamson that report of public works and property committee dated May 18th be received for consideration. Carried.

Moved and seconded by Ald. Newman and Kilpatrick that report of public works committee dated May 18th be adopted. Carried.

Ald. Arabamson inquired what council intended doing about appointment of police magistrate.

Mayor Smith said Mr. Coursier had wired the premier in regard to acting as police magistrate but received no reply.

Moved and seconded by Ald. Kilpatrick and Patrick that this council refer back to order of business "motions." Carried.

Moved and seconded by Ald. Kilpatrick and Patrick that the amount of $25 be applied towards engaging the Revelstoke City band on the Queen's Birthday. Carried, Ald. Peterson voting nay.

Moved and seconded by Ald. Newman and Patrick that the city clerk be instructed to tender E. Christeson $30 in gold for use of his shack and damage for loss of contents as a hospital. Carried.

After the signing of checks the council adjourned.

The Salvation Army.

It may be a matter of surprise to many of our readers to discover that the balance sheet of the Salvation Army, in the various countries in which it operates, show that the total savings effected by means of Self Denial, (which is the same effort as it is now locally engaged in,) last year amounted to the startling sum $400,000.00. This is all the more astonishing when it is taken into consideration that the great majority of the Army's followers are poor people. We learn that in this territory this year the Army is endeavoring to raise the total sum of $20,000.00 with one-half of which amount it purposes establishing the nucleus of a Pension Fund for the relief of its invalided officers worn out by years of faithful service. The novel and practical features which the Salvation Army, in the scheme of Self Denial adopts, is about as commendable as are the objects of the enterprise. We wish the organization all the success it so well deserves.

CURTAIN RAISERS.

Edwin Hoff is writing a comic opera, which, it is reported, Frank Daniels will use next season.

"The Mysterious Mr. Bugle" has been "withdrawn" by Walter Walker, who was starring in it.

A biograph in a Boston theater shows pictures of the action of the plays that are successes in the other theaters.

Felix Morris has the largest company in vaudeville. In his play "Behind the Scenes" he requires five assistants.

Robert Downing, the tragedian, lately in vaudeville, has deserted it and has opened a school of acting in Washington.

Edith Crane has gone to Australia to play Tess there a year. She was the original Australian Trilby and is very popular.

Maggie Cline is "Throwin Down McCluskey" in Philadelphia and has made a sensation. They call her "the Queen of Erin."

John C. Rice and Sallie Cohen, his wife, have deserted vaudeville and joined "Over the Fence," a farce comedy of the fiercest type.

It is announced from New York that Anna Held has made public the fact that she and Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., were married in Paris two years ago!

Believe it or not, but it is given out with much show of authority that Jessie Bartlett Davis has definitely abandoned her starring tour for this season.

Charles Frohman has canceled Annie Russell's January dates out of New York in order to carry on the run of "Miss Hobbs" at the Lyceum theater there.

The story is told that before Ada Rehan returned to this country recently she was offered $75,000 for one season as a star under a certain management and that she refused it.

A company has been formed in Chicago to build 20 boats, with steel hulls and staff fronts, for use as floating theaters. They will be little Midways and will be run on the concession plan.

A LA MODE.

Costume satin and satin finished cloths are classed among the leading fabrics for dressy tailor gowns for the winter.

Vivid red velvet toques, all red or toned with standing and falling black plumes, are set forth for dressy winter wear.

This is undoubtedly a "fur and velvet season," and, besides the high grades shown in both these goods, there have been brought out for the holiday trade some holiday "duplicates"—i. e., inferior grades with an attractive "finish."

The new bonne femme skirt, with plaits or wider kilts stitched two-thirds of their length from the belt down, is finding great favor among the many women who objected to the flat, unadorned, undraped sheath skirt of recent universal wear.

Many of the handsome guimpes and yokes, added to the waists of winter gowns, extend over the shoulders, forming a dressy sleeve cap and also imparting an appearance of additional breadth. This is a distinct advantage to slender women.

Curved and pointed passementeries and lace appliques laid over satin or applied directly to the dress fabric are so arranged on some of the newest costumes and evening toilets as to suggest the shadow of a coming event in the form of panniers.

The fronts of many of the fashionable waists shown by city importers are still gracefully full and slightly drooping. There is a narrow opening down the middle, the edges are scalloped and trimmed, and a vest of net, lace or silk of contrasting color shows beneath the opening. A rich wine color is much liked for these winter waists.—New York Post.

WINTER'S BLASTS.

Cold weather never contracts the price of fuel.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Man now arranges his coat so that he will get hot under the collar.—Pittsburg Post.

The "beautiful snow" poets are liable to suffer with fatigue of the imagination this season.—Baltimore News.

We have no hesitation in advising our readers that it is now safe to remove the screens and put on the double windows.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

One can always tell when winter has arrived by the number of cheerful idiots who simply must get off and on the front end of the street car.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Just as cold winter arrives reports of coal scarcity are rife. It would indeed be marvelous if after so many years' experience the clever coal merchant could not get ahead of the long spell of mild weather which must have greatly increased the coal reserve.—Chicago Daily News.

THE COOKBOOK.

Apples are less liable to break when being cored if they are not peeled until afterward.

Cheese can be kept from molding by rubbing the cut part with butter. Cover with a white paper and keep in a dry place.

When roasting a turkey, when nearly cooked place a light brown paper that has been buttered over the fowl, so that it will not become cooked too brown.

You can give a delicious flavor to your gingerbread by filling it with almonds split into halves, so as not to be heavy enough to sink to the bottom of the dough while cooking.

Chicken feet are rich in gluten and also a decided addition to the flavor of chicken stock, soup or gravy. Wash thoroughly, cover with boiling water, and after a few minutes have elapsed the skin and scales can be easily removed.

WINDY CITY WAIFS.

Chicago boasts of the longest pendulum in the world, the same having recently been hung in the Masonic temple. We may now expect to hear that the Windy City is subsisting on tick.—Omaha News.

Western avenue, with its 22 miles of length within the city, is the longest street in Chicago. It is also, as a consequence, the longest municipal highway in America and probably in the world.—Chicago Tribune.

MATRON AND MAID.

Mary Agnesi, at least for the Italians, is the most illustrious among women scientists. It was she who was called the oracle of seven languages.

Miss Avery, a Boston belle, who shook hands with Admiral Dewey during his visit to her city, has had the glove which she wore on that occasion handsomely framed.

Christine Nilsson recently paid a visit to her native town in Sweden. She had a cordial reception, but did not sing in public, and she has now returned to her home in Paris.

Lady Dilke has just published a critique on French paintings, and the Duchess of Sutherland also appears as the author of a book dealing with the life of a factory girl.

Clara Barton, the noted Red Cross worker, was asked the other day the proper number for a small working committee. Remembering how often she had been compelled to do the work of others in such circumstances, she replied, "Three, if one is sick and another can't come."

Mrs. Lydia A. B. Woods, who died recently in York, Neb., bequeathed $10,000 each to York and Falls City, in that state, to establish public libraries similar to the one which Mrs. Woods gave, while living, to Humboldt. The residue of the estate, after some private bequests, goes to the Denver Orphans' home.

Margaret Sangster, Brooklyn's able journalist, has not wholly severed her connection with Harper's Bazar, although she is no longer editor of that weekly. Her time is divided between work in the publishing department, the editing of manuscripts and writing special articles for both The Ladies' Home Journal and The Christian Herald.

Mrs. Minnie D. Louis of New York is the national field secretary of the Jewish Chautauqua society. She is traveling over the country for the purpose of urging the Jewish people to take up a systematic course of reading in Jewish history and literature and to organize circles and to promote the cause represented by the Jewish Chautauqua society and its similar assemblies.

Mrs. William Gerry Slade, founder of the National Society of New England Women and president of the Empire State society, United States Daughters of 1812, has been admitted to membership in the National Society of the Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America. This means that Mrs. Slade can show a line of unbroken ancestry in the male line in America from a date prior to 1632 and that all these ancestors have been patriots.

Marketing In Paris.

One of the chief things you will have to battle with in your French household is the principle of caste, and the next is the sou in the franc. Your cook does your marketing, and for every franc she spends she gets one sou. Human nature being what it is, it is quite unnecessary to add that the good cook loves to go only where she will spend many francs, and her sous will be proportionate.

I have never heard of but one woman in Paris who did her own marketing, and she was a penurious but wealthy person, who put on a long ulster and carried things home under it herself. One day, just as she passed a courtly Frenchmen of the old school, a leg of mutton dropped and rolled over on the sidewalk. He picked it up and handed it to her. "Madame, here is your fan," was all he said.—Harper's Bazar.

Our Shadow Selves.

Every person produces a shadow picture upon the sensitive plate afforded by people whom he meets and even upon the things among which he moves. To every human being the world outside is a huge mirror, reflecting back to him what he himself places before it.

A person returning from an evening party complained to a policeman that an ill looking fellow was following him. The officer proved to him that the cause of his complaint was simply his own shadow.

Frown at the world, and it will frown back at you. Smile at it—it will return that smile, and with good interest too.—Pilgrim.

Not All His Fault.

Her head rested on his shoulder, and her little hand lay confidingly in his.

"Tell me now, Alfred," said the happy maiden, "how you ever came to pick me outas the girl you wanted to marry."
