The Presbyterian Sunday school held a picnic at Deadwood on Saturday afternoon last when about 45 children took advantage of the opportunity to mingle with one another. Games of all descriptions were played and the afternoon passed away all too quickly. After refreshments and ice-cream was served the happy children were driven home in automobiles and carriages tired but joyful.

At the meeting of the fire department on Monday night Norman McLeod was presented with a watch chain made to match a locket as a token of appreciation for his services during the 14 years he has been member of the brigade. Mr. McLeod who has been sub-chief for five years and chief for two years tendered his resignation some time ago and this was the first opportunity the department had of showing their appreciation of his services. Sid Storer made the presentation address and several others spoke of the taith and confidence held in their former chief. During the past few weeks Mr. McLeod was presented with a Past Chancellor Commander's Jewel by the Knights of Pythias and the Masonic Lodge gave him a locket as a rememberance of his friends in Greenwood.

A banker going home to dinner saw a $5.00 bill on the sidewalk, he picked it up and noted the number and went home to dinner, while at home his wife remarked that the butcher had sent a bill amounting to $5.00. The only cash he had was the $5.00 he had found, which he gave her to pay the butcher. The butcher paid it to a farmer, for a sucking pig, the farmer got $5.00 worth of goods with it at a store, the merchant paid it to one of his help who wished a small loan on account, he paid his room rent with it, she owing the banker a $5.00 note went to the bank and paid the note. The banker recognized the bill as the one he had found and which to that time had paid $25.00 worth of debt. On careful examination he found that the bill was counterfeit. Now what was lost in he transaction and by whom.

K. of P's Entertain.

The progressive whist party given by the local lodge Knights of Pythias in their hall on Wednesday night was a most enjoyable affair. Upwards of 100 were present and all seemed to be out bent upon having a good time, and they certainly had a swell evening, for the K. of P's are up-to-the-minute hosts. Twenty tables were nicely arranged for cards and after Mr. Matthews announced the manner in which the score was to be made, all played with a good natured determination to win. Mrs. Wm. Phillips won the ladies first prize scoring 143 and Mrs. Adams was a close second with 142 points. Jno. Hancock won the gentleman's prize with 143 points and David Werry got second. During the games the gramophone was kept busy which added much to the entertainment of the guests. Luncheon was served shortly before midnight and justice was done to this part of the programme as the coffee and cake was good and the ice cream delicious. Supper over a splendid programme of songs was given by E. Bidder, E. McCutcheon, R. Purden, Wm Spooner and a duett by Mrs. Terhune and J. Hancock all of which were exceptionally well rendered. Mr. F. White as Chancellor Commander of the lodge welcomed the guests in his own happy way and after singing Auld Lang Syne all left for their various homes feeling that the K. of P's as entertainers are past masters.

THE LEDGE

is located at Greenwood, B. C., and can be traced to many parts of the earth. It comes to the front every Thursday morning, and believes that hell would close up if love ruled the world. It believes in justice to everyone; from the man who mucks in the mine to the king who sits on the cushions of the throne. It believes that advertising is the life of trade; and that one of the noblest works of creation is the man who always pays the printer.

The Ledge is $2.00 a year in advance, or $2.50 when not so paid. It is postage free to all parts of Canada, Mexico, Great Britain and the county of Bruce. To the United States it is $2.50 a year, always in advance.

Thinking Themes

Every mind has its own world. There are as many worlds as there are people.

What the universe really is no one knows; it is a vain question, for nobody will ever find out; the only matter of interest is what the universe is to me.

So many men, so many worlds. The worlds of the degenerate, slouching along the slums; of a monk in his old world monastery where the days slip by with no marking incidents but recurring matins and vespers; of a busy lawyer; of a newspaper reporter; and of a housewife, occupied with her children, her sewing, her baking, are as so many different planets.

It is idle to speculate about "the end of the world, and whether it will be burned next Thursday in a grand Day of Judgment or to be frozen to death a million years from now, or be knocked into pi some day by a loose comet; for when its all over with me, when my consciousness ceases to record, it is all over with me, "the sum of things entire."

To be sure there is what William James called a "blooming confusion of consciousness," that is there is a myriad-multitude of things in the outside world that crowd upon our attention, but after all we make the world what we will "just as the architect is free to create his building" from all the material he finds.

The late Henri Poincare, who received the Bolyal prize from the Hungarian academy as the most eminent mathematician in the world, said:

"What is not thought is nought; since we can think only thoughts, and eveyy word we use in talking about things stands for a thought, to assert there is anything else than thought is a senseless affirmation.

"Geologic history teaches us," he concludes, that life is only an episode between two eternities of death, and even in this episode thought endures but a moment. Thought is but a flash in the midst of a long night. But that flash is everything."

What a fool then am I to think that any outward event can overwhelm me!

What all men can do to me is nothing; it only matters what I do to myself.

To a soul that knows realities there can be no tragedy, no collapse no failure. In that moment when the volcano spews upon him, the lightning sears him, or the rage of men burn him or crucify him, he inwardly laughs. They cannot reach his world.

My world is my secret. You cannot enter, you can only guess. I have my little hells and heavens, but they are not yours.

If I put the right value upon thoughts I need not fear things.

Grand Forks Fair

Everything is now about in readiness and points to the Grand Forks Fair, to be held Sept. 25 and 26 eclipsing the splendid shows of the Agricultural association here in previous years. The directors held a special meeting Monday evening, when various matters of detail were arranged.

Entries are already being made for the various competitive exhibits, and from the expression of those who purpose exhibiting the display of products of the farm and ranch will be particularly good.

Word has been received from several teams who have signified their intention of entering in the baseball and football tournaments, which give assurance of some first-class games. Information is to hand that there will be some good strings of horses for the track events, most of which will probably be well filled.

A new feature for the fair was arranged this week, when the Grand Forks company of School cadets were secured to give an exhibition of drills and camp manoeuvres. They will also take part in several competitive events. It will be remembered that the Grand Forks cadets won the Union Jack for the best drilled company in camp at Nelson, in competition with the various Kootenay companies.

Another good attraction for gun men will be put on the first day of the fair, when a live pigeon shoot will be pulled off under the auspices of the Grand Forks Gun club. The local club have secured several hundred live pigeons and the shoot should prove a big drawing card for marksman of the district.—Grand Forks Gazette.

Room In Eholt.

Writing to The Ledge from Eholt David Oxley says:—

"As there seems to be a difference of opinion as to the best site for the new post office building in Greenwood, I would suggest that there are several good sites in Eholt, especially one on Motion St. and Automobile avenue, with an excellent view of the C.P.R. depot and Union Hotel. As this site has not been mentioned before with reference to the above building its selection might lend to settle all disputes and heart-burnings in the matter."

News From Kaslo

Ed. Rodolph, a former Kaslo resident, the owner of property here and a member of the staff of the Dominion department of mines, was in town on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, having only recently arrived in the Kootenays from Montreal, in which city he has been engaged in department work since leaving Kaslo. He is accompanied by his two daughters. Mr. Redolph has been doing a great deal of research work and as a result of experiments in the laboratory believes that there is a possibility that the problem of the reduction of zinc and mixed zinc-lead silver ores by an electrical process that saves values where old processes lose, is solved. His present mission here is to try the plan out at the little electric smelter put up at Fairview some years ago, where it is hoped that the success of the scheme from a commercial standpoint will be demonstrated. Mr. Redolph is an enthusiastic admirer of the Kootenays and particularly of Kaslo. People living here, he says, do not realize, as a whole, how well off or how fortunate they are and the possibilities that are about them.

A test shipment of ore amounting to about thirty sacks, was brought down from the Red Elephant mine, on Hall creek, on Monday, the shipment being made by J. W. Power and Hughie McKay, the owners of the property. This shipment will be cut up into three lots, one of them to go to the State College of Mines, Pullman, Wash., for testing, and the other two to separate smelters, also for testing, the idea being to discover the best method of treating the ore.

This season's work on the property has developed nothing new. A cross cut was started to open up a ledge running parallel with the one upon which some development work has already been done but work had to be abandoned before the ledge was cut on account of the supply of powder having run short. It cost $30 to get the thirty sacks of ore from Hall creek to Howser, the nearest railway station and it traveled by pack train, launch and wagon in making the trip.

According to reports brought down from the Upper Duncan section, a new strike has been made on the Wagner group by Cutler T. Porter, who has been conducting prospecting operations this summer by means of sluicing. No particulars are obtainable at the present time regarding the nature of the new find but it is believed to be a big one, Mr. Porter having gone down to Spokane to round up some of the mining men down there to come up and take a look at it.

A party of investors went into the Upper Duncan section recently with the intention of going up Westfall creek to examine the Old Gold property. They were unable to get very far above Healy's landing, however, on account of the condition of the trail up the river above that point and were obliged to return without reaching their destination.—Kaslo Kootenaian.

From the Steerage.

Thirty-two years ago Adolph Olson a little boy, landed at the New York immigrant station. He had come from Sweden and was held up at Ellis Island until the inspectors were satisfied he had friends in Minnesota who would take care of him. As the lad grew up he found so many Adolph Olsons among his Swedish-American citizens that he petitioned the court to allow him to take the woman he married. So today he is Adolph Olson Eberhard, and he is the governor of the sovereign state of Minnesota, which is going some in thirty two years.

Yet the man who has risen from steerage to the governor's chair has not forgotten the days of hardship in his youth. Visiting in New York last week he heard of a little German boy who had been held up at the immigration station under circumstances identical with those which confronted Adolph Olson thirty two years ago. So the governor of Minnesota got busy and after a hard day's work convinced the authorities that the little immigrant's Minnesota friends would take care of him, and secured his release.

Is history going to repeat itself and thirty years hence will the immigrant boy who was helped through Ellis Island by the governor of Minnesota become his successor in that gubernatorial chair? Who can tell?

Nelson Fair.

Judging from the entries already received the Fruit and Poultry exhibits at this years Fair will greatly exceed that of any previous year, whilst other departments are equally heavy.

The railroad companies are quoting a special rate of single fare for the round trip, which is an exceptionally good one, and will no doubt be taken advantage of as the program provided for the entertainment of visitors at this year's fair is an unusually strong one, far outranking that of any previous exhibition and will be equal to any of the platform attractions seen at the biggest fairs of the west. Some fifteen acts have been procured from the Western Vaudeville Managers Association of Chicago, which in itself is a guarantee of only high class performers. These with other attractions such as horse races, rock drilling contests, district displays etc, will be a hard combination to beat.

Probably the attraction around which the most interest will centre will be that of the "Battle in the Clouds" and "The Electric Screen" a most gorgeous pyrotechnic display which has been secured at great expense and will be in charge of the well-known firm of Hitt & Co. who will also provide fireworks at the Spokane and Vancouver Exhibitions.

The dates are September 23rd, 24th and 25th.

General Dabney H. Maury, of the confederate army, used to tell a story about his faithful negro boy, Jim, the son of his old mammy, whom he took with him to the war. The General was not a large man, except in the traits which makes great men and great soldiers.

After the battle of Corinth, where he was promoted to the rank of Major-General on the battle field, he came into his tent and called his servant. "Jim," he said, "when you make up my cot, tuck those blankets well in at the foot. My feet stick out all night."

Looking up at him with an amused look, Jim said, "Marse Dabney- you ain't growed none, is you, since you got promoted yesterday?"—Lippincott's.

ARGO TUNNEL

It is necessary to develop and work the natural resources that surround a city in order to bring prosperity to the community. The tunnel at the Argo is in a long distance and a large body of high grade ore may be struck at any time. This would mean a big profit to the stockholders and another boom for Greenwood.

LOWERY'S CLAIM

During the 87 months that Lowery's Claim was on earth it did business all over the world. It was the most unique, independent and fearless journal over produced in Canada. Political and theological enemies pursued it with the venom of a rattlesnake until the government shut it out of the mails, and its editor ceasad to publish it, partly on account of a lazy liver and partly because it takes a pile of money to run a paper that is outlawed. There are still 20 different editions of this condemned journal in print. Send 10 cents and get one or $2 and get the bunch.

Synopsis of Coal Mining Regulations.

COAL mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and in a portion of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

Deputy Minister of the Interior.

About Float.

Float is not a periodical. It is a book containing 86 illustrations all told, and is filled with sketches and stories of western life. It tells how a gambler cashed in after the flush days of Sandon; how it rained in New Denver long after Noah was dead; how a parson took a drink at Bear Lake in early days; how justice was dealt in Kaslo in '93; how the saloon man outprayed the women in Kalamazoo, and graphically depicts the roamings of a western editor among the tenderfeet in the cent belt. It contains the early history of Nelson and a romance of the Silver King mine. In it are printed three western poems, and dozens of articles too numerous to mention. Send for one before it is too late. The price is 25 cents, postpaid to any part of the world. Address all letters to

BOUNDARY MINES

A Victoria company will put a force of men to work at the Sally mine near Beaverdell next month.

The recent big blast at the Mother Lode mine near Greenwood, when more than 24 tons of dynamite was set off at once was the largest blast in the history of mining.

The Gazette recently paid a visit to the Oregon property which has been under development pretty constantly since March last and the indications appeared favorable for reaching the ore body. Jim McNulty and partner are busy driving a crosscut at almost right angles from the face of the Bahrs tunnel to catch the footwall of an ore body which, from surface indications and the geology of the hill, should soon be encountered unless the ore body of which they are in quest has been playing some of those pranks for which elusive ore bodies are sometimes noted.

The Oregon lies on the east side of the Similkameen river between three and four miles below Hedley and is on the watershed between Eighteen Mile and Sixteen Mile creeks which flows in the Similkameen.

About six years ago Henry Bahrs had a bond on the property and ran in a tunnel to tap an ore body which was exposed on the surface but appeared to have miscalculated the shape in which it was lying for the tunnel apparently ran below it and across the line of the strike. The work now being done is a crosscut from the face of the Bahrs tunnel and almost at right angles to it. If the strike of the ore body should be as the owners believe it to be, the ore will be struck in the top of the crosscut.

Excellent values were obtained from samplings of various outcrops and since Bahrs threw up his bond a great deal of stripping and trenching has been done to size up the geology of the immediate vicinity and ascertain the relative positions of the various rock formations and their trend. This done, the present work seems well calculated to give results, but nevertheless mining problems are not always easy of solution and when they are finally worked out and the answer to the riddle is laid bare, one is apt to be struck with the number of chances there are for missing the object sought to each one there is for finding it. This feature has been most effectively illustrated in certain portions of the Nickel Plate mine and make some interesting tragic and comic chapters in its history.—Hedley Gazette.

That the North Fork mining district, and Glouster camp in particular, is on the eve of writing an important chapter of mining history is the opinion of those well-informed in mining circles. And it will not be a surprise to many if Glouster will develop into one of the richest camps in British Columbia.

A dozen years ago a large number of mining properties on the North Fork were opened up to a considerable extent and some bore all the earmarks of future producers, but were never developed to the extent of warranting the Kettle Valley railway in extending its line beyond LynchCreek, the present terminus. Through the difficulty in getting the ore out for treatment the development of properties gradually ceased. The big mining companies at different times sent experts into the district to examine various mining claims, but apparently with unsatisfactory results.

But throughout the long lull pioneer prospectors never wavered in their faith as to the future of mining properties on the North Fork and many resumed work on their claims this year. Among them was Louis Johnson and partners, who have been developing the Union group of claims, which was referred to at length in a recent issue of The Gazette as having some splendid ore and from which a shipment of a carload of ore has been made. Thirty tons were hauled by wagon to Lynch Creek, 28 miles, and shipped by car to Granby smelter via the Kettle Valley railway. The transportation and smelting charges amounted to $22.50 a ton. Although the owners have secured the returns of this ore from the Granby, the figures are shrouded in mystery as far as the public is concerned. Aside from the statement that, notwithstanding the high cost of transportation, the returns leave a substantial margin, Mr. Johnson has nothing to say. It is rather significant, however, that the number of teams for hauling the ore have been doubled this week. Mr. Johnson intends to continue the shipments and when snow comes will ship a carload a week.

"There are prospects for a big mining camp on the North Fork," said C. H. Niles, who with G. E. Massie returned Thursday from a hurried auto trip to Glouster camp. "There appears to be a number of properties with good ore, and with proper development the Kettle Valley railway will no doubt extend its line to the mines. It is stated that a grade of one per cent. can be obtained the entire distance from Grand Forks, which will be an important feature for transportation."

The wagon road for the 46 miles to Glouster is in fine shape for motoring at present, according to Mr. Niles.—Grand Forks Gazette.

Kirkland Lake Gold

Toronto.—The Kirkland Lake gold field is attracting much attention and a rush of prospectors, mining men and speculators has set in, which recalls the days of the Cobalt and Porcupine running booms.

The principal distribution point is Swastika, where great activity prevails and a small settlement is springing up at Kirkland Lake—the government road now being constructed from Swastika to Kirkland Lake being rapidly pushed to completion.

Many new discoveries are being reported. At the Burnside property, adjoining the Foster, a surface vein showing free gold has been stripped for 50 feet and a 19-inch ore body found the values of which are stated to run as high as $700 per ton. The Robbins claim in the same locality has a high grade vein two to three inches wide showing visible gold and tellurium.

The rich vein at the Foster (formerly the Tough-Oakes) which first attracted attention to the camp, maintains its values.

The operation of the five-stamp mill has rendered it evident that the straight amalgmation process will not suffice for the extraction of the metallic content of the ore. The recovery only amounting to about 50 per cent. of the values. It will therefore be necessary to instal larger and more expensive machinery.

Capitalists looking for investments make the same complaint as was frequent in connection with Porcupine development, that prospectors ask exorbitantly high prices for their claims, but on the other hand it is alleged that the figures at which locations with good surface showings can be had are more reasonable than those asked in other camps.

The vein recently cut at the Teck Hughes mine, Kirkland Lake, at the 100-foot level, shows 14 inches of high grade ore, equal to that on the surface. This vein had dipped out of the shaft at the depth of 40 feet and was picked up about 35 feet from the shaft. A winze will be sunk on the ore and the vein followed down to the 200-foot level. The vein has now being stripped for 1,400 feet on the Teck-Hughes and the Wettlaufer property adjoining. So far the Teck-Hughes is the only Kirkland Lake mine that has done any drifting or cross-cutting.

Bridesville News

Harry Grey has bought a lot in this town between H. T. Letts and the Bridesville Livery Barn. Harry will build this fall.

There is still a good opening for a blacksmith and harness maker here.

Chas. Dempsey and Curly Campbell were in town last Sunday. Both look well and say the fishing and hunting at the lake is extra good this year.

Mr. Nicholson, J. P. of Rock Creek, called here last week. Mr. Nicholson reports the crops as never looking so fine as they do this fall. He took the stage back to Rock Creek last Wednesday.

Wm. Letts is doing some repair work on the roads near Sidley. The government is altering some of the roads for the new Bridesville Rural Mail Route No. 2, which will start some time this month.

The Glenside Threshing Co's. machine started out from here on Thursday Sept. 6th. Their first place was Porter's Ranch near Sidley. They expect to have a long run this year.

Charles Hamilton left on Saturday for the Spokane Fair. Charlie expects to take in all the sights.

F. T. Gleeson, foreman for Guthrie McDougall & Co., of Portland, received notice to resume work with the steam shovel filling the two tunnels near Bridesville. Mr. Greeson expects to put on double shifts in order to complete the work before Jan. 1st.

Mr. Plunkett, of Chesaw, with three friends met with an accident while on their way to Bridesville in an auto last Friday night. While making a sharp turn the car ran off the grade turning completely over. Luckily no one was seriously injured.

The Bluff That Failed

Did this happen to one of our local friends? Bob opened a real estate office in an attractive suburban neighborhood and hoped to make his fortune. For days he sat undisturbed in his little office, staring out at the dusty roads or twidding his thumbs. On the afternoon of the fourth day he saw a man crossing the boulevrad diagonally headed for the door. Surely this was a customer. He must be made to feel that business was flourishing.

As the man stepped over the threshold Bob had the telephone receiver at his ear and was talking earnestly into the transmitter.

"That's correct," he said as the man stood before him. "Right. We will accept your $15,000 cash tomorrow and let the 30,000 remainder stand on a ten year mortgage. What? Yes. I'll bring the deed around at 11 tomorrow morning. Good-bye."

Bob hung up the telephone receiver and turned an important visage to the visitor.

"Now, sir," he said, "what can I do for you?"

"Why, I just came over," said Mr. Pickering grinning, "to connect your telephone instrument with the wires."

Women's lingerie will be taxed in a California city. There is enough taxable property already that is kept out of sight.
