On Copper Mountain near Princeton, the Star says that the B. C. Copper Co. has 11,000,000 tons of ore blocked, and two more diamond drills will be put to work, to speedily bring the positive ore up to 20,000,000 tons.

At the Star Theatre on Thursday and Friday will be shown "Within the Enemy's Lines," a civil war drama in two parts showing a happy party made possible by a boy's heroism. It is expected that there will be a large attendance at the recital to be given by Belle Rose Emslie on Friday, May 29th, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian church. Of this accomplished entertainer the Quebec Chronicle says: "Belle Rose Emslie scored a great success and after each selection was loudly applauded and encored. Her character sketches were wonderfully clever and the audience could have kept her reciting half the night."

Will Run Daily Trains

The whole Boundary country was thoroughly roused when it became known that the C. P. R. intended to run mail and passenger trains only three times a week instead of daily. Public indignation meetings were held in all the towns in the Boundary and telegrams of protest were sent to the powers that be. On Friday night delegates from the various towns, representing 10,000 people met in Greenwood and expressed their feelings regarding the injustice the C. P. R. would do this district and a strongly worded telegram was sent to the Railway Commission requesting a hearing. In the meantime, J. R. Jackson, M.P.P. has been busy. On the 21st inst. he sent the following telegram;—

F. W. Peters Esq.,
General Supt. C.P.R.,
Vancouver, B.C.

Am informed Boundary train plying between Nelson and Midway is to be upon change of Time Table run tri-weekly; as the representative of this district and knowing the feelings and conditions that maintain, this would be one of the greatest drawbacks that could happen if this change were placed in effect.

JOHN R. JACKSON, M.P.P.

Two days afterwards Mr. Jackson received the following reply:

Mr. J. R. Jackson,
Midway

Your message twenty-first our new Time Table which is in Printer's hands, provides for daily train, as formerly. If the volume of traffic will justify our maintaining that service, we will do so.

F. W. PETERS.

The bride wore a handsome travelling gown of mauve broadcloth with hat to match. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Hayman. After the ceremony the party drove to the residence of Mr. E. R. Redpath, Columbia, where a wedding lunch was served, the dining room being tastefully decorated with roses and lilacs. The happy couple leave on the noon train on an extended honeymoon to Vancouver and other coast cities, followed by the good wishes of their many Greenwood and Grand Forks friends.—Grand Forks Gazette.

A big shoal of suckers are running wild in Alberta, and the oil stock sharks are getting fatter every day. The fool and his money are soon divorced. Seventeen years ago in Toronto the suckers grabbed Roesland wild-cat stocks in the same way. and they have not yet quit cursing B.C.

Scenery is the greatest asset of B. C. This province has 20 times as much scenery as Switzerland, and the Swiss gets millions of dollars a year from it. One Swiss town called Lucerne has a population of 20,000, and is visited annually by 300,000 tourists. New Denver is the embryo Lucerne of America, but needs advertising.

Owing to the distressing inability of the Lord to understand the King's English, a number of the Welsh residents of Phoenix have decided that it is about time to remedy the state of affairs. They are seriously considering the advisability of importing a preacher from the old land, one well-versed in all the hoary lore and vernacular of the ancient principality. In addition to his other duties as High Priest and Heavenly Interpreter he will be expected to follow out the customs in vogue in the Sunday Schools of Wales, and instruct the younger generation of the colony in the doubtful advantages of a thoroughly useless, time-expired and impossible tongue.

Taking Her Pick

The following was told at a smoker recently, and it is not so bad, either: The narrator told of another little feed he once attended, where eight men were sent home in one hack; and the driver simply rang the door bell and when a feminine voice called from an upper window. "Who is there?" The driver replied, "Missus will you be so kind as to come down and pick out your baby."

Enormous Lifting Power

The shelless limpet pulls 1,984 times its own weight when in the air and about double when measured in the water. Fleas pull 1,493 times their own dead weight. The Mediterranean cockle, Venus verrucosa, can exert a pulling power equal to 2,071 times the weight of its own body. So great is the power possessed by the oyster that to open it a force equal to 1,319.5 times the weight of its shelless body is required. If the human being possessed strength as great in proportion as that of these shellfish the average man would be able to lift the enormous weight of 2,976,000 pounds, pulling in the same proportionate degree as the cockle he would sustain a weight of no less than 3,106,500 pound.

The Oil Stock Mania.

THE air in Calgary must be conducive to lunacy, judging from the mad way in which denizens of that old cow camp are grabbing at the stock certificates of oil companies, like a shoal of trout jumping at the gilded hook. Without reason and crazy with avarice the suckers of Calgary have enriched the stock sharks in a week. It is the old game of appealing to a man's cupidity, and getting his money with despatch and dexterity. The oil stock game in Calgary is worse that playing the wheel or bucking the tiger. It is one to ten thousand chance. Oil has evidentally been struck in Alberta, but the entire formation in that province cannot be soaked in oil to the roots. One good well does not make an oil field, any more than one robin makes a spring, one swallow a drunk, or one goose a feast for the multitude.

The oil industry is just beginning in Western Canada, and the game is new to the people. They will have to live learn and pay for their experience. It is quite likely that hundreds of dry holes will be struck, and hundreds of companies go flewey before the good spots of the oil field are located. On the other hand if every well struck oil the price of the product would fall so low that the profit would be gone. Hence the frenzied greed of the Calgary multitude for oil stocks closely resembles the tertiary stage of advanced lunacy. Financial starvation will cure this malady in time. Owing to the overproduction in the Oklahoma district, the price of crude oil in eastern Canada, has dropped 30 cents a barrel within a month. The development of a lucrative oil field in the west means more wealth and prosperity to the entire Dominion, even if the foundation of that wealth is cemented with the tears of those, who snatched indiscriminately every oil stock certificate that was flashed before the windows of their greedy souls.

To a certain extent oil was first discovered by accident at Oil Springs, Ontario, in 1860. The oil field only consisted of 500 acres, and since its discovery has produced more oil than any other field of similar size in the world. For miles around this oil deposit not a drop of oil could be found, and fortunes were spent in dry holes. Later another deposit was found at Petrolia, seven miles away. There were many ups and downs in Oil Springs. The oil at first became so plentiful that the price dropped from $20 to five cents a barrel. At one time oil was gushing from 36 flowing wells. Seven millions of barrels ran down Black creek, and were lost. One man refused $400,000 for 200 acres. In the early days of the Oil Springs field only one man left the camp with any money. The boom was over in 1866, and the town was dead for 16 years. Five thousand hied to other scenes, 20 hotels stood empty, and the few who remained lived on hope, hoop timber, swamp whiskey and potatoes. History is constantly being repeated. At one time we knew something about oil, having visited several oil fields, inspected seven thousand wells, drilled nine dry holes, witnessed five boiler explosions, held the nitroglycerine shell for the shooter, and slipped her out a link when the driller fell off the the wrench—block, We have blazed trails for the wildcatter, plugged dusters, watched the gushers ebb and flow, and skinned B.S. from many a tank. All this is Dutch to the tenderfoot who never stood in a drilling rig and had his clothes spattered with mush from the bailer. However to briefen a long cable we might say that our career amid the oil wells, was wonderfully checquered, but entirely devoid of ennui. We got a Mexican stand-off. We lost our money but saved our life.

Gratitude Galore

What's this one hour's overtime, Bill?" said the master of the mill, when settling up his wages on Saturday morning. "No one worked overtime last week that I know of."

"It's quiet right, guv'nor; one hour." answered Bill, passing a horny hand across his mouth.

"When was it then?" queried the master, suspiciously.

"Last Thursday."

"Why last Thursday I sent you up to my house to help shake the carpets. And I know you got off at six sharp."

"True, boss; but your missus gave me 'arf a meat-pie to take home, and that there hour is for carryin' the dish back."

Thinking Themes

In matters of higher life the laws that govern lower things undergo a curious reversal.

Drummond and Butler before him, had much to say about the analogies between natural law and spiritual law. But the contrast are sometimes as vivid as their similiarities.

For instance, Pittacus says, the half is better, than the whole. When one possesses the whole there is nothing more to be desired; but desire is the measurement of enjoyment; hence a man without desire is necessarily unhappy."

It is well known that one feels better always to rise from the table not quiet sated.

When Socrates was asked, "What is virtue?" he replied, "Ne quid nimis—not too much of anything."

Among souls the half is always more than the whole. This is worth thinking over.

When the Roman emperor had his triumphant procession he was accompanied by a slave, who said to him, every time the populace burst into applause, "Hominen te esse memento– Remember you are human." A like story is told of a Greek ruler.

Similarly when the Roman high priest went to be crowned he was preceded by a man who three times burnt some tow upon the end of a stick, and showing it smoking to the pontiff, cried to him, "Sic transit gloria mund—So passes the glory of this earth.—Dr. Frank Crane.

A Lively Snag

The audience which heard the Rev. W. W. Bustard, John D. Rockefeller's Cleveland pastor, address the Christian Endeavor Convention, was amused by the story on the richest man.

"While riding in a motor car with Mr. Rockefeller recently, some miles from Cleveland," said Dr. Bustard, "we were about to pass a little barefoot girl plodding along through the dust, when Mr. Rockefeller ordered the chauffeur to halt the car. Then he invited her to step up on the running board, and asked her where she would like to have the car stopped. The little girl said she wanted to get off at the second cross roads, and asked how far we were going.

"Oh, we're going to heaven," Mr. Rockefeller answered.

"The little girl was surprised, as many people are when he says that. Then he asked:

Don,t you think we'll get there?

"No, said the little girl.

"'And why not?' persisted Mr. Rockefeller.

"'I don't think you have enough gasoline,'" she said.—Cleveland Press.

Mrs. Church—Are your children being brought up to help themselves?

Mrs. Gotham—Are they? Why, I can't keep a particle of jam in the house more than a day!—Yonkers Statesman.

In the Morning

"Touchin' on and appertainin' to faro bank poetry," said the pioneer Arizona mining man, "I was in Arizona about five years ago when they passed the anti-gambling bill there A local scribe commemorated the occasion with a parody on Kipling's 'Danny Deever.' It went this way:

"Why is the sheriff moochin' round?" says Arizona Red.
"To close us up. To close us up," the faro-dealer said.
"Why don't you let me call the turn?" says Arizona Red.
"It's after twelve, and April's here," the faro dealer said.
"For council's passed a measure an' Kibbey's signed the bill
Which makes our road a rocky one, an' crooked an' up-hill.
So I'm hiking toward Nevada, where a man can sport his fill.
An' I'll pull my freight for Goldfield in the mornin'."

"Why don't the croupier spin the ball?" says Arizona Red.
"He up agin the statute too," the faro-dealer said.
"What can I do with these here chips?" says Arizona Red.
"Why, nothin' only cash 'em in," the faro-dealer said.
"For clear-up the bar-room wall the skid-doo sign is writ—
It's twenty-three an' down an' out—the sports have got to quit,
An' them that hasn't got a roll will have to hit the grit,
So my ticket's bought for Goldfield in the mornin'

"The crap an' monte games is still," says Arizona Red.
"They've got to be. They've got to be," the faro-dealer said.
"They're packin' up the cards an, dice," says Arizona Red.
"They'll come in handy 'cross the line," the faro dealer said.
"But here the boys won't have no use for all their tools and traps;
It's 'gin the statute to deal bank or make a pass at craps;
An' the sports have all got Arizony coppered on their maps.
So it's me away for Goldfield in the mornin'."

"Well, certain poker ain't cut out?" says Arizona Red.
"As sure as three will beat two pair," the faro-dealer said.
"Then what the devil can we do?" says Arizona Red.
"Go play old maid with Charlie's Aunt," the faro-nealer said.
"You're up agin' the real thing now; the old-time game is done,
An' for your hard earned money, you'll never get a run,
You'll have to take to solitaire an' such-like games, my son,
So, your uncle for the Goldfields in the mornin'."

Standing by the entrance of a large estate in the suburbs of Dublin are two huge dogs carved out of granite. An Englishman going by in hack thought he would have some fun with the Irish driver.

"How often, Jack, do they feed those two big dogs?"

"Whenever they bark, sir," was the straight-faced reply.

Can Man Live Without Salt.

Most people are in the habit of looking upon the articles of our accustomed diet, and especially upon salt, as necessities. We have not found them so. The longer you go without grain foods and vegetables the less you long for them. Salt I have found to behave like narcotic poison—in other words it is hard to break off its use, as it is hard to stop the use of tobacco, but after you have been a month or so without salt, you cease to long for it, and after six months I have found the taste of meat boiled in salt water distinctly disagreeable. In the case of such an necessary element of food as fat, on the other hand, I have found that the longer you are without it the more you long for it, until the craving becomes more intense than the hunger of a man who fasts. (The symptoms of starvation are those of a disease rather than of being hungry). Among uncivilized Eskimos the dislike of salt is so strong that a saltiness imperceptible to me would prevent them from eating at all. This circumstance was often useful to me, for whenever our Eskimo visitors threatened to eat us out of house and home we could put in a little pinch of salt and thus husband our resources without seeming inhospitable. A man who tasted anything salty at our table would quickly bethink him that he had plenty of more palatable fare in his own house.—Stefansson, the explorer, in Harper's.

Executioner Sets Fashions

In England fashions have been killed at executions, but in France over a century ago fashions in men's attire was set by Sanson, the public executioner. Sanson, who had high ideas of dignity of his office, was famous for the richness of his attire when officiating on the the scaffold. Just before the Revolution he was forbidden to wear blue, the nobleman's color, and by the way of protest he made himself even more georgeous. He took to green, and that color, as well as the peculiar cut of his clothes, was adapted by many of the young dandies of the Court.—London Chronicle.

The reproducing point of the new Edison Cylinder Phonograph is a diamond

It was appropriate that when Mr. Edison was seeking the utmost perfection in sound reproduction he should find that this power lay in the diamond. He discovered it in the course of more than 2,500 experiments, always looking toward rarer sweetness, mellower, stronger tone.

He has equipped every new Edison Phonograph with a diamond-point reproducer.

When this marvelously impervious tip rests upon the surface of the unbreakable Blue Amberol Record, the heavier pressure can produce but one result—wonderfully increased volume combined with rarer sweetness. Hear a Blue Amberol at your Edison dealer's today.

LOWERY'S CLAIM.

During the 37 months that Lowery's Claim was on earth it did business all over the world. It was the most unique, independent and fearless journal ever produced in Canada. Political and theological enemies pursued it with the venom of a rattlesnake until the government shut it out of the mails, and its editor ceasad to publish it partly on account of a lazy liver and partly because it takes a pile of money to run a paper that is outlawed. There are still 20 different editions of this condemned journal in print. Send 10 cents and get one or $2 and get the bunch,

Death Not so Bad

The Brimstone-preaching minister had been called upon to preach before a congregation known for their liberal views, and consequently careless ways of living. Sounding a warning which he thought would strike home the minister said:

"Hell, my friends, is lined with poker players, men and women who drink to excess, painted daughters of Jezebel, women in decollete gowns, divorces and the like."

At that point a little red faced man with a high pitched piccolo voice, arose in the rear of the room and piped out:

"Oh, death, where is thy sting?"

A GREAT CURSE.

One of the greatest curses of this intellectual age is the great lack of a proper education of our girls in the practical affairs of every day life. They all want to be "school marms," governesses or the wives of rich men. Housework which should form the basic principle of our economic life, is shunned by them as something degrading. A young woman will stand behind a dry goods counter nine hours a day for a mere pittance, lose her health, become anaemic and unfitted for the performance of her natural duties, rather than accept a position as a domestic where she would have a comfortable home, good health, and become properly fitted for the duties of a wife and mother.

The spiritual advance made by man is seen chiefly in this, that so much of the money he earns goes to the ministry of refinement, education, embellishment, to the wife and children he loves. But the woman sees no money for her toil. Her sufficient, her ample reward is in a husband, content happy, growing in grace; in children bounding to gracious maturity.

There is just as much reason that a man should work within the house as there is that a woman should work outside the house. He is just as well qnalified to work indoors as she is to work outdoors. It is just as much his duty to do the one as it is her duty to do the other. But it seldom or never occurs to his wife to ask him to do it, or to think that he ought to do it.

MAKE SOME ONE HAPPY.

For God's sake make some one happy for ten minutes if for no longer at a time.

A young woman bound on such a mission. what might she not accomplish? Oh, there are thousands of these manufacturers of sunshine! They are King's Daughters whether inside or outside of that delightful organization. They do more good before they are twenty years of age than selfish women who live ninety, and they are so happy just because they make others happy. Compare such a young woman who feels she has such a mission with one who lives a round of vanities, case card in hand, calling on people for whom she does not care, except for the social advantage, and insufferably bored when the call is returned, and trying to look young after she is old, and living a life of insincerity and hallowness and dramatization and show.

About Float.

Float is not a periodical. It is a book containing 86 illustrations all told, and is filled with sketches and stories of western life. It tells how a gambler cashed in after the flush days of Sandon; how it rained in New Denver long after Noah was dead; how a parson took a drink at Bear Lake in early days; how justice was dealt in Kaslo in '93; how the saloon man outprayed the women in Kalamazoo, and graphically depicts the roamings of a western editor among the tenderfeet in the cent belt. It contains the early history of Nelson and a romance of the Silver King mine. In it are printed three western poems, and dozens of articles too numerous to mention. Send for one before it is too late. The price is 25 cents, postpaid to any part of the world. Address all letters to

He Does Not Advertise.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead
Who never to himself has said:
'My trade of late is getting bad,
I'll try another ten-inch ad!"

If there be, go mark him well,
For him no bank account shall swell,
No angels watch the golden stair,
To welcome home the millionaire.

The man who never asks for trade,
By local line, or add displayed,
Cares more for rest than worldly gain,
And patronage but gives him pain.

Tread lightly, friends; let no rude sound
Disturb his solitude profound,
Here let him lie in calm repose,
Unsought except by men he owes.

And when he dies, go plant him deep
That nothing may disturb his sleep,
Where no rude clamor may dispel
That quiet that he loved so well.

And that the world may know its loss,
Place on a stone a wreath of moss,
And on a stone above "Here lies
A fossil, who did not advertise."

B. C. MINING NEWS

According to the Victoria Week Messrs. Moore and Bagshawe, of the B. C. Oil Co., entertained a number of friends at the Union Club.

Mr. Moore explained that the object of the gathering was to discuss recent developments in the oil fields of the Flathead District especially the large flow of oil recently cut in a well on one of the claims of the B. C. Oil Company. He referred to the long delay which had taken place in achieving important results because of protracted litigation between the various claimants. The B. C. Oil Company was the only one which had done practical work. They had spent upwards of $50,000 in prospecting, boring and purchasing plant. The money had been expended economically; the directors had taken no fees, and were quite content to subordinate everything to the ultimate discovery of oil in commercial quantities. They had recently placed a practical geologist, Mr. Lockwood, in the field, and the operations had been carried on under his direction with the most gratifying results. Additional oil seepages had been found and in one well a considerable flow had been cut at 200 feet, large quantities of gas and oil being liberated. He thought if these facts were generally known it would be agreed that the prospects had been greatly improved and that the work was being done on a scientific basis.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, of Vancouver, who represents other large interests in the Flathead Valley, spoke of the excellent prospects and paid a special compliment to the B. C. Oil Company and its managing director for the energy and assistance they had shown. He suggested the probability of action between the various owners of oil claims in the near future and said that he anticipated the most favorable results from the borings of the B. C. Oil Company.

Mr. Blakemore who visited the property last fall, spoke at length on the geological features of the valley and the remarkable seepages of oil. He was satisfied from close observation that sooner or later the Flathead would prove to be a commercial oil bearing district. There was altogether too abundant evidence of oil and gas to be attributable to any limited reservoir or any good saturation, such as has been suggested by adverse critics. The detailed examination of Mr. Lockwood, extending over several months fully confirmed the opinion the speaker formed last year that the question of an existing oil field had been practically solved.

Mr. Bagshawe, the president of the company, spoke at length on the financial position and the work which had been carried out, and announced that large adjoining owners had just engaged the most eminent oil expert on the continent, Mr. Ralph Arnold, of Los Angeles, who was coming in next month and would make a careful examination and report. He believed that the eminent expert would comfirm the favorable report already made by all the engineers who had been through the valley.

After several other speakers had contributed to the discussion there was a general expression of opinion that the successful prosecution of such an enterprise as that of the B. C. Oil Company was of the utmost importance to the province and might not improbably lay the foundations for one of its largest industries, and that the Government should have the road from Corbin put into such condition that the companies operating there should be able to bring machinery and supplies through Canadian territory instead of being compelled to do all their freighting from Belton, Montana, as they have to do now, on account of the impassable state of the road to Corbin. It was also thought that the Government should take a more active interest in sending in independent oil experts.

In the great mining revival that is becoming more manifest each day, the Lardeau valley, one of the richest parts of this district, will largely share. Already signs of increasing interest are noted in that rich bit of mineral territory, stretching from Lardo on the south to Ferguson on the north, and lying on both sides of the Lardo river and the basin of beautiful Trout lake.

In the valley of the Lardo are indications of approaching placer mining activity for it is known that the yellow metal is there in large quantities and proper methods of handling the material along the bed of the river must yet be devised. This will probably soon be accomplished, however, and the country in the vicinity of Goldhill will in a very few years perhaps, become one of the largest gold producing sections of the province.

The finding of nuggets and fine gold, by dredging or otherwise, on the river bottom naturally gives rise to the inquiry "From whence has it come?". It did not come down from the skies, ergo, it must have rolled from somwhere off the adjoining hills, therefore there is gold somewhere in those peaks as well, and heaps of it.

There are few sections so strongly mineralized as the ground along both sides of the Lardo river and capital will be all that is required to bring the attention of the world to those deposits and turn the country into a big mineral producer. Gold, copper, silver, lead, zinc, marble, all of these there is in abundance and no doubt many other kinds of mineral as well.

Around Trout Lake and Ferguson are to be found some of the most promising propositions in the district, high grade as well as low gra e. Some of the properties on the Great Northern mountain, just north of Trout Lake, will, when opened up, make the camp one of the largest and most prosperous in the province.

At Ferguson the Ajax is said to be panning out well, and that camp, like Trout Lake, is said to be surrounded by scores of undeveloped claims that have all the ear marks af becoming mines.—Kaslo Kootenaian.

Secrets of Success

"What is the secret of success?" asked the Sphinx.

"Push," said the Button.

"Be sharp in all your dealings," said the Knife.

"Find a good thing and stick to it," said the Glue.

"Do the work you are suited for," said the Chimney.

MRS. W. W. LAKE

Tells Others How to Get Strong and Well.

Mrs. W. W. Lake of Aberdeen, Miss., says: "The grippe had left me in a weak, run-down condition from which I suffered for some time. I tried different remedies but nothing seemed to do me any good until I took Vinol, from which I received great benefit. My cough is almost entirely gone and I am strong and well again, and I am glad to recommend Vinol to others who suffer as I did."

Mrs. Lake's recovery was due to the combined action of the medicinal elements extracted from cods' livers—combined with the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron, which are contained in Vinol, and her cough disappeared as a natural result.

We guarantee that Vinol will do all we claim and will pay back your money if Vinol does not satisfy you.

Victoria Day at Midway

With "Old Sol" Smiling Large Crowds Enjoyed the Finest Celebration Yet Held.

Midway an Ideal Place For Celebrating and a Loyal People

Never before in the memory of the oldest of old timers did we enjoy such a good time at the celebration at Midway on Monday, May 25th. Those who travelled from all parts of the Boundary, all enviously agreed that Midway possesses a clime, a beautiful townsite and a people second to none. It is anticipated that as a result of the boost this thriving community has received this summer will see the introduction of several syndicates intent upon selling fruit ranches in the immediate vicinity. Victoria Day celebrations were held all over the Dominion and the loyal people of Midway certainly did their part.

Everybody had a good time—we celebrated and we have to thank the weather man to a very large extent for the success of the day, but even then, the untiring energies of the committee in charge of affairs made the day doubly successful. Midway deserves all the praise for its pluck and confidence, for its courage and enterprise. Midway may well feel proud of its efforts in catering for the visitors and the hotels were not behind in their efforts. When we looked around the magnificent crowd of holiday makers, we saw by the joyous, expectant faces, that young and old were out for a good time and determined to make this celebration a day of fun and frolic.

Midway is a place that enjoys many natural and acquired resources, possessing a soil that cannot be surpassed for productiveness, where harmony among its citizens is in perfect accord and whose praises we shout aloud from the housetop for the big time given to the people of this district on Victoria Day.

Everybody and every place was in holiday attire and the streets were decorated with flags and bunting, as were the hotels and business places. Much credit should be given to the four hotels for the able manner in which they catered to the needs of the large crowds. The Ledge was the guest of Crowell's hotel and we found the proprietor a natural born landlord, and with the able assistance of his good wife has established an extensive business. The tables were neatly arranged, the culinary work ably looked after, and the palatable viands included every delicacy on the market. At this hotel over 300 guests were fed between 11 and 5 o'clock with perfect ease and without any apparent rush.

The special train arrived about 9.30 a.m. with over 200 from Grand Forks, 200 from Phoenix and an equal number from Greenwood, besides football, baseball, gun clubs and other teams.

Twenty-five autos loaded with people came from Grand Forks and autos were running continuously between Greenwood and Midway, also between Rock Creek and Midway, bringing hundreds of others.

The Grand Forks band was in attendance and started the day's proceedings by marching through the streets to the tune of patriotic airs.

There was something doing every minute of the day. Besides good ball games, horse races and Caledonian sports there were the usual ice-cream, pea-nut and candy booths, "Hit the Nigger on the head," "Three down three cigars" and "Ring the knives" and get a present, all of which go to amuse a large crowd. The baseball games were exceedingly well contested, Danville, Molson, Grand Forks, and Republic and Phoenix teams competed for the $130 purse, Phoenix winning by getting three straight games.

The football match proved a great attraction and a keenly and hard fought game between Mother Lode and Grand Forks was witnessed by enthusiastic spectators. This game resulted in a draw, the purse being divided between the two teams.

Always an exciting spectacle is a bucking contest and hundreds watched five outlawed horses in a wild endeavor to throw their riders. This is a very dangerous sport and the committee deserve great credit for the able manner in which the crowd were held in check and everything went off without a hitch or accident. D. Jarvis won the first prize, F. Peon second, and F. Barma, third.

The catching of the greasy pig was laughable and created barrels of fun for those who saw men, women and children trying to catch a greasy pig. P. McDonald caught the pig after a hard chase, and now owns the pig for that was the prize.

To Greenwood comes the honor of winning the trap shooting prizes. J. L. White got 1st, A. Logan 2nd and E. Richter 3rd. The third prize was a set of carvers donated by Chas. Thompson & Sons, of Vancouver.

Over $1550 was given in prizes all the races were keenly contested. Some good horses entered in all races.
