It is not necessary to starve in this country. Last week a man walking towards the Jewel mine encountered a bear and a deer within half a mile of each other. A little further on he saw the coyotes playing with colts in the fields. This is indeed a land of plenty.

All parties wishing to obtain an allotment of a brand should send in their fees and applications to the following address: Office of Live Stock Commissioner, Department of Agriculture, Victoria, B.C.

For a good every day household angel, give us a woman who laughs. Home is not a battlefield, nor life one long unending row. A trick of always seeing the bright side, or, if the thing has no bright side, of shining up the dark one, is a very important faculty and one of the things no woman should be born without. We are not all born with the sunshine in our hearts, as the Irish prettily phrase it; but we can cultivate a cheerful sense of humor if we only try.

A young woman said she was born to be a farmer's wife because she engaged in milking when an infant, and took to cradling early. Later she often cut up and shocked her parents and filled her crib. At an early age she learned to sew and she had cultivated her acquaintance with a young agriculturist, and as soon as she had placed her affections she intended to "make hay while the sun shines." This was too much for an impressible tiller of the soil, so he gathered her into his arms and garnered her.

On Thursday evening last a mass meeting was held in the City Hall, called by Mayor McLaine, to discuss ways and means of meeting the present serious situation that faces the future of Greenwood by the proposal of the B. C. Copper Co., to close down their smelter here. A number of the leading citizens spoke on the subject and while all were agreed that the shutting down was a serious blow still there were no calamity howlers, in fact all took a very optimistic view of the situation, some even going so far as to say they were glad of the shutdown, and others said it might be the greatest thing that ever happened to Greenwood as it would encourage the development of our other natural resources. Just how long the company will keep their works closed or what are the intentions of the company is not known, but if the citizens had something definite to work on then they would know how to face the future. There are many conjectures as to what the company will do. Many believe that it is only a temporary shut in order to develop the Mother Lode mine and the Princess camp at Princeton. Some are of the opinion that the Trail smelter or Granby Co. will take hold of the smelter, and others again think that it is only a scheme to squeeze out the small shareholders. As was suggested at the meeting arrangements might be made with the C. P. R. to make special rates for shipping in ore from Rossland and other camps until development work is fully accomplished. There are many other suggestions but the above seems quite feasible. Even the most pessimistic do not believe the proposed shut down is to be permanent. The company have too much at stake in their works here, nearly $1,000,000 having been spent on machinery and construction. Now is the time to patronize your home merchant, keep your money at home, help and encourage one another and all will pull through the lull period, and come out stronger and better than ever. Encourage the miner, encourage the prospector, and let us all encourage the man who settles on farm lands, of which there are many opportunities around Greenwood. The end of Greenwood is not yet, in fact it is only in its infancy, and it is now being freely expressed on the streets that Greenwood will pull through and come out better than ever.

The West Fork

James C. Dale was in town last week and reported mining more active around Carmi and Beaverdell than it has been in ten years. Considerable ore has been recently treated in the Carmi mill with highly satisfactory results. Mr. Dale says that on the strength of Mr. Alex. Robinson's efforts towards developing the recources of the West Fork the attention of prospectors has been drawn to the camp, and many good strikes have been made this summer.

Billy Morton has made a good strike in the Arlington camp, eight miles above Carmi, of copper-gold ore. The railroad cut it at a depth of 80 feet, but this was overlooked until Morton did the assessment work when he found several feet of high grade ore carrying 10 to 15 per cent. copper.

John Frost and F. F. Ketchum are doing work on a silver-lead property.

"You have not," said the preacher.

"I have, indeed," returned the humorist.

"Well, send that book to me. I'd like to see it."

"You shall," Mark Twain replied. And he sent the next morning an unabridged dictionary to the minister.

THESE are the days in which many a fly gets drowned in the butter.

NEXT spring people in Calgary will be papering their houses with oil stock certificates.

WHEN its recources are developed Princeton will be one of the biggest towns in the interior.

The ice man is all smiles, but the chap who sells the wood has not a word to say in favor of the good old summer time.

UP to date the Boundarv district has produced 17,000-000 tons of ore, and many millions more are still in the hills awaiting an introduction to drill and dynamite. Temporary depressions may occasionally cast a financial shadow over this great district, but no man at present alive will live long enough to see the last pound of ore dug out of the rich mountains in the Boundary district.

THE annals of mining contains no more courageous, enterprising and enthusiastic figure than that of Ola Lofstad of Greenwood. He is the king of optimists, and if we had a regiment of such men what a hummer the Boundary would be. For five long years, under difficulties that would daunt even a Napoleon, he has carried on the work at the Argo tunnel. Nothing, not even a dynamite explosion, dampens his ardor and faith in the Argo. He goes right along smiling and sincere in the hope that he will strike a lead in a few days, and open up one of the greatest mines in the west. Here's to Ola! May he strike the lead before the last puff of smelter smoke fades away in the ozone of the distance.

Thinking Themes

In this life it doesn't make so much difference what you have to go through as where you get to. It is not the experience that matters so much as its result upon your character.

Keep your eye on results. If you have had troubles, what matters it, provided they have brought you a proper harvest of wisdom, strength and purification?

Our life is a business proposition. we are here to gain what we can, hold up stores of love and knowledge, and to develop insight, skill and virtuosity of soul.

We are here to become experts in love, professionals in weighing and judging human values, masters of self and circumstances. So long as we gain this end, why worry about the road that leads us to it?

Come sorrow, come joy, come success or failure, they are all grist to our mill. We will transform all of them into character. Everything that befalls us shall help to perfect our manhood.

An Irish Shot

When James T. Brady first opened a lawyer's office in New York he took a basement room which had been previously occupied by a cobbler. He was somewhat annoyed by the previous occupant's callers and irritated by the fact that he had few of his own. One day an Irishman called.

"The cobbler gone, I see," he said.

"I should think he has," tartly responded Brady.

"And what do you sell," asked the visitor, looking at the solitary table and a few law books.

"Blockheads," responded Brady.

"Begorra," said the Irishman, "ye must be doing a mighty fine business—ye hain't got but one left."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

The proprietors of a newspaper in Siam have distributed the following notice:

Staff has each one been college and write like the Kipling and the Dickens. We circle every town and extortionate not for advertisements. Buy it."—Belfast Daily News.

Ready to Quit

"Willie, come right into the house, I don't want you to play with that little boy any more."

"All right, Mother, I've just won his last marble anyhow.

Under the heading "Public Notice" the following appeared in a late issue of a Juneau paper:

Beer From the Bank of England

The Bank of England has the right, common with some other old established businesses, to sell beer by retail. This power was granted by Charter in 1694, and it has never been taken away from it. The Bank could, therefore, if it chose, start in business as a public house tomorrow, or it could send round a special "Bank of England" brand of, say, bottled stout, delivered in its own drays at your door, with a facesimile of the chief cashier's signature on the label of each bottle as a guarantee of purity. The Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's Cathedral can also lay claim to a similar privilege, with the right in addition, to brew their own beer. Paul's brew house formerly stood at the corner of the entrance to Doctor's Commons from the Church yard, and an average of between sixty and seventy gallons of "strange ale" were brewed there every year. The sale of this, however, was confined to the Cathedral precincts.

Two dear old ladies were discussing husbands. Said the first: "I've been married three times. Each of my husbands is dead, though. They were all cremated."

Her friend was a dear old maiden lady. She listened attentively to her friend, and when she had concluded the sad story of her life she said: "How wonderful are the ways of Providence. Here I have lived all these years and have never been able to get one husband and you've had husbands to burn."—The Argonaut.

A small boy who was sitting next to a very haughty lady in a crowded omnibus kept on sniffing in a most annoying manner. At last the lady could bear it no longer, and turned to the lad.

"Boy have you got a handkerchief?" she demanded,

The small boy looked at her for a few seconds, and then, in a dignified tone, came the answer:

"Yes, I 'ave, but I don't lend it to strangers."

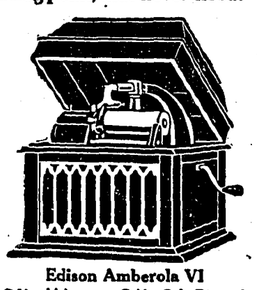
When you go to a dealer's store to hear a Phonograph be sure you hear an Edison Phonograph

If you do not hear an Edison you do not hear a phonograph. There is only one Edison and only one Phonograph bearing his name. The Edison Phonograph is Mr. Edison's own personal achievement. He invented it and he perfected it. He is responsible for its clear, lifelike musical Records—the Blue Amberols, unbreakable, playing four minutes and lasting a lifetime. He has produced the indestructible diamond reproducing point, that never needs changing. He has recently perfected this new cabinet model—a thing of beauty in itself and a marvel of musical perfection.



Hear this new model. Hear the new Blue Amberol Records, embracing everything worth while in the field of songs and instrumental music.

LOWERY'S CLAIM

During the 37 months that Lowery's Claim was on earth it did business all over the world. It was the most unique, independent and fearless journal ever produced in Canada. Political and theological enemies pursued it with the venom of a rattlesnake until the government shut it out of the mails, and its editor ceasad to publish it partly on account of a lazy liver and partly because it takes a pile of money to run a paper that is outlawed. There are still 20 different editions of this condemned journal in print. Send 10 cents and get one or $2 and get the bunch,

Edith was entertaining Mr. West, and little Sydney was hanging about. At last Edith told him it was time to retire.

"Oh, can't I say up a little longer said Sydney.

"What do you want to sit up for?" asked Edith.

"Why, I want to see you and Mr. West play cards," said Edith.

Mr. West laughed. "But we are not going to play cards," said Edith.

"Why," said Sydney, surprised, "mother said you were. I heard her tell you that everything depended on the way you layed your cards tonight.

SUCCESS.

There is but one way out of poverty for the generality of mankind, and that is downright hard work, economy and self denial. Young man, draw off your coat, roll up your sleeves and wade in. This everlastingly waiting for something to turn up, waiting to step into dead men's shoes, will terminate your career as a mere groveling dependent, subsisting and only existing and filling space without any resl or single purpose in life- Wake up! Stir around and send the life blood coursing through your veins. Hold up your head, clean your face, put on a smile and cast that woe-begone look in the rubbish by the wayside, where it belongs. Move forward, clear the track, and the grandest opportunities of life will open up, which you want to seize with a tenacious grip, and they will unfold to you all the hidden treasures you ever imagined or conceived. Young man, this is no imaginative drawing, a delusive sketch, a fantasy, and if you possess enough grit and stamina you can make it a picture true to life; thousands have done it, and you have an equal footing today. Few rich men owe their possessions to accident; few great men owe their distinction to luck or chance. Thus far greater numbers have won by perseverance, push and pluck, diligent in business, spending less than their earnings, surmounting obstacles, overcoming difficulties, with a will invincible.

IMITATORS.

There are three kinds of workers, and only three, in this world. They are the pullers down, the builders up and the imitators. The first are the most successful, the second are the most self sacrificing, but the last are the most numerous. They make no beaten tracks, for they take their feet up and put them carefully down in the exact steps of their predecessors. They will not go where others have not been. The ghosts of the dead and the specters of greatness are always before them. Authority is a god whom they worship with devout superstition. They say their prayers with awe stricken regularity before the shrine of antiquated error and time-honored falsehoods. The king of men and gods is "He said so." It would kill them like a dose of arsenic to take a little orginality. In their logic "It must be right," follows from the premise, "it has long been believed." History is argnment, fashion authority, and the grand work of life is to so please the world. In walk and carriage, dress and table, in reading and praying, and at last in dying and being buried, they seriously follow what others have done. They are happy in service and joyful in slavery. It is a melancholy fact that most teachers are imitators. They come in flocks from normal schools, in great numbers from institutes and in thousands from educational meetings. They are anxious enquirers after others doings, and willingly follow any educated goat that boldly leads the way, always with notebook in hand, asking, "Do tell me exactly how you teach!"

* * *

Now comes the regrets. Now the daughter reviews her former criticism of maternal supervision. For the first time she realizes what it is to have a mother and what it is to lose a mother. Tell us, men and women, young and old, did any of us appreciate how much mother was to us until she was gone? Young woman, you will probably never have a more disinterested friend than your mother. When she says anything is unsafe or imprudent, you had better believe it is unsafe or imprudent.

About Float.

Float is not a periodical. It is a book containing 86 illustrations all told, and is filled with sketches and stories of western life. It tells how a gambler cashed in after the flush days of Sandon; how it rained in New Denver long after Noah was dead; how a parson took a drink at Bear Lake in early days; how justice was dealt in Kaslo in '93; how the saloon man outprayed the women in Kalamazoo, and graphically depicts the roamings of a western editor among the tenderfeet in the cent belt. It contains the early history of Nelson and a romance of the Silver King mine. In it are printed three western poems, and dozens of articles too numerous to mention. Send for one before it is too late. The price is 25 cents, postpaid to any part of the world. Address all letters to

He Does Not Advertise.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead
Who never to himself has said:
'My trade of late is getting bad,
I'll try another ten-inch ad!"

If there be, go mark him well,
For him no bank account shall swell,
No angels watch the golden stair,
To welcome home the millionaire.

The man who never asks for trade,
By local line, or add displayed,
Cares more for rest than worldly gain,
And patronage but gives him pain.

Tread lightly, friends; let no rude sound
Disturb his solitude profound,
Here let him lie in calm repose.
Unsought except by men he owes.

And when he dies, go plant him deep
That nothing may disturb his sleep,
Where no rude clamor may dispel
That quiet that he loved so well.

And that the world may know its loss
Place on a stone a wreath of moss,
And on a stone above "Here lies
A fossil, who did not advertise."

In The Slocan.

Geo. McCready is showing up a considerable quantity of concentrating ore on the Caledonian, near Sproules.

With the exception of the Milton, which is being worked by Bob McPherson, there appears to be little doing on the north fork of Carpenter creek this summer.

Work was started a short time ago at the Rio, and four men are employed on the McGuigan basin property. A raise from the lower to the upper workings is being completed.

It is ilkely that this summer will see the commencement of mining on some claims up Bear creek, which is a tributary of the north fork of Kaslo creek, joining the latter near Sproules.

The Molly Gibson is looking fine according to the reports from there and is shipping ore taken out only during the progress of development. A few days ago W. H. Stewart, of the consolidated M. & S. Co., went nearly as far as the mine in an automobile.

J. P. Miller states that two cars of ore are ready for shipment from the Panama at Bear Lake and that in every way the property is looking most satisfactory. It is hoped that a gasoline engine can be installed this season, which will greatly aid the further development of the mine.

Matt Reme has taken a lease on that portion of the Utica ground lying to the northwest of the camp site. This is practically unexplored ground but there is evidence of ore in many different places. A short tunnel or two driven during the Hughes regime opened up a small stringer or two but outside of this very little is known about the character of the formation.

With the opening up of the trail to the Leviathan group, on Campbell creek, attention is once more directed that way. The Leviathan is located on one of the largest and strongest ledges in the country and it is claimed that under the iron capping should be found a huge deposit of copper and gold ore. Assays of the surface rock indicate the presence of copper and gold, in varying quantities of from $1 to $10 per ton. Halfway between the Leviathan and the lake shore is another immense iron ledge. Its direction is indicated by a streak of rust that lies on top of the ground and apparently one to one hundred and fifty feet in width. Some of the ledge matter taken from only a few feet underneath the surface, is said to have assayed $9 in gold to the ton. These big leads afford plenty of room for speculation as to what they contain but it would take quite a chunk of money to prospect them to any extent.—Kaslo Kootenaian.

Most people never forget to pose except when they are home with the family.

Around Sandon

One of the most satisfactory aspects of the local mining outlook is the fact that the industry in and Sandon appears to be now on a thoroughly permanent basis. At the present time there are about two hundred miners employed in the vicinity of the camp and the forces are being steadily increased.

In Sandon itself there is not a vacant house to be had, everything but the poorest shacks being occupied.

The somewhat tangled condition which the municipal finances got into following the depression is now being straightened out and at the present time the debt is being gradually reduced and the city put in the way of getting on its feet again.

The two brightest constellations in Sandon's mining firmament at the present time are the Slocan Star and the Surprise, both of which mines are working fairly good sized crews.

At the Star a new showing of fine ore, that looms large as a tonnage producer, has been opened up in No. 10 or the lowest level of the mine. The rest of the property is looking exceedingly healthy and it may not be long before the grand old standby of the camp is paying dividends again.

The Star mill is steadily turning out concentrates, faster in fact than its products can be hauled down to the loading platform, notwithstanding the fact that two four horse teams are on the job.

The Star mill is producing zinc as well as silver-lead and is making as clean a separation as can be found anywhere in the country.

It is confidently predicted that the Surprise will be a second Standard. There appears, according to report, to be ore everywhere and at the present time about two cars a week are being shipped, this being taken out during the course of development work, which is being steadily extended.

Plans are now on foot for the construction of a concentrator for the Surprise and it is expected that it will be under construction soon.

The lead on the Payne has not yet been encountered by the long cross cut tunnel but this has caused no uneasiness as the Surprise faced a similar condition of affairs for a year or two, digging around through the country rock for a long time after the estimated point of contact was passed. It may be necessary to upraise from the new to the old workings of the Payne before location of the lead is made, but the finding of stringers of high grade ore at two or three points during the rnnning of the cross cut is taken as ample indication that when eventually found, the Payne will turn into one of the biggest high grade properties in the whole country and recall the days when its comparative surface workings made it the biggest dividend payer of the Slocan.

The Consolidated Co.'s Eureka is maintaining a small crew and leasers are at work on the Ivanhoe.

Much interest attaches to the Wonderful, at one time a placer silver-lead mine, where it is believed the long sought ledge has been located at last. For the last sixteen years the ledge on this property has been diligently sought for by different parties but without success. The syndicate now operating is confident that the ore bearing vein has been definitely located. There is believed to be a huge body of ore somewhere in the neighborhood, as the great blocks of galena sluiced out of the surface dirt in the early days indicate that.—Kaslo Kootenaian.

Old Greenwood Directory.

Recalling the days when there was buzz and bang to life in Greenwood, B.C., is an old telephone directory, a facsimile of which appears herewith. It was secured by Mr. H. Lunney, manager of the the B.C. Telephone Co. at Greenwood, and forwarded by him to Mr. A. B. Godfrey, district superintendent at Nelson, who sent it to Telephone Talk.

The directory, which was printed on a large card, is of the vintage of 1899. It was found in a deserted cabin, a couple of miles out of Phoenix, on the Grand Forks road. Romance centered in the Boundary in those days, and quite a little story is woven around the small domicile in the hills, where the directory was nailed to the wall, and judging from the bullet holes had been used as a target more than once. The cabin was erected as an office for Alfred Lynch, foreman of the Brandon-Golden Crown Mine, a property located in 1896 by Billie Porter, one of the widely known prospectors who roamed the hills of the Boundary in those days. He is now living in Victoria and is reputed to have made his pile. He sold out the mine to a company of Brandon people, and some good ore was taken out of the property. The building was later used as an office by Mr. W. P. Tierney, railway contractor, during the construction of a spur from Silica to the Jack Pot Mine, one of the Wellington group.

Greenwood had a fairly large population at that time and was very active, but a few years after the quietness that often follows a mining boom settled on the Boundary town. Many of the people whose names are in the directory of 1899 are to be found in Vancouver and other cities on the coast. A. E. Ashcroft, civil engineer is in Vernon. George R. Naden is in Prince Rupert. George H. Collins then mine manager of the Golden Crown mine, is of Vancouver, being president of the Canadian Fish and Cold Storage Company. A. A. Crowston is in North Vancouver. The Greenwood Club had among its charter members A. M. Whiteside, now a lawyer in Vancouver, of Whiteside & Buddle. Mr. Whiteside's partner in Greenwood, Clive Pringle, is now located in Ottawa, and has come into prominence. The Greenwood Times was edited by Duncan Ross, later a member of parliament and now living in Victoria. Henry Shaw of the legal firm of Hallet & Shaw, is magistrate in Vancouver, while his partner is magistrate in Greenwood. W. P. Hunter, of the Hunter. Kendrick Co., is now one of the principals in the Empress Mfg. Co. Vancouver. Dr. Oppenheimer, a nephew of David Oppenheimer, who was prominently connected with the early history of Vancouver, is in Spokane. H. M. Keefer and C. R. Townley, are both in Vancouver. Dr. G. M. Foster is another who came to Vancouver, and has acquired a large practice. W. G. McMynn, mining recorder, is superintendent at the prison farm, Burnaby. Ralph Smailes is now with L. M. Rice & Co., contractors, Seattle. A. H. Sperry is general manager of the Pacific Great Eastern, with head offices in Vancouver. J. P. McLeod is deputy attorney at Victoria. Dr. Spankie is also a Vancouverite. M. E. Frazee and G. F. Williams are in Vancouver. L. H. Johnston is divisional engineer at Kamloops. W. M. Law is in Prince Rupert.

Of the Phoenix subscribers Dr. Boucher is a specialist in Vancouver; J. B. Boyle has a drug store in Kitsilano; Dr. Gordon has an office in the Dominion Building, and A. P. McKenzie is in the real estate business in Vancouver.

In 1899 Greenwood was not a very old town. It was just a little while before the issue of this directory that the banks had a race to establish quarters. The Bank of B.N.A. was opened in a pool room, the Bank of Montreal had first quarters in a meat shop, rather it might be said front quarters; while H. H. Morris, inspector, (now superintendent of branches, living in Vancouver still) got in with the Canadian Bank of Commerce. It was a matter of only a few hours between the two latter. D. C. Cameron was the first manager of the Bank of Commerce, and F. J. Finucane, now of Spokane, of the Bank of Montreal. Previous to the establishment of the branches of the banks banking business was done in Vernon. G. A. Henderson, manager of the Bank of Montreal, hustled down to get in among the first.—B. C.
