VOL 2. NO. 37. SANDON, B.C., SATURDAY, JANUARY 7, 1899. FIVE CENTS.

THE SLOCAN

The Great Silver-Lead Producer, the Banner Division for 1898.

Value of the Output Is $3,437,843—The Largest in the Province.

Notwithstanding all the fuss that is being made in England, and elsewhere, over gold properties, this year as well as last, in the face of the comparatively low value of silver, the Slocan leads the province in the value of out-put. If this part of the country only got anything like half fair play in the matter of advertising, so that prospective investors would really see what was going on in this part of the country and what the field for investments really was, we have no doubt but that our output the past season would have been fully doubled.

At every point of this country from the south and east of Slocan City to the east and north of Whitewater there are prospects known to have great value if only the capital was available to develop them. The craze appears to be for the gold properties of Rossland; but considering the money invested there and here, the profits to holders in the Slocan are showing themselves to infinitely better advantage. A few thousands invested in a Slocan property will control and work it, while it requires a millionaire to handle a gold proposition. No doubt for those who have the means many Rossland properties are most excellent investments; but what we want more particularly to impress on the public is that the Slocan is the field for men and companies who have limited means, and they make no mistake in investing here.

We give below the output for the year by mines:

We do not include the shipments from Whitewater as that place is not in the Slocan Division proper, though much of the business of the mines there is done in this city.

In his 1897 report Mr. Carlyle put down the gross value of Slocan ores at $110 per ton, and as silver is now the same value as when his reports were compiled we quote the ores at $110 per ton, which gives a gross value of $3,437,843 to the ores exported in 1898, from the Slocan. This is by long odds the greatest value of any division of the province.

The Rossland Miner of the 1st inst., puts the exports of the Trail Creek Division at, to use its own figures, the "enormous" sum of $2,804,758 or $633,085 less than the Slocan output. The "enormity" then of the Trail Creek Division consists of the blowing of its papers. But let us take a single instance for comparison. The output of the LeRoi was 66,000, at $30 a ton=$1,980,000. The shipments of the Payne here for the year were, 13,190 tons at $110=$1,450,900. Taking the money invested in both mines, cost of operating, etc. into account, and the dividends of the Payne are three or four times those of the LeRoi. For instance the LeRoi employes some 400 men and the Payne not more than 150.

From these figures, which speak most eloquently for themselves, it must be apparent that all this country requires to produce astonishing results is legitimate advertising—no booming or blowing but an honest representation of the prospects on which showings have been found, and which a few thousand dollars would bring to the front as prominently and as profitably as any of the mines we have named above.

It is the bounden duty of the mine, prospect and property owners of this country to see that it may receive a show of, at least, naked justice.

A Sampler for Rosebery.

After many a moons Rosebery is to have ore sampling works that will employ some ten or more men; but the building erected "for that purpose" which was, many think, built to sell the townsite, will not be used. A new building with a capacity of 100 tons a day will be erected for that purpose. The work is undertaken by an American company with ample American capital, and will be running in a few weeks. G. W. McDonald, an American, who is to be manager, is now on the spot commencing operations—the erection of the "Slocan Sampling Works." Once running they will buy and pay spot cash for all kinds and classes of ore. It is confidently stated that the institution will be in operation in six weeks.

THAT PUBLIC MEETING.

An Enthusiastic and Largely Representative Gathering.

A Lively Shower of Fun and Missiles.

At length the public meeting talked of for some time was held Wednesday evening, called by the mayor. F. L. Christie was called to the chair, though it was the mayor's duty to act, and Judge Lilly was chosen secretary.

Mr. Christie did not know how or why the meeting was called, as no programme was placed in his hands.

The mayor eloquently declared that the meeting was called "to hear the kickers."

Mr. David wanted the council to give an account of their stewardship.

Mr. Cliffe said the ordinary course was for the council to go over the work of the past year, giving reasons for their acts; for new aspirants to suggest amendments and improvements, and for the audience to close in comments.

Mr. Buckley was of Mr. Cliffe's opinion. The meeting first desired an explanation of the record of the closing year from the council.

Dr. Young wanted to know the situation of the flume by-law, and Mr. Grimmett explained that the council had had no word from it of any significance.

Ald. Hunter heard there was considerable dissatisfaction with the way business was done the past year, and he would like to hear how it could have been done differently or better.

Mr. Buckley asked for the revenue of the past year, and the clerk said excepting for December it was $12,200.

Mr. D. J. Robertson heard of several charges against the council, and he would like to hear them either successfully refuted or substantiated.

Mr. David understood at the outset that the council were selected for their business ability; but was convinced, as were many other citizens, that ability did not show itself in the record of the council. They hired a solicitor to look after the interests of the city, and he turned out to be the solicitor of an individual instead. Mr. Grimmett before incorporation reiterated the complaints of many that money was going out of town continually and the people appeared powerless to prevent it. He (Mr. G.) also represented then that the ordinary receipts of the place would meet the demands of the place without realty taxation; but how did it turn out? He also represented that a sewer system was required, but not the first year—no word of the flume before incorporation, and after incorporation it was unceremoniously sprung upon the people. There was no blame attached to Mr. Harris for getting all the improvements he could out of the council, but it was the duty of the latter to stand between the people and the undue service of any one. Some time before incorporation Mr. Harris spoke of building the flume himself, showing how material a service it was to him. He had got certain privileges in connection with the stream when building his water system, but he had no power to turn them over to the council by word of mouth. The council had the audacity to assume before commencing the flume that they knew how the people would vote on it, and went to work at it. The vote had been taken, no one was consulted till the expenditure was made, and then they assumed their slaves would concur. Mr. Grimmett succeeded by a dodge in electing the council he wanted, and they, especially the mayor, set out in improving their own property at the expense of the taxpayers. The latter were, in turn, called "kickers" for objecting. They illegally taxed the people for such improvements and redress was refused. Next year our taxes were sure to be higher than the past, as interest and sinking fund would have to be met. When the flume was being built Mr. Crawford made arrangements with the other blacksmith to put in no tender, but divide the work. When payments were made Mr. Crawford got $10 to the other's $1. Before this private incorporation the mayor also had business dealings with the council contrary to law. Some of the council, in this way, had disqualified themselves, and the solicitor knew it. He himself did not like to walk out of town without a cent, but the taxes would soon consume his property. There was but little public work done in the city of service to the masses, but much for the council themselves. The flume should not have cost more than $6,000, and would not if built by a private individual. If the council had served the people they should not remain silent but set to work and show it that evening. They were even practically licensing the demi-monde by their system of fining contrary to all law and statutes. He then recited his complaint against Mr. Harris' water rates, as published in the other paper last week.

Mr. Grimmett felt that when an attorney was accused of betrayal of trust, it was time to speak. Mr. David saw fit to lay the duties of a city attorney before the people from his stand point. A year ago he was employed as solicitor and had to advise the council when requested to do so. He challenged Mr. David to show he had used his influence or office in any respect against the city or the council in favor of Mr. Harris or any one else. If Mr. David would make the charge that he had in direct form, he, (Mr. G.) would see that it was properly ventilated. He never once interferred with the council in any way, shape or form and never advised only when asked to do so. He had clients in the city last year who had paid him more money than Mr. Harris did. Mr. Harris, Mr. Atherton and Mr. Buckly had been good friends of his when he first came to the place and was pleased he had retained their good offices ever since. If both Mr. Harris and the city withdrew their patronage from him, he thought he could live in the place. At the start he took an active interest in the incorporation. Situated as the place was, many thought it would be better by incorporation. He talked even to Mr. David about it, an he at the time was an ardent friend of incorporation. All the business men and hotel keepers were in favor of it as the government officials were continually interfering with personal affairs. He spent much time over incorporation and got no personal benefit. A couple months after incorporation all decided on fluming the creek to protect the city. Nelson and Rossland on incorporation got power to borrow money for public works under an act expiring in 1897. Sandon, of course, could not take advantage of this but the government promised a delegation to make an equal provision for this place. The council went on with the work believing the promise would be carried out. This was the requisite explanation. He asked Mr. Harris who was present if he ever discussed with him in any way the fluming of Carpenter creek, and that gentleman replied emphatically, "No." At one time Mr. David told him Mr. Harris was charging him too much for his water supply. He replied as city solicitor he could take no action in the matter—in fact he advised the council to the same purport—as it was purely beyond the city by-laws. The action, if any, would have to be taken up by Mr. David in the courts. Mr. Harris got his charter from the government and not the city council, and the city council could not therefore become plaintiff in a suit. He (Mr. G.) was in no way responsible for the acts of the council. He always did the best he could for the council when asked to act, the same as he would for any other client and that was all there was to it.

Mr. Harris said he at no time, in any way, shape or form, tried to influence the council in any of their acts. If at any time any of the aldermen asked his opinion he gave it, and that was all. He never in any way suggested to them what they should do with the flume, or any other public work. In fact, he had but one or two properties to be affected by a freshet so far as the flume was built, he was no more interested in it than many; another citizen though he was the largest taxpayer in the place, and had to bear much of the burden. As to Mr. David's water grievance he charged that gentleman, but $2,50 what his charter provided for a store and residence. The operation of his system was very expensive and he had to have reasonable rates to make it self-sustaining. The audience appeared to fully appreciate the way he put his defence

Ald. Crawford said he never in any way had any conversation in the nature of any agreement or compact with any other blacksmith as to charges for flume work, and he challenged any man to prove he had. He did whatever work was brought to him by the superintendent, charged regular rates for it, and that is all he knew about it. Believed he did not do more work than the other blacksmith. This closed the speeches, though a sort of running fire was kept up as after clops for some time longer.

MINES AND MINING.

The Washington has a foot of solid ore.

The Whitewater Deep has closed down for the present.

The Idaho mine was damaged the other day by a snow slide.

The Wakefield near Silverton has reduced its staff for a short time.

The sale of the Black Grouse to an English Co. is making things look up at Three Forks.

The War Eagle Co. of Rossland has purchased the Eureka, Summit and Mineral Hill claims near the Ruth, which goes to show gold men are desirous of securing silver lead properties.

There are at present six men at work on the R. E. Lee close to town driving a 700 feet cross-cut to strike the ore at a considerable depth. This mine was at one time a good shipper and is likely to soon again appear on the lists.

Rawhiders are now hauling ore for the Reco that is work $100 per sack of 125 lbs. At this rate a car would be worth from $15,000 to $20,000. At any rate the Reco turns out the most valuable silver ore known in the wide world.

Several men are at work on the Selkirk on the Ruth hill. A fifty feet shaft has been sunk on the lead that encountered ore all the way and now a tunnel is being driven to strike the lead where that shaft if extended 140 feet further would intersect it. It is believed when this work is done the property can be called a mine and a good one.

Slocan City Looking Up.

Slocan City, Jan. 2, '99.—The Alexander strike, of five feet of solid ore, is the latest excitement, and it is in no way exaggerated. The property is situated near the second north fork of Lemon creek.

The new bridge across the Slocan river is now under construction. A Nelson man has the contract, and considerable indignation is felt by local contractors as they feel they were not properly dealt with by the government officials.

The Earl King mining claim, about two miles from the mouth of Slocan river is now being worked by its owner with a good showing. H. Fyfe and Paul Hanck are the locators and are doing their own development work.

Several former Slocan City residents are now returning. Property has advanced 50 per cent. in the past few days in the city. The Two Friends miners have gone to work with renewed vigor and anticipate another surprise soon.

SATURDAY.....JANUARY 7, 1899.

CIVIC AFFAIRS.

That there has been more or less friction between sections of the community the past year, over civic affairs, is apparent to every one. The REVIEW has carefully tried to avoid sympathy with either section, but has never shrunk from pointing out mistakes and suggesting remedies, which is the proper province of a local paper. In the first place, a serious mistake was made in the first election in barring two candidates for aldermanic honors on technicalities which the law would never support. It gave many the impression that the intention of a section of the people was to have a certain board, no matter what the community thought of it.

Another mistake is in inequalities of payments for salaries and other services for work done. The people believe in paying properly for actual services, but not for time or names without equivalent service. The revenues of the city for 1898 will be about $13,000, and it is all, or nearly so, consumed, when the city ought to be run, and can be run, on a very much smaller sum.

Another mistake was in the way the flume was gone about. Most people acknowledge that it was required; but the requirements could have been met legally and not illegally, as they were. In the first place when the council was organized, application should have been made to the House, then in session, for power to alter the bed of the creek. Concurrently with this step, the creek could have been cleared of logs and boulders to carry off the spring freshets. A taxpayer suggested this to the mayor, and that know-all official called him a crank for his trouble. It is unpleasant to say the least of it to be thus treated by officials. Then when the assessment roll was revised, and power had from the House to go on with the work, a by-law could have been submitted in the regular legal way for raising the necessary money. Built in this way it would have cost less, and been legally done. Some think that in view of the special benefits certain ones have derived from the work on the flume, the mayor for one instance, it should have been done by a local tax; but that argument is not so strong when it is considered that the city is still in its infancy, and other portions of the place will require work of a purely local character also. If those parts are equally liberally treated, the local taxation theory will, of course, be robbed of its force.

As, however, past mistakes and shortcomings cannot now be recalled, the best step for the new council to make is to take the ratepayers fully into their confidence in all contemplated expenditures. In short it would not be a bad idea for the new council to suggest a committee of ratepayers to assist them in the consideration of all expenditures. At all events we would like to see the taxpayers fully considered as an element in civic government, and harmony restored all around, that the best results for the place may be the most cheaply procured.

A WORD TO CAPITALISTS.

The report we publish in other columns on the yield of the Slocan, is an object lesson complete in itself for the prospective investors in mining properties. There is, comparatively speaking, but a very limited amount of money invested as the first cost to the present owners of these shippers—the improvements made being for the most part out of the operations the mines themselves.

There is no concealing the fact that there is a preference for gold properties; but there is no reason that will stand a moment's investigation why it should be so. It is returns on investments that capitalists are after, and they are here in infinitely greater profusion than they are to be found in any other section of the country. We have no desire to speak disparagingly of any other section, nor do we intend to do so. We are content to allow the facts and figures to speak for themselves.

No doubt the LeRoi and the other large gold properties of the Rossland district are very valuable holdings; but it is equally a fact that they have cost the present owners millions each, and after purchase it takes a lot of money in labor, etc. to operate them for average returns.

In the Slocan things are very different. The very best of the properties that are now shipping have cost the present owners but a few thousand dollars—it takes but comparatively a moderate sum to work them, so that when shipping, a large percentage of the proceeds goes into profits for the owners.

Though a large number of the mines so far are but small shippers, because of having had but small expenditures made on them, as development proceeds, many of them promise in time to yield as well as the largest shippers. These are the circumstances in the abstract we desire to impress on prospective investors.

Under all the circumstances, we have but to repeat what we have often said before, that it will be nothing short of a calamity if the prospect, mine and property holders of the Slocan do not make a united effort to properly advertise this country, by placing the bald facts before the prospective investors in mining properties wherever found.

From the appearances of the Grit papers that are supporting the no-party government of the province of to-day, it is quite evident the design is to force Joseph Martin to the front, as they never lose an opportunity of calling it the Martin-Semlin government. That is they continually keep the cart before the horse that their end may be obtained thereby. Nothing will do more to force Federal politics into the provincial House than this, as Martin is the most distasteful Liberal in the country to the whole Conservative party and is deeply distrusted by many of the Liberals besides. Martin at first declined to enter the Semlin cabinet, hoping some turn would be given the wheel by which HE, the immortal Joseph, would be called on as premier. That was Semlin's opportunity, were he a tactician of ordinary merit. At that instant he should have ignored Joseph for all time and called in some other Liberal lawyer, some one less distrusted by his own party, as Attorney-General. Had he done this, Joseph would have had no kick, as he refused the office, and the rest of Semlin's following in the House would have been less influenced by the party feeling. Martin is one of those men who knows not the meaning of the word gratitude, and who has but little regard for the opinions or convictions of any one that he knows is not head and shoulders above him in position of influence. We are confident that these two weaknesses will, before long, and perhaps before the coming session is well advanced, drive some of Semlin's following into opposition, and, of course, cement the whole present opposition as an implacably hostile element. It was Martin who drove Roblin, and Fisher, of Greenway's following in the Manitoba House, into lasting opposition, and as Semlin's majority is precarious at best, we may look for Joseph to be the rock on which the government will go to pieces.

The Miners' Union is now fully incorporated, and an organizer is expected in a few days to press the button, so to speak, and start the machinery. They will start off with an association of about 300 members, which will in time be largely increased. It is the intention to make the Sandon union the central one, with branches in all towns in the Slocan country eventually. Once organized the next steps will be to erect halls and establish hospitals. A reading of the constitution and by-laws will convince anyone that the association will not be unnecessarily aggressive. It will see that justice is done the miners and be equally disposed to meet out justice to all other classes of the community with whom they have dealings. Taking proper care of their sick and needy will be one of the most permanent features of their policy.

Slocan City News-Items.

The trustees of the Bank of England who recently made a rich strike on the Two Friends claim in driving a tunnel to tap the Bank of England lead, are now within about 30 feet of their line on the lead. All later reports corroborate the previous one in regard to the strike. They sent three men to work on the 28th ult., and it is their intention to push through as rapidly as possible to the Bank of England which shows a well defined ledge and rich ore on the surface. This tunnel, which they are driving from lower workings of the Two Friends, taps the ledge at a depth of 150 feet and absolutely prooves the continuity of the Two Friends ledge, which was lost on a fault by the company which was previously operating on the Two Friends ground.

The owners of the Two Friends also contemplate putting a force of miners to work to extract the ore from the ledge and there is no visible reason why the Two Friends should not soon be classed again among the principal producers of the country in silver-lead ores. It is self evident that the Bank of England, who have already expended a large amount in driving the tunnel, do not consider this a "Will-o wisp" as they are backing their judgement with collateral.

Mr. D. E. Seeleye has returned to Slocan City from the Alexander mineral claim, situated about two miles above Sandon, on north fork of Lemon creek, where he has been engaged in doing development work for the past two months. Mr. Seeleye is feeling jubilant over the outlook and thinks that with the coming summer his days of triumph will have arrived. Properly worked the Alexander mine will be one of the principal producers of the Slocan country. Mr. Seeleye departed to-day for Spokane, where the principal owners of the Alexander reside. Mr. Seeleye is a man of wide knowledge in the mining business and his judgement in matters pertaining to mining is to be relied on owing to his wide, practical experience in Alaska, Lake of the Woods and other mining countries. His report of the Alexander has created quite a furore in mining circles, and goes a long way towards confirming the judgement of other mining men who were pioneers in this section. He reports that at a depth of 60 feet from the surface by crosscut, from shaft sunk last summer, he encountered the ledge a few days ago, and that it was fully five feet in thickness, all high-grade. It is hoped that Mr. Seeleye and the Alexander company will make the necessary arrangements for the continuation of the work which the showing already made would merit and justify.

HE WAS IN A HURRY.

And When He Got Time He Apologized to the Hotel Clerk.

There is a clock face on the Pennsylvania avenue side of the National hotel, the pointers of which have for years denoted the time at 9:33. Guests of the St James who have front rooms not infrequently depend upon this superannuated timepiece to guide their movements, sometimes to their great discomfiture. Not a few appointments have been declared off because of that clock.

There came near being bloodshed at the St. James a few mornings ago. One of the guests, whose appearance denoted that he had dressed himself in the space of a minute, came thundering down stairs, not waiting for the elevator, and rushed over to the counter, back of which was the clerk, who was trying to snatch an hour's sleep in the early morning.

"I'd like to know why in the mischief I was not awakened at 8 o'clock," he demanded.

The clerk attempted to reply, but the guest was too mad to listen to anything that might suggest an apology.

"This is a pretty hotel!" he continued. "I have stopped here for years, but I will never come here again. Make out my bill now."

"Don't be in a hu"—

"I will be in a hurry. You exasperate me. Tell me not to hurry, and here it is nearly 9 o'clock, and I should have been awakened at 8."

The clerk tried to get in a word, but it was useless.

"Get your register and see if I did not leave an order for 8," the guest persisted.

The register was brought forth, and, sure enough, there was the order for a call at 8.

"There, what did I tell you? Now see what you have done for me. I have missed my train and probably a big order. I have a good notion to sue the proprietor."

The clerk's ire began to rise.

"What train did you wish to make?" he asked in a sarcastic tone.

"The 8:35."

"Well, you go back to bed, and I will see that you are called in plenty of time."

"Come, no joking. What do you mean?"

"Just what I wanted to tell you some time ago—it is now a quarter of 7."

A madder man than this guest was never seen in the St. James. And when he was told that the National clock was not running and had not been for years his anger knew no bounds.

He apologized to the clerk and went away swearing vengeance on that clock.—Washington Star.

Thackeray as a Diner.

Many worthy and some notable persons have possessed the onion habit now and again. William Makepeace Thackeray, writing of himself in "Lovell the Widower," says, "It is notorious to all my friends there is a certain dish I cannot resist." He referred to stewed tripe and onions, as a proof of which it is narrated of him that on one occasion while on his way to dine with the Marquis of Westminster his eye caught sight of a placard in the window of a London restaurant bearing the legend, "Tripe and onions tonight." Going in, he called for the dish and writing materials, and wrote off as an excuse to his would be host that he had unexpectedly met an old friend that insisted upon detaining him.

Thackeray's favorite edibles were raw oysters and onions, and it may be recalled that he told Mr. Field, the Boston author, who acted as agent in his lecture tour in this country, that his chief purpose in coming to America was to obtain some of the famous large oysters of this land—which he had heard grow to fabulous size—instead of the little coppery things of England. At this first dinner of Boston, therefore, a plate of large "Providence Rivers" was set before him as an appetizer. He partook of one with a surprised look. Being asked how he felt, he replied: "Profoundly grateful. I feel as if I had swallowed a baby." He added that he must eat an onion to digest him.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Men who work on, in, or by the water, or are exposed to the cold or damp are prone to suffer from that most painful disease, rheumatism. This is a disease of the blood and can only be permanently cured by going back to first principles and driving out all impurities, and filling the arteries with a new, rich, red, healthy life-stream.

This is the reason why Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is an unfailing cure for that disease. It is the greatest of all blood medicines. It creates a keen and hearty appetite. It cures all disorders of the digestion and makes the assimilation of the life-giving elements of the food perfect. It invigorates the liver and tones the nerves. It is the greatest of all known blood-makers and blood-purifiers. It builds firm, healthy flesh, but does not make corpulent people more corpulent. Unlike cod liver oil, it does not make flabby flesh, but tears down the unhealthy tissues that constitute corpulency, carries off and excretes them, and replaces them with the solid, muscular tissues of health. It drives all impurities, disease germs and acids from the blood. In Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser many sufferers from rheumatism, whose cases were considered hopeless, tell the story of their recovery under this wonderful medicine. Their names, addresses and photographs are given by their own request, and anyone who wishes to do so may write them. Good druggists sell the "Golden Medical Discovery."

When a dealer urges some substitute he's thinking of the larger profit he'll make—not of your welfare.

"I suffered from rheumatism in my left shoulder and elbow," writes Rev. Wilson Williams, of Trinity Station, Morgan Co., Ala. "Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery completely cured me at a cost of only four dollars."

For a free, paper-covered copy of Doctor Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser send 31 one-cent stamps, to cover customs and mailing only. Cloth-bound 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. A medical library in one 1008-page volume.

HEARTBURN.

"In the Spring of 1897, I was attacked with Dyspepsia and Heartburn. So severe was the pain that I could not sleep or eat, and I was troubled with headache most all the time. I remained in that state for three months, and tried everything I could think of. At last one day I read in the paper about Burdock Blood Bitters, and thought I would try it. Great was my surprise on finishing the first bottle to find I could eat better, the headache left me, and before I had used the second bottle, I was completely cured. I cannot advise too strongly all sufferers from stomach troubles to try B.B.B." MRS. WM. GRATTAN, Indiantown, N.B.

We should not be surprised if steps are being taken to satisfy both parties over that flume by-law. We should not be surprised if its consideration in the courts was held over until after the meeting of the House when a special act will be passed to legalise it. This would satisfy the city in saving it from costs and consequences, and show the plaintiffs the by-law was bad, when it had to be legalised.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones wish us to express publicly for them their heartfelt thanks to many people in this city for much kindness shown them during the family's affliction. They accompanied the remains, which were embalmed by Mr. Baker, New Denver, to their old home in Pennsylvania, where they will remain till spring to wear away their sorrow in change of surroundings.

Evidently the world is undergoing great climatic changes. Frequently the bones of the mastodon are found in the Klondyke, showing that at one time in the earth's history the Klondyke had a tropical climate, though now it has the severest of the frigid regions. The other day a blinding snowstorm and considerable frost were experienced in Athens, Greece, that used to boast of perpetual flower bloom. Last but not the most interesting, in Sandon on Monday we had 15 below zero, and on Thursday night 12 below, with from five to ten lower at the mines.

OBITUARY.

A Bright Young Life Passes Away With the Old Year.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Jones was most deeply saddened on Saturday evening last by the death of their eldest daughter Emily, a most premising young girl, 13 years of age. Emily was never the strongest, as she was growing beyond her years, and the work and excitement of the season culminated in brain fever or spinal meningitis. The disease overtook her suddenly Wednesday morning rendering her delerious and, with the exception of a few rational moments the day previous, she never recovered to the end. She was exceedingly bright in school, prominent and intelligent in all Sunday school undertakings and a general favorite. It is hard for parents in any walk in life to part with their children, but doubly so when they are intelligent and promising, as Emily always was. The news of her death was a shock to all her acquaintances, and the sympathy of the townspeople for the afflicted parents and litte sister is therefore deep and universal.

The funeral on Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock from the house of Mr. and Mrs. Yates, Cody ave., where deceased was taken sick, to the C. P. R. depot, was largely attended, particularly by the members of the Union Sabbath schools and adherents and members of the Methodist church. The service at the house was conducted by Revs. Sanford and Cleland. The pall-bearers were six boys of the S. S. and the procession was led by deceased's girl companions and classmates. The remains were shipped to Pennsylvania for interment, accompanied by the grief-stricken mother, father and little sister, Violet.

A False Report.

Mr. F. L. Christie says he is going to commence actions for libel against all and sundry, and especially the newspapers that said he had gone and done it; and, by the way, if he only receives ten cents from each one who has said so, it will amount to quite a pot of money. The facts, however, are these: Mr. O'Brien, of the Vancouver World, an old-time acquaintance, on his own account, and "without malice aforethought," gave it out as a fact that Mr. Christie was shortly going to wed a certain New Brunswick young lady, and who, by the way, as a peculiar coincidence, left New Brunswick for Vancouver with her parents a few days previous. A New Brunswick paper copied the paragraph from the World, which made the report to the public a genuine announcement. It was further believed when Mr. Christie in company with Dr. Young left town on a short trip last week. Lest we should put a foot or two into the matter we will say no more about it at the present excepting that Mr. Christie has received many a congratulation on the head of it.

PUT YOUR FINGER ON YOUR PULSE.

If It Is Weak or Irregular don't Hesitate to Start the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills at once.

With a strong, steady, regular pulse we may expect vigorous health.

With a weak, irregular, intermittent pulse we can tell at once the vitality is low—that Dizzy and Faint Spells, Smothering and Sinking Sensations and similar conditions are bound to ensue.

By their action in strengthening the heart, toning the nerves and enriching the blood, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills relieve and cure all those distressing conditions just enumerated.

Mrs. B. Croft, residing on Waterloo Street, St. John, N.B., says:

"For some time past I have suffered from pallor, weakness and nervous prostration, I had palpitation and irregular beating of the heart so severe as to cause me great alarm. I was treated by physicians, but got no permanent relief.

"I am glad to say that from Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I derived the first real benefit that I ever got from any medicine. My appetite is improved, my entire system toned up, and I can do no less than cheerfully recommend these pills to all requiring a reliable heart and nerve tonic."

Miss Mary E. Hicks, South Bay, Ont., says Laxa-Liver Pills cured her of Sick Headache, from which she had suffered for a year.
