Cabinet to make decision on lower fares

Whether or not the Sunshine Coast gets reduced ferry fares is now up to the provincial cabinet.

Transport Minister Jack Davis, in a meeting with local government officials Friday, said he would take the idea of the commuter rates to the cabinet.

At the meeting, representatives of the villages of Gibsons and Sechelt, the town of Powell River and the Sunshine Coast Regional District presented briefs on what effect the proposed ferry rate increases would have on the area. At the meeting, the local government representatives presented a proposal to have half fare resident's cards with the bearer's photographs issued locally.

That would mean a car and driver with a resident's card would pay $7 instead of the proposed $14. Passengers would pay $4. Local government representatives were confident the cabinet would go for the idea. No date was given for the cabinet decision; but it is expected it will be before the June 1 rate increase date.

The government leaders spent one and a half hours with the minister May 21 during which time they presented their briefs and talked with the minister.

Sunshine Coast Regional Board chairman John McNevin said he felt, "Pretty confident" about the results of the meeting.

"Most of the time was spent talking about how the resident's passes would be administered," he told The Times Friday afternoon, "We told him that the two villages and the regional board were prepared to look after the administration. This, we estimated, would take about 60 days to set up."

According to Mayor Larry Labonte of Gibsons, the cards could be administered from the village's motor vehicle branch office which is staffed by municipal personnel. "The office could take care of the cards, issuing them with a photograph of the resident for a cost." The mayor said the fee would cover the cost of issuing the card and he estimated this to be about $3. "Three dollars is cheap if it saves you $7 per trip," he said. Cards, he added could be issued annually and color coded to eliminate misuse by non-residents.

Labonte said the time between the fare increases and the issuing of the cards could be handled by having the resident present a drivers license with a local address or other suitable identification at the ferry terminal. This, the minister said, would also be discussed with the cabinet.

The meeting in Victoria followed a press conference held in Vancouver Wednesday by local government heads. At that conference, the local government officials spelled out to the media what the ferry fare increases would mean to the Sunshine Coast and told how the minister had refused to meet with them until some time in June. That coupled with the protest blockade of the ferry terminal at Langdale May 16 are believed responsible for the minister changing his mind about seeing the local government officials.

Mayor Labonte of Gibsons reported the minister said the system was anticipating a $90 million deficit this year. Of that total, $3 million would be lost on the Langdale-Horseshoe Bay ferry run. Our argument was that fares should be cut; but we conceded that

'Unflattering way to communicate'

By DON MORBERG

VANCOUVER — "This is a very unflattering way to try to communicate with the minister," Sunshine Coast Regional Board Chairman John McNevin told a Hotel Vancover press conference May 18.

The press conference had been called to bring attention to the fact that Transport Minister Jack Davis had refused to meet with local government representatives concerning the ferry rate hikes.

The press conference included McNevin, Powell River Regional Board Chairman Harold Lennox, Powell River Mayor Dave Hart, Gibsons Mayor Larry Labonte, Sechelt Mayor Harold Nelson and Councillor Ted Dixon from the Sechelt Indian Band.

The press conference had been called, McNevin said, to bring public attention to the situation on the Sunshine Coast and the Powell River area which will develop as the result of the fare increases which come into effect June 1.

McNevin said, "Not only would the fares double; but residents would lose commuter cards. This is, in effect, tripling the fares for residents."

Many previously-stated reasons for opposing the ferry rate hikes were presented at the press conference. In addition there were some new angles.

Sechelt Mayor Harold Nelson said the provincial government had no compunction about taking the money from B.C. Hydro's general revenue and sinking it into the B.C. Hydro public transit system in Vancouver. This, he said, was subsidizing and yet the provincial government refused to do the same thing with the ferry system.

Chairman McNevin said the cost of commuting from the Sunshine Coast to Vancouver would go from about $500 to $1,600 a year. This, he said, would mean that the large number of commuters in the area would be forced to move or seek employment locally.

McNevin also scored the increases as being way out of line with Anti-Inflation Board guidelines. "The government tells us to be careful with our budgets and they do this. I don't know how the small villages can survive.

Ted Dixon said, "This is the same minister who, a few years ago said, 'Wherever you have Indian reserves, you will have poverty.' The Sechelt Indian Band is now making moves to become self-sufficient through economic development. This will affect our development. The government is slowing our development and prolonging the situation."

Dixon said it costs about $1,000 a year for sports teams to travel off the Peninsula for competitions. "It will be triple that this year. You will find crime increasing because young people will not be able to travel off the Peninsula."

"Part of this has already been declared an economic disaster area. Costs are high. The increased rates will put more weight on the community. In addition, the governments anticipate a certain growth rate and borrow money to put in necessary services. We can't put out the dollars if we don't have the population."

Powell River Mayor Dave Hart said a great number of people travelled to Vancouver Island and to the Vancouver area for medical business or other reasons. He said he expected a rise in freight rates and commodity costs to accompany the ferry rate increases.

"We are isolated," he said, "we rely on the ferry for our sports competition, music and cultural trips and school group trips. Our area has a four per cent growth rate and much of this is attributed to retirements. These increases will deter people from moving to the area. It will also have a drastic effect on the tourist trade."

Powell River Regional Chairman Harold Lennox told the press conference, "The provincial government talks about improved communications with the other government levels and they then have the profound audacity to do something like this with no input from the other bodies and then rufuses to meet with us."

All the government levels have written to the minister and all received the same reply. Davis was not willing to meet with any local government officials until some time in June after the new rates are in effect.

Lennox added, "It's interesting that the government sees the ferries as a business rather than a service. Don't they realize the same people are paying for it whether it is through taxes or through fares."

Lennox added that the lower fares on the Village gets school bill

Sechelt School district has presented its tax bill to the village of Gibsons.

Under Section 197 of the public schools act, the villages collect the school board taxes.

This year the village will pay a total of $259,386 to the school board in 12 monthly installments of $21,615.50.

The first five payments were due May 15 for a total of $108,077.50.

The school board is responsible for 40.91 mills in the taxation rate.

Manpower questionaires distributed

The Canada Manpower office in Sechelt has sent out a questionnaire to employers in the area to find out if the service provided by the office should be maintained at the present level, expanded, reduced or eliminated altogether.

The questionnaire states that "with the frequency of our visits, it has been difficult for you(the employer) to depend on us for your total manpower needs. This lack of support has made it impossible for us to determine the placement and training potential of the community."

J. L. Ross, Manpower counsellor, said Manpower wants to see if an extension of their services is warranted.

"We need to know what's going on," he said. The questionnaire asks the employers what type of services they require and what type of training is needed. The survey also asks employers if they could support a government subsidized training program and if they would make greater use of the service if the frequency of the visits were improved.

The questionnaire was sent out two weeks ago and all replys must be in by June 15. Ross said the proposal is to give employers more frequent service if that is what they want.

The questionnaire is strictly on a local basis. All replys are kept confidential.

The Manpower office is open between 10:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. every Thursday, 885-2772.

Seven receive UBC degrees

Seven students from the Sunshine Coast are among the more than three thousand students receiving academic degrees at the University of British Columbia's 1976 Spring Congregation.

Paul Moritz, community planner for the Sunshine Coast Regional District, will receive a master of arts degree.

Sheahan Leigh Bennie will receive a B.A. with a major in French and Heather Johnson will receive a B.A. with a major in Slavonic Studies. Both are from Sechelt.

Kathryn Louise Willcock from Madeira Park will receive a bachelor of recreation education.

Roland Martin Kerbis of Hopkins Landing will receive a bachelor of music degree and Lance Gunnlaugson of Bowen Island will be awarded a bachelor of laws.

Cameron Hercus of Gibsons will receive a bachelor of commerce degree.

The three-day congregation will be held in the War Memorial Gymnasium at UBC, starting at 2:15 p.m. on May 26, 27 and 28.

Work-to-rule campaign snarls holiday traffic

A work-to-rule campaign by B. C. Ferries employees made holiday week-end travelling difficult; but lighter than usual traffic reduced some of the impact.

The work-to-rule campaign started last week with ferry employees abiding by all the working rules and being particularly stringent with safety measures.

One reader told the Times, each car going on the Earl Cove-Saltery Bay ferry was stopped and asked if it was carrying any gas containers or propane containers which contravened the shipping act. Any propane containers or hook-ups were checked to see if the valves were closed before boarding the ferry.

Saturday morning reported a two-hour wait at Horseshoe Bay at 8:15 a.m.; but as the day progressed, waits got shorter as anticipated holidayers did not show.

Horseshoe Bay-Langdale had the worst problems of any of the ferry runs: but again light traffic eased the situation.

By Saturday most sailings were 20 minutes to an hour behind schedule. Friday evening was a three hour wait at Horseshoe Bay for the Langdale run.

A spokesman for the ferry union said the work-to-rule campaign was to protest delays in obtaining a new contract. It is expected the campaign will continue until a strike vote, being taken among employees, is finished this week.

Employees have threatened to strike as soon as the vote is taken and Labor Minister Allan Williams has threatened to legislate them back to work as soon as they strike.

Ferry protest called off

The group who organized the Langdale ferry blockade decided not to hold another on the holiday weekend.

At a meeting May 19, the group decided to send a telegram to the transport minister stating that because he was willing to meet with the local government representatives, there will be no blockade on the long weekend.

The telegram, sent Thursday said, "In recognition and appreciation of your taking the time to meet with our elected representatives on Friday, May 21, we are pleased to advise you that there will be no demonstration at the Langdale ferry terminal during the Victoria Day weekend."

The telegram was signed by Eileen Glassford of Gibsons, one of the organizers of the demonstration.

A spokesman for the group said that the government's decision on the ferry rate hikes would determine if there would be more demonstrations.

At last week's Gibsons village council meeting, Mayor Larry Labonte complimented the protest organizers and particularly Ian Corrance of Gibsons for the orderly demonstration.

Happenings around the Harbour

Doris Edwardson 883-2308

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

Mrs. Constance Harper of Madeira Park, who is a retired school teacher and also a long time resident of Pender Harbour, recently attended a reunion at the Centennial Anniversary of Vic High School.

She said there were 9,0?0 former old classmates and students from all over the world. At the Pioneer Tea, Mrs. Harper and some of the others were given the honour of sitting at the head tables.

Later they were taken on a tour of the rooms, which brought back many memories, the pictures on the walls and other interesting features. Then followed a garden party on Sunday at Government House.

On Saturday evening 40 of her nieces and nephews held a reunion for her at the home of Pat and Connie Parker, and she really had a wonderful time as it had been quite some time since they had all met.

She travelled to Victoria with Mrs. Robson of the Homemakers. Mrs. Harper was born in Esquimalt and said Victoria has really grown into a large city, she could not recognize her old house as it is now surrounded by naval buildings. She said the trip was one of the most memorable trips she has ever made, seeing old time friends and relatives never to be forgotten. Without the kindness of Mrs. Robson she could never have made the trip and sincerely thanks her.

VANDALISM

Sometime during the last few hours of Friday night or early ones of Saturday morning, the Madeira Park Elementary School was broken into and some person or persons destroyed an aquarium, an opaque projector glass and also defaced surface material through the use of fire extinguishers. Verne Wishlove, principal, wishes to thank the people in the Pender Harbour area for their help in cleaning up the mess. The RCMP are continuing their investigation.

GET WELL SOON

Linda Dubois, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Dubois, is in the Lions Gate Hospital, undergoing tests to determine what caused her serious illness. She can have visitors, but no flowers.

FARE INCREASES

Mrs. Catherine McQuitty of Madeira Park recently wrote to Victoria officials in regards to the fare increases for the B. C. Ferries and also sent some suggestions.

She received a reply from Jack Davis, Minister of Transport and Communications, who explained that the rate increase will still not cover the cost of operating the ferries. British Columbia taxpayers will still have to subsidize the ferry service in the amount of $25 million annually to bridge the gap between income and expenses. Ferry users currently pay about one-third of the cost of B.C. Ferry operations. The new fare structure means that they will pay about two-thirds. In a service so heavily subsidized by the taxpayer he does not see any justification for special discounts to users based on where they live. Discounts on all runs will be eliminated.

The new rates will reflect approximately the amount of space used by each type of vehicle and the relative transportation time or distance involved on each route. A number of anomalies in the ferries' rate structure are also being eliminated as are fare inequities that existed between routes. He believes that all persons who use the ferries will accept the fact that an increase in fares is long overdue. Everything else has increased drastically in price in the last few years, but ferry fares have remained the same as they were when the ferries started running in 1960. That this is totally unrealistic in view of the inflation that has occured since then. The taxpayers of British Columbia just cannot be expected to foot such a high proportion of ferry costs. While it is argued that the ferries, as an extension of the provincial highways system should be subsidized by taxpayers to some extent, taxpayers should not subsidize ferries to a greater extent than equivalent roads in other parts of the Province.

Davis thanked Mrs. McQuitty for her suggestions and the Premier W. R. Bennett also thanked her for writing and making him aware of her feelings.

SHELLFISH

Fisheries officer Ray Kraft of Pender Harbour reports shellfish closures Pender Harbour at the mouth, Secret Cove at the mouth, Sergeant Bay, Powell River waterfront Scuttle Bay to Myrtle Point and Gibsons Harbour. Also closed 400 feet of any public dock. Rule of the thumb on Shellfish; don't eat them raw if taken near human habitation. If in doubt don't eat them. During the warm months oysters reproduce (spat) and the flesh is generally watery, hence the belief that the months with no "R" the oysters are not fit to eat.

Crabs: A complete closure inside Pender Harbour because of conservation. The legal size limit is six and a half inches across the 'horns' on the back. Soft shell crabs should be thrown back as they don't have much edible parts.

Limits on Shellfish: 25 oysters or one quart, shucked any one day. Twenty-four clams any one day. Four salmon any one day. Six crabs any one day and three ling cod any one day. There is a two day possession limit on any sport fish.

SOFTBALL

Last Sunday afternoon there was a softball game in the Madeira Park School grounds. The Junior boys versus the Senior girls. Coach Clifford Silvey said the boys won. Score 29 to 0.

CASINO NIGHT

Many people turned out to try and beat the odds at the Lion's Casino Night. The Lady Lions were busy serving refreshments, so the folks wouldn't have to leave their game while they were having a winning streak. Bill Clayton won the raffle and Dutch Haddon won the big door prize.

DRY MONDAYS

Local residents and also tourists have been complaining about the Monday closing of the Liquor Store in Madeira Park and also the unusual lunch hour closing of from 2 till 3 p.m. Apparently the place to voice complaints is in Victoria and to the Branch Manager of the Liquor Administration Board.

AT IT AGAIN

At Egmont there will be a rummage sale on May 29, 1976 at 2 p.m. sharp in the Egmont Community Hall. Pat Thibodeau also says be sure to come, its going to be another wonderful shopping spree, at the sound of the bell, ready set go, the bargains are there so don't be slow.

BOAT LAUNCHING

It was a great day for Sam Leo last Saturday when he launched his 31 foot trimaran boat which he has been building for two and one half years. Well wishers from far and near came to watch the "White Faun" hit the water. Leo plans to complete her rigging in Vancouver or Victoria and then get used to sailing her on the B.C. coast.

THANK YOU

Art Vanderweil, on behalf of the P.H. Lions Club would like to thank everyone in Pender Harbour for coming out and supporting them on their Casino Night, as they need and appreciate the local peoples support. A special thanks to Mr. & Mrs. Dick Blakeman and Larry Boyd from Gibsons for their assistance in making the Big Night a success also.

When the respective delegates returned to the Sunshine Coast and Powell River the same afternoon, there were messages waiting for them to meet with Davis in Victoria at the end of the week.

Busy Red Cross work group

May 19 found a busy group at Red Cross House, Roberts Creek, preparing for a tea and display of needle work.

The Work Group is about a dozen women who meet once a week at the house (the former United Church building) to cut pieces, to make the tops and quilt the quilts.

More than 40 visitors came to see the quilts and other items and to partake of tea and welsh cakes and they left a goodly sum in the silver collection tray.

Since a late start in Dec. the group has made three beautiful patchwork quilts which will be auctioned by Red Cross in Vancouver for International Funds. Another large quilt was made from donated material and this was sold locally.

Besides the quilts many dozens of diapers have been hemmed and 30 children's sweaters have been knitted as well as five afghans. With more regular workers many more items could be completed in a year.

"Our work could not have gone on without the welcome assistance from several community organizations. Their help has made it possible for us to maintain our bright and comfortable work rooms and we are grateful," a spokesman said.

War memorial to be dedicated

The Pender Harbour Legion War Memorial will be dedicated in a ceremony June 5.

The ceremony will start at 2:30 p.m. in the Legion grounds.

The Sechelt Pipe Band will open the ceremony. The address will be given by the Reverend F.A. Ramsey, Chaplain to Pacific Command, Royal Canadian Legion. Gordon M. Liddle, M.M., will unveil the Memorial.

A "stand-to" in the Legion building will follow the ceremony.

A dance featuring the 'Harbour Lites' will be held starting at 9 p.m.

ONE-TO-ONE relationship is the basis of Tutorial II course at Elphinstone Secondary. The tutor works with the tutee on a direct personal basis and charts the tutee's progress. Likewise, the tutee is expected to provide a report on the tutor.

128 reasons for success

By DON MORBERG

Tutorial 11 has 128 reasons for being a success. The secondary school course which recently received approval in principle to become an accredited part of the local school curriculum locally sees senior secondary school students helping junior students with school-related problems. From it the junior students receive help and the senior students, the tutors receive course credits.

A total of 125 students in Elphinstone and Pender Harbour Secondary presently taking the Tutorial 11 prototype course either as tutors or tutees. The other three reasons for its success are the school district's special education co-ordinator Ed Nicholson and Tutorial 11 supervisors Virginia Douglas at Elphinstone and Ron Breadner at Pender Harbour Secondary.

The course was designed following a pattern designed by Nicholson when he was at Argyle Secondary in North Vancouver. When he came here, he realized there was a definite need for such a course locally. It was set up at Elphinstone in January and has been running for about four weeks at Pender Harbour.

The course is to be offered as a senior student elective for credits. It will be one block per day.

Chosen to head the course at Elphinstone was Virginia Douglas, former head of the English Department at the school. Pender Harbour Supervisor Ron Breadner said of her, "She is so organized; I hate her."

Using materials and furniture in store rooms at Elphinstone, she and her tutors have outfitted the old band room as the tutorial centre. They reclaimed and repainted desks, partitions, book cases and even have cajoled local merchants into donating display racks for books and magazines.

Douglas said she was chosen because she was the former head of the English department. "Many of the problems students are having in school is due to basic deficiencies in reading and writing," she said.

So far setting up the course has cost the school district only the purchase price of books for the course.

There are about 29 tutors at Elphinstone, most are Grade 11 and 12, but there is a Grade 10 and a Grade 9 tutor. About 40 tutees are using the services offered by the course.

"The secret is the flexibility," Douglas said, "The tutors can work here in the centre or they can be put into a classroom situation. It depends on where the teacher sees the need. The tutor can be plugged into any situation. About six of the tutors do their actual tutorial work in classrooms.

According to Douglas, the prime function of the course, as far as the tutees are concerned is to get in, get operating and get back into the regular classroom situation as smoothly as possible.

"It's important that the students not be isolated," she said, "Once the tutorials are set up and going, the tutors can organize themselves. Then it is a matter of just monitoring. The tutors are required to keep logs on the progress of their charges, reports and consultations both with Douglas and with the regular subject teacher and constant. Because it is a course, the tutees are also asked to report on their tutors.

Is it helping the tutees?

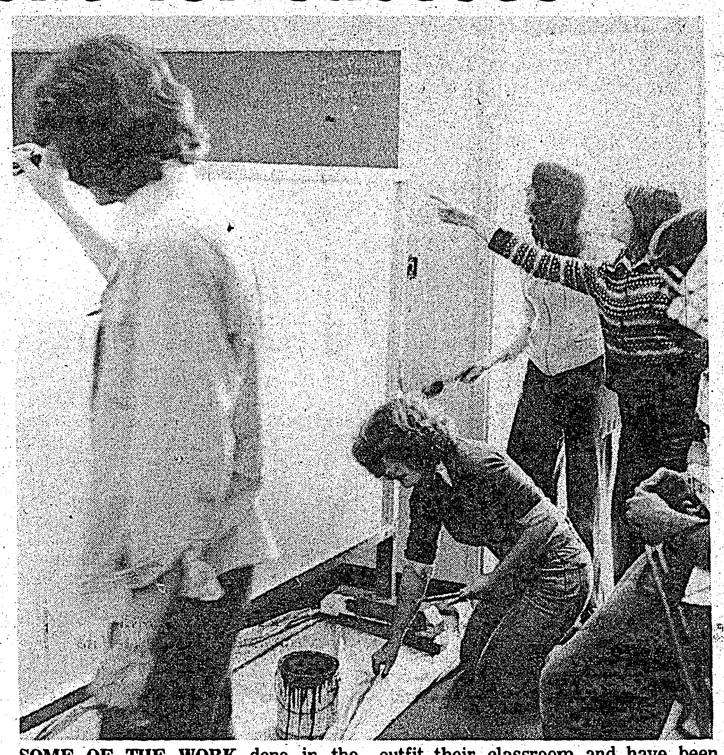
In her report to the school board last week, Douglas presented a written summary of the first three months of the course and its effect on the tutees. "Attitude changes cannot be measured," she said, "but they are equally as important as improvements in work. Over all there was a 48 per cent increase in performance."

She said many of the students needed a one-to-one relationship for difficult school work. She said they were dealing with two aspects, the tutee and his work and the tutor and his course. Both were strictly monitored.

Pender Harbour uses the same materials and systems.

"The teaching staff has been noting changes in the student's attitudes," instructor Ron Breadner said, "The psychological effects of the program have been exciting."

The schools are attempting to get the courses adopted as locally-developed, accredited parts of the curriculum. So far school board has given approval in principle to the concept.



SOME OF THE WORK done in the Tutorial II classroom is on a less than academic basis. The tutors scrounged old book cases, desks and partitions to outfit their classroom and have been painting them themselves. Here a group of tutors put the finishing touches on a partition.

costs of running the system had gone up, wages have gone up."

If the cabinet goes for the commuter rate proposal, residents will be able to get on the Horseshoe Bay-Langdale run on June 1 (providing the ferry system isn't out on strike) using a drivers license or other suitable identification. That will be in effect for 60 days. By that time, the local government officials stated, the provision for using the passes should be in operation.

Concerning the argument about the increased cost of living the higher fares would bring, Davis told the group that the increase caused by the fares would be less than a tenth of a cent, according to McNevin.

"There was no sympathetic feeling for the tourist or for the weekender," McNevin said, "because there was no necessity for their visits here."

The delegation did have some impressive ammunition to present to the minister. They carried with them over 200 letters of protest and about 1500 ferry fare protest slips clipped from local newspapers.

"We argued that there should be no increases for people using buses," McNevin said, "they (the buses) should ride for nothing to encourage people to use the public transit system and leave their cars home. I think the minister understood that point.

"I felt very good about the meeting," McNevin said, "I felt we made our points and they were prepared to accept them. The only thing is now to work out the administration problems."

B.C. Ferries confirmed last week that Sechelt Motor Transport would be paying more to have their buses ride the ferries. Rate will go up more than 100 per cent for buses.

Davis was reluctant to talk about scheduling because that is presently tied up in union negotiations, the Gibsons mayor said.

Partial success

Following the take-a-lot-and-give-a-little-back pattern, the provincial government is considering resident's fares for the Sunshine Coast runs.

That, in itself, is fine and we wouldn't want to seem ungrateful; but it is only a solution to a very small part of the problem which the increased ferry rates will create locally. We refer to the increased cost of living as a result of the increased cost of shipping goods to the Sunshine Coast. It would be naive to think the transport companies and carriers are going to absorb the increased cost of getting the goods here.

While the elected representatives were successful in getting reduced rates for residents, perhaps the matter of the increased cost of living should be pursued.

The minister, in the Friday meeting, quoted figures stating the increased ferry fares would add less than a cent to the cost of a can of vegetables. We wonder what it is going to do to a gallon of gasoline.

Waiting and then taking the evidence to the minister may be too late.

Communication?

Regional Board chairman John McNevin diplomatically termed it "unflatteringly." We term the way Transport Minister and so-called Minister of Communications Jack Davis handled the ferry fare situation locally, criminal.

Bad enough that the new higher rates were announced without a hint that the effect on the economic life of the community and the aesthetic life of the people here was taken into account; but the minister arbitrarily decides that he would not listen to any argument from the local elected officials until after the deed was done.

It was a shame that it was necessary for nearly three hundred local residents to inconvenience a thousand travellers in order to gain the notice of the minister and it was a further shame that the elected representatives from here and from the Powell River area had to take their case to the public through the various news media available before they could gain the ear of the minister.

The representatives had their arguments ready, their homework done, the counter-arguments all rebutted when they walked into the minister's office Friday morning. There was nothing he could do but take their case to the cabinet; there was no argument which would stand up against the elected officials and they are to be highly complimented for their action. Perhaps they proved for the first time that when we all stand together we can get what we want for this area.

The decision now lies in the hands of the cabinet and we doubt that they, like their transport minister, will deny the requests of the elected officials. If they do, they should be prepared for a long struggle which might even see its way into the law courts.

Also to be complimented are the organizers of the ferry protest for showing restraint at the appropriate time. While, what they did was illegal and, as such, can not be condoned, their decision not to hold a second protest over the weekend is to be complimented. They showed a great deal of maturity and responsibility.

by Don Morberg

I WAS watching television the other day. In particular, an ad paid for by a community-minded oil company.

The ad was a film clip of an airline pilot about to take off on his morning flight. While he's warming up his 747, a voice asks him, "Oil plays a big part in your life doesn't it.

I would be rather surprised if a voice started a conversation about oil with me while I was revving up my plane, what with Arab hijackers and all; but this pilot, nonplussed, said oil did play a large part in his life.

The voice then told him that at present rates, all the present oil reserves would be used up by next Thursday.

The pilot, whom we had assumed up to that point to be a relatively intelligent individual (I mean, they don't hand out commercial pilot's licenses on street corners except in Bankok) then said one of the most incredibly stupid things I have ever heard anyone say.

He said, "What's being done then about finding new reserves?"

Can you believe that?

In other words, he might just as well have said, "Wow, if we're using up what we have that fast, we should find all we have and use it all as fast as we can."

It amazes me that some people look at non-renewable resources (anything we use faster than nature produces) like there will be some there just as long as we continue to look for it. One would think that the act of exploration was the factor which caused resources to be created.

It's like having a shopping bag with apples in it. We look in, take the apple out, eat it and then look in the bag again. Sooner or later we're going to take the last apple out and no amount in the bag is going to put another apple in that bag.

So we change bags. Sooner or later we're going to run out of bags and that last bag is going to run out of apples.

I GUESS I'm probably a little bitter because I see that 'oil company mentality' but who can really blame them. They are companies, not human, and only concerned with getting the raw materials to make money from. One really can't expect a company to think or act like it had any kind of conscience. Companies are money motivated; no one can blame them for being otherwise.

I don't think there is too much anyone can do about running out of shopping bags and apples. It will happen sooner or later. Probably the best we can do now is hope that before that final apples some rational energy alternative is found. The other alternative is hope that the Great Chairman of the Board in the sky intervenes and saves us all a lot of time, energy and anguish.

WHILE waiting for A or B to happen, we can all be a little more conscious of the fact that we're running out of apples.

One way to do it is to conserve what we have. The federal department of Energy, Mines and Resources had published a booklet called 100 Ways to Save Energy and Money in the Home. If you want a copy, write to 100 Ways, Box 3500, Station C, Ottawa, KLY 4GL; they're free.

There are, of course, well more than 100 ways listed in the book; but Ottawa was never very good with big numbers.

Some of the things listed are just logical things, others are quite technical; all are worth considering 'cause sooner or later we're going to run out of apples.

About all we can do is hope to buy some time until a solution can be found. That solution is not solely more exploration. The fact that our gasoline bill will be going up to help finance that exploration irks me something fierce.

That cost increase coupled with the traditional increase of local retailers will mean we will stretch our lead in what we pay for gasoline in the province (Places like Stewart notwithstanding.)

Special rates shock MLA

Editor, The Times,

Sir: the following is a copy of a letter sent to Minister of Transport and Communication, Jack Davis.

Dear Mr. Davis,

I am shocked, as I am sure that the majority of residents will be on the Sunshine Coast, when they discover that you have re-instituted special ferry rates for the Gulf Islands, and not for the Sunshine Coast.

My constituents, living on the Sunshine Coast, from Gibsons to Powell River, rely totally on the ferries for transportation needs, and for the supplies of commercial goods, and all other transportation endeavours.

I am once again asking, on behalf of my constituents, that you reconsider the announced fare increases for ferry transportation in my riding, and re-instate the resident's commuter card system.

Dissatisfaction with 'form letter' answer

Editor, The Times;

Sir: The following letter was sent to Transport Minister Jack Davis with a copy to the regional board for their meeting with the minister last Friday.

Dear Mr. Davis;

B.C. FERRIES

Your letter of May 7 was presented to the board of this association on May 17 and I am directed to express dissatisfaction that the form letter sent as your reply did not touch on the main point of our protest, namely the increase in the cost of living which will result from higher ferry rates and in particular the plight of our large proportion of senior citizens who are already having difficulty in making ends meet.

It was reported on the radio this week that when Don Lockstead asked why commuter cards had been re-instated for Gulf Island and Bowen Island residents but not for the constituents of his riding, you replied that almost nobody on the Sunshine Coast commutes to Vancouver for work. In this, Mr. Davis, you are ill-informed.

There are at least 60 residents who commute to Vancouver on the first ferry five mornings a week and in addition there are many who travel less regularly because they work on shift of for only three or four days a week.

Also there are students taking courses at the universities and at Capilano College. Some of these are women who have to return each night because they have young families to care for. Life is difficult enough for these young people as it is, with the long hours entailed and their home responsibilities, but the suggested increase in ferry rates is going to make it impossible for many of them to continue their studies.

We talked with one resident of our area who has a full time job in Vancouver and he tells us that he has to run two cars, with consequent double insurance. He keeps one car on the Sunshine Coast and uses one between Horseshoe Bay and his job. Parking costs him $10 a month at Langdale and $10 a month at Horseshoe Bay, a total expense of over $2,000 a year. If the ferry crossing is now going to cost him $4 a day, he is seriously wondering whether it wouldn't pay him to quit work and go on welfare.

Most of these people entered into their present way of life because the commuter card system made it possible and it was surely to encourage de-urbanization that W.A.C. Bennett introduced the commuter passes in the first place. You and the B.C. Government will be showing an arrogant disregard for the well-being of the people of this area if you do not recognize these facts and reconsider the whole ferry rate structure.

Mary Tinkley
Acting Secretary
Area B Ratepayers

Let Joe do it

Editor, The Times;

Sir: Because some people could be led down the road to hell by the devil himself and too many people sit back and say, "Let Joe do it", I feel I must answer your editorial of May 5, entitled, 'Changing the Act.'

If your intention is to represent the Sunshine Coast, and in this case, especially Area A, I feel you should do some research into public opinion, the necessity of controls by Victoria and the reason why they are not just a rubber stamp.

I whole-heartedly agree with your free press being the unsleeping guardian of the right of individuals providing that press is unbiased and that you as an editor, don't assume that everybody does or anyone should agree with your opinions, especially in the statement that the Dept. of Municipal Affairs, past or present, is the bureaucrat.

Although this letter is strictly on my own initiative I represent a majority of voters in Area A who are damned thankful that there is an obstacle to by-laws, rules and regulations that are planned, proposed and instigated without the vote, consent, and, in some cases, even the knowledge of the people affected.

Regardless of the sincerety of the people performing these duties, who should know better what is good for us than we ourselves? I believe the same democracy that gives you the free press should not deny us the right to a free voice and a say in matters so greatly affecting the Area as a whole, or damn us if we do.

The silent majority will eventually speak out and act without malice.

Lloyd Davis

Objection!

Editor, The Times;

Sir: The demonstration staged at the Langdale terminal on Sunday, May 16 apparently had two objectives in view, both of which were successfully achieved.

The first of these was obviously to attain publicity for objections to ferry rate increases in particular, elimination of commuter privileges. The second of these was to deliberately annoy and frustrate all those travelling in vehicles including, by the way, quite a few permanent residents of the District and Powell River.

I can only conclude that the demonstrators and their backers will be deliriously happy if strike action is instituted to close down the Ferry service completely.

P. W. Crawford

Interpreter needed

Editor, The Times,

Sir: Over the last couple of weeks there has been a great deal of controversy over the proposed B.C. Ferry rate increases, particularly with respect to the retention of resident 'commuter cards'.

I have seen and heard a variety of arguments to date, but it is my opinion that the key argument has so far gone unsaid.

The key here is that we are dealing with Socreds, and it is therefore necessary to speak their language. To talk in human terms arguing rights and privileges is a waste of time. If you want a Socred to understand you, you must speak in terms of business. If we want to justify our commuter cards to the government, we should be pointing out that these cards represent one of the most elementary principles of business — bulk buying. Any businessman can tell you that if you buy in bulk your unit cost goes down. Essentially, we as residents are buying in bulk and are therefore entitled to a lower unit price.

I for one, think that we stand a much better chance of having our protests heeded if we hire an interpretor to translate our constituency's needs into board room jargonese.

P. Michaels,
Granthams

Protest protested

Editor, The Times;

Sir: I strongly object to the manner in which some of the Sunshine Coast residents chose to protest the ferry fare increase at the Langdale Terminal on Sunday, May 16.

I have a summer cabin in the Sechelt area and have been travelling on the ferries for over 10 years — I have waited in many line ups and I now attempt to plan my visits so as to avoid the excessive line ups; hence, I travelled the weekend preceding May 24 weekend. Because of the blockading of some of the ferry sailings on Sunday, I had a much longer wait than necessary and it is my opinion that these 'protesters' are doing nothing constructive to their cause but only antagonizing the people who are attempting to return home and who, by the way, are not responsible for the fare increases. I'm sure the MLA's in Victoria will consider it a big joke, it they hear about it at all.

I can sympathize with the residents' feelings of discrimination at the loss of their commuter pass especially when the Gulf Islanders have been granted theirs, but there are better ways of protesting, such as boycotting and cutting ferry revenue. If everyone cut their use of ferries by 50 per cent over the next few months, perhaps the 'powers that be' in Victoria might sit up and take notice. Perhaps you should send Jack Davis a letter with an attached list of names indicating a boycott by commuters. Hit the government were it hurts — $$$$.

The only good thing to come out of the damage done to the Madeira Park elementary school recently by a vandal or vandals was the fact that parents and teachers of the area rallied round in a cleanup campaign and by their very commendable efforts ensured there would be no interruption of the school schedule.

JUST HEARD an item on a newscast. It appears politicians on the Sunshine Coast are trying to arrange a meeting with Jack Davis to try and make him realize what kind of an impact on social and business life on the Peninsula the raising of ferry fares will have.

The word I hear is that Davis is putting them off until after June 1 when the new rates go into effect. Pretty sneaky, no? It doesn't take too much imagination to know what the results of all the stalling will be. Simply that it is too late, boys, the increases are now in force and we can't change them now.

I don't recall the people of the Gulf Islands having any such meeting, but somehow the powers that be decided that they should not be penalized like we on the Peninsula will be. Could it be there are some very influential people with lots of clout living there? I'm willing to bet there are.

As for us, forget it. The old saying 'When you call the tune you have to pay the piper', applies to our case.

The government aren't about to do anything for we residents. After all we are second class citizens. We showed this in their eyes when we elected an NDP MLA. What did you expect, a medal?

Let's face it, the government isn't about to lose any sleep or shed tears over a little country riding which has the temerity to vote NDP and hasn't much voice in the affairs of the province anyway.

It is a sad state of affairs, I know, but in politics the cardinal rule is to look after your own and to hell with everyone else.

WHAT DO you think about the hospital staff strikes? I have a feeling that people performing essential services, by that I mean hospital staffs, police and firemen whose work can mean life or death to the people who are being helped or protected by them should not be put into the position where they have to strike for a decent living wage.

Strikes by the above mentioned could lead to discomfort, loss of property, vandalism and even death for the public.

I believe that services in question should be given an adequate living salary and it should automatically conform to the fluctuations of the cost of living index.

An arbitrator should be chosen to the satisfaction of both workers and management who's word would be law in the event of any disputes likely to show up. In the turmoil we are now living in, strikes are no doubt inevitable, but they should not be allowed where the health of people is involved.

HAD a chat with Kay Hatcher, local lady who did a great job of collecting for the Cancer Fund recently. It reminded me of the slogan chosen by Australia for that country's cancer campaign. Short and to the point it says — Cancer is a word, not a sentence.

A terrific slogan, don't you think? It says it all.

THE LOCAL Lion's Club held a Casino night recently here in Madeira Park and dear heart and I wandered down to catch the action.

Everybody there seemed to be having a great time and the chips were being scattered on the gambling tables like confetti. I remember leaying somewhat late in the evening wondering where the heck my $20 worth of chips had gone to.

On reflection Sunday morning it appeared a blackjack dealer and a smooth talking crown and anchor man had done the most damage to my modest stake and the rest had been pilfered by a dumb mouse that wouldn't go down the hole I bet he would.

Anyway, it went to a very worthy cause and we had so much fun the giving was easy. Let's have another night like that Lions, but give me enough warning so I can train my own mouse.

Commentary . . .

"He shoots! He scores!"

When Peter Mahovlich's backhand shot lit the red light behind Philadelphia's Wayne Stevenson, there was a collective, silent thud among Flyer fans. They knew it was all over.

There was another collective, silent thud in among Canada's hockey fans who listen to the games through the medium of radio. They, too, knew it was all over.

As well as the end of the Stanley Cup series, it was the end of National Hockey League games being carried on CBC radio.

I'm sure there are listeners who with a sigh of relief agree with William Armstrong, head of CBC radio, that the visual medium is better for hockey.

This may be the conventional wisdom but discriminating hockey fans, given the opportunity listen to the radio commentary while they watch the game on television. But apart from other pragmatic arguments, that Sunday games are not televised nationally, except for play-offs; that many fans do not have television, not to mention those who live in areas of poor or non-existent reception; that hockey broadcasts command a healthy audience — the CKNW Canucks network reaches the far corners of the province and into the Prairies, it is the intangibles which interest me.

We usually credit the CPR with holding this country together. Transportation systems and the like are important of course, but it is what or who can fire the collective imagination which shapes a country's destiny.

It wasn't our political spellbinders in Ottawa who held Canada together during the forties and fifties, but a folk hero called Foster Hewitt who brought families together every Saturday night and then through the magic of CBC Radio linked them to their counterparts on the Prairies, in Upper Canada and the Maritimes provinces on both coasts. Hockey broadcasts are uniquely Canadian — a part of our folk-lore-of the traditions which sustain a national culture.

For some years now we've agonized about our lack of a national identity — but when the Russians came to play hockey we suddenly found we had no identity problems — overnight we knew who we were. How much of this emotional involvement stems from those days when Foster Hewitt's enthusiasm caught fire across the country I don't know — but I do know it was an enduring loyalty. A loyalty to the Canadiens and the Maple Leafs (which has survived the formation of a hometown team and despite our dis-affection with Ottawa and Toronto and sometime prejudices about all things French) has been passed on to succeeding generations. Those Sunday games which unite the whole country will be missed. The CBC should know that a nation is held together not by legislation but by the shared values, beliefs and interests of its people. That culture isn't created from an instant recipe, but from the slow distillation of community traditions.

In a young country like Canada one of the more important skills a coach should be encouraging is the ability to sustain the traditional patterns rather than icing the puck.

"THOUGHT FOR FOOD"

by Susan Nichols

There is a petition circulating on the Peninsula to protest the sale of "junk" foods in the schools. This petition was started by a mother of school age children who is angered than non foods as pop and doughnuts are often made available to students and yet no nutritious alternatives are provided. I endorse the petition and am heartened to see that there are people who do care about what their children are eating. At the end of this article you will find a mini-petition similar to the one being circulated. If you agree with the issue, sign the petition and send it to my box number. I will send it along to be added to the main petition.

For the purpose of this petition, "junk" food is defined as food that is unacceptable from either a dental and-or nutritional standpoint. Unacceptable foods thus include: cakes, pies, tarts, cookies, doughnuts, jam, honey, corn chips, potato chips, pretzels, candies, chocolate bars, soft drinks, dried fruits (eg. raisins) nuts and bolts, ice cream, chocolate milk, tea or coffee with sugar and fruit drinks.

Foods that are acceptable are defined as nutritious and not dentally harmful.

Acceptable foods include: fresh fruit (apples, bananas, oranges etc), unsweetened fruit juices, raw fresh vegetables, vegetable juices (V-8, tomato), plain milk (whole, 2 per cent, skim, buttermilk), all types of cheese, cottage cheese, yogurt plain or with fresh fruit, all nuts (peanuts, cashews, etc.), seeds (sesame, sunflower), fish (tuna, sardines, salmon), meat, chicken, hot dogs, peanut butter, baked beans, whole grain breads, crackers, sandwiches (ham, egg, tuna, cheese, peanut butter, chicken, meat), pizza and hardboiled eggs.

As you can see there are many food items that are both nutritious and will not harm the teeth. Eliminating 'junk' foods still leaves much variety from which to choose.

Several weeks ago I wrote a column that explained why sticky, sweet food items cause dental cavities. It is easy to see why these foods are best limited in the diet. Today I will concentrate on why nutritionally poor foods should also be restricted.

Zero foods, non foods, empty calorie foods — these terms all apply to items that supply only calories and almost no vitamins, minerals or other nutrients. True we need calories, but we need many nutrients as well. There are more than 45 known nutrients that are absolutely essential to man and must be taken in regularly in the food we eat. If you alleviate a hunger pain with a 'food' that supplies only calories, then you will not feel the need to eat nutritious foods — foods that could supply important nutrients. Being 'full' should never be confused with being well-nourished.

A very worn phrase is, 'you are what you eat'. But it's true, you are! There is no stage in the life cycle in which nutrition is not important. What a mother eats during pregnancy definitely affects the health of her infant at birth. Studies from Montreal have shown us that pregnant women following poor diets give birth to babies of low birth weight and lower than average intelligence.

If a child does not get enough protein, vitamins and minerals in his diet, he will not grow well because these nutrients are needed for the growth of all body tissues. Yes, he will still grow, but he will not reach his full potential. If a child does not get enough calcium and vitamin D, his teeth and bones will not become strong and well developed. In the early years after birth, nutrition still has an effect on mental development.

Teenagers have a great need for proper nutrition. Without good protein in the diet, their bodies will not develop as they should. The students on the Sunshine Coast often have to travel long distances to school on the bus. They must leave sometimes one and a half hours before school starts. This often does not provide time for a good breakfast at home. The result is a bag of chips or a candy bar for breakfast. Such food items supply temporary energy but by 10 a.m. the blood glucose level falls and so does the student's ability to concentrate on studies.

Diet is implicated in many diseases such as heart disease and cancer. The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that improved nutrition could reduce morbidity and mortality from heart disease by 25 per cent, from respiratory and infectious diseases by 20 per cent, and from diabetes by 50 per cent. Such diseases cost our government millions of dollars annually. Good nutrition may be one of our most valuable untapped resources.

As you can see, there is little room in anyone's diet for non foods that supply only calories. An empty calorie food as an occasional snack is one thing. A continual diet in the form of sodas, candy, cakes and pastries is a menace. We have let the food industries have their way for too long. All those ads for pepsi, jello, cookies, chocolate bars and whipped topping undermine good nutrition. Dare cookies do NOT have good things in them.

Many of today's school students are tomorrow's parents. Their nutritional status will be reflected in the physical and mental development of their offspring. No circle could be more vicious. Let's break the circle. If you wish to see your children offered good foods at school or if you are a student who would appreciate nutritious and non carciogenic foods being offered at school, fill in this mini petition and mail it to P.O. Box 1186.

I (we) the undersigned are opposed to the sale of junk food in the schools and would like to see such sales stopped.

Gibsons roads get a facelift

Gibsons council has set its road paving priorities for 1976.

Alderman Bill Laing presented a list of nine road priorities to the council meeting last week.

On top of the list was 940 foot strip of Shaw Road, 20 feet wide and a 500 foot portion 10 feet wide.

Davis Road will be paved from Shaw Road to the curling rink property.

Skyline Drive is to be paved from Alison Way to Arbutus Reach. Shoal Lookout is to be paved from Skyline to the turn-around and in the same area Georgia Drive is to be paved from Skyline to the fork in the road.

Headlands Road is to be paved from Franklin to Dougal Road. Dougal Road is to be paved from Headlands to Prouse Road.

Gower Point Road is to be paved from Prouse to School Road. Glen Road is to be paved from Bals Lane to Beach Avenue.

According to the village clerk's report, when the program is finished, it will mean all roads in the Gibsons area with the exception of a few minor lanes will be paved.

Asked about Abbs and Sargent Roads and their deteriorating condition, Laing said that money would not come from the paving budget but from the maintenance budget. "That will keep the aldermen who live on those roads off my back for another year," he said jokingly. (For the record, Alderman Metcalfe and Metzler live on the roads; but not in the areas which require work.)

Total paving budget is about $70,000 for 1976.

From the pulpit

—by Pastor Gerry Foster,

On one or two occasions I have in this column commented on the alcohol problem in our country. I would like to mention it again. For being the No.1 social problem in our society we do not hear that much about it. Perhaps it is such a part of our life style that we are blinded to the serious problems it creates.

Last month the residents of Frobisher Bay, N.W.T. have again asked the territorial government to order a plebiscite to determine whether the local liquor store should be permanently closed.

A petition containing 562 signatures, over half of the persons on the village voting list, was compiled. The petition referred to "violence, child neglect, unhappiness, loss of dignity and loss of life" through alcoholism. The petition said, "Mr. Hodgson (territorial commissioner), this request is so much a last cry for help that your answer can make the difference between the village becoming a real community or giving up once and for all.

Frobisher Bay is not the only community with an acute alcohol problem. We have sad situations on our own doorsteps which can be attributed to alcohol. There is a slogan "when your drive, don't drink", which is sound advice. But some people get in to as much trouble and cause as much harm when they are drinking and not driving. A drunk behind the wheel of a car is dangerous, but so is a drunk "behind the wheel of a family".

Jesus Christ offers living water of which He says, "whoever drinks of this living water will never thirst". Alcohol is an artificial stimulant. Jesus can give you the real thing.

In education, Social Credit coalition government's "accomplishments" so far have been to cut back on grants to school districts which will be reflected in higher local taxes, and to increase the deductibility on school insurance to $1 million which will also be reflected in local taxes.

The social programs have been particularly effected by the Social Credit government's record of accomplishment; Community Resource Boards have been disbanded or left to fend for themselves; employable welfare recipients have been told where they can live, and how long their hair must be.

In women's rights matters, Social Credit has discontinued the office of the Status of Women, withdrawn funds from women's transition houses, and eliminated the program to study sexism in the schools.

Of course, the Social Credit coalition government never cared much for human resources, education or health in the first place. During the election campaign they stressed that they were most concerned about the province's finances. So what have they done in the first five months of their administration? They have deliberately inflated the deficit position of the province for the fiscal year 1975-76 by passing millions of dollars of so-called special warrants which they can't or won't explain.

They have plunged the province into debt unnecessarily by passing a bill to borrow $400 million which the taxpayer will have to pay the interest on. They gave $181 million to I.C.B.C. which I.C.B.C. didn't need, and promptly loaned back to the government at 10 percent interest.

And now they have doubled and raised ferry fares by 100 and 150 percent, having previously cut back on coastal shipping by the sale of the Prince George, and threatened the sale of other necessary vessels.

It is indeed quite a record! The question now is; how much more can the people of British Columbia stand?

Garden Corner

BY GUY SYMONDS

"While the earth remaineth, seed time and harvest . . . shall not cease." In that promise we once more have confidently prepared our land and sown the all-powerful seed that we know will give us results in proportion to our skill, work and attention to the demands of the living forces entrusted to us.

This is the busiest time of the gardeners year. Not only has he to take care of the immediate demands of soil preparation, fertilizing and seeding but he (the use of the male pronoun is for the sake of convenience only!) must look at many more chores vital to the future health of the garden.

Among the first of these needing attention at this time of the year is the flowering spring bulb. When the flowers have faded — their blessed message of hope and comfort faithfully delivered — proper steps must be taken to see to it that next year's surviving mortals may enjoy the same privilege.

Daffodils are the first to be looked at and the idea is to prevent the growth and development of the seeds in the pod behind the bloom. If this is allowed to run its course, the plant, like all living organisms, will if necessary, sacrifice the present for the sake of future generations and to the multiplication of kind. So the dying blooms must be removed. But the leaves on which the life of the parent bulb depend must be retained until, their mission accomplished, they fade and die in their own appointed time. It is of course not necessary that the plants be retained in their own form. The leaves can be neatly folded and tied or even the whole plant removed and with the rest of its kind, heeled in an unused corner . . .Just as long as they are allowed to make use of the daylight so that the miracle of photosynthesis and the access to feed are allowed to continue.

This principle applies to all bulbs. Some however do not need to be taken out of the ground during the winter months. Crocuses for example can stay where they are and seem to benefit from 'benign neglect.' Daffodils however should certainly be lifted, treated with fungicide dust and stored under proper conditions. Leaving them encourages the narcissus fly and attracts the attention of mice, moles and other animals needing a good winter diet. Also the flowers tend to become smaller as the years progress.

Tulips generally speaking also should be lifted each year, again after the leaves have died a natural death, then dried, dusted and stored. Also it is important that they, like the daffodils, be not allowed to form seed pods.

It would seem that hyacinths suffer no ill effects from being left in the ground except that they are exposed to damage from insects and such. So it is really better to lift and store them with the other treasures.

At this stage it is probably a good idea to direct a thought to the care of the lawn. The temptation too often seems to be to over fertilize and this is a mistake. It usually results in very heavy growth for a few weeks and a poor lawn for the rest of the summer. The proper drill is little and often - just the reverse to the watering procedure recommended — in the light sandy soil that predominates hereabouts, with its paucity of humus and lack of body, the emphasis is on nitrogenous feeding, like sulphate of ammonia, though this indeed must be qualified with the warning that there may be other serious deficiencies too. In fact This Corner has carried the urgent recommendation several times that a soil analysis is an excellent investment. But whatever is done the word, once more is — little and often.

But if you have a clover lawn — and there are a few — remember that clover since it fixes its own nitrogen from the air, will not tolerate additional nitrogen supply and will simply quit. For these lawns, the answer is a super phosphate fertilizer.

Utility corridor discussed

The Utility Corridor concept was discussed again at the last Sechelt council meeting.

It was brought up in connection with a waterline which the regional district wants to lay through land owned by the Sechelt Indian Band.

At a previous meeting May 14 with the Village of Sechelt, Sunshine Coast Regional Board, the Sechelt Band, Department of Highways, B.C. Hydro and Municipal Affairs, representatives presented their technical views on the feasibility of a utility corridor for the reserve.

It was questioned whether it would be possible for the regional district and band council to come to an agreement on the waterlines in order that service could be provided to westward areas.

The band wants all utilities including Hydro and highways to be put through a specific corridor. The band is trying to avoid the loss of more land to utilities which have to cross reserve lands to serve the Sechelt area. Presently, there are easements out for water, highways, hydro, telephone service and cablevision and the band would like to see the utilities all within one corridor.

The council feels that they will approach the provincial government requesting compensation for the corridor or as an alternative, a land trade for provincial lands in this area. If the concept is approved then the band council can set up a committee to administer this corridor with representatives from the provincial, municipal and band levels.

Councillor Ted Dixon stated at the meeting that band members are beginning to become quite concerned about the loss of land to utility easements on the Sechelt Reserve.

D. Tranfield from the Dept. of Highways stated his department agreed in principle with the utility corridor concept but at present they cannot follow the B.C. Hydro lines in all areas. Highways require a minimum width of 80 feet.

Regional Board member Peter Hoemberg advised the band council that waterlines could be put anywhere within the corridor. The board is presently faced with a time problem in that they are unable to provide service to westward areas until the cross line is installed.

B.C. Hydro spokesman Eric Hensch said Hydro is in agreement with the proposal.

At a meeting in Vancouver, May 18, officials from the Hydro engineering department met to discuss long range planning for the corridor. They agreed to meet with the Dept. of Highways as soon as possible, said Hensch. They have turned all land management information over to the department and are waiting for a reply. The two departments are going to work together to come up with a proposal which would use the minimum amount of land for utilities. All utilities will fit into the area finally decided upon by these two bodies.

New members in garden club

Two new members were welcomed at the May meeting of the Sechelt Garden Club. Gail Ciermon and Helga Conners are the newcomers.

Visitors were Edith Husner, Judy Maynard, Alma Boss and Paul Lungard. President, Jack McLeod, reported Sechelt Elementary School Garden Club is organized and children are planting gardens.

Eric Wilson managed the Spring Flower show and said it was very successful. Spring flowers and floral arrangements and house plants were displayed at the show which was opened by Father T. Nicholson. A display by Enid Harrold was composed of dried flowers. The Arts Council had paintings on view and hanging baskets were from Casey's Country Gardens. Also planters and trellisses made by Eric Wilson were on display.

The ever-popular plant sale was sold out.

The club is fortunate to have Dr. Bill Cormack as a member.

He is retired and living at Davis Bay. Dr. Cormack worked for the Canadian Department of Agriculture, specializing in plant diseases. He showed slides of the plants and trees of the Prairies at the meeting.

The next meeting will be June 2 at 7:30 p.m. in St. Hilda's Hall.

Halfmoon Bay Happenings

—by Mary Tinkley

Even the members of the Halfmoon Bay Recreation Commission must have been surprised at the amazing response they received when they called a general meeting to discuss future activities for the children and teenagers of the area. Parents and teenagers were there, brimming over with suggestions and full of enthusiasm to help.

Chairman Peggy North welcomed everybody and introduced the members of her commission, Cheryle Grognet secretary-treasurer, Linda Paulhus Jean Trousdell, Maureen Renouf, Sue Beaven, Maria Bock, Alma Boss and Barbara Laakso. Mrs. Paulhus gave a brief history of the commission and there followed a report of its funding and activities. One of the commission's chief projects is the swimming instruction at Redrooffs Beach which is sponsored by the commission jointly with the Sunshine Coast Lions Club. Other annual events have been Easter Egg hunts, Halloween fireworks displays and Christmas parties.

Maureen Renouf, film director, reported that she was in contact with a number of film sources and was receiving wonderful co-operation. She hoped to have some programmes available for the summer months and regular programmes next winter.

It was hoped to have more dances for the teenagers and plans were being made for admission to be by ticket only and for four chaperones to be allocated to each dance. A list of chaperones is being compiled and any adults wishing to offer their services in this respect should give their names to Peggy North or Cheryle Grognet.

The new baseball team, coached by Richard Semotiuk showed a great deal of enthusiasm and expressed their willingness to work for the money to pay for their uniforms and equipment. It was recommended that the commission donate $50 to the baseball team and organize some fund raising events. A bottle drive was planned for May 29; Richard Semotiuk will convene a car wash, Bonnie Semotiuk a rummage sale and Sue Beaven a country fair. Other suggestions submitted were for a job-placement service for the teenagers and the organization of a Teen Town in the Fall. Since the meeting, a macrame hanging planter has been donated and will be raffled shortly. It is hoped residents will support these fund raising efforts.

Particularly at this time of year when the dogwoods are flaunting their white blossoms in reckless abandon, the broom bushes are making a splash of colour along the highways and the sun is accentuating all the beauty of local gardens, don't you feel the urge to paint pictures so that you can hoard all this beauty for winter enjoyment? If so, here is your chance to get together with some kindred spirits. A meeting will be held at Mrs. Grace Rutherford's home on Monday, May 31st, at 8 p.m. with a view to forming an art group. It matters not if you are old or young, male or female, beginner or professional, come along and let's talk it over.

At a meeting of the Executive of Area B. Ratepayers, Association held at the Welcome Beach Hall on Monday, May 17, the directors expressed dissatisfaction with a letter from Minister of Transport, Jack Davis, regarding the proposed increase in B.C. ferry rates. It was agreed to send another letter to the Minister asking why commuter cards should be restored to the Gulf Islands and Bowen Island and not to the Sunshine Coast. A general meeting of Ratepayers is planned for June 21 at the Welcome Beach Hall at 7:30 p.m.

More than 60 people turned out for Vince Shannon's Little Reno night on May 15 which was a real fun affair. High score winners were Frank Currie for darts, Joe Eckhart for Bingo, Alice Fraser for dice throw, George Murray for the best poker hand, Mary Ewan for high card, Astrid Kadin for carpet bowling with a score of 22 and Ronnie Dunn for shuffleboard with a score of 45. There were consolation prizes and door prizes too numerous to list, and three prizes for the spot waltz went to Mr. and Mrs. Bert Moore, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pallant and Mrs. T. Leuchte and Mrs. M. Walker.

Ed. Edmunds is rejoicing in the safe arrival of his second great-grandchild, Andrea Leanne Foley, born to his grandson, Michael Foley and his wife Elaine on May 4 at the Royal Columbian Hospital, New Westminster.

Mrs. Eva Lyons' guests for the holiday weekend were her granddaughter Arlene Chestnut with husband Charles and family.

Killam says O.K.

Hayden Killam has finally agreed to bring his O. K. Tire Store up to national building code standards. He has lodged a $2000 cash bond to assure completion by July 18.

Sechelt Council had previously given Killam until April 26 to make the improvements before they turned it over to Victoria. Council then adopted a bylaw June 2, ordering Killam to make the necessary changes or the village would do the work and charge him for it. He was given 30 days to appeal.

The building inspector for Sechelt is satisfied with Killam's proposal for improvements.

If you walk to work, it won't be work to walk.

SUNSHINE COAST REGIONAL DISTRICT

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

BY-LAW 96

LAND USE REGULATION

Pursuant to Section 703 of the Municipal Act, a public hearing will be held on Monday, June 7, 1976, 7:30 p.m., at the Regional District offices, 1238 Wharf Street, Sechelt, to consider Sunshine Coast Regional District Use Regulation By-law No. 96, 1975. All those who deem their interest in property to be affected by the by-law shall be afforded an opportunity to be heard on matters contained in the by-law.

The intent of By-law 96 is to improve and standardize the regulation of the use of land, including the location and use of buildings, in Electorial Areas A, B, C, D, E and F of the Regional District. This by-law will replace Sunshine Coast Regional District Zoning By-law No. 35, 1970.

By-law 96 divides the Regional District into residential, commercial, industrial, rural and public zones, and establishes regulations applicable in each zone. The metric system of measurement is adopted, with suitable changes to numerical standards now in By-law 35 pertaining to such matters as building height, setbacks, and site areas. Lot size will not be regulated in By-law 96 but will be dealt with in a Subdivision By-law. The policies of the Islands Trust and the B.C. Land Commission are incorporated in By-law 96. Zone boundaries will be adjusted, where necessary, to remove certain inconsistencies and non-conforming uses.

Take notice that the above is not deemed to be an interpretation of this by-law. By-law 96 may be inspected at the Regional District offices, 1238 Wharf Street, Sechelt during office hours, namely 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday to Wednesday, 8:30 a.m. to 5:45 p.m. Thursday and Friday.

ARCTIC HARVESTER docked at the Chevron Wharf in Davis Bay. The Sechelt Indian Band bought the deep sea seiner in 1975. It will be used for research purposes.

Arctic Harvester local debut

By LYN ATKINSON

Arctic Harvester made its inaugural visit to the Sunshine Coast last Thursday.

The 147 foot deep sea seiner came from New Westminster and docked at Davis Bay for the day. About a hundred people boarded the boat on a public inspection tour and afterward the Sechelt Indian Band held a feast for the crew and its captain.

The Harvester has been hailed as the largest and most sophisticated combination fishing vessel in Canada.

The Sechelt Indian Band purchased the floating ship in 1975 for $2.5 million. The purchase was made by S.I.B. International Industries Ltd., formed by the Sechelt Indian Band under the provincial companies act. The company is wholly-owned by the band. Clarence Joe Sr. is chairman of the board, Gilbert Joe is president and directors are Chief Calvin Craigen, Ted Dixon, Stan Joe and Tom Paul. The purchase of the Arctic Harvester is the company's initial venture.

In addition to operating as a fisheries research vessel for six months of the year during the next five years, the Harvester has been granted a license by the Minister of Fisheries to participate in the herring roe fishing.

The vessel, built by Vancouver's Benson Bros. in 1971 has been under major reconstruction at their shipyard. Even though she is a technologically advanced vessel she has been converted from a single-deck deepsea seiner to a shelter-deck stern trawler. Advanced freezing techniques have been installed in the vessel and her insulated fish holds will generate temperatures down to -40 degrees F.

The purpose of the reconstruction is to enable the Arctic Harvester to perform the research work for the federal government.

She will also be working for the Pacific Biological Station at Departure Bay to explore the potential of trawling for groundfish off B.C.'s coast.

Captain Bob Karliner said the boat will be packing herring roe in Birk channel at the end of May and then will spend two weeks in drydock after which she will be deep sea trawling from July 20 to Nov. 20.

Captain Karliner said the main job of the Harvester crew will be to investigate previously unharvestable fish species and to obtain better quality herring roe for shipment to Japan.

He said B.C. is missing out on a highly lucrative business because, "they concentrate on the fancy species of fish such as salmon and forget the so-called undesirable fish. Polish fish boats have been harvesting hake from B.C. waters, freezing them and then selling the fish to the United States for fish and chips." said Karliner. He said, "Russian, Japanese and Polish boats are making a killing." B.C. does not harvest hake.

Part of the Harvester's job is to explore ways of making these fish more palatable to B.C. tastes. They will be going after turbot, a ground fish which until now has not been marketed in B.C.

The ship will also serve as a training school from members of the Sechelt Indian Band. Presently the ship has a crew of eight with four trainees from the band. The trainees receive instruction in all facets of the ship — engineering, navigating and deck work. Company president Gilbert Joe said he estimated the band would be entirely crewing the ship in five years after training on the vessel.

The Harvester will be cruising as far as the edge of the continental shelf up to the Gulf of Alaska.

Ferries confirm SMT to pay more

B. C. Ferries has confirmed that SMT Coach Lines Ltd. will be paying more than double to transport buses up the Sunshine Coast.

B.C. Ferries Traffic Manager Ken Stratford said the new rate for buses effective June 1, will be $34 for bus and driver compared to $16 presently. SMT manager Bill Hamilton is to meet with ferries officials this week.

Earlier Hamilton said he feared rates for freight and passengers would have to be increased substantially to cover the ferry rate increases.

Friend's of Joe Cave's figured he was the most confired bachelor known, but he is as vulnerable as the next one. Eight months ago he met Gudrun Meine of Bernreid, Germany at the home of his parents in West Vancouver and changed his life.

Gudrun returned to Germany not knowing many words in English, but when Joe met her in France, in March of this year she spoke it as well as he. A seven week tour of Europe via Volkswagon made an ideal holiday. Dover made quite an impression on the couple, but the most memorable stay of all was in a converted stable in Mellendorf, Germany. They also stayed at several castles, one on the Rhine and another at Necker, as they toured all through Germany, then Joe returned home May 3rd.

Joe leaves here the end of this month for the wedding which will take place in Germany. The couple will leave Bernreid July 15th to make their home in West Vancouver, Joe's profession, consulting engineer, keeps him busy in Sechelt, Squamish and West Van. Congratulations from the Sunshine Coast.

Heard the Sunshine Choristers had a tremendous concert last Saturday, despite their loss of a chairman. At the last minute Tom Wood filled in and did an excellent job.

The Sunshine Coast is rapidly changing its face and it is good to see how some of the local artists are capturing the scenes of rustic beauty such as Nancy Read's paintings displayed at Whitaker House this past week. Members to the Sunshine Coast Arts Council have an important meeting to attend tonight, May 26 at the Whittaker House, Sechelt 8 p.m.

Watching Don Chappell riding an elephant like he did it every day was quite the feat at the recent circus, and he is a fellow who doesn't care for heights.

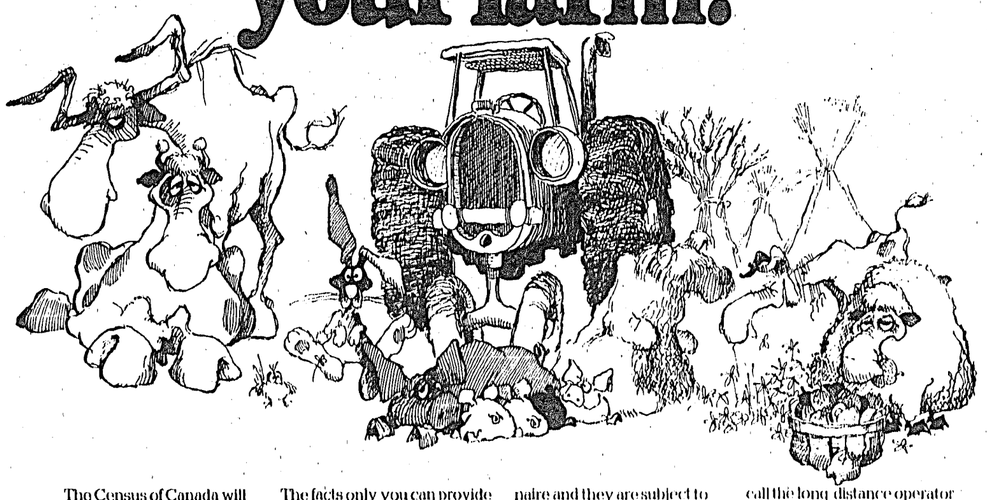
The Census of Agriculture.

How are things on your farm?



The Census of Canada will provide important benefits for all Canadians, but the farming community has special needs. That's why you are asked to complete the agricultural questionnaire, in addition to the general questionnaire.

How is the information used?

Farming is so complex that we need all the information we can get to develop policies and programs to meet agriculture's rapidly changing needs. The facts only you can provide are used to help agricultural associations and government agencies plan and develop new and existing programs.

Our lips are sealed.

The information you provide on Census Day is so vital to the future of Canada that there is a law requiring you to count yourself in. This law also ensures that none of your answers shall be passed on to any other government department. Only Statistics Canada personnel, who are sworn to secrecy, see your questionnaire and they are subject to legal penalties if they disclose your answers to anyone else.

What to do if you don't know what to do.

If you have problems with the Census of Agriculture questionnaire, fill in all the questions you are able to answer and leave the rest until the census representative comes around to pick up your completed documents.

If you didn't receive either questionnaire by May 31st, or the questionnaires in the official language of your choice, call the long distance operator and ask for ZENITH 0-1976. There is no charge.

We're counting on you.

The 1976 Census of Agriculture is important to everyone who farms. It's something we can't do without and we can't do it right without you. So please help us make the 1976 Census of Agriculture a complete success.

June 1 is Census Day. Count yourself in.

Odds getting hosed

The village of Gibsons discriminates against people who live in even numbered houses.

During a tongue-in-cheek debate over the village's sprinkling regulations, Alderman Jim Metzler pointed out that because od numbered houses sprinkled on odd numbered days and even numbered houses sprinkled on even number days, people in even numbered houses were getting the dirty end of the stick because most months have an extra odd numbered day.

"People in even numbered houses are being hosed," he said.

Restrictions went into effect May 15 and restricted sprinkling from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. on appropriate days.

Mini bus meeting

Mini-Bus has become an important factor in the life of the communities of the Sunshine Coast. In the year and a half that it has been operating it has become a familiar sight on the highways and byways of the area.

In spite of this there are many residents and visitors who have many questions about it; what does it do, who operates it, who may use it, and how may it be used? The Mini-Bus Operating Committee will hold a public meeting at 7:30 p.m, in the Senior Citizens Hall, Sechelt, on Wednesday, June 2.

Everybody welcome, for the purpose of informing all who attend as much as possible of its past, present and future.

The committee will welcome your questions, suggestions, criticisms and —or your approval. "The Mini-Bus is here to stay, it serves you now and seeks to serve you even better in the future, you can help by your attendance and participation at this meeting." a spokesman said.

Zoning hearing set

A public meeting to discuss amendments to the zoning bylaw will be held in the Senior Citizens Hall, Thursday, June 10 at 8 p.m.

The first amendment concerns agricultural land use in the village. The amendment exempts land in the Agricultural Land Reserve from any conflicting clause in the zoning bylaw and if that land is taken out of the agricultural reserve then it comes under the zoning bylaw again.

The second amendment affects certain lots in District Lot 303. The lot numbers are advertized in The Times along with the bylaw.

The bylaw is also being amended to read only one principle building per lot is permitted and the total of buildings cannot occupy more than 60 percent of the lot area.

Elevated highway a noise problem

Sechelt Village Council has sent a letter to the Department of Highways planning branch asking them to consider reducing the elevation of the proposed highway and to install fence baffles to reduce traffic noise.

They also want the highway moved a few feet into the B. C. Hydro right-of-way, and deletion of the parallel road connecting the Indian road, Trident and Wharf.

The Leisure Outlook This Week

Native Indian leadership internal struggle examined

The Berger Enquiry presently listening to the thoughts of southern Canadians about development in the North and the proposed pipeline in particular, has made everyone aware of immediacy of Native Land Claims in the Northwest territories.

In Between Ourselves this Friday (8:03 p.m.) on CBC Radio, John David Hamilton examines the internal struggles among the native peoples and the fight for leadership of the Indian Brotherhood. A Dog Indian, Mames Wah-Shee was ousted as president last December; his chief rival is George Erasmus, a Cree.

Though the 30,000 population has produced some of the best native leaders on the continent there is a fear they will destroy themselves as the more competent they become to deal with whites, the more integrated them become. Hamilton talks with Indian, Inuit and Metis spokesmen, and to the leadership contenders as the June elections approach.

COQUITLAM ARTIST Granville recently held a one man show in Whitaker House in Sechelt. Granville said the show capped a very busy six months of activity which included other one-man shows, gallery work, opening a new studio and working on a book. —Timesphoto

Busy six months for visiting artist

The six months between Granville's one-man show in Sechelt in November and his recent one man show have been busy ones.

The Coquitlam based artist has put on two one-man shows, one in Coquitlam and one in North Vancouver. He has made arrangements for three more before the end of the year including one at Brackendale Gallery near Squamish.

"A Vancouver gallery, Gallery 6 in Kerrisdale, is talking about promoting my work right across Canada," Granville said, "and I have a few other things on the go."

He is also putting the finishing touches on his first book.

"I've been working on the book, illustrating it and writing it. The illustrations will be my abstracts. It will be called Gamma to Tallow, as in morning to evening. It's fiction. The book actually started when I was in England. There was time when I was not painting, my doodling time and I wanted a way to turn this into productive time. So I began writing this book. I'd write a page or two during my doodling time."

Granville describes the book as, "Just words and pictures, sort of an adult story book, a text with paintings." First draft of the book is finished.

The artist is presently operating from two studios. He maintains his studio at 1206 Brunette but is also working in an 'open' gallery in New Westminster.

"There are a number of artists working there and people can come in and watch them work," he said.

He also has been doing some travelling around the province, gaining ideas for paintings and showing some works.

"It's been an amazing year," he said, "I've gone from showing my works in Stanley Park in August to the point where galleries are looking and thinking of backing me. That's not bad for that space of time. My work is now definitely improved. It's more settled. I'm getting involved with larger shapes. I've done demonstrations of my technique and in the fall I was teaching a course in advanced painting. The course was designed to have people develop their own styles by experimenting with new media or using familiar media in unfamiliar ways.

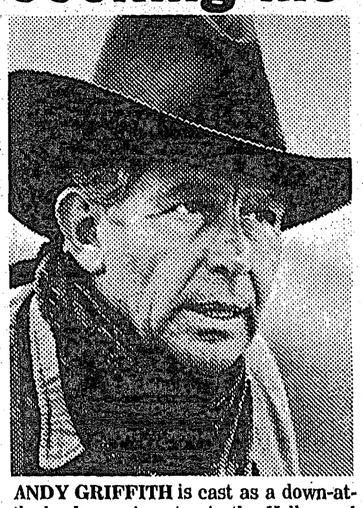
Granville said his Whitaker House show was successful.

As usual a canvas entitled Flying Kites was part of the show and went unsold.

A cursory glance and the canvas would be dismissed as unfinished, white with a green section at the bottom. Closer examination reveals the green to be a finely detailed grass field with three figures, the figures are flying delicate kites on long strings. The three kites heads are brightly colored; but lost in a sky of sculptured clouds and cloud forms in greys, light blues and off shades of white.

"That one is my old friend," Granville said, "It's in every show and always has the same price tag. Someday someone will come along who feels the same way about the painting that I do and price will be no object to them. That's the person I want to have the painting."

Seeking his fortune



ANDY GRIFFITH is cast as a down-at-the-heels movie extra in the Hollywood of the thirties in 'Hearts of the West', a comedy of moviemaking opening tomorrow at the Twilight Theatre in Gibsons.

'Hearts of the West', starring Jeff Bridges, Andy Griffith, Donald Pleasance, Blythe Danner and Alan Arkin opens tomorrow at the Twilight Theatre.

A variation on the Horace Greely theme, ('Go West, young man!'), the film is the comic story of an Iowa farm boy who goes to Hollywood during the thirties to seek his fortune in the milieu of grade 'B' movies.

Following this with a three day run is the highly acclaimed 'Lies My Father Told Me', a story of growing up in Montreal in the 1920's. The film is an unusual story of love and family conflict, well told from the viewpoint of a six year old child to whom images are vivid, emotions powerful. Just the right touches of interspersed humour, as well as a delightful depiction of the neighbourhood atmosphere, help round out this sensitive drama.

WORKING MOTHERS by Jean Curtis, published by Doubleday c1976, 214 pages, $8.95.

Working moms out there be prepared to read a study, the result of five years of work, which approaches the question academically but practically. The author began her book after the birth of her third child and was just seeing him off to kindergarten about the same time it came off the press. She was one of the 51 per cent of full-time working women with pre-school children.

Is working-out for all mothers? At what age is it best for mothers to begin work (if there is a choice)? Which one is the 'psychological' parent? Do all problem kids have working mothers? How IN is Doctor Spock? Which men can handle an egalitarian marriage? How does one cope with poor public attitudes toward working mothers? Extensive answers to these questions, based on studies and interviews with over 200 working mothers has made Jean Curtis' book an authority on the subject.

Although the jacket advertises it as a book with, "New ideas from working mothers, their husbands and children on how to be more successful at work and at home", it is supportive rather than advisory. Somewhere in the text you are bound to find your problems, theories or experiences expressed.

The book recommends that working out be approached with intelligent planning, lots of confidence and no guilt. If in the process, you are lucky enough to have a mature husband willing to do his true share of the household and child rearing duties, you can turn out children who are independent, responsible and perhaps, more understanding than those from homes where Mother only pretends to be home. To avoid putting down the mother who enjoys home life, it is only fair to say that this is a one-sided book. The fact that almost one-half of the Canadian work force is made up of married females does not leave room for does-she-doesn't she. She does. This book gets on with the matter rather than arguing the issues.

Working Mothers is a must for the bookshelves of its namesake.

Members attending conference

Roberts Creek Hospital Auxiliary met in St. Aidan's Parish Hall the evening of May 10; but only about a dozen members were present.

Mrs. M. Grose, president, called for reports from the various committees and thanked them for the great amount of work their groups had accomplished. Sufficient funds were voted for Mrs. Bruce and Mrs. Snetsinger to attend the Provincial conference of B.C. Hospital Auxiliaries, in Vancouver in mid-May.

Members were urged to assist in preparations for the auxiliary parade float to be entered in the Timber Days celebrations.

Several car loads of ladies expected to attend the tea at Pender Harbour.

Next meeting will be at 7 o'clock, in St. Aidan's Parish Hall, June 14th 1976.

At the boys and girls track meet in Squamish last Thursday, Elphinstone competed very well against the opposing teams.

Junior girls won a point trophy in the competition.

A junior girls Denise Hart came in first in both 100 and 200 meters.

Cathy Swinhart came in first in 400 meters.

Bonnie Janiewick came first in the mile run and the 800 meters.

Colleen Hoops broke the javelin record throwing 88 feet, 3 inches.

Seniors did a good job coming in second in point competition. Marilyn Monrow came in first in throwing the discus. Karla Nygren showed outstanding press coming fiist in the mile and 800 meters. Karla also came in second in the long jump and 400 meters.

The track meet season is now over so and outlook of new sports should be taking place.

A funny event happened in our PE class the other day. Miss Wilson, girls PE teacher, always locks the door of the changing rooms after girls are changed so nothing will be stolen. One day last week, Miss Wilson locked one girls in there who was getting changed, and there was no way out so the girl had to wait an hour before someone came to her rescue.

Black makes a comeback, stops Gold

Last Monday night in Gibsons, Black team defeated Gold 14-9 in a ladies softball game.

Gold was leading 7-4, but Blick made a comeback and took the lead.

The following Wednesday, Gold beat Wilson Creek Raiders 25-23 in a close game.

Coach of Wilson Creek Raiders, Sam Casey, said he was quite pleased with his team's fast recovery.

"Gibsons had a great go ahead inning which put them ahead 21-12. It was an extremely good game, especially when Raiders made a great comeback for the lead 23-21," he said.

Girls softball games generally start at 7 p.m.

If anyone would like their own schedule of softball games, please contact Miss Wilson, girls PE teacher, at Elphinstone High School.

Last Wednesday afternoon at the back field of Elphie high school, men teachers were defeated by boy students 8-1 in a competitive softball game. The teachers were trying hard to loosen up their muscles as to retrieve the ball whenever it came to them.

Women teachers and girl students will be having a softball game next Wednesday afternoon if weather permits, and may the best team win.

Senior curlers wrap up year

By ROBERT FOXALL

Senior Citizen's curling wound up with a year-end banquet recently.

At the Parthenon on May 8th as the Senior Curlers of Gibsons and Sechelt Recreation Clubs met, along with their wives to celebrate the end of a very successful season. Remember I told you at the beginning of the season that there was going to be a battle between the two districts.

There was and we played until near the end of the season the score stood Gibsons 7 - Sechelt 7.

This called for a best of three play-off which Gibsons won in two straight. Sechelt's trouble was that they were so hot to win one afternoon that they melted the ice and could not manage to throw their rocks down the ice. There was little in the way of speeches but what was said was to the effect that we have room for many more senior curlers and to point out to the young fellows of 65 who have just recently retired that they do not have to feel that they are now too old. We have in our membership at least three members who have past 72 and are anxiously awaiting the start of the new season. Come and join us next Fall, you will have a good time.

Those at the dinners were: Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Gray, Mr. and Mrs. John Buckingham, Gibsons Landing; Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Roberts, Roberts Creek; Dr. and Mrs. W. Cormack, Davies Bay; Mr. and Mrs. W. Fraser, Cliff and Mrs. Southwood, Redrooffs Road; Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Corbett, Mr. and Mrs. Neil McKelvie, West Sechelt; Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Humm, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Foxall, Sechelt. We had a good time and good fellowship from the first rock thrown to the last story told at the dinner and all hate to think that anyone is missing out on such good times, so join us next fall won't you.

Sechelt council briefs

The Sechelt and District Chamber of Commerce has received their customary grant of $500 from the Sechelt Council for a Tourist Information Booth.

The booth is located in Whitaker House and will be open from June 1 to Sept. 30.

Sechelt Council has sent a letter to the Senior Citizens, the Chamber of Commerce and the Lions to advise them of the list of events for Canada Week, June 25 to July 1.

Council has decided to dispense with a parade.

Alderman Booth reported that the new health inspector trainee has already resigned.

He said the Skat-a-thon has raised more than $3,000 to help minor hockey and that a time clock has been donated by the Trail Bay Sports Centre.

The Arena Association has also elected a new slate of officers and issued an interim financial report.

Alderman Thompson recommended a letter go to Interfacial Designs and to B.C. Hydro requiring that all debris in the Hydro right-of-way be burned.

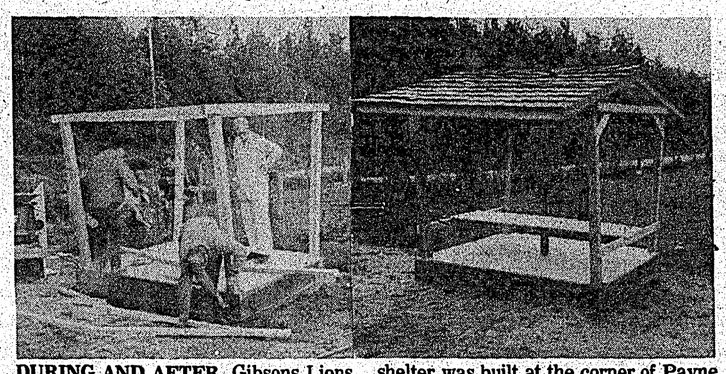
He said garbage is being dumped by the stumps in Seaside Village and creating a mess. He said the method of clearing is at fault because people assume the area is a place to dump garbage.

Joint school use funding came up for discussion again at the meeting. Alderman Frank Leitner will meet with local boards to discuss the proposal. He disagreed with the proposal saying people are already paying school taxes and they should not have to pay again.

However, Alderman Morgan Thompson said the joint funding did not apply to existing facilities. He said if everyone shared the cost of building new facilities the load would be lighter on the taxpayer. New facilities could include a track or pool for general public use, he said.

The village will apply to the provincial government for lot 10. The Arena Association wants to use it for recreation expansion.

It's fun to learn to swim the Red Cross Water Safety way. When you swim, swim with a buddy, never alone.



DURING AND AFTER, Gibsons Lions Club went to work on constructing a bus shelter for school children. The bus stop shelter was built at the corner of Payne and Reid Road recently. A work party of Lions volunteers did the work.

$300 fine for impaired

Ethyl McKay was charged in Sechelt Feb. 6 with having a blood alcohol content of over .08 while driving.

Prosecutor Hugh McCallum told the court that the car driven by Ethyl McKay had been in an accident and was found by police lodged against a telephone pole.

The occupants of the car were all injured, some seriously. McKay suffered a broken collar bone. A breathalyzer test showed a reading over .08.

The prosecution recommended a lengthy suspension of her license. Judge Walker will recommend to Victoria that McKay's license be suspended for four months.

She was fined $300 with two months to pay.

271 hours donated

Reports on the various activities of the Sechelt Auxiliary to St. Mary's Hospital indicate the success of the organization's efforts.

At the May 13 meeting in St. Hilda's Hall, Mrs. Betty Monk, President, and the 22 members present, learned that their 271 hours of volunteer work during April have produced the desired results.

Much credit for the great success of the raffle of the crocheted bedspread goes to Mrs. Billie Steele and her mother Mrs. Ada Dawe. The winner was Mrs. Marie Connors of Gibsons.

At the Lower Mainland Area Conference, recently held in Sechelt, 385 visiting members from many auxiliaries enjoyed the informative business meeting and the friendly hospitality extended to them by 'The Ladies In Red' of the Sunshine Coast Auxiliaries. Many guests expressed appreciation of the tours of the hospital and the visits to the Thrift Shop which were arranged and also of the Dogwood corsages which were made by Mrs. Humm and Mrs. Carter.

Several members from the Sechelt Auxiliary attended the Friendship Tea sponsored by the Pender Auxiliary, and the Dogwood Luncheon which was the project of the Gibson's Auxiliary.

Mrs. Humm's report on the bridge tournament noted the success of that feature. She already has 19 couples signed up for the fall games beginning in September.

Final preparations for the Spring Luncheon on June 3, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Senior Citizen's Hall, have been most capably set up by Mrs. Humm and her committee.

Once again the auxiliary is calling for assistance in the physio. dept. Please contact Mrs. Eggins, the volunteer director, if you, as an auxiliary member, can help.

Next meeting of the Sechelt Auxiliary will be held on June 10 at 2 p.m. in St. Hilda's Hall.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Hall and Mrs. McDermid.

Flu attack or gardens hit members

"Is it the 'flu or is it gardening?" was the question asked at Senior Citizen's Branch 69 May monthly meeting held at our Hall on Thursday, May 20. The answer was "both" to explain the smallest turn-out we have had at a meeting since we started the campaign to buy the hall two years ago.

The meeting was well presided over by Vice-Pres. Madge Hansen in the absence of Pres. Emery who has been a 'flu victim but is now beginning to recover. The secretarial chores were well taken care of while Elizabeth Derby is representing No. 69 at the Provincial Convention at Prince George ably assisted by husband Jim.

Three new members were introduced to the meeting, Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson, and Mrs. Helmuth and made very welcome by the meeting. Margaret Humm reported a very healthy outcome to the Spring Plant Show and Tea. She had received such marvellous co-operation from everyone that she just knew that, "you are a nice bunch of people."

Dave Hayward had some last minute advice for those who are going to the U.S. be sure to have proper indentification with you. This may be of particular importance this year because of the number of people 'Habitat' may be drawing to the area, which could draw closer scrutiny from U.S. Immigration Officers.

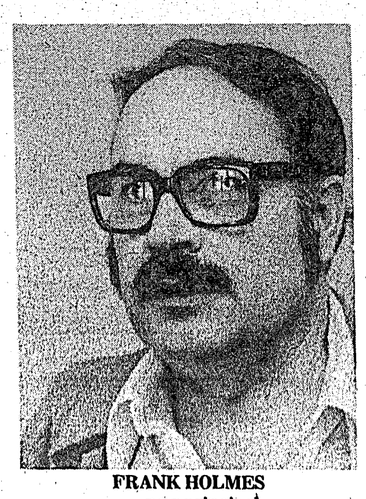
We understand that Weldwood of Canada are having 'Open House' at their operation at Clawholm the week of June 7 to 12. Some members indicated they would like to participate so the executive are trying to secure more detailed information that we will pass on one way or another as soon as received.

Definite plans were made to resume Fourth Thursday activities with a little visiting to some of our own members gardens. We have enough cars available so if you would like to take a Mystery Trip be at the hall by 1:30 p.m. on May 27, and see more of your own district than you knew existed. All safe and courteous drivers.

Bill Wilson read us the timetable for Timber Days which I will not repeat here because it will be all finished by the time this is in print.

Before bringing the meeting to a close we had our usual monthly draws with the following results. Door prize, Vern Shuttleworth. Shop Easy vouchers went to, Present: Nellie McCuaig, Jean Hammond, Ollie Berg. Absentees: Jack Frost, N. Buckley and Mrs. Harper.

The gathering adjourned to enjoy the usual 'cuppa' and a heap of good visiting with friends.



FRANK HOLMES
... new principal

'Nice bunch of kids'

Pender Harbour has a "nice bunch of kids", according to Frank Holmes, recently appointed principal of Pender Harbour Secondary School.

Holmes was the principal of the 300 students George M. Dawson Secondary School in Masset, Queen Charlotte Islands, for six years. He graduated from the University of British Columbia.

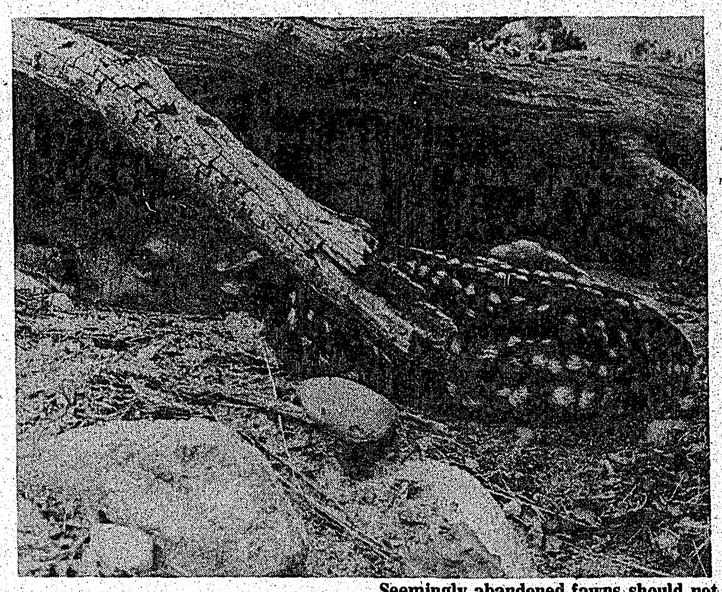
He hopes to involve more of the community with the school and would like to see more parents involved with the education of their children.

Holmes and his wife, Maxine a registered nurse, both emigrated to B.C. from the prairies.

They have four grown children.

"We just love the place," Frank Holmes said, adding that they are thinking of building a home in Pender Harbour. He assumes his duties in the fall.

Holmes was selected for the job after a public meeting in which parents, students and teachers from the area gave their opinions on the type of person they wanted for the job. The meeting was held with the selection committee.



Seemingly abandoned fawns should not be touched or approached.

Squaringly yours

BY MAURICE HEMSTREET

Well, square dancers, on May 14, The Country Stars held their last square dance of the season at the Golf Club with Harry Robertson and myself going halfer's on the calling for the evening and with about three sets walking and dodging and other various easy square dance figures, star thru's and four hand square thru's. Yes, we kept the evening at an easy level so all could have lots of fun on the last night and we shure did.

Harry and I would like to thank the Country Stars for having the two best callers that I know of. Actually, there is nothing Harry won't do for me and there is nothing I wouldn't do for Harry. In fact, we are so busy doing nothing for each other that it is very hard to find the time to do any square dance calling. However, we do our best and we thank you all from the bottom of our (whats that word I'm looking for Harry? You say liver? Naw, I think it's heart's. You know, they are like microphones, they create all the movements of the human bodies on the square dance floor, rite). Anyway, we thank you all.

Once the May Day weekend is over and our square dancers have had a rest, we will be having square dance work shops at our house. If any of you folks would like to try square dancing, call me at 885-3359. Because Harry and I like to practice new calls and you could learn at the same time, I guarantee that you will have fun from the first night and just for a donation to cover records and a trip to Hawaii for three months for me. You know, if one ever stopped dreaming, life would be like, blah.

By the way, Deanna Robertson twisted her knee several months ago purty derned bad, but that didn't stop her from joining in the last set of the last square dance. There was one condition, all the rest of the set had to limp along with her. There sure was some peculiar limping done Dea, it's good to see you back on the floor.

Well, I must get along now so I will leave you with this thought: it's not nice to repeat gossip, but what else can you do with it? I didn't know that. Happy square dancing.

Free water analysis for residents

Residents on the Sunshine Coast will be able to get a free water analysis from a mobile lab from August 9 to 13.

The mobile water analysis lab is being set up and run by Ken Barry and Susan Wilson, biology graduates from Simon Fraser University. The project is funded by a research grant from the Department of Labour.

The lab will provide free water analysis to people who obtain their drinking water from wells or springs. The service is an extension of the water-testing and treatment done by the Public Health Department.

Inquiries on the project can be sent to Ken Berry or Susan Wilson, c-o Dr. L. Albright, Department of Biological Sciences, Simon Fraser University, Burnaby 2, B. C. V5A 1S6

Don't fondle the fawns

Every spring, seemingly abandoned fawns or other young wild animals awaken a protective or "maternal" instinct in many British Columbians, whose immediate reaction is to rescue the little animals.

But Dr. James Hatter, Director of the Fish and Wildlife Branch, warns that such an instinct, as well-intentioned as it may be, is misguided and often results in the death of the animal. A young animal is seldom far from its mother — even if she is nowhere to be seen — and the worst thing a nature lover can do is to separate the youngster from its mother, who is probably watching the proceedings nervously from nearby cover. In addition, it is against the law to be in possession of young wildlife.

Dr. Hatter also points out that touching or even approaching a young wild animal is a traumatic experience for both the animal and its mother. Anyone suspecting that an animal has been abandoned should report its location to the nearest Fish and Wildlife office.
