Building boom in Sechelt awaits rezoning go from village council

Sechelt may experience a commercial building boom if the rezoning requests put to council last Wednesday are approved.

An extension to the 38,000 square-foot addition to Trail Bay Mall presently under construction was approved.

Dick Clayton told council there is a prospective tenant for the 4,900 square-foot extension which will be for retail use and have a separate entrance.

Though parking will be reduced by 24 spaces, there is "more than enough" to satisfy requirements, Clayton said.

Council referred a request from John Clayton to enlarge Trail Bay Sports to the planning committee to study possible bylaw modification to provide off-site parking.

A model of a 31,000 square foot office and retail building proposed for lots 15-22, Block 6 of D.L. 303 and 304 (Teredo Street) was presented to council with a request for a zoning certificate.

Mike Ryan of Fjord Design, acting on behalf of Warren McKibbin, explained the concept of the three-floor professional building.

Ryan said discussions with village planner Doug Roy led him to believe parking behind the building was not in conflict with the parking bylaw, though access to the 28 spaces was from the lane.

However, Roy said at the meeting the spaces were not on-site parking if public access is needed.

Ryan said later the proposal was short approximately three spaces, but his client is "quite prepared" to eliminate the landscaping if parking is preferred to aesthetics.

Ninety per cent of the retail outlets on the first floor and approximately 50 per cent of the office space on the second floor are spoken for, Ryan said.

Offices in the back of the building will have a "greenhouse glass" effect with a second floor view of Cowrie Street and a third floor view of Porpoise Bay.

Those on the upper floors facing Teredo Street will have a view of Trail Bay.

The model showed the building as well as proposed landscaping and a covered walkway to the rear of the property.

In an application for rezoning the remainder of the property on which the joint-use facility for the village, regional and school districts is to be located, Hayden Killam outlined a $15 million proposal requiring a Commercial 1 zone.

Killam requested the rezoning from Residential 1 go to the same public hearings as the rezoning for the joint-use facility.

Alderman Larry MacDonald said he doubted both rezonings could be included in the same bylaw.

Killam said he was "in no particular hurry" as he and the three others involved have no plans or future tenants for the multi-use building.

The purpose of the presentation was to "ANYONE IN THERE?" Sechelt Elementary School student is fascinated with example of Indian art. Thursday was Heritage Day at school organized by Sechelt Indian Band's education group and daycare committee. Students wandered among displays, leafed through photo albums of band's history and sampled dried and smoked fish, Indian bread and herring roe.

The press are "guests" at Sechelt council meetings, Mayor Harold said last Wednesday following local reporters' complaints over being charged 20 cents per page for correspondence handled during meetings and being restricted to viewing only correspondence upon which action has been taken.

Council unanimously passed, without further discussion, village clerk Malcolm Shank's recommendation, members of the press and taxpayers pay 25 cents per page for bylaws to a maximum $5, and 20 cents per page for correspondence.

Copies of the bylaws are available at the village office for "perusal after registration of the bylaw," the recommendation read, and correspondence is available for "perusal after council action."

Province won't share Teredo Street costs

Though the ministry of municipal affairs turned down a request for cost-sharing the development of Teredo Street, Vic Walters told Sechelt council delaying another year could mean "disaster".

With a few proposals for construction on Teredo Street already before council, Walters suggested council borrow money to get started, with "an eye to the government feeding into it in the future."

Council was denied $180,000 under the Revenue Sharing Act.

Walters said he has sand to offer the village for only the cost of trucking if council decides to prepare the street by pre-loading.

Regional control for water sources sought

Regional district Public Utilities Committee chairman Harry Almond is not giving up on attempts to get some control for the SCRD over sources of water for Sunshine Coast residents — watersheds, ground water, wells and creeks.

In anwer to an April 24 letter from the Ministry of Municipal Affairs stating that to grant the regional district authority for watershed management could create "conflicting or overlapping jurisdictional difficulties," Almond has written back asking for authority to pass a bylaw stating "what may or may not be done on land used for the collection and supply of water for domestic use."

Almond said in the request that this type of control would be simpler and more effective and more acceptable to residents of the Sunshine Coast.

"We have no desire to be granted extraordinary powers," he stated.

The letter stated that "in actual fact" it is "not true" that Crown land within community watersheds is adequately protected by provincial ministries under a multiple-use policy as the ministry's letter had implied.

At issue is the case of Chapman Creek which Almond describes as a natural conduit between the watershed and our intake.

"Poor road building practices and cutting across water courses has resulted in continual washouts of gravel and top soil which seriously affects our water

Parks and Recreation proposals, 5. Esso oil tank proposals, 6. Gibsons Marina, 7. Specified-area fudning — Area E-F-Gibsons, 8. Settlement Plan committee reports.

For further information call Area F Director David Hunter — 886-7075.

Floating body found off Trail Islands

Sechelt RCMP are investigating the finding of a body in the water near Trail Islands Saturday that had "been in for a while" according to a local constable.

They have no information as to the identity and at press time could not state if it was male or female.

The witness said it was possibly female with dark brown hair, what appeared to be a bra or halter on top, beige jeans, blue socks, and black and white running shoes.

Bowsprit Dr. wharf still controversial

NOW WHAT has Area A director Joe Harrison holding up an egg got to do with the still controversial Bowsprit Dr. wharf you may ask and you would be answered nothing, but he sure had a good time at sports day Friday in the egg-catching contest.

Reports from Pender Harbour indicate there is still public concern about a dangerous precedent being set in the installation Saturday of a 200-foot boat-docking float at the foot of Bowsprit Drive.

The location is reported to be at a public beach access although the community float was built and put in by a private citizens group from the Bowsprit Drive area.

A member of the group said Sunday there were two years or more of negotiations with the regional district and provincial government to obtain the water lease that enabled them to put in the float.

It was pointed out the float is for community use and it has all been done through proper and legal channels.

Area A regional director Joe Harrison explained Sunday that of the 20 to 30 residents who make up the Bowsprit Drive Community Wharf Association, some have water front access but it is unsuitable for boating use.

He said they decided on the community wharf idea and are subleasing the water lot for it from the Sunshine Coast Regional District who has obtained the lease from the provincial Lands Branch.

"The public access is not good for anything else," Harrison commented. "It's just an abrupt end, just rock."

He said the Area A advisory planning committee looked at the wharf idea "from all sides" and that there were "only a couple of people" who were really opposed.

He said the wharf does not stop anybody from public access because spaces for two vessels have been left open for community and public use by visitors who do not have a financial interest in the Wharf Association.

THEY ALL pulled together, parents, teachers, and students, to make Pender Harbour School's Sports Day a great time at Madeira Park Elementary field Friday. It was House 1 Black Hawks over House 2 Panthers in a final point total score of 1146 to 1116.

Nuclear future cannot be avoided says Bonner

In a prepared speech before the annual meeting of the Association of Consulting Engineers of Canada on June 7 in Vancouver, B.C. Hydro chairman Robert Bonner emphasized the urgent need for quick action to head off public complacency and an attendant larger energy crisis in the times ahead and touched on the controversial issue of nuclear energy. Said he; "For Canadians, as for most of mankind, it appears that a nuclear future cannot in the long run be avoided. As for alternate energy sources, our future is increasingly in the hands of scientists, technologies and technologists: undiscovered, yet to be invented, or unborn."

Emphasizing the urgency for quick action to meet growing needs for energy, Bonner reminded that a lead time of 10 to 15 years is required for large energy projects using existing technology, "and probably twice as long when new technology must be developed. Lead in time compels an altered perspective for political thought and policy". And, he warned, "Year to year thinking will no longer serve the country well".

He called for "cool intelligence" by Canadians facing their biggest energy crisis ever, coupled with what he described as need for dramatic change in thinking.

"Canada's national energy objectives call for an unbelievably dramatic change in our way of thinking because they call upon the country to depart from any easy going attitude about unlimited availability of energy", Bonner said. "This requires us as a nation to foresee supply and demand in a totally altered perspective which compels that we should actively build against days of shortages which are difficult to estimate, in respect of resources which are both expensive and difficult to harness," he said. And, he warned: "We should begin to build today. Time is not on our side."

Citing national estimates of the growing costliness of national energy objectives amounting to a total of $150 billion to be spent between now and 1990, Bonner said these same estimates foresee at least a doubling of electrical generating

Abu Ben Adam may your land value increase . . .

"Thank God I'll be dead and gone when it all happens" said one of Sechelt's earliest residents upon hearing what's being called Killam's baby — a proposed $15 million, 100,000 sq. ft. commercial complex on seven acres next to the Trail Bay Mall addition with parking for 600 to 700 cars.

With the Mall addition barely under construction, and an addition to the addition being considered, and the joint offices facility planned for the one-acre property on Shorncliff in the same area, however, what else could be done. Leave the trees? Make it a park for a while? Such a waste that would be! We've got to develop it.

Now we don't want to get all up in the air about it because, it is after all only a drawing on paper. It may never happen at all.

But the point is, and our senior resident made it well, what happened to the proposition that people moved up here to Sechelt and environs for a calmer way of life?

It's the attitude that bothers us. The boom attitude. Although we must admit that if a person or group has property, then it is their perfect right and privilege to do what they want with it. It's the free-enterprisers, the developers, that have made jobs and helped circulate wealth for all of us. We can't deny that.

But, as our resident questions, can it go on and on. What if a recession brings us back to reality they ask? Not that we would wish such a thing to happen, but it is basic to the laws of economics. Too-rapid growth in an area will surely bring just as rapid a decline. Where there is boom, there is always bust.

Our MLA's key phrase during the provincial election was "rational economic development" and it would seem to be a good, if somewhat idealistic, motto for the Sechelt area.

Sure, there will be jobs created during the building of such a complex and more retail, perhaps even light industrial space, created. But who are the customers going to be in winter when a big chunk of our population is back consuming in the city from whence they came?

Granted we have a lot of land for sale up here for people to come and live permanently. But, if they aren't retired, what are they going to do for a living to make bucks to buy goods in, rent space in, or otherwise inhabit our mini-metropolis of Sechelt with its tree-lined complexes.

They can make bucks, of course, by subdividing their land and selling it off to others who can come up and subdivide and sell some more ad nauseum.

This is questionable growth, unless the new complex could house about fifty more realty companies to invite people to buy land and live here with no place to work. What are they going to do for a living, sit in the sun and watch the value of their land increase like Abu Ben Adam's tribe.

What if there is nothing else for them to do?

That's our boy...

Elementary track and field meet

Editor, The Times:

Once again the Sechelt Elementary Track and Field team has travelled to Richmond for the B.C. Elementary Track and Field Championships and once again, our athletes have met with tremendous success.

Certainly we must thank the parents who assisted in transporting our athletes, but a special thanks to the Sechelt Lions Club and the Sechelt Indian Band who helped sponsor the venture financially.

The athletes and myself thank all those who showed consideration and concern for the young people of our community.

Thank you!

Moral support

Editor, The Times:

I have read the statements of Hayden Killam concerning the sex discrimination case in your newspaper.

Is it true Mr. Killam "refused to acknowledge there was a case" as a "point of principle"?

In a response to an investigator of the Human Rights Branch does he really say "Finally I threw him out when he said a pay off was in order"?

And he clearly says only a woman of Herculean strength could handle the job.

It's incredulous a man of principles could make such remarks!

However, the purpose of this letter is not to wonder aloud over Mr. Killam, but to give Kathy L. Grafe the moral support she undoubtedly deserves.

Yours sincerely,
Hugh McNab.

Grad scholarship thanks —Elphie

Editor, The Times:

On behalf of the staff of Elphinstone Secondary School, I would like to publicly thank the numerous individuals, clubs, societies, and businesses who have funded scholarships and bursaries for the graduating class of 1979.

Many of these young adults will be furthering their education next fall. The high expenses incurred with travel, accommodation, fees etc. make these funds very important to them.

The recognition received after 12 years of growth provides the recipients with much personal satisfaction that will stay with them throughout their lives.

Following the Graduation Ceremonies on June 23, information on the recipients of scholarships and bursaries will be published.

Once again, to all who contributed, thank you.

Principal.

Sechelt council may mumble their way right out of office

By HELEN PARKER

Charging the press for correspondence and bylaws now takes second place to Sechelt village council's latest action.

And judging from a few of the aldermen's reactions to our complaints, they did not realize they were approving restricting us to copies of correspondence upon which action has been taken.

No wonder. It was nearly 9:30 p.m. It was a heavy meeting. Lots of planning proposals; you know, some of the really important stuff which requires some intelligence to follow.

And council knew we were just itching to get around to that point on the agenda which read "Recommendations — Re: copying machine usage.

But council put one over on us. All the developers had left, the air had cleared, bylaws were read.

And then it happened. There were a few mumbles, more mumbles and Mayor Nelson informed whoever was listening that the recommendations had been carried.

Only after that did he read the recommendation and we really knew what we were in for.

Well, the words began to fly. Reasonably, though. I thought we had legitimate arguments.

After all, we'd been had. That was about the time some of council realized what they had approved.

But that knowledge was lost in the confusion when the mayor accused me of interrupting village clerk Malcolm Shanks. I didn't and even Shanks admitted he'd finished. Besides my mum taught me better. The mayor didn't think so.

He gave me a little lesson in manners, then said something I wish all of Sechelt had heard.

He told us we must remember that we are "guests" at their meetings — their public meetings, open to all who care to go.

It would be funny, if he hadn't, been so serious about it. You know, he just might uninvite us, and then we wouldn't be allowed even the correspondence council has acted on.

The next day in the village office just proved our point that giving us all the correspondence prior to the meeting would save a lot of time. At first I was willing to compromise, I'd take the correspondence after the meeting as long as it was free and complete.

So, the Coast News and I spent nearly an hour copying correspondence by hand and talking to Shanks. But we were considerate and went in together to save time.

After all, we are competitors.

Shanks really believes we should be restricted to certain correspondence. He thinks our editorials make up people's minds for them.

If I asked 10 persons whether they had read the Times editorial page this week, I bet nine would say no. Editorial pages are just not everyone's favorite reading material.

He thinks council should make decisions on proposals before anything is written about them. That is, before the public has a chance to comment and perhaps influence council.

I think it's about time many more persons had some influence on council. Persons with some different ideas, perhaps even extreme, just to start council thinking about the changes Sechelt is experiencing.

I can't help feeling, when someone is presenting a proposal and a council member says, "I think it's going to look nice," that this member, and a few others, have been sitting in those chairs too long.

I think it's time for a change. I think it's coming in November.

Helped build B.C. but can't get five free shares in it

Editor, The Times:

The writer emigrated from England to Canada in the Spring of 1926. The morning of my departure the great National Strike started in England.

On arrival at Heighley Railway Station I was informed there were no trains to Liverpool. They could only sell me a ticket to Bradford 9 miles away. On arrival in Bradford, no guarantee of getting out of Manchester, however, by changing Railways I finally made it to Liverpool, somewhat late, but finally sailed.

I had a short stay in North Bay, Ont. On construction and changing steel on the Railroad. Then on to Regina, Saskatoon, more construction work, even laid three eighth inch oak flooring 10 hours a day for forty cents per hour. Now people say what did the Old Folks do with their money? Fifteen years as house carpenter at Saskatoon City Hospital and a spell in the Radio Lab in the Armed Forces, then on to B.C. where we cleared land, blowing and digging out stumps as previous Pioneers had done.

And we built a few cottages, as much as my health would permit.

Now about these FREE SHARES.

The first day applications were received I made an application for my 5 free shares and I paid $60 for 10 more shares.

However I discovered that I had to cancel or perjure myself about my citizenship. I decided to remain a law abiding citizen.

Now I realize that it is possible for pregnant women to be on the High Seas heading for Canada, and children yet to be born will be eligible for free shares.

I would like to ask the following question.

As a law abiding citizen of 53 years helping to build Canada and B.C. — Are our tangible efforts not worth more than a small piece of paper (citizenship)?

Hats off to Dad on his own Day

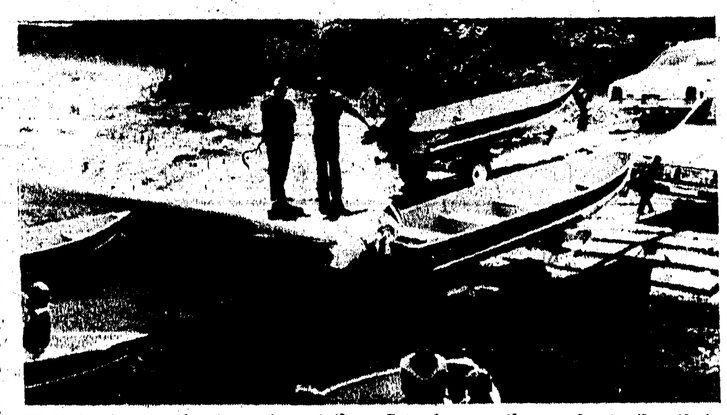
For at least one day out of 365, father is pampered with "King of the Castle" treatment as North Americans celebrate Father's Day. This year, June 17 will find fathers opening greeting cards and gifts and basking in their day of accentuated recognition. And fathers aren't the only recipients of this stepped up warmth and consideration — greetings of all description remember grandfathers, godfathers, husbands, uncles, fathers-to-be and more!

While many messages are of emotional thanks and expressions of love, the original intent of Father's Day appears to supersede the sentimentality. As described in 1924 by United States President Calvin Coolidge, Father's Day was "to impress upon fathers the full measure of their obligations, and to establish more intimate relations between fathers and their children."

This sobering message is handled in a light and jesting fashion in our modern attitudes. Father is chided, teased and gently harassed. He is playfully reminded of his many family responsibilities and all the ways in which he is cajoled to support (sometimes dubious) family schemes. Even on his special day, amid favorite dinners, gifts and valet service, father is still called upon to be "a good sport".

But if he reads between the lines, as fathers learn to do with expertise, the message is undeniably one of appreciation and affection.

Happy Father's Day to all Sunshine Coast pops.



THE PEOPLE who seem to get the most out of recreational boating, says the Allied Boating Association of Canada, are those who trailer their boats to the best places for action.

Let's go boating

The people who seem to get the most out of recreational boating, trailer their boat to the best places for action.

With the trailer so important in boating, it's important to know how to properly use and maintain it. Here are a few suggestions from the experts at Allied Boating Association of Canada to help you broaden your boating horizons:

On the highway, slow down, especially with a heavy boat in tow. It's safer and it saves fuel. Allow more time and room than usual when you're passing another vehicle, and make sure you've cleared the other guy before swinging back in front of him. And swing a little wider than usual for turns, too, to avoid going over a curb or, worse still, a pedestrian's foot.

Keep plenty of distance between your car and the one ahead. And when you pull into a parking lot, find a place where you won't get locked in, watching out for low signs and canopies.

Launching a boat seems to frustrate more drivers than it should. By keeping a few basic ideas in mind, and with a little practice, it doesn't take long to become an expert.

When backing a trailer, remember that the car's steering wheel must be turned in the opposite direction from the way you want the trailer to go. If you want the trailer to go to the right, turn the steering wheel to the left, and vice versa. The best way to learn is to practice in a large empty parking lot. Practice backing the trailer in a straight line for 50 feet or so. Once you can do this, the rest will come easily.

You will save time and avoid confusion at the launching ramp if you release the tie-downs and tilt the motor up just before going onto the ramp. This is also the time to make a last-minute check to be sure the drain plug is in.

Before starting out on your trip, always check to be sure all the trailer lights — tail lights, brake and turn lights — are working. Carry a few spare bulbs. Make sure the hitch is secured and safety chains are in place.

Keep your trailer in good operating condition. Check tire air pressure frequently and keep the trailer wheel hubs greased, especially if you've dunked the wheels while launching repeatedly. Check all the trailer tie-down ropes and straps for signs of wear.

And — importantly — when you load the trailer, position gear so there's more weight ahead of the trailer axle on the tongue.

Prisoner seeks person

Out there, somewhere, is a person who would love to lift and ease the loneliness of an incarcerated individual.

Your paper reaches many and I do hope that you will see fit to carry my problem to the doorstep of a wonderful pen-pal.

I have paper, pen, unlimited time in which to correspond with the outside world and a desire to hear from someone who is also alone in the world for whatever reason.

I know that you are out there, certain person, and maybe this kind of newspaper will be the vehicle by which two lives might be shared in friendship.

Naturalist's Corner . . .

By ALLISON WATT,
Park Naturalist,
Porpoise Bay Prov. Park.

June has returned bringing low tides, long days, and a naturalist to Porpoise Bay Provincial Park.

A program of nature walks on the beach and in the forest, spider hunts, salt-marsh safaris, early bird watches, dusk strolls, and nature talks will begin this weekend at the Park.

Of course, I don't attempt all of the above-mentioned activities in one day. Check my column each week for a schedule of events for the weekend.

On Sunday mornings at 10 a.m. I will be leading "kids only" activities. Starting in July a full-time program of walks, talks, and other "nature-al" activities will begin. Part of this program will involve Roberts Creek Provincial Park.

I will be taking a dusk walk along the Creek Trail at Porpoise Bay on Friday. Meet at 8:30 p.m. in front of the change house at the beach.

Surely there's a bird song which you hear every evening but just don't know what it is. If you're wondering, join me and maybe I can identify it for you.

Saturday morning at 10 a.m. I will be leading a beach walk and Saturday evening giving a talk at 8 p.m. — The Bottom Story, A Slug's Eye-View of the Forest Floor. Meet in front of the change house for both of these events. Bring a chair and we'll gather in a circle around a fire for the talk.

In the meantime, check your tide tables and take part of these long days to explore the company of colorful, and often bizarre, creatures that these low tides uncover.

If any of you have a passion for purple, check out a rocky beach at low tide where hundreds of purple starfish can be seen oozing from crevices or below shade-providing rocks.

I hope to see you this summer.

Ed. note: Tide tables are available at the Times office on the Sunshine Coast highway or at local stores.

capacity by that year.

"Which is to say, that officially at least, we foresee the possibility that the proportion of Canada's total energy consumption dedicated to electricity would climb from approximately one-third to one-half by 1990."

It has taken OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) to bring a sense of realization to the Western World that our reach for yet more energy may exceed our grasp," declared Bonner.

The consequence has limited "our apparently infinite capacity to transform raw materials into endless streams of goods and gadgets, particularly as world population grows and overwhelms the raw materials readily at hand.

"The vulnerability of western countries is acute because of the enormous dependence most countries have on off shore oil," Bonner asserted.

"The United States is currently dependent as to 45 per cent upon off shore oil. Canada three years ago began a similar dependence which, without new national discoveries or massive tar sand development, may see Canada 50-60 per cent foreign oil dependent within eight to 10 years".

"The fragility of our western ways did not need the reminder provided recently by the emergence of an Islamic republic in Iran," he said, and suggested that the "future of our way of life depends upon the adjustment which we can bring by the application of a cool intelligence to a most uncomfortable problem."

Bonner was critical of what he termed "catch phrases" used in both Canada and the U.S. "Energy independence is a catchy political slogan employed, I think, in no other part of the world, and employable in North America only because until recently this was the condition we thought we enjoyed.

"When faced with an awkward, not to mention dangerous future, it is curious how people react. For the moment we seem to prefer words over deeds," he said.

Bonner again made it clear that early action on crucial energy problems is now imperative, as a result of sophisticated analysis of probable long-range circumstances "almost impossible to describe or explain to the average member of the public."

Nevertheless, said Bonner, "The implication of the next two decades for those areas of the country which are relatively rich in conventional energy resources is that in the national interest no region may expect long to enjoy the luxury of non-development. As time goes by, local decisions of that nature will be seen clearly to be at variance with the national and possibly continental interests as we strive to maintain current standards of living which underlie our industrial societies today."

Bonner offered the audience his own set of goals to be pursued in the development of additional, or alternative, sources of energy.

These include 1) improvement of existing technology; 2) discovery and exploitation of additional conventional energy bases; 3) more economic and more efficient use and application of the energy we possess; 4) reliance upon available energy technology (soft technology) not previously in use) 5) expansion of nuclear systems; 6) development, if possible, of fusion energy.

"On this continent our efforts in pursuit of certain of these objectives have been hampered by reaction to real or imagined abuses in the development of energy sources earlier this century. We are properly concerned about air quality, destruction of the landscape, degradation of the rivers, and generally an anticipated endangerment to health."

Bonner underlined the real and immediate task to be taken up now: "To create a widely informed public with a shared perspective of the energy future of mankind."

And those who "so vigorously oppose" the development of energy, cautioned Bonner, "would do well to remember how our life has changed as a result of energy abundance in the last 100 years".

supply," Almond's letter stated.

He said there was ample evidence of this and that seven or eight years of complaining had achieved no result.

He also mentioned the settled area of the Sunshine Coast which in some places is up to and above 300 feet above sea level where people get their water from ground water, wells and creeks.

"A small creek can be 'mucked up' in five minutes and the offender can go blithely on to do the same thing somewhere else the next day. We know from experience the water rights branch can do little or nothing in such cases," he stated.

On the question of defoliant spraying in SCRD water sources, Almond explained that the present Hydro right-of-way follows the coast at an average height of 400 feet above sea level and that "hundreds of users of small private water supplies view with trepidation the prospect of permits being issued for the spraying of poison."

"True, as you remark," Almond submits, "there is an appeal board. We appealed a permit last year, and though we had a good case and showed doubt as to the safety, the appeal was denied. The process was long, tedious, and expensive."

The ministry's letter to the board said 70 per cent of the Chapman Creek watershed (regional district's primary source of water supply) is Crown land and the rest private land subject to the official settlement plans of the regional district.

"With both categories of land ownership — Crown land, private land — being found within the watershed area, the concept of one agency such as the regional district having pre-emptive watershed management functions would present major jurisidictional problems as you will appreciate. Any regulatory bylaw enacted by the regional district to exercise watershed management would be of concern to all provincial resource ministries," the ministry stated.

Almond, in his reply, said any such bylaw would be given close scrutiny by all concerned ministries before approval.

In discussing the letters at the recent regional board meeting, director Joe Harrison said the fight for local watershed control is going to be a long one.

"It's not going to be won in the next five or 10 years. Watershed control and control over resources is an issue that is going to come up over and over again. Some forests and resources would be better managed locally. It would bring some revenue," he said.

When concern about the situation of Chapman Creek came up at the regional level earlier this spring, it was the Gibsons Wildlife Club who prodded the regional board to act by presentations of photographs and visits to the area.

The editor of the club's newsletter is worth quoting:

"It's hard to know what is happening about the siltation of Chapman Creek. It seems strange to a layman like myself to understand the way politicians think. Why should a club like ours have to give these people at the Regional Board a prod in the rear every so often to do something about their main water supply? Politicians are strange people and I guess it takes another politician to understand them."

Communications on the problem between the provincial and regional governments — and prodding — is expected to continue.

Dogfish Derby plans

by Marion Alsager, 886-2458

The Dogfish Derby takes place Sunday, July 1 with a $1,000 first prize for the largest dogfish, $300 for second prize and $200 for third. There will be ten $50 hidden-weight prizes, plus bicycles for the winners in the children's categories. A trophy will be presented for the largest total amount of dogfish caught. Each participant can have three fish weighed individually and the balance will be weighed in bulk. Nor Pack Foods will again be purchasing the fish and processing them for export to foreign food markets.

This year the Derby will be tying into Canada Days with a flag race from Sechelt to Gibsons, a Canada Day parade through the Lower Village of Gibsons plus a prize of a CP Air trip to an as-yet-unspecified destination in Canada in the "guess the total weight of dogish caught" contest.

Other events for the Derby Day will be the Lions Pancake breakfast, live entertainment on the wharf, beer garden in the Curling rink. This year the Kinsmen will be in charge and Molsons beer will be featured.

TOURIST COUNSELLORS

We hope that Peninsula residents notice the tourist counsellors on the Queen of New Westminster. These girls are employed by the Gibsons Chamber of Commerce and funded through a federal government grant. The counsellors will be selling maps and Gibsons 50th Anniversary Trade Dollars, as well as encouraging tourists to see more of the Sunshine Coast.

TRAIL

Construction on the Gibsons Park Trail linking upper and lower Gibsons will begin first week of July. The Chamber of Commerce has received a federal government grant to undertake this community project.

Halfmoon Bay happenings

Red Letter Day

By Mary Tinkley-Shannon 885-9479

RED LETTER DAY

Halfmoon Bay Hospital Auxiliary wishes to remind all members and friends that there will be a Blood Donors' Clinic on June 25 from 3 to 8 p.m. at St. Mary's Hospital in the new physiotherapy room.

The Auxiliary held its regular meeting on June 4 following a smorgasbord supper convened by Joan Mackereth and May Holgate, It was an excellent supper and a most successful and happy occasion, made all the more enjoyable because it was held in the gracious and friendly setting of the Dolmage home. Special guests welcomed were Eilleen Smith, a past president of the Auxiliary and Patricia Briscoe from Brentwood, Vancouver Island, a long-time friend of the Jack Mercer family.

During the short business meeting to wind up the Auxiliary's affairs before closing down for the summer recess, reports were given of the great success of the tea room organized for Timber Days. Thanks were extended to all who had helped in making the project so successful - particularly to the men who set up the stall, George Murray, Harold Ives, Al Mackereth, and Jim Nygard and to Al and Joan Mackereth who took their camper to Sechelt as a sandwich making unit.

POSTMISTRESS RETIRING

With the pending retirement of our popular postmistress, Grace Rutherford, a new postmaster or postmistress will shortly be appointed for the Halfmoon Bay post office. Application forms which must be submitted by June 21 can be obtained from the post office.

COMMUNITY ANNUAL MEETING

When the annual general meeting of the Welcome Beach Community Association was held on June 5, members stood for a moment's silence in tribute to the memory of two members who had recently died, Elsie Holgate and Jack Hall. Reports were given of the various activities and a successful year was reported. Investigation is proceeding into the possibility of obtaining more parking space. The question of extending the boundaries for membership was discussed, but in view of the number of new residents settling in the area, it was decided to take no action in this regard at the present time. The executive was authorized to purchase thirty more chairs and to plan again for a two-sitting Christmas dinner. The Association is prepared to sponsor a day's outing during the summer, such as a boat or bus trip, but there were not enough members present to reach a conclusion on this matter.

Officers for the year 1979-1980 are Grace Rutherford, president; Bernie Ackerman, vice-president; Olive Comyn, secretary; Nancy Lawson treasurer and Directors Ruth Forrester, Alice Halford, Fred Greaves and Art Perry.

NEW GRANDSON FOR THEA

Thea Leuchte was delighted to receive a telephone call last Friday advising that her daughter and son-in-law, Susanne and Richard Bolivar are anouncing the arrival of their second chosen son, Raphael Simon Bolivar, who is a brother for Lucas. The Bolivars are at Telegraph Creek where Richard is teaching, but they will be returning to Welcome Beach for the summer vacation, when Thea looks forward to meeting her new grandson.

COMINGS AND GOINGS

With the arrival of June and fine weather, the local beaches sprang into life and there were guests in many homes, some from far away places.

Visitors from England at the Bob Forrester home were Stan and Audrey Finch who had accompanied Dr. and Mrs. Thompson on a tour of Vancouver Island before arriving here. The Thompsons were guests at the home of their daughter, Paddy Brooke.

Mrs. Nellie Coates of Burnley, Lancashire, was a guest at Janet Allen's home and was accompanied by Janet's daughter, Edith Hawirko of North Vancouver.

Jane Buss who is an actress in Toronto, is here on a visit to her mother, May Holgate.

At the Brodgesell home are Bob's son, Halge Brodgesell and Pam's son, David Joslyn, both of Edmonton.

A number of residents have been on trips.

Hugh and Agnes McPhalen accompanied their daughter and son-in-law, Marjorie and Jim Hunter of Port Alberni, on a drive to Mackenzie to visit their granddaughter Dianne Morgan and her family. On the way, the road they were driving passed close by the railway track where a truck loaded with sulphur was on fire.

Another visitor to the north country was Janet Allen who flew to Prince George for the wedding of her granddaughter, Barbara Allen to Dwight Johnson of Prince George. The bride is the daughter of George and Mary Allen of Sechelt.

The Shannons who planned a camping trip in the Cariboo-Chilcotin country, managed to get as far as Bella Coola, but more about this next week. In the meantime, our thanks to Peggy Connor for filling the gap and keeping our readers advised about Halfmoon Bay.

Dorothy Greene, who is an enthusiastic bird-watcher, reports that she has seen two ospreys and pine martin in the tall timbers near her property.

Gibsons Hospital Auxiliary

By MARIE TRAINOR

The regular monthly meeting of the Gibsons Hospital Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. Margaret Jones on Wednesday, June 6. This being our last meeting until September, it took the form of a luncheon and meeting combined, with 44 members present and four guests which included Mrs. Anne Fitchett and Mrs. Jane Sorko representing the Hospital Board, Miss Chris Ward - president of the Sechelt Auxiliary and Miss Nairn Stewart of Edmonton, a daughter of one of our members, Mrs. Margery Stewart.

A lovely wine punch served prior to lunch was donated by Oney DeCamp, Marie Scott and Margaret Jones, followed by sandwiches and a delicious strawberry shortcake, tea and coffee.

After lunch the meeting was brought to order by the president, Joan Rigby. Reports were read by the chairman of the various committees for the month of May in which 30 volunteers worked a total of 101½ hours. Although unable to attend, Rene Jardine, chairman of the Knitting Committee, sent in numerous articles such as bed socks, bed jackets, baby sets which had been completed by our great knitters. Jean Longley also brought along a lovely baby carriage cover and unique bed socks, which were donated to the Auxiliary (including wool) by a friend, Mrs. Margaret Abell, visiting her this spring from Moncton, New Brunswick. Two bed jackets are also being completed and will be sent along later. How grateful we are to all these nice people.

Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, Verla Hobson, read her report in which she informed us that work was progressing well at the workshop held every Wednesday (except the first Wednesday of the month) at the home of Phoebe Blomberg. They are busy making Christmas decorations which will be sold in conjunction with the Aloha Luncheon. While on the subject of the Aloha Luncheon, Lenora Inglis and Marjorie Leslie have volunteered to co-host this annual event in November.

Pearl Dove and Joan Rigby, who represented Gibsons Auxiliary at the BCAHA Convention from May 30 to June 1 in Vancouver, gave very enthusiastic and interesting reports on the various activities and high-lights of the Convention.

At the close of the meeting, president Joan Rigby called upon Anne Fitchett and Jane Sorko to draw the lucky tickets for the raffle of the lovely hand-made Quilt and Afghan, which was our spring fund raising project this year in lieu of the Dogwood Luncheon. The lucky winners were: for the quilt, Liz Forshner and the Afghan - B. Logan, both from Gibsons.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Annie Metcalfe, who not only opened her home to members while the quilt was being quilted but also looked after the arrangements for the ticket making, selling, and accounting of same. Without her devoted efforts and those of Kay Butler who helped us get the quilt started and for the use of her office as a headquarters for circulation of the tickets, and to all the other members who helped, the raffle would not have been the success it was.

All members would also like to take this opportunity to thank Margaret Jones for again opening her home to us for the luncheon-meeting which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

Last but by no means least, I would like to remind everyone of the BLOOD DONOR CLINIC which is being held on June 25 from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. in the new Physiotherapy Unit in St. Mary's Hospital. It cannot be emphasized too strongly the great need for blood and, if you are able to give, please make a concerted effort to attend the Clinic on June 25 and help replenish and build up the Hospital's Blood Bank.

Remember your blood donation could save a life - it could be yours.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, September 5.

Sechelt notes

Arts enthusiasm

By Peggie Connor, 885-9347

The sixty persons attending the Sunshine Coast Arts Council's annual general meeting on Friday, June 8 at the new Sunshine Coast Art Centre were full of enthusiasm. They were delighted with being able to hold the meeting there despite the fact it is not finished as yet. Another month and a half, and members hope to hold their grand opening.

Some poeple expressed the thought that if it had been a more conventional shape it would have been finished before now. But then it would have been just another building. New as the Arts Centre is, it has a grand feeling all of its own — just to step inside one can feel its personality.

The attractive design of cedar wood panels around the skylight is just one of the touches that will make this building the pride of Sechelt.

The building was under construction for a year-and-a-half, then shut down for half a year due to lack of funds. The approximate cost will be $60,000. Opening is planned for August 3.

A book could be written on the trials and tribulations of erecting the centre. Crowstons donated the use of their mill, a Canada Works grant supplied wages for six persons, three only were needed. From a model created by Clarke Steabner who was the chief worker for the building, the actual building is a faithful replica. The mill broke down, the grant expired, but then, on the good side, materials and cupboards etc. were donated and members worked at various money raising programs.

They have reached the point where $2,500 is needed to complete the job. Steering Committees have been formed with co-ordinator Clarke Steabner and to install programs five disciplines have been chosen: Burril Swartz for visual arts, Susan Elek for countryside concerts, Gerardo Avila for mime performances, Keith Wallace heads special events and Elaine Futterman is looking after the crafts. Each group is looking for input from the rest of the members.

Visual Arts committee comprises Burril Swartz, Vivian Chamberlain, Keith Wallace and Alice Murray for planning art exhibits, juried shows, sculptures, artifacts and any ideas that may come to mind.

Elaine Futterman is joined by Irene Blueth, Rosemarie McLean, Sanya Boutilier and Earl Carter for crafts and they expect to keep the quality of crafts high. The opening show will include the pottery of Muriel Parfitt.

Musical Arts with Susan Elek, Alan Crane, Clarke Steabner, Joy Graham and Paul Torvik have workshops in their plans.

Performing arts committee of Gerardo Avila working with Mary Livingstone and Mike Baecke plan programs in drama, dance, mime poetry, films and anything that relates to the performing arts.

The special events group with Keith Wallace has Judy Gates, Donna Shugar, Bob Peck and Judy Kelly already making plans for the grand opening. After the opening, other plans include lectures, poetry and prose readings, video, films and exhibitions of childrens art.

The next Countryside Concert will be on Father's Day, June 17 at Elphinstone Secondary School when the Powell River Boys Choir will perform. These twenty singing boys have a great range from folk music to classical and popular music to please every taste.

DIRECTORS

Those with one year more to go on their two year terms are Doris Crowston, Trudy Small, Vivian Chamberlain, Evette Kent, Barbara Gough, Keith Wallace, Burril Swartz, Susan Elek and Joan Foster.

Re-elected or elected were Clarke Steabner, Alan Crane, Elaine Futterman, Rita Sober, Joy Graham, Donna Shugar and Gerardo Avila. A total of sixteen directors, this group will meet at an executive meeting shortly and choose their presiding officers.

Directors whose two year terms ended were Faye Birking and Ola Arnold.

Vivian Chamberlain reported on the membership which stands at 206.

Western Lottery chairman Yvette Kent was happy to have someone volunteer to take over the distribution of tickets as Jack White so kindly did.

A motion that no smoking be allowed in the building met with good response from the crowd.

Entertainment was then provided by Debbie Middleton, two-time winner at the Music and Drama Festival for her dancing prowess. Ethnic dance followed by a tap dance were enjoyed by the audience. Winner of the music award, Mario Reiche, demonstrated his talent on the accordion very well.

A bountiful lunch was served with tea and coffee by two good workers Trudy Small and Lee Steabner, with members providing the food.

GREENE COURT SPONSORS

The Sunshine Coast Senior Citizens' Housing Society held their annual meeting June 7 at the home of Norman and Marg Burley.

President Harold Nelson was in the chair with Hilda Costerson as secretary. When annual reports were given, Ada Dawe reported the housing committee was doing well and suggested the new handicapped cottage be named after Rose Dewar and all agreed. Macy Walker of the admissions committee reported three people moved out and three moved in with fourteen names on the list for the new buildings. More are desired in the event some may be ready to move in when the cottages are completed.

Building Committee chairman Norman Burley gave his report and also the building finance committee's report by John Goodwin was received.

Election of directors took place with the following — for three years, Elizabeth Cooke, Eva Hayward, Yvonne Yates of Sechelt and Jack Temple from Halfmoon Bay, directors with one year to run are Harold Nelson, Mary Walker, Ada Dawe, John Goodwin, Norman Burley, Yvette Kent and Marie Firth.

Former Directors thanked for their work were Chris Ward, Adele deLange and Bill Neilsen.

It was suggested by Dorothy Greene that an event such as a garden party be held to encourage new members to join.

Greene Court Cottages provide an economical home within walking distance of the shops for senior citizens who can take care of themselves, allowing them to maintain their independence.

SECHELT AUXILIARY LUNCH BIGGEST CROWD

The annual lunch put on for the public by the Sechelt Auxiliary to St. Mary's Hospital was held on June 7 at the Senior Citizens Hall. Two hundred and forty enjoyed lunch in a congenial atmosphere, and the auxiliary looks on this as a public relations event as much as anything. It is also a good event to bind the members together as all working together they get to know one another better.

VISITING AREA

Miss Sophia Smith, a former resident of Greene Court and Sechelt, has been visiting friends in the area from her home in Victoria.

ISABEL DAWSON RECEIVES MASTERS DEGREE

Graduating after six years with a Masters degree in Science, Isabel Dawson specialized in Gerontology. Last year it was her Batchelor of Arts in Victoria, this year it was in Eugene, Oregon.

Isabel's thesis was on history of services for Senior Citizens in B.C. and was declared good enough for a doctoral dissertation. This remarkable woman deserves a lot of admiration for how she has continued her education.

SIXTY YEARS FOR THE NEWCOMEES

Tim and Jane Newcombe will have been married for sixty years on June 18, 1979. They have been in Canada for that length of time from St. Asphap, North Wales, in 1919.

Jane says it just takes a little give and take and seeing the good side of everybody, and anybody that knows the Newcombes knows they live what they believe.

A party in their honor is being held in Vancouver by their family this week so there will be more to report on when they return.

LOUISE CHRISTENSEN, left, and Tove Jorgensen were among the 240 persons who enjoyed the annual lunch organized by the Sechelt Ladies Auxiliary to St. Mary's Hospital.

SUNSHINE COAST REGIONAL DISTRICT

Boys Choir at Elphie Sunday

The next of the Countryside Concerts series featuring the Powell River Boys Choir will get under way at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Elphinstone School auditorium with $2.50 admission for adults and $1.50 for students.

The Boys Choir was formed in 1975 under the leadership of Ken Peterson and Don James. Its purpose as a self-sustaining organization is to offer the opportunity for training in choral singing to boys wishing to develop their musical talent either for personal enrichment, or as a step toward a performing arts career.

The boys are between the ages of 7 and 15 and are instructed in vocal production, ear training, theory of music and stage deportment. They rehearse 3 to 5 hours every week, and perform several times each month. The boys sing frequently in churches, hospitals, schools and theatres and appear annually in festivals and on television.

Last year the choir produced its first album "O Come Let Us Sing" and toured in Western Canada. This summer the choir will be visiting the National Capital and will present several concerts in the province of Quebec

The choir offers a wide repertoire, extending from Gregorian chants to novelty tunes, from Renaissance motets to folk melodies, from traditional hymns to madrigals and from gospel songs to medieval rounds. Ensembles and solos are presented in addition to the full choir of twenty-two voices. Each member of the choir projects that rare quality of the boy's voice which promises to create a most pleasant afternoon for their audience.

show what is intended for the land once it is rezoned, he said.

The building is expected to be constructed in phases over five years and will possibly include retail stores, offices, theatre, restaurants and apartments.

The nine acres, including the one acre for the joint-use facility, borders on Cowrie and Teredo Streets and Shorncliffe Ave. Along these streets, the owners will leave a buffer zone on through a restrictive covenant or by deeding an approximately 20-30-foot-wide strip of existing trees to the village for a park. A trail along the buffer zone is also planned.

Killam ended his presentation saying he and the others feel, "C-1 is the only logical use of this land; that because of the future road plans, neither single family or high density housing are suitable."

Also, "this is a natural extension of existing C-1 area," he said.

"The community needs additional developable commercial area, especially in large blocks such as this in order to facilitate a first-class retail complex."

Loss of a landmark

By Jeanie Norton, 886-9609

A towering inferno it wasn't but the fire that razed the old brown house on the corner across from Seaview Market a week ago Monday night was quite a spectacle. Not to worry though — the ever-ready Roberts Creek Volunteer Fire Department was on the spot and proved more than competent to handle the task. And the "torch", in the parlance of arsonists, was caught redhanded. It was none other than Sharon Kraus, the fire chief's wife.

Glen had arranged some weeks ago give his firefighters some practice while performing a demolition service for the new owners of the property. They are restauranteurs from Vancouver who are reportedly planning to build a small structure and serve good food at reasonable prices sometime in the fall. Some competition for your ham sandwiches, Marlene!

LOG SPILL

A second and more real calamity of the week was the log spill off the mouth of the Creek that same night. The tug pulling a boom which was estimated by expert onlookers as worth close to $1 million got caught in rough seas. Residents of the Creek were treated to a demonstration of real beachcombers in action as salvagers worked long and hard all week to retrieve the logs washed ashore and maneouver them back to their boom. No time for autographs from these fellows, though, as they worked against time and the tides.

DAZE ROLLING ALONG

It was evident at the meeting last Wednesday evening that plans for this year's Roberts Creek Daze on July 13, 14 and 15 are well in hand. Over 30 people attended the meeting with a nice mix of the "old hands" with their experience from last year and a large group of willing and enthusiastic new volunteers. This year's celebration looks to be bigger and better than ever.

The Sunshine Coast Golf and Country Club are considering a tournament to be held in conjunction with the Daze. Imagine, the first Roberts Creek Daze Open. We may make the PGA circuit yet!

Tickets for the "super prize" Roberts Creek Daze Raffle are on sale now. With prizes like a trip for two with Tyee Air they're a bargain at two for $1. Watch for someone waving a red or green booklet or pick them up at the Seaview Market.

Hey, all you frustrated Illie Nastases or Chrissie Everts out there! What you need is an official Roberts Creek Daze sun visor. They're only $2.50 at Seaview Market, they come in all colours, and they're hand-lettered, so if you put in your order now you can get whatever you want (within the bounds of decency) written on them. It's a great promotional idea for businesses. Seaview has provided their staff — how about SuperValu, Blaine?

What's getting you hot under the collar this year? The Creek was rife with issues (like garbage) last year but the street theatre is having trouble coming up with a target for this year's production. Any ideas for a villain of the piece? Call Judy Fitzgerald at 885-5059.

S.Y.S. — SAVE YOUR SALMON

Terri Hanson has a salmon barbecue all organized for the Daze but she's having trouble getting a line (sorry!) on some fish.. They don't need a lot — 50 pounds or so would probably do it. What noble fisherman out there will share the wealth and donate a couple?

How are the soapboxes coming along? We're told the Roberts Creek Volunteer Fire Department are planning an entry and will challenge the other departments. And rumour has it that the Peninsula Times has a hot one on the drawing board. How about you, Coast News?

SPORTS DAY - FUN DAY

Sports Day at Roberts Creek Elementary is more than just a track meet. Oh, there are the usual running and jumping events for the athletically inclined but there are also the dress-up races, water races, and balloon races to give the non-jocks a chance to participate. Everyone's welcome — there's a tiny tot race and a senior citizens race. So even if you don't have kids at the school, and absolutely if you do, drop by and join in this Friday. The day starts at 9:30 with the parade of bikes.

SORRY, SHELLEY

There was an error in last week's column about the results from the Provincial Track and Field Championships at Richmond — Shelley Brongers was 13th in 3000 metre. Okay, Shelley?

NEW STAFF

School may be almost over for the year but plans have to be made for next year. Roberts Creek Elementary will retain most of its excellent staff with Eleanor Parker taking on the added duties of librarian. Jamie Davidson is going on leave for a year and Dianne Lim will be taking the Grade 1 class. Dianne comes with excellent recommendations from Gibsons Elementary where she has been teaching for the last three years, and parents with 12 and 13 year olds will remember when she previously taught Grade 1 in Roberts Creek.

SUMMER FUN

Wendy Eccles has been appointed coordinator of the Summer Fun Program to be sponsored by the Parents Auxiliary at Roberts Creek Elementary in July and August. Wendy brings the benefit of her previous experience at the Wilson Creek Day Care Centre and will soon be announcing registration details for the program.

COMMUNITY ASSOCIATION MEETING

The last Community Association meeting before the summer break will be held next Wednesday, June 20 at 8 p.m. at the Community Hall.

RED SAILS IN THE SUNSET

Even landlubbers appreciate the beauty of a sailboat before the wind and especially pretty are the red sails of the Mirror Dinghies. Kim Davies is holding his annual regatta of the miniature craft this weekend just off the "sandy beach". So take a stroll down and don't forget your camera!

FOR THE RECORD

The Roberts Creek Ladies Softball Team met and exceeded all reasonable expectations for their weekend at the Squamish tournament. Their hopes for one win were fulfilled in their Saturday morning match against a team from Shawnigan Lake and they then went on to play tight games against teams that eventually made it to the quarter-finals and semi-finals. Our ladies made a creditable showing and can justifiably be pleased with their performance in this high calibre ball.

P.S. Happy Father's Day!

We have more seagulls and quite a few artistically glazed vases from Mrs. Whaites' kilns, a lovely array of colors for all to see. Can you resist buying one or two? — Miss Bee's, Sechelt.

Major changes in driving laws

The provincial government's Motor Vehicle Task Force will hold a public meeting here May 29 and 30, as it launches the second part of its review of the laws and procedures governing the operation of motor vehicles in British Columbia.

The purpose of the meetings, says chairman Neil McDairmid, is to give the task force the opportinity to hear, first-hand, the public's opinions on the operation of motor vehicles and related laws and practices.

"We are not interested in individual court cases and traffic violations," said McDiarmid. "What we are hoping to obtain are the thoughtful observations of individuals of all ages and walks of life.

"If we are to reform the law and improve our procedures, we must do so in a manner that is meaningful at the street level," he said.

In this part of its study, the task force will examine vehicle and highway safety, driver education, law enforcement and administrative procedures. Special attention will be given to co-ordinating operations of ministries and agencies connected with motor vehicle law and to the prospect of combining all laws governing the operation of vehicles into one provincial statute.

Specifically, the task force will look at: — all provincial legislation relating to motor vehicles, including commercial transport, liquor control, licensing and so on, — delineation of roles of ICBC and the Motor Vehicles Branch, — all municipal bylaws dealing with traffic matters, — juvenile drivers, — decriminalizing driving offences, — breathalyzer legislation, alcohol limits, and drinking age, — driver education.

In its interim report, released March 15, the task force recommended that driving while under suspension be made a provincial offence punishable by a mandatory jail term.

The report, issued jointly by Attorney-General Garde Gardom, Transportation, Communications and Highways Minister, Alex Fraser and the minister responsible for the Insurance Corporation of British Columbia, Grace McCarthy, describes the present procedure for processing traffic offences as "cumbersome and ineffective." It states that the system, as it exists, is "totally inappropriate for violators who show a flagrant disrespect for the law."

In addition, the task force contends that the present system lacks effective immediate impact on bad "high point" drivers, frustrates police, and wastes public time and money.

It recommends that high-point drivers and drivers convicted of serious driving offences who fail to pay their fines be incarcerated and calls for an intensive campaign to encourage better driving habits in B.C.

It recommends, as well, that there be no Court appearance for minor breaches of the law which constitute the majority of traffic violations and that the Court Referee system be expanded to include traffic adjudicators to hear ticket disputes.

In addition, the Task Force recommends expanding the police computer information system to provide a more effective means of identifying high-point drivers at the roadside.

Other recommendations include: — the implementation of the concept of deemed notice to drivers whose licences have been suspended (mailing of the notice of suspension will be considered sufficient to prove suspension), — Motor Vehicle Branch and police information systems be upgraded as soon as possible, — ICBC penalty point premiums be abolished, — an extensive information program be used to explain the new system.

In releasing the report, the Attorney-General said he was most pleased with the work of the committee and stressed the importance of the public contribution to the Task Force's study.

"When I set up the Task Force in July of 1978, I invited public input. Since then we have received over 300 letters and briefs from all over the province, many of them containing excellent and thoughtful suggestions.

"I believe all British Columbians are reaching the conclusion that it is a privilege not a right, to possess a driver's licence and that responsibility and maturity must go along with its use," he said.

"Don't sell B.C. short"

Tourism B.C. is taking concerted action to ensure that U.S. travellers are "fully aware" there is no gasoline shortage in the province, Tourism and Small Business Development Minister Elwood Veitch says.

Veitch said his ministry has sent a message, "Don't Sell British Columbia Short", to 16,000 travel agents and members of the American Automobile Association.

The direct-mail piece states three reasons why U.S. travellers should consider B.C. as their vacation destination this year: there is no gasoline shortage in B.C.; the Canadian dollar is down, which means that the U.S. dollar is worth from 15 to 18 per cent more in Canada; and new U.S. customs regulations allow an increase in the value of duty-free goods U.S. residents can take home.

Elaborating on the latter point, Veitch said U.S. visitors staying less than 48 hours can now each take home $25 worth of goods, an increase of $10, while after 48 hours it becomes $300 per person, up by $200.

In addition, the new rules allow families to pool their duty free exemptions.

The minister said Tourism B.C.'s present advertising campaign in travel trade publications has been amended to include the message contained in the mailer.

"We have also increased the frequency of our ads in Oregon, Idaho and Washington states to attract residents of these states who were originally planning to vacation in now-gas-hungry California to visit B.C. instead.

"The gas shortage problem in California should now work to our advantage," the minister said.

A local juvenile was apprehended in Radio Shack's warehouse behind Sechelt Agencies after police investigated an alarm.

A number of items were stolen from a residence in the Tillicum Bay area as the inhabitants were moving June 5.

The persons returned to the property to find the items they had left on a table were missing. Stolen were a five-foot wooden stepladder, a Slazenger Queen's Tournament tennis raquet with the initials G.A.P., and a red styrofoam cooler containing pieces of crystal.

A 32 foot gill-netter reported stolen from the Madeira Park government wharf June 5 was recovered the same morning on the beach in Garden Bay.

Financial improvements to an older house

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation

Homeowners can obtain up to $4,000 on a relatively low cost home improvement loan guaranteed by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. For information about this program, call any local office of CMHC or write Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, Head Office, Information Services, Montreal Road, Ottawa, Ontario, for their free booklet intitled "Home Improvement Loans".

CMHC also has a program which provides special assistance to low and moderate income homeowners who wish to improve their dwellings in specially designated areas of a city. The program, known as Residential Rehabilitation Assistance Program (RRAP), provides maximum loans of $5,000 to homowners of which up to $2,500 may be forgiven depending on the income of the borrower. For information about the program and the areas designated for assistance in your community, call your local office of CMHC.

The sales value of gardens

In the sale of a home, the garden is one of the cosmetic features which potential purchasers first notice. Although the actual value is fractional in the overall price of the home, the state of your lawn and garden can have a great deal of influence in the decision to purchase. This is especially true in older homes with well established plantings. If the garden is overgrown and untidy, buyers may not want to undertake the extra work and expense of bringing it back to a good appearance. So, though the house may be just what he wants, a purchaser could be influenced away from a sale if a vendor has not taken the time to keep lawns mowed, weeds cleared, shrubs and trees trimmed. Remove unsightly undergrowth, thin out overgrown flowerbeds, rake up leaves and clippings and provide a pleasant setting for the home you want to sell.

GREYFRIARS REALTY

Setting the value of your home

Many vendors tend to over-value or even UNDER-value their own homes.

Few have the professional objectivity to assess true market value.

Few have the knowledge of the market place or true facts of recent sales in the neighborhood with which to judge the price level.

A licensed real estate practitioner has all these things —

— objectivity
— knowledge
— facts
— the real estate industry is trained to assess a house, its condition, the neighborhood, and is armed with the facts of what is happening in the market place. There in no sense in OVER valuing your property, and there is some danger of your UNDER valuing it too, if you gamble on doing it yourself.

And now, for your summer enjoyment, we give you cancer-causing barbecued steaks

When you char-broil that steak in the back yard or take a drag on that cigarette, as many as 200 different hydrocarbons are formed, some of which have been identified and shown to be carcinogenic, that is, cancer-causing.

Many remain to be identified and Dr. Reg Mitchell, a chemist at the University of Victoria, is using his crystal ball approach to create them in his laboratory.

Using his knowledge of chemistry, Mitchell predicts what molecules should be formed when organic compounds such as food, oil, wood or coal are burned. He creates new molecules in the laboratory and with the assistance of UVic biologist Dr. Michael Ashwood-Smith, tests them for mutagenicity. He then attempts to identify in nature the molecules he has created in the lab.

"I'm a chemist who likes to make new and interesting molecules rather than analyze molecules already present," explains Mitchell.

He has received a $12,500 grant from the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council (NSERC) this year for that research, creating new hydrocarbon molecules.

He is also one of 13 scientists involved in a three-year, $518,000 NSERC-sponsored UVic study of aquatic and marine pollution. His role in the project is to study the reaction of hydrocarbon derivatives that are in pesticides and in the water.

"In the laboratory I prepare hydrocarbons that are not only new but have unusual properties from a basic academic point of view," he explains. "The results of my research may be in students' textbooks 10 years from now.

"What I try to do is prepare molecules that are not only interesting in the academic sense but might also have some sort of environmental interest. I believe this is one purpose of university research."

For Imperial Oil, Mitchell is synthesizing some potentially mutagenic and carcinogenic hydrocarbons.

"Creating molecules in the laboratory is an approach that has been successful for us in the past," says Mitchell. "We used this method in our research on the pesticide, methoxychlor."

What is the point of creating these molecules in the laboratory?

Mitchell feels that by preparing and making samples available to biologists and microbiologists "we might better understand the mechanism by which tumors develop."

About 70 hydrocarbons formed from burning organic compounds have already been identified in nature. Some are carcinogenic while others with very similar structure are relatively harmless.

While he points out that none of us can avoid breathing in some hydrocarbons Mitchell is philosophical about it.

"It depends on how you look at it," he says. "If you don't die of cancer you'll die of something else. There is no way of freeing yourself completely from danger."

"You could say 'I'll never eat another barbecued steak', but you can't stop breathing. The very fact that you cross the road ensures that you consume some of these compounds in fumes from passing cars.

"From the backyard burner to the burning of petroleum, hydrocarbons are formed and exist in the atmosphere. It's something we all have to live with."

SUNNYCREST MALL, GIBSONS 886-8010

GIBSONS MAYOR Lorne Blain was among the mayors and other elected officials from across Canada who attended a conference conducted by Emergency Planning Canada at the Federal Study Centre, Arnprior, Ontario, from June 4-7. Such conferences are held regularly for elected officials to alert them to their responsibilities in emergencies and help them plan to offset the effects of disasters in their communities. From left to right are: Mayor Blain, A.J. Carter, alderman, Salmon Arm, Mrs. M.T. Casilo, alderman, Victoria, H.L. Prem, alderman, Port Edward, Mrs. C.H. Wright, Abbotsford, B.C.

Empty lot owners pay for clean-up council decides

Owners of untidy vacant lots in Gibsons could be charged for the expense of a village work crew's time to clean them up, a recent meeting of the village council decided.

Council was responding to a complaint from Mrs. M. Flockhart that the owners of empty lots around her have let the blackberry bushes and grass overgrow.

One lot only a few feet from her home is so overgrown that the "lush growth has buckled my fence to where I am in danger, should the brush catch fire," Mrs. Flockhart wrote in a letter to council.

Council approved a motion to contact Mrs. Flockhart for the names of the offenders, so they can be warned if their premises are not tidied up, they will be billed for the time it takes the works crew to do it.

In other business, council agreed to allow Highland Helicopters to use the Gibsons-Sechelt Municipal Airport for a fee of $100 per month retroactive to the beginning of the company's operation, provided the company fulfill MOT air safety requirements by erecting a temporary fence around fuel barrels and post cautionary signs.

Also, council agreed to inform them the village will not be responsible for financial liability, damages or injury occurring because of negligence.

Council introduced and gave first reading to an arrears and delinquent taxes bylaw to raise the interest rate on overdue taxes from eight per cent to 12 per cent per year.

The Ministry of Forests reports two new regulations relating to forestry operations in B.C. have been passed by order-in-council. One deals with contractor clauses and the other with small business enterprises.

Forests Minister Tom Waterland said the primary purpose of the contractor regulation was "to ensure that independent contractors will have an opportunity to participate in the harvest of Crown timber."

He said the province's new Forest Act requires that half of the Crown timber on tree farm licences be offered under contract. To conform with the new requirement, a number of TFL licencees will have to increase or expand present contractor agreements.

In addition, a contractor clause will be included in Forest licences, a new tenure which will replace timber sale harvesting licences and some timber sale licences. The level of contracting required in each Forest licence will reflect the past practices of the licence holder, and will range up to a maximum of 80 per cent of the timber harvest from the licence.

In the past, the contractor requirement on tree farm licences could be met through "full" contracts, covering the complete logging operation, or "phase" contracts, covering only part of the operation, or a combination of both. The new regulation stipulates that 70 per cent of the volume to be contracted must be removed through "full" contracts, while at the same time, it removes the complications which were associated with balancing of phases.

Waterland stated that the intent of the new regulation is to give greater security for contractors, and to put them in a better position to finance their operations. The new regulation, he added, calls for a five-year term for any full contract, and a two-year term for phase contracts, if a written contract is requested.

The Minister also said he wants to see industry and contactors work together to establish a standard contract and thus no provision for a standard contract form is included in the Regulation at this time. In this regard, he noted that for years, the province's construction industry has had a standard contract and he claims contractors in the forest industry are also entitled to know "in written form" all details of their contract agreement.

Waterland also indicated he will set up a committee to review contractor performance, and in this regard will ask members of various groups which have already studied the issue, to recommend personnel to serve on the new committee.

"In the past," Waterland continued, "contractors have complained they did not have access to company harvesting plans which would assist them (the contractors) in planning their own operations."

If contractors can't get access to such plans, the ministry will make plans available.

With reference to the small business regulation, the minister explained its main objective was to provide opportunities for small operators to have a participating role in the industry, and for the entry of new firms into the industry. The new Forest Act provides for some harvesting licences to be granted only to small business enterprises.

The new regulation provides for two catergories of small business operations — one for those without sawmills and the other for those with sawmills. Sales may be open to both categories or restricted to one or the other. The Forest Act will be amended to allow different categories to be specified.

He said a percentage of the cut from unallentated Crown forest land will be made available for harvesting by the small business segment of the industry.

WATER SKIING has become so popular that many people think skiers are the only things powerboats can tow.

Fun alternatives to water skiing

Water skiing has become so popular that many people think skiers are the only things powerboats can tow.

If the present trend to "Hot Dogging" or "Freeystyling" catches on with water skiers as it has with snow skiers, you're going to be seeing some exciting displays on your favourite waterway this summer. Here are the three primary hot-dog tricks, with variations on each one as indicated by the Allied Boating Association of Canada:

"The "worm-turn", sometimes called "the tumble", looks like a big bad spill, but the skier effects a near-miraculous recovery and comes back up on his skis. The trick, say the skiers, is to roll over on the water with your shoulders, keeping your skies high and dry.

The "Daffy" and "Double Daffy" make use of the boat wake or a ski jump. The skier flies off the wake or the jump and extends on one leg completely straight in front of him. That's the "Daffy". With the "Double Daffy", the skier does a mid-air split. then recovers just in time to make a graceful landing.

The "Wake Flip" is perhaps the most dramatic hot-dog trick of them all. It can be either a front or a backwards flip, and it can be done off a ski jump or the wake.

But for those not quite so adventuresome, there are other alternatives to water skiing that can be just as much fun.

Try aquaplaning. Take a board about two feet wide and six feet long. Fit it with a rope towing bridle and a comfortable hand rope. Now you have an aquaplane. It's somewhat easier for beginners to master than a pair of skis and can thus help encourage newcomers to get to the point where they will feel able to try water skis.

Another device that can give a lot of fun is the "flying saucer". Simply a round piece of thick plywood about three feet in diameter, it's sort of a cross between an aquaplane and skis. As it can be turned around-and-around in the water as you speed along on it, some amusing capers can be cut.

If you look around in marine stores and catalogues, you will probably come up with two or three things that will make your boat produce even more fun for everyone in your group, regardless of age or physical dexterity.

Ladies golf

Doreen Gregory's net 72 got her first place in the June 5 CLGA Pin Round at the Sunshine Coast Golf and Country Club followed closely by Norma Gaines with a net 73.

Nine-hole low gross first position went to Isabel Draper with 59.

Second in that event was Lorna Huggins with 63.

Tuesday of this week is scheduled a round of Captains vs Vice-captains and the losers were to buy lunch at the clubhouse.

Golf report

V-P's buy lunches

By ERNIE HUME

The Annual President Vs Vice-president Golf Tournament was played on Sunday, June 3. The President's team proved to be the winners, but the Vice-presidents had the pleasure of paying for both sides' lunches, owing to their lowly efforts.

The 24 low net players of the tournament had their names drawn to form 12 two-man teams to compete in the Calcutta Sweepstakes which will be played this year on June 17.

The money pot from the auction this year realized a surprising su of $1,700.

The first four teams will collect 40 per cent, 30 per cent, 20 per cent and 10 per cent. The bidding for the favorite teams proved very exciting and speculation as to the eventual winner is being keenly awaited.

The teams are busy practising and sharpening up their game for their backers and the onorhonor of being a winner.

There is still room for many new members to join our activities at the clubhouse and on the golf course. Why not join now?

A group of six Squamish golfers journeyed to our golf course for an inter club match. The Squamish team were very impressed with the beautiful surroundings and the perfect golfing weather of the Sunshine Coast.

A return match is being arranged at a later date.

Volunteer helpline

Last week the directors of the Volunteer Bureaus from the Vancouver area travelled to the Sunshine Coast for a Joint Council meeting. This monthly sharing of ideas and manpower on such issues as publicity, services, workshops and education etc. is most valuable for all bureaus. These people are all really dedicated to improving the volunteer involvement and commitment in each of their communities — ours has benefitted from ideas generated in this Council. The effort and energy really seems to be working. The volunteer benefits from a strengthened support system and the community benefits from the newly committed volunteers who are recruited through new programs.

Volunteers continue to play such an important role in our community. You make such a difference in so many lives — whether it's a friendly chat, help in the garden, playing a game of chess or visiting in the hospital. For most of us it is hard to imagine a day being so very long and heavy upon our hands, or for us to be unable to complete small crafts or tasks. But - there are people in these situations. Perhaps you could help change someone's day.

Here are some Volunteer opportunities to consider:

HELP WITH OUTSIDE WORK

Volunteer youth are needed to help seniors and handicapped with outside work and odd jobs during July and August. These volunteers would also be welcome to participate, or be leaders, in a youth-oriented activity program in Sechelt during the summer. The volunteers would be especially welcomed as participants on weekend campouts.

TYPIST

A volunteer typist is needed in Gibsons for part of July and August. This would give someone experience in typing and in cataloguing a card system.

VISITORS IN HOSPTAL

Special friends are needed for patients in St. Mary's. Some would really enjoy having someone to talk with on such topics as current events, animals, documentaries, sports or poets - you could certainly brighten someone's day.

Having a volunteer read some favourite authors or play a game such as blackjack would be important to a patient to look forward to on a certain day.

An outing would also be a real treat for some.

Could you take a couple of hours of your time to share with one of these patients?

SAVE THE CHILDREN PROGRAM — AFGHANS

Volunteers are needed to unravel woollen goods to that the wool can be used to crochet and knit blankets for the Save the Children Fund. This could be done in front of a TV or while talking to a friend.

A volunteer is needed to sort wool which has been unravelled so that colours and thicknesses of the wool can be co-ordinated and distributed to the crocheters and knitters.

VISITORS IN GIBSONS

Volunteers are still needed to visit an elderly couple who speak Italian and also to visit an elderly woman who in the past has so enjoyed many crafts.

Will you be one of these volunteers?

SPECIAL EVENTS

Volunteer help is needed in many different areas with the upcoming special events such as Sea Cavalcade, Roberts Creek Daze etc. If you want to be involved in your community and find out what's happening, here is a perfect opportunity.

SHELTER HOME

Do you have a spare room that on a rare occasion someone could use as a refuge because of a crisis in their own home?

At present a shelter home is needed in the Sechelt area.

Please call the Volunteer Bureau if you feel that you could help someone in an emergency.

DONATIONS

The Youth Program to be run in Sechelt this summer needs playground and game equipment. Perhaps there is an extra bat or ball being unused in your home.

If the Community Services Society's Volunteer Bureau can help you, or if you are aware of any help needed by neighbours, please call 885-3821.

Were you going to call about filling one of the needs mentioned above - PLEASE DON'T WAIT TOO LONG!

GOOD TIMES '79 BRITISH COLUMBIA

It Pays To Use 'The Times' Directory Advertising

Senior Citizens Br. 69

By ROBERT FOXALL

Unfortunately this reporter was unable to make the trip into Vancouver on June 6, but all my informants advise that it was most enjoyable. Going by way of Marine Drive, the Bus went directly to Park and Tilford Gardens after leaving the ferry. They were inspired by the many new varieties of roses in a rainbow of colors. They were set off by Dwarf French Marigolds as though in embroidered doilies. To the pleasure of all members Olive Clear was able to walk with the best.

From the Gardens the party returned to Park Royal where they dispersed to the various cafes to partake of lunch. As they came out, they were greeted by very heavy rains, so instead of going to Stanley Park they proceeded to the Conservatory where they could be inside, but also an interesting spot to visit. I am also informed that the singing on the return journey was of such a calibre that some members are anticipating invitations to appear at Carnegie Hall or "The Met". It was a worthwhile trip.

The Executive met the morning of June 5, and as the first item of business authorized the payment of sewer hook-up fees and instructed that the necessary arrangements be made to ascertain the costs involved in making these connections. While Dave Hayward is going away shortly on a visit to Britain, and while we will be on summer recess and not holding meetings in July and August, arrangements are being made to continue Garden Tours under the guidance of Henry Draper. More information on this score at the June meeting on June 21.

Treasurer Ivan reported a healthy financial position. Membership at the time of the meeting stood at 307 with 37 of these being new members.

We are to lose two other valuable members in the near future. The Dave McLarens are leaving for Vancouver shortly and the members are asked to turn out in force at the meeting on June 21 so that we can give them a hearty send-off and wish them luck in their new surroundings.

We are also asked to show up in good numbers to the Luncheon to be held Wednesday, June 20 when we will be hosts to a bus-load of Seniors from Delta. Let's give them a warm welcome and show that this is truly the Sunshine Coast.

The Garden Corner

Gardeners are poets but . . .

By Guy Symonds

"And what is so rare as a day in June then, if ever come perfect days".

This month has always provided inspiration for poets, and in a very real way most gardeners are poets, albeit generally inarticulate ones. Very few gardeners can follow the lead of the chap who wrote "When June is come then all the day - I'll sit with my love in the scented hay". In, this highly mechanized age he would probably find himself and his loved chewed up by a hay conditioner or rolled up in a ball by a hay baler machine.

The pressure of setting out the garden is ending and now we face the legions of pests, the study of fertilizers and, as always with farmers and gardeners, the planning for the seaon ahead.

But before we go on to those it would be a good idea to pass along a reminder about the treatment of the bulbs that a short month or two ago gave us such a beautiful Spring and upon which we will be depending for another miracle next year.

The first point to be made is — on no account may dead flowers be left on the stem because then the seed forming process starts and the energy absorbed in that is at the expense of the bulb. Cut the heads off leaving every bit of green stem so that it, and the green leaves may do their job of feeding next year's bulb. If you have to get rid of the planting to make room for something else and the foliage is still green, lift them and put them in a shallow trench until everything has died down naturally. Then take them out, clean them thoroughly, and store them. We use paper bags with some fungicide dust and there they sit till planting time next fall.

Now to the pest war. It looks as though the heavy frosts of last winter discouraged the slug population, because in this gardener's experience hardly a single one of these little beasts has been seen. Others however are here in their usual legions and wreak havoc on young growing things — mostly out of sight. Particularly needing attention are radishes and carrots for both of which the apparently universal cure-all diazinon is the answer. Peas coming into bloom should be sprayed with malathion to discourage the pea weevil. This pest enters the burgeoning pea pod by means of the egg laid at blossom time, so that is the time to catch him. A really bad feature of this chap is that the pods look perfectly all right but all the time he is inside wrecking the contents.

The other pests are far too numerous to mention individually and anyway a list of them is printed on the label of any commercial pesticide container. But one point must be made with all possible emphasis, and that is that pesticides are by definition deadly poisons and dangerous to man unless proper precautions are taken. So the message is read the directions on the container very carefully and follow the instructions implicitly. If they say wear gloves or a mask or remove infected clothing do just that because the penalty for ignoring the warning can be a terrible one indeed.

With this warning goes one about storage of pesticides. Here the point to be made, again with all emphasis possible, is to keep them locked away and out of the reach of children. Proper attention to these two essentials, the directions for use and the care of storage, can prevent terrible and unnecessary suffering not only to humans but to pets and livestock as well.

Finally when the containers are empty do not throw them into the garbage. Either burn them up completely or bury them at least two feet deep. Pesticides are a very useful, in fact indispensible, tool in our present stage or agricultural knowledge but their abuse exacts a catastrophic penalty.

Science is continually busy at discovering and testing new ways to help man in his struggle against the forces in nature that compete with him for his food supply. New pesticides of lower toxicity to the rest of the animal world, sterilants to produce infertile eggs, even laser beams and sound waves, are being explored, but for the home gardener the price of success in growing things is eternal vigilance. And if he has any ideas about sitting in the hay with his girl friend he had better realize that while he is so delightfully engaged, thousands of mouths are eating him out of house and home.

Of course, he might think it worth it at that!

IN APPRECIATION for the equipment the Alexander family donated to the nurses' loan cupboard, vice-president of the Sunshine Coast Registered Nurses Eleanor Weston presented St. Mary's hospital administrator Nick Vucurevich with a $200 cheque for the Mary Alexander Memorial Fund last Thursday.

The China Syndrome — a gripping tale of power

An accident at a nuclear power plant is the basis for this gripping ale of power vs. conscience, produced by Michael Douglas.

Jane Fonda, in her role as a Los Angeles TV news reporter, is very much more than merely credible. It's as though director James Bridges had instructed her to pull the fakey smile and going-places attitude from a local news anchorwoman and incorporate them into her psyche.

Also right up there at the top is Jack Lemmon, exceptional as the plant supervisor who must face the ultimate decision of risking his job and security for thousands of lives. Lemmon's commanding performance and final scene are highly reminiscent of the late Peter Finche's finale in "Network".

Michael Douglas as Fonda's cameraman is pleasingly perservering, a nice contrast to the newswoman who would like to save the world but doesn't want to risk her job in the process.

Screenwriters Bridges, Mike Gray and T.S. Cook subtly interjected the mindlessness of TV, especially evident in the commercials at the end of Fonda's dazzling "action news" coverage at the plant.

Not necessarily: spoon-feeding the theme by telling the audience that Lemmon was a hero, not a lunatic. (We know that!) A top-notch offering. — Stu Goldstein.

Early WWII biplane being restored

DISGUISED AS Eddie Rickenbacker and the Red Baron combined, Dean Bosch tries out N3N's cockpit. We don't think he'd like to fly it just yet.

If you're wondering what happened to this long-time Sechelt landmark that used to be above Bud Koch's Sunshine GM corner, it has been given the status it deserves as an antique aircraft engine in the Canadian Museum of Flight and Transport, Richmond. And it's not the only bit of aircraft nostalgia on the Sunshine Coast.

Garden Bay residents Wilma and Bill Thompson have a couple of treasures in the form of an early WW11 American Navy N3N described as a version of the Stearman.

Bill is restoring this oldtimer biwing job to its original state as well as helping build the all-wood frame of the Pedenpole, pride of the 15-member Experimental Aircraft Association.

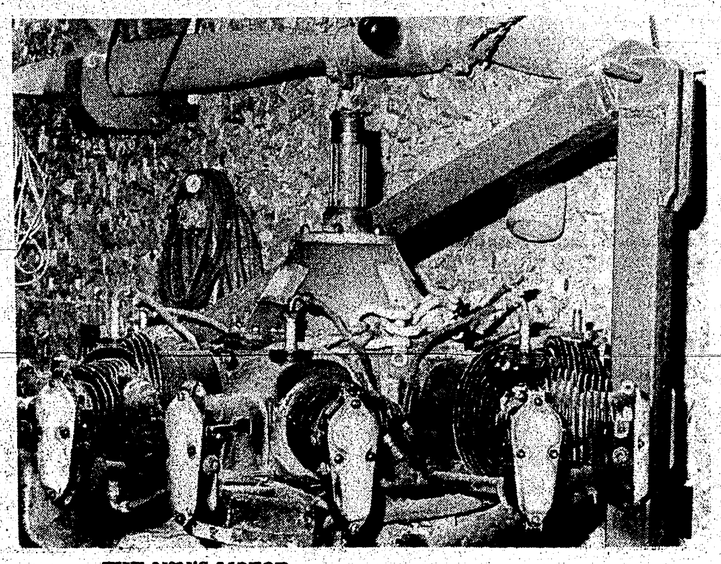
According to the Thompsons, there are quite a few home-built jobs done or being done on the Sunshine Coast.

The Thompsons have been far and wide in search of old aircraft and parts and came up with the N3N in New York. It is one of only three in Canada and they first saw it, the actual plane they are now restoring, in a movie at the Twilight Theatre in Gibsons a few years ago.

This will be the float model of the N3N and the Thompson's biggest problem now is finding the correct prop for the float version. The prop they have is for the wheeled version.

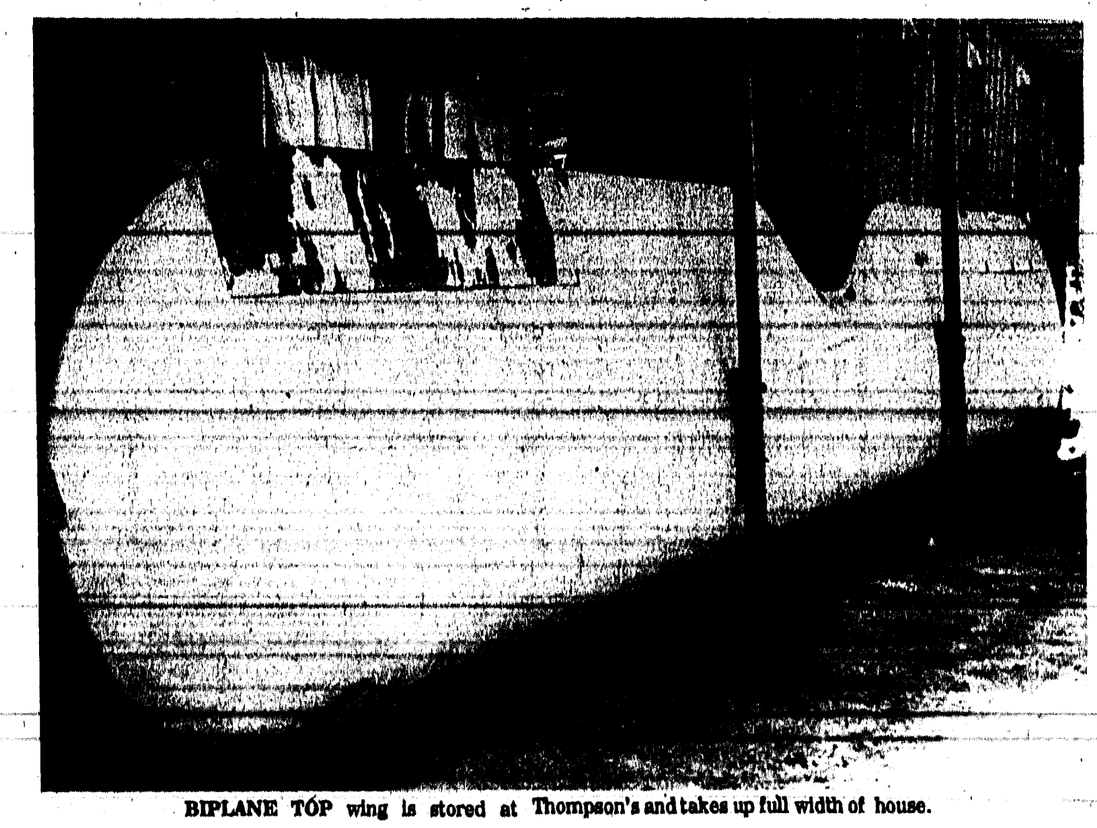
Anyone out there got an American Navy N3N float plane prop in their back yard?

N3N BEFORE dismantling for rebuilding.



THE N3N'S MOTOR

SECHELT'S LANDMARK is no more.



BIPLANE TOP wing is stored at Thompson's and takes up full width of house.

Financial help for high school grads

Some new or larger bursaries will be available to the 1979 graduates to assist them with their post-secondary education. These will be presented at graduation ceremonies.

The Bursary and Loan Society also wish to extend some assistance to students in second and third years. For this and subsequent years (funds permitting), a bursary will be available for such a student.

Requests should be directed to an officer of the society (eg. Mrs. B. Rankin, Sechelt) or to a school counsellor by September 1, 1979.

Funds contributed to the Canadian Cancer Society and allocated to research are used to build laboratories at research centres; to pay the salaries of full-time scientists, laboratory technicians and assistants; to provide training for young investigators who are prepared to undertake a career in cancer research and to buy essential materials.

THE PORPOISE BAY picnic was an ice-cream treat, too.

Trips a success

By HANNAH ANTHONYSZ

Two weeks ago, Saturday, June 2, Mr. Victor Pepper took the kids on his bus route to Vancouver on a field trip. The trip consisted of a tour through the CBC studios and going to Stanley Park and McDonalds. This trip was a success.

Last week, Saturday, June 9, he took the other kids who did not go to Vancouver to Porpoise Bay for a picnic. The food, games and ocean were great and very satisfying. This also was a success.

Book Look

By MURRIE REDMAN

THE CHINA SYNDROME is based on the screenplay from the movie of the same name. It is the story of a near accident in a thermo-nuclear plant in Los Angeles.

A "China syndrome" is when the uranium pellet which powers huge generators, drops out of its housing to burn its way to "China". Of course if this did happen, as soon as the highly radio-active pellet burned its way to the water table, vast amounts of water vapour permeated with radio-activity would rise to destroy all life above it. A wide area would become uninhabitable, and for years, cases of cancer would affect those in proximity to the accident.

The likelihood of these kinds of accidents occurring is a reality as the Three Mile Island incident demonstrated. As in this story, it was human error at some point that caused the problem that led to the event we all know about.

In THE CHINA SYNDROME the problem lay with a careless welding contractor who had such confidence in his work that he produced multi x-rays of his welding job on one weld as representative of all the others. It saved him a lot of time, and besides, he was fully confident that his stainless steel welds would last for centuries.

As the Ventana plant was being built and all safety systems incorporated with back ups in the event of a disaster, no one suspected that the humble weld in a water pump could be the cause of so much trouble.

The book opens at Kimberley Wells, A-team video reporter, and her cocky cameraman prepare to do a story on the Ventana Thermo-nuclear Plant. Richard, the cameraman, prides himself as a protestor against whatever cause enjoys current favour.

Out at the plant during the interview, a near miss takes place, but Richard secretly photographs the whole thing on video-tape. He refuses to believe the sweating PR man who tosses the incident off as a "drill".

The corporate biggies get into the act when they suspect that there is a secret film. Owner of the TV station and president of the nuke plant decide to cooperate. The PR man, an honorable guy down deep, discovers the weld weakness and tries to close down the plant. Only the media folk respond to his proposal, so he enlists their help, first forcing his way into the control room at gun point.

Plant owners in a desperate attempt to stop him, call in a SWAT crew hoping they will gun down the PR man whom they say is mad. In the meantime, plant managers have managed to bypass the control room circuitry and start up the generators again, thus aggravating the weak weld. Any second the entire nuclear plant threatens to blow.

It is an exciting ending, one that should not be spoiled. The movie sounds both timely and certainly suspenseful. As a piece of writing, the book just does not have it — few screen plays do. If you cannot see the film, however, the book keeps you current on what is a most popular topic.

There is the usual stereotypical characterization: classy, brassy female reporter, rebellious young cameraman, smooth but honest PR man and the dirty industrialists. It is the media representing the people against the corporate biggies — nothing new there. What is new is the terminology.

The layperson can pick up information about the basics of thermo-nuclear operation and its dangers. He can also "try on" the dilemma of nuke power versus other kinds. He can ponder over whether he wants to take a chance on his future or be nice and cosy now and let the devil take tomorrow.

The PR man in the book summarizes: "Godell was not a fanciful man. His background was engineering, science and technology. Yet he could never come into this place without wondering if he was looking at a preview of hell."

WHAT'S IT LIKE TO FLOAT?

Drawn by Michael Ppolawski

How do you think it would feel to be weightless; to travel in a rocket ship without the pull of gravity to hold you and your belongings down? Astronauts say it is fun. It is like swimming under-water — without the water! You could lift both feet and not fall. Astronauts must have special equipment to use while working in space under weightless conditions. The slightest push could send them floating across the room or space craft. Their shoes are fitted with large suction cups. They have special foot holders and hand holders to use when working in one place for any length of time. They often find their equipment and tools floating around near the ceiling. Their food will float off their plate or spoon before it can get to their mouth, so theirs plates are designed with special fitted lids.

Astronauts are still testing the effects of weightlessness on the human body and on machines. They must know a great deal about it and be ready to solve weightless problems before making long trips into space.

JUST FOR FUN

A rooster's unruffled, abroad or at home,
Because he always carries a comb.

When a thief stole his pig,
The farmer swore,
Then said, "I've not got
Hahgany more.
(My hog any more.)

Your case is a hard one",
Grumbled the fox,
As he pounded the oyster
On the rocks.

Sam said he would pick me some lilacs,
But not one bloom did he bring,
Though Sam's a whole lot of fun,
He can lilac anything.

Jill laughed all through her operation,
Which made the doctor shake his head.
When at last he called, "What in creation?"
"You've got me in stitches," Jill said.

He Threw her off a cliff,
But it wasn't enough.
"That cliff," she told her mother,
"Was just a bluff."

MAKE IT

VICTORIAN SANDWICH

Here is a special dessert you can make for someones birthday or any special occasion:

1 - two layer cake mix, white or yellow.
Fruit jelly or perserves.
1 recipe of icing (see side of icing sugar box)

Prepare cake mix according to the directions on the box. Cool on a rack. When cool carefully split the layers in half, so that you have four layers. Fill each layer with about 1/2 cup of jelly. When you have all the four layers filled and fitted together, carefully ice your cake and its ready to serve.

YOU'VE ALL heard the story of the Three Little Pigs who got their house blown down but now you have the picture of the Three Little Hams who got caught in a net at the Pender Harbour school's sports day last week.

Deserted Bay report

By JENNIFER HOPKINS

Well, I guess you heard the Grand Opening was switched from June 20 to the 13, so this week was dedicated to the clean up of the camp.

Landscaping was done, also the steps around the camp were painted and the buildings were cleaned out. Considering the weather was not so good the first two days we did an excellent job in getting the outside work done.

The Indian Arts and Carving people got their work almost finished, and their carvings and painting will go on exhibit in the Grand Opening.

The final projects that we are doing for our school work are almost finished, so we are getting our school work finished off also.

June is here and even though this program was an enjoyable one, (no-classrooms-wise) we can hardly wait for summer vacation.

We would like to thank Chatelech Junior Secondary for the sports equipment. We are going to have a badminton tournament sometime next week.

Hope the parents and guests enjoy themselves at the Opening. See you there.

$25,000 is raised in student Milk Run

What on earth could cause 150,000 people to pour into the streets of B.C., cover 13 km, and come panting across the finish line to donate a total of $25,000 to the handicapped children of British Columbia in just two hours?

The "Milk Run" . . . there has never been an event like it. April 25 marked the beginning of something beautiful.

The B.C. Federation of School Athletic Associations put it all together, the B.C. Dairy Foundation supplied milk for everyone, and over 6,000 children served by the British Columbia Lions Society for Crippled Children will reap the benefits.

Of more than 200 schools that participated in the "Milk Run", including local schools, it is estimated that the average rate of participation within those schools was an incredible 90 per cent! At Comox Junior Secondary the participation rate was as high as 250 per cent because the whole town came out in force.

Saturday, June 2 at Swangard Stadium, Rick Mark (President of the B.C. Federation of School Athletic Associations) presented a cheque to Paul Gauthier (Timmy) and Tom Tait (Provincial Easter Seal Chairman) for the amount of $25,000.

It was a tremendous contribution from B.C.'s students who, in the process of helping their peers, made sure that everyone got out for a day of sun and fresh air and really felt good about it.

The funds raised will be used to support the ongoing projects of the B.C. Lions Society for Crippled Children which include 118 Easter Seal Buses, 3 Easter Seal Camps, Easter Seal House and Direct Patient Care Services.
