B. C. Mining

The Elkhorn mine in Greenwood has about completed a car of ore for shipment. It is expected the ore will average about $125 per ton.

Half a section of the War Eagle (Phoenix) compressor has been taken down and shipped to the Molly Gibson mine, near Nelson. Geo. Pratt, of Trail, was in charge of the work.

The low level crosscut tunnel of the Phoenix-Greenwood Tramway company is now in 3,000 feet; the company are now entitled to the grant of $15,000 from the city of Greenwood for the work performed. Attention will now be directed to the various leads encountered.

A very fine vein has been uncovered by surface work on the Apex, near New Denver, says the Slocan Record. Five assays gave returns as follows: No. 1, 256.4 ounces of silver and 45 per cent. lead; No. 2, 205.2 oz. of silver and 50.2 per cent lead; No. 3, 55.6 oz. of silver; No. 4, 117.2 ounces of silver and 50.6 per cent lead; No. 5, 227.2 oz. of silver. These samples were taken along about 100 feet of the vein.

The opening up of the Standard mine at Silverton has resulted in the operation of the Alpha and the Anacortes properties which were prospected by the Standard's four tunnels, which traversed the other's property. James McNaught, of New York, who is the principal owner of the Alpha and Anarcortes, has just paid the mine a visit, with the object of making suitable arrangements with the Standard company to permit of his ore being shipped through the Standard's tunnels and over the latter's tramway.

A Promising Group

Angus McDonald and son returned this week from the Slocan district, where they have been doing some development work on their claims. They are greatly pleased at the latest showing on their property which is situated about four miles from Sandon and a railway. The claims which are known as the Christina group adjoins the Richmond-Eureka, and also a part of the Slocan Star, sold this summer for $600,000. The development on the property include a 45 feet tunnel, with ore in various places. On the Ontario a tunnel has been driven 50 feet, and a winze sunk 45 feet, at the bottom of which eight inches of carbonate ore was encountered. On the Christina a tunnel has been driven 200 feet, and assays from this property ran about $150 per ton in silver and lead.

PROGRESS AT HIDDEN CREEK

J. P. Graves, vice-president and general manager of the Granby Consolidated, has the following to say of the company's new property, at Hidden Creek, Goose bay, British Columbia: "The Cabin Bluff ore shoot, the smaller of the two main out crops on our Hidden Creek property, contains a fine body of ore. We have drilled five or six holes in this ore shoot; some of these have been drilled 800 feet continuously in ore, and the cores from the lowest parts of the holes, which are about sea level, give an average assay return of three per cent copper. The last cross cut through this ore shoot was in ore averaging six per cent copper across 125 feet.

"The tunnel through the Cabin Bluff has been extended to the Mammoth Bluff. It was within 15 or 20 feet of the beginning of the ore shoot in the latter when I left the mine. This is much the larger ore body, and its grade will shortly be demonstrated. So far our operations have indicated that it will average at least three to four per cent in copper."

"About 500 feet back round the hill and 200 feet higher than the Cabin Bluff, another and larger exposure of ore was discovered and named the Mammoth Bluff. This ore deposit has been prospected by several tunnels, in all 350 feet in length.

"There are several smaller showings on this hill, and these, with the Cabin and Mammoth Bluffs have been prospected by 2,000 feet of open cut, beside the tunnels. To tap these ore bodies at depth and form a main working tunnel, a long drift has been started on the hillside 200 feet vertically below the Cabin Bluff, and when the property was visited this drift was in 732 feet. At 480 feet in, the ore seen in the Cabin Bluff above was struck, the tunnel cutting through it, the strike of the ore being N. 10 deg. W., dip 65 deg. W. The thickness of the ore body is estimated at from 35 to 40 feet, running from four to five per cent copper. Drifts 70 feet long have been run on either side of the tunnel in ore all the way, the direction of the tunnel being 90 deg. from the strike of the ore.

"Round the hill to the south 265 feet, and at an elevation of 100 feet above, the main tunnel, a drift known as the Pyrites tunnel, is being driven to connect with a raise from the main tunnel. For the first 100 feet this tunnel runs through loose granular pyrites crystals, made up of small detached iron pyrites crystals, similar to those found on the Ecstall pyrites deposits, near the Skeena river. At 100 feet in, solid mixed iron and copper pyrites ore was struck, containing four per cent copper for ten feet, when a lower grade iron sulphide ore was met with, and the tnnnel is still in this ore at 200 feet from the portal.

"The vertical height between the main tunnel and the top of the Mammoth Bluff deposit is 450 feet, and with the prospecting done it is reasonable to infer that the ore shoot is continuous for this vertical distance. The horizontal boundaries of this ore body have not been clearly defined, but it is probably some 600 feet in length by 20 to 25 feet in thickness, containing three to four per cent in copper.

"At the Cabin Bluff showing there is a considerable depression in the ground, which appears to have been caused by the oxidizing and dissolving out of the pyrites ore body, and there is a large deposit of hematite in a flat of ten acres to the south of the ore showings, where this dissolved out ore has been re-deposited. Samples of this deposit gave the following assay returns: Iron, 60 per cent; gold, 0.10 oz.; copper, 0.2 per cent.

"The country rock in the vicinity of the ore body is made up of altered argillites or shales, traversed by felsite, diabase and porphyry dikes, these dikes being of later origin than the ore. In some parts of the deposits there is a vein filling of quartz, but the main body is composed of solid sulphide ores.

"For the last month we have been employing 150 men, and the force is gradually being added to. All the engineering work in connection with the equipment of the property has been completed. The right of way for the tramway from the mine to the ore bunkers on tide water, a distance of a mile, has been cleared, as, too, have the sites for the ore bunkers and wharves.

"A sawmill, having a capacity of 40,000 feet per day is in operation, and an electric light plant is being installed in connection with the old water power. The construction of a dam higher up the creek will shortly be commenced; this dam will give a head of 350 feet, and will provide water for the development of 3,500 electrical horsepower for our new plant.

"The head employees of the company are still collecting data that will determine the company's policy with regard to the treatment of its ore. When all the necessary data shall have been obtained, we shall decide whether for the present we shall send the ore to a custom smelter or at once proceed to erect our own reduction works."

Crow's Nest Outlook

Reports from the coal regions of late have been of a contradictory character. Last week it was reported the miners and operators were in a conciliatory mood, and that the end of the trouble was about to be reached. On the other hand the opposite is the case. Calgary appears to be taking no chances; the city council having placed orders for 56,000 tons of coal from Pennsylvania. In the coal region of the Crow's Nest the mine management are conducting an energetic system of prospecting, with excellent results. At Morrisey and Coal creek very large seams of coal have been found, one of them being nearly 90 feet in thickness.

A despatch to the Daily News on Thursday says: "The strike and its possibilities have again become a matter of concern to the people of Fernie and all the Pass district.

The coming election of next year's officers for district 18, seems to be the only thing of much interest to the miners, but that is quite a long way off and it is hoped that a settlement may be reached before that event comes round."

The Granby company are carrying out some alterations with their boilers which it is confidently expected will lessen the consumption of fuel and materially increase the heating power for the radiators, etc. The boilers are being removed from their old position near the barn and installed at a point considerably lower. A number of men are now engaged on the foundation and a structure measuring 25x41 feet is to be erected.

Death After a Scratch.

Morris Quatsam, an eleven-year-old Windsor boy, fell off his bicycle and scatched his wrist. He thought nothing of the injury, but blood poison set in and he is dead.

Such incidents as these—by no means infrequent—ought to make people realize the danger that may lie even in the smallest flesh wound.

Take a simple illustration. When a knife, a rusty needle, a splinter of dirty wood, a barbed wire fence, or a thorn scratches the hand, the latter is inoculated with germs, of which the air about us is full.

The way to avoid serious results is to cleanse the wound and apply Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk is a powerful, yet painless germ-killer, and when applied to the broken skin is absorbed into the tissue, instantly destroying the germs that spread disease and stopping the pain and smarting. That is why Zam-Buk is so popular with children.

The flesh thus soothed and purified, the wound is made perfectly healthy, and all poison and cause of festering removed. Having done this, Zam-Buk then proceeds to heal the wound or sore, and new healthy tissue is built up in a quick, painless and perfect manner.

Zam-Buk must not be confused with ordinary ointments. Zam-Buk is a unique preparation, possessing anticeptic, soothing and healing qualities that are not to be found together in any other preparation. It is not only a unique healing balm, but is also a skin food. For all skin diseases and injuries—cuts, bruises, burns, eczema, chafing, ulcers, ringworm, etc., it is without equal. It is also used widely for piles, for which it may be regarded as a specific. All druggists and stores sell at 50 cents a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful imitations.

Putting Her Wise

Olaus Jeldness, a prominent mining man of Spokane, not being blessed with a son, is teaching his eldest daughter some of the principles of mining. Miss Randle Jeldness is a graduate of an eastern college. As a first lesson, he recently took her with him to the Slocan district of British Columbia. "There are a number of splendid mines in the Slocan, and more are certain to be discovered," said Mr. Jeldness. "As a consequence the opportunities for both prospectors and operators of experience in that country are so encouraging that I greatly regret the fact that I have over looked it for so many years in favor of remote fields.

"Both my daughter and myself were most faborably impressed with the social, educational and business conditions of the mining camps we visited in British Columbia. There is a total absence there of that roughness which too frequently is conspicuous in our mining camps. Wherever the elevation is not too high, as at Nelson, Kaslo, New Denver and Silverton, all of which are at considerably lower elevations above sea level than Spokane, fruit raising is an important industry. A large acreage is being put into orchards each year, and the older orchards produce some of the finest fruit I have ever seen. So far as cherries are concerned there is no section on the Pacific coast that can touch them."

"After leaving Kaslo we visited several mines in the dry ore belt, to the north of Bear lake. To inspect one of them we ascended a mountain nearly 8,500 feet above sea level. For a girl just out of school, with no road but a prospector's trail, I think this was a severe initiation."

Famous Artist In The Rockies

Albert Groll, the noted New York landscape artist likes the Canadian Rockies. Mr. Groll has spent several weeks in the mountains sketching scenes along the Canadian Pacific Railway and he is enthusiastic over the beauty of the mountains. Stopping over at Duluth on his way back to Broadway, he was interviewed by a paper of that city.

"It is a beautiful country," said Mr. Groll, "and there are boundless opportunities for the photographer and the artist to get into close touch with nature. Even if the artist never leaves the lines of the C. P. R. there is plenty of magnificent scenery to satisfy the most ardent seeker of beauty." He predicts a big inroad of American tourists into the Canadina Rockies next year.

Pleasant Results

The following despatch from London will be interesting, not only to those who contributed to the rejection of the reciprocity agreement, but for all Canadians:

"The result of the elections in Canada has given financial interests immense confidence in Canada. The stock exchange was jubilant over the news that reciprocity had met with such irretrievably disaster. There has been no hiding the fact that for the last few weeks financial circles have been much disturbed over the probable effect on Canada of the adoption of reciprocity. Not only is the stock exchange naturally conservative and intensely imperial, but it was felt that the agreement would be bound to affect railway and other earnings, however much the politicians might play for broader markets. There is an immense sum of British money invested in Canada, outside merely mortgage and debenture bonds, that would have been profoundly affected by the treaty, and which had absolutely no say in the matter one way or the other. Thousands of small investors all over the country have lumped their investments through some financial house, and one and all were interested in the present elections.

In consequence never has there been shown such intense interest in the result of a Dominion election as this one. Every man on the stock exchange was talking over the great news, and it was admitted on all sides that the result would give an immense impetus to investments in Canadian securities. There is likely to be more demand than ever for British money for Canadian in-industry, and what is more important there is likely to be more demand from investors in the United Kingdom for Canadian securities. Perfect confidence has been restored and such confidence means money.

If Canada had deliberately planned to advertise herself all over Great Britain in a more sensational manner it would have been impossible to conceive of a better method. That the result means a flow of millions sterling to Canada there can be no doubt."

Importation of Deer Stopped

The Vanvonver Province says: Because the government at Ottawa declared that red deer were ruminating animals and might be infected with foot and mouth disease said to be prevalent among sheep in Great Britain the importation of a large herd of these animals to British Columbia from the old country this fall was prevented. It is intimated that now there has been a change in the political complexion of the power at Ottawa this embargo will be removed, but so far as immediate shipment of the deer is concerned the mischief has been done and it will be impossible to bring the animals to this province till next fall.

Months ago the British Columbia government made arrangements for the importation of the deer and a large herd was picked, crated and landed on the docks at Liverpool for shipment. It was then the Dominion authorities stepped in with a claim that because they were ruminating animals the deer might be infected with the foot and mouth disease. Veterinaries who examined the deer declared they were free from any disease and were in excellent condition, but the Dominion authorities remained obdurate, even in the face of representations made by Hon. W. J. Bowser, attorney-general of British Columbia, that the animals should be permitted to land in Canada.

It is the intention of the provincial government to stock the forests of British Columbia with red deer. A receiving station had been established in New Westminster district, and after being kept there for a time the animals were to be distributed to various parts of the province. The pending introduction of these animals to British Columbia has aroused a great deal of interest among sportsmen.

A Vancouver Eisteddfod

An executive meeting of the Vancouver Cymrodorion society was held in the O'Brien Hall, recently, says the Vancouver Province, D. G. Williams occupying the chair. It is the intention of the society to hold an Eisteddfodd in Vancouver, on St. David's Day, March 1, 1912. Two letters were read during the meeting, one from the Lieutenant-governor, and the other from Premier McBride, in which both expressed appreciation of the Eisteddfodd, and were pleased to extend to it their patronage. The Eisteddfodd is a distinctly Welsh institution, the primary object of which is to bring to the front all that is best in science, art and literature. It is in a great measure owing to this institution that the Welsh people have gained such prominence in the world of music, and made the little principality known the world over as the "land of poetry and song."

The society proposes to make the Eisteddfod an annual institution in Vancouver, and proposes conducting it on similar lines to the National Eisteddfod of Wales. Cash prizes and medals will be given to encourage the contestants in the various branches of competition, and competent adjudicators will be appointed to make the awards.

The programme of Vancouver's first Eisteddfod will consist chiefly of literary and musical selections. The literary section will include essays, poetry and elocution. The musical section will embrace choral competitions for mixed and male voice choirs, soloists and instrumentalists.

Body of Swiss Guide Found

The body of a Swiss guide, perfectly preserved, has been yielded up by one of the Swiss glaciers after a period of 23 years. In 1888 he fell into a crevasse. His body was lately recovered, its appearance unchanged by its long imprisonment in the ice. This is one of many instances. In 1866, Henry Arkwright, a British officer, was lost in the ice. Just 31 years after his brother received a telegram from the mayor of Chamonix, stating the body had been recovered. Every article of clothing was intact. His name and regiment could be read distinctly on his handkerchief, and his gold pencil case opened and shut as easily as when he had last used it, three decades before.

That the law and the mounted police are no respecter of persons, is evident from the statements of a party of Calgary duck hunters who have returned from Brooks with the story that the Duke of Sutherland and other members of the duke's party were arrested by the mounted policeman stationed at that point and fined for shooting duck without the necessary license. It was at the instigation of the duke that a policeman was stationed at Brooks, the duke being the first to be arrested.

Spokane Interstate Fair

Birdman Eugene B. Ely will fly at Spokane fair after all. Word was received this week by Manager Cosgrove that the Glen Curtiss Co. after deciding that Ely could not come west had made arrangements at last to assign the Curtiss star to the Interstate fair aviation meet. Ely is famous the world over for his spectacular flights to and from the deck of the battleship Pennsylvania in San Francisco bay. He has been one of the most prominent contestants at the recent big meets in Chicago and Boston.

Cromwell Dickson will accompany Ely. He is the youngest of the Curtiss aviators, and holds a record for fancy manoeuvres made while trying for his pilot's license.

Every inch of indoor space has been taken up, and the management has found it necessary to order an overflow tent to accommodate the crowded-out exhibits, even larger than was used last year.

Yukon Season Closing

Slush ice is forming in the tributaries of the Yukon and Tanana rivers and the big streams will be closed to navigation about the end of September, except the Upper Yukon, between White Horse and Dawson, which will be open probably until the middle of October. The last boat left Fairbanks for Dawson, 21st. The last boat from Dawson for Fairbanks will depart on the 25th. The last boat from Dawson for White Horse will probably sail on October 10th. The usual fall exodus from the lower Yukon is now in full swing. The present season has been very prosperous for the steamboats. Much more freight than usual was taken into the Yukon via St. Michael. Great quantities of freight are being rushed to Dawson over the White Pass route to carry the Yukon camps through the winter.

Big Reward For Capture

The total reward for the capture of the robbers who plundered the Bank of Montreal's New Westminster branch has been increased to the snug fortune of $32,000. Mr. Campbell Sweeny has been notified by the head office in Montreal that the directors had decided to increase the first reward of $5,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the desperadoes, and five per cent of whatever sum was returned. Now the lucky detectives will receive $5,000 and ten per cent, which would be an additional $27,000 if the entire amount stolen should be returned. The sum carried away from the bank being something over $270,000.

Riot in Australian Parliament

After an hour's battle during the session when four members made a fistic onslaught on the speaker of the House, reserves of police being required to extricate the struggling mass of members on the floor of the House, a truce has been declared. The speaker was badly cut by a heavy book and several members suffered bad scalp wounds. The disturbance came as a climax to several days' obstruction by the opposition.

New Glaciers Discovered

After two months spent in the Rockies, the celebrated explorers and mountaineers, Dr. Collie and A. L. Mumon of London, England, have returned to Edmonton. Their explorations led them into hitherto untravelled regions north west of Mount Robson. In some places the forests were so impenetrable that a way had to be cut through. They made several discoveries. In one place they came across two great glaciers as large or larger than any known to exist in the Rockies, and sighted a towering peak that had the appearance of being even higher than Mount Robson. One of the glaciers was 40 to 59 miles in length, and seven or eight miles in width. The formation was striking.

Comet Visible

T. S. H. Shearman, of the Vancouver meteorological station, has observed the new comet, which was first discovered in July by Dr. Brooks of the Smith Observatory, Geneva, N. Y. It has now made its nearest approach to the earth, and can easily be discerned to the left, and above the western extremity of the Great Dipper. It is visible with the naked eye, but if seen through glasses forms a very bright and interesting object. It can be seen from Vancouver in the early evening hours, and will remain in its present position for about a week.

Death of Louis Colquhoun

Louis Colquhoun, who was one of the Bill Miner trio captured near Kamloops some years ago, and who was serving a sentence of twenty-five years in the penetentiary at New Westminster, for being implicated in the hold up of a C.P.R. express train, died last Saturday in the prison infirmary, He was suffering from consumption. Colquhoun was well and favorably known in Phoenix, having worked here for some time previous to his escapade. If he possessed any vicious habits he never showed any here, and it is generally supposed that in an unguarded moment he allowed himself to be influenced by Miner and his associate. Only recently the matter of a petition for clemency was discussed, but was deferred until after the elections.

Invention Lost

The loss to the world of a wonderful invention through the death of the inventor, was revealed by John A. Britton, secretary of the Pacific Gas Association, at the meeting of the association last week. Britton said that the inventor, through the use of alluminum had made cloth water proof. Britton desired such a water proof cloth in order to protect meters and other gas appliances from moisture. Before he was able to secure the secret formula the inventor died.
