A LIBERAL INDICTMENT

The Huntingdon Gleaner on the Laurier Ministery.—False To Their Pledges and the Principles They Professed in Opposition.—No Credit Coming to it For National Prosperity.

The Huntingdon Gleaner, an influential Liberal organ in the Eastern townships has come out flat footed against the record of the Laurier government. In a recent issuie it says:

For four years a Liberal government has been in office, backed by a powerful majority. Holding office for four years under most favorable conditions for carrying out reforms, with a surprising increase of revenue and an entire absence of irritating questions to divide the house, have the ministers at Ottawa fulfilled the pledges on the strength of which the people placed them in power?

Let fact answer.

They were to keep down the public debt. They have increased it by eight million dollars. They declared the business of the country could be carried on with an expenditure of forty millions, they have increased it to over fifty millions; they promised to keep the public lands for the settler, they have voted over nine million acres to railway corporations; they were to protect the farmer against the extortions of the manufacturer, for such elemental necessities of the farm as fence-wire, nails, implements, and coal oil, the Canadian farmer is today paying more than these articles can be bought for in the United States.

These are broad features in the management of the country about which there can be no mistake and in each one we find the Laurier administration has not only failed to fulfil its promises but has done those things for which it condemned the administrations to which it succeeded.

The country is paying 12½ million dollars a year more in taxes than it ever paid before, the debt is growing, and corporations and trusts have extended their bounds and strengthened their clutch.

If the country is prosperous, it is in spite of what the government has done; it is prosperous because Providence has sent good crops, and the prices for farm produce have risen in Europe.

The true Liberal is not to be fooled by names or party cries. He recognizes the right of the farmer and the mechanic to his earnings and that he be taxed no more than is necessary to carry on the government of the country. To tax him to benefit the manufacturer, the railroad lord, or the monopolist is an outrage to be resented. The true Liberal wants neither bureaucrats nor aristocrats, and will never consent to having a standing army or crook the knee to a privileged class of any kind. He seeks equality in society, freedom in trade, and the preservation of the land for those who cultivate it.

If a government that has bolstered manufacturers, enriched monopolists, subsidized railway schemers, given away millions of acres of the public heritage, endeavored to create a class distinction, and increased the military establishment, can be truly called Liberal, then those who hold the views which the Gleaner endeavors to express are not Liberals.

Meanwhile we will continue to be of the opinion that the Ottawa ministers have been FALSE to their promises and the principles they professed while in opposition, and that the Liberals should, at least, insist on Sir Wilfrid reconstructing his cabinet.

Exclusion of Mongolians.

Capt. Tatlow, representing Vancouver, is the latest legislator to grapple with the question of the exclusion of Mongolians. Thursday he introduced a measure for the regulation of immigration, which, is is fondly hoped, will not only exclude the offending Oriental, but, what is more important, will evade the disallowance prerogative.

It revives the old educational test in a new form. Under its provisions the immigration to British Columbia of any person who is unable to write out and sign an application to the Provincial Secretary in some European language is declared to be unlawful.

Billiard Room in Connection with Brown's Tobacco Store.

The Spokane Industrial Fair.

Last year the mineral department was universally pronounced one of the best, if not the best at the exposition, and this year there is every indication that there will be a still better display of the mining resources of the Northwest. The exhibitors who were there last year will return with better displays this time, and a number of districts which never before have been present promise to be on hand this time, for all now recognize the value of this opportunity to advertise their camps.

MOUNT STEPHEN'S SUMMIT.

The Giant of the Canadian Rockies Ascended by an American Lady.

The ascent of Mount Stephan, the giant of the Rockies, was recently made by a Winnipeg gentlemen, who was accompanied by a couple of Swiss guides which the Canadian Pacific Railway company has stationed at several points along the line through the mountains. The height of Mount Stephen is 8,000 feet about the railway track.

They started at 5:45 in the morning and reached the summit 12:30. The journey is hazardous enough to be interesting to the most daring, and toilsome enough to prevent the great majority of tourists from accomplishing it. In places the perpendicular ascent is only possible by means of ropes. On the summit the Winnipeg climber attached his hankerchief to a pole which was already there, having been put in position some four or five years ago by an Englishman, who, so far as known, was the first man to ascend Mount Stephen. It took him three days to go and return, of course, with out a guide. While at the summit he attached a Union Jack to the pole. Last year Mr. Ferrier, from the Mount Stephen house, ascended to the summit and brought back with him a shred, all that was left of the Union Jack. So far as is known, those are the only people who had previously reached the summit. He and his party left the summit at 2 p. m., and reached the Mount Stephen house about 7. The day after he left the house an American gentleman and his sister, with two guides were going to endeavor to reach the summit. It was a great feat for a lady to undertake, but she accomplished it successfully. They had a beautiful day, and took several views. The lady stood the trial exceedingly well, and certainly performed a great feat.

THE PROVINCIAL ESTIMATES.

Twenty Nine Thousand for This Constituency.—Mineral Tax Increased.

VICTORIA, Aug. 14.—The estimates were considered in the government caucus last night. The mineral tax is to be increased to two per cent on all mines whose output amounts to more than two carloads a month.

The estimated receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1901, were presented to the legislature this afternoon. The estimated revenue is $1,759,239, an increase of a quarter of a million, and the expenditure $2,220,388, also a large increase. Among the votes are $17,400 for schools in East Kootenay, and $48,760 for schools in West Kootenay. There is $30,000 appropriated to complete the court house at Rossland.

The Kootenay votes for roads, streets, bridges and wharves are Revelstoke $20,000; Slocan $38,865; Nelson $11,200; Rossland $22,250. There is $13,000 for the agent-general's office in London.

There is $12,000 appropriated for the waggon road to Carnes Creek.

WOULD BEAT THE SLOGAN.

Would the Fish River Camp, if it Only Had Railway Connection.

Prof. F. R. Blochberger returned Sunday night from the Lardeau country, where he went with Hugh Hastings, M. E., to examine the Silver Dollar group, adjoining the Beatrice, on which the Anglo-Lardeau Gold Mining syndicate, which he represents, took a working bond. He has eight men at work on this property sinking a shaft and driving a crosscut tunnel, the latter being in about 200 feet. The ledge is 10 to 15 feet wide on the surface with about a foot of ore in the shaft.

Mr. Blochberger also went to look after the property of the Kingston Gold mines, of Portland and New York, and found that a ledge of quartz 38 feet wide had been uncovered, carrying high grade galena ore which assays $125 and upwards. He speaks very highly of the country and says that, if it had a railroad, it would beat the Slocan in production.—Rossland

The Kootenay Brewery.

J. E. Long of the Kootenay Brewery is making considerable additions and improvements to his place of business. He has erected an addition 28x18 approached by a gallery, which adds considerably to the attractive appearance of the premises. This addition consists of a spacious store room built over a cellar, which is to be bricked and cemented inside throughout. Another addition is in contemplation consisting of an extension on the side of the building which will give a cellar 40 feet long and 14 feet high in which the vats will be installed, above will be build a store room of the same extent. When these additions to the building are complete, Mr. Long intends to duplicate his present plant in order to enable him to keep pace with the constantly increasing demand for his fine ales, beer and porter. For malting purposes Mr. Long considers that the Edmonton barley beats the world for its dry, clear kernel and consequent suitableness for brewing purposes.

PEKIN REACHED

She Allied Army Arrived there Monday—Dewet Making North with Kitchener in Hot Pursuit.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—"I learn from a thoroughly trustworthy Chinese source that the army of allies reached Pekin on Monday," says the Chefoo correspondent of the Journal and Advertiser in a cable dated Tuesday last. "I have every reason to believe that the army forced an entrance and the friends are probably now safe with the Christian army."

KRUGERDORP, Aug. 15—Gen. Dewet has crossed the Krugerdorp-Potchefstroom railway and is making to the north in order to join Commandant Delarey, who is holding Teustenburg. Kitchener and the other generals are pursuing and pressing him hard. His force is reported to be beyond Ventersdorp.

PRACTICALLY SETTLED

The Province Says the Strike in the C. P. R. Shops is Drawing to a Close

The Vancouver Province is informed on good authority that the C. P. R. machinists' strike is practically at an end, a settlement of the outstanding causes of difference having been effected.

The machinists went on strike on August 3rd, and have therefore been idle just twelve days. The order for the strike was given by the central committee at Winnipeg. At intervals of two or three days other allied unions struck in sympathy with the machinists, the last being the local boilermakers, who walked out only yesterday. With the settlement of the original trouble the other strikes, of course, come to an end.

The precise terms of the settlement have not been received, but it is understood that nothing remains now but to use diplomatic language, the ratification of the protocols between the high contracting parties.

The blacksmiths and boilermakers employed in the C. P. R. shops have joined the strike at all points from Winnipeg to the coast. At Vancouver the car repairers and carpenters are all out. The striking employees of the shops here are getting up an entertainment which will be put on in about three week's time.

Copper on Isaac Creek.

H. T. Brewster and H. A. Brown returned on Monday from a trip up Isaac Creek. They went up as far as Smith Creek, about 10 miles and prospected the mountain above. They found a nice ledge of copper ore, on which a claim belonging to a Rossland syndicate is being worked by two Swedish miners. The tunnel is in 140 feet. The ledge is 20 feet across and shews about 8 feet of ore. An extension of the trail up Isaac Creek is needed. As far as it goes, nine miles, it is excellent, but it should be taken further on. The creek is 45 miles in length and all the indications so far discovered on it are exceedingly promising. It is a camp, which when opened up, will be directly tributary to Revelstoke and we should see that it gets its share of attention and expenditure.

Turned the Deal Down.

The city council held a long session on Wednesday when as committee of the whole they struggled with the matter of the proposed deal with the Revelstoke Water, Light and Power Co. After an exhaustive discussion the committee brought in a report that they did not consider the purchase at the company's figures would be a profitable one for the city to make. This report was signed by five members of the committee. There was also a minority report signed by one member recommending the placing of a bylaw to raise the sum asked by the company before the ratepayers and one member was, as a director of the company, excused from voting altogether.

The report of the committee will come up before the council tonight.

MEN'S SHIRT WAISTS

Under the title "Shirt waists for men!" a contemporay reasons out the wisdom of man adopting for summer wear the garment which, sometimes known under the above, has been steadily growing in popularity, as its fair wearers have been growing comfortably cool. The writer says: "A movement for the adoption of the shirt waist as an article of male attire has been started in the United States." The garment in question has been sold for many years in all parts of the States, hundreds of thousands being worn regularly. Should a caller at any dry goods or departmental store in any city in the States ask for blouses he would first be requested to state whether he wished a man's or lady's garment. For ladies' wear it is also known as a shirt waist, but the name blouse is more generally applied. In men's wear this garment is also called a jacket, but the former is generally used. Now, as to the difference in color, there is sometimes little and often none. In men's shirt waists or blouses navy or ultramarine blue, predominates, a sky blue and white check following as a close second, while for indoor wear a white, in twill (not pique) or plain weave, is preferable.

As to make, the male garment does not come under the decree of fashion as regular as its varying sister. It adopted at the outset, which, according to history, was at the building of the great wall of Hadrian and first introduced in Canada at the building of the Lachine canal, either an ordinary folding collar, an extended point or fireman's collar, or felled seam without collar. These are still extant. Neither are the materials of which men's blouses are made, of as varied weaves. Silk, satin, challie, Scotch zephyr, or dimity have not yet appeared nor fancy buttons or blouse sets in jewellery with which to heighten the attractive effect. But neither has man been wearing feathers, birds, flowers or foliage in his hat. eThe cloths preferred for men's blouses are, blue denim, check drilling or gingham, brown duck, plain white drilling and plain or twill cotton. The latter are preferred by paper hangers, plasterers and butchers. A sensible point in the men's waist is seen in the entire absence of tight fitting, the garment usually measuring the same at the several fastenings. It is termed a "box cut." The sleeves are not "mutton chop," but of the old "cedar post" pattern. The shirt waist or blouse, for men has been long in the field, if not long in make, and bids fair to cover the same ground while the laborer continues "worthy of his hire."

BRITISH ELECTIONS NEAR.

The idea that the parliament of the United Kingdom will soon be dissolved grows stronger daily, and with good reason. The present house of commons came into being in 1895, and five years is the ordinary life of a parliament in the old country, though nominally the ministers are elected for seven. There is no need of looking for an excuse, therefore, if Lord Salisbury resolves to ask for the people's judgment on his stewardship. The chances seem to be better for him than they were five years ago. The divisions that brought about Lord Rosebery's downfall are still represented, and in some things appear to be more intense. The anti-Rosebery men are now anti-war men, and the war has commended itself to the mass of the British people. The average voter will not condemn Mr. Chamberlain for the sake of Mr. Kruger, which is what the Radicals practically ask. And the Radicals are the minority of the Liberal party now as they have always been. Their attitude has compelled their sober minded colleagues to vote with the government time and again on issues growing out of the war, and the effect of such a state of affairs is demoralizing in the extreme. As the war has overshadowed all other questions, even the good record in domestic legislation made by the government, the war issue will naturally be the most prominent in the campaign, and probably most effective in deciding how the masses will vote. If the latter theory is borne out the outcome can hardly be other than the extension for another five years of the Liberals wandering in the desert of opposition, and they have deserved it.

THE LATE LORD RUESELL.

Lord Russell of Killowen, the Right Hon. Charles, Lord Chief Justice of England, G.C.M.G., Q.C., LL.D., of the universities of Dublin, Edinburgh and Cambridge, and D.L. for Surrey, was born at Newry, on November 10, 1832, and is the son of Mr. Arthur Russell, of Newry and Seafield House, Rossgregor. He was educated at Trinity college, Dublin, and began his professional career by practicing as a solicitor in Belfast; but coming to London he was called to the bar at Lincoln's Inn in 1859, and became Q.C. and was elected Bencher of Lincoln's Inn in 1872. He entered parliament in the Liberal interests as member for Dundalk, which he represented from 1880 till 1885; and South Hackney, 1885-86, when he became attorney general in the Gladstone administration and was knighted. His powerful and eloquent speech before the Parnell commission was one of the most masterly orations of modern times. He was again appointed attorney-general in 1892. On taking office he gave up the old and well used privilege of retaining his private practice, which had been a very large one, and had latterly brought him in an income of £25,000 a year. In 1893 he was given the G.C.M.G. for his distinguished services as English counsel in connexion with the United States fisheries arbitration in Paris. Both during this arbtration and on the third reading of the home rule bill in the house of commons he delivered very eloquent and powerful speeches; but he was not on the whole, so successful as a parliamentary speaker as at the bar, though he was in constant request as an electioneering orator. On the death of Lord Bowen in 1894 he was appointed a lord of appeal in ordinary, and a life peerage was conferred on him. In July 1894, he was appointed lord chief justice of England in succession to the late Lord Coleridge. As a barrister Lord Russell was long without a rival in the English law courts. He was a sound lawyer, a masterful and often terrible cross-examiner, and a persuasive and weighty pleader before juries, especially in pu-hill or apparently hopeless cases. The list of celebrated cases in which he has been engaged is a very long one. He represented Clement Scott in his action against the late Mr. Sampson of the Referee. In the Chamberlain vs. Barnwell case he secured enormous damages for the plaintiff. He appeared for the plaintiff also in Wilberforce vs. Philips. In the famous Belt case and in the once famouse Convent case, Saurin vs. Starr. In the Chetwynd and Durham arbitration case he was one of the leading counsel, and he defended Mrs. Maybrick in the Maybrick murder case of August, 1899. In 1899 he made his greatest forensic triumph during the Parnell commision. Lord Russell is well known on the turf, and is himself an accomplished horseman. He is a member of the Jockey club. He married in 1858 Ellen, daughter of Joseph Mulholland, M.P. from Belfast.

FROM EUROPE TO AMERICA OVERLAND

Reuter's Agency is informed that Mr. Harry de Windt is leaving next month for the purpose of crossing Siberia to Behring Straits, and thence over the Straits and via the Mackenzie river to Winnipeg and New York. Mr. de Windt attempted a land journey from New York to Paris in 1896, but was captured and imprisoned by the Tebukebis, near East Cape, with such results to his health that the project had to be abandoned. This time he will make the journey in the reverse direction. Proceeding from Paris, he will leave Moscow on August 12, and will travel by the trans-Siberian railway to Irkutsk. Thence he will go to Yakutsk to make final preparations for his journey, which will occupy about 18 months. The explorer will carefully avoid the natives at Oumvadjok, on the Behring Strait coasts of Siberia, who gave him so much trouble on the last occasion, and will proceed direct to the small settlement of East Cape, which is much to the southward of his previous route. There he will remain for four months, when he will be called for by an American whaler, and will be conveyed across the Straits to the Mackenzie river. Mr. de Windt will be accompanied by his servant, Harding, who has been his sole companion on most of his previous expeditions.

GRAPHIC ACCOUNT OF A SKIRMISH IN WHICH

Alberta Boys Lost Their Lives.

H. S. White, special war correspondent of the Manitoba Free Press with the Canadian Mounted Rifles in South Africa gives the following graphic description of the Boer attack at Honings Spruit, in which Sergeant Patterson, Corporal Morden and Trooper Kerr lost their lives and Lieutenant W. M. Inglis, Corporal Miles and Troopers Aspinall and Birney were wounded. He also gives the details of the remarkable duel fought between "Old Waldy" and two Boers, as well as some other news of special interest to the readers of the Herald, some of whom are well acquainted with the men whose names are mentioned:

"The circumstances of the attack on our little force at Honing Spruit are worthy of consideration. Some funny deductions might be drawn from them.

Our Mounted Men's Experience

Before we were attacked, the Boers attacked the camp on the railway about a mile and a half to the south of us. In this camp, besides the two companies of the Shropshires, were 50 men of our own mounted rifles. They were all in D squadron and were under the command of Captain Davidson. The only other officer was Lieutenant Inglis.

At break of day, as was their custom, a Cossack post, consisting of a party of 12 men under Lieutenant Inglis, left the camp to take up a position on a sort of double-headed kopje about a mile away from the camp. Inglis had already posted some of his men on one of the summits of this kopje,and was about to take the rest to the other summit when, to his horror, he saw that it was already in possession of a large party of the enemy, who immediately put their horses into a gallop with the evident intention of cutting off the Canadian rooinek's from their camp. There was nothing, of course, to be done by our men but to get back to the shelter of their camp as quickly as possible.

This they at once proceeded to do—hastily, of course, but in perfect order and without the least display of panic. And yet, never were men in a more critical or more trying position. The Boers were—as they always are—well mounted, on horses that could easily outstrip the poor, tired out beasts that our men could scarcely urge to a canter. Escape seemed hardy possible; but never a thought of surrender entered the minds of our men as they rode steadily towards the camp, every now and then turning to reply to the fire of the pursuing Boers.

It was of course a foregone conclusion that some would never again reach camp alive. It was only a desperate chance that few might escape or whose luck to fall and whose to remain unscatthed were the chances that soldiers must take in the lottery of war. Meanwhile, all did their best to have at least a life for a life of the enemy.

Before this desperate race for life was over many a Boer bullet had found our men. Stricken to death were Sergeant Pattison, Corporal Fred. Morden and Trooper Robert Kerr; while sorely hit, but not so bad but that, with grim determination, they could still stick to their saddles, were Troopers Aspinall, Birney and Corporal T. R. Miles, besides their officer, brave Lieutenant Inglis.

A Remarkable Duel

Meanwhile a duel of an almost melodramatic character was going on between two of the enemy and one of our men—Trooper Waldy—"Old" Waldy, as he was affectionately called by his comrades—has had escapes before, but none, perhaps so sensational as this one wa to be. He has survived the horrors of the "Edmonton trail"; he fell from the Pomeranian on her arrival at Cape Town, and was so severely injured on the head that he was unconscious for over a month; now he had the problem to solve of how to escape from two Boers, who were steadily pursuing him at a distance of about a couple of hundred yards. The Boers' horses were comparatively fresh, while very soon Waldy made up his mind that if he was to escape at all he must depend upon himself and not upon his jaded horse, whom he could scarcely spur into the slowest kind of a jog trot. Promptness of action was his only chance, and on the instant that he made up his mind that his horse could never save him, he dropped from the saddle to the ground, and lying flat, turned to face his pursuers. They were as quick as he and before he could get in a shot they were also prone and scarcely visible among the grass of the hummocky veldt.

It was now a case of straight shooting pure and simple, though with odds against Waldy two to one. But in numbers only. Waldy, as all his neighbors on the Western plains know is no souch with the rifle. Few, indeed, even in this country, where practically every man is a trained shot, we re better marksmen. Upon his ability to shoot straight he decided to take his chances. Lying flat as both he and his adversaries were, it was impossible for either to see the other plainly enough to get a certain shot. Deliberately, therefore, Waldy rose to his knees, in which position he knew he had his foes at his mercy if they missed him long enough to enable hm to get in two shots. It was a fair fight and the best man won. Twice Waldy's rifle spoke, and each time it was the death warrant of one of his adversaries. A couple of minutes, and those two doughty Boers had fought their last fight, while "Old" Waldy calmly ambling along to the shelter of the camp to return that day uninjured. Pattison, Morden and Kerr were dead; Inglis Aspinall Birney and Miles wounded, as I have already said, and now it was discovered that Troopers Bell and Ermatinger were in the hands of the enemy, prisoners, and presumably wounded also, or they would never have allowed themselves to be captured. That accounted for the whole of the party excepting Vernon and Hobbins, and they, we learned later (the following day) turned up safe and sound at Kronstadt. A pretty big proportion of casualties ,in these few minutes, out of 12 men.—three killed; four wounded; two prisoners; also probably wounded; two missing, and only one—doughty "Old" Waldy—safe and sound in camp at the end of this "bad quarter of an hour."

The next morning I went on the hospital train that took the wounded from Honing Spruit to Kronstadt. At the camp of the Shropshires we picked up our unfortunate Canadian comrades. Lieutenant Inglis, I found on his back on a stretcher, enjoying a cigarette, smiling and as "game" as could be, his only regret being that he "couldn't stand up." He was severely hurt I found, but not in any way dangerously; and the doctor assured me that no bones were broken and he would suffer no permanent injury from his wound. They were all able to walk to the train, though they had had, in one case at least, as many as three bullets through them. It was the old story—the humane Mauser does its work in a courteous and gentlemanly manner, and these comrades of ours, despite even four or six bullet holes, will soon be as fit and as sound as ever they were.

It was the tightest place that any of our mounted riflemen had yet been in, and they got out of it—some of them at any rate—because, as the officer in command of the Shropshire camp said to me: "Those Canadian beggars don't know what fear is."

THE HEATHEN CHINEE

Which I wish to remark—
And my language is plain—
That for ways that are dark
And for tricks that are vain
The heathen Chince is peculiar,
Which the same I would rise to explain.

Ah Sin was his name;
And I will not deny
In regard to the same
What that name might imply.
But his smile it was pensive and childlike
As I frequent remarked to Bill Nye.

It was August the third;
And quite soft were the skies;
Which it might be inferred
That Ah Sin was likewise;
Yet he played it that day upon William
And me in a way I despise.

Which we had a small game,
And Ah Sin took a hand;
It was euchre. The same
He did not understand;
But he smiled as he sat by the table,
With a smile that was childlike and bland.

Yet the cards they were stacked
In a way that I grieve,
And my feelings were shocked
At the state of Nye's sleeve;
Which was stuffed full of aces and bowers
And the same with intent to deceive

But the hands that were played
By that heathen Chinee,
And the points that he made
Were quite frightful to see—
Till at last he put down a right bower,
Which the same Nye had dealt unto me.

Then I looked up at Nye,
And he gazed upon me;
And he rose with a sigh,
And said "Can this be?
We are ruined by Chinese cheap labor"—
And he went for that heathen Chinee.

In the scene that ensued
I did not take a hand
But the floor it was strewed
Like the leaves on the strand
With the cards that Ah Sin had been hiding,
In the game "he did not understand."

In his sleeves, which were long,
He had twenty-four jacks—
Which was coming it strong,
Yet I state but the facts;
And we found in his nails, which were taper,
Which is frequent in tapers, that's wax.

Which is why I remark,
And my language is plain,
That for ways that are dark
And for tricks that are vain,
The heathen Chinee is "peculiar,"
Which the same I am free to maintain.

ATLIN BOOMING

Mr. J. H. Russell Says It Has Come To Stay as a Mining Center.

"Make no mistake about it," said Mr. J. H. Russell, who is in Ottawa, on business with the government, "Atlin as a mining camp has come to stay. It possesses every element of permanency."

In support of this assertion Mr. Russell mentioned that the output this year would be between three and four millions of dollars. Hydraulicing is being carried on upon an extensive scale, Blackett & Co., have a big proposition on Willow Creek; the Sunrise company has put in a $200,000 plant; a company of French capitalists is putting in a large plant on Boulder creek; the White Pass company is operating extensively on Wright creek; and an English company, managed by Mostyn Williams, is taking out gold on Birch creek.

Quartz mining is being carried on by Lord Ernest Hamilton's company on a couple of excellent properties. The ore on Monroe mountain, one of the properties, yields $150 to the ton. This company, after operating a five stamp mill this summer, has just ordered the equipment for a 40 stamp mill which will be put in operation as soon as possible. Several rich quartz deposits are, however, tied up by litigation. When these claims have been straightened out, which will probably be in a couple of months, development will be proceeded with immediately as some of the leads are known to be of great value and extent.

Placer mining is, of course, the main resource of Atlin as yet and the claims are turning out well. One bench claim owned by Charles Lambert and on which he has four men employed, yields $1,000 a day.

Mr. Russell estimates the population of Atlin at 7,000. His faith in the district is evidenced by his investing extensively there, for he has erected a hotel and other buildings, constructed a couple of public wharves on Atlin lake, a sheet of water 100 miles long, and has put in operation a brewing establishment with a capacity of 800 gallons a day.

A late issue of the London Times says: At the sale of Miss Alice de Rothschild's Shorthorns, held at Waddesdon last week, the two year old bull Bashful Youth was sold to Mr. Miller, of Buenos Ayres, for 455 guineas. Mr. MacLeanon, of the same city, gave 120 guineas for Jessie Elmhurst, a prize heifer. Among other buyers were Mr. Tait, for the Queen, Earl Manvess, and Lord Moreton. The sale realized £1,732 10s., or an average of £39 7s. 6d. each.

NARROW GAGE

The Lewiston Journal reports a collision down in the State of Maine, in which no one was injured.

A certain old man who does handsome work with the fiddle at country dances is "great on time," but unless he is argued with he will play "The Girl I Left Behind Me" from 8 o'clock till 12, for every dance except the Virginia reel.

Some of the old dancers were on the floor not long ago, and between dances one of them went up to the fiddler, who sat rubbing the rosin on his bow.

"Uncle," aid the dancer, "all the folks on the floor want you to play old "Speed the Plow" for the next dance. Can't you give it to us"

The old man tucked his rosin into his vest pocket.

"I sh'd like to 'commodate ye fustrate," he said, "but the's suthin' sing'lar 'bout that tune of 'Speed the Plow.' Jest as soon as I 'Speed the Plow' 'long a little ways I run right into 'The Girl I Left Behind Me.'"

"What," he cried. "The same shirt front that had laid trustingly upon it a head of hair as gingery red as your? Not in a thousand!"

He laughed last; but they both laughed equally far from well.

BRIGHT KID

When Alexander was a little boy he was strongly desirous of seeing the ball games.

But how?

"I have it!" quoth the youthful smart Alexander, after much heavy thinking. "In the fence is a knot, which I will punch out!"

No claim is made, bear in mind, that this knot was the celebrated knot of the Gordian episode, with which a certain other Alexander was more or less mingled with.

"Yes," said the titled son-in-law.

Chinese Massacres Still Continue

Shots Exchanged Between the Defenders of the Legations and the Chinese

Disastrous Collision of French Battleships. Nearly all on Board Drowned.—Railroad Accident Killing Several and Wounding 40 Persons.

London, August 10.—Fuller reports of the capture of Pie Tsang and the pursuit of the retreating Chinese have been received. The allies are now moving on Ysang Tsun, the British, Americans and Japanese on one bank of the river and the other foreigners along the opposite bank.

Admiral Seymour has decided to station 3000 British troops at Shanghai, the French are opposing this course.

A cable from Sir Claude Macdonald dated Pekin, August 3, was read in the house of commons. He reports that the rifle fire still continues. The killed number 60 and the wounded 110. Over 200 women are in the British legation.

Field Marshal Count Von Waldersee of the German army is in command of the allies relief force.

The allies captured Ysang Tsung August 6th. The casualties were 200 mostly killed. The Americans lost 60. Ysang Tsun is 18 miles from Tien Tsin.

Li Hung Chang is in despair over the influence of the anti-foreign element in Pekin and he is afraid to leave Shanghai.

Messages have been received from the French and Austrian envoys at the capital.

The text of the United States' ultimatum to China is published, which is described by a British journal as "Idyllic diplomacy."

London, August 11.—The morning papers today express satisfaction at the latest developments in China.

The average comment is that China is now genuinely sueing for peace through Li Hung Chang.

Despatches printed this morning give further details of the taking of Yang Tsun. According to the Daily Mail's correspondent, the attack was led by the Americans and British. The Chinese position consisted of several lines of entrenchments and the enemy fell back from one to another until driven from the last line. They fled toward Pekin completely demoralized. The Chinese say they retreated because the British "poured poison" into their troops. This refers to the lyddite shells which the Chinese then experienced for the first time.

The correspondent adds that the British casualties were 200 and the Americans 250 but this latter estimate, it will be noticed, is four times greater than General Shafter's report.

A St. Petersburg despatch says the Chinese minister there, Yang Yu, has received a telegram announcing that Li Hung Chang is dangerously ill and confined to his bed and that he has been granted a month's leave.

Another St. Petersburg despatch asserts that the Russian general staff has been notified that the Chinese, 12,000 strong, are moving from Hu Nan and Hun Pei to Pekin and Tien Tsin.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily News wiring on Thursday, announces that the Chinese merchants are petitioning the authorities not to land troops.

The only fact in Minister Conger's message not in that of M. Pichon, is the list of American casualties. He reports seven killed and 16 wounded. No action will be taken on the Conger message until President McKinley is heard from.

It is said that under the present conditions Mr. Conger and the other Americans in Pekin will not be advised to leave the Chinese capital with a Chinese escort as all the ministers seem to agree that such a departure would be very dangerous.

London, August 13.—A special despatch from Shanghai dated Friday, August 10, says the British consul-general in replying to the protests of the Chinese merchants against the landing of troops explains that this is merely a precautionary measure due to the fact that the disturbances north are spreading and coming daily nearer Shanghai. He says Kiang Su is already in a state of revolt and that Ta Tung has already had serious roiting the telegraph station being burned.

After the capture of Yang Tsun on August 6th it was arranged that two battalions of Japanese infantry, a squadron of cavalry and a battery of mounted artillery and a company of engineers should march on August 7th in advance of the main body of the allies and occupy Tsai Tsun, five miles north of Yang Tsun.

Other despatches merely repeat the details of the capture of Yang Tsun.

Rome, August 13.—The Chinese foreign office has received the following despatch from the minister in Pekin, Marquis Salvago Raggi, dated August 5:

"Shots exchanged between the defenders of the legation and the Chinese; one killed and two wounded. We have no news from the allies since July 30. We hope they will not delay the advance to Pekin."

Paris, August 12.—Le Patrie publishes the following: "The procurator general of the congregation of Lazarist missionaries, Mgr. Bettembourg informs us that he has just been advised by M. Delasse that according to a despatch from the French consul general at Shanghai, several thousand Christians have been massacred at Pao Ting, east of Pekin. No other details are at hand.

THE BOER WAR

Cape Town, August 10.—Baden Powell's force is returning from Rustenberg with General Ian Hamilton. Lord Kitchener is pursuing General De Wet who crossed the Vaal river and is evidently now fighting with his advance guard, Lord Mehuen's division. General Sir Charles Warren, who was criticized by Lord Roberts severely, has been relieved of his Bechuanaland command and is now on his way to England. General Hutton has forwarded the names of several Canadians for gallant conduct to Lord Roberts.

A tremendous sensation was caused in Pretoria by the discovery of a plot to kill he British officers and capture Lord Roberts. It was unearthed in time and the ringleaders arrested.

Several Canadians, invalided soldiers, sailed for home yesterday.

Later News.

Lord Kitchener has crossed the Vaal river in hot pursuit of General De Wet who is engaging Lord Methuen's force. The latter drove a portion of the enemy into the hills.

WILY BOERS

The Plot Against the British Officers in Pretoria Arouses Indignation

Pretoria, August 10.—The plot to make a prisoner of Lord Roberts and to shoot all the British officers discovered yesterday included a number of townspeople who were in communication with the enemy. It was arranged that the capture and shooting should take place on the evening of Tuesday last.

Intense indignation prevails throughout the British army and the general opinion is that the leniency of the British invited such a conspiracy. No measure for the repression of such plots can be too strong.

London, August 10.—A special despatch from Pretoria says:

"The Boer plot to make a prisoner of Lord Roberts and shoot the British officers, discovered on Thursday, included the recapture of Pretoria and the shooting of Lord Roberts and an attempt to induce the burghers to rise en masse. A number of the suspected accomplices have been conducted across the border. The British authorities have awakened to the danger of allowing Boer sympathizers to remain in Pretoria and the issue of passes to burghers has been stopped.

CANADIANS IN DISGRACE

Two members of the Canadian Mounted Rifles, in South Africa under command of Lieutenant Colonel Lessars, have been tried and found guilty of an offence of the worst nature. The information given to the press is to the effect that T. Hopkins and W. Pearce, formerly of A. squadron, Canadian dragoons, Toronto, have been condemned to 10 years penal servitude for having sold to the Boers arms which were collected from the burghers.

The nominal roll of the Canadian Mounted Rifles shows the name of J. A. Hopkins and W. Pearce as having joined the Royal dragoons. The former's next of kin is given as T. Hopkins, 58 Robinson street, Toronto and the latter's as Mrs. Pearce, of Brantford, Ont.

SOUTH AFRICAN RUMORS

Some Extraordinary Reports Are Being Circulated

Pretoria, August 11.—It is said that Lord Methuen has arrested General DeWet's march.

All the Boers in the field credit a rumor that is circulated by their leaders that Lord Roberts is dying. Roberts, however, is now in excellent health and displaying wonderful energy and rides long distances daily.

It is persistenely rumored in Lorenzo Marquez, according to a despatch to the Daily Telegraph, dated yesterday that Mr. Steyn had committed suicide.

London, August 11.—According to the Lorenzo Marquez correspondent of the Daily Express, president Kruger in the course of an interview last Wednesday, said that the report in London that he was ready to surrender was without foundation. He declared that the war would last a long time yet. "A Boer bulletin," continues the correspondent, "announces a big battle between Lyndenburg and Middleburg in which the British had 500 killed and wounded." It also announces the recapture by the burghers of Hielbron, DeVilliersdorp and Frankfort. Boer reports via Lorenzo Marquez lately have proved worth little credence.

The Pretoria plot is the theme of many editorials in this morning's papers. All the papers descry the idea of treating the Boers too leniently. "Examples, and stern examples," says the Daily mail, "are necessary although we many not agree with Sheridan's fierce maxim that 'nothing should be left the enemy but eyes to weep with,' yet this was the conclusion of a not inhuman officer, who thoroughly understood war."

SOUTH AFRICAN AFFAIRS

London, August 13.—The war office published yesterday the following from Lord Roberts:

"Pretoria, August 11.—The enemy is fleeing from Kitchener's and Methuen's forces. Early this morning he was trying to cross the railway at Wolverden station, where he was engaged by Smith-Dorrien.

"Methuen on August 9th fought a rear guard action near Buffalscht and captured six wagons and two ambulances."

In spite of the fact that General DeWet is in full flight South African telegrams announce a hurried exodus of civillans from Mafeking and that Lord Edward Cecil is preparing to stand another siege.

Johannesburg reports that a patrol from the waterworks was attacked on August 7th.

Buller occupied Amerspoort on the evening of August 7th. The enemy retired before his force about six miles before Amers poort was reached. The casualties were 20 men wounded. Buller was on the north back of the Reitspruit on August 9th on his way to Ermelo.

The France sank immediately. The accident was due to the fact that the France turned to the right when ordered to the left. Details thus far received are very meagre, but only a small portion of the crew, consisting of four officers and six men, were saved.

Later:—It is now known that out of the France's crew 14 were saved.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The opposition to anti-mongolian legislation at Ottawa derives its strength from several sources. There is in the first place a sentimental objection in Eastern Canada, largely fostered by the churches, to exclusion of these people. They call legislation to that effect simply "damnable" and class the B. C. members, who support it with Boers and Boxers. Secondly there is a section of B. C. employers of labor, who are frequent visitors to Ottawa, whose interests are bound up with cheap labor. They tell the people at Ottawa that British Columbia cannot develope her resources without cheap labor and their declaration touches the spot in every member, and they are many, who are in any way interested in B. C. mines. Then there is the opposition of the C. P. R., who not only require the labor of the Mongolian importations, but who, it is stated, would lose $300,000 per annum derived from transporting Chinese to Vancouver, if they were altogether excluded from the province. Lastly there are the utterances of clergymen such as Bishop Perrin and Rev. Mr. Winchester, whose zeal for what they consider fair play to the Chinese largely outruns their consideration for working men of their own blood. Their words, as is only natural weigh largely with people in the East, whose only knowledge of the matter is entirely theoretical, while the arguments of our B. C. members like Col. Prior and Rev. Mr. Maxwell are looked upon as mere gassing to catch the labor vote in this province.

While our members at Ottawa are thus struggling against a combination of sentiment and selfishness, the provincial government at Victoria through Mr. Turner declares a policy of preventing the employment of Chinese throughout the province, wherever they are not necessary. This is rather vague, but Mr. Turner himself apparently places sawmills and canneries in his mental schedule of places where they are necessary. In the meanwhile Mr. Tatlow, a supporter of the government, has still before the house, dragging its slow debate along, a motion which practically amounts to a vote of censure on the Laurier government for not increasing the head tax on Chinese to $500. If we cannot can our salmon and saw our timber without Chinese, what sense is there in asking the Ottawa authorities to exclude them from Canada or how with such divided counsels right in our own legislature can we expect any proposition of our own on the matter to carry any weight with the Dominion government at all.

According to Mr. Turner then we have already in British Columbia arrived at the stage when the presence of Chinese in the province is absolutely necessary to the very existence of the two important industries of canning and sawmilling on the coast. (We say "on the coast" because our lumbermen in Kootenay certainly manage to saw wood without employing Chinamen except to a very limited extent.) That is to say that in 20 years, since Mr. Onderdonk first introduced Chinese into the province to work on his contract for the construction of the western section of the C. P. R., these people have practically cornered the labor market in the two chief industries in the Pacific slope of British Columbia. Both these important industries existed and were carried on presumably by white labor and it is reasonable to suppose profitable, before the Chinese invasion started, but now Mr. Turner tells us that without Chinese labor they must perish. If this is the condition of affairs after 20 years, what state of things does Mr. Turner think is likely to exist in this province within the next fifty. One would imagine that so far from being a reason for a British Columbia government handling this question with a pair of tongs, this very statement of his should furnish an argument sufficient to startle any patriotic minister into a prompt and energetic course of action.
