A LENGTHY ORATORICAL FEAST

Several Hundred Persons Gather at the Opera House to Hear Political Discussion.

CONSERVATIVE, LIBERAL AND LABOR ADVOCATES SPEAK

Several hundred people attended the Conservative mass meeting at the opera house last night and were entertained to a lengthy feast of oratory by home and foreign talent. The building was not nearly as full as has been the rule heretofore at local political meetings, but the audience was appreciative and the speakers were applauded whenever they waited for it. The meeting opened at 8:30 and lasted till after 11 o'clock. Very little time was lost in introducing the speakers, and if all the facts and arguments adduced struck home those present will certainly have added greatly to their stock of political lore. Mayor Goodeve of Rossland made the hit of the evening in a speech of an hour's duration. He proved to be a fluent speaker with a ready knack of producing telling arguments against the Liberal administration.

D. M. Carley was not present to take the chair, and the duties of the position were pleasantly discharged by John Toye. In addition to the candidates and speakers, W. A. Macdonald, Chris Morrison, J. E. Annable, John Elliot, John A. Irving and H. G. Neelands had seats on the platform. Candidate MacNeill started the speechmaking. He opened by informing his audience that on all public questions he could be found strictly within the four corners of the Liberal-Conservative platform. After expressing the opinion that there was no room for a third party in Dominion politics, this being his sole reference to the existence of the Labor candidate. Mr. MacNeill devoted some attention to the charge of broken pledges laid at the door of the Liberals. This introduced the question of public expenditure, the tariff and the Chinese question. The case of H. H. Cook and the senatorship he wouldn't buy and corrupt administration in the Yukon were touched on, Mr. MacNeill then turning to redistribution and the imposition of duties on lead products which the Conservatives were the only party who could consistently grant.

In closing, the Conservative candidate argued that the Liberals were entitled to no credit for the era of "good times" during their regime, for the same wave of prosperity had been felt in the United States and England, while the Liberals' measure of preferential trade with England had not had a good effect, for the trade returns showed that Canadian exports to England had increased on a smaller scale than the commerce to any of the other large markets.

Chairman Toye called on candidate Galliher, expressing the hope that the audience would give him a good hearing. The applause which greeted Mr. Galliher was sufficient to set all doubts on the point at rest. The Liberal candidate apologized for appearing without having prepared a speech, but remarked that a good and worthy cause such as he advocated did not require much preparation. He could find nothing in Mr. MacNeill's address to show why any voter should cast a ballot for the Conservative candidate, and thought most of his hearers would agree on this point. (Applause.) One of his opponent's points was that the Liberals deserved defeat because they had failed to fulfil their pledge to wipe out protection. Now the Conservatives declared that such a step would ruin the country totally, yet they asked the electorate to dismiss the Liberal administration because they had not brought about this ruin. (Laugnter.) The Liberals had increased the expenditure of the country, but the funds had been invested wisely and would bring back big returns. The revenue had increased and was constantly rolling up, yet no charge had been brought that the money expended was not laid out honestly and wisely. On the prosperity topic candidate Galliher elicited a round of applause by admitting that the Liberals were not entitled to all the credit for the "good times," but that they had the right men in office to grapple with the situation and navigate the wave of prosperity in such a manner as to land Canada in a foremost position among the nations. Another laugh was raised when Mr. Galliher started to discuss the Chinese question by referring to his opponent as "my learned friend." The quotation smacked so strongly of a court of law that the audience had a quiet laugh. He put himself on record as opposed to the Orientals tooth and nail and pleged himself to do all in his power to stem and stamp out the tide of immigration across the Pacific. The Labor party came in for attention, the speaker drawing a doleful picture of Mr. Foley sitting by himself in a corner of the house of commons mistrusted and suspected by both of the old parties. This was common sense he asserted and a man who shouted "rats" from the gallery was described as knowing nothing of the matter. If elected, Mr. Foley to exercise any influence would be forced to affiliate with one or the other of the old parties and then his independence would go to the winds. He asked the laboring men to compare the records of the two great parties now before them, and to mark their ballots for the side which had evidenced a disposition toward granting legislation along the lines desired by workingmen. "I expect," concluded Mr. Galliher, "to get so many votes when I have time to prepare a real jam up speech that I shall have easy sailing into the house of commons."

James Wilks followed in the interests of candidate Foley, speaking for thirty-five minutes. He was surprised, he said, that the gentlemen who had preceded him had advanced no convincing reason why either of them should be supported. So far as he could see the two parties were about as one, the Liberals declaring for free trade, yet retaining the protective tariff practically as it stood, and the Liberal-Conservatives declaring for protection, with Hugh John Macdonald, the much vaunted new leader, promising the abolition of the tariff on agricultural implements in Brandon, and sir Charles Tupper assuring the people of the east that all industries would be protected. The distinction existing between Liberal and Conservative policies was about the same as the distinction between tweedlededee and tweedlededum. Both parties had toyed with the Chinese question and neither accomplished anything. The Independent Labor party now proposed to grapple with the problem by sending men to Ottawa who were pledged to devote their special attention to these matters and who were capable of fulfilling their pledges. Such a man was Mr. Foley, the candidate in this riding. (Applause.) One of the great issues from the Labor party's standpoint was the need of legislation to bring about compulsory arbitration. He didn't like the idea of compulsion and to justify such legislation it was necessary to take it for granted that laborers were unreasonable, which he admitted, and capitalists equally unreasonable, which he believed. An act which would force the respective parties to bring their complaints before a properly constituted tribunal, with the power to make both adhere to any decision arrived at would be a boon. He wound up with an appeal to the voters on behalf of candidate Foley.

Mayor Goodeve concluded the speechmaking with a rattling address. He attacked the legislation enacted and attempted by the Liberal convention, dwelt at length on the corruption in various eastern ridings and spent some time with the broken pledge question. The Yukon railway bill came up first and Mr. Goodeve, after detailing the tremendous concessions which the Mackenzie-Mann syndicate would have secured under the proposed legislation told, how the bill was thrown out by the senate. "If the much discussed senate never does anything else during the life of its members it has earned a right to existence by its action in throwing out the Yukon railroad bill," announced the speaker, and the same remark was made to apply to the Drummond county railway legislation. Coming to the matter of corruption in elections Mr. Goodeve charged the Liberals with having stolen the sufferages of the people by stuffing ballot boxes, etc. He aroused the attention of candidate Galliher when starting to give figures from the West Elgin affair from manuscript.

"Show us what you're reading from," demanded Mr. Galliher, and the demand was reiterated until Mr. Goodeve replied: "My notes." "Yes, his notes," interjected candidate Galliher facetiously. "I'll tell you all about it," said Mr. Goodeve, turning to the audience, "and then he'll be glad to take it all back." "It will be the first time," was Mr. Galliher's retort, and he stoutly refused to admit the impeachment that the burning of the ballot boxes was a Liberal dodge. Coming to the broken pledge matter, Mr. Goodeve said amid laughter: "Since Moses, coming down from Mount Sinai, found the people of Israel worshipping the golden calf and flung down the tables of stone, thereby breaking all ten commandments, there has never been such a record of broken pledges as that made by the Liberal party." This line of thought was followed up at some length, and, with other points briefly touched on, concluded his worship's excellent speech and the meeting.

RAILWAY AND STEAMBOAT

SOME LARGE FREIGHT SHIPMENTS ON THE C. P. R.

The Storm of Last Week the Worst in Years on the Lake--The Kaslo Still Tied Up.

The freight department of the C. P. R. in the Kootenay and Boundary districts has just made a new record. The returns for last week indicate that 10,200 tons of freight were handled, making it the largest week's business since the road was put in. The largest increase is on the Boundary section where ore shipments are heavier than ever before. In this section, East Kootenay has had a large output, the St. Eugene being one of the principal factors. The Slocan shipments are also larger than ever before and there is a probability of still further growth in the immediate future. The Ivanhoe will enter the shipping list at an early date and the Arlington is to increase its output shortly.

Building a Pontoon.

The C. P. R. shipyard's crew is engaged in building a pontoon for the slip at Procter. It will be the first pontoon apparatus used at any of the interior ports, but the merit of the idea has been demonstrated at coast ports. Instead of building an apron of the description used on the Nelson and other slips, the track is laid on the pontoon, which roughly resembles a barge and can be floated to the position desired. By submerging a part or all of the craft the track is brought to the level of the barges and cars hauled with ease. The pontoon is intended to rest on the ground, which makes its use impossible in very deep water such as exists at Nakusp where the end of the slip is in 40 feet of water.

Miscellaneous.

The lake was calm yesterday morning for the first time since Sunday. The storm was the worst in years and seriously interfered with the towing of barges, although the passenger service was run almost on time. The steamer Marion had to tie up on two different occasions at Balfour.

The steamer Kaslo, recently added to the Kootenay Railway & Navigation Company's fleet, is still tied up in the bay at Kaslo. Her only business trip was one run with a load of ore to Kootenay Landing.

MINES AND MINING MATTERS

CHAPLEAU OFFICIALS SOON TO RETURN TO FRANCE.

Nelson's Exhibit at Spokane Was a Good Advertisement, Says Mr. Dowsing.

The marquis de Dusmet returned to the Chapleau mine yesterday after transacting private business in the city. He states that the tramway and mill are progressing steadily, and that ore will probably be run through the mill about November 15th. After waiting a few days to see that everything is running smoothly Messrs. de Dusmet and de Grammont will return to Paris, France, to lay their report before the shareholders of the Chapleau company. In the interim they will examine several properties and secure other information regarding the district. Both expect to return next summer, and if the Chapleau proves to be as good as they anticipate further investments will probably follow.

Showing Up Well.

T. G. Procter has returned from East Kootenay after an inspection of the work done on the Alice property. A large crew is employed at the present time, considerable outside work, including the erection of cabins and other buildings, being under way. He brought back several sacks of ore from the Alice. The product is silver-lead, with close to 60 per cent lead. The ledge is showing up well and if the winter's work is as satisfactory as is expected, the company will consider the advisability of erecting a concentrator and tramway on the property. The Alice is so situated that the difference saved in the cost of handling the output by means of mechanical facilities is in itself a handsome profit, so that beyond a few trial shipments during the winter, no effort will be made to market the ore until spring.

Was a Good Advertisment.

W. H. Dowsing has returned from Spokane with the exhibit of Nelson district minerals. During the fruit fair Mr. Dowsing states that he was kept busy constantly answering questions with regard to British Columbia mines and expressed the opinion that the advertisement afforded the country was beyond estimate.

Yukon Telegraph Line.

ASHCROFT, October 26.—J. B. Charleson, superintendent of Yukon telegraph construction, reached here today from Quesnelle. On his arrival Mr. Charleson found a report from J. Y. Rochester, who has charge of the work of construction south from Telegraph creek. Mr. Rochester states that the line is complete to a point approximately 167 miles northwest of Hazelton and that owing to deep snow, severe weather and the daily loss of animals he is compelled to suspend further work on the line for the winter. The line is completed from the south to a point 167 miles northwest of Hazelton, so that allowing for the unexplored and unsurveyed country through which the line passes, a distance of not more than 15 or 20 miles separates the two ends. Mr. Rochester could only continue the work at imminent risk to the lives of his party, and much as he regrets abandoning the work with the completion almost within reach he deemed it prudent to take no risks, but to return to Telegraph creek while he had the chance. Arrangements may be made to bridge the gap with Indian runners, but nothing definite can be said on this point by Mr. Charleson until he has conferred with Mr. Rochester, who is on his way out.

Picked up at Sea.

LONDON, October 26.—The British tank steamer Orange Prince, captain Richardson, which passed Lizard Head today from Marcus Hook for Dover, reported she had on board two shipwrecked seamen from the American steamer Marshall L, who were picked up on October 10th, when the steamer was two days out, in latitude 40 north, longitude 69 west. There are but three American ships with names similar to that which the Orange Prince reports the men belonged to. These are the Marshall L Adams of Provinceton, Massachusetts, the Marshall Wills of Bridgeport, Connecticut, and the Marshall Perrin of Deer Isle, Maine.

Died of Yellow Fever.

HAVANA, October 26.—Captain Page died of yellow fever this morning. Page was a captain of Porto Rico infantry. He came to Cuba with major-general Wood's evacuation commission and was a linguist of note.

ALL QUIET AT VALLEYFIELD

TROOPS ARE NOW LIKELY TO BE WITHDRAWN.

Strikers, However, Are in a Bad Humor and the Trouble May Be Renewed at Any Time.

VALLEYFIELD, Quebec, October 26.—In spite of many threats made during the day that with the advent of darkness the Montreal militiamen would be sorry that they had struck Valleyfield, the evening passed off without the slightest disturbance. A couple of hundred men belonging to the 65th battalion at Montreal arrived at ten o'clock, bringing the number of men on duty up to six hundred. The soldiers were kept inside the mill enclosure, The people are very anxious that the troops should go. A meeting was held tonight of the council and justices of the peace and an understanding given that if the troops were withdrawn the peace would be preserved. This will probably be accepted and the trouble will end without serious bloodshed. But it is apt to break out again, as there is an angry feeling that it is difficult for those in authority to keep under control.

Found on the Track.

PORT BYRON, October 26.—The body of a man apparently about 25 years of age, was found on the New York Central tracks here this morning. It is thought that he fell from a passing freight train. The name R. H. Myers was marked on the collar.

Not Hostile.

BRUSSELS, October 26.—The Kruger reception committee has issued a formal disclaimer of hostility towards Great Britain in connection with the reception, which the committee says will be exclusively a demonstration of sympathy, every means being taken to prevent political allusions.

Boiler Explosion.

MINOK, Illinois, October 26.—Three boilers exploded at the Chicago & Minok Coal and Tile Works here today. The mine superintendent and 250 men were in the workings 550 feet below the surface. Later they were all brought out uninjured.

Victoria, Australia, has built seven local railways on the co-operative principle. The railways were estimated for by contract at £547,908, but by working the co-operative principle they were completed for £251,211.

FOUND A BUSHEL OF DIAMONDS

A Missouri Blacksmith Returns From South Africa and Tells of Wealth Galore.

BUT THE EARTH SPLIT OPEN AND HIS RICHES VANISHED

ST. JOSEPH, Missouri, October 22.—Nathan B. Jewett, formerly a horseshoer in this city, has returned from South Africa with a dozen large diamonds and a marvellous story. Jewett declares that he found a pocket of diamonds in the Drakenberg mountains in Cape Colony, more than a bushel of the precious stones in one pile, but nearly all of them slipped from his grasp while he stood gazing on the untold wealth.

Jewett left St. Joseph three years ago and went to Chicago, where he met a young man named Evans, whom he befriended. Evans died, but before his death he gave Jewett a map showing the location of a pocket of diamonds in South Africa. Jewett carried the map in his pocket for six months before he decided to hunt for the diamonds.

"After landing at Cape Town I went at once into the country where the map showed the diamonds to be, but could find nothing. I suppose I must have travelled thousands and thousands of miles around Beaufort looking for the place, and at last was rewarded.

"It is a queer feeling you have when you look down on a pile of wealth greater than that of any one man in the world and know it is all your own. It was late in the afternoon when I found the place, in a gorge that was inaccessible to anybody accept a man driven to desperation as I was at the time. I suppose the diamonds had been washed down into the place year after year, one or two at a time. Some worthless stones were among them, but the pile was nearly all diamonds, and there must have been two bushels of the stuff. I took up a handful of the largest ones and put them into my pocket. I have wished ten thousand times since then that I had taken more, for they were all I got out of that pile of untold wealth.

"I guess I must have been mentally unbalanced when I found the diamonds, for I have no recollection of what I did for several hours. When I realized what had happened it was dark, and I was standing there with my hands in the precious stones, allowing them to slip through my fingers a few at a time. I slept that night close to the place, and suppose I remained there all the next day. The water had all seeped out of the pocket in which they lay, leaving them dry. I calculated that there must be a two-bushel sack full of them. As I stood there I felt the ground begin to tremble. The rocks were split about a foot wide, a hot vapor issuing out of the seam, and down that crevice the diamonds went rolling. I stood there powerless. There was another thump away down in the earth, and the last of the diamonds rolled down into the crevice.

"I have no idea what became of me then. I wandered around a week or two in the mountains, totally insane. When I recovered my senses I went back to the place where the sickening catastrophe had occurred. I let a line with a weight on the end of it down in the crevice. The weight went down thousands of feet, and it appeared that the crevice in the rocks had no bottom. Puffs of hot air came out of it occasionally, and I realized that my diamonds were lost forever."

It is Jewett's intention to go back to South Africa when the country has settled into its normal state and search for another pocket of diamonds.

MANY GROUPS OF CLAIMS

Developed by Excelsior Company.

In addition to doing a great deal of development work on the Joker, Derby, and Mona Fraction claims at Camp Mansfield, J. J. Fleutot, the engineer of the Excelsior company, has been doing a large amount of work in various other districts in Kootenay for the company he represents. The groups on which the greatest amount of work has been done are situate in the Lardo and Windermere districts. On the south fork of Kaslo river some work was also done by Mr. Fleutot on the Cork claim and on the Florida group. The work in Windermere district was done under the superintendence of Mr. Morin, Messrs. Fleutot and Green occasionally visiting the properties on behalf of the Excelsior company to note progress. The Excelsior company has spent much money on other claims last year and this. Mr. Newswander, the well-known jeweler at Kaslo, is connected with the company and acts for Mr. Fleutot, on behalf of the Excelsior company.

Part of the British Empire.

PRETORIA, October 26.—The Transvaal was today proclaimed a part of the British empire, the proclamation being attended with impressive ceremonies. The royal standard was hoisted in the main square of the city, the grenadiers presented arms, massed bands played the national anthem, sir Alfred Milner read the proclamation and 6200 troops representing Great Britain and her colonies marched past.

Huntington's Successor.

NEW YORK, October 26.—A dispatch to the Evening Post from London says that Charles M. Hays, general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, has resigned to accept the presidency of the Southern Pacific. The Evening Post says that this statement has been confirmed by the highest Southern Pacific authorities. According to the Evening Post, the directors of the company have unanimously agreed on Mr. Hays for the presidency, although formal action is not to be taken until next week. Mr. Hays will reside in San Francisco and will have complete charge of the operation of the railway, with C. H. Tweed as chairman of the board of directors in New York. Charles M. Hays has been general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway since January 1, 1896. He was at one time general manager of the Missouri Pacific and at a later period occupied the same position on the Wabash.

Movement of Boers.

CAPETOWN, October 26.—Hans Botha has cut off a train with a reconnoitering party of the Highland brigade between Heidelberg and Greytingstadt, in the Transvaal Colony, tearing up the rails in front and behind the train. In the fight which followed two captains and eight men were wounded and all were captured.

It was reported that former president Steyn and the members of the executive council are at Fourieburg, south of Bethlehem and that he has declared Fourieburg to be the capital of the Orange Free State. Mr. Steyn has ordered Kriter, a member of the late Volksraad, to be tried on the charge of high treason.

Jacobsdale Not Captured.

LONDON, October 27.—It now appears that Jacobsdale was not captured by the Boers. Advices received from Capetown shortly after midnight say: "Later news from Jacobsdale show that 200 Boers unsuccessfully attacked the garrison. The Highlanders had 14 killed and 20 wounded."

A Coincidence.

LONDON, October 26.—It is regarded here as a curious coincidence that the news of the recapture of Jacobsdal by the Boers should be received concurrently with the expected arrival home from South Africa of the City Imperial Volunteers, as Jacobsdal was the scene of the latter's first fight. The town was captured by the volunteers on February 19th.

CANDIDATE GALLIHER, last night, was in some doubts as to his position on the tariff. He is a free trader, as all good Liberals are, but is afraid to say so.

THE Rossland Miner is in sore distress. Its editor would like it to support the Liberal party, with which he has affiliated in the past; but the man in Montana has pulled the string, and the editor is silent.

THE Evening Miner of Nelson is not consistent. On Thursday it swore it was the only Conservative paper in all Yale-Cariboo. On Friday it was not the organ of any party or of any class. The Miner was the organ of the mine owners, as long as they paid it a monthly stipend; when the stipend stopped, the organ grinding stopped. The Miner was a self-proclaimed organ of the Conservative party until yesterday, when it found that there was no subsidy in sight, and it quit grinding out Conservative music. What will it be tomorrow?

THE boards of trade of Victoria and Vancouver are both striving to secure for their respective towns the location of the projected Canadian mint. The Canadian mint should be established at Ottawa, the capital of Canada. Instead of striving to secure something they are not entitled to, the boards of trade of the coast cities should be at work trying to get an assay office established at some point on the coast in order to stop the gold that is mined in the goldfields of northern Canada from going to Seattle. An assay office is what is needed at one or the other of the coast cities. Were it established by the Dominion government, mighty little gold that is mined in Canada would find its way to the United States until it paid toll to our merchants and business interests. Strive for that which you are fairly entitled, and you may be successful; but a mint will not be established at the Pacific coast, because it is not the proper place for one.

TOAD MOUNTAIN OUTLAWS.

The foul conspiracy, wherein John Houston and the editor of the Economist have sworn to close up the Miner, may be regarded as one of the most flagrant outrages of these degenerate times, and it is not saying too much to assert that never in the history of this law-abiding community has public sentiment been aroused to such a high pitch of excitement. Is it any wonder that men, as they meet on the streets, in ominous tones ask each other "what next?" It is a sad commentary on our much-boasted civilization that such degenerates as John Houston and the editor of the Economist should be permitted to hatch their devilish conspiracies against a high-toned organ of public opinion, and against the peace of our sovereign lady the queen. The question which seems uppermost in the minds of the people is, when and under what circumstances was this black, malignant, malevolent design incubated? Anyone who is at all conversant with the topography of Nelson and the surrounding country will at once comprehend its natural advantages for concocting and disseminating conspiracies. The mountains, the lakes, the lumber yards, the alleys and the back offices of printing establishments, all seem to vie with one another as offering superior attractions for intending conspirators. For my own part (but I may be a little fastidious in this regard), I prefer a law office. Now, as to the time when John Houston and the editor of the Economist unlawfully assembled. What time more fitting than the hour of twelve! In every yellow-covered novel this was the time selected by conspirators, and even as I indite these few lines, in my imagination I see the two red-handed conspirators on bended knees before a skull and crossbones swearing eternal devotion to each other, and incidentally to close up the Miner office! Here I desire to make a word of explanation. In swearing to close up the Miner office it must not be understood that John Houston and the editor of the Economist contracted to close up all the old cracks and crevices which are said to be the most pronounced characteristics of the Miner building. That would not properly come under the head of conspiracy. The undertaking was simply a proposal to close up the Miner newspaper, and thus deprive the citizens of Nelson of their inalienable right to read soul-stirring sea serpent stories and other thoughtful essays from the pen of the youthful philosopher who left his happy home in Minneapolis to edit the Nelson Miner. I submit, that inasmuch as John Houston and the editor of the Economist only pledged themselves to close up the Miner, they are under no obligation, implied or otherwise, to close up the building now occupied by that paper. They simply covenanted to close up the Miner; the landlord will do the rest. When that is done, in the language of the poet:

"It shall be the meditation and
The theme of after ages; yea, I prophesy
Savants shall moralize and chroniclers
Dilate upon this fell iniquitous deed."

D. M. CARLEY.

Fewer Licenses.

New Denver Ledge.

Competent and responsible hotel men are not properly protected in Kootenay. Almost any person by throwing up a shack with the necessary adjuncts required by the letter of the law can get a license to sell liquor at retail. No attention is paid to moral or financial standing. Licenses have been given to men who would rob drunken men, and permit any kind of vice in their houses. When times get hard most of these kind of gin mill operators close up, beat their creditors and emigrate, while responsible hotel men with the proper kind of houses have to struggle along and hold up people who cannot pay their board. The license commissioners in all parts of Kootenay should exercise more judgment in granting licenses to sell boozerine. There is room for just so many hotels and no more. Fewer licenses should mean better service to the public, and better liquor. As it is there is no restriction upon the adulteration of liquor. It is high time that fools and knaves were refused licenses, if the hotels of Kootenay are to be saved from sinking into mere dives for the sale of jim jam promoters and the robbing of men at cards when they cannot tell a deuce from a kuter.

Pretty High Returns.

Slocan Drill.

Al. Teeter returned yesterday from Nelson, whither he had been with the ore shipped by the Bondholder. He is highly pleased with the results, as he deserves to be. The amount shipped was a fraction less than 20 tons, giving a net return of $2400, it averaging 218 ounces of silver per ton. These figures demonstrate the great richness of the property, which is a grass-root proposition, pure and simple. The dry ores of this division are not to be sneezed at.

Returns From a Trial Shipment.

Trout Lake Topic.

The Cromwell returns were received last night. The trial shipment of 6½ tons gives a gross value of $793.77. This is divided as follows: Gold $722.55 and silver $71.24. Charges for freight and treatment from the Landing are $79.22 leaving a net value of $714.55. The gross returns per ton were $122.11 from which is to be deducted transportation and treatment from the mine to the smelter amounting to about $46 and the net returns per ton are $76.11.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

VOTE FOR....

A. H. MacNEILL

of Rossland

Candidate of the Liberal-Conservative Party for Member of the House of Commons for Yale-Cariboo.

PLATFORM

Adopted by the Liberal-Conservative Party in Convention at Revelstoke, September 15th, 1900

We, the delegates of the Liberal-Conservative party of Yale-Cariboo constituency, in convention assembled, reaffirm the principles of the party, and more particularly that cardinal principle, protection to home industries, and that that principle be carried out so that all sections of the country shall equally share its benefits.

The one industry on which the prosperity of this constituency is almost wholly dependent is mining; and we believe that our mining industries are as fairly entitled to protection as the manufacturing industries of Eastern Canada; therefore, we advocate that the duties on lead and lead products be increased, so that they shall be as high as those now imposed by the United States on the same articles.

That the output of the precious metal mines is largely increasing, therefore we favor the establishment of a mint, so that the specie in circulation shall be that of our own instead of that of a foreign country.

We advocate the restriction of the immigration of Chinese and Japanese, and all classes who cannot become good citizens of the Dominion of Canada, and suggest the adoption of the principles of the Natal Act.

British Columbia has not now the representation in the federal parliament that she is entitled to: therefore we advocate that when the redistribution of seats is made that this constituency shall be given representation according to its population.

That it augurs well for the success of the party that Hugh John Macdonald has decided to leave the field of provincial politics to take part in the larger one that affects the people of the whole of Canada.

GUESS AS TO FUTURE RAILWAYS.

Vancouver World.

We have the best reason for believing that there is a perfect understanding between president Hill, of the Great Northern, and Mackenzie & Mann, who claim that the control of the charter of the Vancouver, Victoria & Eastern railway is vested in them, as to the building of the projected line in lower Fraser valley. Mr. Hill's system in the interior enters Nelson and Kaslo and thereby taps the trade of Kootenay lake, the Lardeau country and Whitewater valley to Sandon. By the Red Mountain railway the Great Northern competes at Rossland with the Canadian Pacific, as it does also at Nelson, Sandon and at New Westminster. Mr. Hill is most anxious to secure control of the Victoria traffic to and from the interior points we have named. He likewise desires an outlet in British Columbia for Eastern Canada, British and European freight and passengers, as well as procuring a share of eastbound traffic. The only plan by which this can be accomplished is by utilizing the charter of the Vancouver, Victoria & Eastern railway, or such portion thereof as will serve his purposes. It is quite within the probabilities that the Fraser valley division of the Great Northern will include the construction of a line to Chilliwack, and thereby secure control of an exceedingly rich traffic-producing country on the south side of the Fraser, from the coast to the Garden Valley City, traversing the municipalities of Delta, Surrey, Langley, Matsqui, Sumas, and Chilliwack, in all of which the settlers at certain seasons of the year are badly handicapped for want of railway or other transportation facilities.

The building of such a line as is now contemplated, as the World has in by-gone years repeatedly pointed out, would afford a very deserving class of settlers relief in this respect. Not only this, but instead of the country being sparsely settled, as it now is, and there being thousands of acres of very desirable land still in its virgin condition—but in many instances heavily timbered—new settlers would go in, and those now there would take fresh courage and make substantial improvements upon their holdings, knowing that in doing so, the producing capabilities thereof would be largely increased and accessible markets found therefor the year round, conditions which do not now exist. Of course the main object the people of Victoria have in view in this matter is to have transcontinental trains arrive in and depart from their city; to draw the trade of the south side of the Fraser river in the lower valley to their city, as well as secure a more direct connection with the great interior than they have at present. The cost for all this will not deter the people of Victoria from taking the plunge they are about to do. It is with them, at the present juncture, any port in a storm, so eager are they for the entrance of another railway line into their city.

But there is more than the building of the line, and the ferry connection we are referring to, in the scheme. It is no secret that the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway Company would not object to dispose of their interests in that concern, provided the consideration for so doing was satisfactory. The belief is that this, once accomplished—and it is on the tapis to do so—the Island railway would be extended to the upper end of Vancouver Island, to a point at or near Cape Scott, from which a superb, fast, up-to-date line of steamers would ply to and from Skagway and other northern ports. The federal as well as the provincial governments will be asked for heavy bonuses in aid of the undertaking. Our esteemed contemporary, the Victoria Colonist, has of late been urging the adoption of a "progressive policy" upon the government. Now that the cat is out of the bag, it is easily understood why the warning notes were sounded so far in advance. As we have frequently urged, the Island of Vancouver is a valuable one to the province. Its capabilities are very great, and in order to make the most of its vast natural endowments a railway should, and doubtless will, traverse it from north to south. The accomplishment of this would reduce the time consumed in reaching either Skagway in the north, Vancouver, Victoria and other points in the south, by many hours, and assuredly would speedily become an exceedingly popular route.

AN ELECTRIC GOVERNOR.

Edward Thunderbolt, a native of Melbourne, Australia, is in England, having perfected a patent electric governor. Soon after his arrival he was fortunate in having his governor brought under the notice of lord Kelvin, who took such great interest in it that Messrs. James White, who are so well known as the manufacturers of all lord Kelvin's inventions, took it up, and are at present having most extensive trials made with it at their premises by Mr. Thunderbolt.

There are two types of electric governors that Mr. Thunderbolt has designed, and they both act perfectly in controlling any desired uniform speed for any kind of stationary or electric engines or turbines notwithstanding the most violent variations of load, and they further have the power of entirely stopping the motors should any accident occur.

The first type, which is actuated by the electric power of the circuit, is arranged to act directly on the throttle of the engine or turbine, and is suitable for engines up to 15 or 20 horse power. In the second type of governor a small air pump is required, which exerts a pressure on a piston which is so arranged as to control the throttle or valve gear, the air pressure being regulated in a most ingenious manner by mechanism controlled by the electric circuit. This type of governor is suitable for engines up to any size. One of these governors has been running for some time on the electric light engines at the general postoffice, Melbourne, and one has also been recently fitted with very marked success on the large engines driving the electrical machinery for generating the power for the Liverpool Overhead Railway.

The governor possesses very marked advantages over any other electrical governor, both from the point of efficiency and also as regards simplicity and ease of work. It possesses two very sensitive elements acting in unison—namely, electricity and compressed air. They act simultaneously and automatically, when the load is increased or decreased, by turning on or off exactly the desired amount of steam or water required for working the engine or turbine at the correct speed, thus affecting a very great saving in wear and tear, more particularly as regards lamps and fuel.

Dawson is Booming.

A writer from Dawson under date of October 4th thus summarizes the late news of the Klondike camp: The first sale of government fractions and claims closed yesterday. Prices were good, $20,000 being realized. Announcement was made at the close of the sale that all the ground would be thrown open for relocation in November, which was greeted with cheers and clapping by the large crowd present. Many miners were unable to be present on account of the quarantine at the Forks of Bonanza and Eldorado. Eldorado is 20 miles from Dawson. Smallpox is epidemic there; also twelve cases on Isolation island, two miles below Dawson. An isolation hospital is in course of construction. No personal alarm is felt by the citizens of Dawson, and there is some uneasiness lest Dawson be quarantined by the outside world. Half a million of golddust was shipped up the river on the Yukoner on October 2nd. A total of twenty-five millions has been shipped out by both routes up to date which closes the record of the output for this season. Alex. King, who murdered Davenport in July, was executed here yesterday. Business is very brisk. Dawson is booming in real estate and building, and has had a large influx of people during the last two months.

Contractors and Builders

Having disposed of our business to Mr. Ernest Mansfield, we bespeak for him a continuance of that liberal share of patronage which has been extended us during our career in Nelson. We can only say that those traits which have built up for us and maintained our reputation for reliable dealings will be continued throughout by the new firm. We therefore take great pleasure in recommending him to all our old customers, and also to any new ones who may honor him with their patronage.

Thanking you for past favors,

The West Kootenay Brick & Lime Co., Ltd.
T. G. PROCTER,
Late Managing Director

Nelson, B. C., 5th October, 1900.

To the Public...

Having taken over the business of the West Kootenay Brick & Lime Company, Limited, of Nelson, I beg to ask for a continuance of the patronage which you have heretofore extended them. My aim will be at all times to supply you with our products at lowest possible prices. Being in a position to manufacture goods in larger quantities than before, we shall be able to supply the trade at a lower figure.

It is our intention to install machinery to manufacture our marble products, and next season we shall be in a position to supply these products at reasonable rates.

We shall also keep on hand a stock of Fire Brick, Fire Clay, Tiles and Cement.

Our Bricks and Lime Rock have taken the First Prizes at the Spokane Industrial Exposition in 1899 and also this year. We also secured prizes last year and this year for Ornamental and Building Stone.

We are prepared to offer special rates to Contractors and Builders.

Rev. William Munroe will discuss the relations of "Capital and labor" at the opera house tomorrow night.

The heating apparatus for the Congregational church has been received and is now being installed in the building.

Ernest Mansfield purchased yesterday four lots adjoining his brickyards from C. Jiskcowicz. The consideration was $1115.

The chess and checker club is conducting two games by mail with J. R. Hunnex and others of Erie. The contest has now reached the seventh move.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Murphy of Kuskonook died yesterday morning. The funeral will take place today, and will be private.

On account of the death of the infant child of Mrs. Murphy, sister of Mrs. Hume, the children's party arranged for this afternoon has been postponed.

Manager Annable has decided to change the time for raising the curtain at the opera house from 8.30 to 8, so that all performances in the Nelson opera house will commence at 8 instead of 8.30 during the fall and winter months.

W. R. McLean, manager of Thorpe & Co.'s establishment, was out yesterday after being confined to the house for several days through an accident. Fumes generated in a tank which had contained sulphuric acid, and the tank burst, burning Mr. McLean painfully about the face.

The trapshooting season closed yesterday when the gun club held its final shoot. Two matches in the button series were fired with the result that Dr. Hall won the gold button with a total of four wins out of seven matches, Alex Carrie the silver button with three wins, while George Steele and E. T. H. Pollok tied for the bronze button with two wins each.

Cane & McDonald took levels yesterday of the Victoria street lots on which the militia department is to erect an armory for the Rifle Company. The figures are to be forwarded to lieutenant-Colonel Benson, D. O. C., at Victoria. No intimation has been given as to when the building will be started but it is generally believed that nothing may be expected until after the first of the year.

At the assizes yesterday the case for the plaintiff in Waterland vs. City of Greenwood was heard; and evidence for the defence will be submitted today. Expert evidence was submitted, among those testifying on this line being A. F. Proctor, engineer of the Balfour extension. When court opened Mr. Justice Walkem gave judgment for defendant in the suit of McKay vs. Phillips.

NELSON'S WHOLESALE TRADE

HAVE THEIR FIRST MEETING

And Grant One License.

The new board of license commissioners of Nelson district met for the first time yesterday. The members present were: W. F. Teetzel, J. A. Gilker and J. H. Matheson. Two applications were considered. One of E. J. Curran for a license at "Bogustown," which was not granted because of an informality in the application. The application was opposed by the tramway company because it is said the company wants to go into the retail liquor business at the same place. The law as it stands allows the board to consider applications based on plans of a building to be erected for hotel purposes as well as for a building erected. Mr. Curran merely filed plans of his proposed hotel. Had the application been granted no license would have been issued until the building was completed. The other application was for a hotel at Crawford Bay, and was made by Alexander McGregor. It was granted.

Do Not Own the Country.

Toronto Telegram.

Tory Toronto is a phrase which implies that a great city can be the property of any faction which may capture a certain party name. A Grit Toronto would mean exactly the same craven subordination of patriotism to party. Canadian Toronto is the right phrase, and when the people learn that the parties exist for them and not they for the parties, Toronto may imitate the English cities which go Liberal by 4000 at one election and Unionist by 3000 at the next chance.
