JEFFRIES IS CHAMPION NOW

Fitzsimmons Counted Out.

NEW YORK, June 9.—A roar of applause greeted the appearance of Fitzsimmons this evening and a monster floral horseshoe with the emblem "Good luck to the champion," was carried in behind him. Jefferies came in immediately after him and climbed into the ring. The men stripped at 10:19. Jefferies looked a veritable giant and Fitz also looked as if he were in the pink of condition. As they shook hands Bob said: "May the best man win."

First round—Bob dances and Jeff feints. Jefferies crouches as Fitz leads left. It goes over his shoulder and a light clinch follows. They break instantly. Jefferies is short on a left jab for the head. More dancing follows, Jeffries touching the chest with his left and catches Fitzsimmon's mouth light with the same. Jeffries closes into a tight clinch, then crouching pushes his left to the stomach, but his left swing only grazes Fitzsimmon's shoulders. Jeffries pushes two lefts to the wind and chest, then jabs Fitzsimmon's face twice. Jeffries misses left for the head and in a rush puts his left in Fitzsimmon's neck, and his right over the heart. Dancing away from a return, Jeffries seeks to clinch. They break and Jeffries lunges wildly with left. Jeffries shoots a straight left on the jaw and Fitzsimmons goes down squarely. The third round starts with a clinch. Fitzsimmons lands with a left and Jeffries comes back with left on the nose and the claret shows on Fitz's face. Bob plants a good one right over the heart, and after an exchange of left facers, Fitz hooks the left to neck, and Jeffries comes back hard on the ribs with his left and a right to stomach. Jeffries jabs his left twice to face, and puts a stiff one on the stomach with his left, and repeats it a second time. Fitz hooks his left to ear and his right goes over Jefferies' head. Jefferies ducks another one, and then ducks into a stiff left, catching it on the mouth. Both men were sparring at gong.

In the eleventh and last round Jeffries clinches. Fitz misses his right and Jeffries gets to the neck with his left. Fitz puts a left on the stomach and a right on the chest. Then he misses his right and Jeffries plants a right over the heart. Jeffries darts a straight left to mouth, sending Bob back, but Bob is still there. He puts a left on the shoulder. Jeffries then puts a right on the wind and a left to the eye. Two more lefts from Jeffries follow on Bob's head. Then Jeffries jabs his left twice like lightning. Now two left swings are sent to neck and jaw, and a right swing to the point of jaw, and the Cornishman falls prone. He falls on his side and rolls over on his back. The time-keeper counts 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6. Bob rolls over and the counting continued: 7, 8, 9 and 10, and Fitzsimmons is out and Jeffries is champion of the world.

The referee waved his hand to the seconds to carry Fitzsimmons to his corner. They left him still unconscious, and set him in his chair. He revived rapidly. Meanwhile a shouting, cheering crowd surrounds Jeffries in his corner. Fitzsimmons sits disconsolate in his chair and Jeffries crossed the ring and shakes his hand. It was a great fight and fought on its merits. It is another illustration that youth and strength are too much for more advanced years. Fitzsimmons left the platform a few minutes after the battle.

Jeffries was never at any time in serious danger, and after the sizeup in the earlier rounds of the contest, he took the lead and was never headed off. He had the Australian from the first round, and would have ended in the tenth but for the lack of time. It was acknowledged that Jeffries would have an immense advantage in weight, height and age, but the thousands who tipped and backed his opponent to win were sure that he was slow, and that he would, in that respect, be absolutely at the mercy of the past master of the science of fighting that he was to meet. He proved, on the contrary, that he was just as fast as the man he met, and beat him down to unconscious defeat. Jeffries is a veritable giant in stature, and marvelously speedy for his immense size. Less than a year ago he appeared in New York a great awkward, ungainly boy. Today he is a lithe, active, alert, trained athlete. The men who prepared him for his fight worked wonders with him. They tought him a nearly perfect defense, improved his foot movement, and instructed him in the methods of inflicting punishment. The transition since he appeared last has been little short of miraculous. At twenty-four he has defeated Robert Fitzsimmons, Tom Sharkey and Peter Jackson, and if he cares for himself he will probably be able to defeat all comers for many years.

The defeated man was just as good as when on the crisp morning, on the plains of Nevada, he lowered the colors of the then peerless Corbett. He was just as active, just as clever, just as tricky, and just as fearless of punishment. He went unfalteringly to his defeat. He was the aggressor even at moments when he was bleeding and unsteady, and when stunned by the blows he received, he reeled instintively toward his opponent, but found him a different opponent than he had met before. Jeffries fought from a crouching attitude that was hard to get at. He had his head low, his back was bent down and his left arm was extended. He kept jabbing away with the left and found no trouble in landing. It was there that his superior reach told. He showed an excellent defense and the ability to use the hands with skill. He is game too, for he never shrank from his punishment. It was a great sight to watch, and commenced and ended amid scenes of wild excitement.

The men fought before a crowd of 9000 persons, and stood up in a great beam of blinding white light. It was like a thousand calciums, and it showed their great white bodies in strong relief. When the blood came it was of an intenser red than usual. There was not a suggestion of interference from the police. Chief Devery occupied a seat by the ringside, but never entered the ring. When it was all over he sent captain Kenny in to clear the ring. The contest was pulled off without a wrangle.

Countess Esterhazy Divorced.

PARIS, June 8.—The civil tribunal of the Seine today granted a divorce to countess Esterhazy.

THE LAW AND THE LAW COURTS

Brown Won the Suit.

The case of Martin vs. Brown was resumed yesterday morning before Mr. justice Drake, when the defendant and Oleson, the bookkeeper for the Whitewater Deep hotel, gave their evidence. R. E. L. Brown swore that he had engaged the plaintiff to manage the hotel for him, and had agreed to give him half the net profits as salary, but had never taken him into partnership. The plaintiff did not handle the cash, but turned over the receipts every day to Mr. Riffle, resident manager of the Whitewater Deep Mining Company, and had to make requisition to him for money he wanted. The plaintiff had authority to discharge and engage help, but had no authority beyond that usually enjoyed by the manager of a business. Oleson corroborated Brown's evidence, especially as regards the plaintiff turning over the funds. After hearing the arguments of counsel, his lordship gave judgment for the defendant with costs.

By consent of counsel on both sides, his lordship will go into the accounts and ascertain what sums, if any, are due the plaintiff on account of his half share in the profits. The accounts are practically all admitted with the exception of the valuation of the hotel and stock.

Hodgins Will Be Referee.

In connection with the settlement of the litigation between the Arrowhead and Kootenay and the Kaslo and Lardo-Duncan railways it has been arranged that all minor points of difficulty will be adjusted by captain Dancet, chief engineer for the former line, and J. Gray, chief engineer for the latter. Should they fail to agree A. E. Hodgins of this city will act as arbitrator.

Wants His Claims Back.

The next case was that of Alexander vs. Heap, but only the plaintiff gave evidence yesterday. His story was briefly to the effect that on July 29, 1897, he gave a bond to the defendant on the Tecumseh and a three-quarter interest on the Pontiac for $1250. He swore that at the time of sale the defendant assured him upon his honor that no discoveries of ore, except those he knew of, had been made upon the claims. Subsequently this turned out not to be the case, and so he claims the bond was obtained by fraud. C. W. McAnn, Q. C., and R. M. Macdonald are for the plaintiff, E. V. Bodwell, Q. C., and Macdonald & Johnson for the defence. The case will be continued this morning at 10.30.

Beresford Scores the Government.

LONDON, June 9.—While the house of commons was in committee of supply, and discussing the foreign office vote today, rear-admiral lord Charles Beresford, conservative member for York city, delivered a scathing criticism on the government's policy of "drifting in China," during which he said the government deceived the people and allowed the open door policy to be finally killed by permitting Russia to interfere in a purely commercial enterprise like the Shanghai-railroad. He then proposed that the four countries most interested—Great Britain, the United States, Japan and Germany—go to China and offer to take over and organize her army. He thought that if Great Britain took the lead the United States would follow, and he asserted also that there was a distinct intimation that Japan would join in such a movement.

Parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, Hon. William St. John Broderick, replied, pointing out the difficulties in the way of meeting lord Beresford's desire, and adding that he thought his lordship over-sanguine in believing that the United States would follow the lead of Great Britain. Germany, he continued, had great interests in China, but she had a thousand times greater interests in Europe. As to treating the Yangtse Kiang valley like the Shang Tung peninsula, her majesty's government was not prepared to undertake the immense responsibility of governing an inch of that large territory.

At the Mercy of Bandits.

NEW YORK, June 9.—A dispatch to the Herald from Havana says: Manuel Yribas, manager of the Cardenas-Juroca railroad, who arrived in Havana today, says brigandage continues uninterrupted in Puerto Principe province and also in Santiago. He says the country around Puerto Padre, Nuevitas, Gibara and Holguin is completely at the mercy of bandits. Cattle have been stolen from the farms and other outrages committed. Most of the farmers have suspended cultivation in San Manuel and a sugar estate near Puerto Padre, owned by Mr. Pia, has been obliged to shut down. Cuban soldiers, mostly negroes, hang around the villages, but won't work and the robberies are ascribed to them, but no attempt is being made to prosecute them.

THE TOWN AND THE DISTRICT

The first heat will be between the Haines and Povah crews made up as follows: Haines, stroke, Thomson E. V., Macrae and Boyer, and Povah, stroke, Chambers, Fraser and Wilson. Their colors will be yellow and green respectively. The second heat will be between the Brown and Winter crews made up as follows: Brown, stroke, Matthews, Morrison and Wetmore, and Winter, stroke, Thomson H. B., Beer and McFarland. Their respective colors are blue and red.

Following the heats in the club fours the following events will be brought on: Ladies' single sculling race, finals in club fours, ladies' and gentlemens' canoe race, gentlemens' single sculling race, crab race, gentlemens' tandem canoe race, four paddle race.

KASLO.

W. B. Poole of Revelstoke spent Thursday in town on his return from a trip south. Mr. Poole is manager and the original owner of the Nettie L group of claims, which at present is attracting so much attention in the Lardeau district near Ferguson. A shipment of ore is now being made to the Trail smelter. As soon as the returns are received the owners expect to make arrangements for regular shipments.

Charlie Schiel, for some years manager of the Gibson property on South Fork, which was closed down on the first, is opening a restaurant at the Nelson house.

J. S. Holland is making an effort to reopen Kaslo's notorious comique. He has communicated with the city council requesting that he be allowed a license for $2.50 a night, instead of $5 as previously. It is not expected that the present council will offer Mr. Holland any encouragement to reopen his place of amusement.

E. N. Murphy, the newly appointed gold commissioner for Goat River division is in town to make a transfer of records now in the Kaslo office and other business in connection with his new office.

Dr. Hartin has been appointed physician for the Kaslo & Lardo-Duncan railway construction gang. He has leased a building on "A" avenue and is having the same fitted up as a hospital in which he will care for his patients.

The steamer Marion succeeded on Tuesday in making the run from Kaslo to Duncan City, on Howser lake. She had little difficulty in getting up. The only accident she met with was in striking her wheel against a rock, breaking one of the paddles.

A meeting of the police commissioners was held Wednesday to investigate the recent jail-breaking case. As the prisoner admitted that someone opened the door for him without the knowledge of the police, the local police were exonerated from all blame. The case is still being investigated by the city authorities and the police magistrate, who intend to bring the offenders to account.

Contractor Carlson has appointed Chris O'Donnell his purchasing agent for supplies on the railroad construction.

"Paddy" McCue has again bonded his properties on Twelve-Mile. The bonders are Austin Corbin and others of Rossland, who will commence development work at once. This property has been worked considerably in previous years and is reported to have a considerable speculative value.

YMIR.

Val Carson and Sam McDonald returned Thursday from Sixteen-mile creek where they had been locating two claims. They report that there are from twelve to fourteen feet of snow on the summit and some of it is likely to remain all summer.

Andy McDonald and Steve McKay are doing assessment work on their claims up Sixteen-mile creek.

The Hennessey brothers in the Cariboo Hump country on Sixteen-mile creek and Midget creek we know have a very good thing and are doing a lot of heavy work.

J. W. Laird is busy finishing his new house.

It would not be a surprise if the Miners' Union called out the mill hands from the Ymir mill.

The Treason Cases Proceeding.

PRETORIA, June 9.—The trial of the eight alleged former British officers, who was arrested at Johannesburg on May 16th, on the charge of high treason in having attempted to enroll men with a view to an outbreak of rebellion, began here today. The charge against lieutenant F. J. Tremlett, lieutenant C. A. Ellis, and lieutenant John Allen Mitchell was withdrawn, and they were called as witnesses for the state.

Lieutenant Mills testified that overtures were made to him to hold Johannesburg and the forts until the British troops came. He was given to understand that the co-operation of the military authorities had been secured, and that capitalists were financing the movement, but he deposed that he did not know the names of the leaders of the movement. Captain Patterson, formerly of the lancers, and colonel R. F. Nicholls, on account of their alleged connection with the military authorities, are being defended at the instance of the imperial government, with a view of eliciting proof that no British official had any knowledge of the matter.

Large Party of Nova Scotians Lost.

VICTORIA, June 9.—T. Boultier, O. S. Fletcher, W. Johnston, I. Elliott, George Bishop and W. Ross, who arrived from Wrangel today on the steamer Alpha, corroborate the stories of death, sickness and suffering on the Edmonton trail. They report twelve individual cases of death from either exposure or scurvy. Boutlier relates the awful fate of a party of Nova Scotians with whom he started for the Klondike. On April 10th of last year his party of nine started for Halifax. They left the C. P. R. at Edmonton, and with a heavy supply of provisions started from the Athabasca Landing trail. Reaching the Liard they followed its course for 240 miles. A camp was made on the Liard. Here the party remained until the first of December. Becoming impatient they crossed the hills, a distance of about 25 miles to the Beaver river and followed it for 100 miles. Then they essayed to cross the Hay mountains, where the Hutton-Payne party is supposed to have perished.

The first three, among whom was Boutlier, knowing the dangers to which the trip exposed them, kept closely to their two Indian guides. The other men lay in their tents longer in the morning, trusting to overtake the others on the trail, but while the snow was not deep, it was light, and the high winds which prevailed on the hills filled up the tracks almost as fast as they were made. This was in February, when the first three became alarmed at the non-arrival of the others. They instituted a search, but without securing the slightest trace of the men, and they have not since been seen by any travelers from that district. Those who followed the party, which are supposed to have perished are: L. Dickinson, clerk in the city hall, Halifax; Dunnick, of Halifax, who was through the Riel rebellion; John Brown, watchmaker, of Halifax; Arthur Digard, machinist, Halifax; Dunsward, engraver, Halifax; and Tom Gibbons, goldsmith.

No Agreement in Sight.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Up to the close of business hours today no word had come from London to indicate that the modus vivendi, relative to the Alaskan boundary, had been signed. The technicalities of the case are that the British and American sides should agree upon the principles that should govern in the arrangement of the modus. This was based on a proposition emanating from the British side in its last message, but on some points it was so vague as to warrant the apprehension that it might contain germs of disagreement. Therefore in accepting the British proposition in principle, the United States specified these points in such a manner as to remove any possibility of double constructions. If the British government acceptst his precise statement the modus will be an accomplished fact, and upon this acceptance the American government waits. It may come at any time but it is subject to delay if there is a further reference to Canada.

The present plan merely seeks to avert a possible clash between the dangerous border element, but it is stated also will help along the final delimations, and perhaps may be accepted later by the two governments as the basis of the treaty making the boundary, or the modus might be allowed to run along indefinitely.

The Journal's London War Story.

NEW YORK, June 9.—A London dispatch to the Evening Journal says: "Lord Kitchener is daily at the war office, where the staff is planning for the contemplated operations in the Transvaal. It is proposed to raise the British effective force in South Africa from 9000 to 32,000 men. Of these 2000 will be British troops and 10,000 will be drawn from India and Australia. In addition it is said that Canada will send a number of regiments."

Protecting President Loubet.

PARIS, June 10.—President Loubet's route next Sunday from the Elysee to Longchamps will be lined with squads of police. Through the Bois de Boulogne the place will be strengthened by mounted republican guards, the various points of vantage being occupied by the military. Beneath the grand stand several companies of infantry will be held in readiness at a moment's notice, and the way from the paddock to the president's box will be lined with files of the republican guards with fixed bayonets.

TRADES PROCESSION FLOATS

For Dominion Day.

The merchants and manufacturers of the city have entered heartily into the spirit of the trades procession feature of the Dominion day celebration, and already a sufficient number have undertaken to prepare floats, which from the variety of the businesses should ensure a thoroughly representative display of the commercial and manufacturing interests of the city. The arrangements for this procession have been placed in the hands of A. J. Marks, Thomas W. Gray and George S. Beer and from the material offering they should have no difficulty in making this section of the celebration the most attractive.

The first firm to take upon itself the responsibility of preparing a float descriptive of its business was that of R. Reisterer & Co. They will impress upon the visitors that Nelson is a city in which beer is made and the spectators won't know that it is an "advt" until it has passed out of sight.

The attractive side of the fruit exporters' business will be displayed by Hyde, Titsworth & Co. They can show in an attractive manner the importance of Nelson as a fruit importing center by displaying upon one float fruits gathered from all quarters of the globe.

Fred Irvine & Co. have promised to be in line with something tasty, descriptive of the allurements of the bargain counter, and of the effects which can be obtained in an artistic way when taste and materials are brought together.

P. Burns & Co. will have a float typical of the wholesale meat trade, and of a business which from a small beginning in Nelson has spread over the entire province and retained Nelson as its center.

Thorpe & Co. will show what can be done in the way of an attrateive display of aerated waters and summer drinks, goods which, manufactured in Nelson, command a large sale throughout the district.

Lillie Brothers and the Neelands Shoe Emporium will each have floats illustrating the growth of the shoe trade in Nelson from the days of the prospectors' boots to the patent leather period of the present day.

The Kootenay Cigar Manufacturing Company has undertaken to have a good turnout and will doubtless have matters so arranged that raw leaf put in hand when the procession starts will be converted into cigars and distributed along the line of March.

The Nelson Saw & Planing Mills, Limited, will have an attractive display of its wares; the firms of M. DesBrisay & Co., W. F. Teetzel & Co., D. McArthur & Co. and Jacob Dover will vie with each other in displaying to advantage their respective lines of business; and somewhere in the procession the TRIBUNE Association will have a float descriptive of the printing trade, together with an exhibition of the working of the wireless system of telegraphy.

And there will doubtless be others.

Strikers Go Back to Work.

TORONTO, June 8.—The Grand Trunk strike is over, and the announcement by the company that the trackmen have returned to work unconditionally will be received with mixed feelings. For two weeks some 1800 men have been out, and although the assurance of the officials regarding the perfectly sound condition of the track was no doubt justified, the fact that the company was shorthanded in the matter of track maintenance and repairs could not fail to create some feeling of uneasiness. By the statements put forth on behalf of the men it is made to appear that the so-called "unconditional" surrender was merely one of the conditions of a tacit understanding. Three members of the commons, E. F. Clarke, George Taylor and H. A. Powell, interviewed general manager Hays at Montreal, and on the subsequent advice of these representatives the men went back to work at their former wages. Those who have taken their places are from the extra gangs and will go back to their former positions when the strikers resume work. Messrs. Taylor and Powell are still the representatives of the men, not the accepted arbitrators. There is a feeling of confidence among the leading members of the union that their wages will be materially advanced in the near future.

Coroner Crompton Has Resigned.

VICTORIA, June 9.—Dr. Crompton has sent in his resignation as coroner, and publishes his correspondence with the attorney-general's department leading to this step. It includes a letter from deputy attorney-general McLean, to Crompton, admitting that the instructions issued to coroners by the department were in conflict with the statutes, but an amending act would be introduced next session, and that in the meantime coroners would be expected to follow the instructions of the department. Crompton declined to accept the department's orders as superior to law, and Dr. Hart being then appointed coroner, having jurisdiction in Victoria, Crompton's resignation became in order.

DAILY EDITION..... FIRST YEAR, No 134
WEEKLY EDITION..... SEVENTH YEAR, No. 29

THE decision of the judicial committee of the privy council, upon the question of responsibility for the Point Ellice bridge disaster, comes at a most opportune time for the city of Nelson. Within a few weeks there is every likelihood that application will be made by the local tramway company for permission to cross certain bridges in the city of Nelson. None of these bridges were built with a view to carrying tram cars, and before the council grants the tramway company permission to cross them, there should be a definite arrangement arrived at with the tramway company both with respect to the strengthening of the bridges, and the keeping of them in repair after they are so strengthened. If the tramway company is to have the use of the bridges of the city, the city council should have it in its power to compel the tramway company to make all necessary repairs to the bridges which are occasioned by the use of such bridges by the tramway company. The decision of the privy council, so far as it can be learned, is that a corporation is responsible for the safety of any bridge under its control. There should be no joint ownership in the bridges. They should be built and maintained by the city, but the city council should insist upon the tramway company not only bearing the additional cost which will be entailed in constructing bridges suitable for their purposes, but also in the company's making such repairs as the city engineer from time to time considers necessary. This may not suit the vendors of the local tramway franchise, but Nelson can better afford to do without a tramway than have a Point Ellice bridge disaster to carry. Fortunately the city has reserved the right to dictate terms in this respect, and the terms should be such as will safeguard the city in every way.

HON. F. C. COTTON, chief commissioner of lands and works, has issued a circular to the provincial timber inspector which deals with the question of the ownership of the timber upon mineral claims. The commissioner's construction of the law is that the owner of a mineral claim, whether the same be crown-granted or not, has the right to use the timber upon the same. This right however, is subject to the payment of the royalty reserved to the crown under the land act, and the provincial officers have accordingly been notified to make such collections whether in respect to timber or cordwood cut upon mining claims. The circular of the chief commissioner may be taken to mean that the government will protect claim owners from the spoliation of the timber upon their property, but when they use such timber themselves they will be required to pay the government royalty.

SHOULD the press reports be confirmed, that the judicial committee of the privy council has decided against the city of Victoria in the damage suits arising out of the collapse of the Point Ellice bridge on May 24th, 1896, it will be almost impossible to fix the liability of the city of Victoria. By this accident over sixty persons lost their lives, and shortly afterwards almost as many actions for damages were commenced against the city. Several of these were brought to trial and judgments secured for thousands of dollars, while others were held back pending the decision of the privy council. The two that were carried to the privy council were for $20,000 and $13,500 respectively, and should the judgment of the full court be sustained with respect to them, some idea may be formed of the aggregate damages which the city will be required to pay. When these cases were first started the late chief justice Davie did all in his power to effect a compromise, but without effect. Victoria will doubtless have reason to regret that this opinion of the late chief justice was not followed.

AMERICAN HOSPITALITY.

William Archer, the well-known English critic, has been recording his impressions of a brief visit to this country in a series of letters to the Pall Mall Gazette, and in the latest he has some very pleasant things to say about American hospitality. As an instance, he relates his experience with Washington and Boston club men. In the former city he made the acquaintance of a man who invited him to lunch at his club, having half a dozen men to meet him. Next him at table sat a man whose name he had not caught when introduced. Instead of asking what he thought of America, the American asked where he was going next, and on being informed that Boston was Mr. Archer's destination, offered to put him up at the U—— Club, adding that after luncheon he would telegraph to secure the visitor a room. "This was a man," Mr. Archer declares, "whom I had met ten minutes before, whose name I did not know, and to whom I had been introduced by a man whom I barely knew. It did not appear that he, on his side, knew or cared about anything I had said or done in the world. He simply obeyed the national instinct of courtesy and helpfulness. And he was as good as his word. Arriving in Boston at a somewhat unearthly hour in the morning, I found my room allotted me and the club servants ready to receive me with every attention."

"The Americans," continues Mr. Archer, "are said to be the busiest people in the world (I have my doubts on that point), but they have always leisure to give a stranger a good time. Even, be it noted, during the working hours of the day. My evenings being occupied with theatre-going, I could not accept invitations to dinner; wherefore those who were hospitably inclined toward me had to invite me to lunch; and a luncheon party in America invariably absorbs the best part of the afternoon. A score of these delightful gatherings will always remain in my memory. The 'bright' American is, to my thinking, the best talker in the world—certainly the best talker in the English language. A light and facile humor, a power of giving a pleasant little sparkle even to sufficiently commonplace sayings, is in this country the rule and not the exception. I must have met at these luncheon-parties, and actually conversed with, at least a hundred different men of all ages and occupations, and I do not remember among them a single dull, pompous, morose, or pedantic person. The parties did not usually exceed six or eight in number, so that there was no necessity for breaking up into groups. The shuttlecock of conversation was lightly bandied to and fro across the round table. Each took his share, and none took more. All topics—even the burning question of 'expansion' were touched upon gayly, humorously, and in perfect good temper. It is said that American conversation, among men, tends to degenerate into a mere exchange of anecdotes. I can remember only one party which was in the least degree open to this reproach, and there the anecdotes were without exception so good, and so admirably told, that I for one should have been sorry to exchange them for even the loftiest discourse on Shakespeare and the musical glasses."

But Mr. Archer finds that there is a drawback to American hospitality, and that is that it is too profuse. "I have more than once," he says, "had to offer a mild protest against being entertained by a hard-working brother journalist on a scale that would have befitted a millionaire. The possibility of returning the compliment in kind affords the canny Scot but poor consolation. A dinner three times more lavish and expensive than you want is not sweetened by the thought that you may, in turn, give your host a dinner three times more expensive and lavish than he wants. Both parties, on this system, suffer in digestion and in pocket, while only Delmonico is the gainer. It seems to me, on the whole, that in this country the millionaire is too commonly allowed to fix the standard of expenditure. Society would not be less but more agreeable if, instead of always emulating the splendors of Lucullus, people now and then studied the art of Horatian frugality. And I note that in club life, if the plutocrat sets the standard of expenditure, the aristocrat looks to the training of the servants. Their obsequiousness is almost painful. There is not the slightest trace of democratic equality in their dress, their manners, or their speech."

THE BANK OF BRITISH COLUMBIA
NELSON

Is now prepared to issue Drafts and Letters of Credit on Skaguay, U. S., Atlin, B. C., and Dawson City, Yukon District.

One of the Richest in the World.

Mrs. Jane L. Stanford called together the trustees of the Leland Stanford Junior University at Palo Alto, California, a week ago last Monday, and gave into their hands deeds representing nearly thirty-five millions of dollars. It is the last of her wealth, and the lady today is without a foot of land, a share of stock, even a jewel of any value, for everything has gone to the institution she loves so well. This, with its present endowment of over fifteen millions of dollars, makes it one of the richest colleges in the world. In turning over her property Mrs. Stanford read an address to the trustees, suggesting plans for the future and advising as to the present. She asked particularly that the mechanical courses be made as complete and valuable as the scientific and classical courses. Mrs. Stanford called attention to the fact that while she deeded to the university all her property, she had not let it pass from her control as a trustee of the institution. She has shown herself to be quite as capable a financier as was governor Stanford, and the trustees were more than willing that she should continue in her management.

Crow's Nest Coal Shipments.

Fernie Press.

The shipments of coal from the mines for the month of May reached the respectable total of 10,000 tons, a figure which would have been exceeded by at least 2000 tons but for lost time on account of landslides on the branch. The output is steadily increasing and by the time the new coke ovens are ready will probably reach 700 tons a day.

H. Corby, the Corbyville distiller, has offered through his agents, Messrs. Turner, Beeton & Co. of Nelson, to place a handsome solid silver challenge cup at the disposal of the Nelson Gun Club to be shot for every Dominion Day on the terms the club may see fit to impose. The lucky competitor who wins the challenge cup three years in succession will be permitted to keep it for good.

Short Work of Chinese Rebels.

VANCOUVER, June 9.—Passengers by the steamship Empress of Japan give a graphic description of the rebellion in Kow Loon. When the Empress passed up the coast from Hong Kong the passengers saw the smoking ruins of many villages burned by Britishers as a warning to the rebellious Chinamen. A British surveying party, while surveying the route of the Yanman railway through China, were attacked and roughly handled. They fired their pistols into the air as a warning, then charged the mob. One Chinaman was killed and ten wounded. All the Chinamen they could capture alive were handed over to the governor of the prefecture with a demand that they be punished. To the Britishers' surprise, headsmen were sent for while they waited, and before they could retire their forces the prisoners' heads rolled into the baskets.

Damages Aggregate $250,000.

VICTORIA, June 9.—A cable from London today advised the city authorities that the second of Point Ellice bridge damage suits had gone against the city. It is probable that this will end the matter in the courts, and that a board of arbitration will be appointed fixing the amounts of the damages in the other twenty-eight cases which have been entered against the city. It is estimated that the total amount of the damages which a board will allow, will probably exceed $250,000.

Will Resist French Encroachments.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, June 9.—The government is conferring today with commodore Giffard regarding the French demand for indemnity for the burned lobster factory. The French commodore Henrique, on the flagship Isley, is expected here next week to present the claims of his government. The general belief is that trouble will ensue on the coast this season if the French attempt to enforce the former method of ruling it.

I offer the largest stock in the Kootenays, wholesale and retail. Call and examine. Special attention to watch repairing. Watch attention, careful, experienced, painstaking attention. Attention that will keep its fine mechanism in perfect condition. It doesn't take much oil to make it mark time, but it must have that mite, and have it at the right time. It is our business to correct all difficulties about a watch and make it keep correct time. If not worn out, we can do it. It is our ambition to add to the reputation—we think—we have in no small measure already established of doing honest and thorough watch repairing.
