LOADS OF SILVER AND TONS OF COAL--NORTH

Two great events on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway are interesting the Ruperts, the Hazeltonians and the people of the northland generally.

Imagine ten cars laden with silver ore running from Hazelton to Prince Rupert! This is an event indexing coming great things in the North. "First Ore Leaves Hazelton," and ten cars at that! This means money, men, and business of coming importance.

But this is not all. The Grand Trunk B. C. Coal Company have ordered out a carload of their coal, so that five tons can be sent to Nanaimo, for testing on a large scale. Several tons will be brought down to Vancouver. Some will be sent to Victoria, to Seattle, and to other centres. The coal is of the best coking quality. It has been analysed by the Government analyist, and by Mr. O. Sullivan of Vancouver, one of the best and wisest analytical mineralogists in Canada.

The company has one tunnel in 234 feet, and are working at another. The ledge which has been tunnelled 234 feet is six feet thick. The other tunnel is being driven in on a ledge between three and four feet. Several ledges are seen on the surface on the Bulkley River, and the company has twelve sections, in all, 7,680 acres. In addition they have secured the water rights of Boulder Creek which runs through their land. The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway runs through the land and has a station ground and siding within a few hundred yards of the pit where the coal is being brought to the surface. The steel rails are laid on the main line and on the sidings as well.

The company is purely a Vancouver enterprise. There are about 17,000 shares to be had at a satisfactory figure. But these shares are to be sold to the shareholders who will undoubtedly take them all, or nearly all at once.

Perhaps the company will give the general public a chance, a little later, to make purchases at an advanced rate.

With the coal mine only sixteen miles from New Hazelton and the silver mine not so far distant, and with other mines opening up in that vicinity, and with the farming, and lumbering business already fairly well developed, there are good promises of success for these Northern towns, and the surety of a large and thriving population.

We congratulate the Silver Standard Mine management, as well as the enterprising Grand Trunk B. C. Coal Company for the work they have done, and trust they will have success commensurate with their desserts.

THE B. C. E. RAILWAY COMPANY.

It matters little which way one travels in the various districts environing Greater Vancouver. The people everywhere have news, always news of enterprise and business energy, and far-sightedness of this splendid carrying company. It equals the best on the continent, yes, surpasses all others, when the population and the time are considered.

In five more years, or ten at the most, the whole "Lower Fraser" from Chilliwack to the sea-coast, will be a woven mass and net-work of tramlines. The immense value even at present is beyond computation. And when all the projected lines are finished and utilized to the full, there will be a population of two million at least served by the system.

The company has always had the very best business men at its head. We wish this enterprising company the greatest success, and in so doing we are simply wishing success to the whole community.

We cannot understand the English suffragettes nor appreciate the line of reasoning they follow which leads them to such vandalish acts of destruction. Besides, we believe that reason, justice and truth are better weapons for warfare and more powerful than torch and bomb.

CANADA WEST AND EAST

Some Points of Speech Before the Canadian Club by H. H. Stevens, M. P.

At the Canadian Club luncheon on Thursday of the week, Mr. H. H. Stevens, M. P., was the speaker and took for his subject, "Canada West and East."

After giving a brief description of the resources and potentialities of the various provinces and drawing attention to the natural division of the West from the East, the speaker proceeded to lay down certain principles upon which a united Canada might be developed.

He said in part: "The West can exist apart from the East and the same might be said of the East, but if we are to develop a strong nation in this great Dominion worthy of the history and traditions of the Empire which gave us birth, then West and East must join hands and this dividing line, along the north shore of Lake Superior, must be forgotten—no, not forgotten, opened up and settled, made into a living, pulsating link, binding together the two natural divisions of this country of ours. This is the work of Ontario, and right nobly are they attacking the obstruction and overcoming it.

"The problem which we, as Canadians, are called upon to solve is, how are we to develop this great Dominion into one nation, with a common history, a uniform social and commercial life, national educational facilities?

"First, we must have a national ideal," said the speaker. "What shall it be? Canada, a self-contained nation, severing all exterior ties, hurling back to the old Mother Land the obligations of centuries, telling her 'We have had your protection without cost, we have enjoyed your prestige, we have used your gold, your sons have settled our wastes; get you gone, we need you no more?' Or, shall it be a Canada fully conscious of her greatness and the potentialities of her unlimited resources, but realizing her supreme strength and grandeur in being the chief cornerstone of the noblest Empire the world has ever known and fulfilling her destiny as a participant in the larger destiny of the Mother of Nations? Which is it to be, Canada, a disintegrating influence, or Canada in the front ranks fighting the national, commercial and social battles of the Empire?"

The speaker then drew a comparison between the democracy of Canada as given to us by Britain, and the much talked of freedom of the American republic to the south. He clearly demonstrated that our institutions are the broadest of all nations.

He passed on to his second point: "A united citizenship," and under this heading developed the immigration problem. In 1912, he said, Canada had received 402,432 immigrants. Of these 150,542 were British and needed no assimilation only adaptation. Then there were 139,009 from the United States. These were very desirable, a large proportion being farmers, but it was necessary to show these worthy people that our institutions were just as good and better than those they left, and that we should let our American friends understand that when they come to Canada to make it their home they owe the country from which they hope to make their livelihood full credit for her splendid institutions. They must respect our laws and traditions as well as our wealth.

The foreign element numbered 112,881. Of this number about 40,000 were from Southern Europe and were not desirable on the whole. He advocated restriction of this type of immigrant.

He also touched on the Asiatic problem, claiming "they knew little or nothing of democratic government, or the use of the franchise. They do not understand our language; they know nothing of our history and traditions. They have no conception of the duties and privileges of citizenship. We have no right to admit to full privileges of citizenship those who cannot appreciate its responsibility. We hold our citizenship too cheaply. It is a privilege to any nationality to be allowed to enter this country, and not a right. We must at all costs maintain the high standard of national life we enjoy and preserve the genius of our race."

His last point was a strong plea for "a sound commercial policy, one which would develop the whole nation and not any particular section. The tariff should be viewed as a means to uphold our standards of citizenship. We want industries and home markets, but not at the expense of our citizenship."

"In conclusion," said the speaker, "we, the citizens of this great Dominion, are building a super-structure upon foundation laid for us in years gone by. It is for us to determine whether it is to be a nation divided against itself—torn by factions social and commercial—cut off from the prestige of the Empire, or a nation throbbing with youth and energy, truly autonomous, but manfully shouldering the increasing responsibilities of Empire; responsibilities which will undoubtedly demand sacrifices, but if properly discharged, will do more for the consummation of world peace than we have ever dreamed of.

"Let us, then, on all occasions, stand unflinchingly for a United Canada, the chief amongst the great world-wide Imperial federation of nations."

COMMENTS ON LIVE QUESTIONS OF THE DAY

THE MUD-WADE—ING FIREFLY.

For essence of gall and ability to say nothing with much pretence of wisdom and interest in public matters, the Vancouver Scum's editor takes first place. In all his venomous attacks upon H. H. Stevens he has shown, not only hopeless inability, but lack of the qualities that make a valuable journalist. How despicable is the man whose vindictiveness is manifest in every attempt to shine as a light upon public matters as a critic! A critic should be too big for recourse to subterfuge or indulgence in spleen.

H. H. Stevens, the maligned representative of Vancouver, knows he is right, keeps on working for the city, scarcely notices the glimmering of the Sun, rests upon his deeds and the good sense of Vancouverites to vindicate him. We know Mr. Stevens thoroughly and believe in him implicitedly, while we smile at the poor editor who Wades in mud which he slings ineffectually at a better man, with boomerang effect.

We beg Mr. Stevens' pardon for placing his name in comparison. Stevens is every inch a man. He has no time to waste on fire-flies.

PRINTERS' PICNIC.

The Progressive Printers' picnic held at Bowen Island, Saturday, July the 5th, was an enjoyable event from first to last.

The picnic, in numbers, refreshments, games, sociality, wholesome courting, young, happy, married couples with their little ones, and restful associations, was truly ideal.

The committees, with the good looking, paternal Secretary of the Printers' Board of Trade, were equal to the occasion and succeeded in making everybody pleased. See detailed account on another page of this issue.

THE SACRED OAK OF SCRIPTURE.

A few quotations will give us an insight into the importance of the Oak of the Bible.

"Jacob hid them under the Oak which was by Shechem."

"And there came an angel of the Lord and sat under an Oak which was in Ophra."

"Gideon brought broth to the angel under the Oak."

"They found the man of God sitting under an Oak."

"They buried Saul and his sons under the Oak in Jabesh."

"They had idols under every thick Oak."

"And Joshua wrote these words in a book in the Law of God, and took a great stone and set it up under an Oak by the sanctuary of the Lord."

"They buried Deborah beneath Bethel under an Oak."

In Isaiah 44-14 we read that the Oak was used in making images for worship.

In Hosea 4-13: "They sacrifice under Oaks."

Zech. 11-2: "Howl, O ye Oaks of Bashan."

There are many other passages which show that the oak was held in esteem and was a sacred tree among the Israelites of old.

No wonder that their descendants, the Druids, held the oak as a sacred tree.

In fact, the more carefully we look into the whole history of the Druids and compare with ancient Israel, the more surely we must become interested in the wonderful similarity. Conviction of IDENTITY has come to very many students who scan the whole line of identical characteristics.

It is not only from the study walls of pastors, but from the walls of every shop, every counting room, and every hall of justice and legislation, that the countenance of Jesus is looking down, and saying, "Do all for me."—T. L. Cuyler.

Two Injured as Car Jumps Rails

B. C. E. R. Interurban Leaves Rails at Commercial Drive and Venables and Crashes Into Building —Arrest Driver.

Driven, it is said, at more than forty miles an hour, a Burnaby Lake car, bound into the city, jumped from the track at Commercial Drive and Venables street shortly after midnight Monday night. Crashing into the front of a metal foundry and overturning it, it threw the conductor, J. C. Phillips of New Westminster, through the back window to the pavement on his back and hurled a passenger, Mrs. D. Smith, forward to the front end of the car.

The police, after the accident, found a bottle of whiskey in the motorman's cabin. He was held for contravening the Railways Act.

Two Injured.

Mrs. Smith and Mr. Phillips are in the hospital, the former badly shaken up, and the conductor badly injured about the back and below the neck. Other passengers in the tram suffered less injuries, and quickly made their way from the scene. Mr. R. J. Kest told the police that the tram was going at the rate of fifty miles an hour just before it reached the corner.

The Burnaby Lake car, No. 1005, is the last on the run. The motorman says that the rear truck left the track first, and threw the car off the rails, and says a worn-out flange may have been the cause of the accident.

Car a Wreck.

Ploughing its way to the curb before overturning, the tram broke down part of the front of Grandview Sheet Metal Works. The curbing is torn up about six feet on either side, and the tracks are twisted beyond repair. A small structure used by the "World" newspaper, adjoining the foundry, had all its windows broken. The rear end of the interurban had been whirled so far around that it seemed to have been going the other way, and plenty of room remains for other cars to pass.

DR. CRUMMY HERE.

Looking forward, he says, with pleasure to his work in Vancouver, Rev. Eber Crummy, D.D., the new pastor of Wesley Church, succeeding Rev. J. C. Switzer, arrived in Vancouver last Friday and is staying at Glencoe Lodge. On his arrival, Dr. Crummy was met by Mr. R. W. Harris and was immediately taken for an auto trip around Stanley Park and Marine drive, Shaughnessy Heights, and other parts of the city.

Questioned as to his impressions, Dr. Crummy said that, although he had thought he was prepared with an idea of the city, the reality was very different, and he was looking with hope to his fture here.

Dr. Crummy is a broad-shouldered, deep-chested, heavily-built man, over six feet in height. He was born in 1862, and was called to the ministry in 1882. The doctor was a graduate in arts and holds also the B. Sc. degree of Toronto University, and the D. D. degree of Queens University, Kingston.

PRAIRIE MARKETS FOR KAMLOOPS PRODUCERS

Kamloops, B. C.—In view of the heavy increase of traffic this year in this section of British Columbia it is believed that the new branch line of the Great Northern over the Hope mountains from Coalmont to Vancouver will work important benefits to business conditions in the Kamloops district. With freight and accommodation trains running over this route from Kamloops into Vancouver, serving a rich producing territory, insiders state that an important distributing centre is certain to be developed at this point.

NEW PASTOR AT MOUNT PLEASANT

The Mount Pleasant Methodist Church was well filled at both services on Sunday, when Rev. Dr. Sipprell entered upon his pastorate. At the beginning of the morning service Dr. Sipprell observed that he had long been acquainted with the congregation and recognized its great opportunities. He trusted that the confidence which had been shown in him by the unanimous invitation was not misplaced. The sermon, based on the message of sixtieth chapter of Isaiah, was a strong message of hope and confidence, the pastor refusing to believe that the world, or any part of it, was growing worse. Dr. Sipprell is not occupying the late parsonage. His residence will be 225 Fourteenth avenue west.

Sockeye Shoals Enter the Strait

"There will certainly be not less than 2500 fishermen engaged on the Fraser river salmon fisheries this year, and I expect there will be 3000 in al," states Fishery Overseer Fred Markland, who was in port with the fishery protection boat Filoma.

This is the big year of the big years for sockeye on the Fraser and 34 canneries are at work preparing for the great harvest of sockeyes. Last year, which was the usual lean year before the "big run" there were 1600 licenses issued for salmon fishing on the Fraser. This year several of the big canneries will have as many as 125 boats out apiece, and the work of overseeing the fisheries wil be a heavy one. The provincial offices at New Westminster and Steveston have been crowded all week with applicants for gill net licenses.

Great Storm Put End to Heat Wave

Toronto.—A bad electrica storm which suddenly terminated the heat wave of the last few days, and swept the country in the greatest rainfall of the year, struck down the Electrical Development company's transmission line.

For five hours Toronto was practically paralyzed. Ever yindustry dependent upon the power of the Toronto Electric Light company was at a standstill. A huge generator at the auxiliary steam plant was burned out, and then Toronto stood still—or walked.

It was a terrible storm, sweeping its course over almost the whole of the western portion of the province. The rainfall constituted a record, and within two hours as much rain fell as during the whole of the last month. King street subway was flooded to a depth of a foot or more.

CANADA WILL HAVE PUBLICITY AGENT

Ottawa, July 7.—The Dominion of Canada will soon do its own direct advertising in Great Britain. A deputation of the leading publishers in the old country called upon Dr. Roche, minister of the interior, during his recent visit and declared they would not accept advertising of the Dominion Government given to them through a certain agency in London which has hitherto handled all the publicity appearing in the English newspapers.

A conference of Dominion officials interested was held and it was decided that the Dominion Government should do the work itself. A publicity agent will soon be appointed with headquarters in the high commissioner's office and he will handle all the advertising, amounting to several hundred thousand dollars annually.

TO FEATURE GRAND FORKS IN SPECIAL SUPPLEMENT

Grand Forks, B. C.—Leading business men of Grand Forks and vicinity are co-operating almost as a unit for the forthcoming publicity issue that is being prepared by a well-known Vancouver publication, which is expected to bring to the attention of the public some special features as to the resources of this section up till now quite generally overlooked. It appears, for instance, that Grand Forks now ranks among the 20 large exporting centres of Canada, and is the second city of British Columbia in exports. The Vancouver publishers state that in their opinion, however, the commercia supremacy of Grand Forks is made possible primarily by its exceptional railway facilities, irrespective of its wealth of natural resources. The opening of the Kettle Valley line in 1914 will render this leadership douby secure, it is stated.

Baker was a member of a party that was engaged in an outing in the mountains. He and another young man and a young woman had left the main party and were seeking to make their way down the steep walls that encloses the lake. PRINTERS ENJOY ANNUAL FUNFEST

Several years ago the members of the Vancouver Printers' Board of Trade of this city inaugurated an annual picnic and funfest.

The principal aim in view was to make a pleasant day's outing for members' families, business office staff and lady friends, and to so arrange affairs for the day as to relieve the ladies of the party of any responsibility regarding the refreshments. This policy has been carried out to the letter each year since, until now the printers' picnic is eagerly looked forward to by all in any way connected with the organization.

The seventh annual event took place at Bowen Island Saturday, July 5th, and was attended by about 170, the party going up on the Terminal S.S. Co.'s boat Baramba. The weather was delightful for the outing, and the entire party spent a very enjoyable day. Mr. W. S. Parks, chairman of the Sports Committee, and his assistants on the sports committee, had arranged and successfully carried out an elaborate programme of sports, the several events being keenly contested, especially among the younger folk of the party. The base ball match was a special feature of the event, the contest being between the married and single men. Evidently the former nine had not put in sufficient time in practice for the single men gave them a bad beating. However, the rivalry between the two sections has started, and it is understood the older men are to start in at once in an organized system of practice for next year's funfest, and we may look for a different result in 1914. Mr. A. G. Bagley umpired the game, and although some of his decisions may have been questioned by members of the big leagues, it was acknowledged, especially by the winning team, that he gave entire satisfaction, and it was understood that Mr. Bagley would continue to act as umpire in future years. The other events and the several successful contestants are as follows:

"Woman's Cause"

Mother and Child.

Nature has given to children two parents, but the law allows only one. That is the father. (At least, if he is married). The children are absolutely under control of the male parent. He can decide the future of the child, where it shall live, how it shall live, how much shall be spent upon it, how it shall be educated, and what eligion it shall profess. According to the new marriage theory, the mother is recognized as a parent and the sole parent, too, for the unfortunate woman, too often alas! is held solely responsible for the care, protection, education, etc., of her child. How very sensible! It is very edifying to scan frequently man's decisions upon this vital question of the relation of mother and child, "lest we forget," such as the following:

"Where any person hath or shall have any child or children under the age of twenty-one years and not mardied at the time of his death, it shall be lawful to and for the father of such child or children, whether born at the time of the decease of father, or at that time in ventre sa mere, or whether such father be within the age of twenty-one years or full age, by his deed executed in his life-time or by his last will and testament in writing, in the presence of two or more credible witnesses, in such manner and from time to time as he shall think fit respectively to dispose of the custody and tuition of such child or children for and during such time." R. S. 1897, C. 96, S. 21.

"Please may mother see her little one?" Yes, listen: The law of B. C. says: "It shall be lawful for the Supreme Court or any judge thereof upon hearing the petition of the mother of the infant or infants being in the sole custody or control of the father hereof or any person by his authority to make order for the access of the petitioner to such infant or infants at such times and subject to such regulations as the said court or a judge thereof shall deem convenient and just; and if such infant or infants shall be within the age of seven years to make order that such infant shall be delivered to and remain in the custody of the petitioner until ataining such age. Subject to such regulations as the said court or a judge thereof shall deem convenient and just." R. S. 1897, C. 96, Sec. 6.

What more can any mother want?

Substitution in Lumber

Inferior Woods Often Sold for More Valuable Ones.

The pure food laws protect the purchaser of food stuffs from dishonest substitution and governments everywhere are enacting legislation to prevent substitution of various kinds. With the increasing scarcity of lumber comes an increase in the substituton of inferior woods for the more valuable kinds.

In many cases this cannot be called dishonest substitution, as the purchaser is either aware of the substitution or indifferent concerning it. The staining of woods for ornamental purposes has been a common practice for ages. In many instances a cheap, inferior wood is stained and finished to imitate a more costly wood, but as long as the result is pleasing to the eye and purse no harm is done, provided of course that the wood is sold as a substitute and at the price of a substitute.

For purposes other than ornamental where the actual value of a wood depends on its structure more than its appearance, this substituion becomes more important. In the majority of cases the purchaser is familiar with the appearance of the wood he uses and can detect substitutes. But even the expert practical man is not infallible. There are many kinds of wood that cannot be distinguished from one another without the aid of a microscope. The Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa is undertaking study of the commercial woods of Canada and their identification, and a laboratory is being equipped for this work. Enquiries are frequently received from wood-users concerning the identity of different kinds of wood and preparations are being made to handle this class of work efficiently.

Some woods can be distinguished by the examination of comparatively small samples; with others more material is required, pieces showing both sapwood and heartwood being needed in some cases. The more information that can be submitted with each sample the easier its identification will be. It should be borne in mind that it is sometmes impossible by any known means to dstinguish certain kinds of wood, by their structure alone. With others it is a comparatively simple matter and the separation can be carried out to different species of the same tree. It is expected that this new branch of study will be of considerable benefit to wood-users in Canada.

Children's Gardens

Each child in Vancouver is invited to enter the children's garden competition of the City Beautiful Association, regulations for which were drafted on Friday night by the Domestic Garden Committee of the organization. Children desiring to compete for the prizes must file their entries by June 15, and blanks for that purpose may be obtained from the teachers in the schools or from Mr. W. E. Payne, secretary of the organization at the Board of Trade rooms. The entry forms must be countersigned by parents.

Prizes Offered

Two cups donated by the city aldermen will be awarded this year, one for vegetable growing and one for flower growing, together with four other graded prizes in each ward. In addition to the prizes, each winner of a prize will be given an appropriate certificate, and a further certificate will be given each competitor not successful in winning a prize.

Conditions.

Children from 8 to 16 years old are eligible to enter the contest, and those between the ages of 8 years and 12 years will be allowed to avail themselves of assistance, but those more than 12 years old must work alone. Flower gardens and vegetable gardens will be judged in two classes, and the entry blanks must tell whether the competitor will contest for the prize for flower gardening, vegetable gardening, or both.

Competent judges appointed by the twice each season, and in making their decision will take into consideration the varios conditions for which the competitors have worked. The following points will be considered in making the awards: the nature of the soil, exposure of garden, variety of specimens used, and the design and artistic effect of the whole.

The committee recommends that a record be kept of the time of planting and maturing of plants, character of soil and difficulties overcome, weather conditions, weeds, insects and diseases, in order that the data may be available for future reference.

For Canada's Future

On the prairie, shelter belts and woodlots are protecting crops, stock and houses from the extremes of climate, and are providing the farmers with fence posts and stringers.

Fifty per cent of Canada is capable of growing tree crops and nothing else.

Only a fraction of this absolute forest area is growing trees as it might. The rest is comparatively unproductive.

We cannot live without wood. Everything from the houses we live in to the books we read is made of the produce of the forest. We must have it.

To keep us in timber, pulp, an equable water supply, fish and game, we must have trees.

The Dominion Government has supplied twenty-five million seedlings to settlers.

Many Eye Defects

Are congenital—that is the person was born with them.

There is often a flattening of the eyebace, or a shortening which renders seeing difficult. The muscles of accommodation automatically strive to overcome these defects, which strains the eyes and causes all sorts of bodily discomforts.

There is a simple, pleasant cure for all these troubles: "THE WEARING OF GLASSES."

We are able to determine what lenses each case needs—able to do it with scientific accuracy.

From Mr. Bordens Toronto Speech

Pithy and Eloquent Sentences from Mr. Borden's Toronto Speech.

"I call you to witness, I call Parliament to witness, I call Canada to witness that the naval proposals were made in a speech in which there was no ground for controversy. I say that these proposals were reasonable."

—::—

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier made the greatest political mistake of his life when he opposed the measure, and no one knows it better than he himself."

—::—

"You, the people of Canada, of whatsoever race or ancestry, possess this land with all its boundless resources and abundant opportunities, with all its free institutions and just liberties by reason of the fact that a century and a half ago British naval power was predominant on the high seas."

—::—

"In truth our Empire of today was born of sea power, was nourished by that power, and is today maintained by it. Scattered over all the continents and upon the islands of the ocean, the pathways of the seas are the highways of the Empire, and when they are closed or obstructed it cannot continue to exist."

—::—

"No Government in Canada ever had a more specific and direct mandate for any purpose than that of the present administration to perform this manifest duty."

—::—

"This Empire is not a great military power and its existence depends on naval supremacy. Its very heart is exposed to overwhelming attack when control of the seas is lost, and for this reason more than one-half of those naval forces which once made the British flag predominant throughout the world, have been latterly withdrawn to the immediate vicinity of the British Islands, and concentrated there through sheer necessity."

—::—

"We asked from the Admiralty a plain unvarnished statement as to the actual conditions, and as to the need . . . . and they specially emphasized two points. First, that the aid which Canada could give at the present time is not to be measured only in ships or money. . . In further response to our inquiry they answered without hesitation and after prolonged consideration of all the circumstances, that any aid which Canada might bring, should include the provision of a certain number of the largest and strongest ships of war which science can build or money supply.'

—::—

"It was the plain and obvious duty of the Leader of the Opposition to have given immediately his cordial assent and approval to the temporary provision which we thus proposed under conditions of urgency and upon considerations of duty that no fair-minded man can gainsay."

—::—

"In 1902, in 1907, and in 1911 at any and every Imperial Conference he (Sir Wilfrid Laurier) has maintained the same recalcitrant and reactionary attitude against every proposal for co-operation by this Dominion in the common defence of our Empire."

—::—

"The policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier means one result, and one result only, the severance of every tie that binds this Dominion to the Empire."

—::—

"The thing is impossible (Laurier' policy of neutrality in time of war) except as a most cowardly, humiliating and contemptible means of achieving that independence which was the goal of his desire in 1892."

—::—

"Mark well the Liberal policy as contrasted with our own. I do not advocate and I have never advocated a policy of permanent money contributions. We propounded no such policy, but propose under urgent conditions, to build, to own and to utilize for the common defence of this Empire, three battleships which will be in the fighting line in the day of peril. The Liberal policy vehemently opposes the appropriation of a single dollar for any such purpose, but seeks to commit the country to an expenditure of one hundred and fifty millions at some indefinite time—in the future for a 'neutrality navy.'"

THE MOTHER HEART.

She sees the shining of the evening star,
And her heart yearns, its radiance beholding,
To know in what celestial fields afar,
Beyond the limit of that silver bar
'Twixt earth and heaven, her lost flower is unfolding.
But steadfast in the faith that conquers pain,
Nor time nor space her treasures can dissever,
Assured howe'er the long years wax and wane,
That lily of God's garden shall remain
Through chance and change her own, her child forever.

—Blanche Trennor Heath.

"They thought more of the Legion of Honor in the time of the first Napoleon than they do now," said a well known Frenchman. "The Emperor one day met an old one-armed veteran.

"How did you lose your arm?" he asked.

"'Sire, at Austerlitz.'

"'And were you not decorated?'

"'No, sire.'

"'Then here is my cross for you; I make you Chevalier.'

"'Your Majesty makes me Chevalier because I have lost one arm. What would your Majesty have done had I lost both arms?'

"'Oh, in that case I should have made you officer of the Legion.'

"Whereupon the old soldier immediately drew his sword and cut off the other arm."

There is no particular reason to doubt this story. The only question is, how did he do it?"

THE GRANDVIEW METHODIST CHURCH

GRANDVIEW METHODIST EPWORTH LEAGUE

SPARKS AND DARTS.

Pastor—Rev. F. G. Lett.
Sunday Services:—
Preaching 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m.; Sunday School, 2.30 p.m.
Epworth League—Monday 8 p.m.
Prayer Meeting—Wednesday 8 p.m.
....The young people invite everybody to their League meetings, and suggest regular attendance at all services of the Church. The People are Welcome.

Last Sunday, the Pastor, the Rev. F. G. Lett, preached morning and evening. In the morning his subject was Judgment. He took as his text the well known passage: "In as much as ye did it unto the least of these My brethren, ye did it unto Me." Mr. Lett said the Old Testament showed a very severe picture of God, especially as regarded judgment, and that book gave the impression that the whole world would be judged by Him. The New Testament, however, stated that God had committed all judgment unto the Son of Man, to the one who had attained unto perfect manhood, who had embodied in himself in a lifetime and in a life form all that was best; who was humanity expressed perfectly, and therefore a Son of God. The judgment was based on our relationship to him; it was not one of party, of religious sect, of nationality, of race or color. It rises above all these; the great question was, "How are you treating Jesus?" "What you do to your fellow man, you do unto Me." The Love of Christ must be the motive for every word and deed. "I was a stranger and ye treated me like a man." "Meeting the need," said Mr. Lett, "is the standard by which we are judged."

At the night service, Mr. Lett took as his text the one that had been used the preceding Sunday night, viz: "The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me, because he hath annointed me to preach glad tidings." In a particularly good sermon, Mr Lett dwelt mainly on three words, "annointed," "preach," and "glad tidings." The word annointed, said Mr. Lett, was an old Jewish one. It signified the coming of God's Spirit on the man who had God's work to do. "No man," continued Mr. Lett, can do the Lord's work unless he was annointed in the same way, unless he was sanctified body, soul and spirit, and then everything he touched or handled was sanctified. He came not to create a new life, it was to bring in a new living force." The word "preach," said Mr. Lett, had degenerated. A declaration of the Word of God from the pulpit was altogether too arrow. Eloquent sermons apart from the annointing was not preaching, but merely entertaining. Preaching could be just as much a part of the blacksmith's shop, of the business, of the home as of the pulpit. Everybody was a child of God. We are all children of the one Father. The glad tidings was for everyone. "All ye," no one excepted; for the Jap, the Chinee, the Hindoo as well as for ourselves. The result of Christ's message was one of self respect, and respect for the unfortunate and downtrodden. Mr. Lett said Vancouver stood very much as did Rome in the first century—at the door of civilization and progress and we must take up the responsibilities of giving the glad tidings as well as a helping hand to those that entered the door.

On Monday evening, the 7th, the Epworth League held its devotional meeting. Mr. Lord, the president of that department, at the commencement vacated the chair in favor of Mr. Jordan, a valued member, who leaves us this week for Saskatoon. It is with deep regret that he goes from us, but we feel sure the church work he has been engaged in here has fitted him for equal service there. It was a graceful act of Mr. Lord and one much appreciated. Miss Dedrick was the speaker as announced, and her address was one of heart-searching usefulness. Sincerity stamped every word. It was a plea for personal contact with the friendless, with rescue work in its preventive stage. We feel sure that great good will follow this devotional talk. Miss Dedrick is now engaged in Vancouver social work and no one could be better fitted for her uplifting service. We wish her the best success in her work. Mr. H. Holden rendered the solo, "O Light Divine," very acceptably.

Next Monday Miss Edna Smith and Mr. Dakin continue the discussion on the subject matter of the book, "A Stranger within the Gates." The last missionary meeting led up to a fine general debate and next week's meeting should be in the same order.

Notes from Ottawa

By Our Special Correspondent—A. R. Ford

Ottawa—The feature of the past week at Ottawa has been the appointment of Arthur Meighen, M.P., for Portage la Prairie, as solicitor-general. The position was not filled at the time of the formation of the cabinet in 1911. The solicitor-general has not full cabinet rank. He carries the title of honorable, but is not a privy councillor. It has usually been the stepping stone to full cabinet position, which Mr. Meighen in course of time will undoubtedly obtain as he is one of the ablest men in the ranks of the Conservative party. The solicitor-general has important duties in connection with the department of justice and it is the intention of the prime minister to broaden the scope of the office and Mr. Meighen will probably appear before the supreme coure and the privy council to argue government cases. He will also undertake very shortly an investigation into the ocean freight rates, a subject in which the West is deeply interested.

The office of solicitor-general was created in 1892 and the late Hon. J. J. Curran, later Judge Curran, was the first occupant of the position. In 1896 when Sir Charles Tupper formed his brief-lived cabinet, Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper was solicitor-general. The most notable occupant of the office was Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, now chief justice of the supreme court. He was called to this position in 1896 when Laurier formed his cabinet, and occupied it until 1902, when he became minister of justice. He was succeeded by Hon. H. G. Carroll and in 1904 Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux was made solicitor-general to be succeeded by Hon. Jacques Bureau in 1907.

The office, it must be confessed, has fallen a little in disrepute in recent years owing to the inactivities of the occupant for the last four years of the Laurier administration. Hon. Jacques Bureau is the most likeable fellow in the world. "Happy" Jacques he is known as at Ottawa. The whole world is a joke to Jacques. He takes neither himself not anyone else seriously. He regaded his office as solicitor-general as a sort of happy resting place. Jacques was never particularly fond of over-working himself at any time, and he proceeded to make of the office a sinecure. Lack of dignity and a disinclination to labor on the part of Bureau has resulted in the position of solicitor-general having in the last few years as somewhat of a "snap." An incident which occurred in the house several years ago will illustrate. There was an item in the estimates for an additional couch for the office of the solicitor-general. Some of the parsiminious members of the opposition were objecting. Colonel Currie, member for South Simcoe, came to the rescue of Mr. Bureau. He felt the item was reasonable, it should be voted. He was certain that Mon. Mr. Bureau needed a change occasionally from one couch to another. No one joined more heartily than Bureau in the laugh which followed.

However, it is the intention of the premier to raise the status of the position, to dignify the office and to increase the work. As for the work, there is lots of it to be found as the department of justice as the present time is simply clogged with work. Arthur Meighen would dignify any position and if there was no work he would soon find it, for work is his very existence and he is one of the most industrious member in the house of commons. If one is looking for Meighen the place to find him is not in the lobbies, the reading room or the smoking quarters, but in the library. He is a great book-worm and one of the most painstaking students at Ottawa. He is remarkably well read and particularly well-posted on history for which he has a hobby. English history is his favorite. Last season he took a run down to Galt and addressed the historic Galt Club on the subject of "The Younger Pitt." There are not many politicians of the present day who could attempt a lecture of that character. He is also very fond of biography and there are few important biographies which have been written in recent years which Mr. Meighen has not read.

Mr. Meighen is an Ontario old boy, his home being near St. Marys where his father still lives. He had his high school training at St. Mary's Collegiate, entering Toronto University where he graduated with high honors in mathematics. He taught school for a few years and then studied law in Winnipeg, and since being called to the bar has practised at Portage la Prairie. He has a remarkably logical mind and no speaker in the house so builds up his premises and drives home his conclusions as Meighen. It probably comes from his training as both a mathematician and a lawyer. Meighen was first elected for Portage in Portage la Prairie in 1908 while in his early thirties. He was recognized from the time he entered the house as a promising man, but in recent years has been making great strides. As a debater he reminds one of Hon. Geo. E. Foster, whom he resembles both in appearance and in other ways. He lacks Foster's eloquence and has not his caustic tongue, but he builds up his arguments in the same masterly manner and can search out weak spots in the armor of his enemy in the same capable way. He has also the same natural parliamentary tone of speaking which many able men nave spent a lifetime to acquire and then have failed. He is generally regarded as one of the four ablest debaters in parliament and in this regard he will be a decided acquisition to the cabinet.

Mr. Meighen is looked upon as having one of the best legal minds in parliament. His advice is generally safe on points of law. On parliamentary procedure and the fine points of parliamentary rules and constitution there are few in the house better posted. Last session he handled the brief for the government in the two cases where such intimate knowledge was absolutely necessary. He was the chief government speaker on the famous Miller case and his deliverance on the government's closure rules was regarded as one of the finest speeches in a session of fine speeches. He was rightly or wrongly given credit by the Opposition for being the father of the closure rules. He has remarkable ability to make a dry subject interesting. Last session he made a long speech in introducing his bill to establish a system of co-operative credit banks in Canada. It was a dry subject with necessarily a mass of figures, facts and statistics. Yet Meighen made it a most interesting speech which was followed with close attention by the house. Hon. W. T. White at the close paid him a great compliment for the able manner in which he had presented the subject and added that he had listened to him with 'f'ascination."

Mr. Meighen has been looked upon as the leader of a group of clever young progressive members who are to be found on the Conservative benches. Their presence on the Conservative side is one of the best indications of the health of the party and one of the happiest omens for its future. They are men with ideas, and not afraid to express them. Mr. Meighen's elevation will undoubtedly strengthen the government and should be exceedingly popular in the West, as the member for Portage has always been a strong advocate of the western viewpoint and has staunchly stood by the West in all disputes.

The appointment of Mr. Meighen is another recognition of the growing claims of the West by the Borden government. Under the Laurier regime the West had but two representatives in the cabinet, Hon. Wm. Templemann and Hon. Frank Oliver, neither outstanding men. When Premier Borden formed his cabinet he increased this number to four. They were Hon. Robert Rogers, Hon. Dr. Roche, Hon. Martin Burrell and Senator Lougheed, and now the West's representation is increased by the addition of Arthur Meighen as solicitor-general.

A request from a body of influential men has gone to all the pastors of Germany asking them to preach and teach international peace and arbitration. This wholesome, sensible view of the relations between nations is spreading, and universal peace will come.

Is it not quite true that ten times as much swearing and irreverent and unchaste utterance may be heard in a saloon as in any other place of business?

World Conference On Faith and Order

The Protestant Episcopal Church in October, 1910, appointed a Commission to bring about a Conference for the consideration of questions as to the faith and order of the Christian Church in the hope that such a Conference will promote the cause of Christian Unity. That Commission is inviting all Christian Communons throughout the world whch confess our Lord Jesus Christ as God and Savour to unite with the Episcopal Church in arranging for and conducting such a Conference. More than twenty such co-operating Commissions have been appointed, including all the leading Communions in the United States and the Church of England in England and Canada. Invitations are now being sent to the other leading Communions outside the United States as fast as the names and addresses of their officers can be obtained. The Episcopal Commission is publishing leaflets, explaining the scope and methods of the Conference, and giving a list of books on Christian Unity, and those leaflets have been circulated all over the world. The Commission is glad to send them free to any one who will apply for them to the Secretary, Robert H. Gardiner. Gardiner, Maine. He has received probably ten thousand. or more, letters on the subject. coming from every part of the world and from members of every Communion, Protestant and Catholic. Persons applying are entered on a permanent mailing-list, so that they will receive all future publications.

The Episcopal Commission is trying to carry on the undertaking in the spirit of Bishop Brent, who urged, at the meeting when the Commission was organized, that the side of organization shall not be made too prominent. but that we shall seek spiritual power. The first step shall be, in a new and full and deep way, to rededicate ourselves to God. free from past prejudices, in order that. so losing ourselves, we may have a spiritual power simply compelling.

Less than 25 ministers an lay men and women in British Columbia have been brought together, at least to the extent of enrollment on the list, which is arranged geographically so that those who are interested enough in Christian Unity to apply to be placed on the list may obtain the names of others in their neighborhood also interested, with whom they can meet for united prayer for the reunion of Christians and for conference as to how it can best be brought about. The list includes Episcopalians, Lutherans and Roman Catholics. The Executive Committee of the Commission of the Episcopal Church. of which the Rev. W. T. Manning. D.D., Rector of Trinity Church, New York, is Chairman. has recently issued a circular letter urging such local conferences. The World Conference may not be held for a number of years, for it will be a long undertaking to get the approval of all the leading Communions all over the world, though the project is being received with great cordiality.

For Canada's Future

Canad's forest area is about 800,000,000 acres.

Canada possesses some six hundred billion board feet of merchantable timber, worth perhaps ten billion dollars.

Canadians are cutting off this timber at the rate of about 100 board feet per acre, or eight billion board feet a year.

The fire loss is estimated to be 950 board feet per acre per annum.

We are allowing from fifty million to two hundred million dollars worth of this timber to burn up every year.

Worse than that, we are burning young growth, forest litter and soil fertility on hundreds of thousands of acres. That means no timber in the future for our children and children's children. Forest fires, continued, make deserts.

With the trees and young growth go the roots and soil cover, with their undoubted powers of holding water and soil together. Floods come frm districts where the trees have been removed.

TRUNKS BY FREIGHT

Order Has Been Issued by the Railway Commission.

Ottawa.—Henceforth trunks can be sent by freight if corded securely. This means that the traveller who leaves his trunk behind wil not have to pay express charges, which were referred to by Chairman Drayton at the Railway Commission as enormous.

An order was issued by the board, after a hearing of the case, that the trunks be accepted as freight if securely corded. This was done in spite of the strenuous objections of the railways, as voiced by Mr. George Ransome of the Canadian Freight Association.
