Cataloging & Classification Quarterly

presents a special issue on

Indigenous Knowledge Organization

Routledge and Cataloging & Classification Quarterly are pleased to announce a special double issue devoted to “Indigenous Knowledge Organization.”

Guest edited by Ann M. Doyle, University of British Columbia, and Cheryl A. Metoyer, University of Washington, this special issue engages in an international and interdisciplinary dialogue about Indigenous approaches to organizing and sharing Indigenous expressions of knowledge held in libraries, archives, and museums. It includes theoretical and applied research from New Zealand, Canada, and the United States on cataloguing, classification, and metadata. In 2016, this Indigenous special issue will be published as a monograph.
